

PROXY STATEMENT FOR SPECIAL MEETING OF
BOWX ACQUISITION CORP.

2400 Sand Hill Rd., Suite 200
Menlo Park, CA 94025

Dear BowX Acquisition Corp. Stockholders:

On March 25, 2021, BowX Acquisition Corp., a Delaware corporation (“BowX”), BowX Merger Subsidiary Corp., a Delaware corporation (“Merger Sub”) and a direct, wholly owned subsidiary of BowX, and WeWork Inc., a Delaware corporation (“WeWork”), entered into an Agreement and Plan of Merger (the “Merger Agreement”), pursuant to which, among other transactions, on the terms and conditions set forth therein, Merger Sub is to merge with and into WeWork (the “First Merger”), with WeWork surviving the First Merger as a wholly owned subsidiary of BowX (WeWork, in its capacity as the surviving corporation of the First Merger, is sometimes referred to as the “Surviving Corporation”); and as promptly as practicable and as part of the same overall transaction as the First Merger, such Surviving Corporation will be merged with and into BowX Merger Subsidiary II, LLC, a Delaware limited liability company (“Merger Sub II”) and a direct wholly owned subsidiary of BowX (the “Second Merger” and, together with the First Merger, the “Mergers” and, collectively with the other transactions described in the Merger Agreement, the “Business Combination”), with Merger Sub II being the surviving entity of the Second Merger (Merger Sub II, in its capacity as the surviving entity of the Second Merger, is sometimes referred to herein as the “Surviving Entity”). In connection with the Closing (as defined herein), BowX intends to change its name to WeWork Inc. (such post-Closing entity, “New WeWork”).

As a result of and upon the Closing, among other things, all outstanding shares of WeWork Capital Stock (as defined herein) immediately prior to the Effective Time (as defined herein) of the First Merger (other than the Excluded Shares (as defined herein)) will be cancelled in exchange for the right to receive a portion of an aggregate of 655,300,000 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock (as defined herein) (at a deemed value of $10.00 per share) representing a pre-transaction equity value of WeWork of approximately $6.553 billion (the “Aggregate Merger Consideration”). The total shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock to be issued at the closing include shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock to be issued in respect of outstanding WeWork Common Stock and WeWork Preferred Stock plus shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock underlying or exchangeable for unvested and/or unexercised in-the-money stock options, restricted stock units, restricted stock awards, WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units other than WeWork Partnerships Profits Units with a catch-up base amount greater than the Per Share Merger Consideration (including corresponding shares of New WeWork Class C Common Stock), the WeWork Series C Convertible Note and in-the-money warrants, respectively, at the Closing. Shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock underlying or exchangeable for out-of-the-money stock options and warrants are not included in the Aggregate Merger Consideration calculation. The number of shares in the Aggregate Merger Consideration does not include both the number of shares of New WeWork Class C Common Stock and the number of related shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock. As of September 14, 2021, the exchange ratio is expected to be approximately 0.8257 and there are expected to be issued approximately 558,479,201 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock and 19,926,267 shares of New WeWork Class C Common Stock to WeWork stockholders as of the Closing (using the rounded exchange ratio of 0.8257 and not including shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock underlying or exchangeable for unvested and/or unexercised stock options, restricted stock units, restricted stock awards, warrants and WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units). An additional 80,000,000 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock will be purchased (at a price of $10.00 per share) at the Closing by certain third-party investors (collectively, the “PIPE Investors”), for a total aggregate purchase price of $800,000,000 (the “PIPE Investment”). The proceeds of the PIPE Investment, together with the amounts remaining in BowX’s trust account as of immediately following the Effective Time, will be retained by New WeWork following the Closing. See the section entitled “The BCA Proposal” of the attached proxy statement/prospectus for further information on the consideration payable to stockholders of WeWork.

On March 25, 2021, BowX Sponsor, LLC (the “Sponsor”), BowX, WeWork, and certain other officers and directors of BowX (the “Sponsor Persons”) entered into a Sponsor Support Agreement (the “Sponsor Support Agreement”), pursuant to which the Sponsor and Sponsor Persons agreed to, among other things, (i) cause to be forfeited 3,000,000 shares of Class B common stock, par value $0.0001 per share of BowX (“BowX Class B Common Stock” and, together with BowX Class A Common Stock, “BowX Common Stock”), held by them and (ii) vote at least 9,454,534 shares of Class B Common Stock in favor of the Merger Agreement and the transactions contemplated thereby, in each case, subject to the terms and conditions contemplated by the Sponsor Support Agreement.

The BowX Units, BowX Class A Common Stock and public warrants are currently listed on the Nasdaq Capital Market, under the symbols “BOWXU,” “BOWX,” and “BOWXW,” respectively. BowX intends to apply to continue the listing of the New WeWork Class A Common Stock and warrants on the NYSE under the symbols “WE” and “WE WS,” respectively, upon the Closing. At the Closing, each unit will separate into its components consisting of one share of common stock and one-third of one redeemable warrant and, as a result, will no longer trade as a separate security.

BowX cordially invites you to attend a special meeting of its stockholders in lieu of the 2021 annual meeting (the “special meeting”) to consider matters related to the proposed Business Combination. BowX and WeWork cannot complete the Mergers unless BowX’s stockholders consent to the approval of the Merger Agreement and the transactions contemplated thereby, including the issuance of New WeWork Class A Common Stock to be issued as the merger consideration. BowX is sending you this proxy statement/prospectus to ask you to vote in favor of these and the other matters described in this proxy statement/prospectus in order to obtain stockholder approvals of the proposals necessary to complete the Business Combination, and these proposals are described in this proxy statement/prospectus.

The special meeting will be held on October 19, 2021, at 11:00 a.m. Eastern Time, via a virtual meeting. In light of the novel coronavirus (referred to as “COVID-19”) pandemic and to support the well-being of BowX’s stockholders and partners, the special meeting will be completely virtual. You may attend the special meeting and vote your shares electronically during the special meeting via live webcast by visiting <https://www.cstproxy.com/bowxacquisitioncorp/sm2021>. You will need the 12-digit meeting control number that is printed on your proxy card to enter the special meeting. BowX recommends that you log in at least 15 minutes before the special meeting to ensure you are logged in when the special meeting starts. Please note that you will not be able to attend the special meeting in person.

As described in this proxy statement/prospectus, certain stockholders of WeWork are parties to a support agreement with BowX whereby such stockholders agreed to vote all of their WeWork Capital Stock in favor of approving the Business Combination.

In addition, WeWork will seek an irrevocable written consent of WeWork’s stockholders as required to approve and adopt the Merger Agreement and the Business Combination contemplated thereunder. In the event WeWork determines it is not able to obtain written consent, WeWork will hold a meeting of WeWork stockholders for the purpose of voting to approve and adopt the Merger Agreement and the Business Combination contemplated thereunder. Such approval requires (a) the holders of a majority of the shares of the WeWork Capital Stock outstanding; and (b) with respect to any transactions subject to Article Fifth, Part A, Section 3.17 of WeWork’s amended and restated certificate of incorporation (the “Related Party Charter Provision”), the affirmative vote or written consent of the holders of at least a majority of the outstanding WeWork Senior Preferred Stock that are not held by any SoftBank Party to affirmatively vote in favor of any such transactions. On March 25, 2021, in connection with execution of the Merger Agreement, BowX, WeWork and certain stockholders of WeWork entered into Stockholder Support Agreements, pursuant to which, among other things and subject to the terms and conditions therein, such WeWork stockholders agreed to execute and deliver a written consent with respect to the outstanding shares of WeWork Capital Stock held by the signing WeWork stockholders adopting the Merger Agreement and related transactions and approving the Business Combination (including consenting to enter into the Merger Agreement effective on March 25, 2021 for purposes of the Related Party Charter Provision (as defined herein), to the extent applicable). Such written consent must be delivered promptly, and in any event within forty-eight (48) hours (or, in the case of SB WW Holdings (Cayman) Limited, WeWork’s largest stockholder, five (5) calendar days) after (x) the proxy statement/prospectus relating to the approval by BowX stockholders of the Business Combination is declared effective by the SEC and delivered or otherwise made available to BowX and WeWork stockholders, and (y) BowX or WeWork requests it. The shares of WeWork Common Stock and WeWork Preferred Stock that are owned by the Key Stockholders (as defined herein) and subject to the Stockholder Support Agreements represent a majority of the outstanding voting power of WeWork Capital Stock (voting as a single class and on an as converted basis). The execution and delivery of such written consents by all of the stockholders of WeWork that have entered into Stockholder Support Agreements will constitute the WeWork stockholder approval at the time of such delivery, and no additional approval or vote from any holders of any class or series of stock of WeWork will be necessary to adopt and approve the Merger Agreement and the Business Combination.

After careful consideration, the BowX board of directors has unanimously approved the Merger Agreement and the other proposals described in this proxy statement/prospectus, and the BowX board of directors has determined that it is advisable to consummate the Business Combination. The BowX board of directors recommends that you vote “FOR” the proposals described in this proxy statement/prospectus (including each of the sub-proposals).

BowX is providing the accompanying proxy statement/prospectus and proxy card to you in connection with the solicitation of proxies to be voted at the special meeting and at any adjournments or postponements of the special meeting. Your vote is very important. If you are a registered stockholder, please vote your shares as soon as possible by signing, dating and returning the enclosed proxy card in the postage-paid envelope provided. If you hold your shares in “street name” through a bank, broker or other nominee, you will need to follow the instructions provided to you by your bank, broker or other nominee to ensure that your shares are represented and voted at the special meeting.

More information about BowX, WeWork and the Business Combination is contained in this proxy statement/prospectus. BowX and WeWork urge you to read the accompanying proxy statement/prospectus, including the financial statements and annexes and other documents referred to herein, carefully and in their entirety. In particular, you should carefully consider the matters discussed in the section entitled “Risk Factors” beginning on page 31 of this proxy statement/prospectus.

TO EXERCISE YOUR REDEMPTION RIGHTS, YOU MUST ELECT TO HAVE BOWX REDEEM YOUR SHARES FOR A PRO RATA PORTION OF THE FUNDS HELD IN THE TRUST ACCOUNT AND TENDER YOUR SHARES TO BOWX’S TRANSFER AGENT AT LEAST TWO BUSINESS DAYS PRIOR TO THE VOTE AT THE SPECIAL MEETING. YOU MAY TENDER YOUR SHARES BY EITHER DELIVERING YOUR SHARE CERTIFICATE TO THE TRANSFER AGENT OR BY DELIVERING YOUR SHARES ELECTRONICALLY USING THE DEPOSITORY TRUST COMPANY’S DWAC (DEPOSIT WITHDRAWAL AT CUSTODIAN) SYSTEM. IF THE BUSINESS COMBINATION IS NOT COMPLETED, THEN THESE SHARES WILL NOT BE REDEEMED FOR CASH. IF YOU HOLD THE SHARES IN STREET NAME, YOU WILL NEED TO INSTRUCT THE ACCOUNT EXECUTIVE AT YOUR BANK OR BROKER TO WITHDRAW THE SHARES FROM YOUR ACCOUNT IN ORDER TO EXERCISE YOUR REDEMPTION RIGHTS.

On behalf of our board of directors, I thank you for your support and look forward to the successful completion of the Business Combination.

Sincerely,

/s/ Vivek Ranadivé

Vivek Ranadivé

Chairman of the Board and Co-Chief Executive Officer

This proxy statement/prospectus is dated September 20, 2021, and is first being mailed to the stockholders of BowX on or about September 20, 2021.

NEITHER THE SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE COMMISSION NOR ANY STATE SECURITIES REGULATORY AGENCY HAS APPROVED OR DISAPPROVED THE TRANSACTIONS DESCRIBED IN THIS PROXY STATEMENT/PROSPECTUS, PASSED UPON THE MERITS OR FAIRNESS OF THE BUSINESS COMBINATION OR RELATED TRANSACTIONS OR PASSED UPON THE ADEQUACY OR ACCURACY OF THE DISCLOSURE IN THIS PROXY STATEMENT/PROSPECTUS. NOTICE OF SPECIAL MEETING IN LIEU OF 2021 ANNUAL MEETING OF STOCKHOLDERS TO BE HELD ON OCTOBER 19, 2021

TO THE STOCKHOLDERS OF BOWX ACQUISITION CORP.:

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that a special meeting of BowX Acquisition Corp., a Delaware corporation (“BowX”), will be held at 11:00 a.m., Eastern Time, on October 19, 2021, virtually via live webcast at <https://www.cstproxy.com/bowxacquisitioncorp/sm2021>. BowX recommends that you log in at least 15 minutes before the special meeting to ensure you are logged in when the special meeting starts. You are cordially invited to attend the special meeting, which will be held for the following purposes:

- Proposal No. 1 — The BCA Proposal — to consider and vote upon a proposal to approve and adopt the Agreement and Plan of Merger, dated as of March 25, 2021, (the “Merger Agreement”), by and among BowX, Merger Sub and WeWork, a copy of which is attached to this proxy statement/prospectus as Annex A. The Merger Agreement provides for, among other things, the merger of Merger Sub with and into WeWork, with WeWork surviving the First Merger as a wholly owned subsidiary of New WeWork, in accordance with the terms and subject to the conditions of the Merger Agreement as more fully described elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus (the “BCA Proposal”);
- Organizational Documents Proposals — to consider and vote upon the following four separate proposals (collectively, the “Organizational Documents Proposals”) to amend BowX’s Amended and Restated Certificate of Incorporation (the “Existing Charter”) and BowX’s Bylaws (the “Existing Bylaws” and together with the Existing Charter, the “Organizational Documents”), which are reflected in the proposed Second Amended and Restated Certificate of Incorporation of BowX (the “Proposed Charter”) and proposed Amended and Restated Bylaws of BowX (the “Proposed Bylaws” and together, the “Proposed Organizational Documents”), the full texts of which are attached to this proxy statement/prospectus as Annex B and Annex C:
 - (A) Proposal No. 2 — Organizational Documents Proposal A — to authorize the change in the authorized capital stock of BowX from 87,500,000 shares of BowX Class A Common Stock, 12,500,000 shares of BowX Class B Common Stock, and 1,000,000 shares of preferred stock, par value $0.0001, to (a) 1,500,000,000 shares of Class A common stock, par value $0.0001 per share, of New WeWork (the “New WeWork Class A Common Stock”), (b) 25,041,666 shares of Class C common stock, par value $0.0001 per share, of New WeWork (the “New WeWork Class C Common Stock” and, together with the WeWork Class A Common Stock, the “New WeWork Common Stock”), and (c) 100,000,000 shares of preferred stock, $0.0001 per share, of New WeWork (the “New WeWork Preferred Stock” and, together with the New WeWork Common Stock, the “New WeWork Capital Stock”). Further, to authorize the New WeWork Class C Common Stock as a non-economic voting security without rights to dividends or on liquidation (“Organizational Documents Proposal A”);
 - (B) Proposal No. 3 — Organizational Documents Proposal B — with respect to any vote or election submitted to the holders of shares of New WeWork Capital Stock for approval, to restrict the SoftBank Holders (as defined herein), for a period of at least two years, from exercising voting rights over more than 49.9% of the voting securities present (attending virtually or by proxy) and voting at any such meeting of the stockholders (“Organizational Documents Proposal B”);
 - (C) Proposal No. 4 — Organizational Documents Proposal C — to provide for only one class of board of directors and direct that board vacancies be filled by the majority of directors then in office, unless specified otherwise in the Stockholders Agreement or Proposed Bylaws (each, as defined below) (“Organizational Documents Proposal C”); and

- (D) Proposal No. 5 — Organizational Documents Proposal D — to approve and adopt the additional changes in the Proposed Charter, including changing BowX’s name from “BowX Acquisition Corp.” to “WeWork Inc.,” which our board of directors believes are necessary to adequately address the needs of New WeWork immediately following the consummation of the Business Combination and approval of the Proposed Charter (“Organizational Documents Proposal D”);
- Proposal No. 6 — The Director Election Proposal — to consider and vote upon a proposal to elect, effective at Closing, assuming the BCA Proposal and the Organizational Documents Proposals are approved, nine directors who, upon consummation of the Business Combination, will be the directors of New WeWork (the “Director Election Proposal”);
 - Proposal No. 7 — The Stock Issuance Proposal — to consider and vote upon a proposal to approve and adopt for purposes of complying with the applicable provisions of The Nasdaq Stock Market Listing Rule 5635, the issuance of (a) shares of BowX Class A Common Stock to the PIPE Investors, pursuant to the PIPE Investment; and (b) shares of New WeWork Common Stock to the WeWork Stockholders pursuant to the Merger Agreement (the “Stock Issuance Proposal”);
 - Proposal No. 8 — The Equity Incentive Plan Proposal — to consider and vote upon a proposal to approve and adopt the New WeWork 2021 Equity Incentive Plan attached to this proxy statement/prospectus as Annex D (the “Equity Incentive Plan Proposal”);
 - Proposal No. 9 — The ESPP Proposal — to consider and vote upon a proposal to approve and adopt the New WeWork 2021 Employee Stock Purchase Plan attached to this proxy statement/prospectus as Annex E (the “ESPP Proposal”); and
 - Proposal No. 10 — The Adjournment Proposal — to consider and vote upon a proposal to approve the adjournment of the special meeting to a later date or dates, if necessary, to permit further solicitation and vote of proxies in the event that there are insufficient votes for the approval of one or more proposals at the special meeting (the “Adjournment Proposal”).

We may not consummate the Business Combination unless the BCA Proposal, each of the Organizational Documents Proposals, the Director Election Proposal, the Stock Issuance Proposal, the Equity Incentive Plan Proposal and the ESPP Proposal (together, the “Condition Precedent Proposals”) are approved at the special meeting. Each of the Condition Precedent Proposals is cross-conditioned on the approval of each other. The Adjournment Proposal is not conditioned upon the approval of any other proposal set forth in this proxy statement/prospectus.

These items of business are described in this proxy statement/prospectus, which we encourage you to read carefully and in its entirety before voting.

Only holders of record of BowX Class A Common Stock and BowX Class B Common Stock at the close of business on September 14, 2021, are entitled to notice of and to vote and have their votes counted at the special meeting and any adjournment of the special meeting. A complete list of our stockholders of record entitled to vote at the special meeting will be available for ten days before the special meeting at our principal executive offices for inspection by stockholders during ordinary business hours for any purpose germane to the special meeting.

This proxy statement/prospectus and accompanying proxy card is being provided to BowX’s stockholders in connection with the solicitation of proxies to be voted at the special meeting and at any adjournment of the special meeting. Whether or not you plan to attend the special meeting, all of BowX’s stockholders are urged to read this proxy statement/prospectus, including the Annexes and the documents referred to herein, carefully and in their entirety. You should also carefully consider the risk factors described in the section entitled “Risk Factors” beginning on page 31 of this proxy statement/prospectus.

After careful consideration, the board of directors of BowX has unanimously approved the Business Combination and unanimously recommends that stockholders vote “FOR” adoption of the Merger Agreement, and approval of the transactions contemplated thereby, including the Business Combination, and “FOR” all other proposals presented to BowX’s stockholders in this proxy statement/prospectus. When you consider the recommendation of these proposals by the board of directors of BowX, you should keep in mind that BowX’s directors and officers have interests in the Business Combination that may conflict with your interests as a stockholder. See the section entitled “BCA Proposal — Interests of BowX’s Directors and Executive Officers in the Business Combination” in this proxy statement/prospectus for a further discussion of these considerations.

Pursuant to our Existing Charter, a holder of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock originally sold in our initial public offering, including as part of the units issued in our initial public offering, (such stock the “public stock”) may request of BowX that BowX redeem all or a portion of such holder’s BowX Class A Common Stock for cash if the Business Combination is consummated. As a holder of BowX Class A Common Stock, you will be entitled to receive cash for any such shares to be redeemed only if you:

- (i) (a) hold BowX Class A Common Stock, or (b) if you hold BowX Class A Common Stock through units, you elect to separate your units into the underlying BowX Class A Common Stock and public warrants prior to exercising your redemption rights with respect to the BowX Class A Common Stock;
- (ii) submit a written request to Continental Stock Transfer & Trust Company (“Continental”), BowX’s transfer agent, that BowX redeem all or a portion of your public stock for cash; and
- (iii) deliver your public stock to Continental, BowX’s transfer agent, physically or electronically through The Depository Trust Company (“DTC”).

Holders must complete the procedures for electing to redeem their BowX Class A Common Stock in the manner described above prior to 5:00 p.m., Eastern Time, on October 15, 2021, (two business days before the special meeting) in order for their shares to be redeemed.

Holders of units must elect to separate the units into the underlying BowX Class A Common Stock and public warrants prior to exercising redemption rights with respect to the BowX Class A Common Stock. If holders hold their units in an account at a brokerage firm or bank, holders must notify their broker or bank that they elect to separate the units into the underlying BowX Class A Common Stock and public warrants, or if a holder holds units registered in its own name, the holder must contact Continental, BowX’s transfer agent, directly and instruct them to do so. Public stockholders may elect to redeem BowX Class A Common Stock regardless of if or how they vote with respect to the BCA Proposal. If the Business Combination is not consummated, the public stock will be returned to the respective holder, broker or bank.

If the Business Combination is consummated, and if a public stockholder properly exercises its right to redeem all or a portion of the BowX Class A Common Stock that it holds and timely delivers its shares to Continental, BowX’s transfer agent, New WeWork will redeem such BowX Class A Common Stock for a per-share price, payable in cash, equal to the pro rata portion of the trust account established at the consummation of our initial public offering (the “trust account”), calculated as of two business days prior to the consummation of the Business Combination. For illustrative purposes, based on funds in the trust account as of June 30, 2021, of approximately $483.1 million, the estimated per share redemption price would have been approximately $10.00. If a public stockholder exercises its redemption rights in full, then it will be electing to exchange its BowX Class A Common Stock for cash and will no longer own BowX Class A Common Stock. The redemption takes place following the Business Combination and, accordingly, it is shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock that will be redeemed promptly after consummation of the Business Combination. See the section entitled “Special Meeting of BowX — Redemption Rights” in this proxy statement/prospectus for a detailed description of the procedures to be followed if you wish to redeem your shares of public stock for cash.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, a public stockholder, together with any affiliate of such public stockholder or any other person with whom such public stockholder is acting in concert or as a “group” (as defined in Section 13(d)(3) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended (“Exchange Act”)), will be restricted from redeeming its BowX Class A Common Stock with respect to more than an aggregate of 15% of the BowX Class A Common Stock, without the consent of BowX. Accordingly, if a public stockholder, alone or acting in concert or as a group, seeks to redeem more than 15% of the BowX Class A Common Stock, then any such shares in excess of that 15% limit would not be redeemed for cash.

Our initial stockholders, including the Sponsor, and our directors and officers have agreed to vote any shares of BowX Common Stock owned by them in favor of the Business Combination, including their shares of BowX Class B Common Stock and any public stock purchased after our initial public offering (including in open market and privately negotiated transactions). As a result, the parties to the Sponsor Support Agreement (as defined herein) agreed to, among other things, vote at least 9,454,534 shares of Class B Common Stock in favor of the Merger Agreement and the transactions contemplated thereby, in each case, subject to the terms and conditions contemplated by the Sponsor Support Agreement. As of the record date, our initial stockholders, including our Sponsor, and our directors and officers beneficially own an aggregate of approximately 18.6% of the outstanding shares of BowX Common Stock. Subject to the terms and conditions contemplated by the Sponsor Support Agreement, the BowX Common Stock held by the Sponsor will be excluded from the pro rata calculation used to determine the per-share redemption price. As of the date of this proxy statement/prospectus, the Sponsor owns approximately 13% of the issued and outstanding BowX Common Stock.

The Merger Agreement provides that the obligations of WeWork to consummate the First Merger are conditioned on, among other things, that as of the Closing, the amount of cash available in the trust account as of the Closing, after deducting the amount required to satisfy BowX’s obligations to its stockholders (if any) that exercise their redemption rights (but prior to the payment of any (i) deferred underwriting commissions being held in the trust account and (ii) transaction expenses of WeWork and BowX, or their affiliates (such amount, the “Trust Amount”)) plus the PIPE Investment Amount actually received by BowX at or prior to the Closing Date, is at least equal to $800.0 million (the “Minimum Available Cash Condition”). The Minimum Available Cash Condition is for the sole benefit of WeWork. If the Trust Amount when added to the PIPE Investment (such aggregate amount, the “Available Cash”) is equal to or greater than the Minimum Available Cash Condition amount, then the Minimum Available Cash Condition will be deemed to have been satisfied. If such condition is not met, and such condition is not or cannot be waived under the terms of the Merger Agreement, then the Merger Agreement could terminate and the proposed Business Combination may not be consummated. In addition, pursuant to the Organizational Documents, in no event will BowX redeem shares of public stock in an amount that would cause New WeWork’s net tangible assets (as determined in accordance with Rule 3a51-1(g)(1) of the Exchange Act) to be less than $5,000,001.

The Merger Agreement is also subject to the satisfaction or waiver of certain other closing conditions as described in this proxy statement/prospectus. There can be no assurance that the parties to the Merger Agreement would waive any such provision of the Merger Agreement.

The approval of the Organizational Documents Proposals (other than Organizational Documents Proposals A and D) requires the affirmative vote (attending virtually or by proxy) of the holders of a majority of all outstanding shares of BowX Common Stock entitled to vote. The approval of Organizational Documents Proposals A and D will require the affirmative vote of the holders of a majority of the outstanding shares of BowX Class A Common Stock on the record date and the affirmative vote of the holders of a majority of the outstanding shares of Class B Common Stock on the record date. The BCA Proposal and Adjournment Proposal require the affirmative vote of a majority of the shares of BowX Common Stock attending virtually or by proxy, entitled to vote. The Stock Issuance Proposal, Equity Incentive Plan Proposal and the ESPP Proposal require the affirmative vote of a majority of the shares of BowX Common Stock attending virtually or by proxy, entitled to vote and who vote thereon at the special meeting. The approval of the election of each director nominee pursuant to the Director Election Proposal requires the affirmative vote of the holders of a plurality of the outstanding shares of BowX Common Stock attending virtually or by proxy and voted at the special meeting. Because the Director Election Proposal is an uncontested election with no cumulative voting, every director nominee will be assured election upon receiving just one “for” vote.

Your vote is very important. Whether or not you plan to virtually attend the special meeting, please vote as soon as possible by following the instructions in this proxy statement/prospectus to make sure that your shares are represented at the special meeting. If you hold your shares in “street name” through a bank, broker or other nominee, you will need to follow the instructions provided to you by your bank, broker or other nominee to ensure that your shares are represented and voted at the special meeting. The transactions contemplated by the Merger Agreement will be consummated only if the Condition Precedent Proposals are approved at the special meeting. Each of the Condition Precedent Proposals is cross-conditioned on the approval of each other. The Adjournment Proposal is not conditioned upon the approval of any other proposal set forth in this proxy statement/prospectus.

If you sign, date and return your proxy card without indicating how you wish to vote, your proxy will be voted FOR each of the proposals presented at the special meeting. If you fail to return your proxy card or fail to instruct your bank, broker or other nominee how to vote, and do not attend the special meeting virtually, the effect will be, among other things, that your shares will not be counted for purposes of determining whether a quorum is present at the special meeting and will not be voted. An abstention or broker non-vote on any proposal will be counted toward the quorum requirement for the special meeting. If you are a stockholder of record and you attend the special meeting and wish to vote virtually, you may withdraw your proxy and vote while attending virtually.

Your attention is directed to the remainder of the proxy statement/prospectus following this notice (including the Annexes and other documents referred to herein) for a more complete description of the proposed Business Combination and related transactions and each of the proposals. You are encouraged to read this proxy statement/prospectus carefully and in its entirety, including the Annexes and other documents referred to herein. If you have any questions or need assistance voting your stock, please contact Morrow Sodali LLC, our proxy solicitor, by calling at (800) 662-5200 or banks and brokers can call collect at (203) 658-9400, or by emailing bowx.info@investor.morrowsodali.com.

Thank you for your participation. We look forward to your continued support.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS FOR STOCKHOLDERS OF BOWX

The questions and answers below highlight only selected information from this document and only briefly address some commonly asked questions about the proposals to be presented at the special meeting, including with respect to the proposed Business Combination. The following questions and answers do not include all the information that is important to BowX's stockholders. BowX urges stockholders to carefully read this proxy statement/prospectus, including the financial statements and Annexes attached hereto and the other documents referred to herein.

Q: Why am I receiving this proxy statement/prospectus?

A: BowX has entered into the Merger Agreement with WeWork and the other parties thereto pursuant to which, among other transactions, on the terms and conditions set forth therein, Merger Sub is to merge with and into WeWork, with WeWork surviving the First Merger as a wholly owned subsidiary of BowX; and as promptly as practicable and as part of the same overall transaction as the First Merger, such Surviving Corporation will be merged with and into Merger Sub II, with Merger Sub II being the surviving entity of the Second Merger. A copy of the Merger Agreement is attached to this proxy statement/prospectus as Annex A.

As a result of and upon the Closing, among other things, all outstanding shares of WeWork Capital Stock immediately prior to the Effective Time (other than the Excluded Shares (as defined below)) will be cancelled in exchange for the right to receive a portion of the Aggregate Merger Consideration (at a deemed value of $10.00 per share) representing a pre-transaction equity value of WeWork of approximately $6.553 billion. Additionally, as a result of and upon the Closing, in accordance with the applicable terms of the WeWork Warrants, the WeWork Warrants will be converted into the right to receive a warrant to purchase shares of New WeWork Common Stock upon the same terms and conditions as are in effect with respect to such WeWork Warrant immediately prior to the Effective Time except that (i) such Converted New WeWork Warrant will relate to that whole number of shares of New WeWork Common Stock (rounded down to the nearest whole share) equal to the number of shares of WeWork Capital Stock subject to such WeWork Warrants, multiplied by the Exchange Ratio, and (ii) the exercise price per share for each such Converted New WeWork Warrant shall be equal to the exercise price per share of such WeWork Warrants in effect immediately prior to the Effective Time, divided by the Exchange Ratio (the exercise price per share, as so determined, being rounded up to the nearest full cent). An additional 80,000,000 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock will be purchased (at a price of $10.00 per share) at the Closing by the PIPE Investors, for a total aggregate purchase price of $800,000,000. The proceeds of the PIPE Investment, together with the amounts remaining in BowX's trust account as of immediately following the Effective Time, will be retained by New WeWork following the Closing. For further details, see the section entitled "BCA Proposal — The Merger Agreement — Consideration and Conversion of Certain WeWork Securities — Aggregate Merger Consideration."

BowX stockholders are being asked to consider and vote upon, among other proposals, a proposal to approve and adopt the Merger Agreement and approve the Business Combination. See the section entitled "BCA Proposal" for more detail.

BowX Units, BowX Class A Common Stock and public warrants are currently listed on the Nasdaq Capital Market, under the symbols "BOWXU," "BOWX" and "BOWXW," respectively. BowX intends to apply to continue the listing of BowX Class A Common Stock and warrants on the NYSE under the symbols "WE" and "WE WS," respectively, upon the Closing. At the Closing, each unit will separate into its components consisting of one share of BowX Class A Common Stock and one-third of one redeemable warrant, and therefore there will be no listing of the BowX Units following the consummation of the Business Combination.

THE VOTE OF STOCKHOLDERS IS IMPORTANT. STOCKHOLDERS ARE ENCOURAGED TO VOTE AS SOON AS POSSIBLE AFTER CAREFULLY REVIEWING THIS PROXY STATEMENT/PROSPECTUS, INCLUDING THE ANNEXES AND THE ACCOMPANYING FINANCIAL STATEMENTS OF BOWX AND WEWORK, CAREFULLY AND IN ITS ENTIRETY.

Q: What matters will the stockholders consider at the special meeting?

A: At the special meeting, BowX is asking holders of BowX Common Stock to consider and vote upon:

- The BCA Proposal – a proposal to approve and adopt the Merger Agreement and the Business Combination;
- The Organizational Documents Proposals – four proposals to amend the Existing Charter;
- The Director Election Proposal—a proposal to approve the election of nine directors, who, upon consummation of the Business Combination, will be the directors of New WeWork;
- The Stock Issuance Proposal – a proposal to approve, for purposes of complying with applicable listing rules of Nasdaq, the issuance of (a) shares of BowX Class A Common Stock to the PIPE Investors pursuant to the PIPE Investment and (b) shares of New WeWork Common Stock to the WeWork Stockholders pursuant to the Merger Agreement;
- The Equity Incentive Plan Proposal – a proposal to approve and adopt the 2021 Plan;
- The ESPP Proposal – a proposal to approve and adopt the ESPP; and
- The Adjournment Proposal – a proposal to approve the adjournment of the special meeting to a later date or dates, if necessary, to permit further solicitation and vote of proxies in the event that there are insufficient votes for the approval of one or more proposals at the special meeting.

If BowX’s stockholders do not approve each of the Condition Precedent Proposals, then unless certain conditions in the Merger Agreement are waived by the applicable parties to the Merger Agreement, the Merger Agreement could terminate and the Business Combination may not be consummated. The applicable parties to the Merger Agreement would not be able to waive Organizational Documents Proposals A or D and still complete the Merger on the terms contemplated by the Merger Agreement because there will not be a sufficient number of authorized shares of capital stock of BowX to issue the shares required to be issued in the Merger if Organizational Documents Proposal A is not approved. See the sections entitled “BCA Proposal,” “Organizational Documents Proposals,” “Director Election Proposal,” “Stock Issuance Proposal,” “Equity Incentive Plan Proposal,” “ESPP Proposal” and “Adjournment Proposal.”

BowX will hold the special meeting to consider and vote upon these proposals. This proxy statement/prospectus contains important information about the Business Combination and the other matters to be acted upon at the special meeting. Stockholders of BowX should read it carefully.

After careful consideration, BowX’s board of directors has determined that the BCA Proposal, each of the Organizational Documents Proposals, the Director Election Proposal, the Stock Issuance Proposal, the Equity Incentive Plan Proposal, the ESPP Proposal and the Adjournment Proposal are in the best interests of BowX and its stockholders and unanimously recommends that you vote or give instruction to vote “FOR” each of those proposals.

The existence of financial and personal interests of one or more of BowX’s directors may result in a conflict of interest on the part of such director(s) between what he, she or they may believe is in the best interests of BowX and its stockholders and what he, she or they may believe is best for himself, herself or themselves in determining to recommend that stockholders vote for the proposals. In addition, BowX’s officers have interests in the Business Combination that may conflict with your interests as a stockholder. See the section entitled “BCA Proposal — Interests of BowX’s Directors and Executive Officers in the Business Combination” for a further discussion of these considerations.

Q: Are the proposals conditioned on one another?

A: Yes. Each of the Condition Precedent Proposals are cross-conditioned on the approval of one another. The Adjournment Proposal is not conditioned upon the approval of any other proposal.

Q: What will happen upon the consummation of the Business Combination?

A: On the Closing Date, Merger Sub will merge with and into WeWork, with WeWork surviving the First Merger as a wholly owned subsidiary of BowX; and as promptly as practicable and as part of the same overall transaction as the First Merger, such Surviving Corporation will be merged with and into Merger Sub II, with Merger Sub II being the surviving entity of the Second Merger. A copy of the Merger Agreement is attached to this proxy statement/prospectus as Annex A.

As a result of and upon the Closing, among other things, all outstanding shares of WeWork Capital Stock immediately prior to the Effective Time (other than the Excluded Shares) will be cancelled in exchange for the right to receive a portion of the Aggregate Merger Consideration (at a deemed value of $10.00 per share) representing a pre-transaction equity value of WeWork of approximately $6.553 billion. Additionally, as a result of and upon the Closing, in accordance with the applicable terms of the WeWork Warrants, the WeWork Warrants will be converted into the right to receive a warrant to purchase shares of New WeWork Common Stock upon the same terms and conditions as are in effect with respect to such WeWork Warrant immediately prior to the Effective Time except that (i) such Converted New WeWork Warrant will relate to that whole number of shares of New WeWork Common Stock (rounded down to the nearest whole share) equal to the number of shares of WeWork Capital Stock subject to such WeWork Warrants, multiplied by the Exchange Ratio, and (ii) the exercise price per share for each such Converted New WeWork Warrant shall be equal to the exercise price per share of such WeWork Warrants in effect immediately prior to the Effective Time, divided by the Exchange Ratio (the exercise price per share, as so determined, being rounded up to the nearest full cent). An additional 80,000,000 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock will be purchased (at a price of $10.00 per share) at the Closing by certain third-party investors, for a total aggregate purchase price of $800,000,000. The proceeds of the PIPE Investment, together with the amounts remaining in BowX's trust account as of immediately following the Effective Time, will be retained by New WeWork following the Closing. See the section entitled "The BCA Proposal" beginning of the attached proxy statement/prospectus for further information on the consideration payable to stockholders of WeWork.

Q: Why is BowX proposing the Business Combination?

A: BowX was formed for the purpose of effecting a merger, share exchange, asset acquisition, stock purchase, reorganization or similar business combination with one or more businesses or entities. BowX is not limited to any particular industry or sector.

BowX received $483,000,000 from its initial public offering (including net proceeds from the exercise by the underwriters of its over-allotment option) and sale of the private placement warrants, which was placed into the trust account immediately following the initial public offering. In accordance with the Existing Charter, the funds held in the trust account will be released upon the consummation of the Business Combination. See the question entitled "What happens to the funds deposited in the trust account after consummation of the Business Combination?"

There currently are 48,300,000 shares of BowX Class A Common Stock issued and outstanding and 12,075,000 shares of BowX Class B Common Stock outstanding. In addition, there currently are 23,873,333 warrants issued and outstanding, consisting of 16,100,000 public warrants and 7,773,333 private placement warrants. Each whole warrant entitles the holder thereof to purchase one share of BowX Class A Common Stock at a price of $11.50 per share. The warrants will become exercisable 30 days after the completion of a business combination, and expire at 5:00 p.m., New York City time, five years after the completion of a business combination or earlier upon redemption or liquidation. The private placement warrants, however, are non-redeemable so long as they are held by their initial purchasers or their permitted transferees.

Under the Existing Charter, BowX must provide all holders of public stock with the opportunity to have their public stock redeemed upon the consummation of BowX's initial business combination in conjunction with a stockholder vote.

Q: What will WeWork Stockholders receive in return for BowX’s acquisition of all of the issued and outstanding equity interests of WeWork?

A: As a result of and upon the Closing, among other things, all outstanding shares of WeWork Capital Stock immediately prior to the Effective Time (other than the Excluded Shares) will be cancelled in exchange for the right to receive a portion of the Aggregate Merger Consideration (at a deemed value of $10.00 per share) representing a pre-transaction equity value of WeWork of approximately $6.553 billion. Additionally, as a result of and upon the Closing, in accordance with the applicable terms of the WeWork Warrants, the WeWork Warrants will be converted into the right to receive a warrant to purchase shares of New WeWork Common Stock upon the same terms and conditions as are in effect with respect to such WeWork Warrant immediately prior to the Effective Time except that (i) such Converted New WeWork Warrant will relate to that whole number of shares of New WeWork Common Stock (rounded down to the nearest whole share) equal to the number of shares of WeWork Capital Stock subject to such WeWork Warrants, multiplied by the Exchange Ratio, and (ii) the exercise price per share for each such Converted New WeWork Warrant shall be equal to the exercise price per share of such WeWork Warrants in effect immediately prior to the Effective Time, divided by the Exchange Ratio (the exercise price per share, as so determined, being rounded up to the nearest full cent). An additional 80,000,000 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock will be purchased (at a price of $10.00 per share) at the Closing by certain third-party investors, for a total aggregate purchase price of $800,000,000. The proceeds of the PIPE Investment, together with the amounts remaining in BowX’s trust account as of immediately following the Effective Time will be retained by New WeWork following the Closing. See the section entitled “The BCA Proposal” in the attached proxy statement/prospectus for further information on the consideration payable to stockholders of WeWork.

Q: What equity stake will current BowX stockholders and WeWork Stockholders hold in New WeWork immediately after the consummation of the Business Combination?

A: It is anticipated that, based on the assumptions set forth below, upon the consummation of the Business Combination, the ownership of New WeWork will be as follows:

|--|--|----------------------------------|-----------------------------|----------------------------------|
| | No Additional Redemptions | | Assuming Maximum Redemption | |
| | Number of Shares | Percentage of Outstanding Shares | Number of Shares | Percentage of Outstanding Shares |
| WeWork Stockholders | 655,300,000 | 82.7% | 655,300,000 | 87.4% |
| Initial Stockholders | 9,075,000 | 1.1% | 9,075,000 | 1.2% |
| BowX’s Public Stockholders (excluding PIPE Shares) | 48,300,000 | 6.1% | 5,068,902 | 0.7% |
| PIPE Investors | 80,000,000 | 10.1% | 80,000,000 | 10.7% |

(1) The figures in this table are presented only as illustrative examples and are based on the scenarios described below, which may be different from the actual amount of redemptions in connection with the Business Combination. In the event that shares of BowX Class A Common Stock are redeemed in connection with the Business Combination but the number of shares redeemed is less than 43,231,098, the ownership percentages set forth above will fall in between the two scenarios. For example, if we assume that the number of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock redeemed in connection with the Business Combination total 21,615,549, BowX public stockholders will hold a total of 26,684,451 shares of New WeWork Common Stock at Closing, representing a 3.5% ownership interest.

The numbers of shares of “New WeWork Common Stock Assuming No Redemption” set forth above assumes that no public stockholders elect to have their public stock redeemed, and the numbers of shares of “New WeWork Common Stock Assuming Maximum Redemption” set forth above assumes that 43,231,098 shares of public stock are redeemed.

These numbers and percentages assume (i) (a) the vesting of all shares of New WeWork Common Stock received in respect of the New WeWork Restricted Stock Awards, (b) the vesting and exercise of all in-the-money New WeWork Options for shares of New WeWork Common Stock, (c) the vesting of all New WeWork Restricted Stock Units and the issuance of shares of New WeWork Common Stock in respect thereof, (d) the vesting and net exercise of all in-the-money warrants, and (e) that New WeWork issues shares of New WeWork Common Stock as the Aggregate Merger Consideration pursuant to the Merger Agreement, which in the aggregate equals 655,300,000 shares of New WeWork Common Stock (assuming that all New WeWork Options are net-settled) and (ii) that New WeWork issues 80,000,000 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock to the PIPE Investors pursuant to the PIPE Investment. In addition, the numbers of shares and percentage interests set forth above do not take into account certain potential future exercises of warrants or grants or issuances pursuant to the equity incentive plan established to be effective after the Closing, or any other equity issuances of New WeWork. See the section entitled “Risk Factors – Public stockholders will experience immediate dilution as a consequence of the issuance of New WeWork Common Stock as consideration in the Business Combination and the PIPE Investment and due to future issuances pursuant to the 2021 Plan, the First Warrant, the LC Warrant and the exercise of public warrants and private warrants. Having a minority stock ownership position may reduce the influence that BowX’s current stockholders have on the management of New WeWork.” See the section entitled “Description of BowX Securities – Redeemable Warrants.” Shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock underlying or exchangeable for out-of-the-money stock options and warrants are not included in these numbers and percentages (or in the calculation of the Aggregate Merger Consideration). These numbers and percentages do not include both the number of shares of New WeWork Class C Common Stock and the number of related shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock.

If the actual facts are different from these assumptions, the percentage ownership retained by the Company’s existing stockholders in the combined company will be different. For example, if we assume that all of the 16,100,000 public warrants and 7,773,333 private placement warrants that will remain outstanding post-Business Combination were exercisable and exercised following completion of the Business Combination in accordance with their terms, then the anticipated ownership of New WeWork at the Closing would be as follows:

|--|--|----------------------------------|-----------------------------|----------------------------------|
| | No Additional Redemptions | | Assuming Maximum Redemption | |
| Initial Stockholders | 16,848,333 | 2.1% | 16,848,333 | 2.2% |
| BowX’s Public Stockholders (excluding PIPE Shares) | 64,400,000 | 7.9% | 21,168,902 | 2.7% |
| PIPE Investors | 80,000,000 | 9.8% | 80,000,000 | 10.3% |
| Total | 816,548,333 | 100% | 773,317,235 | 100% |

For further details, see “BCA Proposal — The Merger Agreement — Consideration — Aggregate Merger Consideration.”

(1) The figures in this table are presented only as illustrative examples and are based on the scenarios described below, which may be different from the actual amount of redemptions in connection with the Business Combination. In the event that shares of BowX Class A Common Stock are redeemed in connection with the Business Combination but the number of shares redeemed is less than 43,231,098, the ownership percentages set forth above will fall in between the two scenarios. For example, if we assume that the number of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock redeemed in connection with the Business Combination total 21,615,549, BowX public stockholders will hold a total of 42,784,451 shares of New WeWork Common Stock at Closing, representing a 5.4% ownership interest.

Q: Will the Company obtain new financing in connection with the Business Combination?

A: Yes. The PIPE Investors have agreed to purchase in the aggregate approximately 80,000,000 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock, for $800,000,000 of gross proceeds, in the PIPE Investment. The PIPE Investment is contingent upon, among other things, the closing of the Business Combination. See “BCA Proposal — Related Agreements — Subscription Agreements.”

Q: Did the board of directors of BowX obtain a third-party valuation or fairness opinion in determining whether or not to proceed with the Business Combination?

A: No. The BowX board of directors did not obtain a third-party valuation or fairness opinion in connection with its determination to approve the Business Combination. The BowX board of directors believes that based upon the financial skills and background of its directors, it was qualified to conclude that the Business Combination was fair from a financial perspective to its stockholders. The BowX board of directors also determined, without seeking a valuation from a financial advisor, that WeWork's fair market value was at least 80% of BowX's net assets, excluding any taxes payable on interest earned. Accordingly, investors will be relying on the judgment of the BowX board of directors as described above in valuing WeWork's business and assuming the risk that the BowX board of directors may not have properly valued such business.

Q: Who will be the officers and directors of New WeWork if the Business Combination is consummated?

A: The Merger Agreement provides that, immediately following the consummation of the Business Combination, the New WeWork board of directors will be comprised of nine directors: Marcelo Claire, Michel Combes, Bruce Dunlevie, Véronique Laury, Sandeep Mathrani, Deven Parekh, Vivek Ranadivé, Kirthiga Reddy and Jeff Sine. Immediately following the consummation of the Business Combination, we expect that the following will be the executive officers of New WeWork: Sandeep Mathrani, Benjamin "Ben" Dunham, Anthony Yazbeck, Jared DeMatteis, Lauren Fritts, Peter Greenspan, Hamid Hashemi, Maral Kazanjian, Scott Morey and Roger Solé Rafols. Concurrently with the consummation of the Business Combination, BowX's officers and directors, other than Mr. Ranadivé (who will serve as a director of New WeWork following the Business Combination), will resign from their respective positions at BowX. For more information on the management of New WeWork following the Business Combination, see the section entitled "Management of New WeWork Following the Business Combination."

Q: Do WeWork Stockholders need to approve the Business Combination?

A: Yes. On March 25, 2021, in connection with execution of the Merger Agreement, BowX, WeWork and certain stockholders of WeWork entered into Stockholder Support Agreements, pursuant to which, among other things and subject to the terms and conditions therein, such WeWork Stockholders agreed to execute and deliver a written consent with respect to the outstanding shares of WeWork Capital Stock held by the signing WeWork Stockholders adopting the Merger Agreement and related transactions and approving the Business Combination (including consenting to enter into the Merger Agreement effective on March 25, 2021 for purposes of any transactions subject to Article Fifth, Part A, Section 3.17 of WeWork's amended and restated certificate of incorporation (the "Related Party Charter Provision"), to the extent applicable). Such written consent must be delivered promptly, and in any event within forty-eight (48) hours (or, in the case of SBWW, WeWork's largest stockholder, five (5) calendar days) after (x) the proxy statement/prospectus relating to the approval by BowX stockholders of the Business Combination is declared effective by the SEC and delivered or otherwise made available to BowX and WeWork Stockholders, and (y) BowX or WeWork requests it. The shares of WeWork Common Stock and WeWork Preferred Stock that are owned by the Key Stockholders and subject to the Stockholder Support Agreements represent a majority of the outstanding voting power of WeWork Capital Stock (voting as a single class and on an as converted basis). The execution and delivery of such written consents by all of the stockholders of WeWork that have entered into Stockholder Support Agreements will constitute the WeWork stockholder approval at the time of such delivery, and no additional approval or vote from any holders of any class or series of stock of WeWork will be necessary to adopt and approve the Merger Agreement and the Business Combination.

Q: May BowX or BowX's directors, officers or advisors, or their affiliates, purchase shares in connection with the Business Combination?

A: In connection with the stockholder vote to approve the proposed Business Combination, the Sponsor, BowX's directors, BowX's officers or BowX's advisors or any of their affiliates may privately negotiate transactions to purchase shares prior to the Closing from stockholders who would have otherwise elected to have their shares redeemed in conjunction with a proxy solicitation pursuant to the proxy rules for a per share pro rata portion of the trust account without the prior written consent of WeWork. None of the Sponsor, BowX's directors, BowX's officers or BowX's advisors, or their respective affiliates, will make any such purchases when they are in possession of any material non-public information not disclosed to the seller of such shares. Such a purchase would include a contractual acknowledgement that such stockholder, although still the record holder of such shares, is no longer the beneficial owner thereof and therefore agrees not to exercise its redemption rights. In the event that the Sponsor, directors, officers or advisors, or their affiliates, purchase shares in privately negotiated transactions from public stockholders who have already elected to exercise their redemption rights, such selling stockholders would be required to revoke their prior elections to redeem their shares. Any such privately negotiated purchases may be effected at purchase prices that are in excess of the per share pro rata portion of the trust account. The purpose of these purchases would be to increase the amount of cash available to BowX for use in the Business Combination.

The existence of financial and personal interests of one or more of BowX's directors may result in a conflict of interest on the part of such director(s) between what he, she or they may believe is in the best interests of BowX and its stockholders and what he, she or they may believe is best for himself, herself or themselves in determining to recommend that stockholders vote for the proposals. In addition, BowX's officers have interests in the Business Combination that may conflict with your interests as a stockholder. See the section entitled "BCA Proposal — Interests of BowX's Directors and Executive Officers in the Business Combination" for a further discussion of these considerations.

Q: Do I have redemption rights?

A: If you are a holder of public stock, you may redeem your public stock for cash equal to your pro rata share of the aggregate amount on deposit in the trust account, which holds the proceeds of the initial public offering, as of two business days prior to the consummation of the Business Combination, including interest earned on the funds held in the trust account and not previously released to BowX to pay its franchise and income taxes and for working capital purposes, upon the consummation of the Business Combination. The per share amount BowX will distribute to holders who properly redeem their shares will not be reduced by the deferred underwriting commissions BowX will pay to the underwriters of its initial public offering if the Business Combination is consummated. Holders of the outstanding public warrants do not have redemption rights with respect to such warrants in connection with the Business Combination. Our Sponsor, officers and directors have agreed to waive their redemption rights with respect to their shares of BowX Class B Common Stock and any public stock that they may have acquired during or after the initial public offering in connection with the completion of BowX's initial business combination. The shares of BowX Class B Common Stock will be excluded from the pro rata calculation used to determine the per share redemption price. For illustrative purposes, based on funds in the trust account as of June 30, 2021, of approximately $483.1 million, the estimated per share redemption price would have been approximately $10.00. This is greater than the $10.00 initial public offering price of BowX Units. Additionally, public stock properly tendered for redemption will only be redeemed if the Business Combination is consummated; otherwise holders of such shares will only be entitled to a pro rata portion of the trust account (including interest but net of taxes payable and dissolution expenses) in connection with the liquidation of the trust account. If the Business Combination is not consummated, BowX may enter into an alternative business combination and close such transaction by August 7, 2022 (subject to the requirements of law). The initial stockholders, including our Sponsor, and our directors and officers, have agreed to waive their redemption rights with respect to all of the Founder Shares in connection with the consummation of the Business Combination. The Founder Shares will be excluded from the pro rata calculation used to determine the per-share redemption price.

Q: How do I exercise my redemption rights?

A: If you are a public stockholder and wish to exercise your right to redeem the public stock, you must:

- (i) (a) hold public stock, or (b) if you hold public stock through units, you elect to separate your units into the underlying public stock and public warrants prior to exercising your redemption rights with respect to the public stock;

- (ii) submit a written request to Continental, BowX’s transfer agent, that BowX redeem all or a portion of your public stock for cash; and
- (iii) deliver your public stock to Continental, BowX’s transfer agent, physically or electronically through The Depository Trust Company (“DTC”).

Holders must complete the procedures for electing to redeem their shares of public stock in the manner described above prior to 5:00 p.m., Eastern Time, on October 15, 2021, (two business days before the special meeting) in order for their stock to be redeemed.

The address of Continental, BowX’s transfer agent, is listed under the question “Who can help answer my questions?” below. BowX requests that any request for redemption include the identity as to the beneficial owner making such request. Electronic delivery of your stock generally will be faster than delivery of physical stock certificates.

Holders of units must elect to separate the units into the underlying public stock and public warrants prior to exercising redemption rights with respect to the public stock. If holders hold their units in an account at a brokerage firm or bank, holders must notify their broker or bank that they elect to separate the units into the underlying public stock and public warrants, or if a holder holds units registered in its own name, the holder must contact Continental directly and instruct them to do so.

Public stockholders will be entitled to request that their public stock be redeemed for a pro rata portion of the amount then on deposit in the trust account calculated as of two business days prior to the consummation of the Business Combination including interest earned on the funds held in the trust account and not previously released to us (net of taxes payable). For illustrative purposes, based on funds in the trust account as of June 30, 2021, of approximately $483.1 million, the estimated per share redemption price would have been approximately $10.00. However, the proceeds deposited in the trust account could become subject to the claims of BowX’s creditors, if any, which could have priority over the claims of the public stockholders, regardless of whether such public stockholder votes or, if they do vote, irrespective of if they vote for or against the BCA Proposal. Therefore, the per share distribution from the trust account in such a situation may be less than originally expected due to such claims. Whether you vote, and if you do vote irrespective of how you vote, on any proposal, including the BCA Proposal, will have no impact on the amount you will receive upon exercise of your redemption rights. It is expected that the funds to be distributed to public stockholders electing to redeem their public stock will be distributed promptly after the consummation of the Business Combination.

Any request for redemption, once made by a holder of public stock, may be withdrawn at any time, with BowX’s consent, up to the time the vote is taken with respect to the BCA Proposal at the special meeting. If you deliver your shares for redemption to Continental and later decide prior to the special meeting not to elect redemption, you may request that BowX’s transfer agent return the shares (physically or electronically) to you. You may make such request by contacting Continental, BowX’s transfer agent, at the phone number or address listed at the end of this section.

Any corrected or changed written exercise of redemption rights must be received by Continental, BowX’s transfer agent, prior to the vote taken on the BCA Proposal at the special meeting. No request for redemption will be honored unless the holder’s public stock have been delivered (either physically or electronically) to Continental, at least two business days prior to the vote at the special meeting.

If a holder of public stock properly makes a request for redemption and the public stock are delivered as described above, then, if the Business Combination is consummated, New WeWork will redeem the public stock for a pro rata portion of funds deposited in the trust account, calculated as of two business days prior to the consummation of the Business Combination. The redemption will take place following the Business Combination and, accordingly, it is shares of New WeWork Common Stock that will be redeemed.

If you are a holder of public stock and you exercise your redemption rights, such exercise will not result in the loss of any warrants that you may hold.

Q: Is there a limit on the number of shares I may redeem?

A: A public stockholder, together with any affiliate of such public stockholder or any other person with whom such public stockholder is acting in concert or as a “group” (as defined in Section 13(d)(3) of the Exchange Act), will be restricted from redeeming its public stock with respect to more than an aggregate of 15% of the public stock, without the consent of BowX. Accordingly, if a public stockholder, alone or acting in concert or as a group, seeks to redeem more than 15% of the public stock, then any such stock in excess of that 15% limit would not be redeemed for cash, except with BowX’s consent.

Q: Must I vote “No” in order to redeem my shares?

A: No. You may exercise your redemption rights whether you vote your public stock for or against the BCA Proposal or do not vote your shares. As a result, the BCA Proposal can be approved by stockholders who will redeem their public stock and no longer remain stockholders, leaving stockholders who choose not to redeem their public stock holding shares in a company with a less liquid trading market, fewer stockholders, less cash and the potential inability to meet stock exchange listing standards.

Q: If I am a holder of units, can I exercise redemption rights with respect to my units?

A: No. Holders of issued and outstanding units must elect to separate the units into the underlying public stock and public warrants prior to exercising redemption rights with respect to the public stock. If you hold your units in an account at a brokerage firm or bank, you must notify your broker or bank that you elect to separate the units into the underlying public stock and public warrants, or if you hold units registered in your own name, you must contact Continental, BowX’s transfer agent, directly and instruct them to do so. You are requested to cause your public stock to be separated and delivered to Continental by 5:00 p.m., Eastern Time, on October 15, 2021, (two business days before the special meeting) in order to exercise your redemption rights with respect to your public stock.

Q: What are the U.S. federal income tax consequences of exercising my redemption rights?

A: BowX stockholders who exercise their redemption rights to receive cash from the trust account in exchange for their public stock generally (subject to specified exceptions) will be required to treat the transaction either as (1) a sale of such shares, in which case the redeeming stockholder would recognize gain or loss upon the redemption in an amount equal to the difference, if any, between the amount of cash received and the tax basis of the public stock redeemed, or (2) a distribution in respect of such shares. If the redemption is treated as a sale of shares, the stockholder’s gain or loss should be treated as capital gain or loss if such shares were held as a capital asset on the date of the redemption. A stockholder’s tax basis in his, her or its public stock generally will equal the cost of such shares. If the redemption is treated as a distribution in respect of the stockholder’s public stock, the character of the stockholder’s income will depend on whether BowX has current or accumulated earnings and profits, as determined for U.S. federal income tax purposes. A stockholder who purchased BowX Units will have to allocate the cost between the shares of BowX Class A Common Stock or warrants comprising the BowX Units based on their relative fair market values at the time of the purchase. See the section entitled “Certain U.S. Federal Income Tax Considerations for Stockholders Exercising Redemption Rights.”

Q: What are the U.S. federal income tax consequences of the Mergers to WeWork Stockholders?

A: For U.S. federal income tax purposes, the Mergers, taken together, are intended to constitute a single integrated transaction that qualifies as a “reorganization” within the meaning of section 368(a) of the Code, and each of BowX and WeWork expects to receive a tax opinion from its counsel, Cooley LLP (“Cooley”) and Skadden, Arps, Slate, Meagher & Flom LLP (“Skadden”), respectively, to the effect that, for U.S. federal income tax purposes, the Mergers will constitute a reorganization within the meaning of section 368(a) of the Code. These opinions of counsel will be based on customary assumptions, representations, covenants, and undertakings of WeWork, BowX, Merger Sub, and Merger Sub II. If any of the assumptions, representations, covenants or undertakings is incorrect, incomplete, inaccurate, or is breached, the validity of the opinions may be affected and the U.S. federal income tax consequences of the Mergers could differ materially from those described in this proxy statement/prospectus. The obligation of each of WeWork and BowX to consummate the Mergers, however, is not conditioned upon the receipt of such opinions of Cooley, Skadden, or any other counsel, nor will the parties request a ruling from the IRS regarding the qualification of the Mergers as a reorganization within the meaning of section 368(a) of the Code. Assuming that the Mergers qualify as a reorganization within the meaning of section 368(a) of the Code: (i) U.S. holders (as defined herein) of WeWork Capital Stock will generally not recognize gain or loss for U.S. federal income tax purposes, and (ii) under FIRPTA, Non-U.S. holders (as defined herein) of WeWork Capital Stock will generally recognize gain (but not loss) for U.S. federal income tax purposes. Furthermore, certain Non-U.S. holders will be subject to withholding of U.S. tax under FIRPTA in an amount equal to 15% of the amount realized on the exchange of their WeWork Capital Stock in the Mergers.

The U.S. federal income tax consequences described above may not apply to all holders of WeWork Capital Stock. You should read the section entitled “U.S. Federal Income Tax Consequences of the Mergers for WeWork Stockholders” for a more complete discussion of the U.S. federal income tax considerations relating to the Mergers. Tax matters can be complicated and the tax consequences of the Mergers to you will depend on your particular tax situation. You should consult your tax advisor to determine the tax consequences of the Mergers to you.

Q: What happens to the funds deposited in the trust account after consummation of the Business Combination?

A: Upon consummation of the Business Combination, the funds deposited in the trust account will be released to pay holders of public stock who properly exercise their redemption rights; to pay transaction fees and expenses incurred by BowX and WeWork in connection with the Business Combination; and for working capital and general corporate purposes of New WeWork following the Business Combination. See the section entitled “BCA Proposal — Sources and Uses of Funds for the Business Combination.”

Q: What happens if a substantial number of the public stockholders vote in favor of the BCA Proposal and exercise their redemption rights?

A: Our public stockholders are not required to vote in favor of the Business Combination in order to exercise their redemption rights. Accordingly, the Business Combination may be consummated even though the funds available from the trust account and the number of public stockholders are reduced as a result of redemptions by public stockholders. As a result of redemptions, holders of New WeWork Common Stock may be left holding shares in a company with a less liquid trading market, fewer stockholders, less cash and the potential inability to meet stock exchange listing standards.

The Merger Agreement provides that the obligations of WeWork to consummate the First Merger are conditioned on, among other things, that as of the Closing, the Trust Amount plus the PIPE Investment is at least equal to the Minimum Available Cash Condition amount. If such conditions are not met, and such conditions are not or cannot be waived under the terms of the Merger Agreement, then the Merger Agreement could terminate and the proposed Business Combination may not be consummated. In addition, in no event will we redeem public stock in an amount that would cause New WeWork’s net tangible assets (as determined in accordance with Rule 3a51-1 (g)(1) of the Exchange Act) to be less than $5,000,001.

Q: What conditions must be satisfied to complete the Business Combination?

A: There are a number of closing conditions in the Merger Agreement, including that BowX’s stockholders have approved and adopted the Merger Agreement.

For more information about conditions to the consummation of the Business Combination, see the section entitled “BCA Proposal — The Merger Agreement.”

Q: When do you expect the Business Combination to be completed?

A: It is currently anticipated that the Business Combination will be consummated promptly following the special meeting of stockholders; provided that all other conditions to the consummation of the Business Combination have been satisfied or waived. For a description of the conditions for the completion of the Business Combination, see the section entitled “BCA Proposal — The Merger Agreement.”

Q: What happens if the Business Combination is not consummated?

A: There are certain circumstances under which the Merger Agreement may be terminated. See the sections entitled “BCA Proposal — The Merger Agreement — Closing Conditions” and “— Termination; Effectiveness” for information regarding the parties’ specific termination rights.

If BowX is not able to complete the Business Combination with WeWork by August 7, 2022, and is not able to complete another business combination by such date, in each case, as such date may be extended pursuant to the Organizational Documents, BowX will: (i) cease all operations except for the purpose of winding up; (ii) as promptly as reasonably possible, but not more than 10 business days thereafter, redeem the public stock, at a per-share price, payable in cash, equal to the aggregate amount then on deposit in the trust account, including interest (less up to $100,000 of interest to pay dissolution expenses), divided by the number of then issued and outstanding shares of public stock, which redemption will completely extinguish public stockholders’ rights as stockholders (including the right to receive further liquidating distributions, if any), subject to applicable law; and (iii) as promptly as reasonably possible following such redemption, subject to the approval of our remaining stockholders and our board of directors, dissolve and liquidate, subject in the case of clauses (i) and (ii) to our obligations under the DGCL to provide for claims of creditors and the requirements of other applicable law. See the sections entitled “Risk Factors — Risks Related to the Business Combination and BowX — BowX may not be able to complete an initial business combination within the prescribed time frame, in which case it would cease all operations except for the purpose of winding up and it would redeem the public stock and liquidate, in which case the public stockholders may only receive $10.00 per share, or less than such amount in certain circumstances, and the public warrants will expire worthless” and “— BowX stockholders may be held liable for claims by third parties against BowX to the extent of distributions received by them upon redemption of their shares.” Our initial stockholders, including the Sponsor, and our directors and officers have waived any right to any liquidation distribution with respect to the Founder Shares.

In the event of liquidation, there will be no distribution with respect to outstanding warrants. Accordingly, the warrants will expire worthless.

Q: If I hold warrants, can I exercise redemption rights with respect to my warrants?

A: No. There are no redemption rights with respect to the warrants.

Q: Do I have appraisal rights in connection with the proposed Business Combination?

A: No. Neither BowX’s stockholders nor BowX’s warrant holders have appraisal rights in connection with the Business Combination.

Q: What do I need to do now?

A: BowX urges you to read this proxy statement/prospectus, including the financial statements, Annexes and the documents referred to herein, carefully and in their entirety and to consider how the Business Combination will affect you as a stockholder or warrant holder. BowX’s stockholders should then vote as soon as possible in accordance with the instructions provided in this proxy statement/prospectus and on the enclosed proxy card or, if you hold your shares through a brokerage firm, bank or other nominee, on the voting instruction form provided by the broker, bank or nominee.

Q: How do I vote?

A: If you are a holder of record of BowX Common Stock on the record date for the special meeting, you may vote virtually at the special meeting or by submitting a proxy for the special meeting. You may submit your proxy by signing, dating and returning the enclosed proxy card in the accompanying pre-addressed postage-paid envelope. If you hold your shares in “street name,” which means your shares are held of record by a broker, bank or nominee, you should contact your broker, bank or nominee to ensure that votes related to the shares you beneficially own are properly counted. In this regard, you must provide the broker, bank or nominee with instructions on how to vote your stock or, if you wish to attend the special meeting and vote while attending virtually, obtain a valid proxy from your broker, bank or nominee.

Q: What will happen if I abstain from voting or fail to vote at the special meeting?

A: At the special meeting of stockholders, BowX will count a properly executed proxy marked “ABSTAIN” with respect to a particular proposal as present for purposes of determining whether a quorum is present. For purposes of approval, an abstention or failure to vote will have the same effect as a vote against each of the Business Combination Proposal, the Organizational Documents Proposals and the Adjournment Proposal, and will have no effect on any of the other proposals.

Q: What will happen if I sign, date and return my proxy card without indicating how I wish to vote?

A: Signed and dated proxies received by BowX without an indication of how the stockholder intends to vote on a proposal will be voted in favor of each proposal presented to the stockholders.

Q: How can I attend the special meeting?

A: You may attend the special meeting and vote your shares virtually during the special meeting via live webcast by visiting <https://www.cstproxy.com/bowxacquisitioncorp/sm2021>. As a registered stockholder, you received a proxy card from Continental, which contains instructions on how to attend the special meeting virtually, including the URL address, along with your 12-digit meeting control number. You will need the 12-digit meeting control number that is printed on your proxy card to enter the special meeting. If you do not have your 12-digit meeting control number, contact Continental at 917-262-2373 or email Continental at proxy@continentalstock.com. Please note that you will not be able to physically attend the special meeting in person, but may attend the special meeting virtually by following the instructions below.

You can pre-register to attend the special meeting virtually starting October 14, 2021. Enter the URL address into your browser, and enter your 12-digit meeting control number, name and email address. Once you pre-register you can vote or enter questions in the chat box. Prior to or at the start of the special meeting you will need to re-log in using your 12-digit meeting control number and will also be prompted to enter your 12-digit meeting control number if you vote virtually during the special meeting. BowX recommends that you log in at least 15 minutes before the special meeting to ensure you are logged in when the special meeting starts.

If your shares are held in “street name,” you may attend the special meeting. You will need to contact Continental at the number or email address above, to receive a 12-digit meeting control number and gain access to the special meeting or otherwise contact your broker, bank, or other nominee as soon as possible, to do so. Please allow up to 72 hours prior to the special meeting for processing your 12-digit meeting control number.

If you do not have internet capabilities, you can listen only to the special meeting by dialing 1 877-770-3647 (toll-free) if within the U.S. or Canada, or +1 312-780-0854 (standard rates apply) if outside of the U.S. and Canada, when prompted enter the pin 14309853#. This is listen only, you will not be able to vote or enter questions during the special meeting.

Q: Do I need to attend the special meeting of stockholders virtually to vote my shares?

A: No. You are invited to attend the special meeting virtually to vote on the proposals described in this proxy statement/prospectus. However, you do not need to attend the special meeting of stockholders virtually to vote your shares. Instead, you may submit your proxy by signing, dating and returning the applicable enclosed proxy card(s) in the pre-addressed postage-paid envelope. Your vote is important. BowX encourages you to vote as soon as possible after carefully reading this proxy statement/prospectus.

Q: If I am not going to attend the special meeting of stockholders virtually, should I return my proxy card instead?

A: Yes. After carefully reading and considering the information contained in this proxy statement/prospectus, please submit your proxy, as applicable, by signing, dating and returning the enclosed proxy card in the postage-paid envelope provided.

Q: If my shares are held in “street name,” will my broker, bank or nominee automatically vote my shares for me?

A: No. If your shares are held in a stock brokerage account or by a bank or other nominee, you are considered the “beneficial holder” of the stock held for you in what is known as “street name.” If this is the case, this proxy statement/prospectus may have been forwarded to you by your brokerage firm, bank or other nominee, or its agent, and you may need to obtain a proxy form from the institution that holds your shares and follow the instructions included on that form regarding how to instruct your broker, bank or nominee as to how to vote your shares. Under the rules of various national and regional securities exchanges, your broker, bank, or nominee cannot vote your shares with respect to non-discretionary matters unless you provide instructions on how to vote in accordance with the information and procedures provided to you by your broker, bank, or nominee. We believe all the proposals presented to the stockholders will be considered non-discretionary and therefore your broker, bank, or nominee cannot vote your shares without your instruction. Your bank, broker, or other nominee can vote your shares only if you provide instructions on how to vote. As the beneficial holder, you have the right to direct your broker, bank or other nominee as to how to vote your shares and you should instruct your broker to vote your shares in accordance with directions you provide. If you do not provide voting instructions to your broker on a proposal on which your broker does not have discretionary authority to vote, your shares will not be voted on that proposal. This is called a “broker non-vote.” Any broker non-votes, while considered present for the purposes of establishing a quorum, will not count as votes cast at the special meeting on any proposal, and will have the same effect as a vote against the Organizational Documents Proposal and will have no effect on any of the other proposals.

Q: What is the quorum requirement for the special meeting of stockholders?

A: A quorum will be present at the special meeting of stockholders if a majority of the BowX Common Stock outstanding and entitled to vote at the special meeting is attending virtually or by proxy. In the absence of a quorum, the chairman of the meeting has the power to adjourn the special meeting.

As of the record date for the special meeting, 30,187,501 shares of BowX Common Stock would be required to achieve a quorum.

If there is no quorum, the chairman of the meeting may adjourn the special meeting to another date.

Q: Who is entitled to vote at the special meeting?

A: BowX stockholders will be entitled to vote or direct votes to be cast at the special meeting if they owned BowX Common Stock at the close of business on September 14, 2021, which is the “record date” for the special meeting. Stockholders will have one vote for each share of BowX Common Stock owned at the close of business on the record date. If your stock is held in “street name” or are in a margin or similar account, you should contact your broker to ensure that votes related to the stock you beneficially own are properly counted. Warrants do not have voting rights. As of the close of business on the record date, there were 48,300,000 shares of BowX Class A Common Stock issued and outstanding and 12,075,000 shares of BowX Class B Common Stock issued and outstanding.

Q: How many votes do I have?

A: BowX stockholders are entitled to one vote at the special meeting for each share of BowX Common Stock held of record as of the record date. As of the close of business on the record date for the special meeting, there were 48,300,000 shares of BowX Class A Common Stock issued and outstanding and 12,075,000 shares of BowX Class B Common Stock issued and outstanding.

Q: What vote is required to approve each proposal at the special meeting?

A: The following votes are required for each proposal at the special meeting:

- (i) BCA Proposal: The approval of the BCA Proposal requires the affirmative vote of a majority of the shares of BowX Common Stock attending virtually or by proxy and entitled to vote thereon at the special meeting.
- (ii) Organizational Documents Proposals: The separate approval of each of the Organizational Documents Proposals (other than Organizational Documents Proposals A and D) requires the affirmative vote of a majority of the outstanding shares of BowX Common Stock. The approval of Organizational Documents Proposals A and D will require the affirmative vote of the holders of a majority of the outstanding shares of BowX Class A Common Stock on the record date and the affirmative vote of the holders of a majority of the outstanding shares of Class B Common Stock on the record date.
- (iii) Director Election Proposal: The approval of the Director Election Proposal requires the affirmative vote of a plurality of the outstanding shares of BowX Common Stock attending virtually or by proxy and who vote thereon at the special meeting. Because the Director Election Proposal is an uncontested election with no cumulative voting, every director nominee will be assured election upon receiving just one “for” vote.
- (iv) Stock Issuance Proposal: The approval of the Stock Issuance Proposal requires the affirmative vote of a majority of the shares of BowX Common Stock attending virtually or by proxy and entitled to vote thereon and who vote at the special meeting.
- (v) Equity Incentive Plan Proposal: The approval of the Equity Incentive Plan Proposal requires the affirmative vote of a majority of the shares of BowX Common Stock attending virtually or by proxy and entitled to vote and who vote thereon at the special meeting.
- (vi) ESPP Proposal: The approval of the ESPP Proposal requires the affirmative vote of a majority of the shares of BowX Common Stock attending virtually or by proxy and entitled to vote and who vote thereon at the special meeting.
- (vii) Adjournment Proposal: The approval of the Adjournment Proposal requires the affirmative vote of a majority of the shares of BowX Common Stock attending virtually or by proxy and entitled to vote thereon at the special meeting.

Q: What are the recommendations of BowX’s board of directors?

A: BowX’s board of directors believes that the BCA Proposal and the other proposals to be presented at the special meeting are in the best interest of BowX’s stockholders and unanimously recommends that its stockholders vote “FOR” the BCA Proposal, “FOR” each of the separate Organizational Documents Proposals, “FOR” the Director Election Proposal, “FOR” the Stock Issuance Proposal, “FOR” the Equity Incentive Plan Proposal, “FOR” the ESPP Proposal and “FOR” the Adjournment Proposal, in each case, if presented to the special meeting.

The existence of financial and personal interests of one or more of BowX’s directors may result in a conflict of interest on the part of such director(s) between what he, she or they may believe is in the best interests of BowX and its stockholders and what he, she or they may believe is best for himself, herself or themselves in determining to recommend that stockholders vote for the proposals. In addition, BowX’s officers have interests in the Business Combination that may conflict with your interests as a stockholder. See the section entitled “BCA Proposal — Interests of BowX’s Directors and Executive Officers in the Business Combination” for a further discussion of these considerations.

Q: What interests do BowX’s current officers and directors have in the Business Combination?

A: BowX’s board of directors and executive officers may have interests in the Business Combination that are different from, in addition to or in conflict with, yours. These interests include:

- the beneficial ownership of our initial stockholders of an aggregate of 12,075,000 shares of BowX Class B Common Stock and 7,773,333 private placement warrants, which shares and warrants would become worthless if BowX does not complete a business combination within the applicable time period, as our initial stockholders have waived any redemption right with respect to these shares. Our initial stockholders paid an aggregate of $25,000 for the BowX Class B Common Stock, and $11,660,000 for the private placement warrants, and such shares and warrants have an aggregate market value of approximately $120 million and $12.83 million, respectively, based on the closing price of BowX Class A Common Stock of $9.94 and the closing price of public warrants of $1.65 on Nasdaq on September 14, 2021, the record date for the special meeting of stockholders. Each of our officers and directors is a member of the Sponsor. Vivek Ranadivé and Murray Rode are the managing members of the Sponsor, and as such Mr. Ranadivé and Rode have voting and investment discretion with respect to the BowX Common Stock and warrants held of record by the Sponsor;
- the anticipated continuation of Mr. Ranadivé as a director of New WeWork;
- the fact that our Sponsor, officers and directors have agreed not to redeem any of their shares in connection with a stockholder vote to approve the Business Combination;
- the fact that our initial stockholders, including our Sponsor, and our directors and officers, paid an aggregate of approximately $11,660,000 for their 7,773,333 private placement warrants to purchase shares of BowX Class A Common Stock and that such private placement warrants will expire worthless if a business combination is not consummated by August 7, 2022;
- the fact that our initial stockholders, including our Sponsor and its affiliates, who purchased Class B Common Stock and private placement warrants at the time of our IPO may experience a positive rate of return on their investment, even if our public shareholders experience a negative rate of return on their investment;
- that, at the Closing, we will enter into the Registration Rights Agreement, which provides for registration rights to the initial stockholders, including the Sponsor, and BowX’s directors and officers and their permitted transferees;
- the continued indemnification of current directors and officers of BowX and the continuation of directors’ and officers’ liability insurance after the Business Combination;
- the fact that our Sponsor, officers and directors will be reimbursed for out-of-pocket expenses incurred in connection with activities on our behalf, such as identifying potential target businesses and performing due diligence on suitable business combinations, though there have been no material out-of-pocket expenses subject to reimbursement and BowX does not anticipate any such expenses prior to Closing; and
- the fact that our Sponsor, officers and directors will lose their entire investment in us if our initial business combination is not completed.

These interests may influence BowX’s directors in making their recommendation that you vote in favor of the approval of the Business Combination and the transactions contemplated thereby. BowX’s directors were aware of and considered these interests, among other matters, in evaluating the Business Combination, and in recommending to BowX stockholders that they approve the Business Combination. BowX stockholders should take these interests into account in deciding whether to approve the Business Combination.

Q: How does the Sponsor intend to vote their shares?

A: Our initial stockholders, including the Sponsor, and our directors and officers have agreed to vote any shares of BowX Common Stock owned by them in favor of the Business Combination, including their shares of BowX Class B Common Stock and any public stock purchased after our initial public offering (including in open market and privately negotiated transactions). As of the record date, our initial stockholders, including our Sponsor, and our directors and officers beneficially own an aggregate of approximately 18.6% of the outstanding shares of BowX Common Stock.

Q: What happens if I sell my BowX Common Stock before the special meeting?

A: The record date for the special meeting is earlier than the date of the special meeting and earlier than the date that the Business Combination is expected to be completed. If you transfer your public stock after the applicable record date, but before the special meeting, unless you grant a proxy to the transferee, you will retain your right to vote at such general meeting but the transferee, and not you, will have the ability to redeem such stock (if time permits).

Q: May I change my vote after I have mailed my signed proxy card?

A: Yes. Stockholders may send a later-dated, signed proxy card to BowX's Secretary at BowX's address set forth below so that it is received by BowX's Secretary prior to the vote at the special meeting (which is scheduled to take place on October 19, 2021) or attend the special meeting virtually and vote. Stockholders also may revoke their proxy by sending a notice of revocation to BowX's Secretary, which must be received by BowX's Secretary prior to the vote at the special meeting. However, if your shares are held in "street name" by your broker, bank or another nominee, you must contact your broker, bank or other nominee to change your vote.

Q: What happens if I fail to take any action with respect to the special meeting?

A: If you fail to take any action with respect to the special meeting and the Business Combination is approved by stockholders and the Business Combination is consummated, you will become a stockholder or warrant holder of New WeWork. If you fail to take any action with respect to the special meeting and the Business Combination is not approved, you will remain a stockholder or warrant holder of BowX. However, if you fail to vote with respect to the special meeting, you will nonetheless be able to elect to redeem your public stock in connection with the Business Combination (if time permits).

Q: What should I do with my stock certificates, warrant certificates or unit certificates?

A: Our stockholders who exercise their redemption rights must deliver (either physically or electronically) their stock certificates to Continental, BowX's transfer agent, prior to the special meeting.

Holders must complete the procedures for electing to redeem their public stock in the manner described above prior to 5:00 p.m., Eastern Time, on October 15, 2021, (two business days before the special meeting) in order for their shares to be redeemed.

Our warrant holders should not submit the certificates relating to their warrants. Public stockholders who do not elect to have their public stock redeemed for the pro rata share of the trust account should not submit the certificates relating to their public stock.

Q: What should I do if I receive more than one set of voting materials?

A: Stockholders may receive more than one set of voting materials, including multiple copies of this proxy statement/prospectus and multiple proxy cards or voting instruction cards. For example, if you hold your shares in more than one brokerage account, you will receive a separate voting instruction card for each brokerage account in which you hold shares. If you are a holder of record and your shares are registered in more than one name, you will receive more than one proxy card. Please sign, date and return each proxy card and voting instruction card that you receive in order to cast a vote with respect to all of your BowX Common Stock.

Q: Who will solicit and pay the cost of soliciting proxies for the special meeting?

A: BowX will pay the cost of soliciting proxies for the special meeting. BowX has engaged Morrow Sodali LLC (“Morrow”) to assist in the solicitation of proxies for the special meeting. BowX has agreed to pay Morrow a fee of $37,500, plus disbursements (to be paid with non-trust account funds). BowX will also reimburse banks, brokers and other custodians, nominees and fiduciaries representing beneficial owners of BowX Class A Common Stock for their expenses in forwarding soliciting materials to beneficial owners of BowX Class A Common Stock and in obtaining voting instructions from those owners. BowX’s directors and officers may also solicit proxies by telephone, by facsimile, by mail, on the Internet or in person. They will not be paid any additional amounts for soliciting proxies.

Q: Where can I find the voting results of the special meeting?

A: The preliminary voting results will be expected to be announced at the special meeting. BowX will publish final voting results of the special meeting in a Current Report on Form 8-K within four business days after the special meeting.

The Business Combination

The Merger Agreement

This subsection of the proxy statement/prospectus describes the material provisions of the Merger Agreement, but does not purport to describe all of the terms of the Merger Agreement. The following summary is qualified in its entirety by reference to the complete text of the Merger Agreement, a copy of which is attached as Annex A to this proxy statement/prospectus. You are urged to read the Merger Agreement in its entirety because it is the primary legal document that governs the Business Combination.

Structure of the Mergers

On March 25, 2021, BowX entered into the Merger Agreement with Merger Sub and WeWork, pursuant to which, among other things, Merger Sub will merge with and into WeWork, the separate corporate existence of Merger Sub will cease and WeWork will be the surviving corporation and a wholly owned subsidiary of BowX (the "First Merger"). Pursuant to and in accordance with the terms of a separate agreement and plan of merger to be entered into by BowX, the surviving corporation of the First Merger and Merger Sub II, as soon as practicable following the First Merger and as part of the same overall transaction as the First Merger, the surviving corporation will merge with and into Merger Sub II, with Merger Sub II being the surviving entity of such merger (the "Second Merger" and together with the First Merger, the "Mergers"). In connection with the Mergers, BowX will change its name to WeWork Inc. ("New WeWork").

Closing and Effective Time

In accordance with the terms and subject to the conditions of the Merger Agreement, the closing of the First Merger (the "Closing") will take place on the date which is two (2) business days after the first date on which all conditions set forth in Article IX of the Merger Agreement have been satisfied or waived (other than those conditions that by their terms are to be satisfied at the Closing, but subject to the satisfaction and waiver thereof) or such other time and place as BowX and WeWork may mutually agree to in writing. The date on which the Closing actually occurs is referred to in the Merger Agreement as the "Closing Date." The date and time the First Merger becomes effective is referred to as the "Effective Time."

Aggregate Merger Consideration

As a result of and upon the Closing, among other things, each outstanding share of WeWork Capital Stock (as defined herein) immediately prior to the Effective Time (as defined herein) (other than the Excluded Shares) will be cancelled in exchange for the right to receive a number of shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock (as defined herein) determined by multiplying the number of shares of WeWork Capital Stock held by a holder at the Effective Time by an exchange ratio determined by dividing the total number of shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock being issued in the First Merger (655,300,000) (the "Aggregate Merger Consideration”) by the Aggregate Fully Diluted WeWork Capital Stock (as defined herein). The shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock being issued in the First Merger have a deemed value of $10.00 per share, which represents a pre-transaction equity value of WeWork of approximately $6.553 billion. For further details, see the section entitled “BCA Proposal — The Merger Agreement — Consideration and Conversion of Certain WeWork Securities — Aggregate Merger Consideration.”

Representations and Warranties

The Merger Agreement contains representations and warranties of BowX, Merger Sub and WeWork, certain of which are qualified by materiality and material adverse effect (as defined below) and may be further modified and limited by the disclosure letters. For further details, see the section entitled “BCA Proposal — The Merger Agreement — Material Adverse Effect.” The representations and warranties of BowX are also qualified by information included in BowX’s public filings, filed or submitted to the SEC on or prior to the date of the Merger Agreement (subject to certain exceptions contemplated by the Merger Agreement). The representations and warranties of WeWork are also qualified by information included in WeWork’s annual report for the year ended December 31, 2020, which annual report was made available to BowX prior to the date of the Merger Agreement. Except in the case of claims against a person in respect of such person’s actual fraud, the representations and warranties of the respective parties to the Merger Agreement generally will not survive the Closing. For further details, see the section entitled “BCA Proposal — The Merger Agreement — Representations and Warranties.”

Covenants and Agreements

WeWork has made covenants relating to, among other things, the conduct of its business prior to Closing, inspection, preparation and delivery of certain WeWork financial statements, affiliate agreements, and acquisition proposals. BowX has made covenants relating to, among other things, employee matters, trust account proceeds and related available equity, listing, non-solicitation by BowX, BowX’s conduct of business, post-closing directors and officers, domestication, indemnification and insurance, BowX public filings, PIPE Investment subscriptions and stockholder litigation, and the Second Merger. Each of BowX and WeWork will (and, to the extent required, will cause its affiliates to) promptly submit any notification required to obtain all consents, approvals and authorizations, including a filing with the COFECE. For further details, see the section entitled “BCA Proposal — The Merger Agreement — Covenants and Agreements.”

Conditions to the Closing

The consummation of the Business Combination contemplated by the Merger Agreement is subject to certain conditions, among others: (i) approval by BowX’s stockholders and by WeWork’s stockholders, (ii) BowX having at least $5,000,001 of net tangible assets as of the effective time of the consummation of the Business Combination, (iii) the expiration or termination of the waiting period under the HSR Act (which expired on May 10, 2021), (iv) the listing of the shares of BowX Class A Common Stock to be issued in connection with the Closing on the NYSE and the effectiveness of the registration statement of which this proxy statement/prospectus forms a part, (v) if a merger control filing is required by COFECE, COFECE has provided clearance of the transactions contemplated by the Merger Agreement (which was provided on July 1, 2021), and (vi) the effectiveness or execution, as applicable, of the agreements and certificates relating to the Business Combination contemplated by the Merger Agreement. For further details, see the section entitled “BCA Proposal — The Merger Agreement — Closing Conditions.”

Termination

The Merger Agreement may be terminated and the First Merger abandoned at any time prior to the Closing:

- by written consent of WeWork and BowX;
- by WeWork or BowX if any governmental order has become final and nonappealable which has the effect of making consummation of the First Merger illegal or otherwise preventing or prohibiting the First Merger;
- by WeWork or BowX if the Condition Precedent Approvals have not been obtained by reason of the failure to obtain the required vote at a meeting of BowX's stockholders duly convened therefor or at any adjournment thereof;
- by WeWork if there has been a BowX Modification in Recommendation with respect to any of the Condition Precedent Proposals;
- by BowX if there has been a WeWork Modification in Recommendation with respect to any of the Condition Precedent Proposals;
- by written notice to WeWork from BowX in the event of certain uncured breaches on the part of WeWork or if the Closing has not occurred on or before October 31, 2021, unless BowX is in material breach of the Merger Agreement; provided that the applicable date will be extended automatically once for sixty (60) days, to December 29, 2021, if all of the conditions set forth in Section 9.1, Section 9.2 and Section 9.3 of the Merger Agreement have been satisfied or waived as of October 31, 2021, other than (i) the condition, set forth above, that if a merger control filing is required by COFECE, COFECE has provided clearance of the transactions contemplated by the Merger Agreement (which was provided on July 1, 2021), and (ii) those conditions which by their terms would be satisfied at the Closing;
- by BowX, if WeWork has not obtained approval from its stockholders of the Merger Agreement and the transactions contemplated within seven business days after the Registration Statement has been declared effective by the SEC and delivered or otherwise made available to stockholders; provided however, that the right to terminate the Merger Agreement under this section will terminate upon delivery of the WeWork Stockholder Approvals to BowX.
- by written notice to BowX from WeWork in the event of certain uncured breaches on the part of BowX or Merger Sub or if the Closing has not occurred on or before October 31, 2021, unless WeWork is in material breach of the Merger Agreement, provided that the applicable date will be extended automatically once for sixty (60) days, to December 29, 2021, if all of the conditions set forth in Section 9.1, Section 9.2 and Section 9.3 of the Merger Agreement have been satisfied or waived as of October 31, 2021, other than (i) the condition, set forth above, that if a merger control filing is required by COFECE, COFECE has provided clearance of the transactions contemplated by the Merger Agreement (which was provided on July 1, 2021), and (ii) those conditions which by their terms would be satisfied at the Closing.

In the event of the termination of the Merger Agreement, the Merger Agreement will become void and have no effect, without any liability on the part of any party thereto or its respective affiliates, officers, directors or stockholders, other than liability of WeWork, BowX or Merger Sub, as the case may be, for any willful and material breach of the Merger Agreement occurring prior to such termination, and other than with respect to certain exceptions contemplated by the Merger Agreement (including the terms of the Confidentiality Agreement) that will survive any termination of the Merger Agreement.

Related Agreements

This section describes certain additional agreements entered into or to be entered into pursuant to the Merger Agreement. For additional information, see the section entitled “BCA Proposal — Related Agreements.”

WeWork Stockholder Support Agreements

On March 25, 2021, BowX entered into Stockholder Support Agreements (the “Stockholder Support Agreements”), by and among BowX, WeWork and certain stockholders of WeWork (the “Key Stockholders”). Pursuant to the Stockholder Support Agreements, the Key Stockholders agreed to, among other things, execute and deliver a written consent with respect to the outstanding shares of WeWork Capital Stock held by the Key Stockholders adopting the Merger Agreement and related transactions and approving the Business Combination (including consenting to enter into the Merger Agreement effective on March 25, 2021, for purposes of the Related Party Charter Provision, to the extent applicable. Such written consent must be delivered promptly, and in any event within forty-eight (48) hours (or, in the case of SBWW, WeWork’s largest stockholder, five (5) calendar days) after (x) the proxy statement/prospectus relating to the approval by BowX stockholders of the Business Combination is declared effective by the SEC and delivered or otherwise made available to BowX and WeWork stockholders, and (y) BowX or WeWork requests it. The shares of WeWork Common Stock and WeWork Preferred Stock that are owned by the Key Stockholders and subject to the Stockholder Support Agreements represent a majority of the outstanding voting power of WeWork Capital Stock (voting as a single class and on an as converted basis). The execution and delivery of such written consents by all of the stockholders of WeWork that have entered into Stockholder Support Agreements will constitute the WeWork stockholder approval at the time of such delivery, and no additional approval or vote from any holders of any class or series of stock of WeWork will be necessary to adopt and approve the Merger Agreement and the Business Combination. Pursuant to the Stockholder Support Agreement with SBWW, any proposed amendment of the Merger Agreement, or waiver by WeWork of the provisions therein, requires the prior written consent of SBWW, and at such time that the Merger Agreement is amended, or any provisions therein are waived by WeWork, without the consent of SBWW, the obligations of SBWW under such Stockholder Support Agreement, including obligations to approve and adopt the Mergers, expires. This consent right of SBWW continues even after it has fulfilled its obligations under the Stockholder Support Agreement.

Sponsor Support Agreement

On March 25, 2021, BowX entered into a Sponsor Support Agreement (the “Sponsor Support Agreement”), by and among Sponsor, WeWork and BowX and the persons set forth on Schedule I attached thereto (the “Sponsor Persons”), pursuant to which the Sponsor and the Sponsor Persons agreed to, among other things, (i) cause to be forfeited 3,000,000 shares of Class B common stock, par value $0.0001 per share, of BowX held by the Sponsor and certain other persons and (ii) vote at least 9,454,534 shares of Class B Common Stock in favor of the Merger Agreement and the transactions contemplated thereby, in each case, subject to the terms and conditions contemplated by the Sponsor Support Agreement.

Registration Rights Agreement

The Merger Agreement contemplates that, at the Closing, BowX, Anchor PIPE Investors, the Sponsor and certain WeWork Stockholders will enter into an Amended and Restated Registration Rights Agreement (the “Registration Rights Agreement”), pursuant to which BowX will agree to register for resale, pursuant to Rule 415 under the Securities Act, certain shares of BowX Common Stock and other equity securities of BowX that are held by the parties thereto from time to time. In certain circumstances, various parties in the Registration Rights Agreement can collectively demand up to nine underwritten offerings in any twelve-month period, collectively demand no less than six underwritten block trade offerings in any twelve-month period, and will be entitled to piggyback registration rights, in each case subject to certain limitations set forth in the Registration Rights Agreement.

PIPE Subscription Agreements

On March 25, 2021, concurrently with the execution of the Merger Agreement, BowX entered into subscription agreements (the “Subscription Agreements”) with certain existing stockholders of WeWork (the “Anchor PIPE Investors”) and the Third-Party PIPE Investors, pursuant to, and on the terms and subject to the conditions of which, the PIPE Investors have collectively subscribed for 80,000,000 shares (the “PIPE Shares”) of the New WeWork Common Stock for $10.00 per share for an aggregate purchase price equal to $800,000,000 (the “PIPE Investment”). The PIPE Investment will be consummated substantially concurrently with the Closing.

The Subscription Agreements for the PIPE Investors (other than the Anchor PIPE Investors, whose registration rights are governed by the Registration Rights Agreement) provide for certain registration rights. In particular, BowX is required to, as soon as practicable but no later than 30 calendar days following the Closing, file with the SEC a registration statement registering the resale of such shares. Additionally, BowX is required to use its commercially reasonable efforts to have the registration statement declared effective as soon as practicable after the filing thereof, but no later than the earlier of (i) the 60th calendar day (or 90th calendar day if the SEC notifies BowX that it will “review” the registration statement) following the filing date thereof or (ii) the 10th business day after the date BowX is notified (orally or in writing, whichever is earlier) by the SEC that the registration statement will not be “reviewed” or will not be subject to further review. BowX must use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the registration statement effective until the earliest of: (i) the date the PIPE Investors no longer hold any registrable shares, (ii) the date all registrable shares held by the PIPE Investors may be sold without restriction under Rule 144 under the Securities Act, and without the requirement for BowX to be in compliance with the current public information required under Rule 144(c)(1) or Rule 144(i)(2), as applicable, and (iii) three years from the date of effectiveness of the registration statement.

The Subscription Agreements include a condition that (a) there shall have been no modifications, amendments or waivers to (or consents in respect of) the Merger Agreement that would reasonably be expected to be materially adverse to the economic benefits that the PIPE Investor would reasonably expect to receive under the Subscription Agreement, unless the PIPE Investor has consented to such amendment, (b) there shall have been no amendment, modification or waiver of any other Subscription Agreement that materially benefits the other PIPE Investors thereunder unless such PIPE Investor has been offered substantially the same benefits and (c) with respect to the Anchor PIPE Investors, there shall be no amendment, waiver or modification to the investment of the Anchor PIPE Investors.

The Subscription Agreements will terminate with no further force and effect upon the earliest to occur of: (a) such date and time as the Merger Agreement is terminated in accordance with its terms; (b) the mutual written agreement of the parties to such Subscription Agreement; (c) if any of the conditions to closing set forth in such Subscription Agreement are not satisfied on or prior to the Closing and, as a result thereof, the transactions contemplated by the Subscription Agreement fail to occur; or (d) the Agreement End Date.

BowX is relying on the exemption under Section 4(a)(2) of the Securities Act for the issuance of the PIPE Shares to the PIPE Investors in the PIPE Investment. Pursuant to the Subscription Agreements, each PIPE Investor represented and warranted that it is either a “qualified institutional buyer” or an “accredited investor” as defined in the applicable SEC regulations.

Lock-Up Agreement

In connection with the Business Combination, the Sponsor, certain of BowX’s officers and certain of WeWork’s officers and stockholders entered into the Lock-Up Agreements pursuant to which they agreed not to (a) sell or otherwise dispose of, or agree to sell or dispose of, directly or indirectly, any shares of New WeWork Common Stock held by such persons immediately after the Closing (the “Lock-Up Shares”), (b) enter into any swap or other arrangement that transfers to another, in whole or in part, any of the economic consequences of ownership of any of such Lock-Up Shares, or (c) publicly announce any intention to effect any transaction specified in clause (a) or (b), for the duration of the applicable Lock-Up Period. For additional information, see the section entitled “BCA Proposal—Related Agreements—Lock-Up Agreement.”

Credit Support Letter

On March 25, 2021, WeWork Companies LLC, the SoftBank Obligor, and BowX entered into the Credit Support Letter Agreement, pursuant to which the SoftBank Obligor commits to consent to an extension of the termination date of the 2020 LC Facility from February 10, 2023, to no later than February 10, 2024, (the “LC Facility Termination Extension”), subject to the terms and conditions set forth therein. Any extension of the termination date of the 2020 LC Facility will require the requisite consent of the lenders thereunder.

Commitment Letter for Secured Notes

Concurrently with the execution of the Merger Agreement, StarBright WW LP, an affiliate of SBG (the “Note Purchaser”) executed and delivered to BowX and WeWork Companies LLC a letter agreement (the “Commitment Letter”) regarding the SoftBank Senior Secured Notes. Pursuant to the Commitment Letter, WeWork Companies LLC, WW Co-Obligor Inc. and the Note Purchaser agreed to amend the terms of the senior secured purchase agreement, to provide for up to $550 million of 7.50% senior secured notes to be issued by WeWork Companies LLC and purchased by the Note Purchaser (the “Amended Senior Secured Notes”). The Amended Senior Secured Notes will be documented in an Amended and Restated Note Purchase Agreement (the “A&R NPA”) by and among WeWork Companies LLC, WW Co-Obligor Inc. and the Note Purchaser. The parties will enter into the A&R NPA upon the earlier to occur of (a) the date of the Closing and (b) August 12, 2021. The Amended Senior Secured Notes will mature on the earlier to occur of: (a) 18 months from the date of the Closing; or (b) February 12, 2023.

Stockholders Agreement

The Merger Agreement contemplates that, at the Closing, BowX, the Sponsor, SBWW, SVFE and certain other holders of BowX Common Stock will enter into a Stockholders Agreement (the “Stockholders Agreement,” the form of which is attached to this proxy statement/prospectus as Annex G), pursuant to which, so long as such holders of BowX Common Stock continue to hold a specified amount of BowX Common Stock, then such holder will have the right to designate for nomination by the board of directors the number of candidates for election to the board of directors specified in the Stockholders Agreement. For additional information, see the section entitled “BCA Proposal—Related Agreements— Stockholders Agreement.”

Warrants

Concurrently with and contingent upon the Closing, BowX will issue to SBWW or its designees the First Warrant to purchase a number of shares of BowX Common Stock (rounded to the nearest whole share) equal to 47,366,404 multiplied by the Exchange Ratio, subject to the terms set forth therein, at a price per share equal to $0.01 divided by the Exchange Ratio (rounded to the nearest full cent). The First Warrant will expire on the tenth anniversary of the Closing. Although the First Warrant will be issued by BowX, solely for purposes of calculating the Exchange Ratio used in the Business Combination, the First Warrant is treated in the same manner as a hypothetical outstanding warrant to purchase 47,366,404 shares of WeWork Class A Common Stock at an exercise price of $0.01 per share.

The First Warrant issued to SBWW is an inducement to obtain SBWW’s, and its affiliates’, support in effectuating the automatic conversion of WeWork Preferred Stock on a one-to-one basis to WeWork Common Stock. At the Exchange Ratio, the First Warrant will enable SBWW to purchase 39,115,176 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock. Assuming a price of $10 per share, the First Warrant will have an estimated fair value of approximately $391.2 million. A copy of the form of First Warrant is attached as Exhibit 10.19 to this proxy statement/prospectus.

Additionally, concurrently with and contingent upon the LC Facility Termination Extension, BowX will issue to the SoftBank Obligor or its designees the LC Warrant to purchase a number of shares of BowX Common Stock (rounded to the nearest whole share) equal to 14,431,991 multiplied by the Exchange Ratio, subject to the terms set forth therein, at a price per share equal to $0.01 divided by the Exchange Ratio (rounded to the nearest full cent). The LC Warrant would expire on the tenth anniversary of the date of issuance.

The LC Warrant issued to Softbank Obligor as consideration for the Softbank Obligor agreeing to continue to act as co-obligor under WeWork’s existing LC Facility for the extension period of one year. At the Exchange Ratio, the LC Warrant will enable Softbank Obligor to purchase 11,917,938 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock. Assuming a price of $10 per share, the LC Warrant will have an estimated fair value of approximately $119.2 million. The Company will record the estimated fair value of the LC Warrant as a deferred asset (guarantee premium), which will be amortized to interest expense over the amended term of the letter of credit facility, in a comparable fashion to a commitment or access fee paid to obtain a revolving credit arrangement. A copy of the form of LC Warrant is attached as Exhibit 10.20 to this proxy statement/prospectus.

Ownership of New WeWork following the Business Combination

As of the date of this proxy statement/prospectus, there are 48,300,000 shares of BowX Class A Common Stock issued and outstanding, and 12,075,000 shares of BowX Class B Common Stock issued and outstanding. As of the date of this proxy statement/prospectus, there is outstanding an aggregate of 23,873,333 warrants, which includes the 7,773,333 private placement warrants and the 16,100,000 public warrants. Each whole warrant entitles the holder thereof to purchase one share of BowX Class A Common Stock and, following the Business Combination, will entitle the holder thereof to purchase one share of New WeWork Common Stock.

It is anticipated that, based on the assumptions set forth below, upon the consummation of the Business Combination, the ownership of New WeWork will be as follows:

|--|--|----------------------------------|-----------------------------|----------------------------------|
| | No Additional Redemptions | | Assuming Maximum Redemption | |
| | Number of Shares | Percentage of Outstanding Shares | Number of Shares | Percentage of Outstanding Shares |
| WeWork Stockholders | 655,300,000 | 82.7% | 655,300,000 | 87.4% |
| Initial Stockholders | 9,075,000 | 1.1% | 9,075,000 | 1.2% |
| BowX’s Public Stockholders (excluding PIPE Shares) | 48,300,000 | 6.1% | 5,068,902 | 0.7% |
| PIPE Investors | 80,000,000 | 10.1% | 80,000,000 | 10.7% |

(1) The figures in this table are presented only as illustrative examples and are based on the scenarios described below, which may be different from the actual amount of redemptions in connection with the Business Combination. In the event that shares of BowX Class A Common Stock are redeemed in connection with the Business Combination but the number of shares redeemed is less than 43,231,098, the ownership percentages set forth above will fall in between the two scenarios. For example, if we assume that the number of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock redeemed in connection with the Business Combination total 21,615,549, BowX public stockholders will hold a total of 26,684,451 shares of New WeWork Common Stock at Closing, representing a 3.5% ownership interest.

The numbers of shares of “New WeWork Common Stock Assuming No Redemption” set forth above assumes that no public stockholders elect to have their public stock redeemed, and the numbers of shares of “New WeWork Common Stock Assuming Maximum Redemption” set forth above assumes that 43,231,098 shares of public stock are redeemed.

These numbers and percentages assume (i) (a) the vesting of all shares of New WeWork Common Stock received in respect of the New WeWork Restricted Stock Awards, (b) the vesting and exercise of all in-the-money New WeWork Options for shares of New WeWork Common Stock, (c) the vesting of all New WeWork Restricted Stock Units and the issuance of shares of New WeWork Common Stock in respect thereof, (d) the vesting and net exercise of all in-the-money warrants, and (e) that New WeWork issues shares of New WeWork Common Stock as the Aggregate Merger Consideration pursuant to the Merger Agreement, which in the aggregate equals 655,300,000 shares of New WeWork Common Stock (assuming that all New WeWork Options are net-settled) and (ii) that New WeWork issues 80,000,000 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock to the PIPE Investors pursuant to the PIPE Investment. Shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock underlying or exchangeable for out-of-the-money stock options and warrants are not included in these numbers and percentages (or in the calculation of the Aggregate Merger Consideration). These numbers and percentages do not include both the number of shares of New WeWork Class C Common Stock and the number of related shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock. In addition, the numbers of shares and percentage interests set forth above do not take into account certain potential future exercises of warrants or grants or issuances pursuant to the equity incentive plan established to be effective after the Closing, or any other equity issuances of New WeWork. See the section entitled “Risk Factors – Public stockholders will experience immediate dilution as a consequence of the issuance of New WeWork Common Stock as consideration in the Business Combination and the PIPE Investment and due to future issuances pursuant to the 2021 Plan, the First Warrant, the LC Warrant and the exercise of public warrants and private warrants. Having a minority stock ownership position may reduce the influence that BowX’s current stockholders have on the management of New WeWork.” See the section entitled “Description of BowX Securities – Redeemable Warrants.”

If the actual facts are different from these assumptions, the percentage ownership retained by the Company’s existing stockholders in the combined company will be different. For example, if we assume that all of the 16,100,000 public warrants and 7,773,333 private placement warrants that will remain outstanding post-Business Combination were exercisable and exercised following completion of the Business Combination in accordance with their terms, then the anticipated ownership of New WeWork at the Closing would be as follows:

|--|--|----------------------------------|-----------------------------|----------------------------------|
| | No Additional Redemptions | | Assuming Maximum Redemption | |
| | Number of Shares | Percentage of Outstanding Shares | Number of Shares | Percentage of Outstanding Shares |
| WeWork Stockholders | 655,300,000 | 80.3% | 655,300,000 | 84.7% |
| Initial Stockholders | 16,848,333 | 2.1% | 16,848,333 | 2.2% |
| BowX’s Public Stockholders (excluding PIPE Shares) | 64,400,000 | 7.9% | 21,168,902 | 2.7% |
| PIPE Investors | 80,000,000 | 9.8% | 80,000,000 | 10.3% |
| Total | 816,548,333 | 100% | 773,317,235 | 100% |

(1) The figures in this table are presented only as illustrative examples and are based on the scenarios described below, which may be different from the actual amount of redemptions in connection with the Business Combination. In the event that shares of BowX Class A Common Stock are redeemed in connection with the Business Combination but the number of shares redeemed is less than 43,231,098, the ownership percentages set forth above will fall in between the two scenarios. For example, if we assume that the number of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock redeemed in connection with the Business Combination total 21,615,549, BowX public stockholders will hold a total of 42,784,451 shares of New WeWork Common Stock at Closing, representing a 5.4% ownership interest.

Proposals to be Put to the Stockholders of BowX at the Special Meeting

At the special meeting, the BowX stockholders will be asked to separately approve the following proposals:

- The BCA Proposal—a proposal to approve and adopt the Merger Agreement and the Business Combination;

- The Organizational Documents Proposals – four proposals to amend BowX’s Existing Charter:
 - Organizational Documents Proposal A — to authorize the change in the authorized capital stock of BowX from 87,500,000 shares of Class A common stock, par value $0.0001 per share (the “BowX Class A Common Stock”), 12,500,000 shares of Class B common stock, par value $0.0001 per share, and 1,000,000 shares of preferred stock, par value $0.0001, to 1,500,000,000 shares of Class A common stock, par value $0.0001 per share, of New WeWork (the “New WeWork Class A Common Stock”), 25,041,666 shares of Class C common stock, par value $0.0001 per share, of New WeWork (the “New WeWork Class C Common Stock” and, together with the WeWork Class A Common Stock, the “New WeWork Common Stock”), and (c) 100,000,000 shares of preferred stock, $0.0001 per share, of New WeWork (the “New WeWork Preferred Stock” and, together with the New WeWork Common Stock, the “New WeWork Capital Stock”). Further, to authorize the New WeWork Class C Common Stock as a non-economic voting security without rights to dividends or on liquidation;
 - Organizational Documents Proposal B — with respect to any vote or election submitted to the holders of shares of New WeWork Capital Stock for approval, to restrict the SoftBank Holders (as defined herein), for a period of at least two years, from exercising voting rights over more than 49.9% of the voting securities present (in person or by proxy) and voting at any such meeting of the stockholders;
 - Organizational Documents Proposal C — to provide for only one class of board of directors and direct that board vacancies be filled by the majority of directors then in office, unless specified otherwise in the Stockholders Agreement (as defined below); and
 - Organizational Documents Proposal D — to approve and adopt the additional changes in the Proposed Charter, including changing BowX’s name from “BowX Acquisition Corp.” to “WeWork Inc.,” which our board of directors believes are necessary to adequately address the needs of New WeWork immediately following the consummation of the Business Combination and approval of the Proposed Charter;
- The Director Election Proposal — a proposal to approve the election of nine directors, who, upon consummation of the Business Combination, will be the directors of New WeWork;
- The Stock Issuance Proposal — a proposal to approve, for purposes of complying with applicable listing rules of Nasdaq, the issuance of (a) shares of BowX Class A Common Stock to the PIPE Investors pursuant to the PIPE Investment and (b) shares of New WeWork Common Stock to the WeWork Stockholders pursuant to the Merger Agreement;
- The Equity Incentive Plan Proposal — a proposal to approve and adopt the 2021 Plan;
- The ESPP Proposal — a proposal to approve and adopt the ESPP; and
- The Adjournment Proposal—a proposal to approve the adjournment of the special meeting to a later date or dates, if necessary, to permit further solicitation and vote of proxies in the event that there are insufficient votes for the approval of one or more proposals at the special meeting.

If BowX’s stockholders do not approve each of the Condition Precedent Proposals, then unless certain conditions in the Merger Agreement are waived by the applicable parties to the Merger Agreement, the Merger Agreement could terminate and the Business Combination may not be consummated. The applicable parties to the Merger Agreement would not be able to waive Organizational Documents Proposals A or D and still complete the Merger on the terms contemplated by the Merger Agreement because there will not be a sufficient number of authorized shares of capital stock of BowX to issue the shares required to be issued in the Merger if Organizational Documents Proposal A is not approved. See the sections entitled “BCA Proposal,” “Organizational Documents Proposals,” “Director Election Proposal,” “Stock Issuance Proposal,” “Equity Incentive Plan Proposal,” “ESPP Proposal” and “Adjournment Proposal.”

Date, Time and Place of Special Meeting of BowX's Stockholders

The special meeting of the stockholders of BowX will be held at 11:00 a.m., Eastern Time, on October 19, 2021, virtually via live webcast at <https://www.cstproxy.com/bowxacquisitioncorp/sm2021>, to consider and vote upon the proposals to be put to the special meeting, including if necessary, the Adjournment Proposal, to permit further solicitation and vote of proxies if, based upon the tabulated vote at the time of the special meeting, each of the Condition Precedent Proposals have not been approved.

Voting Power; Record Date

BowX stockholders will be entitled to vote or direct votes to be cast at the special meeting if they owned BowX Common Stock at the close of business on September 14, 2021, which is the "record date" for the special meeting. Stockholders will have one vote for each share of BowX Common Stock owned at the close of business on the record date. If your stock is held in "street name" or are in a margin or similar account, you should contact your broker to ensure that votes related to the stock you beneficially own are properly counted. Warrants do not have voting rights. As of the close of business on the record date, there were 48,300,000 shares of BowX Class A Common Stock issued and outstanding and 12,075,000 shares of BowX Class B Common Stock issued and outstanding.

Quorum and Vote of BowX Stockholders

A quorum of BowX stockholders is necessary to hold a valid meeting. A quorum will be present at the BowX special meeting if a majority of the issued and outstanding shares of BowX Common Stock entitled to vote at the special meeting are attending virtually or by proxy. As of the record date for the special meeting, 30,187,501 shares of BowX Common Stock would be required to achieve a quorum.

The Sponsor has agreed to vote all of its BowX Common Stock in favor of the proposals being presented at the special meeting. As of the date of this proxy statement/prospectus, the initial stockholders, including the Sponsor, and the directors and officers own approximately 18.6% of the issued and outstanding BowX Common Stock.

The proposals presented at the special meeting require the following votes:

- (i) BCA Proposal: The approval of the BCA Proposal requires the affirmative vote of a majority of the shares of BowX Common Stock attending virtually or by proxy and entitled to vote thereon at the special meeting.
- (ii) Organizational Documents Proposals: The separate approval of each of the Organizational Documents Proposals (other than Organizational Documents Proposals A and D) requires the affirmative vote of a majority of the outstanding shares of BowX Common Stock. The approval of Organizational Documents Proposals A and D will require the affirmative vote of the holders of a majority of the outstanding shares of BowX Class A Common Stock on the record date and the affirmative vote of the holders of a majority of the outstanding shares of Class B Common Stock on the record date.
- (iii) Director Election Proposal: The approval of the Director Election Proposal requires the affirmative vote of the plurality of the outstanding shares of BowX Common Stock attending virtually or by proxy and who vote thereon at the special meeting. Because the Director Election Proposal is an uncontested election with no cumulative voting, every director nominee will be assured election upon receiving just one "for" vote.
- (iv) Stock Issuance Proposal: The approval of the Stock Issuance Proposal requires the affirmative vote of a majority of the shares of BowX Common Stock attending virtually or by proxy and entitled to vote and who vote thereon at the special meeting.
- (v) Equity Incentive Plan Proposal: The approval of the Equity Incentive Plan Proposal requires the affirmative vote of a majority of the shares of BowX Common Stock attending virtually or by proxy and entitled to vote and who vote thereon at the special meeting.

(vi) ESPP Proposal: The approval of the ESPP Proposal requires the affirmative vote of a majority of the shares of BowX Common Stock attending virtually or by proxy and entitled to vote and who vote thereon at the special meeting.

(vii) Adjournment Proposal: The approval of the Adjournment Proposal requires the affirmative vote of a majority of the shares of BowX Common Stock attending virtually or by proxy and entitled to vote thereon at the special meeting.

Redemption Rights

Pursuant to the Organizational Documents, a public stockholder may request of BowX that BowX redeem all or a portion of its public stock for cash if the Business Combination is consummated. As a holder of public stock, you will be entitled to receive cash for any public stock to be redeemed only if you:

- (a) hold public stock or (b) if you hold public stock through units, you elect to separate your units into the underlying public stock and public warrants prior to exercising your redemption rights with respect to the public stock;
- submit a written request to Continental, that BowX redeem all or a portion of your public stock for cash; and
- deliver your public stock to Continental physically or electronically through DTC.

Holders must complete the procedures for electing to redeem their public stock in the manner described above prior to 5:00 p.m., Eastern Time, on October 15, 2021, (two business days before the special meeting) in order for their stock to be redeemed. BowX requests that any request for redemption include the identity as to the beneficial owner making such request. Electronic delivery of your stock generally will be faster than delivery of physical stock certificates.

Holders of units must elect to separate the units into the underlying public stock and public warrants prior to exercising redemption rights with respect to the public stock. If holders hold their units in an account at a brokerage firm or bank, holders must notify their broker or bank that they elect to separate the units into the underlying public stock and public warrants, or if a holder holds units registered in its own name, the holder must contact Continental directly and instruct them to do so.

Public stockholders will be entitled to request that their public stock be redeemed for a pro rata portion of the amount then on deposit in the trust account calculated as of two business days prior to the consummation of the Business Combination including interest earned on the funds held in the trust account and not previously released to us (net of taxes payable). For illustrative purposes, based on funds in the trust account as of June 30, 2021, of approximately $483.1 million, the estimated per share redemption price would have been approximately $10.00. However, the proceeds deposited in the trust account could become subject to the claims of BowX's creditors, if any, which could have priority over the claims of the public stockholders, regardless of whether such public stockholder votes or, if they do vote, irrespective of if they vote for or against the BCA Proposal. Therefore, the per share distribution from the trust account in such a situation may be less than originally expected due to such claims. Whether you vote, and if you do vote irrespective of how you vote, on any proposal, including the BCA Proposal, will have no impact on the amount you will receive upon exercise of your redemption rights. It is expected that the funds to be distributed to public stockholders electing to redeem their public stock will be distributed promptly after the consummation of the Business Combination.

Any request for redemption, once made by a holder of public stock, may be withdrawn at any time, with BowX's consent, up to the time the vote is taken with respect to the BCA Proposal at the special meeting. If you deliver your shares for redemption to Continental and later decide prior to the special meeting not to elect redemption, you may request that BowX's transfer agent return the shares (physically or electronically) to you. You may make such request by contacting Continental, BowX's transfer agent, at the phone number or address listed at the end of this section.

Any corrected or changed written exercise of redemption rights must be received by Continental, BowX's transfer agent, prior to the vote taken on the BCA Proposal at the special meeting. No request for redemption will be honored unless the holder's public stock have been delivered (either physically or electronically) to Continental, at least two business days prior to the vote at the special meeting.

If a holder of public stock properly makes a request for redemption and the public stock are delivered as described above, then, if the Business Combination is consummated, New WeWork will redeem the public stock for a pro rata portion of funds deposited in the trust account, calculated as of two business days prior to the consummation of the Business Combination. The redemption will take place following the Business Combination and, accordingly, it is shares of New WeWork Common Stock that will be redeemed.

If you are a holder of public stock and you exercise your redemption rights, such exercise will not result in the loss of any warrants that you may hold. Holders of the warrants will not have redemption rights with respect to the warrants.

Appraisal Rights

Neither BowX stockholders nor Warrant holders have appraisal rights in connection with the Business Combination.

Proxy Solicitation

Proxies may be solicited by mail, telephone or in person. BowX has engaged Morrow to assist in the solicitation of proxies.

If a stockholder grants a proxy, it may still vote its stock at the meeting if it revokes its proxy before the special meeting. A stockholder also may change its vote by submitting a later-dated proxy as described in the section entitled "Special Meeting of BowX — Revoking Your Proxy."

Interests of BowX's Directors and Executive Officers in the Business Combination

When you consider the recommendation of BowX's board of directors in favor of approval of the BCA Proposal, you should keep in mind that the initial stockholders, including the Sponsor, and BowX's directors and executive officers have interests in such proposal that are different from, or in addition to, those of BowX stockholders and warrant holders generally. These interests include, among other things, the interests listed below:

- the beneficial ownership of our initial stockholders of an aggregate of 12,075,000 shares of BowX Class B Common Stock and 7,773,000 private placement warrants, which shares and warrants would become worthless if BowX does not complete a business combination within the applicable time period, as our initial stockholders have waived any redemption right with respect to these shares. Our initial stockholders paid an aggregate of $25,000 for the BowX Class B Common Stock, and $11,660,000 for the private placement warrants, and such shares and warrants have an aggregate market value of approximately $120 million and $12.83 million, respectively, based on the closing price of BowX Class A Common Stock of $9.94 and the closing price of public warrants of $1.65 on Nasdaq on September 14, 2021, the record date for the special meeting of stockholders. Each of our officers and directors is a member of the Sponsor. Vivek Ranadivé and Murray Rode are the managing members of the Sponsor, and as such Messrs. Ranadivé and Rode have voting and investment discretion with respect to the BowX Common Stock and warrants held of record by the Sponsor;
- the anticipated continuation of Mr. Ranadivé as a director of New WeWork;
- the fact that our Sponsor, officers and directors have agreed not to redeem any of their shares in connection with a stockholder vote to approve the Business Combination;

- the fact that our initial stockholders, including our Sponsor, and our directors and officers, paid an aggregate of approximately $11,660,000 for their 7,773,333 private placement warrants to purchase shares of BowX Class A Common Stock and that such private placement warrants will expire worthless if a business combination is not consummated by August 7, 2022;
- the fact that our initial stockholders, including our Sponsor and its affiliates, who purchased Class B Common Stock and private placement warrants at the time of our IPO may experience a positive rate of return on their investment, even if our public shareholders experience a negative rate of return on their investment;
- that, at the Closing, we will enter into the Registration Rights Agreement, which provides for registration rights to the initial stockholders, including the Sponsor, and BowX's directors and officers and their permitted transferees;
- the continued indemnification of current directors and officers of BowX and the continuation of directors' and officers' liability insurance after the Business Combination;
- the fact that our Sponsor, officers and directors will be reimbursed for out-of-pocket expenses incurred in connection with activities on our behalf, such as identifying potential target businesses and performing due diligence on suitable business combinations, though there have been no material out-of-pocket expenses subject to reimbursement and BowX does not anticipate any such expenses prior to Closing; and
- the fact that our Sponsor, officers and directors will lose their entire investment in us if our initial business combination is not completed.

These interests may influence BowX's directors in making their recommendation that you vote in favor of the BCA Proposal and the transactions contemplated thereby. These interests were considered by the BowX board of directors when it approved the Business Combination.

The existence of financial and personal interests of one or more of BowX's directors may result in a conflict of interest on the part of such director(s) between what he, she or they may believe is in the best interests of BowX and its stockholders and what he, she or they may believe is best for himself, herself or themselves in determining to recommend that stockholders vote for the proposals. In addition, BowX's officers have interests in the Business Combination that may conflict with your interests as a stockholder.

Interests of WeWork's Executive Officers in the Business Combination

Certain of the officers of WeWork also have interests in the Business Combination, including eligibility for and entitlement to certain transaction bonuses and the commencement of vesting of certain equity awards.

WeWork previously established certain bonus arrangements that would result in payment(s) in connection with a qualifying capital raise and/or the public listing of WeWork. Upon the consummation of the Business Combination, Sandeep Mathrani, WeWork's Chief Executive Officer, will be entitled to a payment of $10.0 million subject to repayment obligations that provide that the full after-tax amount of the payment must be repaid if Mr. Mathrani resigns without good reason or is terminated for cause on or prior to January 31, 2022, and 50% of such after-tax amount must be repaid in the event of such a termination after January 31, 2022, but on or before January 31, 2023. In addition, the following bonus amounts have been allocated to WeWork's other executive officers: Anthony Yazbeck ($2.0 million), Ben Dunham ($1.5 million), Jared DeMatteis ($1.5 million), Lauren Fritts ($1.0 million), Peter Greenspan ($1.0 million), Hamid Hashemi ($750,000), Scott Morey ($300,000), Maral Kazanjian ($250,000) and Roger Solé Rafols ($250,000). These amounts are subject to the same repayment obligations as are described above with respect to the payment to Mr. Mathrani, but are target amounts only and may be adjusted up or down in the sole discretion of Mr. Mathrani (subject to an aggregate cap of $11.5 million). In connection with his promotion to President & Chief Operating Officer, Anthony Yazbeck also received a one-time bonus of GBP 1.44 million which will be payable within 30 days following the consummation of the Business Combination subject to his employment through the payment date.

WeWork's executive officers also hold certain WeWork Restricted Stock Unit Awards which have, as a condition to vesting, the satisfaction of a liquidity event condition in addition to service- and/or performance-based vesting requirements. The consummation of the Business Combination will satisfy the liquidity event condition for those WeWork Restricted Stock Unit Awards. As of July 15, 2021, an aggregate of 4,347,818 such restricted stock units (assuming performance metrics are achieved at the maximum level and not reflecting adjustments in connection with the Business Combination) were held by executive officers, 8,863 of which will be fully vested upon the consummation of the Business Combination, with the remainder remaining subject to additional service- and/or performance-based vesting requirements.

Recommendation to Stockholders of BowX

BowX's board of directors believes that the BCA Proposal and the other proposals to be presented at the special meeting are in the best interest of BowX's stockholders and unanimously recommends that its stockholders vote "FOR" the BCA Proposal, "FOR" the Stock Issuance Proposal, "FOR" each of the separate Organizational Documents Proposals, "FOR" the Director Election Proposal, "FOR" the Equity Incentive Plan Proposal, "FOR" the ESPP Proposal and "FOR" the Adjournment Proposal, in each case, if presented to the special meeting.

The existence of financial and personal interests of one or more of BowX's directors may result in a conflict of interest on the part of such director(s) between what he, she or they may believe is in the best interests of BowX and its stockholders and what he, she or they may believe is best for himself, herself or themselves in determining to recommend that stockholders vote for the proposals. In addition, BowX's officers have interests in the Business Combination that may conflict with your interests as a stockholder. See the section entitled "BCA Proposal — Interests of BowX's Directors and Executive Officers in the Business Combination" for a further discussion of these considerations.

BowX's Board of Directors' Reasons for the Business Combination

BowX was organized effecting a merger, share exchange, asset acquisition, stock purchase, reorganization or similar business combination with one or more businesses or entities.

In evaluating the Business Combination, the BowX board of directors consulted with BowX's management and considered a number of factors. In particular, the BowX board of directors considered, among other things, the following factors, although not weighted or in any order of significance:

- The WeWork Business. The following factors related to WeWork and its business and operations:
 - Large and Growing Addressable Market. WeWork has an opportunity to grow flexible workspace market share in the multi-trillion-dollar commercial real estate market. As we believe the fallout from the COVID-19 pandemic continues to accelerate the shift away from traditional office space, information reviewed by the BowX board of directors suggested that flexible workspaces could potentially represent up to 22.2% of the U.S. office real-estate market by 2030, positioning WeWork for substantial revenue growth, even assuming WeWork's market share of the flexible workspace market share remains constant. WeWork also plans to continue to diversify across geographies, while maintaining a strong presence in the United States.

- Portfolio of Product Offerings. WeWork offers solutions for companies of all sizes. WeWork’s broad product offerings include WeWork On Demand, which provides users pay-as-you-go access to book individual workspace or conference rooms at nearby WeWork locations; WeWork All Access, a monthly subscription-based model that provides members with access to participating WeWork locations; and a marketplace offering that provides business and technical service solutions, including professional employer organization (“PEO”) and payroll services, remote workforce solutions, human resources benefits, dedicated bandwidth, and IT equipment co-location.
- Platform Business Opportunity. WeWork is currently developing a platform that would leverage its systems and established global customer base to offer landlords and operators the ability to power and manage flexible spaces in their portfolio.
- Experienced and Proven Management Team. WeWork’s management team has decades of public market experience and has demonstrated proven results within their first 12 months at WeWork. WeWork’s management team is led by Executive Chairman Marcelo Claure and Chief Executive Officer Sandeep Mathrani, who joined WeWork in February 2020. Under their leadership, WeWork has refocused on its core business model and applied a disciplined approach to costs. The BowX board of directors considered that WeWork’s executives will continue with the combined company following the Business Combination. For additional information regarding WeWork’s executive officers, see the section entitled “Management of New WeWork Following the Business Combination — Executive Officers.”
- Attractive Initial Valuation. WeWork will have an anticipated initial pre-transaction enterprise value of $8.8 billion.
- Results of Due Diligence. The results of a due diligence investigation conducted by BowX’s management team and outside advisors from February 22, 2021 to March 23, 2021, such investigation including:
 - extensive virtual meetings and calls with WeWork’s management team regarding its operations, business plan and the proposed transaction; and
 - review of materials related to WeWork and its business, made available by WeWork and deemed appropriate for review in the context of the size of the transaction and the scope of WeWork’s operations, including financial statements, material contracts, key metrics and performance
 - indicators, benefit plans, employee compensation and labor matters, intellectual property matters, real property matters, information technology, privacy and personal data, litigation information, environmental matters and other regulatory and compliance matters and other legal and business information.
- Continued Ownership By Current WeWork Stockholders. WeWork’s existing equityholders would be receiving a significant amount of BowX’s common stock as its consideration and 100% of the existing equityholders of WeWork are “rolling over” their existing equity interests into equity interests in WeWork, which would represent approximately 82.4% of the pro forma ownership of the combined company after Closing, after giving effect to the PIPE Investment and assuming none of BowX’s current public shareholders exercise their redemption rights in connection with the Business Combination. See the section entitled “BCA Proposal—Ownership of New WeWork After the Closing.”
- Stockholder Liquidity. The obligation in the Merger Agreement to have the BowX Class A Common Stock issued as merger consideration listed on a major U.S. stock exchange, which the BowX board of directors believes has the potential to offer BowX stockholders greater liquidity.
- PIPE Investment. Certain third parties, including top-tier institutional investors, are investing an additional $800 million in the combined company pursuant to their participation in the PIPE

Investment. The BowX board of directors considered this a strong sign of confidence in WeWork following the Business Combination and the benefits expected to be realized as a result of the Business Combination.

- Use of Proceeds. The proceeds to be delivered to the combined company in connection with the Business Combination (including from BowX's trust account and from the PIPE Investment) are expected to be used after Closing in order to fund WeWork's existing operations and support new and existing growth initiatives.
- Terms of the Merger Agreement. The terms of the Merger Agreement and the related agreements including the parties' conditions to their respective obligations to complete the transactions contemplated therein and their ability to terminate such agreements. See the section entitled "BCA Proposal" for detailed discussions of the terms and conditions of these agreements.
- Other Alternatives. The determination that the proposed Business Combination, after a thorough review of other business combination opportunities reasonably available to BowX, represents the best potential business combination for BowX. No opportunity came to the attention of any member of BowX's management or Board of Directors in his or her personal capacity, which impacted BowX's search for an acquisition target.

This explanation of the BowX board of directors' reasons for its approval of the Business Combination, and all other information presented in this section, is forward-looking in nature and, therefore, should be read in light of the factors discussed under the section entitled "Cautionary Statement Regarding Forward-Looking Statements."

For a more complete description of the BowX board of directors' reasons for approving the Business Combination, including other factors and risks considered by the BowX board of directors, see the section entitled "BCA Proposal — BowX's Board of Directors' Reasons for the Business Combination."

For a discussion summarizing the U.S. federal income tax considerations of the Mergers for WeWork Stockholders, please see the section entitled "U.S. Federal Income Tax Consequences of the Mergers for WeWork Stockholders."

Expected Accounting Treatment

We expect the Business Combination to be accounted for as a reverse recapitalization in accordance with the accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America ("GAAP"). Under the guidance in ASC 805, BowX is expected to be treated as the "acquired" company for financial reporting purposes. This determination was primarily based on existing WeWork Stockholders comprising a relative majority of the voting power of the combined company, WeWork's operations prior to the acquisition comprising the only ongoing operations of New WeWork, the majority of New WeWork's board of directors being appointed by WeWork, and WeWork's senior management comprising a majority of the senior management of New WeWork. Accordingly, the Business Combination is expected to be reflected as the equivalent of WeWork issuing stock for the net assets of BowX, accompanied by a recapitalization whereby no goodwill or other intangible assets are recorded. Operations prior to the Business Combination will be those of WeWork.

Regulatory Matters

Under the HSR Act and the rules that have been promulgated thereunder, certain transactions may not be consummated unless information has been furnished to the Antitrust Division of the Department of Justice (“Antitrust Division”) and the Federal Trade Commission (“FTC”) and certain waiting period requirements have been satisfied. The Business Combination is subject to these requirements and may not be completed until the expiration of a 30-day waiting period following the two filings of the required Notification and Report Forms with the Antitrust Division and the FTC or until early termination is granted. On April 8, 2021, the parties both filed their respective required forms under the HSR Act with respect to the Business Combination with the Antitrust Division and the FTC and requested early termination. The waiting period expired at 11:59 p.m. (ET) on May 10, 2021.

At any time before or after consummation of the Transaction, notwithstanding termination of the respective waiting periods under the HSR Act, the Department of Justice or the FTC, or any state or foreign governmental authority could take such action under applicable antitrust laws as such authority deems necessary or desirable in the public interest, including seeking to enjoin the consummation of the Business Combination, conditionally approving the Business Combination upon divestiture of assets, subjecting the completion of the Business Combination to regulatory conditions or seeking other remedies. Private parties may also seek to take legal action under the antitrust laws under certain circumstances. BowX and WeWork cannot assure you that the Antitrust Division, the FTC, any state attorney general or any other government authority will not attempt to challenge the Business Combination on antitrust grounds, and, if such a challenge is made, BowX and WeWork cannot assure you as to its result.

A merger control filing may be required in Mexico by COFECE. WeWork submitted a filing to COFECE, jointly with BowX, on April 29, 2021. The filing would be withdrawn if COFECE takes the position that it is not required.

Neither of BowX nor WeWork are aware of any material regulatory approvals or actions that are required for completion of the Business Combination other than the expiration or early termination of the waiting period under the HSR Act and the filing to COFECE. It is presently contemplated that if any such additional regulatory approvals or actions are required, those approvals or actions will be sought. There can be no assurance, however, that any additional approvals or actions will be obtained.

Emerging Growth Company

BowX is an “emerging growth company,” as defined in Section 2(a) of the Securities Act, as modified by the JOBS Act, and it may take advantage of certain exemptions from various reporting requirements that are applicable to other public companies that are not emerging growth companies, including, but not limited to, not being required to comply with the auditor attestation requirements of Section 404 of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act, reduced disclosure obligations regarding executive compensation in BowX’s periodic reports and proxy statements, and exemptions from the requirements of holding a nonbinding advisory vote on executive compensation and stockholder approval of any golden parachute payments not previously approved.

Further, section 102(b)(1) of the JOBS Act exempts emerging growth companies from being required to comply with new or revised financial accounting standards until private companies (that is, those that have not had a Securities Act registration statement declared effective or do not have a class of securities registered under the Exchange Act) are required to comply with the new or revised financial accounting standards. The JOBS Act provides that a company can elect to opt out of the extended transition period and comply with the requirements that apply to non-emerging growth companies but any such election to opt out is irrevocable. BowX has elected not to opt out of such extended transition period, which means that when a standard is issued or revised and it has different application dates for public or private companies, BowX, as an emerging growth company, can adopt the new or revised standard at the time private companies adopt the new or revised standard. This may make comparison of BowX's financial statements with certain other public companies difficult or impossible because of the potential differences in accounting standards used.

We will remain an emerging growth company until the earlier of: (1) the last day of the fiscal year (a) following the fifth anniversary of the closing of BowX's initial public offering, (b) in which we have total annual gross revenue of at least $1.07 billion or (c) in which we are deemed to be a large accelerated filer, which means the market value of our common equity that is held by non-affiliates exceeds $700 million as of the end of the prior fiscal year's second fiscal quarter; and (2) the date on which we have issued more than $1.00 billion in non-convertible debt securities during the prior three-year period. References herein to "emerging growth company" shall have the meaning associated with it in the JOBS Act.

Risk Factors

You should consider all the information contained in this proxy statement/prospectus in deciding how to vote for the proposals presented in this proxy statement/prospectus. These risks are discussed more fully in the section entitled "Risk Factors" following this summary. If any of these risks actually occur, WeWork's, BowX's or New WeWork's business, financial condition or results of operations would likely be materially adversely affected. These risks include, but are not limited to, the following:

- The price of New WeWork's Common Stock and warrants may be volatile.
- If analysts do not publish research about New WeWork's business or if they publish inaccurate or unfavorable research, New WeWork's stock price and trading volume could decline.
- New WeWork may be subject to securities litigation, which is expensive and could divert management attention.
- WeWork may not be able to continue to retain existing members, many of whom enter into membership agreements with short-term commitments, or to attract new members in sufficient numbers or at sufficient rates to sustain and increase its memberships or at all.
- WeWork has a history of losses and it may be unable to achieve profitability (as determined in accordance with GAAP).
- WeWork's success depends on its ability to maintain the value and reputation of its brand and the success of its strategic partnerships.
- WeWork has reduced and may continue to reduce the overall size of its organization and is likely to experience voluntary attrition, which may present challenges in managing its business.
- WeWork's internal controls, financial systems and procedures need further development for a public company and a company of its global scale.
- WeWork relies on a combination of proprietary and third-party technology systems to support its business and member experience, and, if these systems experience difficulties, WeWork's business, financial condition, results of operations and prospects may be materially adversely affected.
- WeWork and its subsidiaries may not be able to generate sufficient cash to service all of their indebtedness and other obligations and may be forced to take other actions to satisfy their obligations, which may not be successful.
- Failure to comply with anti-money laundering requirements could subject WeWork to enforcement actions, fines, penalties, sanctions and other remedial actions.

- WeWork's only material assets are its indirect interests in the WeWork Partnership (defined below), and WeWork is accordingly dependent upon distributions from the WeWork Partnership to pay dividends and taxes and other expenses. WeWork's debt facilities also impose or may in the future impose certain restrictions on WeWork's subsidiaries making distributions to WeWork.
- The announcement of the proposed Business Combination could disrupt New WeWork's relationships with its customers, suppliers, business partners and others, as well as its operating results and business generally.
- Since the Sponsor and BowX's directors and executive officers have interests that are different than the interests of BowX's stockholders, a conflict of interest may have existed in determining whether the Business Combination with WeWork is appropriate.
- The exercise of BowX's directors' and executive officers' discretion in agreeing to changes or waivers in the terms of the Business Combination may result in a conflict of interest.
- The NYSE, may not list New WeWork's securities on its exchange, which could limit investors' ability to make transactions in New WeWork's securities and subject New WeWork to additional trading restrictions.
- BowX is not obtaining an opinion from an independent valuation provider, and consequently, you have no assurance from an independent source that the Business Combination is fair to BowX from a financial point of view.
- BowX does not have a specified maximum redemption threshold, but cannot consummate the Business Combination if its net tangible assets fall below $5,000,001. This threshold and the Minimum Available Cash Condition (as defined below) may make it more difficult for it to complete the Business Combination as contemplated.
- Public stockholders will experience immediate dilution as a consequence of the issuance of New WeWork Common Stock as consideration in the Business Combination and the PIPE Investment and due to future issuances pursuant to the 2021 Plan, the First Warrant, the LC Warrant and the exercise of public warrants and private warrants. Having a minority stock ownership position may reduce the influence that BowX's current stockholders have on the management of New WeWork.
- Warrants will become exercisable for New WeWork Common Stock, which would increase the number of shares eligible for future resale in the public market and result in dilution to our stockholders. Such dilution will increase if more of our shares are redeemed.

Non-GAAP Financial Measures

To evaluate the performance of its business, WeWork relies on both its results of operations recorded in accordance with GAAP and certain non-GAAP financial measures, including Adjusted EBITDA and Free Cash Flow. These measures, as defined below, are not defined or calculated under principles, standards or rules that comprise GAAP. Accordingly, the non-GAAP financial measures WeWork uses and refer to should not be viewed as a substitute for net loss or any other performance measure derived in accordance with GAAP or as a substitute for cash flows from operating activities as a measure of liquidity, and we encourage you not to rely on any single financial measure to evaluate our business, financial condition or results of operations. WeWork's definitions of Adjusted EBITDA and Free Cash Flow described below are specific to our business and you should not assume that they are comparable to similarly titled financial measures of other companies.

WeWork defines "Adjusted EBITDA" as net loss before income tax (benefit) provision, interest and other (income) expense, depreciation and amortization expense, stock-based compensation expense, expense related to stock-based payments for services rendered by consultants, income or expense relating to the changes in fair value of assets and liabilities remeasured to fair value on a recurring basis, expense related to costs associated with mergers, acquisitions, divestitures and capital raising activities, legal, tax and regulatory reserves or settlements, significant legal costs incurred by WeWork in connection with regulatory investigations and litigation regarding WeWork's 2019 withdrawn initial public offering and the related execution of the SoftBank Transactions, as defined in Note 1 of the notes to WeWork's consolidated financial statements included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus, net of any insurance or other recoveries, significant non-ordinary course asset impairment charges and, to the extent applicable, any impact of discontinued operations, restructuring charges, and other gains and losses on operating assets.

WeWork defines Free Cash Flow as cash flow from operating activities less cash purchases of property and equipment, each as presented in WeWork's consolidated statements of cash flows calculated in accordance with GAAP.

- (1) A reconciliation of net loss, the most comparable GAAP measure, to Adjusted EBITDA is set forth in the section entitled "WeWork's Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operation – Non-GAAP Financial Measures – Adjusted EBITDA."
- (2) A reconciliation of net cash provided by (used in) operating activities, the most comparable GAAP measure, to Free Cash Flow is set forth in the section entitled "WeWork's Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operation – Non-GAAP Financial Measures – Free Cash Flow."

The following summary unaudited pro forma condensed combined balance sheet as of June 30, 2021, and the summary unaudited pro forma condensed combined statement of operations for the six months ended June 30, 2021, and the year ended December 31, 2020, present the combination of the financial information of BowX and WeWork after giving effect to the Business Combination, PIPE Investment, recapitalization (collectively, the “Business Combination and Related Transactions”) and related adjustments described in the accompanying notes to Unaudited Pro Forma Condensed Combined Financial Information, and have been prepared in accordance with Article 11 of Regulation S-X.

The summary unaudited pro forma condensed combined balance sheet as of June 30, 2021 combines the historical balance sheet of BowX and the historical consolidated balance sheet of WeWork on a pro forma basis as if the Business Combination and Related Transactions, summarized below, had been consummated on June 30, 2021. The summary unaudited pro forma condensed combined statement of operations for the six months ended June 30, 2021, and for the year ended December 31, 2020, combine the historical statement of operations of BowX and WeWork for such period on a pro forma basis as if the transaction, summarized below, had been consummated on January 1, 2020, the beginning of the earliest period presented:

- The merger of WeWork with and into BowX Merger Sub, a wholly owned subsidiary of BowX, with WeWork surviving the merger as a wholly owned subsidiary of BowX;
- The issuance and sale of 80,000,000 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock for $10.00 per share and an aggregate purchase price of $800 million in the PIPE Investment pursuant to the Subscription Agreements, executed concurrently with the Merger Agreement;

The summary unaudited pro forma condensed combined financial information is based on and should be read in conjunction with the audited historical financial statements of each of BowX and WeWork and the notes thereto, as well as the disclosures contained in the sections titled “BowX’s Management’s Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations” and “WeWork’s Management’s Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations.”

The following tables present selected pro forma information after giving effect to the Business Combination and Related Transactions presented under two scenarios:

- Assuming No Redemption: This presentation assumes that no public stockholders of BowX exercise redemption rights with respect to their public shares for a pro rata share of the funds in the trust account.
- Assuming Maximum Possible Redemption: This presentation assumes 43,231,098 of the public shares are redeemed for their pro rata share of the funds in BowX’s trust account. This scenario gives effect to BowX’s public share redemptions of 43,231,098 shares for aggregate redemption payments of $432.3 million. The Merger Agreement includes as a condition to closing the business combination that, at the closing, BowX will have a minimum of $800 million in cash comprising (i) the amount of cash available in the trust account immediately prior to closing, after deducting the amount required to satisfy the share redemption amount (but prior to payment of any (a) deferred underwriting commissions held in the trust account and (b) any transaction expenses of WeWork and BowX), and (ii) the PIPE investment amount received by BowX prior to or substantially concurrently with the closing. The proceeds from the PIPE investment are expected to satisfy the minimum cash requirement.

The figures in the following tables are presented only as illustrative examples and are based on the scenarios described above, which may be different from the actual amount of redemptions in connection with the Business Combination. In the event that shares of BowX Class A Common Stock are redeemed in connection with the Business Combination but the number of shares redeemed is less than 43,231,098, the values set forth below will fall between the two scenarios.

This information is only a summary and should be read in conjunction with the historical financial statements of BowX and WeWork and related notes included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus. The unaudited pro forma combined per share information of BowX and WeWork is derived from, and should be read in conjunction with, the unaudited pro forma condensed combined financial statements and related notes included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus.

The unaudited pro forma combined earnings (loss) per share information below does not purport to represent the earnings (loss) per share which would have occurred had the companies been combined during the periods presented, nor earnings per share for any future date or period. The unaudited pro forma combined book value per share information below does not purport to represent what the value of BowX and WeWork would have been had the companies been combined during the periods presented.

RISK FACTORS

In addition to the other information contained in this proxy statement/prospectus, including the matters addressed under the heading “Forward-Looking Statements,” you should carefully consider the following risk factors in deciding how to vote on the proposals presented in this proxy statement/prospectus. The risk factors described below disclose both material and other risks, and are not intended to be exhaustive and are not the only risks facing us. Additional risks not currently known to us or that we currently deem to be immaterial also may materially adversely affect our business, financial condition, results of operations and cash flows in future periods or are not identified because they are generally common to businesses.

Unless otherwise noted or the context otherwise requires, all references in this section to the “Company,” “we,” “us” or “our” refer to the business of WeWork and its subsidiaries prior to the consummation of the Business Combination, which will be the business of New WeWork and its subsidiaries following the consummation of the Business Combination; except that, with respect to references to the Company’s lease obligations, the “Company” refers to the WeWork subsidiary that is a party to such lease.

Risks Relating to the Company’s Business

The COVID-19 pandemic had a significant impact on the Company’s business, financial condition, results of operations and cash flows, and recovery from the pandemic may take longer than anticipated.

The global spread and unprecedented impact of COVID-19, including variants of the virus (particularly the Delta variant), has resulted in significant disruption and has created additional risks to the Company’s and its joint ventures partners’ businesses, the industry and the economy. On March 11, 2020, the World Health Organization declared COVID-19 a global pandemic. Since that time, COVID-19 has resulted in various governments imposing numerous restrictions at different times, including travel bans and restrictions, quarantines, stay-at-home orders, social distancing requirements and mandatory closure of “non-essential” businesses.

As a result, the Company’s and its joint ventures partners’ businesses were significantly disrupted, and their operations have been significantly reduced. In particular, markets in which the Company and its joint venture partners operate both in the United States and internationally, and the state and local governments in these areas, among others, have in the past implemented stay-at-home orders, social distancing requirements and mandatory closures of all “non-essential” businesses, and have either re-implemented or may in the future re-implement these or other restrictions, in an effort to curb the spread of COVID-19. In response to these measures, the Company and its joint venture partners have temporarily closed certain locations in various U.S. and international markets and may do so in the future, in an effort to adhere to local guidance, help protect the health and safety of its employees and members, and various planned new location openings have been delayed. In addition, the spread of COVID-19 has caused the Company to modify its business practices (including employee travel, employee work locations and cancellation of physical participation in meetings, events and conferences), and the Company may take further actions as may be required by government authorities or that the Company determines are in the best interests of the Company’s employees and members. There is no certainty that such measures will be sufficient to mitigate the risks posed by the COVID-19 pandemic, and the Company’s and its joint ventures partners’ ability to perform critical functions, including operating its locations, could be further adversely affected.

The Company also experienced a reduction in new sales volume at its locations, which negatively affected, and may continue to negatively affect, the Company’s results of operations. The Company had also been, and may continue to be, adversely impacted by member churn, non-payment (or delayed payment) from members or members seeking payment concessions or deferrals or cancellations as a result of the COVID-19 pandemic. Specifically, between the quarter ended June 30, 2020 and the quarter ended June 30, 2021, the Company’s total memberships, including ChinaCo, IndiaCo and Israel locations, declined 16%. There is no guarantee that membership numbers will return to pre- COVID-19 pandemic levels. In addition, in relation to non-payment, the Company recorded $17.2 million and $67.5 million in bad debt expense during the six months ended June 30, 2021, and the year ended December 31, 2020, respectively, compared to $21.0 million and $22.2 million during the six months ended June 30, 2020 and year ended December 31, 2019. The Company also determined collectability was not probable and did not recognize revenue on certain contracts totaling $2.1 million and $53.1 million for the six months ended June 30, 2021, and the year ended December 31, 2020, respectively. See the section entitled “WeWork’s Management’s Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations – Covid-19 and Impact on our Business.”

The Company expects the COVID-19 pandemic, particularly in light of the spread of variants of the virus, such as the Delta variant, may continue to have an impact on its business, financial condition, results of operations and cash flows, but the Company is unable to predict how long that impact will continue. In particular, even after state and local governments lift mandatory restrictions, the Company’s business could be adversely impacted by the following: public perception of the risk of the COVID-19 pandemic; the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic on its members, including their financial situation and ability to meet their financial and contractual obligations to the Company; unemployment rates; reduction in demand from any of the foregoing; or due to customers or potential customers deferring return-to-office plans, as well as considering remote and hybrid office space arrangements; increased costs as a result of measures required to be taken, or that the Company elects to take, to protect the health and safety of its employees and members, including costs of potential health screenings, enhanced cleaning and disinfecting protocols and compliance with any regulations or policies regarding reduced occupancy or social distancing, which could require reconfiguration of spaces at the Company’s locations.

The extent to which the Company is affected by the COVID-19 pandemic will largely depend on future developments, which are highly uncertain and cannot be predicted, including, but not limited to, the duration and spread of the outbreak (including variants of the virus), its severity, the actions to contain the virus or treat its impact, the development of vaccines and rollout of effective immunization programs, and how quickly and to what extent normal economic and operating conditions can resume, including how quickly the Company can resume normal operations and how quickly, if at all, the Company can return to pre-COVID-19 pandemic levels of operations.

The COVID-19 pandemic also had, and may continue to have, an adverse impact on the Company’s cash flow and liquidity. The extent of the continued impact will depend in part on the Company’s continued ability to implement its transformation efforts. Additionally, the COVID-19 pandemic has caused, and may continue to cause, significant disruption of financial markets, which could reduce the Company’s ability to access capital, which could further negatively affect its liquidity. In addition, the value of some of the Company’s assets have declined, and may continue to decline, which may result in material non-cash impairment charges in future periods. As a result of the COVID-19 pandemic and the resulting declines in revenue and operating income experienced by certain locations during 2020 and 2021, we identified certain assets whose carrying value was now deemed to have been partially impaired. For the six months ended June 30, 2021, and the year ended December 31, 2020, WeWork recorded $31.5 million and $345.0 million, respectively, in impairments, primarily as a result of decreases in projected cash flows primarily attributable to the impact of COVID-19. See Note 3 of the notes to WeWork’s audited annual and unaudited interim condensed consolidated financial statements included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus. In addition, the Company has experienced and may continue to experience pricing challenges in the market place due to an excess supply of commercial real estate available to customers or potential customers as a result of companies deferring their return-to-office plans, as well as businesses considering remote and hybrid office space arrangements.

The current and future potential effects of the COVID-19 pandemic also could have the effect of heightening many of the other risks described under this section entitled “Risk Factors” in this proxy statement/prospectus, including, among others, those relating to the Company’s high level of indebtedness and need to generate sufficient cash flows to service its indebtedness, and the Company’s ability to comply with the covenants contained in the agreements that govern its indebtedness and other obligations.

The Company may not be able to continue to retain existing members, many of whom enter into membership agreements with short-term commitments, or to attract new members in sufficient numbers or at sufficient rates to sustain and increase its memberships or at all.

The Company principally generates revenues through the sale of memberships. Due to the COVID-19 pandemic, the Company has recently experienced, and may continue to experience, higher levels of membership agreement terminations. Specifically, between the quarter ended June 30, 2020 and the quarter ended June 30, 2021, the Company's total memberships, including ChinaCo, IndiaCo and Israel locations, declined 16%. In addition, in many cases, members may terminate their membership agreements with the Company at any time upon as little notice as one calendar month, generally for a fee. During the six months ended June 30, 2021, on average, approximately 10% of physical memberships were month-to-month commitments and could be terminated in a given month. Similarly, there are also longer-term or multi-year memberships that come up for renewal each month pursuant to the ordinary course terms of the contract, generally evenly throughout the year. During the six months ended June 30, 2021, approximately 6% of physical memberships (excluding month-to-month commitments) came up for renewal each month on average. Members may cancel their memberships for many reasons, including a perception that they do not make sufficient use of the Company's solutions and services, that they need to reduce their expenses or that alternative work environments may provide better value or a better experience. Negative publicity surrounding the Company may also result in an increase in membership agreement terminations, a decrease in the Company's ability to attract new members or weaker sales and slower ramp-up of the Company's new locations.

The Company's results of operations could be adversely affected by declines in demand for its memberships. Demand for its memberships has been and may continue to be negatively affected by public health concerns, and could also be affected by a number of factors, including geopolitical uncertainty, competition, cybersecurity incidents, decline in the Company's reputation and saturation in the markets where the Company operates. For example, reduced sales volume as a result of COVID-19, have negatively affected and may continue to affect the Company's results of operations. Prevailing general and local economic conditions may also negatively affect the demand for its memberships, particularly from current and potential members that are small- and mid-sized businesses and may be disproportionately affected by adverse economic conditions.

If the Company is unable to replace members who may terminate their membership agreements, the Company's cash flows and the Company's ability to make payments under their lease agreements may be adversely affected. These same factors that reduce demand for its memberships may not have the same impact on a landlord that has longer commitments from its tenants than the Company has from its members.

The Company must continually add new members both to replace departing members and to expand its current member base. The Company may not be able to attract new members in sufficient numbers to fully replace departing members. In addition, the revenue the Company generates from new members may not be as high as the revenue generated from existing members because of discounts the Company may offer to these new members, which have increased in recent periods, and the Company may incur marketing or other expenses, including referral fees, to attract new members, which may further offset its revenues from these new members. For these and other reasons, the Company could continue to experience a decline in its revenue growth, which could adversely affect its results of operations.

An economic downturn or subsequent declines in market rents may result in increased member terminations and could adversely affect the Company's results of operations.

While the Company believes that it has a durable business model in all economic cycles, there can be no assurance that this will be the case. A significant portion of the Company's member base consists of small- and mid-sized businesses and freelancers who may be disproportionately affected by adverse economic conditions. In addition, the Company's concentration in specific cities magnifies the risk to the Company of adverse localized economic conditions in those cities or the surrounding regions. For the six months ended June 30, 2021, the Company generated the majority of its revenue from locations in the United States and the United Kingdom. The majority of the Company's 2021 revenue from locations in the United States was generated from locations in the greater New York City, San Francisco, Boston, San Jose and Seattle markets. A majority of its locations in the United Kingdom are in London. Economic downturns in these markets or other markets in which the Company is growing its number of locations may have a disproportionate effect on the Company's revenue and its ability to retain members, in particular among members that are small- and mid-sized businesses, and thereby require the Company to expend time and resources on sales and marketing activities that may not be successful and could impair its results of operations. Additionally, an outbreak of a contagious disease, such as the current COVID-19 pandemic or any similar illness, has had and may continue to have a disproportionate effect on businesses located in large metropolitan areas (such as those listed above), as larger cities are more likely to institute a quarantine or “shelter-in-place”. Furthermore, the Company has experienced, and may continue to experience, increased churn and non-payment from members negatively affected by the COVID-19 pandemic. In addition, the Company’s business may be affected by generally prevailing economic conditions in the markets where it operates, which can result in a general decline in real estate activity, reduce demand for its solutions and services and exert downward pressure on its revenue.

The long-term and fixed-cost nature of the Company’s leases may limit the Company’s operating flexibility and could adversely affect its liquidity and results of operations.

The Company’s leases are primarily entered into by and through special purpose entity subsidiaries. The Company currently leases a significant majority of its locations under long-term leases that, with limited exceptions, do not contain early termination provisions. The Company’s obligations to landlords under these agreements extend for periods that generally significantly exceed the length of its membership agreements with its members, which in certain cases may be terminated by the Company’s members upon as little notice as one calendar month. The average length of the initial term of its leases is approximately 15 years, and the average term of its membership agreements is 15 months. As of June 30, 2021, the Company’s subsidiaries’ future undiscounted minimum lease cost payment obligations under signed operating and finance leases was $36.6 billion and committed sales contracts to be recognized as revenue in the future totaled approximately $3 billion. However, as of June 30, 2021, the total security packages, including in the form of corporate guarantees, outstanding letters of credit, cash security deposits to landlords and surety bonds issued, provided by the Company and its subsidiaries in respect of those lease obligations was approximately $6.5 billion, representing less than 20% of future undiscounted minimum lease cost payment obligations. In addition, individual property lease security obligations on any given lease typically decrease over the life of the lease, although the Company or its subsidiaries may continue to enter into new leases in the ordinary course of business.

The Company’s leases generally provide for fixed monthly or quarterly payments that are not tied to space utilization or the size of its member base, and nearly all of its leases contain minimum rental payment obligations. There are a small number of leases under a revenue sharing model with no minimum rent amount. As a result, in locations where the Company does not generate sufficient revenue from members at a particular space, including if members terminate their membership agreements with the Company and the Company is not able to replace these departing members or the Company ceases to operate at leased spaces, the Company’s lease cost expense exceeds its revenue. In addition, the Company may not be able to negotiate lower fixed monthly payments under its leases at rates which are commensurate with the rates at which the Company may agree to lower its monthly membership fees, which may also result in its rent expense exceeding its membership and service revenue. At certain locations, the Company has not been able to, and may not be able to, reduce its rent under the lease or otherwise terminate the lease, whether in accordance with its terms or by negotiation.

If the Company experiences a prolonged reduction in revenues at a particular leased location, including as a result of the current COVID-19 pandemic, its results of operations in respect of that space would be adversely affected unless and until the lease expires or the Company is able to assign the lease or sublease the space to a third party or otherwise renegotiate the terms of the lease or an exit from that space. The Company’s ability to assign a lease or sublease for a particular space to a third party may be constrained by provisions in the lease that restrict these transfers without notice to, or the prior consent of, the landlord. Additionally, the Company could incur significant costs if it decides to assign or sublease unprofitable leases, as the Company may incur transaction costs associated with finding and negotiating with potential transferees, and the ultimate transferee may require upfront payments or other inducements. The Company is also party to a variety of lease agreements and other occupancy arrangements, including management agreements and participating leases, containing a variety of contractual rights and obligations that may be subject to interpretation. The Company’s interpretation of such contracts may be disputed by its landlords or members, which could result in litigation, damage to its reputation or contractual or other legal remedies becoming available to such landlords and members and may impact its results of operations.

While the Company's leases are often held by special purpose entities, the Company's consolidated financial condition and results of operations depend on the ability of its subsidiaries to perform their obligations under these leases over time. The Company's business, reputation, financial condition and results of operations depend on the Company's ongoing compliance with its leases. In addition, the Company provides credit support in respect of its leases in the form of letters of credit, limited corporate guarantees (mostly from a subsidiary of WeWork), cash security deposits and surety bonds. See the section entitled "WeWork's Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations — Liquidity and Capital Resources — Lease Obligations." The applicable landlords have and could draw under the letters of credit or demand payment under the surety bonds, which amounts would need to be funded by the Company or one of its subsidiaries, which has and could further adversely affect the Company's financial condition and liquidity. In addition, under the Company's surety bonds, the applicable surety has the right to increase their collateral to 100% of the outstanding bond amounts, including cash collateral or letters of credit, at any time the surety bonds are outstanding. Some sureties have already exercised this option. In certain circumstances, landlords have drawn under the letters of credit or demanded payment under the surety bonds in accordance with the terms of the applicable lease and security instrument. In addition, a small number of landlords have sued to enforce the corporate guarantees. The Company is also increasingly pursuing strategic alternatives to pure leasing arrangements, including management agreements, participating leases and other occupancy arrangements with respect to spaces. Some of the Company's agreements contain penalties that are payable in the event the Company terminates the arrangement.

The Company has a history of losses and it may be unable to achieve profitability (as determined in accordance with GAAP).

The Company had an accumulated deficit as of June 30, 2021, December 31, 2020 and 2019 and had net losses of $3.0 billion, $3.8 billion, $3.8 billion and $1.9 billion for the six months ended June 30, 2021 and the years ended December 31, 2020, 2019 and 2018, respectively. The Company's accumulated deficit and net losses, which are GAAP financial metrics, historically resulted primarily from the substantial investments required to grow its business, including a significant increase in the number of locations in which the Company operates. The operation of non-core businesses in the past has also contributed to accumulated deficit and net loss historically. The Company's rapid growth placed a significant strain on the Company's resources. In addition, the Company has in recent periods incurred restructuring and other related costs in connection with both lease termination charges and lease amendment or exit costs resulting from the Company's global real estate portfolio optimization efforts as well as one-time employee-related payments resulting from the Company's workforce realignment. The impacts of the COVID-19 pandemic on the Company's business have also contributed to the losses incurred during 2020 and the six months ended June 30, 2021.

While the Company has initiated and substantially completed a strategic restructuring with the goal of creating a leaner, more efficient organization to support its long-term goal of sustainable growth, there is no assurance that the Company will be successful in realizing the benefits of this plan. The Company's operating costs and other expenses may be greater than it anticipates, and its investments to make its business and its operations more efficient may not be successful. Increases in the Company's costs, expenses and investments may reduce its margins and materially adversely affect its business, financial condition and results of operations.

The Company's success depends on its ability to maintain the value and reputation of its brand and the success of its strategic partnerships.

The Company's brand is integral to its business. Maintaining, promoting and positioning the Company's brand will depend largely on the Company's ability to provide a consistently high-quality member experience and on its marketing and community-building efforts. To the extent its locations, workspace solutions or product or service offerings are perceived to be of low quality or otherwise are not compelling to new and existing members, the Company's ability to maintain a positive brand reputation may be adversely affected.

In addition, failure by third parties on whom the Company relies but whose actions it cannot control, such as joint venture partners, general contractors and construction managers who oversee its construction activities, or their respective facilities management staff, to uphold a high standard of workmanship, ethics, conduct and legal compliance could subject the Company to reputational harm based on their association with it and its brand.

The Company believes that much of its reputation depends on word-of-mouth and other non-paid sources of opinion, including on the internet. Unfavorable publicity or consumer perception or experience of the Company's solutions, practices, products or services could adversely affect the Company's reputation, resulting in difficulties in attracting and retaining members, landlords and business partners (including joint venture partners), difficulties in attracting and retaining employees, regulatory scrutiny, litigation, and limiting the success of the Company's community-building efforts and the range of solutions, products and services the Company is able to offer.

To the extent that the Company is unable to maintain a positive brand reputation organically and to contend with increased competition, the Company may need to increase or enhance its marketing efforts to attract new members, which would increase its sales and marketing expenses both in absolute terms and as a percentage of its revenue.

The Company may be unable to adequately protect or prevent unauthorized use of its intellectual property rights and the Company may be prevented by third parties from using or registering its intellectual property.

To protect its intellectual property rights, the Company relies on a combination of trademark, copyright, trade dress, patent and trade secret protection laws, protective agreements with its employees and third parties and physical and electronic security measures. The Company has obtained a strategic set of intellectual property registrations and applications, including for the WeWork brand, in certain jurisdictions throughout the world. Nevertheless, these applications may not proceed to registration or issuance or otherwise be granted protection. We may not be able to adequately protect or enforce our intellectual property rights or prevent others from copying or using the Company's intellectual property in certain jurisdictions throughout the world and in jurisdictions where intellectual property laws may not be adequately developed or favorable to the Company. In addition, third parties may attack the Company's trademarks, including the WeWork brand, by opposing said applications or canceling registrations on a variety of bases, including validity and non-use. Third parties have in the past and may, from time to time in the future, claim that the Company is infringing their intellectual property rights or challenge the validity or enforceability of the Company's intellectual property rights, and the Company may not be successful in defending these claims. These claims, even without merit, could result in the prevention of the Company registering or enforcing its intellectual property. These claims can also cause the Company to stop using certain intellectual property and force the Company to rebrand or redesign our marketing, product, or technology. Additionally, the agreements and security measures the Company has in place may be inadequate or otherwise fail to effectively accomplish their protective purposes. In some cases, the Company may need to litigate these claims or negotiate a settlement that can include a monetary payment, license arrangement or cause WeWork to stop using certain intellectual property. This may also trigger certain indemnification provisions in third-party license agreements. The Company may be unable to defend its proprietary rights or prevent infringement or misappropriation without substantial expense to it and negatively impact its intellectual property rights.

Third parties may also infringe or misappropriate the Company's intellectual property rights, including the WeWork brand, and the Company may not be successful in asserting intellectual property rights against third parties. There may be instances where we may need to resort to litigation or other proceedings to enforce our intellectual property rights. Enforcement of this type can be costly and result in counterclaims or other claims against the Company, including action against our trademark applications and registrations.

In addition, we license certain intellectual property rights, including the WeWork brand, to joint venture partners and other third parties, including granting our third-party licensed locations the right to use our intellectual property in connection with their operation of certain locations. If a licensee fails to maintain the quality of the services used in connection with our trademarks, the Company's rights to and the value of our trademarks could be diminished. Failure to maintain, control and protect the WeWork brand and other intellectual property could negatively affect the Company's ability to acquire members, and ultimately, negatively affect our business. If the licensees misuse our intellectual property, then this could lead to third-party claims against the Company and could negatively affect the WeWork brand.

Many companies have encountered significant problems in protecting and defending intellectual property rights in foreign jurisdictions. The legal system in certain foreign jurisdictions, particularly those in certain developing countries, do not favor the enforcement of trademarks, patents, trade secrets and other intellectual property protection which could make it difficult for the Company to stop the infringement, misappropriation or other violation of its intellectual property rights, or the marketing of competing products or services in violation of its proprietary rights in these jurisdictions. The Company may not prevail in any such proceedings that it initiates and the damages or other remedies awarded to the Company, if any, may not be commercially meaningful.

If the measures the Company has taken to protect the WeWork brand and its other proprietary rights are inadequate to prevent unauthorized use or misappropriation by third parties or if the Company is prevented from using intellectual property due to successful third-party claims, the value of the WeWork brand and other intangible assets may be diminished and its business and results of operations may be adversely affected.

Cyber-attacks could negatively affect the Company's business.

The Company has in the past and may be, from time to time in the future, subject to attempted or actual cyber-attacks or similar incidents against the Company and its information technology systems. This could result in a loss of proprietary business information or member information, including personal information of third parties.

Although we have implemented security measures designed to protect our information technology systems and the information we maintain from such events, we still may not be able to prevent cyber-attacks and security breaches. This is, in part, due to the increased sophistication of hackers. Any breach, theft, loss, or fraudulent use of member or employee data could cause members to lose confidence in the security of our websites, mobile applications and other information technology systems. Security breaches could expose us to risks of data loss, regulatory review, fines, litigation, and negatively affect the Company's business.

The Company is undergoing a transformation in its business plan under new management and there can be no assurances that this new business strategy will be successful.

Following the withdrawal of the Company's registration statement on Form S-1 in connection with its attempted initial public offering in 2019, there have been substantial changes in the Company's management and business plan. The Company's new strategic plan emphasizes achieving positive Adjusted EBITDA through expense management and streamlined operations, focusing on optimizing the Company's existing real estate portfolio of domestic and international locations and executing well on its current pipeline of locations before seeking growth opportunities.

As part of this plan, beginning in the fall of 2019, the Company began a global review of its locations to optimize its real estate portfolio. This has resulted in strategically executing full or partial lease exits for locations with more limited prospects of profitability. As of June 30, 2021, the Company and its joint venture partners have negotiated over 500 lease amendments and/or exits with landlord partners around the world, resulting in an approximately $6.9 billion reduction to future lease payments and a reduction in total lease security of approximately $1.1 Billion, in each case including ChinaCo prior to the ChinaCo Deconsolidation, since December 31, 2019. However, this process is ongoing and there can be no assurance that these efforts will continue to be successful in reducing the Company's overall lease costs. In connection with these optimization efforts, at certain locations the Company has withheld, is withholding, or may in the future withhold rent payments for some period of time. In a small number of cases, the Company's real estate portfolio optimization efforts have resulted in litigation filed by landlords. As the process continues, additional litigation could result and the Company could be exposed to breach of contract, eviction or other claims that could result in direct and indirect costs to the Company and could result in other operational disruptions that could harm its reputation, brand and results of operations. During the year ended December 31, 2020 and the six months ended June 30, 2021, the Company incurred lease-related termination costs in connection with the aforementioned strategic lease terminations, substantially all being equal to or less than the security coverage of each lease. The Company continues to incur such costs and the Company anticipates that there will be additional lease termination fees paid in the future, substantially all of which are expected to be equal to or less than the security coverage of each applicable lease. See the section entitled "WeWork's Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations – Restructuring and Impairments." In addition, as a result of these lease amendments and/or exits, there is a risk of potential churn or disruption in the member experience for those that are relocated to a nearby building. As of June 30, 2021, the Company has retained approximately 90% of relocated members but there can be no assurance this relocation retention pattern will continue. See the section entitled "Risk Factors — Risks relating to the Company's Business—The long-term and fixed-cost nature of the Company's leases may limit its operating flexibility and could adversely affect its liquidity and results of operations."

The Company's business depends on hiring, developing, retaining and motivating highly skilled and dedicated team members to support its mission, and failure to do so, including turnover in the Company's senior management and other key personnel, could have a material adverse effect on the Company's business.

The Company strives to attract, motivate, and retain team members who share a dedication to the member community and the Company's vision, but may not be successful in doing so. The Company's U.S.-based team members, including most of its senior management, work for the Company on an at-will basis. Other companies, including competitors, may be successful in recruiting and hiring team members away from the Company, and it may be difficult for the Company to find suitable replacements on a timely basis, on competitive terms or at all. These difficulties may be more acute following the negative publicity and organizational changes the Company experienced in late 2019.

In addition, the Company has experienced and may continue to experience operational disruptions in the process of building out a new senior management team. Changes to or turnover among senior management or other key personnel could disrupt the Company's strategic focus or create uncertainty for management, employees, members, partners, landlords and stockholders. These changes, and the potential failure to retain and recruit senior management and other key employees, could have a material adverse effect on the Company's operations and ability to manage the day-to-day aspects of its business. Unexpected or abrupt departures may result in the failure to effectively transfer institutional knowledge and may impede our ability to act quickly and efficiently in executing our business strategy as we devote resources to recruiting new personnel or transitioning existing personnel to fill those roles.

If the Company is unable to effectively manage employee turnover and retain existing key personnel or timely address its hiring needs or successfully integrate new hires, its employee morale, productivity and retention could suffer, which could adversely affect its business, financial condition and results of operations. Additionally, the success of each of the Company's new and existing locations depends on its ability to hire and retain dedicated community managers and community team members. If the Company enters new geographic markets and launches new solutions, products and services, the Company may experience difficulty attracting employees in the areas it requires.

The Company has reduced and may continue to reduce the overall size of its organization and is likely to experience voluntary attrition, which may present challenges in managing its business.

During and since the third quarter of 2019, the Company has implemented reductions in its workforce and may consider further reductions in the future. Since then, WeWork has reduced its global workforce by approximately 70% through reductions in force, voluntary attrition not replaced, divestitures and joint venture arrangements. These workforce reductions have resulted in and may result in the loss of some longer-term employees and expertise and the reallocation and combination of certain roles and responsibilities across the organization, all of which could adversely affect the Company's operations. Given the complexity and nature of the Company's business, it must continue to implement and improve its managerial, operational and financial systems, manage its locations and continue to recruit and retain qualified personnel. This could be made more challenging by the workforce reductions and additional measures the Company may take to reduce costs. As a result, the Company's management may need to divert a disproportionate amount of its attention away from day-to-day strategic and operational activities and devote a substantial amount of time to managing these organizational changes. Further, workforce reductions and additional cost containment measures may have unintended consequences, such as attrition beyond the Company's intended workforce reductions, reduced employee morale and employment-related litigation. Employees who are not affected by the workforce reductions may seek alternate employment, which could require the Company to obtain additional support at unplanned additional expense.

The Company has significantly moderated and may continue to moderate its growth.

The Company's historical growth rates prior to the end of 2019 are not expected to be indicative of its future growth. The Company has significantly moderated and may continue to moderate its growth. The Company plans to continue to open locations in which it has already signed a lease while also negotiating strategic lease restructurings and exits as part of its real estate optimization efforts. The Company's future growth will be driven by a variety of factors, including member demand and the availability of new locations priced at a level that would enable the Company to construct the location and operate it profitably on an individual location basis. As the Company optimizes its real estate portfolio, such opportunities to expand in new and existing geographies may become more limited.

If the Company is unable to maintain or negotiate satisfactory arrangements in respect of spaces that it occupies, its ability to service its members may be impaired.

Subsidiaries of the Company currently lease real estate for the majority of its locations while the Company is pursuing asset-light arrangements such as management agreements, regional joint ventures and other occupancy arrangements with real estate owners. The Company may not receive the same possessory rights under such alternative arrangements as it does in a traditional landlord-tenant relationship. Instead, the Company's ability to continue to serve its members at spaces occupied pursuant to these alternative arrangements depends on its relationships with strategic partners.

With respect to leases, the Company's renewal options are typically tied to the then-prevailing net effective rent in the open market (typically leases include a floor of the then rent in effect under the lease). As a result, increases in rental rates in the markets in which the Company operates, particularly in those markets where initial terms under its leases are shorter, could adversely affect the Company's business, financial condition, results of operations and prospects.

In addition, the Company's ability to extend an expiring lease on favorable terms or to secure an alternate location will depend on then-prevailing conditions in the real estate market, such as overall rental cost increases, competition from other would-be tenants for desirable leased spaces and its relationships with current and prospective building owners and landlords, and may depend on other factors that are not within its control. If the Company is not able to renew or replace an expiring lease, it may incur significant costs related to vacating that space, surrendering or restoring any tenant improvements, and redeveloping whatever alternative space it is able to find in such subregion, if any. The Company's ability to extend an expiring lease on favorable terms may be more difficult following the negative publicity the Company has experienced.

In addition, if the Company elects to or is forced to vacate a space, it could lose members who purchased memberships based on the design, location or other attributes of that particular space and may not be interested in relocating to the other spaces it has available. As of June 30, 2021, the Company has retained approximately 90% of relocated members but there can be no assurance this relocation retention pattern will continue. Further, the landlord could re-lease the vacated space in competition with the Company's other locations.

The Company has engaged in transactions with related parties, and such transactions present possible conflicts of interest and could have an adverse effect on its business and results of operations.

The Company has historically entered into transactions with related parties, including its significant stockholders, former executive officers and current and former directors and other employees. In particular, all transactions between the Company and SoftBank Obligor (including with respect to the Company's debt financing arrangements with SBG (described below)) are related party transactions. As of June 30, 2021, the amounts outstanding under the Company's debt financing arrangements with SBG included $1.7 billion in outstanding letters of credit issued under the 2020 LC Facility and $2.2 billion in outstanding indebtedness under the SoftBank Senior Unsecured Debt (defined below), in addition to the ability to borrow up to $1.1 billion under the SoftBank Senior Secured Debt (defined below) subject to applicable restrictive covenants in the agreements governing the Company's indebtedness. See "Risks Relating to the Company's Financial Condition—The terms of the Company's indebtedness restrict its current and future operations, particularly its ability to respond to changes or take certain actions, including some of which may affect completion of the Company's strategic plan." for additional information. The significant amount of indebtedness owed by the Company to SoftBank Obligor and commitments from SoftBank Obligor to or for the benefit of the Company could present possible conflicts of interest that could have an adverse effect on the Company's business and results of operations. In addition, as described above, SBWW is expected to receive warrants to purchase additional stock in connection with certain modifications to the debt financings described above and in connection with the consummation of the Business Consummation. There are and are likely to continue to be other arrangements in which New WeWork and SBG entities are participants related to taxes, corporate governance, debt financings, expense reimbursement and other operations. SBWW (and other affiliates of SBG) is expected to be a substantial stockholder of New WeWork and will have substantial influence of matters of corporate governance for New WeWork, resulting in possible conflicts of interests.

In addition, the Company has in the past entered into several transactions with landlord entities in which Adam Neumann, the Company's former chief executive officer and former member of the Company's board of directors, or WeCap Investment Group, which is operated in conjunction with Rhône Group, an investment entity run in part by Steven Langman, a former member of the Company's board of directors, has or had an ownership interest. See "Related Party Transactions – WeWork" for additional information. As part of the Company's restructuring, the Company is in ongoing discussions to exit certain leases with related parties. Transactions with any landlord entity in which related parties hold ownership interests present potential for conflicts of interest, as the interests of the landlord entity and its stockholders may not align with the interests of the Company with respect to, for example, the exercise of contractual remedies under these leases, such as the treatment of events of default. As is the case for all lease terminations where there are outstanding tenant improvements amounts owed, any forgiveness of tenant improvements owed for related party transactions is treated as consideration for the terminations.

Pursuant to WeWork's related party transactions policy, all additional material related party transactions that we enter into require either (i) the unanimous consent of our audit committee or (ii) the approval of a majority of the independent members of our board of directors who are disinterested with respect to such related party transaction. Upon the closing of the Business Combination, New WeWork will have a new related party transaction policy. See "Certain Relationships and Related Person Transactions—WeWork's Policies and Procedures for Related Party Transactions.” Nevertheless, the Company may have achieved more favorable terms if such transactions had not been entered into with related parties and these transactions, individually or in the aggregate, may have an adverse effect on the Company’s business and results of operations or may result in government enforcement actions, investigations or other litigation.

Additionally, the Company has agreed to indemnify certain of its current and former directors and executive officers and shareholders under the WeWork Amended and Restated Certificate of Incorporation and various other agreements. The Company has agreed to reimburse indemnified parties for certain legal expenses incurred and, in 2020, paid approximately $14 million in legal fees related to these indemnifications, outside of the amounts covered by insurance. The Company may be required to pay more in legal fees related to these indemnifications in the future and these indemnification arrangements and associated payments may have an adverse effect on the Company’s business and results of operations.

The Company has entered into an agreement that grants Mr. Neumann board observer rights. Beginning on February 26, 2022, Mr. Neumann, or if requested by SBG, a designee of Mr. Neumann’s (who shall be subject to SBG’s approval), shall have the right to observe meetings of New WeWork’s board of directors (and certain committees thereof) in a non-voting observer capacity. Mr. Neumann, or his designee, is also entitled to copies of written materials provided to directors, subject to certain conditions as set forth in the agreement. Mr. Neumann’s observer rights shall terminate when he ceases to beneficially own equity securities of WeWork (including WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units) representing at least 19,028,251 shares of WeWork Class A Common Stock (on an as-converted basis and as adjusted for stock splits, dividends and the like).

Although WeWork expects that Mr. Neumann or his representative may express views or may ask questions, there is no such contractual entitlement beyond attending in a customary nonvoting observer capacity, and New WeWork’s board and committee meetings would be presided over by the relevant chairpersons and subject to such procedures governing conduct of the meeting as may be adopted by the board or relevant committee. The agreement governing the observer right does not entitle Mr. Neumann to participate in any conversations among directors outside of formal meetings of the New WeWork board and its applicable committees. Similarly, the agreement does not give Mr. Neumann the right to influence decisions to be made or actions to be taken by the New WeWork board or committees. Mr. Neumann will participate in meetings of the New WeWork board and its applicable committees as a nonvoting board observer — not as a director.

The agreement governing the observer right requires that Mr. Neumann or his representative agree to hold in confidence all information provided under such agreement. New WeWork has also reserved the right under such agreement to withhold information and exclude Mr. Neumann or his representative from any meeting or portion thereof to the extent reasonably likely to adversely affect the attorney-client privilege between New WeWork and its counsel or result in disclosure of trade secrets or a conflict of interest, or if there has been a violation of Mr. Neumann’s restrictive covenant obligations to New WeWork.

A significant part of the Company’s international growth strategy and international operations may be conducted through joint ventures or other management arrangements.

The Company’s international growth strategy historically included entering into joint ventures in non-U.S. jurisdictions, such as Greater China, Japan and the broader Asia-Pacific region. The Company’s success in these regions is therefore partially dependent on third parties whose actions the Company cannot control. Certain changes to those arrangements have occurred during 2020. In April 2020, the Company closed the “PacificCo Roll-up” and issued 34,482,759 shares of convertible WeWork Series H-1 Preferred Stock to SVFE, making WeWork Asia Holding Company B.V. (“PacificCo”) a wholly owned subsidiary of the Company. On September 3, 2020, affiliates of Trustbridge Partners signed definitive investment documentation with WeWork Greater China Holding Company B.V. (“ChinaCo”) and its shareholders pursuant to which (i) certain affiliates of Trustbridge Partners agreed to invest $200 million in ChinaCo in exchange for newly issued preference shares in ChinaCo and (ii) other ChinaCo shareholders (including the Company and SVFE) agreed to have their interests in ChinaCo restructured (the “Trustbridge Transaction”). The initial closing of the Trustbridge Transaction occurred on October 2, 2020, resulting in affiliates of Trustbridge Partners becoming the controlling and largest shareholders of ChinaCo. The Company’s joint venture with affiliated investment funds of SVFE in Japan is expected to continue.

Separately, the Company intends, as part of its strategic plan, to pursue additional joint ventures and other strategic partnerships, including management agreements and alternative deal structures with variable rent. In particular, the Company is building a framework to further support joint venture arrangements under which it may transfer a controlling equity interest in its operations in certain markets to a local partner while retaining minority ownership in, and a percentage of revenue from, such operations. For example, in June 2021, WeWork closed a transaction with Ampa Group (“Ampa”), one of the leading real estate companies in Israel, pursuant to which Ampa will have the exclusive right to operate WeWork’s business in Israel (the “Israel Transaction”).

The Company’s partners in these joint ventures and other arrangements may have interests that differ from the Company’s, and the Company may disagree with its partners as to the resolution of a particular issue or as to the management or conduct of the business in general. These arrangements may also carry high inherent anti-corruption compliance risk and lead to anti-corruption violations and related enforcement actions. In addition, the Company has entered into and may continue to enter into agreements that provide its partners with exclusivity or other preemptive rights in agreed-upon geographic areas, which may limit the Company’s ability to pursue business opportunities in the manner that the Company desires. Generally, in the joint venture relationship, WeWork has undertaken not to operate its business in the specific region other than through the party who has entered into an agreement with WeWork. These agreements also generally contain non-compete provisions whereby WeWork agrees not to compete with the counterparty in the applicable region and agrees to provide an opportunity for the counterparty to participate in new ventures launched by WeWork in the applicable region.

The Company’s strategic business plan includes, among others optimization of our real estate portfolio and the development of a regional joint venture model, and any such optimization and joint venture efforts may not be successful.

As part of the Company’s strategic plan, it intends to pursue growth through localized, market-driven models. In particular, the Company intends to pursue regional joint venture arrangements in which the Company licenses, for a fee to an operator of flexible space in a location in which WeWork does not operate, the use of the WeWork technology and services for managing and powering flexible work spaces and access to WeWork’s customer base. These business models are unproven and there can be no assurance that the Company will be successful in these efforts.

Some of the counterparty risks the Company faces with respect to its members are heightened in the case of Enterprise Members.

Enterprise Members, which often sign membership agreements with longer terms and for a greater number of memberships than other non-Enterprise members, accounted for 50%, 49%, 40% and 32% of the Company’s total membership and service revenue for the six months ended June 30, 2021 and the year ended December 31, 2020, 2019 and 2018, respectively. Memberships attributable to Enterprise Members generally account for a high proportion of the Company’s revenue at a particular location, and some of its locations are occupied by just one Enterprise Member. In addition, increasing Enterprise Members is a continuing part of the Company’s overall strategy. A default by an Enterprise Member under its agreement with the Company could cause a significant reduction in the operating cash flow generated by the location where that Enterprise Member is situated. The Company would also incur certain costs following an unexpected vacancy by an Enterprise Member. Given the greater amount of space generally occupied by any Enterprise Member relative to the Company’s other members, the time and effort required to execute a definitive agreement with an Enterprise Member is greater than the time and effort required to execute membership agreements with individuals or small- or mid-sized businesses, and accordingly, replacing an Enterprise Member after an unexpected vacancy by such Enterprise Member could require a significant amount of the Company's time, energy and resources. In addition, in some instances, the Company offers configured solutions that require it to customize the workspace to the specific needs and brand aesthetics of the Enterprise Member, which may increase its build-out costs and its net capital expenditures per workstation added. If Enterprise Members were to delay commencement of their membership agreements, fail to make membership fee payments when due, declare bankruptcy or otherwise default on their obligations to the Company, the Company may be forced to terminate their membership agreements with the Company, which could result in sunk costs and transaction costs that are difficult or impossible for the Company to recover.

The Company is exposed to risks associated with the development and construction of the spaces it occupies.

Opening new locations subjects the Company to risks that are associated with development projects in general, such as delays in construction, contract disputes and claims, fines or penalties levied by government authorities relating to the Company's construction activities, and reliance on third parties for products used in the Company's locations. The Company may also experience delays opening a new location as a result of delays by the building owners or landlords in completing their base building work or as a result of its inability to obtain, or delays in its obtaining, all necessary zoning, land-use, building, occupancy and other required governmental permits and authorizations. The Company traditionally has sought to open new locations on the first day of a month and delays, even if the delay only lasts a few days, can cause it to defer opening a new location by a full month. Failure to open a location on schedule may damage the Company's reputation and brand and may also cause it to incur expenses in order to rent and provide temporary space for its members or to provide those members with discounted membership fees.

In developing its spaces, the Company generally relies on the continued availability and satisfactory performance of unaffiliated third-party general contractors and subcontractors to perform the actual construction work and, in many cases, to select and obtain certain building materials, including in some cases from sole-source suppliers of such materials. As a result, the timing and quality of the development of its occupied spaces depends on the performance of these third parties on the Company's behalf.

The Company does not have long-term contractual commitments with general contractors, subcontractors or materials suppliers, except for pricing agreements with certain major materials suppliers. The prices the Company pays for the labor or materials provided by these third parties, or other construction-related costs, could unexpectedly increase, which could have an adverse effect on the viability of the projects the Company pursues and on its results of operations and liquidity. Skilled parties and high-quality materials may not continue to be available at reasonable rates in the markets in which the Company pursues its construction activities.

In addition, the Company sources some of the products that it uses in its spaces from third-party suppliers. Although the Company tests the products it purchases from these third-party suppliers, the Company may not be able to identify any or all defects associated with those products. If a member or other third party were to suffer an injury from the products the Company uses in its space, the Company may suffer damage to its reputation, and may be exposed to possible liability.

The people the Company engages in connection with a construction project are subject to the usual hazards associated with providing construction and related services on construction project sites, which can cause personal injury and loss of life, damage to or destruction of property, plant and equipment, and environmental damage. The Company's insurance coverage may be inadequate in scope or coverage amount to fully compensate it for any losses it may incur arising from any such events at a construction site it operates or oversees. In some cases, general contractors and their subcontractors may use improper construction practices or defective materials. Improper construction practices or defective materials can result in the need to perform extensive repairs to the Company's spaces, loss of revenue during the repairs and, potentially, personal injury or death. The Company also can suffer damage to its reputation, and may be exposed to possible liability, if these third parties fail to comply with applicable laws.

The Company incurs costs relating to the maintenance, refurbishment and remediation of its spaces.

The terms of its leases generally require that the Company ensure that the spaces it occupies are kept in good repair throughout the term of the lease. The terms of its leases may also require that the Company remove certain fixtures and improvements to the space or return the space to the landlord at the end of the lease term in the same condition it was delivered to the Company, which, in such instances, will require removing all fixtures and improvements to the space at the end of the lease term. The costs associated with this maintenance, removal and repair work may be significant and vary depending on the lease.

The Company also anticipates that it will be required to periodically refurbish its spaces to keep pace with the changing needs of its members. Extensive refurbishments may be more costly and time-consuming than the Company expects and may adversely affect the Company's results of operations and financial condition. The Company's member experience may be adversely affected if extensive refurbishments disrupt its operations at its locations.

Supply chain interruptions and certain payment processes may increase the Company's costs or reduce its revenues.

The Company depends on the effectiveness of its supply chain management systems to ensure reliable and sufficient supply, on reasonably favorable terms, of materials used in its construction and development and operating activities, such as furniture, lighting, millwork, wood flooring, security equipment and consumables. The materials the Company purchases and uses in the ordinary course of its business are sourced from a wide variety of suppliers around the world. Disruptions in the supply chain have resulted and may continue to result from COVID-19, and may also result from weather-related events, natural disasters, pandemics, trade restrictions, tariffs, border controls, acts of war, terrorist attacks, third-party strikes or ineffective cross dock operations, work stoppages or slowdowns, shipping capacity constraints, supply or shipping interruptions or other factors beyond its control. In the event of disruptions in the Company's existing supply chain, the labor and materials it relies on in the ordinary course of its business may not be available at reasonable rates or at all. In some cases, the Company may rely on a single source for procurement of construction materials, services or other supplies in a given region. Any disruption in the supply of certain materials could disrupt operations at the Company's existing locations or significantly delay its opening of a new location, which may cause harm to its reputation and results of operations.

In addition, third-party suppliers may require payment upfront or deposits. As a result, the Company may not be able to obtain the most favorable pricing, which may increase the Company's costs or reduce its revenues. Additionally, lowered credit limits provided by a number of the Company's suppliers may limit its purchasing power.

If the Company's pricing and related promotional and marketing plans are not effective, its business and prospects may be negatively affected.

The Company's business and prospects depend on the impact of pricing and related promotional and marketing plans and its ability to adjust these plans to respond quickly to economic and competitive conditions. If the Company's pricing and related promotional and marketing plans are not successful, or are not as successful as those of competitors, its revenue, membership base and market share could decrease, thereby adversely impacting its results of operations.

The Company's internal controls, financial systems and procedures need further development for a public company and a company of its global scale.

Pursuant to Section 404 of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act ("Section 404") and the related rules adopted by the SEC and the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, after the closing of the Business Combination, our management will be required to report on the effectiveness of our disclosure controls and internal control over financial reporting, and our auditor will be required to deliver an attestation report on the effectiveness of our disclosure controls and internal control over financial reporting, starting with the second annual report that we file with the SEC after the completion of this offering. Because we are not currently required to comply with Section 404, we are not currently required to make an assessment of the effectiveness of our internal controls, or to deliver a report that assesses the effectiveness of our internal control over financial reporting. We have not yet determined whether our existing internal controls over financial reporting are compliant with Section 404. This process will require the investment of substantial time and resources, including by our Chief Financial Officer and other members of our senior management. In addition, we cannot predict the outcome of this determination and whether we will need to implement remedial actions. Management's assessment of our internal control systems and procedures may identify weaknesses and conditions that need to be addressed or other matters that may raise concerns for investors. The determination and any remedial actions required could result in us incurring additional costs that we did not anticipate. Additionally, any actual or perceived weakness or condition that needs to be addressed in our internal control systems may have an adverse impact on our business.

Irrespective of compliance with Section 404, given the Company's previous growth rate, we will need to further develop our internal control systems and procedures to keep pace with our growth and we are currently working to improve our controls. As part of the strategic plan put in place by new management, the Company believes that it has stabilized its growth and it continues to focus on further development of internal controls in order to accommodate the Company's global scale. Some of the Company's internal controls, financial systems and procedures are still in the process of being updated. However, the planned development of our internal controls may not proceed smoothly or on the Company's projected timetable, and this framework may not fully protect it against operational risks and losses. If we are unable to implement any of the changes to our internal controls, financial systems and procedures effectively or efficiently, it could adversely affect our operations, financial reporting and results of operations.

We have made, and will continue to make, changes to our financial management control systems and other areas to manage our obligations as a public company, including corporate governance, corporate controls, disclosure controls and procedures and financial reporting and accounting systems. However, these and other measures that we might take may not be sufficient to allow us to satisfy our obligations as a public company on a timely basis. If we fail to maintain effective systems, controls and procedures, including disclosure controls and internal controls over financial reporting, our ability to produce timely and accurate financial statements or comply with applicable regulations and prevent fraud could be adversely impacted. We may also experience higher than anticipated operating expenses, as well as higher independent auditor fees, during and after the implementation of these changes.

If we are unable to implement any of the changes to our internal controls over financial reporting effectively or efficiently or are required to do so earlier than anticipated, it could adversely affect our operations, financial reporting and results of operations. Additionally, we do not expect that our internal control systems, even if timely and well established, will prevent all errors and all fraud. Internal control systems, no matter how well designed and operated, can provide only reasonable, not absolute, assurance that the control system's objectives will be met.

The Company relies on a combination of proprietary and third-party technology systems to support its business and member experience, and, if these systems experience difficulties, the Company's business, financial condition, results of operations and prospects may be materially adversely affected.

The Company uses a combination of proprietary technology and technology provided by third-party service providers to support its business and its member experience. For example, the WeWork app, which the Company developed in-house but which incorporates third-party and open source software, connects local communities and develops and deepens connections among its members, both at particular spaces and across its global network.

The Company also uses technology of third-party service providers to help manage the daily operations of its business. For example, the Company relies on its own internal systems as well as those of third-party service providers to process membership payments and other payments from its members.

To the extent the Company experiences difficulties in the operation of technologies and systems the Company uses to manage the daily operations of its business or that the Company makes available to its members, the Company's ability to operate its business, retain existing members and attract new members may be impaired. The Company may not be able to attract and retain sufficiently skilled and experienced technical or operations personnel and third-party contractors to operate and maintain these technologies and systems, and its current product and service offerings may not continue to be, and new product and service offerings may not be, supported by the applicable third-party service providers on commercially reasonable terms or at all.

Moreover, the Company may be subject to claims by third parties who maintain that its service providers' technology infringes the third party's intellectual property rights. Although the Company's agreements with its third-party service providers often contain indemnities in the Company's favor with respect to these eventualities, the Company may not be indemnified for these claims or the Company may not be successful in obtaining indemnification to which the Company is entitled.

Also, any harm to its members' personal computers or other devices caused by its software, such as the WeWork app, wifi or other sources of harm, such as hackers or computer viruses, could have an adverse effect on the member experience, the Company's reputation and its results of operations and financial condition.

The Company uses third-party open source software components, which may pose particular risks to its proprietary software, technologies, products and services in a manner that could negatively affect the Company's business.

The Company uses open source software in its WeWork app and other services and will continue to use open source software in the future. Use and distribution of open source software may entail greater risks than use of third-party commercial software, as open source licensors generally do not provide support, warranties, indemnification or other contractual protections regarding infringement claims or the quality of the code. To the extent that the Company's services depend upon the successful operation of open source software, any undetected errors or defects in this open source software could prevent the deployment or impair the functionality of our app or other services and injure our reputation.

Some open source licenses contain requirements that licensees make available source code for modifications or derivative works created based upon the type of open source software used, or grant other licenses to intellectual property. If the Company combines its proprietary software with open source software in a certain manner, it could, under certain open source licenses, be required to release or license the source code of its proprietary software to the public. From time to time, the Company may be subject to claims claiming ownership of, or demanding release of, the source code for such open source software, the software and/or derivative works that are developed using such open source licensed software, requiring the Company to provide attributions of any open source software incorporated into its distributed software, or otherwise seeking to enforce the terms of the applicable open source license. These claims could also result in litigation, require the Company to purchase a costly license or require the Company to devote additional resources to re-engineer its software or change its products or services, any of which could have an adverse effect on the Company's business and results of operations.

If the Company's proprietary information and/or data it collects and stores, particularly billing and personal data, were to be accessed by unauthorized persons, the Company's reputation, competitive advantage and relationships with its members could be harmed and its business could be materially adversely affected.

The Company generates significant amounts of proprietary, sensitive and otherwise confidential information relating to its business and operations, and the Company collects, stores and processes confidential and personal data regarding its members, including member names and billing data. Its proprietary information and data are maintained on the Company's own systems as well as the systems of third-party service providers.

Similar to other companies, the Company's information technology systems face the threat of insider threats or cyber-attacks, such as security breaches, exfiltration, phishing scams, malware and denial-of-service attacks. The Company's systems or the systems of its third-party service providers could experience unauthorized intrusions or inadvertent data breaches, which could result in the exposure or destruction of the Company's proprietary information and/or members' data and the disruption of business operations.

Because techniques used to obtain unauthorized access to systems or sabotage systems change frequently and may not be known until launched against the Company or its service providers, the Company and its service providers may be unable to anticipate these attacks or implement adequate preventative measures. In addition, any party who is able to illicitly obtain identification and password credentials could potentially gain unauthorized access to the Company's systems or the systems of its third-party service providers. If any such event occurs, the Company may have to spend significant capital and other resources to notify affected individuals, regulators and others as required under applicable law, mitigate the impact of the event and develop and implement protections to prevent future events of that nature from occurring. From time to time, employees make mistakes with respect to security policies that are not always immediately detected by compliance policies and procedures. These can include errors in software implementation or a failure to follow protocols and patch systems. Employee errors, even if promptly discovered and remediated, may disrupt operations or result in unauthorized disclosure of confidential information. The Company has experienced unauthorized breaches of its systems in the past, which the Company believes did not have a material effect on its business.

If a data security incident occurs, or is perceived to occur, the Company may be the subject of negative publicity and the perception of the effectiveness of its security measures and its reputation may be harmed, which could damage the Company's relationships and result in the loss of existing or potential members and adversely affect its results of operations and financial condition. In addition, even if there is no compromise of member information, the Company could incur significant regulatory fines, be the subject of litigation or enforcement proceedings or face other claims. In addition, the Company's insurance coverage may not be sufficient in type or amount to cover it against claims related to security breaches, cyber-attacks and other related data and system incidents.

If new operating rules or interpretations of existing rules are adopted regarding the processing of credit cards that the Company is unable to comply with, the Company could lose the ability to give members the option to make electronic payments, which could result in the loss of existing or potential members and adversely affect its business.

The Company's reputation, competitive advantage, financial position and relationships with its members could be materially harmed if the Company is unable to comply with complex and evolving data protection and privacy laws and regulations, and the costs and resources required to achieve compliance may have a materially adverse impact on its business.

The Company's reputation, competitive advantage, financial position and relationships with its members could be materially harmed if the Company is unable to comply with complex and evolving data protection and privacy laws and regulations, and the costs and resources required to achieve compliance may have a materially adverse impact on its business.

The collection, protection and use of personal data are governed by privacy laws and regulations enacted in the United States, Europe, Asia, Latin America and other jurisdictions around the world in which the Company operates. These laws and regulations continue to evolve and may be inconsistent from one jurisdiction to another. Compliance with applicable privacy laws and regulations may increase the Company's costs of doing business and adversely impact its ability to conduct its business and market its solutions, products and services to its members and potential members.

For example, the Company is subject to the European Union’s General Data Protection Regulation (EU) 2016/679 (“GDPR”), which applies to all members of the European Economic Area (“EEA”) and, in some circumstances, to processors in a state outside the EEA including any business, regardless of its location, that provides goods or services to individuals located in the EEA. The GDPR imposes significant obligations on data controllers and data processors, requiring the implementation of more stringent requirements for the processing of personal data. If the Company fails to comply with the GDPR, it may lead to regulatory investigation with possible enforcement of monetary penalties ranging from 10 million to 20 million euro, or 2% to 4% of annual worldwide revenue (whichever is higher), private or class action lawsuits and/or reputational damage.

Further, withdrawal of the United Kingdom (“UK”) from the European Union (“EU”) and the unknown financial, trade, regulatory and legal implications could lead to legal uncertainty and potentially divergent national laws and regulations. In particular, while the Data Protection Act of 2018, which supplements the GDPR, is now effective in the UK alongside the UK GDPR, it is still unclear whether transfer of data from the EEA to the UK will remain lawful under the GDPR without additional safeguards. Under the EU-UK Trade and Cooperation Agreement signed on 30 December 2020, following the expiry of the transition period, the UK will continue to benefit from the free movement of data from the EU until the earlier of (a) the European Commission reaching an adequacy decision with respect to the UK; or (b) a period of four months (which may be extended for a further two months) from the date the EU-UK Trade and Cooperation Agreement enters into force (the “Specified Period”). In the meantime, the European Commission published its draft adequacy decision, finding that the UK does ensure an adequate level of data protection. Before the decision is formally adopted, the European Data Protection Board will need to issue a non-binding opinion on the draft and each Member State must approve the decision. There is currently uncertainty as to how long this process will take. In the interim, transfers of personal data from the EEA to the UK will not be considered transfers to a third country. Should approval not be obtained prior to the expiry of the Specified Period, organizations will be required to implement a valid data transfer mechanism for data transfers from the EEA to the UK. The Company may incur costs to comply with new requirements and restrictions for data transfers between the EEA and the UK based on applicable regulations.

EU legislators are preparing a new privacy Regulation to amend and replace the ePrivacy Directive (2002/58/EC). This change in the law on an EU level may have significant impact on the legal requirements for electronic communication including the operation of and user interaction with websites (such as possibly requiring browsers to block access and use of device data and storage by default) and the placement of cookies. Whereas it is currently still unclear if and when the proposed ePrivacy Regulation will enter into effect, European regulators and courts tend to apply the current law more restrictively in a way which effectively anticipates opt-in requirements under the proposed ePrivacy Regulation. Other governmental authorities in the markets in which the Company operate are also considering additional and potentially diverging legislative and regulatory proposals that would increase the level and complexity of regulation on Internet display, disclosure and advertising activities. Additionally, there is currently increased attention on cookies and tracking technologies in Europe, with EU regulators taking a strict approach to enforcement in this area. These changes could lead to substantial costs, require system changes, limit the effectiveness of the Company’s marketing activities and subject the Company to additional liabilities.

EU laws regulate transfers of EEA personal data to third countries, such as the United States, that have not been found to provide adequate protection to such personal data. Recent legal developments in the EU have created complexity and uncertainty regarding transfers of personal data from the EEA and the UK to the United States and other jurisdictions. For example, on July 16, 2020, the European Court of Justice (“CJEU”) invalidated the EU-U.S. Privacy Shield framework (“Privacy Shield”), which provided companies with a mechanism to comply with data protection requirements when transferring personal data from the EEA/UK to the United States. The same decision also cast doubt on the ability to use one of the primary alternatives to the EU-U.S. Privacy Shield framework, namely, the European Commission’s Standard Contractual Clauses (“SCCs”), to lawfully transfer personal data from Europe to the United States and most other countries (though the SCCs currently remain a valid data transfer mechanism under the GDPR and UK GDPR). At present, there are few if any viable alternatives to the Privacy Shield Frameworks and the SCCs for the foregoing purposes, which may lead to governmental enforcement actions, litigation, fines and penalties or adverse publicity which could have an adverse effect on our reputation and business.

Additionally, in June 2018, California passed the California Consumer Privacy Act (“CCPA”), which provides new data privacy rights for consumers and new operational requirements for companies, effective in 2020. The CCPA gives California residents new rights to access and require deletion of their personal information, opt out of certain personal information sharing, and receive detailed information about how their personal information is collected, used, and shared. The CCPA provides for civil penalties for violations, and creates a private right of action for security breaches that could lead to consumer class actions and other litigation against the Company. As CCPA enforcement began on July 1, 2020, it remains unclear what, if any, modifications will be made to the regulations implementing the CCPA or how the CCPA and its implementing regulations will be interpreted. Varied interpretations of or modifications to the CCPA and its implementing regulations may have a significant effect on our business and may require us to modify our data collection or processing practices and policies and to incur substantial costs and expenses in an effort to comply. Other U.S. states and the U.S. Congress have adopted or are in the process of considering legislation similar to California’s legislation. This legislation may add additional complexity, variation in requirements, restrictions and potential legal risk, require additional investment in resources to compliance programs, and could impact strategies and availability of previously useful data and could result in increased compliance costs and/or changes in business practices and policies. If the Company fails to comply with the CCPA or other federal or state data protection and data privacy laws, or if regulators or plaintiffs assert the Company has failed to comply with them, it may lead to regulatory enforcement actions, private lawsuits and/or reputational damage. Additionally, a new California ballot initiative, the California Privacy Rights Act, or the CPRA, passed in California in November 2020. The CPRA will impose additional data protection obligations on companies doing business in California, including additional consumer rights processes and opt outs for certain uses of sensitive data. The majority of the provisions will go into effect on January 1, 2023, and additional compliance investment and changes to business processes may be required.

In Canada, the Company is subject to Canada’s Personal Information and Protection of Electronic Documents Act (“PIPEDA”). PIPEDA provides Canadian residents with privacy protections and sets out rules for how companies may collect, use and disclose personal information in the course of commercial activities. The costs of compliance with, and other burdens imposed by, these and other international data privacy and security laws may limit the use and adoption of the Company’s solutions, products and services and could have a materially adverse impact on its business. Any failure or perceived failure by the Company or third-party service providers to comply with international data privacy and security laws may lead to regulatory enforcement actions, fines, private lawsuits or reputational damage.

Failure to comply with marketing, consumer protection, and data privacy laws could result in fines or restrict the Company’s business practices.

The Company is expanding its business through new digital and e-commerce products. The Company may not be in compliance with consumer protection laws (such as ROSCA PROFECO), unfair contract clauses, sales, marketing and advertising laws or other similar laws in certain jurisdictions. These laws, as well as any changes in these laws, could negatively affect current or planned digital and e-commerce product offerings and subject the Company to regulatory review and fines and an increase in lawsuits. Consumer protection laws may be interpreted or applied by regulatory authorities in a manner that could require the Company to make changes to its operations or incur fines, penalties, litigation or settlement expenses and refunds which may result in harm to its business.

The Company has not obtained and may not obtain all regulatory approvals from government agencies and may not be in compliance with telecommunications laws associated with the Company’s anticipated product offerings prior to marketing and launching these products in certain jurisdictions. If the Company does not comply with any current or future state regulations that apply to its business, the Company could be subject to substantial fines and penalties, may have to restructure its product offerings, exit certain markets, or raise the price of its products, any of which could ultimately harm its business and results of operations. Any enforcement action by the regulators, which may be a public process, could hurt the Company's reputation in the industry, possibly impair its ability to sell products to its customers and harm its business.

The Company plans to continue operating its business in markets outside the United States, which will subject it to risks associated with operating in foreign jurisdictions.

Expanding operations into markets outside the United States was historically an important part of the Company's growth strategy. The Company expects that operations in markets outside the United States will continue to represent a significant portion of its business in the coming years.

While the Company plans to prioritize operating internationally in certain markets through localized, market-driven models, including through joint ventures, in line with its new business strategy, the success and profitability of its business in non-U.S. markets will continue to depend on its ability to attract local members. The solutions, products and services the Company, or its joint venture partners, offers or determines to offer in the future may not appeal to potential members in all markets in the same way it appeals to its members in markets where the Company currently operates. In addition, local competitors may have a substantial competitive advantage over the Company in a given market because of their greater understanding of, and focus on, individuals and organizations in that market, as well as their more established local infrastructure and brands. The Company may also be unable to hire, train, retain and manage the personnel the Company requires in order to manage its international operations effectively, on a timely basis or at all, which may limit the Company's ability to operate effectively in these markets and negatively impact its financial performance in these markets. Further, the Company may experience variability in the terms of its leases (including rent per square foot) and in its capital expenditures as the Company moves into new markets.

Operating in international markets, which may require operating through new localized, market-driven models in accordance with the Company's strategic plan, requires significant resources and management attention and subjects the Company to regulatory, economic and political risks that may be different from and incremental to those that the Company faces in the United States, including:

- the need to adapt the design and features of its locations and products and services to accommodate specific cultural norms and language differences;
- difficulties in understanding and complying with local laws and regulations in foreign jurisdictions, including local labor laws, tax laws, environmental regulations and rules and regulations related to occupancy of its locations;
- varying local building codes and regulations relating to building design, construction, safety, environmental protection and related matters;
- significant reliance on third parties with whom the Company may engage in joint ventures, strategic alliances or ordinary course contracting relationships whose interests and incentives may be adverse to or different from the Company's or may be unknown to the Company;
- varying laws, rules, regulations and practices regarding protection and enforcement of intellectual property rights, including trademarks;
- varying marketing and consumer protection laws, regulations and related practices
- laws and regulations regarding consumer and data protection, telecommunications requirements, privacy and security, and encryption that may be more restrictive than comparable laws and regulations in the United States;

- corrupt or unethical practices in foreign jurisdictions that may subject the Company to compliance costs, including competitive disadvantages, or exposure under applicable anti-corruption and anti-bribery laws, including the U.S. Foreign Corrupt Practices Act of 1977, as amended (the “FCPA”);
- compliance with applicable export and import controls and economic and trade sanctions, such as sanctions administered by the U.S. Department of the Treasury’s Office of Foreign Assets Control;
- fluctuations in currency exchange rates and compliance with foreign exchange controls and limitations on repatriation of funds; and
- unpredictable disruptions as a result of security threats or political or social unrest and economic instability.

Finally, continued expansion in markets outside the United States may require significant financial and other investments. These investments include developing relationships with local partners and third-party service providers, property sourcing and leasing, marketing to attract and retain new members, developing localized infrastructure and services, further developing corporate capabilities able to support operations and international trade compliance in multiple countries, and potentially entering into strategic transactions with companies based outside the United States and integrating those companies with the Company’s existing operations. If the Company continues to invest time and resources to expand its operations outside the United States, but cannot manage these risks effectively, the costs of doing business in those markets, including the investment of management attention, may be prohibitive, or the Company’s expenses may increase disproportionately to the revenue generated in those markets.

As the Company continues to grow in new and existing markets using varying models, certain metrics may be impacted by the geographic mix of its locations. While the Company intends to pursue profitable growth in accordance with its strategic plan, the Company’s overall results of operations could be negatively impacted if lower margin markets, including markets such as Latin America and Southeast Asia, were to become a larger portion of the Company’s real estate portfolio. Margins may also be negatively impacted by an increase in the percentage of the real estate portfolio subject to joint venture arrangements, which may reduce the Company’s down-side risk but could also limit up-side potential as we share in profits with our partners.

The Company faces risks arising from strategic transactions such as acquisitions, divestitures, investments and regional joint venture arrangements that it evaluates, pursues and undertakes.

The Company has historically evaluated potential strategic acquisition or investment opportunities, and it has pursued and undertaken certain of those opportunities. The process of acquiring and integrating another company or technology could create unforeseen operating difficulties and expenditures and could entail unforeseen liabilities that are not recoverable under the relevant transaction agreements or otherwise.

WeWork and Cushman entered into a non-binding exclusive strategic partnership to market both landlords and businesses on WeWork’s management experience platform and on new jointly developed solutions. The material terms of the partnership are non-binding and subject to finalization of definitive documentation. There can be no assurance that WeWork will enter into definitive documentation or consummate the transactions with Cushman, or that WeWork will realize the anticipated benefits of its partnership with Cushman.

The Company has recently divested certain assets or businesses that no longer fit with its strategic direction or growth targets, including businesses that the Company had recently acquired. For example, the Company has divested several non-core businesses, including Meetup, MBQ, Flatiron, SpaceIQ, Teem, Conductor and Fieldlens. Furthermore, the Company intends to pursue regional joint venture arrangements in which the Company licenses, for a fee to an operator of flexible space in a location in which WeWork does not operate, the use of WeWork’s technology and services for managing and powering flexible work spaces and access to WeWork’s customer base. In 2021, an affiliate of SBG and WeWork signed an agreement with respect to the formation of a regional joint venture for certain of WeWork’s Latin American operations.

The transactions described above involve significant risks and uncertainties, including:

- inability to find potential partners;
- inability to obtain favorable terms for the Company's regional joint venture agreements;
- failure to effectively transfer liabilities, contracts, facilities and employees to buyers or partners;
- requirements that the Company retain or indemnify buyers or partners against certain liabilities and obligations;
- the possibility that the Company will become subject to third-party claims arising out of such divestitures or regional joint venture arrangements;
- inability to reduce fixed costs previously associated with the divested assets or business or in markets where the Company enters into a regional joint venture arrangement;
- disruption of the Company's ongoing business and distraction of management;
- loss of key employees who leave as a result of a divestiture or regional joint venture arrangement; and
- loss of members from WeWork locations to other flex workspace providers in similar locations.

Because acquisitions and divestitures as well as regional joint venture arrangements are inherently risky, the transactions may not be successful and may, in some cases, harm the Company's operating results or financial condition.

The Company has entered into certain agreements that may limit its ability to directly acquire ownership interests in properties, and its control and joint ownership of certain properties with third-party investors may create conflicts of interest.

The Company holds an ownership interest in the WeCap Investment Group (formerly known as ARK), its real estate acquisition and management platform, through its majority ownership of the general partner and manager entities that manage the activities of real estate acquisition vehicles managed or sponsored by the WeCap Investment Group. In connection with the establishment of the real estate investment platform, WeCap Investment Group, the Company agreed that WeCap Holdings Partnership would be the exclusive general partner and the WeWork Capital Advisors LLC would be the exclusive investment manager for any real estate acquisition vehicles managed by, or otherwise affiliated with, the Company and its controlled affiliates and associated persons. The Company also agreed to make commercial real estate and other real estate-related investment opportunities that meet WeCap Investment Group's mandate available to the WeCap Investment Group on a first-look basis, with certain limited exceptions. Because of these requirements, which are in effect at least until there are no real estate acquisition vehicles managed or sponsored by the WeCap Investment Group that are actively deploying capital, the Company may be required to acquire ownership interests in properties through the WeCap Investment Group that the Company otherwise could have acquired through one of its operating subsidiaries, which may prevent the Company from realizing the full benefit of certain attractive real estate opportunities.

Additionally, the WeCap Investment Group primarily focuses on acquiring, developing and managing properties that the WeCap Investment Group believes could benefit from the Company's occupancy or involvement, and the Company expects a subsidiary to occupy or be involved with a meaningful portion of the properties acquired by real estate acquisition vehicles managed or sponsored by the WeCap Investment Group. The Company's ownership interest in the WeCap Investment Group may create situations where its interests with respect to the exercise of the WeCap Investment Group's management rights in respect of assets owned or controlled by the WeCap Investment Group, as well as the WeCap Investment Group's duties to limited partners or similar members in real estate acquisition vehicles managed or sponsored by the WeCap Investment Group, may be in conflict with the Company's own independent economic interests as a tenant and operator of its locations. For example, conflicts may arise in connection with decisions regarding the structure and terms of the leases entered into between the Company and the WeCap Investment Group, tenant improvement allowances, or guarantee or termination provisions. Conflicts of interest may also arise in connection with the exercise of contractual remedies under such leases, such as treatment of events of default.

The Company's ownership interest in the WeCap Investment Group may impact its financial condition and results of operations.

WeCap Investment Group's financial performance is significantly correlated with the activities of real estate acquisition vehicles managed or sponsored by the WeCap Investment Group, and a significant portion of any income to the WeCap Investment Group is expected to be received, if at all, at the end of the holding period for one or more given assets or the term of one or more given real estate acquisition vehicles. In addition, a broad range of events or circumstances could cause any real estate acquisition vehicle managed or sponsored by the WeCap Investment Group to fail to meet its objectives. In light of the long-dated and uncertain nature of any income to the WeCap Investment Group, the WeCap Investment Group's financial performance may be more variable than the Company expects, both from period to period and overall. Accordingly, because of the Company's ownership interest in the WeCap Investment Group, the WeCap Investment Group's performance and activities, including the nature and timing of the WeCap Investment Group transactions, may affect the comparability of the Company's financial condition and results of operations from period to period, in each case to the extent required to be directly included in its consolidated financial statements in accordance with GAAP.

Additionally, although the Company does not generally expect this to be the case, investments through real estate acquisition vehicles managed or sponsored by the WeCap Investment Group may require that the Company directly incur or guarantee debt, which the Company expects will typically be through loans secured by assets or properties that the WeCap Investment Group acquires. For example, an entity in which the Company previously held an interest with the WeCap Investment Group and others incurred a secured loan to purchase certain property in New York City in 2019, which the Company had leased from that entity. Until the secured loan was repaid in connection with the sale of the property in March 2020, it was recourse to WeWork Companies LLC and WeWork in certain limited circumstances, and WeWork Companies LLC and WeWork also provided performance guarantees relating to the lease and development of that property.

The Company may not be able to compete effectively with others.

While the Company considers itself to be a leader in the flexible space market, with the largest real estate portfolio on a square footage basis and core competencies in finding, building, filling and operating new locations, the growing shift towards flexible office space may encourage people to launch competing flexible workspace offerings. If new companies decide to launch competing solutions in the markets in which the Company operates, or if any existing competitors obtain a large-scale capital investment, the Company may face increased competition for members.

In addition, some of the services the Company offers or plans to offer are provided by one or more large, national or international companies, as well as by regional and local companies of varying sizes and resources, some of which may have accumulated substantial goodwill in their markets. Some of the Company's competitors may also be better capitalized than it is, have access to better lease terms than it does, have operations in more jurisdictions than it does or be able or willing to provide services at a lower price than it is. The Company's inability to compete effectively in growing or maintaining its membership base could hinder its growth or adversely impact its operating results.

The Company's limited operating history and evolving business make it difficult to evaluate its current business and future prospects.

The Company's limited operating history and the evolution of its business make it difficult to accurately assess its future prospects. It may not be possible to discern fully the economic and other business trends that the Company is subject to. Elements of its business strategy are new and subject to ongoing development as its operations mature. In addition, it may be difficult to evaluate the Company's business because there are few other companies that offer the same or a similar range of solutions, products and services as the Company does.

Certain of the measures the Company uses to evaluate its financial and operating performance, including the Projections (defined below), are subject to inherent challenges in measurement and may be impacted by subjective determinations and not necessarily by changes in its business.

The Company tracks certain operational metrics, including key performance indicators such as memberships and projections, with internal systems and tools that are not independently verified by any third party. Certain of the Company's operational metrics are also based on assumptions or estimates of future events. In particular, the number of open locations, pre-opening locations and pipeline locations is compiled from a number of data sources depending on the phase of the location within the lifecycle that the Company attributes to its locations. For open locations, workstation capacity for shared workspace offerings, which account for a subset of its standard workspace solutions, is estimated on a location-by-location basis by its design and regional community teams based on demand and the characteristics and distinct local personality of the relevant community. Meanwhile, for pre-opening and pipeline locations, workstation capacity is estimated by its real estate and design teams based on its building information modeling software, and includes estimated workstation capacity for locations that are the subject of a draft term sheet or lease that may not result in a signed lease agreement or an open location.

The Company's internal systems and tools have a number of limitations, and its methodologies for tracking these metrics may change over time. In addition, limitations or errors with respect to how the Company measures data or with respect to the data that the Company measures may affect its understanding of certain details of its business, which could affect its long-term strategies. If the internal systems and tools the Company uses to track these metrics understate or overstate performance or contain algorithmic or other technical errors, the data the Company reports may not be accurate. If the Company discovers material inaccuracies with respect to these figures, its reputation may be significantly harmed, and its results of operations and financial condition could be adversely affected.

The Company does not, as a matter of general practice, publicly disclose long-term forecasts or internal projections of its future performance, revenue, financial condition or other results. The Projections included in this proxy statement/prospectus were prepared solely for internal use and not with a view toward public disclosure, the published guidelines of the SEC regarding projections or the guidelines established by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants for preparation and presentation of prospective financial information. The Projections are forward looking statements that are inherently subject to significant uncertainties and contingencies, many of which are beyond the Company's control. The Projections also reflect numerous estimates and assumptions, including, but not limited to, general business, economic, regulatory, market and financial conditions, as well as assumptions about competition, future industry performance and matters specific to WeWork's business. There can be no assurance that WeWork's financial condition, including its cash flows or results of operations will be consistent with those set forth in the Projections, which could have an adverse impact on the market price of New WeWork Common Stock or the financial position of New WeWork following the closing of the Business Combination.

If the Company's employees were to engage in a strike or other work stoppage or interruption or seek to unionize, the Company's business, results of operations, financial condition and liquidity could be materially adversely affected.

If disputes with the Company's employees arise, or if its workers engage in a strike or other work stoppage or interruption or seek to unionize, the Company could experience a significant disruption of, or inefficiencies in, its operations or incur higher labor costs, which could have a material adverse effect on its business, results of operations, financial condition and liquidity. In addition, some of the Company's employees outside of the United States are represented or may seek to be represented by a labor union or workers' council.

The Company is subject to litigation, investigations and other legal proceedings which could adversely affect its business, financial condition and results of operations.

The Company has in the past been, is currently and expects to continue in the future to be a party to or involved in pre-litigation disputes, individual actions, putative class actions or other collective actions, U.S. and foreign government regulatory inquiries and investigations and various other legal proceedings arising in the normal course of its business, including with members, employees, landlords and other commercial partners, securityholders, third-party license holders, competitors, government agencies and regulatory agencies, among others. For a description of certain pending legal proceedings and ongoing regulatory matters not in the ordinary course of business, see the section entitled “Legal Matters” in Note 24 of the notes to WeWork’s consolidated financial statements included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus and the sections entitled “Risk Factors — Risks Relating to the Company’s Business — The long-term and fixed-cost nature of the Company’s leases may limit the Company’s operating flexibility and could adversely affect its liquidity and results of operations.” and “— Risks Relating to the Company’s Business — The Company is undergoing a transformation in its business plan under new management and there can be no assurances that this new business strategy will be successful.”

Management intends to vigorously defend these cases and cooperate in these investigations. However, there is a reasonable possibility that the Company could be unsuccessful in defending these claims and could incur a loss. It is not currently possible to estimate a range of reasonably possible loss above the aggregated reserves. The Company also cannot offer any assurances regarding the scope of these investigations, the nature of any actions that these or other regulatory parties will take, or the timing within which they will be resolved.

Negative publicity may lead to additional investigations or lawsuits. Often these cases raise complex factual and legal issues, and the result of any such litigation, investigation or other legal proceeding is inherently unpredictable. Claims against the Company, whether meritorious or not, could require significant amounts of management’s time and attention and the Company’s resources to defend, could result in significant media coverage and negative publicity and could be harmful to the Company’s reputation, its brand and its business. If any of these legal proceedings or government inquiries were to be determined adversely to the Company or result in an enforcement action or judgment against the Company, or if the Company were to enter into settlement arrangements, the Company could be exposed to monetary damages or be forced to change the way in which it operates its business, which could have an adverse effect on the Company’s business, financial condition, results of operations and cash flows. In addition, the Company may incur substantial legal fees and related expenses in connection with defending any investigations or lawsuits and fulfilling certain indemnification obligations.

The Company’s business could be adversely affected by natural disasters, public health crises, political crises or other unexpected events for which the Company may not be sufficiently insured.

Natural disasters and other adverse weather and climate conditions, public health crises, political crises, terrorist attacks, war and other political instability or other unexpected events could disrupt the Company’s operations, damage one or more of its locations or prevent short- or long-term access to one or more of its locations. In particular, another outbreak of a contagious disease or similar public health threat as was experienced with the COVID-19 outbreak, particularly as it may impact the Company’s operations and supply chain, may have a material impact on the Company’s business, results of operations and financial condition.

Many of the Company’s locations are located in the vicinity of disaster zones, including flood zones in New York City and potentially active earthquake faults in the San Francisco Bay Area and Mexico City, and many of its locations are concentrated in metropolitan areas or located in or near prominent buildings, which may be the target of terrorist or other attacks. Although the Company carries comprehensive liability, fire, extended coverage and business interruption insurance with respect to all of its consolidated locations, there are certain types of losses that the Company does not insure against because they are either uninsurable or not insurable on commercially reasonable terms. Should an uninsured event or a loss in excess of the Company’s insured limits occur, the Company could lose some or all of the capital invested in, and anticipated future revenues from, the affected locations, and the Company may nevertheless continue to be subject to obligations related to those locations.

Economic and political instability and potential unfavorable changes in laws and regulations in international markets could adversely affect the Company's results of operations and financial condition.

The Company's business may be affected by political instability and potential unfavorable changes in laws and regulations in international markets in which it operates. For example, the United Kingdom's withdrawal from the European Union, known as "Brexit," that occurred on January 31, 2020, could impact the Company's operations in the United Kingdom. In particular, the real estate industry generally faces substantial uncertainty regarding the impact of Brexit. Adverse consequences could include, but are not limited to: global economic uncertainty and deterioration, volatility in currency exchange rates, adverse changes in regulation of the real estate industry, disruptions to the markets the Company invests in and the tax jurisdictions it operates in (which may adversely impact tax benefits or liabilities in these or other jurisdictions), and/or negative impacts on the operations and financial conditions of the Company's tenants. In addition, Brexit could lead to legal uncertainty and potentially divergent national laws and regulations as the United Kingdom determines which European Union laws to replace or replicate. Given the ongoing uncertainty surrounding the transition period negotiations, the Company cannot predict how the Brexit process will finally be implemented and is continuing to assess the potential impact, if any, of these events on its operations, financial condition, and results of operations.

Additionally, there are concerns regarding potential changes in the future relationship between the United States and various other countries, most significantly China, with respect to trade policies, treaties, government regulations and tariffs. It remains unclear how the United States or foreign governments will act with respect to tariffs, international trade agreements and policies. The implementation by China or other countries of higher tariffs, capital controls, new adverse trade policies or other barriers to entry could have an adverse impact on the Company's business, financial condition and results of operations.

Risks Relating to the Company's Financial Condition

The Company's indebtedness and other obligations could adversely affect its financial condition and liquidity.

As of June 30, 2021, the Company had $669.0 million of outstanding principal on the Senior Notes (defined below). In addition, as of June 30, 2021, the amounts outstanding under the Company's debt financing arrangements with SBG included $1.7 billion in outstanding letters of credit issued under the 2020 LC Facility, under which SBG is a co-obligor, and $2.2 billion in outstanding indebtedness under the SoftBank Senior Unsecured Debt and $349.0 million in principal outstanding under the LC Debt Facility (defined below). As of June 30, 2021 there remained $84.7 million in remaining letter of credit availability under the 2020 LC Facility, and $1.1 billion available to be drawn under the SoftBank Senior Secured Notes. If the Company makes additional draws on the Company's debt financing arrangements with SBG, the Company's total indebtedness will be substantially increased, which could intensify the risks related to its high level of debt. In addition, the Company has $38.92 million of outstanding principal on other loans.

The Company's high level of debt could have important consequences, including the following:

- limiting its ability to obtain additional financing to fund future working capital, capital expenditures, acquisitions or other general corporate requirements, and increasing its cost of borrowing;
- requiring a substantial portion of its cash flows to be dedicated to payments on its obligations instead of for other purposes; and
- increasing its vulnerability to general adverse economic and industry conditions and limiting its flexibility in planning for and reacting to changes in the industry in which the Company competes.

Subject to the limits contained in the indenture governing the Senior Notes and the Company's other debt agreements and obligations, the Company and its subsidiaries will also be able to incur substantial additional debt, lease obligations and other obligations from time to time. If the Company or its subsidiaries do so, the risks related to its high level of debt could intensify.

The Company and its subsidiaries may not be able to generate sufficient cash to service all of their indebtedness and other obligations and may be forced to take other actions to satisfy their obligations, which may not be successful.

The Company and its subsidiaries' ability to make scheduled payments or refinance its obligations depends on their financial condition and operating performance, which are subject to prevailing economic and competitive conditions and to certain financial, business, legislative, regulatory and other factors beyond the Company's control. The Company and its subsidiaries may be unable to maintain a level of cash flows from operating activities sufficient to permit them to pay the principal, premium, if any, and interest on its indebtedness and to pay their lease obligations.

If the Company and its subsidiaries' cash flows and capital resources are insufficient to fund their obligations, the Company and its subsidiaries could face substantial liquidity problems and could be forced to reduce or delay investments and capital expenditures or to dispose of material assets or operations, seek additional debt or equity capital or restructure or refinance their indebtedness and other obligations. The Company and its subsidiaries may not be able to effect any such alternative measures, if necessary, on commercially reasonable terms or at all and, even if successful, those alternative actions may not allow them to meet their scheduled debt obligations. The agreements that govern the Company and its subsidiaries' indebtedness restrict their ability to dispose of certain assets and use the proceeds from those dispositions and may also restrict their ability to raise debt or certain types of equity capital to be used to repay other indebtedness when it becomes due. The Company or its subsidiaries may not be able to consummate those dispositions or to obtain proceeds in an amount sufficient to meet any obligations then due. See the section entitled "WeWork's Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations — Liquidity and Capital Resources."

In addition, the Company conducts a substantial portion of its operations through its subsidiaries. Accordingly, repayment of its indebtedness is dependent on the generation of cash flow by its subsidiaries and their ability to make such cash available to the Company by dividend, debt repayment or otherwise. In the event that the Company's subsidiaries are unable to generate sufficient cash flow, the Company may be unable to make required principal and interest payments on its indebtedness.

If the Company or its subsidiaries cannot make scheduled payments on their debt, the Company or its subsidiaries will be in default and, as a result, lenders under any of their existing and future indebtedness could declare all outstanding principal and interest to be due and payable, the lenders under their debt instruments could terminate their commitments to issue letters of credit, their secured lenders could foreclose against the assets securing such borrowings and the Company or its subsidiaries could be forced into bankruptcy or liquidation.

As of June 30, 2021, the Company had future undiscounted minimum lease cost payment obligations under signed operating and finance leases of $36.6 billion, and if the Company is unable to service its obligations under the lease agreements for particular properties, the Company may be forced to vacate those properties or pay compensatory or consequential damages to the landlord, which could adversely affect its business, reputation and prospects. However, as of June 30, 2021, the total security packages provided by the Company and its subsidiaries in respect of those lease obligations was approximately $6.5 billion, representing less than 20% of future undiscounted minimum lease cost payment obligations. See the section entitled "Risk Factors — Risks relating to the Company's Business — The long-term and fixed-cost nature of the Company's leases may limit its operating flexibility and could adversely affect its liquidity and results of operations."

In addition, the Company's $844.0 million in cash and cash equivalents as of June 30, 2021, included cash and cash equivalents of $102.6 million of its consolidated variable interest entities ("VIEs"), which will be used first to settle obligations of the VIE. Remaining assets may only be distributed to the VIEs' owners, including the Company, subject to the liquidation preferences of certain noncontrolling interest holders and any other preferential distribution provisions contained within the operating agreements of the relevant VIEs. In addition to these amounts, the Company had restricted cash of $11.5 million as of June 30, 2021. The Company Credit Agreement requires the Company and its Subsidiaries (as defined in the Credit Company Agreement) to maintain substantially all cash and cash equivalents in accounts with the administrative agent, subject to certain exceptions, and to maintain a certain amount of cash and cash equivalents in accounts that are subject to an account control agreement in favor of the administrative agent.

Some of the cash that appears on the Company's balance sheet may not be available for use in the Company's business or to meet the Company's debt obligations.

Although the Company may be permitted to use cash deposits from members in the operation of its business until such members demand its return, if required by local law, the Company may need to place cash deposits in separate accounts. In these instances, these cash deposits are blocked and not available for other uses in the Company's business. In addition, at times the Company is required to make cash deposits to support bank guarantees and outstanding letters of credit supporting its obligations under certain office leases or amounts the Company owes to certain vendors from whom it purchases goods and services. These cash deposits are not available for other uses as long as the bank guarantees are outstanding. In addition, the Company Credit Agreement requires the Company and its Subsidiaries (as defined in the Company Credit Agreement) to maintain substantially all cash and cash equivalents in accounts with the administrative agent, subject to certain exceptions, and to maintain a certain amount of cash and cash equivalents in accounts that are subject to an account control agreement in favor of the administrative agent.

Further, total assets of consolidated variable interest entities ("VIEs") included $102.6 million of cash and cash equivalents and $10.1 million of restricted cash as of June 30, 2021. The assets of consolidated VIEs can only be used to settle obligations of the VIE. Finally, certain countries in which the Company does business have regulations that restrict the Company's ability to send cash out of the country without tax penalty or other requirements. In light of the foregoing factors, the amount of cash that appears on the Company's balance sheet may overstate the amount of liquidity the Company has available to meet its business needs or debt obligations, including obligations under the Senior Notes.

The Company may require additional capital, particularly if the Business Combination does not close, which may not be available on terms acceptable to it or at all.

The Company incurred net losses in the six months ended June 30, 2021 and the years ended December 31, 2020, 2019 and 2018 and its primary source of funding since late 2019 is through agreements with SBG, including the SoftBank Senior Unsecured Notes and the Company Credit Agreement. If the Company is not able to achieve its goals to become profitable and cash flow positive in the near-term, it may require additional capital. The Company's future financing requirements will also depend on many factors, including the number of new locations to be opened, its net membership retention rate, the impacts of the COVID-19 pandemic on its business, the timing and extent of spending to support the development of its business, its ability to reduce capital expenditures and the expansion of its sales and marketing activities, and potential joint venture arrangements. The Company's ability to obtain financing will depend on, among other things, its business plans, operating performance, investor demand and the condition of the capital markets at the time the Company seeks financing. Additional capital may not be available to the Company from SBG or from other sources or, if available, may not be available on terms acceptable to the Company or on a timely basis.

The terms of the Company's indebtedness restrict its current and future operations, particularly its ability to respond to changes or take certain actions, including some of which may affect completion of the Company's strategic plan.

The agreements governing the Company's indebtedness contain a number of restrictive covenants that impose significant operating and financial restrictions on the Company and may limit its ability to engage in acts that may be in its long-term best interest, including restrictions on its ability to incur indebtedness (including guarantee obligations), incur liens, enter into mergers or consolidations, dispose of assets, pay dividends, make acquisitions and make investments, loans and advances.

These restrictions may affect the Company's ability to execute on its business strategy, limit its ability to raise additional debt or equity financing to operate its business, including during economic or business downturns, and limit its ability to compete effectively or take advantage of new business opportunities.

The Company has incurred and may incur in the future significant costs related to the development of its workspaces, which the Company may be unable to recover in a timely manner or at all.

Development of a workspace for members typically takes several months from the date the Company takes possession of the space under the relevant lease to the opening date. During this time, the Company incurs substantial upfront costs without recognizing any revenues from the space.

To the extent that our members (in particular Enterprise Members) require configured solutions, we generally enter into multi-year membership agreements to help offset any increased upfront costs related to the development of these workspaces. The Company expects the capital expenditures associated with the development of its workspaces to continue to be one of the primary costs of its business. See the section entitled "WeWork's Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations—Liquidity and Capital Resources." If the Company is unable to complete its development and construction activities for any reason, including an inability to secure adequate funding, or conditions in the real estate market or the broader economy change in ways that are unfavorable, the Company may be unable to recover these costs in a timely manner or at all. The Company's development activities are also subject to cost and schedule overruns as a result of many factors some of which are beyond its control and ability to foresee, including increases in the cost of materials and labor.

While many of the Company's existing leases provide for reimbursement by the landlord or building owner of a portion of the construction and development expenses the Company incurs, the Company may not continue to be granted these provisions in future leases that the Company negotiates. Additionally, the Company's landlords or building owners may not reimburse the Company for these expenses in a timely manner or at all, in which case the Company could exercise its available remedies under the lease. To be eligible for reimbursement of these development expenses, the Company is also required to compile invoices, lien releases and other paperwork from its contractors, which is a time-consuming process that requires the cooperation of third parties whom the Company does not control. The Company has a tracking mechanism and process for enforcing its right to collect reimbursements, however, it may make errors in pursuing these reimbursement entitlements in accordance with the strict requirements of the landlords or building owners the Company deals with. In addition, the Company is subject to counterparty risk with respect to these landlords and building owners.

Changes to accounting rules or regulations and the Company's assumptions, estimates and judgments may adversely affect the reporting of the Company's business, financial condition and results of operations.

The Company's consolidated financial statements are prepared in accordance with U.S. GAAP. New accounting rules or regulations and varying interpretations of existing accounting rules or regulations have occurred and may occur in the future. For example, in February 2016, the FASB issued ASU No. 2016-02, Leases ("ASU 2016-02"), codified as ASC 842, Leases. This update required a lessee to recognize on its balance sheet right-of-use assets and lease liabilities for any leases with a lease term of more than twelve months. The Company adopted ASC 842 early in connection with the preparation of its financial statements as of and for the twelve months ended December 31, 2019, and the adoption had a material impact on the Company's consolidated balance sheet. The Company had lease right-of-use assets, net totaling approximately $13.9 billion and lease obligations totaling approximately $19.9 billion included on its consolidated balance sheet as of June 30, 2021. Other future changes to accounting rules or regulations could have a material adverse effect on the reporting of the Company's business, financial condition and results of operations.

Additionally, the Company's assumptions, estimates and judgments related to complex accounting matters could significantly affect its results of operations. The preparation of financial statements in conformity with GAAP requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the amounts reported and related disclosures. The Company bases its estimates on historical experience and on various other assumptions that the Company believes to be reasonable under the circumstances. These estimates form the basis for judgments about the carrying values of assets, liabilities and equity, as well as the amount of revenue and expenses that are not readily apparent from other sources. As the COVID-19 pandemic has adversely affected and may continue to adversely affect the Company's revenues and expenditures, the extent and duration of restrictions and the overall macroeconomic impact of the pandemic will have an effect on estimates used in the preparation of our financial statements. The Company's financial condition and results of operations may be adversely affected if its assumptions change or if actual circumstances differ from those in its assumptions.

Fluctuations in exchange rates may adversely affect the Company.

The Company's international businesses typically earn revenue and incur expenses in local currencies, primarily the British Pound, Euro, Japanese Yen and Chinese Yuan (prior to the ChinaCo Deconsolidation (defined below)). For example, the Company earned approximately 58%, 50%, 45% and 41% of its revenues from subsidiaries whose functional currency is not the U.S. dollar for the six months ended June 30, 2021 and the years ended December 31, 2020, 2019 and 2018 respectively. Because its consolidated financial statements are reported in U.S. dollars, the Company is exposed to currency translation risk when the Company translates the financial results of its consolidated non-U.S. subsidiaries from their local currency into U.S. dollars. As foreign currency exchange rates change, translation of the statements of operations of the Company's international businesses into U.S. dollars affects period-over-period comparability of its operating results. Any strengthening of the U.S. dollar against one or more of these currencies could materially adversely affect the Company's business, financial condition and results of operations.

Risks Relating to Laws and Regulations Affecting the Company's Business

The Company's extensive foreign operations and contacts with landlords and other parties in a variety of countries subject it to risks under U.S. and other anti-corruption laws, as well as applicable export controls and economic sanctions.

The Company is subject to various domestic and international anti-corruption laws, such as the FCPA, as well as other similar anti-bribery and anti-kickback laws and regulations. There may in the future be allegations of corruption against the Company and its employees. These laws and regulations prohibit the Company's employees, representatives, contractors, business partners and agents from authorizing, offering, providing, or accepting payment or benefits for the purpose of improperly influencing the recipient or intended recipient. These laws also require that the Company keep accurate books and records and maintain compliance procedures designed to prevent any such actions. Under these laws, the Company may become liable for the actions of its directors, officers, employees, agents or other strategic or local partners or representatives over whom the Company may have little actual control.

The Company uses third-party representatives to perform services such as obtaining or retaining business, permits, approvals, and contracts. Additionally, the Company is continuously engaged in sourcing and negotiating new locations in high-risk jurisdictions around the world, and certain of the landlords, real estate agents or other parties with whom the Company interacts may be government officials or agents, even without its knowledge. The Company can be held liable for the corrupt or other illegal activities of its employees, representatives, contractors, business partners, and agents, even if it does not explicitly authorize or have actual knowledge of such activities.

The Company's potential exposure to liability under anti-corruption laws, including the FCPA, will increase as the Company continues to increase its international sales and business operations, and, consequently, its contacts with foreign government officials or agents.

Additionally, as the Company pursues its strategy of entering into management agreements, joint ventures and other partnerships with local partners in non-U.S. jurisdictions, its use of intermediaries, and therefore its potential exposure to liability under anti-corruption laws, including the FCPA, are likely to increase. Noncompliance with these laws, including any activities over the past five years, could subject the Company to investigations, sanctions, settlements, prosecution, other enforcement actions, disgorgement of profits, significant fines, damages, other civil and criminal penalties or injunctions, adverse media coverage and other consequences.

Similarly, the Company's international sales and business operations expose it to potential liability under a wide variety of U.S. and international laws and regulations relating to economic sanctions and export and import controls and economic and trade sanctions, such as those administered by the U.S. Department of the Treasury's Office of Foreign Assets Control. In the event that the Company engages in any conduct, intentionally or not, that facilitates money laundering, terrorist financing, or certain other unlawful activities, or that violates sanctions or otherwise constitutes sanctionable activity, including dealings with restricted persons or entities, the Company could be subject to substantial fines, sanctions, civil or criminal penalties, competitive or reputational harm, litigation or regulatory action and other consequences that might adversely affect its results of operations and its financial condition.

Failure to comply with anti-money laundering ("AML") requirements could subject the Company to enforcement actions, fines, penalties, sanctions and other remedial actions.

The Company is subject to AML laws and regulations in various jurisdictions. Violations of such laws or regulations, even if inadvertent or unintentional, could result in fines, sanctions or other penalties, including consent orders against the Company, which could have significant reputational or other consequences and could have a material adverse effect on the Corporation's business, financial condition and results of operations. The Company is in the process of improving and, in some instances, implementing controls pursuant to AML legal and regulatory requirements, and will continue to do so as and when new applicable requirements are enacted. The expenses associated with implementing, improving and maintaining such controls are not yet fully known, but may prove to be significant. Moreover, regulators have broad authority to enforce AML laws and regulations and may challenge whether the Company's controls comply with AML requirements or whether the Company maintains an adequate compliance program, either of which could lead to one or more of the consequences described above.

The Company's business is subject to a variety of U.S. and non-U.S. laws, many of which are evolving and could limit or otherwise negatively affect its ability to operate its business.

Laws and regulations are continuously evolving, and compliance is costly and can require changes to the Company's business practices and significant management time and effort. It is not always clear how existing laws apply to the Company's business model. The Company strives to comply with all applicable laws, but the scope and interpretation of the laws that are or may be applicable to it is often uncertain and may conflict across jurisdictions.

Existing local building codes and regulations, and any future changes to these codes or regulations, may increase its development costs or delay the development of its workspaces.

The Company's development activities are subject to local, state and federal laws, as well as the oversight and regulation in accordance with local building codes and regulations relating to building design, construction, safety, environmental protection and related matters. The Company is responsible for complying with the requirements of individual jurisdictions and must ensure that its development activities comply with varying standards by jurisdiction. Any existing or new government regulations or ordinances that relate to the Company's development activities may result in significant additional expenses to the Company and, as a result, might adversely affect its results of operations.

Changes in tax laws and unanticipated tax liabilities could adversely affect the taxes the Company pays and therefore its financial condition and results of operations.

As a global company, the Company is subject to taxation in numerous countries, states and other jurisdictions. Tax laws, regulations and administrative practices in various jurisdictions may be subject to significant change, with or without notice, due to economic, political and other conditions, and significant judgment is required in applying the relevant provisions of tax law.

If such changes were to be adopted or if the tax authorities in the jurisdictions where the Company operates were to challenge its application of relevant provisions of applicable tax laws, its financial condition and results of operations could be adversely affected.

Acquisitions of the Company's or New WeWork's stock, including pursuant to the Business Combination, may limit the Company's or New WeWork's ability to use some or all of its net operating loss carryforwards in the future.

As of December 31, 2020, the Company had net operating loss carryforwards for U.S. federal income tax purposes of approximately $4.9 billion, of which approximately $4.1 billion may be carried forward indefinitely and $0.8 billion will begin to expire starting in 2033 if not utilized. The Company also had capital loss carryforward of $193.7 million, which if unused, will expire in 2026. Under Section 382 of the Code, a corporation that undergoes an "ownership change" may be subject to limitations on its ability to utilize its pre-change net operating loss carryforwards to offset future taxable income. In general, an ownership change occurs if the aggregate stock ownership of certain stockholders (generally 5% stockholders, applying certain look-through and aggregation rules) increases by more than 50% over such stockholders' lowest percentage ownership during the testing period (generally three years). As a result of transactions occurring in 2019, an ownership change of the Company occurred for purposes of Section 382 of the Code, imposing limitations on the use of our net operating loss carryforward amounts. The ownership change may impact the timing of the availability of, or our ability to use, these losses. It is possible that the Business Combination, as well as other acquisitions of the Company's (or New WeWork's) Capital Stock will cause another ownership change or increase the likelihood that the Company (or New WeWork) may undergo another ownership change for purposes of Section 382 of the Code in the future. Limitations imposed on the Company's (or New WeWork's) ability to utilize net operating loss carryforwards could cause U.S. federal income taxes to be paid earlier than such taxes would be paid if such limitations were not in effect and could cause certain of such net operating loss carryforwards to expire unused, in each case reducing or eliminating the benefit of such net operating loss carryforwards.

Failure by certain of the Company's subsidiaries in complying with laws and regulations applicable to investment platforms, including the Investment Advisers Act of 1940, as amended (the "Advisers Act"), and the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, as amended ("ERISA"), could result in substantial harm to its reputation and results of operations.

Certain of the Company's subsidiaries are subject to laws and regulations applicable to investment platforms, including those applicable to investment advisers under the Advisers Act. The Advisers Act imposes numerous obligations and duties on registered investment advisers, including record-keeping, operating and marketing requirements, disclosure obligations and prohibitions on self-dealing. The failure of any of these subsidiaries to comply with the Advisers Act could cause the SEC to institute proceedings and impose sanctions for violations, including censure, or to terminate the registration of its subsidiaries as investment advisers or prohibit them from serving as an investment adviser to SEC-registered funds. Similarly, these subsidiaries rely on exemptions from various requirements of ERISA to the extent these subsidiaries receive investments by benefit plan investors. The failure of the Company's relevant subsidiaries to comply with these laws and regulations could irreparably harm its reputation or lead to litigation or regulatory or other legal proceedings, any of which could harm its results of operations.

Risks Relating to the Company's Organizational Structure

The Company's only material assets are its indirect interests in The We Company Management Holdings L.P. (the "WeWork Partnership"), and the Company is accordingly dependent upon distributions from the WeWork Partnership to pay dividends and taxes and other expenses. The Company's debt facilities also impose or may in the future impose certain restrictions on the Company's subsidiaries making distributions to the Company.

WeWork is a holding company and has no material assets other than an indirect general partner interest and indirect limited partner interests in the WeWork Partnership and various intercompany receivables from other consolidated subsidiaries. WeWork has no independent means of generating revenue. The Company intends to cause its subsidiaries (including the WeWork Partnership) to make distributions in an amount sufficient to cover all applicable taxes and other expenses payable and dividends, if any, declared by it. The agreements governing the Company's debt facilities impose, and agreements governing the Company's future debt facilities are expected to impose, certain restrictions on distributions by WeWork Companies LLC to WeWork, and may limit its ability to pay cash dividends. The terms of any credit agreements or other borrowing arrangements the Company or its subsidiaries enter into in the future may impose similar restrictions. To the extent that WeWork needs funds, and any of its direct or indirect subsidiaries is restricted from making such distributions under these debt agreements or applicable law or regulation, or is otherwise unable to provide such funds, it could materially adversely affect the Company's liquidity and financial condition.

If WeWork were deemed an "investment company" under the Investment Company Act of 1940 (the "1940 Act") as a result of its ownership of the WeWork Partnership, applicable restrictions could make it impractical for it to continue its business as contemplated and could have a material adverse effect on its business.

A person may be deemed to be an "investment company" for purposes of the 1940 Act if it owns investment securities having a value exceeding 40% of the value of its total assets (exclusive of U.S. government securities and cash items), absent an applicable exemption. WeWork has no material assets other than its interest in the WeWork Partnership. Through its interests in the general partner of the WeWork Partnership, WeWork generally has control over all of the affairs and decision making of the WeWork Partnership. Furthermore, the general partner of the WeWork Partnership cannot be removed as general partner of the WeWork Partnership without the approval of WeWork. On the basis of WeWork's control over the WeWork Partnership, the Company believes that the indirect interest of WeWork in the WeWork Partnership is not an "investment security" within the meaning of the 1940 Act. If WeWork were to cease participation in the management of the WeWork Partnership, however, its interest in the WeWork Partnership could be deemed an "investment security," which could result in WeWork being required to register as an investment company under the 1940 Act and becoming subject to the registration and other requirements of the 1940 Act.

The 1940 Act and the rules thereunder contain detailed parameters for the organization and operations of investment companies. Among other things, the 1940 Act and the rules thereunder limit or prohibit transactions with affiliates, impose limitations on the issuance of debt and equity securities, prohibit the issuance of stock options and impose certain governance requirements. The Company intends to conduct its operations so that WeWork will not be deemed to be an investment company under the 1940 Act. However, if anything were to happen which would require WeWork to register as an investment company under the 1940 Act, requirements imposed by the 1940 Act, including limitations on its capital structure, ability to transact business with affiliates and ability to compensate key employees, could make it impractical for the Company to continue its business as currently conducted, impair the agreements and arrangements between and among WeWork, the WeWork Partnership, members of its management team and related entities or any combination thereof and materially adversely affect its business, financial condition and results of operations.

Risks Related to the Business Combination and BowX

The initial stockholders have agreed to vote in favor of the Business Combination, regardless of how BowX's public stockholders vote.

Our initial stockholders, including the Sponsor, and our directors and officers have agreed to vote any shares of BowX Common Stock owned by them in favor of the Business Combination, including their shares of BowX Class B Common Stock and any public stock purchased after our initial public offering (including in open market and privately negotiated transactions). As of the record date, our initial stockholders, including our Sponsor, and our directors and officers beneficially own an aggregate of approximately 18.6% of the outstanding shares of BowX Common Stock.

As a result, only another 18,112,501, or 37.5% (assuming all outstanding shares are voted), of the remaining 48,300,000 shares of public stock issued and outstanding as of May 24, 2021 need to be voted in favor of a transaction in order to have the proposed Business Combination approved. However, because BowX only needs a majority of the shares of BowX Common Stock attending virtually or by proxy and entitled to vote thereon to be voted in favor of the proposed Business Combination to have such transaction approved, the number of shares of public stock needed to be voted in favor of the Business Combination decreases as the overall number of shares of public stock voted decreases. Accordingly, BowX would need only 3,018,751, or 17.1%, of the remaining 17,687,501 shares of public stock issued and outstanding as of May 24, 2021 to be voted in favor of a transaction if only the minimum number of shares representing a quorum are voted in order to have the proposed Business Combination approved.

BowX may be forced to close the Business Combination even if BowX's board of directors determines it is no longer in the best interest of BowX's stockholders.

BowX's public stockholders are protected from a material adverse event of WeWork arising between the date of the Merger Agreement and the Closing primarily by (i) the right to redeem their public stock for a pro rata portion of the funds held in the trust account, calculated as of two business days prior to the vote at the special meeting, and (ii) the closing condition in the Merger Agreement that there be no material adverse effect on WeWork. However, if an event occurs and BowX's board of directors determines it is no longer in the best interest of BowX's stockholders to close the Business Combination but the event does not constitute a material adverse event under the Merger Agreement, then BowX may be forced to close the Business Combination even if BowX determines it is no longer in BowX's stockholders' best interest to do so (as a result of such event) which could have a significant negative impact on our business, financial condition or results of operations.

Additionally, if BowX does not obtain stockholder approval at the special meeting, WeWork can continually obligate BowX to hold additional special meetings to vote on the Condition Precedent Proposals until the earlier of such stockholder approval being obtained and three business days prior to October 31, 2021, (the "Agreement End Date"). BowX is also restricted from seeking, soliciting, negotiating or consummating any alternative business combination while the Merger Agreement is still in effect.

Since the Sponsor and BowX's directors and executive officers have interests that are different, or in addition to (and which may conflict with), the interests of BowX's stockholders, a conflict of interest may have existed in determining whether the Business Combination with WeWork is appropriate as its initial business combination. Such interests include that Sponsor could lose its entire investment in BowX if the Business Combination is not completed.

When considering the BowX board's recommendation that BowX's stockholders vote in favor of the approval of the Business Combination, BowX's stockholders should be aware that certain of BowX's Sponsor, directors and executive officers have interests in the Business Combination that may be different from or in addition to (and which may conflict with) the interests of BowX's stockholders. These interests include:

- the beneficial ownership of our initial stockholders of an aggregate of 12,075,000 shares of BowX Class B Common Stock and 7,773,000 private placement warrants, which shares and warrants would become worthless if BowX does not complete a business combination within the applicable time period, as our initial stockholders have waived any redemption right with respect to these shares. Our initial stockholders paid an aggregate of $25,000 for the BowX Class B Common Stock, and $11,660,000 for the private placement warrants, and such shares and warrants have an aggregate market value of approximately $120 million and $12.83 million, respectively, based on the closing price of BowX Class A Common Stock of $9.94 and the closing price of public warrants of $1.65 on Nasdaq on September 14, 2021, the record date for the special meeting of stockholders. Each of our officers and directors is a member of the Sponsor. Vivek Ranadivé and Murray Rode are the managing members of the Sponsor, and as such Messrs. Ranadivé and Rode have voting and investment discretion with respect to the BowX Common Stock and warrants held of record by the Sponsor;
- the anticipated continuation of Mr. Ranadivé as a director of New WeWork;
- the fact that our Sponsor, officers and directors have agreed not to redeem any of their shares in connection with a stockholder vote to approve the Business Combination;
- the fact that our initial stockholders, including our Sponsor, and our directors and officers, paid an aggregate of approximately $11,660,000 for their 7,773,333 private placement warrants to purchase shares of BowX Class A Common Stock and that such private placement warrants will expire worthless if a business combination is not consummated by August 7, 2022;
- the fact that our initial stockholders, including our Sponsor and its affiliates, who purchased Class B Common Stock and private placement warrants at the time of our IPO may experience a positive rate of return on their investment, even if our public shareholders experience a negative rate of return on their investment;
- that, at the Closing, we will enter into the Registration Rights Agreement, which provides for registration rights to the initial stockholders, including the Sponsor, and BowX's directors and officers and their permitted transferees;
- the continued indemnification of current directors and officers of BowX and the continuation of directors' and officers' liability insurance after the Business Combination;
- the fact that our Sponsor, officers and directors will be reimbursed for out-of-pocket expenses incurred in connection with activities on our behalf, such as identifying potential target businesses and performing due diligence on suitable business combinations, though there have been no material out-of-pocket expenses subject to reimbursement and BowX does not anticipate any such expenses prior to Closing; and
- the fact that our Sponsor, officers and directors will lose their entire investment in us if our initial business combination is not completed.

These interests may influence BowX's directors in making their recommendation that you vote in favor of the approval of the Business Combination and the transactions contemplated thereby. BowX's directors were aware of and considered these interests, among other matters, in evaluating the Business Combination, and in recommending to BowX stockholders that they approve the Business Combination. BowX stockholders should take these interests into account in deciding whether to approve the Business Combination.

Neither BowX nor its stockholders will have the protection of any indemnification, escrow, price adjustment or other provisions that allow for a post-closing adjustment to be made to the total merger consideration in the event that any of the representations and warranties made by WeWork in the Merger Agreement ultimately proves to be inaccurate or incorrect.

The representations and warranties made by WeWork and BowX to each other in the Merger Agreement will not survive the consummation of the Business Combination. As a result, BowX and its stockholders will not have the protection of any indemnification, escrow, price adjustment or other provisions that allow for a post-closing adjustment to be made to the total merger consideration if any representation or warranty made by WeWork in the Merger Agreement proves to be inaccurate or incorrect. Accordingly, to the extent such representations or warranties are incorrect, BowX would have no indemnification claim with respect thereto and its financial condition or results of operations could be adversely affected

We may waive one or more of the conditions to the Business Combination.

We may agree to waive, in whole or in part, some of the conditions to our obligations to complete the Business Combination, to the extent permitted by the Existing Charter and applicable laws. For example, it is a condition to our obligations to close the Business Combination that certain of WeWork's representations and warranties are true and correct in all respects as of the Closing Date, except where the failure of such representations and warranties to be true and correct, taken as a whole, does not result in a material adverse effect. However, if the BowX board determines that it is in our stockholders' best interest to waive any such breach, then the BowX board may elect to waive that condition and consummate the Business Combination. Notwithstanding the foregoing, certain closing conditions may not be waived due to the parties' charters or organizational documents, applicable law, or otherwise. The following closing conditions may not be waived: receipt of the requisite stockholder approvals; expiration of any applicable waiting period under any antitrust laws; the absence of any law or order that would prohibit the consummation of the Business Combination; upon the Closing, after giving effect to the completion of the redemption, BowX having at least $5,000,001 of net tangible assets following the exercise of the redemption rights; the effectiveness of this registration statement; and the shares of New WeWork Common Stock to be issued in connection with the First Merger being approved for listing on the NYSE.

The exercise of BowX's directors' and executive officers' discretion in agreeing to changes or waivers in the terms of the Business Combination may result in a conflict of interest when determining whether such changes to the terms of the Business Combination or waivers of conditions are appropriate and in BowX's stockholder's best interest.

In the period leading up to the Closing, events may occur that, pursuant to the Merger Agreement, would require BowX to consent to certain actions taken by WeWork or to waive rights that BowX is entitled to under the Merger Agreement. Such events could arise because of changes in the course of WeWork's business or a request by WeWork to undertake actions that would otherwise be prohibited by the terms of the Merger Agreement. In any of such circumstances, it would be at BowX's discretion, acting through its board of directors, to grant its consent or waive those rights (provided that certain consent rights are not to be unreasonably withheld, conditioned, delayed or denied). The existence of financial and personal interests of one or more of the directors described in the preceding risk factors (and described elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus) may result in a conflict of interest on the part of such director(s) between what he, she or they may believe is best for BowX and its stockholders and what he, she or they may believe is best for himself, herself or themselves in determining whether or not to take the requested action. As of the date of this proxy statement/prospectus, BowX does not believe there will be any changes or waivers that BowX's directors and executive officers would be likely to make after stockholder approval of the BCA Proposal has been obtained. While certain changes could be made without further stockholder approval, BowX will circulate a new or amended proxy statement/prospectus and resolicit BowX's stockholders if changes to the terms of the transaction that would have a material impact on its stockholders are required prior to the vote on the BCA Proposal.

The NYSE may not list New WeWork's securities on its exchange, which could limit investors' ability to make transactions in New WeWork's securities and subject New WeWork to additional trading restrictions.

In connection with the Business Combination, in order to continue to maintain the listing of its securities on a stock exchange, BowX will be required to demonstrate compliance with the NYSE initial listing requirements, which are more rigorous than continued listing requirements. BowX will apply to have New WeWork's securities listed on the NYSE upon consummation of the Business Combination. BowX cannot assure you that BowX will be able to meet all initial listing requirements. Even if New WeWork's securities are listed on the NYSE, New WeWork may be unable to maintain the listing of its securities in the future.

If New WeWork fails to meet the initial listing requirements and the NYSE does not list its securities on its exchange, WeWork would not be required to consummate the Business Combination. In the event that WeWork elected to waive this condition, and the Business Combination was consummated without New WeWork's securities being listed on the NYSE or on another national securities exchange, New WeWork could face significant material adverse consequences, including:

- a limited availability of market quotations for New WeWork's securities;
- reduced liquidity for New WeWork's securities;
- a determination that New WeWork Common Stock is a "penny stock" which will require brokers trading in New WeWork Common Stock to adhere to more stringent rules and possibly result in a reduced level of trading activity in the secondary trading market for New WeWork's securities;
- a limited amount of news and analyst coverage; and
- a decreased ability to issue additional securities or obtain additional financing in the future.

The National Securities Markets Improvement Act of 1996, which is a federal statute, prevents or preempts the states from regulating the sale of certain securities, which are referred to as "covered securities." If New WeWork's securities were not listed on the NYSE, such securities would not qualify as covered securities and BowX would be subject to regulation in each state in which BowX offer our securities because states are not preempted from regulating the sale of securities that are not covered securities.

Following the consummation of the Business Combination, BowX's only significant asset will be its ownership interest in the Company and such ownership may not be sufficient to pay dividends or make distributions or loans to enable it to pay any dividends on New WeWork Common Stock or satisfy other financial obligations.

Following the consummation of the Business Combination, BowX will have no direct operations and no significant assets other than its ownership of the Company (which will own all of the assets of WeWork after the Mergers). BowX and certain investors, the WeWork Stockholders, and directors and officers of WeWork and its affiliates will become stockholders of New WeWork. BowX will depend on the Company for distributions, loans and other payments to generate the funds necessary to meet our financial obligations, including its expenses as a publicly traded company and to pay any dividends with respect to New WeWork Common Stock. The financial condition and operating requirements of the Company may limit our ability to obtain cash from the Company. The earnings from, or other available assets of, the Company may not be sufficient to pay dividends or make distributions or loans to enable it to pay any dividends on New WeWork Common Stock or satisfy other financial obligations.

This lack of diversification may subject BowX to numerous economic, competitive and regulatory risks, any or all of which may have a substantial adverse impact upon the particular industry in which BowX may operate subsequent to the Business Combination.

We may become subject to tax withholding and remittance obligations in the Business Combination based on WeWork's status as a United States real property holding corporation.

WeWork believes that it might have been, as of December 31, 2019, and as of the date of the Business Combination might be, a USRPHC under FIRPTA. Generally, a corporation is a USRPHC if the fair market value of its U.S. real property interests equals or exceeds 50% of the sum of the fair market value of its worldwide real property interests and its other assets used or held for use in a trade or business (all as determined for U.S. federal income tax purposes). If WeWork is unable to certify, proximate to the time of the Business Combination, that it has not been a USRPHC during the shorter of a non-U.S. holder's holding period for its equity interests in WeWork or the five-year period preceding a non-U.S. holder's disposition in the Business Combination of such equity interests, we will be required to withhold and pay over to the Internal Revenue Service (the "IRS") tax in an amount equal to 15% of the amount realized in the Business Combination on such disposition by non-U.S. holders (and will be liable for such tax if we do not withhold and pay it), unless certain exceptions apply. We believe that WeWork will not be able to provide the applicable certification, and that we will therefore be required to withhold such tax from New WeWork stock paid to certain non-U.S. holders of WeWork equity interests. Because we will be required to remit any amounts withheld under FIRPTA to the IRS in cash, we may withhold the tax in the form of New WeWork shares and use our own cash to satisfy the tax payment obligation. This would reduce cash otherwise available to fund our business, which may impact our results of operations. We also may sell shares of New WeWork to generate cash to satisfy our FIRPTA withholding and remittance obligations, which may impact the market price of New WeWork stock. We anticipate that New WeWork will become subject to tax withholding and remittance obligations under FIRPTA as a result of the Business Combination with respect to non-U.S. WeWork Stockholders other than SBWW, which our preliminary estimates indicate could require us to withhold, and remit cash with a value equivalent to, between approximately 3,000,000 and 3,500,000 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock. The foregoing is an estimate based on informal data regarding the amount of WeWork Capital Stock held by non-U.S. WeWork Stockholders other than SBWW, which is subject to change upon further analysis or changes in facts. Accordingly, no assurances can be given as to the amount of our potential withholding and remittance obligations under FIRPTA as a result of the Business Combination.

An exception to the withholding and remittance requirements described above may apply to non-U.S. WeWork Stockholders that will hold more than 5% of New WeWork stock following the Business Combination, including in particular SBWW and SVFE, significant stockholders of WeWork. We have entered into an agreement with WeWork, SBWW and SVFE regarding, among other things, procedures for determining qualification for an exemption from, and satisfying potential, FIRPTA withholding with respect to SBWW's exchange of WeWork equity interests for New WeWork equity interests in the Business Combination. If SBWW fails to perform its obligations under the FIRPTA Letter, such exemption may be unavailable and, if so, we may be obligated to sell a portion of the New WeWork equity interests withheld with respect to SBWW, with an aggregate value of up to $25 million to satisfy potential FIRPTA liabilities relating to its exchange of WeWork equity interests in the Business Combination, which may impact the market price of New WeWork's stock. We may also use our own cash to satisfy the tax payment obligation, which would reduce cash otherwise available to fund our business, and may therefore impact our results of operations. See the section entitled "BCA Proposal — Related Agreements — FIRPTA Letter" for a further discussion of this arrangement.

BowX is not obtaining an opinion from an independent valuation provider, and consequently, you have no assurance from an independent source that the Business Combination is fair to BowX from a financial point of view.

The BowX board of directors did not obtain a third-party valuation or fairness opinion in connection with its determination to approve the Business Combination. The BowX board of directors believes that based upon the financial skills and background of its directors, it was qualified to conclude that the Business Combination was fair from a financial perspective to its stockholders. The BowX board of directors also determined, without seeking a valuation from a financial advisor, that WeWork's fair market value was at least 80% of BowX's net assets, excluding any taxes payable on interest earned. Accordingly, investors will be relying on the judgment of the BowX board of directors as described above in valuing WeWork's business and assuming the risk that the BowX board of directors may not have properly valued such business.

The announcement of the proposed Business Combination could disrupt New WeWork's relationships with its customers, suppliers, business partners and others, as well as its operating results and business generally.

Whether or not the Business Combination and related transactions are ultimately consummated, as a result of uncertainty related to the proposed transactions, risks relating to the impact of the announcement of the Business Combination on New WeWork's business include the following:

- its employees may experience uncertainty about their future roles, which might adversely affect New WeWork's ability to retain and hire key personnel and other employees;
- customers, suppliers, business partners and other parties with which New WeWork maintains business relationships may experience uncertainty about its future and seek alternative relationships with third parties, seek to alter their business relationships with New WeWork or fail to extend an existing relationship with New WeWork; and
- WeWork has expended and New WeWork will continue to expend significant costs, fees and expenses for professional services and transaction costs in connection with the proposed Business Combination.

If any of the aforementioned risks were to materialize, they could lead to significant costs which may impact New WeWork's results of operations and cash available to fund its businesses.

BowX and WeWork will incur significant transaction and transition costs in connection with the Business Combination.

BowX and WeWork have both incurred and expect to incur significant, non-recurring and recurring costs in connection with consummating the Business Combination and operating as a public company following the consummation of the Business Combination. BowX and WeWork may also incur additional costs to retain key employees. Certain transaction expenses incurred in connection with the Merger Agreement (including the Business Combination), including all legal, accounting, consulting, investment banking and other fees, expenses and costs, will be paid by out of the proceeds of the Business Combination or by New WeWork following the closing of the Business Combination.

The directors and officers of BowX and WeWork officers could still be subject to potential liability from claims arising from conduct alleged to have occurred prior to the Business Combination. As a result, in order to protect the directors and officers of BowX and WeWork, the post-Business Combination entity is required to purchase additional insurance with respect to any such claims ("run-off insurance"). The need for run-off insurance would be an added expense for New WeWork.

BowX's ability to successfully effect the Business Combination and New WeWork's ability to successfully operate the business thereafter will be largely dependent upon the efforts of certain key personnel of WeWork, all of whom BowX expects to stay with New WeWork following the Closing. The loss of such key personnel could negatively impact the operations and financial results of the combined business.

BowX's ability to successfully effect the Business Combination and New WeWork's ability to successfully operate the business following the Closing is dependent upon the efforts of certain key personnel of WeWork. Although WeWork has entered into employment agreements with certain key employees in connection with the Business Combination, there can be no assurance that any of WeWork's key management personnel or other key employees will continue their employment in connection with the Business Combination. It is possible that WeWork will lose some key personnel, the loss of which could negatively impact the operations and profitability of New WeWork. WeWork's success depends to a significant degree upon the continued contributions of senior management, certain of whom would be difficult to replace. Departure by certain of WeWork's officers could have a material adverse effect on WeWork's business, financial condition, or operating results. The services of such personnel may not continue to be available to New WeWork. Furthermore, following the Closing, certain of the key personnel of WeWork may be unfamiliar with the requirements of operating a company regulated by the SEC, which could cause New WeWork to have to expend time and resources helping them become familiar with such requirements.

Subsequent to consummation of the Business Combination, BowX may be exposed to unknown or contingent liabilities and may be required to subsequently take write-downs or write-offs, restructuring and impairment or other charges that could have a significant negative effect on its financial condition, results of operations and stock price, which could cause you to lose some or all of your investment.

BowX cannot assure you that the due diligence conducted in relation to WeWork has identified all material issues or risks associated with WeWork, its business or the industry in which it competes.

Furthermore, BowX cannot assure you that factors outside of WeWork's and its control will not later arise. As a result of these factors, BowX may be exposed to liabilities and incur additional costs and expenses and BowX may be forced to later write-down or write-off assets, restructure its operations, or incur impairment or other charges that could result in our reporting losses. Even if BowX's due diligence has identified certain risks, unexpected risks may arise and previously known risks may materialize in a manner not consistent with our preliminary risk analysis. If any of these risks materialize, this could have a material adverse effect on its financial condition and results of operations and could contribute to negative market perceptions about its securities or New WeWork. Additionally, BowX has no indemnification rights against WeWork or the WeWork Stockholders under the Merger Agreement and all of the Aggregate Merger Consideration will be delivered at the Closing.

Accordingly, any stockholders or warrant holders of BowX who choose to remain New WeWork Stockholders or warrant holders following the Business Combination could suffer a reduction in the value of their stock, warrants and units. Such stockholders or warrant holders are unlikely to have a remedy for such reduction in value unless they are able to successfully claim that the reduction was due to the breach by our directors or officers of a duty of care or other fiduciary duty owed to them, or if they are able to successfully bring a private claim under securities laws that the registration statement or proxy statement/prospectus relating to the Business Combination contained an actionable material misstatement or material omission.

The historical financial results of WeWork and unaudited pro forma financial information included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus may not be indicative of what New WeWork's actual financial position or results of operations would have been.

The historical financial results of WeWork included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus do not reflect the financial condition, results of operations or cash flows they would have achieved as a public company during the periods presented or those New WeWork will achieve in the future. This is primarily the result of the following factors: (i) New WeWork will incur additional ongoing costs as a result of the Business Combination, including costs related to public company reporting, investor relations and compliance with the Sarbanes Oxley Act; and (ii) New WeWork's capital structure will be different from that reflected in WeWork's historical financial statements. New WeWork's financial condition and future results of operations could be materially different from amounts reflected in its historical financial statements included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus, so it may be difficult for investors to compare New WeWork's future results to historical results or to evaluate its relative performance or trends in its business.

Similarly, the unaudited pro forma financial information in this proxy statement/prospectus is presented for illustrative purposes only and has been prepared based on a number of assumptions, including, but not limited to,

BowX being treated as the “acquired” company for financial reporting purposes in the Business Combination, the total debt obligations and the cash and cash equivalents of WeWork on the Closing Date and the number of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock that are redeemed in connection with the Business Combination. Accordingly, such pro forma financial information may not be indicative of New WeWork’s future operating or financial performance and New WeWork’s actual financial condition and results of operations may vary materially from New WeWork’s pro forma results of operations and balance sheet included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus, including as a result of such assumptions not being accurate. See the section entitled “Unaudited Pro Forma Condensed Combined Financial Information.”

Unanticipated changes in effective tax rates or adverse outcomes resulting from examination of New WeWork’s income or other tax returns could adversely affect New WeWork’s financial condition and results of operations.

New WeWork will be subject to income taxes in the United States, and its tax liabilities will be subject to the allocation of expenses in differing jurisdictions. New WeWork’s future effective tax rates could be subject to volatility or adversely affected by a number of factors, including:

- changes in the valuation of New WeWork’s deferred tax assets and liabilities;
- expected timing and amount of the release of any tax valuation allowances;
- tax effects of stock-based compensation;
- costs related to intercompany restructurings;
- changes in tax laws, regulations or interpretations thereof; or
- lower than anticipated future earnings in jurisdictions where New WeWork has lower statutory tax rates and higher than anticipated future earnings in jurisdictions where New WeWork has higher statutory tax rates.

In addition, New WeWork may be subject to audits of income, sales and other transaction taxes by taxing authorities. Outcomes from these audits could have an adverse effect on New WeWork’s financial condition and results of operations.

BowX does not have a specified maximum redemption threshold, but cannot consummate the Business Combination if its net tangible assets fall below $5,000,001. This threshold and the Minimum Available Cash Condition (as defined below) may make it more difficult for it to complete the Business Combination as contemplated.

The Merger Agreement provides that the obligations of WeWork to consummate the First Merger are conditioned on, among other things, that as of the Closing, the amount of cash available in the trust account as of the Closing, after deducting the amount required to satisfy BowX’s obligations to its stockholders (if any) that exercise their redemption rights (but prior to the payment of any (i) deferred underwriting commissions being held in the trust account and (ii) transaction expenses of WeWork and BowX, or their affiliates (such amount, the “trust amount”) plus the PIPE Investment Amount actually received by BowX substantially concurrently with or prior to the Closing, is at least equal to the Minimum Available Cash Condition amount. The Minimum Available Cash Condition is for the sole benefit of WeWork. If the trust amount when added to the PIPE Investment (such aggregate amount, the “Available Cash”) is equal to or greater than the Minimum Available Cash Condition amount, then the Minimum Available Cash Condition will be deemed to have been satisfied. If such condition is not met, and such condition is not or cannot be waived under the terms of the Merger Agreement, then the Merger Agreement could be terminated and the proposed Business Combination may not be consummated. In addition, pursuant to the Organizational Documents, in no event will BowX redeem public stock in an amount that would cause New WeWork’s net tangible assets (as determined in accordance with Rule 3a51-1(g)(1) of the Exchange Act) to be less than $5,000,001.

If such conditions are waived and the Business Combination is consummated with less than the Minimum Available Cash Condition amount in the trust account, the cash held by New WeWork and its subsidiaries (including WeWork) in the aggregate, after the Closing may not be sufficient to allow it to operate and pay its bills as they become due. Furthermore, our affiliates are not obligated to make loans to us in the future. The additional exercise of redemption rights with respect to a large number of our public stockholders may make BowX unable to take such actions as may be desirable in order to optimize the capital structure of New WeWork after consummation of the Business Combination and New WeWork may not be able to raise additional financing from unaffiliated parties necessary to fund our expenses and liabilities after the Closing. Any such event in the future may negatively impact the analysis regarding New WeWork's ability to continue as a going concern at such time.

BowX cannot be certain as to the number of shares of public stock that will be redeemed and the potential impact to public stockholders who do not elect to redeem their public stock.

There is no guarantee that a stockholder's decision whether to redeem its shares for a pro rata portion of the trust account will put the stockholder in a better future economic position. We can give no assurance as to the price at which a stockholder may be able to sell its public stock in the future following the closing or any alternative business combination. Certain events following the consummation of any initial business combination, including the Business Combination, and including redemptions of public stock may cause an increase or decrease in our share price, and may result in a lower value realized now than a stockholder of BowX might realize in the future had the stockholder not redeemed its shares. Similarly, if a stockholder does not redeem its shares, the stockholder will bear the risk of ownership of the public stock after the consummation of any initial business combination, and there can be no assurance that a stockholder can sell its shares in the future for a greater amount than the redemption price set forth in this proxy statement/prospectus. A stockholder should consult the stockholder's own tax and/or financial advisor for assistance on how this may affect his, her or its individual situation.

On September 17, 2021, the most recent practicable date prior to the date of this proxy statement/prospectus, the closing price per share of BowX Class A Common Stock was $9.99. Public stockholders should be aware that, while we are unable to predict the price per share of New WeWork Common Stock following the consummation of the Business Combination—and accordingly we are unable to predict the potential impact of redemptions on the per share value of public stock owned by non-redeeming shareholder—increased levels of redemptions by public stockholders may be a result of the price per share of BowX common stock falling below the redemption price. We expect that more public stockholders may elect to redeem their public stock if the share price of the BowX Class A Common Stock is below the projected redemption price of $10.00 per share, and we expect that more public stockholders may elect not to redeem their public stock if the share price of the BowX Class A Common Stock is above the projected redemption price of $10.00 per share. Each share of public stock that is redeemed will represent both (i) a reduction, equal to the amount of the redemption price, of the cash that will be available to BowX from the trust account and (ii) a corresponding increase in each public stockholder's pro rata ownership interest in New WeWork following the consummation of the Business Combination. In addition, in the event that more than 43,231,098 shares of public stock are redeemed, the minimum cash condition in favor of WeWork as set forth in the Merger Agreement may not be satisfied, and the Business Combination may not be consummated.

The Sponsor may elect to purchase stock or warrants from public stockholders prior to the consummation of the Business Combination, which may influence the vote on the Business Combination and reduce the public "float" of BowX securities.

In connection with the stockholder vote to approve the proposed Business Combination, the Sponsor, BowX's or WeWork's directors, officers or advisors or any of their affiliates may privately negotiate transactions to purchase shares prior to the Closing from stockholders who would have otherwise elected to have their shares redeemed in conjunction with a proxy solicitation pursuant to the proxy rules for a per share pro rata portion of the trust account without the prior written consent of WeWork. None of the Sponsor, BowX's directors, BowX's officers or BowX's advisors, or their respective affiliates, will make any such purchases when they are in possession of any material non-public information not disclosed to the seller of such shares. Such a purchase would include a contractual acknowledgement that such stockholder, although still the record holder of such shares, is no longer the beneficial owner thereof and therefore agrees not to exercise its redemption rights. In the event that the Sponsor or BowX's or WeWork's directors, officers or advisors, or their respective affiliates, purchase shares in privately negotiated transactions from public stockholders who have already elected to exercise their redemption rights, such selling stockholders would be required to revoke their prior elections to redeem their shares. Any such privately negotiated purchases may be effected at purchase prices that are in excess of the per share pro rata portion of the trust account. The purpose of these purchases would be to increase the amount of cash available to BowX for use in the Business Combination. If such transactions are effected, the consequence could be to cause the Business Combination to be consummated in circumstances where such consummation could not otherwise occur.

Entering into any such arrangements may have a depressive effect on the BowX Common Stock (e.g., by giving an investor or holder the ability to effectively purchase stock or warrants at a price lower than market, such investor or holder may therefore become more likely to sell the stock he or she owns, either at or prior to the Business Combination). In addition, if such purchases are made, the public "float" of BowX Class A Common Stock or public warrants and the number of beneficial holders of BowX's securities may be reduced, possibly making it difficult to obtain or maintain the quotation, listing or trading of BowX's securities on a national securities exchange.

BowX is not registering the shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock issuable upon exercise of the warrants under the Securities Act or any state securities laws at this time, and such registration may not be in place when an investor desires to exercise warrants, thus precluding such investor from being able to exercise its warrants except on a cashless basis and potentially causing such warrants to expire worthless.

BowX is not registering the shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock issuable upon exercise of the warrants under the Securities Act or any state securities laws at this time. However, under the terms of the Warrant Agreement, BowX has agreed that as soon as practicable, but in no event later than 15 business days after the closing of the Business Combination, New WeWork will use its reasonable best efforts to file, and within 60 business days following the Business Combination to have declared effective, a registration statement covering the issuance of the shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock issuable upon exercise of the warrants. New WeWork will use its reasonable best efforts to maintain the effectiveness of such registration statement and a current prospectus relating to those shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock until the warrants expire or are redeemed. BowX cannot assure you that BowX or New WeWork will be able to do so if, for example, any facts or events arise which represent a fundamental change in the information set forth in the registration statement or prospectus, the financial statements contained or incorporated by reference therein are not current, complete or correct or the SEC issues a stop order. If the shares issuable upon exercise of the warrants are not registered under the Securities Act, New WeWork is required to permit holders to exercise their warrants on a cashless basis. However, no warrant will be exercisable for cash or on a cashless basis, and New WeWork will not be obligated to issue any shares to holders seeking to exercise their warrants, unless the issuance of the shares upon such exercise is registered or qualified under the securities laws of the state of the exercising holder, or an exemption from registration is available. Notwithstanding the above, if New WeWork Class A Common Stock is at the time of any exercise of a warrant not listed on a national securities exchange such that it satisfies the definition of a "covered security" under Section 18(b)(1) of the Securities Act, New WeWork may, at its option, require holders of public warrants who exercise their warrants to do so on a "cashless basis" in accordance with Section 3(a)(9) of the Securities Act and, in the event New WeWork so elects, it will not be required to file or maintain in effect a registration statement, but it will be required to use its best efforts to register or qualify the shares under applicable blue sky laws to the extent an exemption is not available. In no event will New WeWork be required to net cash settle any warrant. If the issuance of the shares upon exercise of the warrants is not so registered or qualified or exempt from registration or qualification, the holder of such warrant shall not be entitled to exercise such warrant and such warrant may have no value and expire worthless. In such event, holders who acquired their warrants as part of a purchase of units will have paid the full unit purchase price solely for the shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock included in the units. There may be a circumstance where an exemption from registration exists for holders of private placement warrants to exercise their warrants while a corresponding exemption does not exist for holders of the public warrants included as part of units sold in the initial public offering. In such an instance, the initial purchasers and their permitted transferees (which may include BowX's directors and executive officers) would be able to exercise their warrants and sell the New WeWork Common Stock underlying their warrants while holders of public warrants would not be able to exercise their warrants and sell the underlying common stock. If and when the warrants become redeemable, New WeWork may exercise its redemption right even if it is unable to register or qualify the underlying shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock for sale under all applicable state securities laws. As a result, New WeWork may redeem the warrants as set forth above even if the holders are otherwise unable to exercise their warrants.

If third parties bring claims against BowX, the proceeds held in the trust account could be reduced and the per share redemption amount received by stockholders may be less than $10.00 per share (which was the offering price per unit in the initial public offering).

BowX's placement of funds in the trust account may not protect those funds from third-party claims. Although BowX seeks to have all vendors, service providers (other than its independent auditors), prospective target businesses and other entities with which BowX does business execute agreements with it waiving any right, title, interest or claim of any kind in or to any monies held in the trust account, there is nevertheless no guarantee that they would be prevented from bringing claims against the trust account, including, but not limited to, fraudulent inducement, breach of fiduciary responsibility or other similar claims, as well as claims challenging the enforceability of the waiver, in each case in order to gain advantage with respect to a claim against BowX's assets, including the funds held in the trust account. If any third party refuses to execute an agreement waiving such claims to the monies held in the trust account, BowX's management will perform an analysis of the alternatives available to it and will enter into an agreement with a third party that has not executed a waiver only if management believes that such third party's engagement would be significantly more beneficial than any alternative.

Examples of possible instances where BowX may engage a third party that refuses to execute a waiver include the engagement of a third-party consultant whose particular expertise or skills are believed by management to be significantly superior to those of other consultants that would agree to execute a waiver or in cases where management is unable to find a service provider willing to execute a waiver. In addition, there is no guarantee that such entities will agree to waive any claims they may have in the future as a result of, or arising out of, any negotiations, contracts or agreements with BowX and will not seek recourse against the trust account for any reason. Upon redemption of its public stock, if BowX has not completed its Business Combination within the required time period, or upon the exercise of a redemption right in connection with our Business Combination, BowX will be required to provide for payment of claims of creditors that were not waived that may be brought against us within the 10 years following redemption. Accordingly, the per share redemption amount received by public stockholders could be less than the $10.00 per share of public stock initially held in the trust account, due to claims of such creditors.

The Sponsor has agreed that it will be liable to BowX if and to the extent any claims by a third party (other than our independent auditors) for services rendered or products sold to BowX, or a prospective target business with which BowX has discussed entering into a transaction agreement, reduce the amount of funds in the trust account to below (i) $10.00 per share of public stock or (ii) such lesser amount per share of public stock held in the trust account as of the date of the liquidation of the trust account due to reductions in the value of the trust assets, in each case net of the interest which may be withdrawn to pay taxes, except as to any claims by a third party who executed a waiver of any and all rights to seek access to the trust account and except as to any claims under our indemnity of the underwriters against certain liabilities, including liabilities under the Securities Act.

Moreover, in the event that an executed waiver is deemed to be unenforceable against a third party, the Sponsor will not be responsible to the extent of any liability for such third-party claims. BowX has not independently verified whether the Sponsor has sufficient funds to satisfy its indemnity obligations and believes that the Sponsor's only assets are securities of our company. The Sponsor may not have sufficient funds available to satisfy those obligations. BowX has not asked the Sponsor to reserve for such obligations, and therefore, no funds are currently set aside to cover any such obligations. As a result, if any such claims were successfully made against the trust account, the funds available for the Business Combination and redemptions could be reduced to less than $10.00 per shares of public stock. In such event, BowX may not be able to complete the Business Combination, and you would receive such lesser amount per share in connection with any redemption of your public stock. None of BowX's directors or officers will indemnify it for claims by third parties including, without limitation, claims by vendors and prospective target businesses.

BowX's independent directors may decide not to enforce the indemnification obligations of the Sponsor, resulting in a reduction in the amount of funds in the trust account available for distribution to BowX's public stockholders.

In the event that the proceeds in the trust account are reduced below the lesser of (i) $10.00 per share of public stock or (ii) such lesser amount per share of public stock held in the trust account as of the date of the liquidation of the trust account due to reductions in the value of the trust assets, in each case net of the amount of interest which may be withdrawn to pay taxes, and the Sponsor asserts that it is unable to satisfy its obligations or that it has no indemnification obligations related to a particular claim, BowX's independent directors would determine whether to take legal action against the Sponsor to enforce its indemnification obligations.

While BowX currently expects that BowX's independent directors would take legal action on its behalf against the Sponsor to enforce its indemnification obligations to BowX, it is possible that BowX's independent directors in exercising their business judgment may choose not to do so if, for example, the cost of such legal action is deemed by the independent directors to be too high relative to the amount recoverable or if the independent directors determine that a favorable outcome is not likely. If BowX's independent directors choose not to enforce these indemnification obligations, the amount of funds in the trust account available for distribution to BowX's public stockholders may be reduced below $10.00 per share.

BowX may not have sufficient funds to satisfy indemnification claims of its directors and executive officers.

BowX has agreed to indemnify its officers and directors to the fullest extent permitted by law. However, BowX's officers and directors have agreed to waive (and any other persons who may become an officer or director prior to the initial business combination will also be required to waive) any right, title, interest or claim of any kind in or to any monies in the trust account and not to seek recourse against the trust account for any reason whatsoever. Accordingly, any indemnification provided will be able to be satisfied by BowX only if (i) BowX has sufficient funds outside of the trust account or (ii) BowX consummates an initial business combination. BowX's obligation to indemnify its officers and directors may discourage stockholders from bringing a lawsuit against its officers or directors for breach of their fiduciary duty. These provisions also may have the effect of reducing the likelihood of derivative litigation against BowX's officers and directors, even though such an action, if successful, might otherwise benefit BowX and its stockholders. Furthermore, a stockholder's investment may be adversely affected to the extent BowX pays the costs of settlement and damage awards against its officers and directors pursuant to these indemnification provisions.

We may issue additional shares of New WeWork Common Stock or preferred shares under an employee incentive plan upon or after consummation of the Business Combination, which would dilute the interest of our stockholders.

Our Existing Charter authorizes the issuance of up to 87,500,000 shares of BowX Class A Common Stock, par value $0.0001 per share, 12,500,000 shares of BowX Class B Common Stock, par value $0.0001 per share, and 1,000,000 shares of preferred stock, par value $0.0001 per share. There are currently 12,064,167 and 425,000 authorized but unissued shares of BowX Class A Common Stock and BowX Class B Common Stock, respectively, available for issuance, which amount takes into account the shares of BowX Class A Common Stock reserved for issuance upon exercise of outstanding warrants but not the shares of BowX Class A Common Stock issuable upon conversion of BowX Class B Common Stock. There are currently no shares of preferred stock issued and outstanding.

Shares of BowX Class B Common Stock are convertible into shares of BowX Class A Common Stock initially at a one-for-one ratio but subject to adjustment as set forth herein, including in certain circumstances in which we issue BowX Class A Common Stock or equity-linked securities related to our initial business combination. Shares of BowX Class B Common Stock are convertible at the option of the holder at any time.

We may issue a substantial number of additional shares of common or preferred stock to complete our initial business combination (including pursuant to a specified future issuance) or under an employee incentive plan after completion of our initial business combination. We may also issue shares of Class A common stock to redeem the warrants or upon conversion of the Class B common stock at a ratio greater than one-to-one at the time of our initial business combination as a result of the anti-dilution provisions contained in our certificate of incorporation. Our Class B common stock shall only be convertible at the time of our initial business combination. However, our certificate of incorporation will provide, among other things, that prior to our initial business combination, we may not issue additional securities that would entitle the holders thereof, to (1) receive funds from the trust account or (2) vote as a class with our public shares (a) on any initial business combination or (b) to approve an amendment to our certificate of incorporation. The restriction on issuing additional shares of capital stock described in the prior sentence will expire upon consummation of our initial business combination. The issuance of additional shares of common or preferred stock:

- may significantly dilute the equity interest of investors from the initial public offering;
- may subordinate the rights of existing holders of BowX Common Stock if preferred stock is issued with rights senior to those afforded to BowX Common Stock;
- could cause a change of control if a substantial number of shares of BowX Common Stock are issued, which may affect, among other things, our ability to use our net operating loss carry forwards, if any, and could result in the resignation or removal of our present officers and directors;
- may adversely affect prevailing market prices for our BowX Units, BowX Class A Common Stock and/or BowX warrants; and
- may have the effect of delaying or preventing a change of control of us by diluting the stock ownership or voting rights of a person seeking to obtain control of us.

Our Existing Charter requires, to the fullest extent permitted by law, that derivative actions brought in our name, actions against our directors, officers, other employees or stockholders for breach of fiduciary duty and other similar actions may be brought only in the Court of Chancery in the State of Delaware and, if brought outside of Delaware, the stockholder bringing the suit will be deemed to have consented to service of process on such stockholder's counsel, which may have the effect of discouraging lawsuits against our directors, officers, other employees or stockholders. The Proposed Charter includes a substantially similar choice of law forum provision, except the Proposed Charter provides that, to the fullest extent permitted by law, the federal district courts of the United States of America shall be the sole and exclusive forum for the resolution of any complaint asserting a cause of action arising under the Securities Act.

Our Existing Charter requires, to the fullest extent permitted by law, that derivative actions brought in our name, actions against our directors, officers, other employees or stockholders for breach of fiduciary duty and other similar actions may be brought only in the Court of Chancery in the State of Delaware and, if brought outside of Delaware, the stockholder bringing the suit will be deemed to have consented to service of process on such stockholder's counsel except any action (A) as to which the Court of Chancery in the State of Delaware determines that there is an indispensable party not subject to the jurisdiction of the Court of Chancery (and the indispensable party does not consent to the personal jurisdiction of the Court of Chancery within ten days following such determination), (B) which is vested in the exclusive jurisdiction of a court or forum other than the Court of Chancery, (C) for which the Court of Chancery does not have subject matter jurisdiction, or (D) any action arising under the Securities Act, as to which the Court of Chancery and the federal district court for the District of Delaware will have concurrent jurisdiction. Any person or entity purchasing or otherwise acquiring any interest in shares of our capital stock will be deemed to have notice of and consented to the forum provisions in our Existing Charter. This choice of forum provision may limit a stockholder's ability to bring a claim in a judicial forum that it finds favorable for disputes with us or any of our directors, officers, other employees or stockholders, which may discourage lawsuits with respect to such claims, although our stockholders will not be deemed to have waived our compliance with federal securities laws and the rules and regulations thereunder. We cannot be certain that a court will decide that this provision is either applicable or enforceable, and if a court were to find the choice of forum provision contained in our Existing Charter to be inapplicable or unenforceable in an action, we may incur additional costs associated with resolving such action in other jurisdictions, which could harm our business, operating results and financial condition.

Our Existing Charter provides that the exclusive forum provision will be applicable to the fullest extent permitted by applicable law. Section 27 of the Exchange Act creates exclusive federal jurisdiction over all suits brought to enforce any duty or liability created by the Exchange Act or the rules and regulations thereunder. As a result, the exclusive forum provision does not apply to suits brought to enforce any duty or liability created by the Exchange Act or any other claim for which the federal courts have exclusive jurisdiction.

The Proposed Charter includes a substantially similar choice of law forum provision, except the Proposed Charter provides that, to the fullest extent permitted by law, the federal district courts of the United States of America shall be the sole and exclusive forum for the resolution of any complaint asserting a cause of action arising under the Securities Act. The choice of forum provision in the Proposed Charter may limit a stockholder's ability to bring a claim in a judicial forum that it finds favorable for disputes with New WeWork or any of its directors, officers, other employees or stockholders, which may discourage lawsuits with respect to such claims, although New WeWork's stockholders will not be deemed to have waived New WeWork's compliance with federal securities laws and the rules and regulations thereunder. We cannot be certain that a court will decide that this provision is either applicable or enforceable, and if a court were to find the choice of forum provision contained in our Proposed Charter to be inapplicable or unenforceable in an action, we may incur additional costs associated with resolving such action in other jurisdictions, which could harm New WeWork's business, operating results and financial condition. In addition, although the Delaware Supreme Court ruled in March 2020 that federal forum selection provisions purporting to require claims under the Securities Act be brought in federal court were facially valid under Delaware law, there is uncertainty as to whether other courts will enforce New WeWork's federal forum selection clause.

BowX stockholders may be held liable for claims by third parties against it to the extent of distributions received by them upon redemption of their shares.

If BowX enters into an insolvency proceeding, any distributions received by stockholders could be viewed as an unlawful payment if it was proved that, for example, immediately following the distribution, BowX was unable to pay its debts as they fall due in the ordinary course of business. As a result, a liquidator could seek to recover all amounts received by its stockholders. Furthermore, its directors may be viewed as having breached their fiduciary duties to BowX or its creditors or may have acted in bad faith, and thereby exposing themselves and BowX to claims, by paying public stockholders from the trust account prior to addressing the claims of creditors. BowX cannot assure you that claims will not be brought against it for these reasons.

If, before distributing the proceeds in the trust account to BowX's public stockholders, BowX files a bankruptcy petition or an involuntary bankruptcy petition is filed against us that is not dismissed, the claims of creditors in such proceeding may have priority over the claims of BowX's stockholders and the per-share amount that would otherwise be received by BowX's stockholders in connection with BowX's liquidation may be reduced.

If, before distributing the proceeds in the trust account to BowX's public stockholders, BowX file a bankruptcy petition or an involuntary bankruptcy petition is filed against us that is not dismissed, the proceeds held in the trust account could be subject to applicable bankruptcy law, and may be included in BowX's bankruptcy estate and subject to the claims of third parties with priority over the claims of BowX's stockholders. To the extent any bankruptcy claims deplete the trust account, the per-share amount that would otherwise be received by BowX's stockholders in connection with BowX's liquidation may be reduced.

Public stockholders will experience immediate dilution as a consequence of the issuance of New WeWork Common Stock as consideration in the Business Combination and the PIPE Investment and due to future issuances pursuant to the 2021 Plan, the First Warrant, the LC Warrant and the exercise of public warrants and private warrants. Having a minority stock ownership position may reduce the influence that BowX's current stockholders have on the management of New WeWork.

Public stockholders who do not redeem their public stock will experience immediate dilution as a consequence of the issuance of New WeWork Common Stock as consideration in the Business Combination and may experience dilution from several additional sources to varying degrees in connection with and after the Business Combination, including the following:

- Approximately 655,300,000 shares of New WeWork Common Stock are anticipated to be issued as consideration in the Business Combination, valued at $10.00 per share. This represents approximately 82.7% or 87.6% of the number of shares of New WeWork Common Stock that will be outstanding following the consummation of the Business Combination, assuming the no redemption scenario and the maximum redemption scenario, respectively.
- 80,000,000 shares of New WeWork Common Stock are anticipated to be issued to the PIPE Investors pursuant to the PIPE Investment, at a price of $10.00 per share. This represents approximately 10.1% or 10.7% of the number of shares of New WeWork Common Stock that will be outstanding following the consummation of the Business Combination, assuming the no redemption scenario and the maximum redemption scenario, respectively.
- 23,873,333 warrants will be outstanding following the Business Combination. The warrants, which will not be redeemed in connection with the redemption by a public shareholder of a public share, will be exercisable at any time commencing on the later of 30 days after the completion of the Business Combination and 12 months from the closing of our initial public offering. The shares of New WeWork Common Stock underlying these warrants, represent approximately 3.0% or 2.9% of the fully-diluted number of shares of New WeWork Common Stock immediately following the consummation of the Business Combination, assuming the no redemption scenario and the maximum redemption scenario, respectively. See “—Warrants will become exercisable for New WeWork Common Stock, which would increase the number of shares eligible for future resale in the public market and result in dilution to our stockholders.” The New WeWork Warrants outstanding after the Business Combination will include 7,773,333 warrants held by our initial stockholders, including our Sponsor, which are not redeemable. As such, New WeWork will have no opportunity to manage the dilution therefrom.
- New WeWork will reserve 5% of the number of outstanding shares of New WeWork Common Stock on a fully diluted basis (as of immediately following the Business Combination) pursuant to the 2021 Plan and expects to grant equity awards under the 2021 Plan. The granted awards, when vested and settled or exercisable, may result in the issuance of additional shares up to the amount of the share reserve under the 2021 Plan.
- New WeWork will reserve 1% of the number of outstanding shares of New WeWork Common Stock on a fully diluted basis (as of immediately following the Business Combination) pursuant to the ESPP, and New WeWork expects that holders of purchase rights under the ESPP may purchase shares of New WeWork Common Stock pursuant to the ESPP. As a result, New WeWork may issue additional shares of New WeWork Common Stock up to the amount of the share reserve under the ESPP.

- Certain former members of WeWork’s senior management hold approximately 24,132,575 WeWork Partnership Profits Interest Units, which, after the Business Combination can be exchanged for New WeWork Common Stock pursuant to their terms as further described in “Certain Relationships and Related Person Transactions—WeWork Partnership Profits Interest Units.”
- BowX will issue to SBWW or its designees and the SoftBank Obligor or its designees the First Warrant and the LC Warrant, respectively, with the issuance of the LC Warrant contingent upon the LC Facility Termination Extension, as described in “Certain Relationships and Related Person Transactions—WeWork—SoftBank Transactions—Warrants.” Although the First Warrant will be issued by BowX, solely for purposes of calculating the Exchange Ratio used in the Business Combination, the First Warrant is treated in the same manner as a hypothetical outstanding warrant to purchase 47,366,404 shares of WeWork Class A Common Stock at an exercise price of $0.01 per share.

The issuance of additional shares of New WeWork Common Stock (or other equity securities of equal or senior rank) including through the exercise of warrants or options, could have the following effects for public shareholders who elect not to redeem their shares:

- your proportionate ownership interest in New WeWork will decrease;
- the relative voting strength of each previously outstanding share of New WeWork Common Stock will be diminished; or
- the market price of New WeWork Common Stock may decline.

Following the Business Combination, SBG will continue to own a significant portion of New WeWork’s stock.

Following the completion of the Business Combination, as a result of its share ownership, SBWW is expected to own approximately 44% of the pro forma outstanding shares of capital stock of New WeWork and SVFE is expected to own approximately 11% of the pro forma outstanding shares of capital stock of New WeWork, and representatives of SBWW will comprise a meaningful portion of New WeWork’s board following the Business Combination, with SBWW entitled to designate three members of the New WeWork board and SVFE entitled to designate one member of the New WeWork board, so long as they continue to hold a requisite amount of capital stock of New WeWork. While following the Business Combination, the SoftBank Holders (as defined herein) will be subject to restrictions on the ability to vote shares of WeWork’s stock in excess of 49.90% of the voting power of the Company, other holders of New WeWork capital stock may have limited ability to influence matters requiring stockholder approval, and that SBG will have considerable influence over the election of directors to the New WeWork board. SBG’s interests may not be the same as, or may conflict with, the interests of the WeWork or New WeWork’s other stockholders.

Warrants will become exercisable for New WeWork Common Stock, which would increase the number of shares eligible for future resale in the public market and result in dilution to our stockholders. Such dilution will increase if more of our shares are redeemed.

Outstanding warrants to purchase an aggregate of 23,873,333 shares of New WeWork Common Stock will become exercisable in accordance with the terms of the Warrant Agreement governing those securities, comprising 16,100,000 public warrants and 7,773,333 private placement warrants. The public warrants will become exercisable 30 days after the completion of the Business Combination. The likelihood that those warrants will be exercised increases if the trading price of BowX Class A Common Stock exceeds the exercise price of the warrants. The exercise price of these warrants will be $11.50 per share. Based on the closing price of public warrants of $1.89 on Nasdaq on September 17, 2021, such public warrants have an aggregate market value of approximately $30.4 million. However, there is no guarantee that the warrants will ever be in the money after they become exercisable but prior to their expiration, and as such, the warrants may expire worthless.

To the extent such public warrants are exercised, additional shares of New WeWork Common Stock will be issued, which will result in dilution to the holders of New WeWork Common Stock and increase the number of shares eligible for resale in the public market. The dilution caused by the exercise of the public warrants will increase if a large number of our stockholder's elect to redeem their shares in connection with the Business Combination. Holders of public warrants do not have a right to redeem the warrants. Further, the redemption of BowX Class A Stock without any accompanying redemption of public warrants will increase the dilutive effect of the exercise of public warrants. Sales of substantial numbers of shares issued upon the exercise of warrants in the public market or the potential that such warrants may be exercised could also adversely affect the market price of New WeWork Common Stock.

Your unexpired warrants may be redeemed prior to their exercise at a time that is disadvantageous to you, thereby making your warrants worthless.

BowX has, and New WeWork will have, the ability to redeem outstanding warrants at any time after they become exercisable and prior to their expiration, at a price of $0.01 per warrant provided that the last reported sales price of the underlying Class A common stock equals or exceeds $18.00 per share (as adjusted for stock splits, stock dividends, reorganizations, recapitalizations and the like) for any 20 trading days within a 30 trading-day period commencing once the warrants become exercisable and ending on the third trading day prior to the date on which BowX or New WeWork sends the notice of redemption to the warrant holders and provided certain other conditions are met. If and when the warrants become redeemable by BowX or New WeWork, such party may exercise its redemption right even if it is unable to register or qualify the underlying securities for sale under all applicable state securities laws. As a result, BowX or New WeWork may redeem the public warrants as set forth above even if the holders are otherwise unable to exercise the warrants. Redemption of the outstanding warrants could force you (i) to exercise your warrants and pay the exercise price therefor at a time when it may be disadvantageous for you to do so, (ii) to sell your warrants at the then-current market price when you might otherwise wish to hold your warrants or (iii) to accept the nominal redemption price which, at the time the outstanding warrants are called for redemption, BowX expects would be substantially less than the market value of your warrants. None of the private placement warrants will be redeemable by us except under certain circumstances.

In addition, unlike many other similarly structured blank check companies, BowX has the ability to redeem outstanding warrants 90 days after they become exercisable for $0.10 per warrant upon a minimum of 30 days' prior written notice of redemption provided that holders will be able to exercise their warrants prior to redemption for a number of New WeWork Class A Common Stock determined based on the redemption date and the fair market value of New WeWork Class A Common Stock and provided certain other conditions are met. BowX may only redeem such warrants in accordance with the foregoing sentence if, and only if, the last reported sale price of BowX's Class A Common Stock exceeds $10.00 per share on the trading day prior to the date on which the notice of redemption is sent. As of September 17, 2021, the last reported sale price of BowX's Class A Common Stock was $9.99 per share, which does not exceed the threshold required for redemption. New WeWork would redeem the warrants in this manner when New WeWork believes it is in its best interest to update its capital structure to remove the warrants and pay fair market value to the warrant holders. New WeWork can also redeem the warrants in this manner if it believes it will provide certainty with respect to New WeWork's capital structure and cash position while providing warrant holders with fair market value in the form of shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock. Any such redemption may have similar consequences to the redemption described in the above paragraph. In addition, such redemption may occur at a time when the warrants are "out-of-the-money," in which case you would lose any potential embedded value from a subsequent increase in the value of the New WeWork Class A Common Stock had your warrants remained outstanding. Finally, this redemption feature provides a ceiling to the value of your warrants since it locks in the redemption price in the number of New WeWork Class A Common Stock to be received if New WeWork chooses to redeem the warrants. See "Description of BowX Securities—Public Warrants" and "Description of BowX Securities—Private Placement Warrants" for further information on the warrants.

Because each BowX Unit contains one-third of one redeemable warrant and only a whole warrant may be exercised, the BowX Units may be worth less than units of other blank check companies.

Each BowX Unit contains one-third of one redeemable warrant. No fractional shares will be issued upon exercise of the public warrants and only whole warrants will trade. If, upon exercise of the public warrants, a holder would be entitled to receive a fractional interest in a share, we will, upon exercise, round down to the nearest whole number the number of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock to be issued to the warrant holder. Accordingly, unless you purchase at least three BowX Units, you will not be able to receive or trade a whole warrant. This is different from other offerings, similar to our initial public offering whose units include one share of common stock and one warrant to purchase one whole share. We have established the components of the BowX Units in this way in order to reduce the dilutive effect of the warrants upon completion of an initial business combination since the warrants will be exercisable in the aggregate for one third of the number of shares compared to units that each contain a warrant to purchase one whole share, thus making us, we believe, a more attractive merger partner for target businesses. Nevertheless, this unit structure may cause our units to be worth less than if they included a warrant to purchase one whole share.

BowX may amend the terms of the warrants in a manner that may be adverse to holders of public warrants with the approval by the holders of at least 50% of the then outstanding public warrants. As a result, the exercise price of your warrants could be increased, the exercise period could be shortened and the number of shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock purchasable upon exercise of a warrant could be decreased, all without your approval.

The warrants are issued in registered form under a Warrant Agreement between Continental, as warrant agent, and BowX. The Warrant Agreement provides that the terms of the warrants may be amended without the consent of any holder to cure any ambiguity or correct any defective provision, but requires the approval by the holders of at least 50% of the then outstanding public warrants to make any change that adversely affects the interests of the registered holders of public warrants. Accordingly, BowX or New WeWork may amend the terms of the public warrants in a manner adverse to a holder if holders of at least 50% of the then outstanding public warrants approve of such amendment. Although BowX's or New WeWork's ability to amend the terms of the public warrants with the consent of at least 50% of the then outstanding public warrants is unlimited, examples of such amendments could be amendments to, among other things, increase the exercise price of the warrants, convert the warrants into cash or stock, shorten the exercise period or decrease the number of shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock purchasable upon exercise of a warrant.

We have identified a material weakness in our internal control over financial reporting. This material weakness could continue to adversely affect our ability to report our results of operations and financial condition accurately and in a timely manner.

Our management is responsible for establishing and maintaining adequate internal control over financial reporting designed to provide reasonable assurance regarding the reliability of financial reporting and the preparation of financial statements for external purposes in accordance with GAAP. Our management is likewise required, on a quarterly basis, to evaluate the effectiveness of our internal controls and to disclose any changes and material weaknesses identified through such evaluation in those internal controls. A material weakness is a deficiency, or a combination of deficiencies, in internal control over financial reporting, such that there is a reasonable possibility that a material misstatement of our annual or interim financial statements will not be prevented or detected on a timely basis.

As described elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus, we identified a material weakness in our internal control over financial reporting related to the accounting for a significant and unusual transaction related to the warrants we issued in connection with our private placements in August 2020. As a result of this material weakness, our management concluded that our internal control over financial reporting was not effective as of December 31, 2020. This material weakness resulted in a material misstatement of our warrant liabilities, change in fair value of warrant liabilities, additional paid-in capital, accumulated deficit and related financial disclosures for the period from May 19 (inception) through December 31, 2020, and the unaudited interim periods ending September 30, 2020 (the "Affected Periods").

To respond to this material weakness, we have devoted, and plan to continue to devote, significant effort and resources to the remediation and improvement of our internal control over financial reporting. While we have processes to identify and appropriately apply applicable accounting requirements, we plan to enhance these processes to better evaluate our research and understanding of the nuances of the complex accounting standards that apply to our financial statements. Our plans at this time include providing enhanced access to accounting literature, research materials and documents and increased communication among our personnel and third-party professionals with whom we consult regarding complex accounting applications. The elements of our remediation plan can only be accomplished over time, and we can offer no assurance that these initiatives will ultimately have the intended effects. For a discussion of BowX's management's consideration of the material weakness identified related to our accounting for a significant and unusual transaction related to the warrants we issued in connection with the private placements in August 2020, see Note 2 of the notes to BowX's consolidated financial statements included herein.

Any failure to maintain such internal control could adversely impact our ability to report our financial position and results from operations on a timely and accurate basis. If our financial statements are not accurate, investors may not have a complete understanding of our operations. Likewise, if our financial statements are not filed on a timely basis, we could be subject to sanctions or investigations by the stock exchange on which our common stock is listed, the SEC or other regulatory authorities. In either case, there could result a material adverse effect on our business. Failure to timely file will cause us to be ineligible to utilize short form registration statements on Form S-3 or Form S-4, which may impair our ability to obtain capital in a timely fashion to execute our business strategies or issue shares to effect an acquisition. Ineffective internal controls could also cause investors to lose confidence in our reported financial information, which could have a negative effect on the trading price of our stock.

We can give no assurance that the measures we have taken and plan to take in the future will remediate the material weakness identified or that any additional material weaknesses or restatements of financial results will not arise in the future due to a failure to implement and maintain adequate internal control over financial reporting or circumvention of these controls. In addition, even if we are successful in strengthening our controls and procedures, in the future those controls and procedures may not be adequate to prevent or identify irregularities or errors or to facilitate the fair presentation of our financial statements.

We may face litigation and other risks as a result of the material weakness in our internal control over financial reporting.

On April 12, 2021, the Acting Director of the Division of Corporation Finance and Acting Chief Accountant of the SEC together issued a statement regarding the accounting and reporting considerations for warrants issued by special purpose acquisition companies entitled "Staff Statement on Accounting and Reporting Considerations for Warrants Issued by Special Purpose Acquisition Companies ("SPACs")" (the "SEC Statement"). Following the issuance of the SEC Statement, our audit committee, in consultation with management and after discussions with our independent auditors, concluded that we should have classified our private placement warrants as liabilities measured at fair value upon issuance in our previously issued financial statements, and it was appropriate to correct errors in our previously issued audited financial statements by restating such audited financial information. As part of this restatement, our management, including our principal executive and financial officers, have evaluated the effectiveness of our internal control over financial reporting and concluded that we did not maintain effective internal control over financial reporting as of December 31, 2020 because of a material weakness in our internal control over financial reporting related to the accounting for a significant and unusual transaction related to the warrants we issued in connection with our initial public offering in August 2020. Please see "—We have identified a material weakness in our internal control over financial reporting. This material weakness could continue to adversely affect our ability to report our results of operations and financial condition accurately and in a timely manner". As a result of such material weakness, the change in accounting for the private placement warrants, and other matters raised or that may in the future be raised by the SEC, we face potential for litigation or other disputes which may include, among others, claims invoking the federal and state securities laws, contractual claims or other claims arising from our restatement and material weaknesses in our internal control over financial reporting and the preparation of our financial statements. As of the date of this proxy statement/prospectus, we have no knowledge of any such litigation or dispute. However, we can provide no assurance that such litigation or dispute will not arise in the future. Any such litigation or dispute, whether successful or not, could have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations and financial condition or our ability to complete the Business Combination.

The provisions of the Existing Charter that relate to BowX's pre-Business Combination activity (and corresponding provisions of the agreement governing the release of funds from the trust account) may be amended with the approval of holders of at least 65% of outstanding BowX Common Stock, which is a lower amendment threshold than that of some other blank check companies. It may be easier for BowX, therefore, to amend the Existing Charter and the Trust Agreement to facilitate the completion of the Business Combination without broad support.

Some other blank check companies have a provision in their charter which prohibits the amendment of certain of its provisions, including those which relate to a company's pre-business combination activity, without approval by holders of a certain percentage of the company's stockholders. In those companies, amendment of these provisions typically requires approval by holders holding between 90% and 100% of the company's shares of public stock. The Existing Charter provides that any of its provisions related to pre-business combination activity (including the requirement to deposit proceeds and the sale of the private placement warrants into the trust account and not release such amounts except in specified circumstances, and to provide redemption rights to public stockholders as described herein) may be amended if approved by holders of at least 65% of outstanding BowX Common Stock entitled to vote thereon, and corresponding provisions of the Trust Agreement governing the release of funds from BowX's trust account may be amended if approved by holders of at least 65% of outstanding BowX Common Stock entitled to vote thereon. In all other instances, the Existing Charter may be amended by holders of a majority of outstanding BowX Common Stock entitled to vote thereon, subject to applicable provisions of the DGCL or applicable stock exchange rules. BowX may not issue additional securities that would entitle the holders thereof, prior to the Business Combination, to (1) receive funds from the trust account or (2) vote as a class with BowX's public stock (a) on any initial business combination or (b) to approve an amendment to the Existing Charter. The Sponsor and Sponsor Persons, who collectively beneficially own approximately 18.6% of BowX Common Stock, may participate in any vote to amend the Existing Charter and/or Trust Agreement and will have the discretion to vote in any manner they choose. As a result, BowX may be able to amend the provisions of the Existing Charter which govern BowX's pre-business combination behavior more easily than some other blank check companies, and this may increase BowX's ability to complete the Business Combination. BowX's stockholders may pursue remedies against BowX for any breach of the Existing Charter.

BowX will not propose any amendment to the Existing Charter (A) to modify the substance or timing of BowX's obligation to allow redemption in connection with the Business Combination or certain amendments to the Existing Charter or to redeem 100% of BowX's public stock if BowX does not complete the Business Combination within 24 months from the closing of the initial public offering or (B) with respect to any other provision relating to stockholders' rights or pre-initial business combination activity, unless BowX provides its public stockholders with the opportunity to redeem their public stock upon approval of any such amendment at a per-share price, payable in cash, equal to the aggregate amount then on deposit in the trust account, including interest (which interest shall be net of taxes payable) divided by the number of then outstanding shares of public stock. BowX's stockholders are not parties to, or third-party beneficiaries of, these agreements and, as a result, will not have the ability to pursue remedies against BowX's officers or directors for any breach of these agreements. As a result, in the event of a breach, BowX's public stockholders would need to pursue a stockholder derivative action, subject to applicable law.

BowX's and WeWork's ability to consummate the Business Combination, and the operations of New WeWork following the Business Combination, may be materially adversely affected by the COVID-19 pandemic.

The COVID-19 pandemic has resulted, and other infectious diseases could result, in a widespread health crisis that has affected and could continue to adversely affect the economies and financial markets worldwide, which may delay or prevent the consummation of the Business Combination, and the business of WeWork, or

New WeWork following the Business Combination, could be materially and adversely affected. The extent of such impact will depend on future developments, which are highly uncertain and cannot be predicted, including new information which may emerge concerning the severity of COVID-19 and the actions to contain COVID-19 or treat its impact, among others.

The parties will be required to consummate the Business Combination even if WeWork, its business, financial condition and results of operations are materially affected by COVID-19. The disruptions posed by COVID-19 have continued, and other matters of global concern may continue, for an extensive period of time, and if WeWork is unable to recover from business disruptions due to COVID-19 or other matters of global concern on a timely basis, WeWork's ability to consummate the Business Combination and New WeWork's financial condition and results of operations following the Business Combination may be materially adversely affected. Each of WeWork and New WeWork may also incur additional costs due to delays caused by COVID-19, which could adversely affect New WeWork's financial condition and results of operations.

Additional Risks Related to Ownership of New WeWork Common Stock Following the Business Combination and New WeWork Operating as a Public Company

The price of New WeWork's Common Stock and warrants may be volatile.

Upon consummation of the Business Combination, the price of New WeWork Common Stock, as well as warrants, may fluctuate due to a variety of factors, including:

- changes in the industries in which New WeWork and its customers operate;
- developments involving New WeWork's competitors;
- changes in laws and regulations affecting its business;
- variations in its operating performance and the performance of its competitors in general;
- actual or anticipated fluctuations in New WeWork's quarterly or annual operating results;
- publication of research reports by securities analysts about New WeWork or its competitors or its industry;
- the public's reaction to New WeWork's press releases, its other public announcements and its filings with the SEC;
- actions by stockholders, including the sale by the PIPE Investors of any of their shares of our common stock;
- additions and departures of key personnel;
- commencement of, or involvement in, litigation involving the combined company;
- changes in its capital structure, such as future issuances of securities or the incurrence of additional debt;
- the volume of shares of New WeWork Common Stock available for public sale; and
- general economic and political conditions, such as the effects of the COVID-19 outbreak, recessions, interest rates, local and national elections, fuel prices, international currency fluctuations, corruption, political instability and acts of war or terrorism.

These market and industry factors may materially reduce the market price of New WeWork Common Stock and warrants regardless of the operating performance of New WeWork.

New WeWork does not intend to pay cash dividends for the foreseeable future.

Following the Business Combination, New WeWork currently intends to retain its future earnings, if any, to finance the further development and expansion of its business and does not intend to pay cash dividends in the foreseeable future. Any future determination to pay dividends will be at the discretion of New WeWork's board of directors and will depend on its financial condition, results of operations, capital requirements, restrictions contained in future agreements and financing instruments, business prospects and such other factors as its board of directors deems relevant. As a result, you may not receive any return on an investment in BowX Class A Common Stock unless you sell BowX Class A Common Stock for a price greater than that which you paid for it. See the section entitled "Market Price and Dividend Information."

If analysts do not publish research about New WeWork's business or if they publish inaccurate or unfavorable research, New WeWork's stock price and trading volume could decline.

The trading market for the common stock of New WeWork will depend in part on the research and reports that analysts publish about its business. New WeWork does not have any control over these analysts. If one or more of the analysts who cover New WeWork downgrade its common stock or publish inaccurate or unfavorable research about its business, the price of its common stock would likely decline. If few analysts cover New WeWork, demand for its common stock could decrease and its common stock price and trading volume may decline. Similar results may occur if one or more of these analysts stop covering New WeWork in the future or fail to publish reports on it regularly.

New WeWork may be subject to securities litigation, which is expensive and could divert management attention.

The market price of New WeWork Common Stock may be volatile and, in the past, companies that have experienced volatility in the market price of their stock have been subject to securities class action litigation. New WeWork may be the target of this type of litigation and investigations or past investigations and litigation may resurface in the future. Securities litigation against New WeWork could result in substantial costs and divert management's attention from other business concerns, which could seriously harm its business.

Future resales of common stock after the consummation of the Business Combination may cause the market price of New WeWork's securities to drop significantly, even if New WeWork's business is doing well.

Pursuant to the Lock-Up Agreements, after the consummation of the Business Combination and subject to certain exceptions, the Sponsor, certain of BowX's officers, certain of WeWork's officers and certain WeWork Stockholders will be contractually restricted from selling or transferring any of their Lock-Up Shares during the Lock-Up Period. However, following the expiration of such Lock-Up Period, the Sponsor, certain of BowX's officers, certain of WeWork's officers and certain WeWork Stockholders will not be restricted from selling shares of New WeWork Common Stock held by them, other than by applicable securities laws. Additionally, the PIPE Investors will not be restricted from selling any of their shares of our common stock following the closing of the Business Combination, other than by applicable securities laws, and we may sell shares of our common stock in order to generate cash to satisfy our tax withholding and remittance obligations under FIRPTA in connection with the Business Combination. As such, sales of a substantial number of shares of New WeWork Common Stock in the public market could occur at any time. These sales, or the perception in the market that the holders of a large number of shares intend to sell shares, could reduce the market price of New WeWork Common Stock.

The shares held by Sponsor, certain of BowX's officers, certain of WeWork's officers and certain WeWork Stockholders may be sold after the expiration of the applicable lock-up period under the Lock-Up Agreements. As restrictions on resale end and registration statements (filed after the Closing to provide for the resale of such shares from time to time) are available for use, the sale or possibility of sale of these shares could have the effect of increasing the volatility in New WeWork's share price or the market price of New WeWork Common Stock could decline if the holders of currently restricted shares sell them or are perceived by the market as intending to sell them.

The obligations associated with being a public company will involve significant expenses and will require significant resources and management attention, which may divert from New WeWork's business operations.

As a public company, New WeWork will become subject to the reporting requirements of the Exchange Act and the Sarbanes-Oxley Act. The Exchange Act requires the filing of annual, quarterly and current reports with respect to a public company's business and financial condition. The Sarbanes-Oxley Act requires, among other things, that a public company establish and maintain effective internal control over financial reporting. As a result, New WeWork will incur significant legal, accounting and other expenses that WeWork did not previously incur. New WeWork's entire management team and many of its other employees will need to devote substantial time to compliance, and may not effectively or efficiently manage its transition into a public company.

These rules and regulations will result in New WeWork incurring substantial legal and financial compliance costs and will make some activities more time-consuming and costly. For example, these rules and regulations will likely make it more difficult and more expensive for New WeWork to obtain director and officer liability insurance, and it may be required to accept reduced policy limits and coverage or incur substantially higher costs to obtain the same or similar coverage. As a result, it may be difficult for New WeWork to attract and retain qualified people to serve on its board of directors, its board committees or as executive officers.

Compliance obligations under the Sarbanes Oxley Act may make it more difficult for BowX to effectuate the Business Combination, require substantial financial and management resources and increase the time and costs of completing the Business Combination.

The fact that BowX is a blank check company makes compliance with the requirements of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act particularly burdensome on it as compared to other public companies because WeWork is not currently subject to Section 404 of the Sarbanes Oxley Act. The standards required for a public company under Section 404 of the Sarbanes Oxley Act are significantly more stringent than those required of WeWork as a privately held company. Management may not be able to effectively and timely implement controls and procedures that adequately respond to the increased regulatory compliance and reporting requirements that will be applicable to New WeWork after the Business Combination. If New WeWork is not able to implement the requirements of Section 404, including any additional requirements once New WeWork is no longer an emerging growth company, in a timely manner or with adequate compliance, New WeWork may not be able to assess whether its internal controls over financial reporting are effective, which may subject New WeWork to adverse regulatory consequences and could harm investor confidence and the market price of New WeWork Common Stock. Additionally, once New WeWork is no longer an emerging growth company, New WeWork will be required to comply with the independent registered public accounting firm attestation requirement on its internal control over financial reporting.

In particular, New WeWork will be required to perform system and process evaluation and testing of its internal control over financial reporting to allow management to report on the effectiveness of its internal control over financial reporting. As a private company, WeWork has not yet been required to do such an analysis, and its current testing as a private company has revealed a number of deficiencies and material weaknesses in its internal control over financial reporting that it may not be able to remedy by the time it is required to do a Section 404 assessment. These include issues with WeWork's:

- limited review controls currently in place and lack of sufficient accounting personnel with proper experience and qualifications to account for complex transactions;
- accounting for impairment testing of its intangible assets;
- accounting for the valuation of warrant liabilities;
- accounting for valuation of contingent consideration; and
- accounting for income taxes.

WeWork cannot assure you that it will be able to remedy its existing deficiencies and material weaknesses, that it will not identify new deficiencies or material weaknesses in its initial Section 404 assessment, or that even if identified in such initial assessment, such deficiencies or material weaknesses will not occur in the future. Accordingly, material weaknesses may still exist when New WeWork reports on the effectiveness of its internal control over financial reporting.

New WeWork's independent registered public accounting firm will not be required to attest to the effectiveness of the New WeWork's internal control over financial reporting for so long as New WeWork remains a non-accelerated filer as defined in applicable SEC regulations. To comply with the requirements of its financial statements becoming those of New WeWork following the Business Combination, New WeWork will need to undertake various actions, such as implementing new internal controls and procedures and hiring additional accounting or internal audit staff. WeWork is only now beginning the costly and challenging process of compiling the system and processing documentation necessary to perform the evaluation of its internal control over financial reporting needed to comply with Section 404, and New WeWork may not be able to complete its evaluation, testing and any required remediation in a timely fashion. Moreover, if New WeWork is not able to comply with the requirements of Section 404 in a timely manner or if it identifies or its independent registered public accounting firm identifies deficiencies in WeWork's internal control over financial reporting that are deemed to be material weaknesses, the market price of New WeWork Common Stock could decline and New WeWork could be subject to sanctions or investigations by the NYSE, the SEC or other regulatory authorities, which would require additional financial and management resources.

Certain non-U.S. holders of New WeWork Capital Stock or other equity securities, in certain situations, could be subject to U.S. federal income tax on the gain from the sale, exchange or other disposition of New WeWork Capital Stock or equity securities.

WeWork believes that it might have been, as of December 31, 2019, and as of the date of the Business Combination might be, a USRPHC under FIRPTA. Generally, a corporation is a USRPHC if the fair market value of its U.S. real property interests equals or exceeds 50% of the sum of the fair market value of its worldwide real property interests and its other assets used or held for use in a trade or business (all as determined for U.S. federal income tax purposes). As a result of the Business Combination, we believe we might become a USRPHC. If New WeWork has been a USRPHC during the shorter of a non-U.S. holder's holding period for shares of New WeWork Capital Stock or other equity securities or the five-year period preceding such non-U.S. holder's disposition of such shares of New WeWork Capital Stock or equity securities, such non-U.S. holder may be subject to U.S. federal income tax on gain from disposition of those shares of New WeWork Capital Stock or equity securities under FIRPTA at generally applicable U.S. federal income tax rates, in which case such non-U.S. holder would also be required to file U.S. federal income tax returns with respect to such gain. In addition, if New WeWork is unable to certify, proximate to the time of such disposition, that it has not been a USRPHC during the shorter of a non-U.S. holder's holding period for shares of New WeWork Capital Stock or other equity securities or the five-year period preceding such non-U.S. holder's disposition of such shares of New WeWork Capital Stock or equity securities, a purchaser of shares or equity securities from a non-U.S. holder may be required to withhold U.S. tax in an amount equal to 15% of the gross proceeds from such a purchase. No assurances can be given that New WeWork will be able to give the applicable certification at a given time.

If, at any time during the calendar year, any class of stock of New WeWork is regularly traded on an established securities market, the tax described above applies only in the case of a non-U.S. holder who beneficially owned more than 5% of the total fair market value of that class of interests at any time during the five-year period ending either on the date of disposition of such interest or other applicable determination date, and the withholding requirements described above would not apply. No assurances can be given that, at any given time, our stock will be treated as "regularly traded on an established securities market" for purposes of FIRPTA.

Non-U.S. holders of New WeWork Capital Stock or other equity securities should consult with their own tax advisors concerning the U.S. federal income tax consequences of the sale, exchange or other disposition of New WeWork Capital Stock or other equity securities.

Risks Related to the Redemption

There is no guarantee that a BowX stockholder's decision whether to redeem their stock for a pro rata portion of the trust account will put such stockholder in a better future economic position.

No assurance can be given as to the price at which a stockholder may be able to sell his, her or its public stock in the future following the completion of the Business Combination. Certain events following the consummation of any business combination, including the Business Combination, may cause an increase in our stock price, and may result in a lower value realized now than a BowX stockholder might realize in the future had the stockholder not elected to redeem such stockholder's public stock. Similarly, if a BowX public stockholder does not redeem his, her or its stock, such stockholder will bear the risk of ownership of New WeWork Common Stock after the consummation of the Business Combination, and there can be no assurance that a stockholder can sell his, her or its shares in the future for a greater amount than the redemption price set forth in this proxy statement/prospectus. A BowX stockholder should consult his, her or its own tax and/or financial advisors for assistance on how this may affect his, her or its individual situation.

If BowX stockholders fail to comply with the redemption requirements specified in this proxy statement/prospectus, they will not be entitled to redeem their shares of public stock for a pro rata portion of the funds held in the trust account.

To exercise their redemption rights, holders are required to deliver their stock, either physically or electronically using Depository Trust Company's DWAC System, to BowX's transfer agent prior to the vote at the special meeting. If a holder properly seeks redemption as described in this proxy statement/prospectus and the Business Combination with WeWork is consummated, BowX will redeem these shares for a pro rata portion of funds deposited in the trust account and the holder will no longer own such shares following the Business Combination. See the section entitled "Special Meeting of BowX — Redemption Rights" for additional information on how to exercise your redemption rights.

If you or a "group" of stockholders of which you are a part are deemed to hold an aggregate of more than 15% of the public stock, you (or, if a member of such a group, all of the members of such group in the aggregate) will lose the ability to redeem all such stock in excess of 15% of the public stock unless BowX consents to such redemption.

A public stockholder, together with any affiliate of such public stockholder or any other person with whom such public stockholder is acting in concert or as a "group" (as defined in Section 13(d)(3) of the Exchange Act) will be restricted from redeeming its public stock with respect to more than an aggregate of 15% of the public stock, unless BowX consents to such excess redemption. Your inability to redeem any such excess public stock could result in you suffering a material loss on your investment in BowX if you sell such excess public stock in open market transactions. BowX cannot assure you that the value of such excess public stock will appreciate over time following the Business Combination or that the market price of the public stock will exceed the per-share redemption price. The inability of a stockholder to redeem an aggregate of more than 15% of the shares of BowX Common Stock sold in the initial public offering will reduce its influence over BowX's ability to consummate its initial business combination and such stockholder could suffer a material loss on its investment in BowX if it sells such excess shares in open market transactions. Additionally, the stockholder will not receive redemption distributions with respect to the excess shares if we complete the Business Combination. As a result, such stockholders will continue to hold that number of shares exceeding 15% and, in order to dispose of such shares, would be required to sell its shares in open market transactions, potentially at a loss.

However, BowX's stockholders' ability to vote all of their public stock (including such excess shares) for or against the BCA Proposal is not restricted by this limitation on redemption.

There is uncertainty regarding the U.S. federal income tax consequences of the redemption to the holders of BowX Class A Common Stock.

There is uncertainty regarding the U.S. federal income tax consequences to holders of BowX Class A Common Stock who exercise their redemption rights. The uncertainty of tax consequences relates primarily to the individual circumstances of the taxpayer and includes (i) whether the redemption is treated as a distribution from BowX, which would be taxable in the same manner that distributions are taxed, or as a sale, which would be taxable as capital gain or loss, and (ii) whether capital gain is “long-term” or “short-term.” Whether the redemption qualifies for sale treatment, resulting in taxation as capital gain or loss, will depend largely on whether the holder owns (or is deemed to own) any shares of BowX Class A Common Stock following the redemption, and if so, the total number of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock held by the holder both before and after the redemption relative to all shares of BowX Class A Common Stock outstanding both before and after the redemption. The redemption generally will be treated as a sale, rather than a distribution, if the redemption (i) is “substantially disproportionate” with respect to the holder, (ii) results in a “complete termination” of the holder’s interest in BowX or (iii) is “not essentially equivalent to a dividend” with respect to the holder. Due to the personal nature of certain of such tests and the absence of clear guidance from the IRS, there is uncertainty as to whether a holder who elects to exercise its redemption rights will be taxed on any proceeds from the redemption as a distribution potentially giving rise to dividend income or sale proceeds treated as capital gain. See the section entitled “Certain U.S. Federal Income Tax Considerations for Stockholders Exercising Redemption Rights.”

Risks if the Adjournment Proposal is Not Approved

If the Adjournment Proposal is not approved, and an insufficient number of votes have been obtained to authorize the consummation of the Business Combination, and BowX’s presiding officer does not adjourn the special meeting to a later date in order to solicit further votes, the Business Combination will not be approved, and, therefore, the Business Combination may not be consummated.

BowX’s board of directors is seeking approval to adjourn the special meeting to a later date or dates if, at the special meeting, based upon the tabulated votes, there are insufficient votes to approve each of the Condition Precedent Proposals. If the Adjournment Proposal is not approved, the BowX board of directors will not have the ability to adjourn the special meeting to a later date and, if the BowX presiding officer does not adjourn the special meeting to a later date in order to solicit further votes, will not have more time to solicit votes to approve the Condition Precedent Proposals. In such events, the Business Combination would not be completed.

Risks if the Business Combination is not Consummated

You will not have any rights or interests in funds from the trust account, except under certain limited circumstances. To liquidate your investment, therefore, you may be forced to sell your public stock and/or public warrants, potentially at a loss.

BowX’s public stockholders will be entitled to receive funds from the trust account only upon the earliest to occur of: (a) the completion of the Business Combination, and then only in connection with those shares of BowX Class A Common Stock that such stockholder properly elected to redeem, subject to the limitations described herein, (b) the redemption of any public stock properly submitted in connection with a stockholder vote to amend the Existing Charter (i) to modify the substance or timing of BowX’s obligation to allow redemption in connection with the Business Combination or certain amendments to the Existing Charter or to redeem 100% of BowX’s public stock if BowX does not complete the Business Combination within 24 months from the closing of the initial public offering or (ii) with respect to any other provisions relating to stockholders’ rights or activity prior to the Business Combination and (c) the redemption of BowX’s public stock if BowX has not completed an initial business combination within 24 months from the closing of the initial public offering, subject to applicable law. In no other circumstances will a public stockholder have any right or interest of any kind in the trust account. Holders of public warrants and private placement warrants will not have any right to the proceeds held in the trust account with respect to such warrants. Accordingly, to liquidate your investment, you may be forced to sell your public stock or warrants, potentially at a loss.

If BowX is not able to complete the Business Combination with WeWork by August 7, 2022, nor able to complete another business combination by such date, in each case, as such date may be further extended pursuant to the Organizational Documents, it would cease all operations except for the purpose of winding up and BowX would redeem BowX's public stock and liquidate, in which case BowX's public stockholders may only receive $10.00 per share, or less than such amount in certain circumstances, and any public warrants or private placement warrants will expire worthless.

BowX's ability to complete the Business Combination or another initial business combination may be negatively impacted by general market conditions, volatility in the capital and debt markets and the other risks described herein, including as a result of terrorist attacks, natural disaster or a significant outbreak of infectious diseases. For example, the outbreak of COVID-19 continues in the U.S. and, while the extent of the impact of the outbreak on BowX will depend on future developments, it could limit our ability to complete the Business Combination, including as a result of increased market volatility, decreased market liquidity and third-party financing being unavailable on terms acceptable to us or at all.

If BowX is not able to complete the Business Combination with WeWork by August 7, 2022, nor able to complete another business combination by such date, in each case, as such date may be extended pursuant to BowX's Organizational Documents, BowX will: (i) cease all operations except for the purpose of winding up; (ii) as promptly as reasonably possible but not more than ten business days thereafter, redeem the public stock, at a per-share price, payable in cash, equal to the aggregate amount then on deposit in the trust account including interest earned on the funds held in the trust account and not previously released to us to pay BowX's taxes (less up to $100,000 of interest to pay dissolution expenses), divided by the number of then outstanding shares of public stock, which redemption will completely extinguish public stockholders' rights as stockholders (including the right to receive further liquidating distributions, if any); and (iii) as promptly as reasonably possible following such redemption, subject to the approval of BowX's remaining stockholders and BowX's board of directors, dissolve and liquidate, subject in the case of clauses (i) and (ii) to BowX's obligations under the DGCL to provide for claims of creditors and the requirements of other applicable law. In such case, public stockholders may only receive $10.00 per share, and any public warrants or private placement warrants will expire worthless. In certain circumstances, public stockholders may receive less than $10.00 per share on the redemption of their shares.

If the net proceeds of the initial public offering and the sale of the private placement warrants not being held in the trust account are insufficient to allow us to operate for at least the 24 months following the closing of the initial public offering, BowX may be unable to complete any initial business combination, in which case BowX's public stockholders may only receive $10.00 per share, or less than such amount in certain circumstances, and BowX's warrants will expire worthless.

As of June 30, 2021, BowX had cash of approximately $0.5 million held outside the trust account, which is available for use by us to cover the costs associated with identifying a target business and negotiating a business combination and other general corporate uses. In addition, as of June 30, 2021, BowX had total current liabilities of approximately $3.7 million.

The funds available to BowX outside of the trust account may not be sufficient to allow BowX to operate until August 7, 2022, assuming that the Business Combination or another similar transaction is not completed during that time. Of the funds available to it, BowX could use a portion of the funds available to pay fees to consultants to assist us with our search for a target business. BowX could also use a portion of the funds as a down payment or to fund a "no-shop" provision (a provision in letters of intent designed to keep target businesses from "shopping" around for transactions with other companies on terms more favorable to such target businesses) with respect to a particular proposed business combination, although BowX does not have any current intention to do so. If BowX entered into a letter of intent where it paid for the right to receive exclusivity from a target business and was subsequently required to forfeit such funds (whether as a result of its breach or otherwise), BowX might not have sufficient funds to continue searching for, or conduct due diligence with respect to, a target business.

If BowX is required to seek additional capital, it would need to borrow funds from Sponsor, members of its management team or other third parties to operate or may be forced to liquidate. Neither the members of its management team nor any of their affiliates is under any further obligation to advance funds to BowX in such circumstances. Any such advances would be repaid only from funds held outside the trust account or from funds released to us upon completion of its initial business combination. If BowX is unable to obtain additional financing, we may be unable to complete an initial business combination. If BowX is unable to complete its initial business combination because it does not have sufficient funds available, BowX will be forced to cease operations and liquidate the trust account. Consequently, BowX's public stockholders may only receive approximately $10.00 per share on its redemption of the shares of public stock and the public warrants will expire worthless.

If, after BowX distributes the proceeds in the trust account to the public stockholders, BowX files a winding-up or bankruptcy petition or an involuntary winding-up or bankruptcy petition is filed against it that is not dismissed, a bankruptcy court may seek to recover such proceeds, and BowX and its board of directors may be exposed to claims of punitive damages.

If, after BowX distributes the proceeds in the trust account to the public stockholders, BowX files a winding-up or bankruptcy petition or an involuntary winding-up or bankruptcy petition is filed against it that is not dismissed, any distributions received by stockholders could be viewed under applicable debtor/creditor and/or insolvency laws as a voidable transfer. As a result, a liquidator could seek to recover all amounts received by our stockholders. In addition, its board of directors may be viewed as having breached its fiduciary duty to our creditors or having acted in bad faith, thereby exposing it and BowX to claims of punitive damages, by paying public stockholders from the trust account prior to addressing the claims of creditors. BowX cannot assure you that claims will not be brought against it for these reasons.

If, before distributing the proceeds in the trust account to the public stockholders, BowX files a winding-up or bankruptcy petition or an involuntary winding-up or bankruptcy petition is filed against it that is not dismissed, the claims of creditors in such proceeding may have priority over the claims of our stockholders and the per share amount that would otherwise be received by our stockholders in connection with our liquidation may be reduced.

If, before distributing the proceeds in the trust account to the public stockholders, BowX files a winding-up or bankruptcy petition or an involuntary winding-up or bankruptcy petition is filed against it that is not dismissed, the proceeds held in the trust account could be subject to applicable insolvency law, and may be included in its estate and subject to the claims of third parties with priority over the claims of our stockholders. To the extent any claims deplete the trust account, the per share amount that would otherwise be received by BowX stockholders in connection with its liquidation may be reduced.

If BowX fails to consummate an initial business combination, BowX's stockholders may be held liable for claims by third parties against BowX to the extent of distributions received by them upon redemption of their shares.

Under the DGCL, stockholders may be held liable for claims by third parties against a corporation to the extent of distributions received by them in a dissolution. The pro rata portion of the trust account distributed to the public stockholders upon the redemption of the shares of public stock in the event BowX does not complete an initial business combination within the allotted time period may be considered a liquidating distribution under Delaware law. If a corporation complies with certain procedures set forth in Section 280 of the DGCL intended to ensure that it makes reasonable provision for all claims against it, including a 60-day notice period during which any third-party claims can be brought against the corporation, a 90-day period during which the corporation may reject any claims brought, and an additional 150-day waiting period before any liquidating distributions are made to stockholders, any liability of stockholders with respect to a liquidating distribution is limited to the lesser of such stockholder's pro rata share of the claim or the amount distributed to the stockholder, and any liability of the stockholder would be barred after the third anniversary of the dissolution. However, it is BowX's intention to redeem BowX's shares of public stock as soon as reasonably possible following the 24th month from the closing of The initial public offering (or the end of any extension period) in the event BowX do not complete BowX's initial business combination and, therefore, BowX do not intend to comply with the foregoing procedures.

Because BowX will not be complying with Section 280, Section 281(b) of the DGCL requires it to adopt a plan, based on facts known to us at such time that will provide for BowX's payment of all existing and pending claims or claims that may be potentially brought against us within the 10 years following BowX's dissolution. However, because BowX is a blank check company, rather than an operating company, and BowX's operations are limited to searching for prospective target businesses to acquire, the only likely claims to arise would be from BowX's vendors (such as lawyers, investment bankers, etc.) or prospective target businesses. If BowX's plan of distribution complies with Section 281(b) of the DGCL, any liability of stockholders with respect to a liquidating distribution is limited to the lesser of such stockholder's pro rata share of the claim or the amount distributed to the stockholder, and any liability of the stockholder would likely be barred after the third anniversary of the dissolution. BowX cannot assure you that BowX will properly assess all claims that may be potentially brought against BowX. As such, BowX's stockholders could potentially be liable for any claims to the extent of distributions received by them (but no more) and any liability of BowX's stockholders may extend beyond the third anniversary of such date. Furthermore, if the pro rata portion of BowX's trust account distributed to BowX's public stockholders upon the redemption of BowX's public stock in the event BowX does not complete BowX's initial business combination within the allotted time period is not considered a liquidating distribution under Delaware law and such redemption distribution is deemed to be unlawful, then pursuant to Section 174 of the DGCL, the statute of limitations for claims of creditors could then be six years after the unlawful redemption distribution, instead of three years, as in the case of a liquidating distribution.

You may not have the same benefits as an investor in an underwritten public offering.

New WeWork will become a publicly listed company upon the completion of the Business Combination. The Business Combination and the transactions described in this proxy statement/prospectus are not an underwritten initial public offering of New WeWork's securities and differ from an underwritten initial public offering in several significant ways, which include, but are not limited to, the following:

Like other business combinations and spin-offs, in connection with the Business Combination, you will not receive the benefits of the diligence performed by the underwriters in an underwritten public offering. Investors in an underwritten public offering may benefit from the role of the underwriters in such an offering. In an underwritten public offering, an issuer initially sells its securities to the public market via one or more underwriters, who distribute or resell such securities to the public. Underwriters have liability under the U.S. securities laws for material misstatements or omissions in a registration statement pursuant to which an issuer sells securities. Because the underwriters have a "due diligence" defense to any such liability by, among other things, conducting a reasonable investigation, the underwriters and their counsel conduct a due diligence investigation of the issuer. Due diligence entails engaging legal, financial and/or other experts to perform an investigation as to the accuracy of an issuer's disclosure regarding, among other things, its business and financial results. Auditors of the issuer will also deliver a "comfort" letter with respect to the financial information contained in the registration statement. In making their investment decision, investors have the benefit of such diligence in underwritten public offerings. In contrast, BowX and WeWork have each engaged a financial advisor (rather than underwriters) in connection with the Business Combination. While such financial advisors or their respective affiliates may act as underwriters in underwritten public offerings, the role of a financial advisor differs from that of an underwriter. For example, financial advisors do not act as intermediaries in the sale of securities and therefore do not face the same potential liability under the U.S. securities laws as underwriters. As a result, financial advisors typically do not undertake the same level of, or any, due diligence investigation of the issuer as is typically undertaken by underwriters.

In addition, because there are no underwriters engaged in connection with the Business Combination, prior to the opening of trading on the NYSE on the trading day immediately following the closing, there will be no book building process and no price at which underwriters initially sold shares to the public to help inform efficient and sufficient price discovery with respect to the initial post-closing trades on the NYSE. Therefore, buy and sell orders submitted prior to and at the opening of initial post-closing trading of the New WeWork Common Stock on Nasdaq will not have the benefit of being informed by a published price range or a price at which the underwriters initially sold shares to the public, as would be the case in an underwritten initial public offering. There will be no underwriters assuming risk in connection with an initial resale of shares of the New WeWork Common Stock or helping to stabilize, maintain or affect the public price of the New WeWork Common Stock following the closing. Moreover, we will not engage in, and have not and will not, directly or indirectly, request the financial advisors to engage in, any special selling efforts or stabilization or price support activities in connection with the New WeWork Common Stock that will be outstanding immediately following the closing. All of these differences from an underwritten public offering of WeWork's securities could result in a more volatile price for the New WeWork Common Stock.

Further, we will not conduct a traditional "roadshow" with underwriters prior to the opening of initial post-closing trading of the New WeWork Common Stock on the NYSE. There can be no guarantee that any information made available in this proxy statement/prospectus and/or otherwise disclosed or filed with the SEC will have the same impact on investor education as a traditional "roadshow" conducted in connection with an underwritten initial public offering. As a result, there may not be efficient or sufficient price discovery with respect to the New WeWork Common Stock or sufficient demand among potential investors immediately after the closing, which could result in a more volatile price for the New WeWork Common Stock.

In addition, our initial stockholders, including our Sponsor, as well as their respective affiliates and permitted transferees, have interests in the Business Combination that are different from or are in addition to our shareholders and that would not be present in an underwritten public offering of WeWork's securities. Such interests may have influenced our board of directors in making their recommendation that you vote in favor of the approval of the Business Combination Proposal and the other proposals described in this proxy statement/prospectus.

Such differences from an underwritten public offering may present material risks to unaffiliated investors that would not exist if WeWork became a publicly listed company through an underwritten initial public offering instead of upon completion of the merger.

SPECIAL MEETING OF BOWX

General

We are furnishing this proxy statement/prospectus to our stockholders as part of the solicitation of proxies by our board of directors for use at the special meeting of BowX to be held on October 19, 2021, and at any adjournment thereof. This proxy statement/prospectus is first being furnished to our stockholders on or about , 2021, in connection with the vote on the proposals described in this proxy statement/prospectus. This proxy statement/prospectus provides our stockholders with information they need to know to be able to vote or instruct their vote to be cast at the special meeting. In connection with the special meeting, we are also providing you with our Annual Report on Form 10-K, as amended, for the year ended December 31, 2020.

Date, Time and Place

The special meeting will be held on October 19, 2021, at 11:00 a.m., Eastern Time, or via live webcast at <https://www.cstproxy.com/bowxacquisitioncorp/sm2021>, or such other date, time and place to which such meeting may be adjourned or virtually postponed, to consider and vote upon the proposals.

Purpose of the BowX Special Meeting

- The BCA Proposal — to consider and vote upon a proposal to approve and adopt the Merger Agreement and the Business Combination;
- The Organizational Documents Proposals — to consider and vote upon the following four separate proposals to amend the Organizational Documents:
 - Organizational Documents Proposal A — to authorize the change in the authorized capital stock of BowX from 87,500,000 shares of BowX Class A Common Stock, 12,500,000 shares of BowX Class B Common Stock, and 1,000,000 shares of preferred stock, par value $0.0001, to (a) 1,500,000,000 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock; (b) 25,041,666 shares of New WeWork Class C Common Stock; and (c) 100,000,000 shares of New WeWork Preferred Stock. Further, to authorize the New WeWork Class C Common Stock as a non-economic security without rights to dividends or on liquidation;
 - Organizational Documents Proposal B — with respect to any vote or election submitted to the holders of shares of New WeWork Capital Stock for approval, to restrict the SoftBank Holders (as defined herein), for a period of at least two years, from exercising voting rights over more than 49.9% of the voting securities present (virtually or by proxy) and voting at any such meeting of the stockholders;
 - Organizational Documents Proposal C — to provide for only one class of board directors and direct that board vacancies be filled by the majority of directors then in office, unless specified otherwise in the Stockholders Agreement or Proposed Bylaws (each, as defined below); and
 - Organizational Documents Proposal D — to approve and adopt the additional changes in the Proposed Charter, including changing BowX’s name from “BowX Acquisition Corp.” to “WeWork Inc.,” which our board of directors believes are necessary to adequately address the needs of New WeWork immediately following the consummation of the Business Combination and approval of the Proposed Charter;
- The Director Election Proposal — to consider and vote upon a proposal to elect, effective at Closing, assuming the BCA Proposal and the Organizational Documents Proposals are approved, nine directors who, upon consummation of the Business Combination, will be the directors of New WeWork;
- The Stock Issuance Proposal — to consider and vote upon a proposal to approve and adopt, for purposes of complying with applicable provisions of The Nasdaq Stock Market Listing Rule 5635, the issuance of (a) shares of BowX Class A Common Stock to the PIPE Investors pursuant to the PIPE Investment and (b) shares of New WeWork Common Stock to the WeWork Stockholders pursuant to the Merger Agreement;

- The Equity Incentive Plan Proposal — to consider and vote upon a proposal to approve and adopt the 2021 Plan;
- The ESPP Proposal — to consider and vote upon a proposal to approve and adopt the ESPP; and
- The Adjournment Proposal — to consider and vote upon a proposal to approve the adjournment of the special meeting to a later date or dates, if necessary, to permit further solicitation and vote of proxies in the event that there are insufficient votes for the approval of one or more proposals at the special meeting.

If BowX’s stockholders do not approve each of the Condition Precedent Proposals, then unless certain conditions in the Merger Agreement are waived by the applicable parties to the Merger Agreement, the Merger Agreement could terminate and the Business Combination may not be consummated. The applicable parties to the Merger Agreement would not be able to waive Organizational Documents Proposals A or D and still complete the Merger on the terms contemplated by the Merger Agreement because there will not be a sufficient number of authorized shares of capital stock of BowX to issue the shares required to be issued in the Merger if Organizational Documents Proposal A is not approved. See the section entitled “BCA Proposal,” “Organizational Documents Proposals,” “Director Election Proposal,” “Stock Issuance Proposal,” “Equity Incentive Plan Proposal,” “ESPP Proposal” and “Adjournment Proposal.”

Recommendation of BowX Board of Directors

BowX’s board of directors believes that the BCA Proposal and the other proposals to be presented at the special meeting are in the best interest of BowX’s stockholders and unanimously recommends that its stockholders vote “FOR” the BCA Proposal, “FOR” each of the separate Organizational Documents Proposals, “FOR” the Director Election Proposal, “FOR” the Stock Issuance Proposal, “FOR” the Equity Incentive Plan Proposal, “FOR” the ESPP Proposal and “FOR” the Adjournment Proposal, in each case, if presented to the special meeting.

The existence of financial and personal interests of one or more of BowX’s directors may result in a conflict of interest on the part of such director(s) between what he, she or they may believe is in the best interests of BowX and its stockholders and what he, she or they may believe is best for himself, herself or themselves in determining to recommend that stockholders vote for the proposals. In addition, BowX’s officers have interests in the Business Combination that may conflict with your interests as a stockholder. See the section entitled “BCA Proposal — Interests of BowX’s Directors and Executive Officers in the Business Combination” for a further discussion of these considerations.

Record Date; Who is Entitled to Vote

BowX stockholders will be entitled to vote or direct votes to be cast at the special meeting if they owned BowX Common Stock at the close of business on September 14, 2021, which is the “record date” for the special meeting. Stockholders will have one vote for each share of BowX Common Stock owned at the close of business on the record date. If your stock is held in “street name” or are in a margin or similar account, you should contact your broker to ensure that votes related to the stock you beneficially own are properly counted. Warrants do not have voting rights. As of the close of business on the record date, there were 48,300,000 shares of BowX Class A Common Stock issued and outstanding and 12,075,000 shares of BowX Class B Common Stock issued and outstanding.

Our initial stockholders, including the Sponsor, and our directors and officers have agreed to vote any shares of BowX Common Stock owned by them in favor of the Business Combination, including their shares of BowX

Class B Common Stock and any public stock purchased after our initial public offering (including in open market and privately negotiated transactions). As of the record date, our initial stockholders, including our Sponsor, and our directors and officers beneficially own an aggregate of approximately 18.6% of the outstanding shares of BowX Common Stock.

Quorum

A quorum of BowX stockholders is necessary to hold a valid meeting. A quorum will be present at the special meeting if the holders of a majority of the issued and outstanding BowX Common Stock entitled to vote at the special meeting are attending virtually or by proxy. As of the record date for the special meeting, 30,187,501 shares of BowX Common Stock would be required to achieve a quorum.

Abstentions and Broker Non-Votes

Proxies that are marked “abstain” and proxies relating to “street name” shares that are returned to BowX but marked by brokers as “not voted” will be treated as shares present for purposes of determining the presence of a quorum on all matters. Under the rules of various national and regional securities exchanges, your broker, bank, or nominee cannot vote your shares with respect to non-discretionary matters unless you provide instructions on how to vote in accordance with the information and procedures provided to you by your broker, bank, or nominee. We believe all the proposals presented to the stockholders will be considered non-discretionary and therefore your broker, bank, or nominee cannot vote your shares without your instruction.

If you do not provide voting instructions to your broker on a particular proposal on which your broker does not have discretionary authority to vote, your shares will not be voted on that proposal. This is called a “broker non-vote.” Broker non-votes, while considered present for the purposes of establishing a quorum, will not count as votes cast at the special meeting, will have the same effect as a vote against the Organizational Documents Proposal and will have no effect on any of the other proposals.

At the special meeting of stockholders, BowX will count a properly executed proxy marked “ABSTAIN” with respect to a particular proposal as present for purposes of determining whether a quorum is present. For purposes of approval, an abstention or failure to vote will have the same effect as a vote against any proposal, except that an abstention will have no effect on the Director Election Proposal, Stock Issuance Proposal, Equity Incentive Plan Proposal and the ESPP Proposal.

Vote Required for Approval

The approval of the Organizational Documents Proposals (other than Organizational Documents Proposals A and D) requires the affirmative vote (attending virtually or by proxy) of the holders of a majority of all outstanding shares of BowX Common Stock entitled to vote. The approval of Organizational Documents Proposals A and D will require the affirmative vote of the holders of a majority of the outstanding shares of BowX Class A Common Stock on the record date and the affirmative vote of the holders of a majority of the outstanding shares of Class B Common Stock on the record date. The BCA Proposal and Adjournment Proposal require the affirmative vote of a majority of the shares of BowX Common Stock attending virtually or by proxy, entitled to vote at the special meeting. The Stock Issuance Proposal, Equity Incentive Plan Proposal and ESPP Proposal require the affirmative vote of a majority of the shares of BowX Common Stock attending virtually or by proxy, entitled to vote and who vote thereon at the special meeting. The approval of the election of each director nominee pursuant to the Director Election Proposal requires the affirmative vote of the holders of a plurality of the outstanding shares of BowX Common Stock attending virtually or by proxy and voted at the special meeting. Because the Director Election Proposal is an uncontested election with no cumulative voting, every director nominee will be assured election upon receiving just one “for” vote.

Voting Your Shares

Each share of BowX Common Stock that you own in your name entitles you to one vote. Your proxy card shows the number of shares of BowX Common Stock that you own. If your shares are held in “street name” or are in a margin or similar account, you should contact your broker to ensure that votes related to the shares you beneficially own are properly counted.

There are two ways to vote your shares of BowX Common Stock at the special meeting:

- You can vote by signing and returning the enclosed proxy card. If you vote by proxy card, your “proxy,” whose name is listed on the proxy card, will vote your shares as you instruct on the proxy card. If you sign and return the proxy card but do not give instructions on how to vote your shares, your shares will be voted as recommended by BowX’s board “FOR” the BCA Proposal, “FOR” each of the separate Organizational Documents Proposals, “FOR” the Director Election Proposal, “FOR” the Stock Issuance Proposal, “FOR” the Equity Incentive Plan Proposal, “FOR” the ESPP Proposal and “FOR” the Adjournment Proposal, in each case, if presented to the special meeting. Votes received after a matter has been voted upon at the special meeting will not be counted.
- You can attend the special meeting and vote virtually. You will receive a ballot when you arrive. However, if your shares are held in the name of your broker, bank or another nominee, you must get a valid legal proxy from the broker, bank or other nominee. That is the only way BowX can be sure that the broker, bank or nominee has not already voted your shares.

Revoking Your Proxy

If you are a BowX stockholder and you give a proxy, you may revoke it at any time before it is exercised by doing any one of the following:

- you may send another proxy card with a later date;
- you may notify BowX’s Secretary in writing before the special meeting that you have revoked your proxy; or
- you may attend the special meeting online, revoke your proxy, and vote virtually, as indicated above.

Who Can Answer Your Questions About Voting Your Shares

If you are a stockholder and have any questions about how to vote or direct a vote in respect of your BowX Common Stock, you may call Morrow, BowX’s proxy solicitor, by calling (800) 662-5200 (toll free) or banks and brokers can call collect at (230) 658-9400., or by emailing bowx.info@investor.morrowsodali.com.

Redemption Rights

Pursuant to our Existing Charter, a holder of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock originally sold in our initial public offering, including as part of the units issued in our initial public offering, may request of BowX that BowX redeem all or a portion of such holder’s BowX Class A Common Stock for cash if the Business Combination is consummated. As a holder of BowX Class A Common Stock, you will be entitled to receive cash for any such shares to be redeemed only if you:

- (i) (a) hold BowX Class A Common Stock, or (b) if you hold BowX Class A Common Stock through units, you elect to separate your units into the underlying BowX Class A Common Stock and public warrants prior to exercising your redemption rights with respect to the BowX Class A Common Stock;
- (ii) submit a written request to Continental, BowX’s transfer agent, that BowX redeem all or a portion of your public stock for cash; and
- (iii) deliver your public stock to Continental, physically or electronically through DTC.

Holders must complete the procedures for electing to redeem their BowX Class A Common Stock in the manner described above prior to 5:00 p.m., Eastern Time, on October 15, 2021, (two business days before the special meeting) in order for their shares to be redeemed.

Holders of units must elect to separate the units into the underlying BowX Class A Common Stock and public warrants prior to exercising redemption rights with respect to the BowX Class A Common Stock. If holders hold their units in an account at a brokerage firm or bank, holders must notify their broker or bank that they elect to separate the units into the underlying BowX Class A Common Stock and public warrants, or if a holder holds units registered in its own name, the holder must contact Continental, BowX's transfer agent, directly and instruct them to do so. Public stockholders may elect to redeem BowX Class A Common Stock regardless of if or how they vote with respect to the BCA Proposal. If the Business Combination is not consummated, the public stock will be returned to the respective holder, broker or bank.

If the Business Combination is consummated, and if a public stockholder properly exercises its right to redeem all or a portion of the BowX Class A Common Stock that it holds and timely delivers its shares to Continental, BowX's transfer agent, New WeWork will redeem such BowX Class A Common Stock for a per-share price, payable in cash, equal to the pro rata portion of the trust account established at the consummation of our initial public offering (the "trust account"), calculated as of two business days prior to the consummation of the Business Combination. For illustrative purposes, based on funds in the trust account as of June 30, 2021, of approximately $483.1 million, the estimated per share redemption price would have been approximately $10.00. If a public stockholder exercises its redemption rights in full, then it will be electing to exchange its BowX Class A Common Stock for cash and will no longer own BowX Class A Common Stock. The redemption takes place following the Business Combination and, accordingly, it is shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock that will be redeemed promptly after consummation of the Business Combination. See the section entitled "Special Meeting of BowX — Redemption Rights" in this proxy statement/prospectus for a detailed description of the procedures to be followed if you wish to redeem your shares of public stock for cash.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, a public stockholder, together with any affiliate of such public stockholder or any other person with whom such public stockholder is acting in concert or as a "group" (as defined in Section 13(d)(3) of the Exchange Act), will be restricted from redeeming its BowX Class A Common Stock with respect to more than an aggregate of 15% of the BowX Class A Common Stock, without the consent of BowX. Accordingly, if a public stockholder, alone or acting in concert or as a group, seeks to redeem more than 15% of the BowX Class A Common Stock, then any such shares in excess of that 15% limit would not be redeemed for cash.

Sponsor and Sponsor Persons have agreed to, among other things, vote in favor of the Merger Agreement and the transactions contemplated thereby, and to waive their redemption rights in connection with the consummation of the Business Combination with respect to any shares of BowX Common Stock held by them, in each case, subject to the terms and conditions contemplated by the Sponsor Support Agreement. As a result, the parties to the Sponsor Support Agreement agreed to, among other things, vote at least 9,454,534 shares of Class B Common Stock in favor of the Merger Agreement and the transactions contemplated thereby, in each case, subject to the terms and conditions contemplated by the Sponsor Support Agreement. The BowX Common Stock held by the Sponsor will be excluded from the pro rata calculation used to determine the per-share redemption price. As of the date of this proxy statement/prospectus, the Sponsor owns approximately 13% of the issued and outstanding BowX Common Stock.

Holders of the warrants will not have redemption rights with respect to the warrants.

The closing price of public stock on September 17, 2021, the most recent practicable date prior to the date of this proxy statement/prospectus, was $9.99. As of September 17, 2021, funds in the trust account totaled approximately $483.1 million and were comprised entirely of U.S. government treasury obligations with a maturity of 185 days or less or of money market funds meeting certain conditions under Rule 2a-7 under the Investment Company Act, which invest only in direct U.S. government treasury obligations, or approximately $10.00 per issued and outstanding share of public stock.

Prior to exercising redemption rights, public stockholders should verify the market price of the public stock as they may receive higher proceeds from the sale of their public stock in the public market than from exercising their redemption rights if the market price per share is higher than the redemption price. BowX cannot assure its stockholders that they will be able to sell their public stock in the open market, even if the market price per share is higher than the redemption price stated above, as there may not be sufficient liquidity in its securities when its stockholders wish to sell their stock.

Appraisal Rights

Neither BowX's stockholders nor BowX's warrant holders have appraisal rights in connection with the Business Combination under the DGCL.

Proxy Solicitation Costs

BowX will pay the cost of soliciting proxies for the special meeting. BowX has engaged Morrow to assist in the solicitation of proxies for the special meeting. BowX has agreed to pay Morrow a fee of $37,500, plus disbursements (to be paid with non-trust account funds). BowX will also reimburse banks, brokers and other custodians, nominees and fiduciaries representing beneficial owners of BowX Class A Common Stock for their expenses in forwarding soliciting materials to beneficial owners of BowX Class A Common Stock and in obtaining voting instructions from those owners. BowX's directors and officers may also solicit proxies by telephone, by facsimile, by mail, on the Internet or in person. They will not be paid any additional amounts for soliciting proxies.

BowX Initial Stockholders

As of the date of this proxy statement/prospectus, there are 48,300,000 shares of BowX Class A Common Stock issued and outstanding and 12,075,000 shares of BowX Class B Common Stock outstanding. In addition, there currently are 23,873,333 warrants issued and outstanding, consisting of 16,100,000 public warrants and 7,773,333 private placement warrants. Each whole warrant entitles the holder thereof to purchase one share of BowX Class A Common Stock at a price of $11.50 per share. The warrants will become exercisable 30 days after the completion of a business combination, and expire at 5:00 p.m., New York City time, five years after the completion of a business combination or earlier upon redemption or liquidation. The private placement warrants, however, are non-redeemable so long as they are held by their initial purchasers or their permitted transferees.

At any time at or prior to the Business Combination, subject to applicable securities laws (including with respect to material non-public information), the Sponsor, the existing stockholders of BowX or our or their respective directors, officers, advisors or respective affiliates may (i) purchase shares of public stock from institutional and other investors who vote, or indicate an intention to vote, against any of the Condition Precedent Proposals, or elect to redeem, or indicate an intention to redeem, shares of public stock, (ii) execute agreements to purchase such shares from such investors in the future, or (iii) enter into transactions with such investors and others to provide them with incentives to acquire shares of public stock, vote their shares of public stock in favor of the Condition Precedent Proposals or not redeem their shares of public stock. Such a purchase may include a contractual acknowledgement that such stockholder, although still the record holder of BowX's shares, is no longer the beneficial owner thereof and therefore agrees not to exercise its redemption rights. In the event that the Sponsor, the existing stockholders of BowX or our or their respective directors, officers, advisors, or respective affiliates purchase shares in privately negotiated transactions from public stockholders who have already elected to exercise their redemption rights, such selling stockholders would be required to revoke their prior elections to redeem their shares. The purpose of such share purchases and other transactions would be to increase the likelihood of (1) satisfaction of the votes required to approve the BCA Proposal, the Organizational Documents Proposals, the Director Election Proposal, the Stock Issuance Proposal, the Equity Incentive Plan Proposal, the ESPP Proposal and the Adjournment Proposal, (2) satisfaction of the Minimum Available Cash Condition, (3) otherwise limiting the number of shares of public stock electing to redeem and (4) BowX's net tangible assets

(as determined in accordance with Rule 3a51-1(g)(1) of the Exchange Act) being at least $5,000,001. Entering into any such arrangements may have a depressive effect on the BowX Common Stock (e.g., by giving an investor or holder the ability to effectively purchase shares at a price lower than market, such investor or holder may therefore become more likely to sell the shares he or she owns, either at or prior to the Business Combination).

If such transactions are effected, the consequence could be to cause the Business Combination to be consummated in circumstances where such consummation could not otherwise occur. Purchases of shares by the persons described above would allow them to exert more influence over the approval of the proposals to be presented at the special meeting and would likely increase the chances that such proposals would be approved. We will file or submit a Current Report on Form 8-K to disclose any material arrangements entered into or significant purchases made by any of the aforementioned persons that would affect the vote on the proposals to be put to the special meeting or the redemption threshold. Any such report will include descriptions of any arrangements entered into or significant purchases by any of the aforementioned persons.

BCA PROPOSAL

BowX is asking its stockholders to approve and adopt the Merger Agreement. BowX stockholders should read carefully this proxy statement/prospectus in its entirety for more detailed information concerning the Merger Agreement, a copy of which is attached as Annex A to this proxy statement/prospectus. Please see the section entitled “The Merger Agreement” below for additional information and a summary of certain terms of the Merger Agreement. You are urged to read carefully the Merger Agreement in its entirety before voting on this proposal.

Because BowX is holding a stockholder vote on the First Merger, BowX may consummate the First Merger only if it is approved by the affirmative vote of the holders of a majority of shares of BowX Common Stock that are entitled to vote at the special meeting.

The Merger Agreement

This subsection of the proxy statement/prospectus describes the material provisions of the Merger Agreement, but does not purport to describe all of the terms of the Merger Agreement. The following summary is qualified in its entirety by reference to the complete text of the Merger Agreement, a copy of which is attached as Annex A to this proxy statement/prospectus. You are urged to read the Merger Agreement in its entirety because it is the primary legal document that governs the Business Combination.

The Merger Agreement contains representations, warranties and covenants that the respective parties made to each other as of the date of the Merger Agreement or other specific dates. The assertions embodied in those representations, warranties and covenants were made for purposes of the contract among the respective parties and are subject to important qualifications and limitations agreed to by the parties in connection with negotiating the Merger Agreement. The representations, warranties and covenants in the Merger Agreement are also modified in part by the underlying disclosure letters (the “disclosure letters”), which are not filed publicly and which are subject to a contractual standard of materiality different from that generally applicable to stockholders and were used for the purpose of allocating risk among the parties rather than establishing matters as facts. We do not believe that the disclosure letters contain information that is material to an investment decision. Additionally, the representations and warranties of the parties to the Merger Agreement may or may not have been accurate as of any specific date and do not purport to be accurate as of the date of this proxy statement/prospectus. Accordingly, no person should rely on the representations and warranties in the Merger Agreement or the summaries thereof in this proxy statement/prospectus as characterizations of the actual state of facts about BowX, WeWork or any other matter.

Structure of the Mergers

On March 25, 2021, BowX entered into the Merger Agreement with Merger Sub and WeWork, pursuant to which, among other things, Merger Sub will merge with and into WeWork, the separate corporate existence of Merger Sub will cease and WeWork will be the surviving corporation and a wholly owned subsidiary of BowX (the “First Merger”). Pursuant to and in accordance with the terms of a separate agreement and plan of merger to be entered into by BowX, the surviving corporation of the First Merger and Merger Sub II, as soon as practicable following the First Merger and as part of the same overall transaction as the First Merger, the surviving corporation will merge with and into Merger Sub II, with Merger Sub II being the surviving entity of such merger (the “Second Merger” and together with the First Merger, the “Mergers”). In connection with the Mergers, BowX will change its name to WeWork Inc. (“New WeWork”).

Closing and Effective Time

In accordance with the terms and subject to the conditions of the Merger Agreement, the closing of the First Merger (the “Closing”) will take place on the date which is two (2) Business Days after the first date on which all conditions set forth in Article IX of the Merger Agreement have been satisfied or waived (other than those conditions that by their terms are to be satisfied at the Closing, but subject to the satisfaction or waiver thereof) or such other time and place as BowX and WeWork may mutually agree to in writing. The date on which the Closing actually occurs is referred to in the Merger Agreement as the “Closing Date.” The date and time the First Merger becomes effective is referred to as the “Effective Time.”

Consideration and Conversion of Certain WeWork Securities

Aggregate Merger Consideration

As a result of the First Merger and upon the Effective Time, among other things, all outstanding shares of WeWork Capital Stock immediately prior to the Effective Time of the First Merger (other than the Excluded Shares) will be cancelled in exchange for the right to receive a portion of the Aggregate Merger Consideration. An additional 80,000,000 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock will be purchased (at a price of $10.00 per share) at the Closing by certain third-party investors (collectively, the “PIPE Investors”), for a total aggregate purchase price of $800,000,000 (the “PIPE Investment”). The proceeds of the PIPE Investment, together with the amounts remaining in BowX’s trust account as of immediately following the Effective Time of the First Merger, will be retained by New WeWork following the Closing.

Treatment of WeWork Class C Common Stock

As a result of the First Merger and upon the Effective Time, among other things, each holder of shares of WeWork Class C Common Stock as of immediately prior to the Effective Time (other than (x) Treasury Shares and (y) Dissenting Shares) will be entitled to receive a number of shares of Post-Closing WeWork Class C Common Stock equal to (i) the Exchange Ratio multiplied by (ii) the number of shares of WeWork Class C Common Stock held by such holder as of immediately prior to the Effective Time, with fractional shares rounded down to the nearest whole share.

Treatment of WeWork Options, Restricted Stock Awards, Restricted Stock Unit Awards

As a result of the First Merger and upon the Effective Time, among other things, all (i) options to purchase shares of WeWork Common Stock that are outstanding immediately prior to the Effective Time (“WeWork Options”), (ii) restricted stock units based on shares of WeWork Common Stock that are outstanding immediately prior to the Effective Time (“WeWork Restricted Stock Unit Awards”) and (iii) restricted shares of WeWork Common Stock that are outstanding immediately prior to the Effective Time (“WeWork Restricted Stock Awards,” and together with the WeWork Options and WeWork Restricted Stock Unit Awards, the “WeWork Awards”) will be converted into (a) the right to receive options to purchase shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock upon the same terms and conditions as are in effect with respect to such option immediately prior to the Effective Time (“New WeWork Options”), (b) the right to receive restricted stock units based on shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock (“New WeWork RSUs”) with the same terms and conditions as were applicable to such WeWork Restrictive Stock Unit Awards immediately prior to the Effective Time (including with respect to vesting and termination-related provisions) and (c) restricted shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock (“New WeWork Restricted Stock Awards”) with the same terms and conditions as were applicable to such WeWork Restricted Stock Awards immediately prior to the Effective Time (including with respect to vesting and termination-related provisions), respectively.

Subject to the terms of the Merger Agreement, each New WeWork Option will relate to the number of whole shares of New WeWork Class A common stock (rounded down to the nearest whole share) equal to (i) the number of shares of WeWork Common Stock subject to the applicable WeWork Option multiplied by (ii) the Exchange Ratio. The exercise price per share for each New WeWork Option (rounded up to the nearest full cent) will equal (i) the exercise price per share of the applicable WeWork Option in effect immediately prior to the Effective Time divided by (ii) the Exchange Ratio. Subject to the terms of the Merger Agreement, each New WeWork RSU and New WeWork Restricted Stock Award will relate to the number of whole shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock (with any fractional shares rounded down to the nearest whole share) equal to (i) the number of shares of WeWork Common Stock subject to the applicable WeWork RSU or WeWork Restricted Stock Award, respectively, as of immediately prior to the Effective Time multiplied by (ii) the Exchange Ratio. For purposes of any WeWork Stock Unit Awards with a liquidity vesting condition, WeWork will be permitted to treat the occurrence of the Effective Time as an initial public offering under the terms of any such award for purposes of the vesting of such award.

WeWork is required to take all necessary actions to effect the treatment of WeWork Options, WeWork Restricted Stock Awards and WeWork RSUs discussed above, in accordance with the WeWork Incentive Plans and the applicable award agreements and to ensure that no New WeWork Option may be exercised prior to the effective date of an applicable Form S-8 (or other applicable form, including Form S-1, Form S-3 or S-4) of BowX or New WeWork (which will be made effective as soon as reasonably practicable following the Effective Time). The board of directors of WeWork (or an authorized committee thereof) is required to amend the WeWork Incentive Plans and take all other necessary actions, effective as of immediately prior to the Closing, in order to (i) cancel the remaining unallocated share reserve under the WeWork Incentive Plans and provide that shares in respect of WeWork Awards that for any reason become re-eligible for future issuance, will be cancelled, and (ii) provide that no new WeWork Awards will be granted under the WeWork Incentive Plans following the Effective Time. In connection with the adjustments discussed above, the board of directors of the Company (or an authorized committee thereof) may also equitably adjust the share price vesting metrics set forth in WeWork Option, WeWork Restricted Stock Awards and WeWork Restricted Stock Unit Awards.

Treatment of WeWork Warrants

In accordance with the applicable terms of the WeWork Warrants, the WeWork Warrants will be converted into the right to receive a warrant to purchase shares of New WeWork Common Stock upon the same terms and conditions as are in effect with respect to such WeWork Warrant immediately prior to the Effective Time except that (i) such Converted New WeWork Warrant will relate to that whole number of shares of New WeWork Common Stock (rounded down to the nearest whole share) equal to the number of shares of WeWork Capital Stock subject to such WeWork Warrants, multiplied by the Exchange Ratio, and (ii) the exercise price per share for each such Converted New WeWork Warrant shall be equal to the exercise price per share of such WeWork Warrants in effect immediately prior to the Effective Time, divided by the Exchange Ratio (the exercise price per share, as so determined, being rounded up to the nearest full cent).

Treatment of WeWork Series C Convertible Note

At the Effective Time, if the WeWork Series C Convertible Note is then outstanding, it will be cancelled and automatically converted into the whole number of shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock (rounded down to the nearest whole share) equal to (i) the number of shares of WeWork Series C Preferred Stock issuable upon conversion of the WeWork Series C Convertible Note if the WeWork Series C Convertible Note had been converted immediately prior to the Effective Time, multiplied by (ii) the Exchange Ratio.

Treatment of Treasury Stock.

Any shares of WeWork Capital Stock held in the treasury of the WeWork will be canceled as part of the First Merger and shall not constitute “Company Capital Stock” under the Merger Agreement (such shares, hereinafter, the “Treasury Shares”).

Treatment of Dissenting Shares

Shares of WeWork Capital Stock issued and outstanding immediately prior to the Effective Time and held by a holder who has not voted in favor of adoption of the Merger Agreement or consented thereto in writing and who is entitled to demand and has properly exercised appraisal rights of such shares in accordance with Section 262 of the DGCL (such shares of WeWork Capital Stock being referred to collectively as the “Dissenting Shares” until such time as such holder fails to perfect or otherwise waives, withdraws, or loses such holder’s appraisal rights under the DGCL with respect to such shares) will not be converted into a right to receive a portion of the Aggregate Merger Consideration, but will instead only be entitled to such rights as are granted by Section 262 of the DGCL; provided however, that if, after the Effective Time, such holder fails to perfect, waives, withdraws, or loses such holder’s right to appraisal pursuant to Section 262 of the DGCL, or if a court of competent jurisdiction will determine that such holder is not entitled to the relief provided by Section 262 of the DGCL, such shares of WeWork Capital Stock will be treated as if they had been converted as of the Effective Time into the right to receive the Aggregate Merger Consideration without interest thereon, upon transfer of such shares. WeWork is required to provide BowX prompt written notice of any demands received by WeWork for appraisal of shares of WeWork Capital Stock, any waiver or withdrawal of any such demand, and any other demand, notice, or instrument delivered to WeWork prior to the Effective Time that relates to such demand. Except with the prior written consent of BowX (which consent shall not be unreasonably conditioned, withheld, delayed or denied), WeWork shall not make any payment with respect to, or settle, or offer to settle, any such demands.

Representations and Warranties

The Merger Agreement contains representations and warranties of BowX, Merger Sub and WeWork, certain of which are qualified by materiality and material adverse effect (as defined below) and may be further modified and limited by the disclosure letters. See the section entitled “— Material Adverse Effect” below. The representations and warranties of BowX are also qualified by information included in BowX’s public filings, filed or submitted to the SEC on or prior to the date of the Merger Agreement (subject to certain exceptions contemplated by the Merger Agreement). The representations and warranties of WeWork are also qualified by information included in WeWork’s annual report for the year ended December 31, 2020, which annual report was made available to BowX prior to the date of the Merger Agreement.

Survival of Representations and Warranties

Except in the case of claims against a person in respect of such person's actual fraud, the representations and warranties of the respective parties to the Merger Agreement generally will not survive the Closing.

Material Adverse Effect

Under the Merger Agreement, certain representations and warranties of WeWork are qualified in whole or in part by a material adverse effect standard for purposes of determining whether a breach of such representations and warranties has occurred. Under the Merger Agreement, certain representations and warranties of BowX are qualified in whole or in part by a material adverse effect on the ability of BowX to enter into and perform its obligations under the Merger Agreement standard for purposes of determining whether a breach of such representations and warranties has occurred.

Pursuant to the Merger Agreement, a material adverse effect with respect to WeWork ("WeWork Material Adverse Effect") means any event, state of facts, development, circumstance, occurrence or effect (collectively, "Events") that (i) has had, or would reasonably be expected to have, individually or in the aggregate, a material adverse effect on the business, assets, results of operations or financial condition of WeWork and its subsidiaries, taken as a whole or (ii) does or would reasonably be expected to, individually or in the aggregate, prevent the ability of WeWork to consummate the First Merger.

However, in the case of the foregoing clause (i), in no event would any of the following, alone or in combination, be deemed to constitute, or be taken into account in determining whether there has been or will be, a WeWork Material Adverse Effect:

(a) any change in applicable laws or GAAP or any interpretation thereof following the date of the Merger Agreement;

(b) any change in interest rates or economic, political, business or financial market conditions generally;

(c) the taking of any action required by the Merger Agreement (other than any action required to be taken pursuant to Section 6.1 of the Merger Agreement (see—Conduct of Business by WeWork, below));

(d) any natural disaster (including hurricanes, storms, tornados, flooding, earthquakes, volcanic eruptions or similar occurrences), pandemic (including COVID-19 and any COVID-19 measures) or change in climate;

(e) any acts of terrorism or war, the outbreak or escalation of hostilities, geopolitical conditions, local, national or international political conditions;

(f) any failure of WeWork to meet any projections or forecasts (provided that this clause will not prevent a determination that any Event not otherwise excluded from this definition of WeWork Material Adverse Effect underlying such failure to meet projections or forecasts has resulted in a WeWork Material Adverse Effect);

(g) any events generally applicable to the industries or markets in which WeWork and its subsidiaries operate (including increases in the cost of products, supplies, materials or other goods purchased from third-party suppliers);

(h) the announcement of the Merger Agreement and consummation of the transactions contemplated hereby, including any legal proceeding (direct or derivative) in respect of the Merger Agreement or any of the transactions contemplated hereby or any termination of, reduction in or similar adverse impact (but in each case only to the extent attributable to such announcement or consummation) on relationships, contractual or otherwise, with any landlords, customers, suppliers, distributors, partners or employees of WeWork and its subsidiaries (it being understood that this clause will be disregarded for purposes of the representation and warranties in Section 4.4 of the Merger Agreement and the corresponding condition to Closing);

(i) any action taken by, or at the request of, BowX or Merger Sub.

However, any Event referred to in clauses (a), (b), (d), (e) or (g) above may be taken into account in determining if a WeWork Material Adverse Effect has occurred to the extent it has a disproportionate and adverse effect on the business, assets, results of operations or financial condition of WeWork and its subsidiaries, taken as a whole, relative to similarly situated companies in the industry in which WeWork and its subsidiaries conduct their respective operations (which will include the real estate and coworking space industries generally), but only to the extent of the incremental disproportionate effect on WeWork and its subsidiaries, taken as a whole, relative to similarly situated companies in the industry in which WeWork and its subsidiaries conduct their respective operations.

subsidiaries concerning the indemnification and exoneration of WeWork and its subsidiaries' former and current officers, directors, employees and agents that are no less favorable to those persons than as contemplated by the applicable governing documents of WeWork immediately prior to the Effective Time and (ii) not amend, repeal, or otherwise modify such provisions in any respect that would adversely affect the rights of those persons thereunder, in each case, except as required by law;

- WeWork will purchase, at or prior to the Closing, and both BowX and New WeWork will maintain, or cause to be maintained, in effect for a period of six (6) years immediately following the Effective Time, without any lapse in coverage, prepaid and noncancelable "tail" insurance providing directors' and officers' liability insurance coverage for the benefit of the directors and officers of BowX (the "BowX D&O Tail Insurance"). The BowX D&O Tail Insurance will provide coverage on terms (with respect to scope of coverage, limits and retentions) that are substantially the same as (and no less favorable in the aggregate to the Persons covered thereby) the coverage provided under BowX's current directors' and officers' liability insurance policies as of the date of the Merger Agreement; provided that New WeWork will not be required to pay an aggregate premium for the BowX D&O Tail Insurance in excess of (i) two hundred percent (200%) of the annual premium paid for the BowX's current directors' and officers' liability insurance policies as of the date of the Merger Agreement if Closing occurs prior to August 5, 2021, or (ii) two hundred fifty percent (250%) of the annual premium paid for the BowX's current directors' and officers' liability insurance policies as of the date of the Merger Agreement if Closing occurs on or after August 5, 2021, (the "BowX Maximum Amount"); provided further, that if the premium for the BowX D&O Tail Insurance would exceed the BowX Maximum Amount or such coverage is not otherwise available, then the New WeWork will purchase the maximum coverage available for the BowX Maximum Amount.
- New WeWork will purchase and maintain, at its cost and expense, in effect for a period of six (6) years immediately following the Effective Time, without any lapse in coverage, directors' and officers' liability insurance coverage with respect to claims arising from acts, omissions, facts or events that occurred at or before the Effective Time, for the benefit of Persons covered by such policies currently maintained by WeWork as of the date of this Agreement (the "WeWork D&O Insurance"). The WeWork D&O Insurance will provide coverage on terms (with respect to scope of coverage, limits and retentions) that are substantially the same as (and not less favorable in the aggregate to the Persons covered thereby) the coverage provided under the WeWork's current directors' and officers' liability insurance policies as of the date of the Merger Agreement; provided that the Company will not be required to pay for any annual period of the WeWork D&O Insurance an aggregate premium in excess of three hundred fifty (350%) of the aggregate premium paid for WeWork's current directors' and officers' liability insurance policies as of the date of this Agreement (the "WeWork Maximum Amount"); provided further, that if the premium for the WeWork D&O Insurance would at any time exceed the WeWork Maximum Amount or such coverage is not otherwise available, then WeWork will purchase and maintain, and New WeWork will purchase and maintain the maximum coverage available for the WeWork Maximum Amount. In lieu of the obligations previously set forth in this section, WeWork may, in its sole discretion, purchase at or prior to the Effective Time six (6)-year prepaid and noncancelable "tail" insurance for the Company's existing directors' and officers' insurance policies providing equivalent coverage to that described in section 7.7(c) of the Merger Agreement for an aggregate premium not to exceed the WeWork Maximum Amount, in which event WeWork will maintain, and the New WeWork will maintain in effect for a period of six (6) years following the Effective Time, without any lapse in coverage, such "tail" insurance.
- on the Closing Date, enter into customary indemnification agreements reasonably satisfactory to each of WeWork and BowX with the post-Closing directors and officers of New WeWork, which indemnification agreements will continue to be effective following the Closing;
- from the date of the Merger Agreement through the Effective Time, keep current and timely file all reports required to be filed or furnished with the SEC and otherwise comply in all material respects with its reporting obligations under applicable law;

- except as otherwise approved by WeWork (which approval will not be unreasonably withheld, conditioned or delayed) or as would not increase conditionality or impose any new obligation on WeWork or BowX, reduce the PIPE Investment Amount or the subscription amount under any Subscription Agreement or reduce or impair the rights of BowX or the third-party beneficiary rights of WeWork under any PIPE Subscription Agreement, not permit any amendment or modification to be made to, any waiver (in whole or in part) of, or provide consent to modify (including consent to terminate), any provision or remedy under, or any replacements of, any of the PIPE Subscription Agreements, in each case, other than any assignment or transfer contemplated therein or expressly permitted thereby (without any further amendment, modification or waiver to such assignment or transfer provision) and so long as the initial party to such Subscription Agreement remains bound by its obligations with respect thereto in the event that the transferee or assignee, as applicable, does not comply with its obligations to consummate the purchase of shares of New WeWork Common Stock contemplated thereby;
- use its reasonable best efforts to take, or to cause to be taken, all actions required, necessary or that it deems to be proper or advisable to consummate the transaction contemplated by the PIPE Subscription Agreements on the terms described therein, including using its reasonable best efforts to enforce its rights under the PIPE Subscription Agreements to cause the PIPE Investors to pay to (or as directed by) New WeWork the applicable purchase price under each PIPE Investor's applicable Subscription Agreement in accordance with its terms;
- prior to the Closing Date, promptly notify and keep WeWork reasonably informed of the status of any litigation brought or, to a party's knowledge, threatened in writing against a party or its board of directors by any of such party's stockholders in connection with the Merger Agreement, any Ancillary Agreement or the transactions contemplated therein, and will keep the other party reasonable informed on a current basis with respect to any such litigation and provide the other party with the opportunity to participate in the defense of such litigation and will not settle or any such litigation without the prior written consent of the other party (such consent not to be unreasonably withheld, conditioned or delayed); and
- Promptly following the Closing, BowX will cause the Second Merger to be consummated in accordance with the terms of the Second Merger Agreement by filing the certificate of merger between Merger Sub II and WeWork (the "Second Certificate of Merger") with the Secretary of State of the State of Delaware, with the Second Merger becoming effective upon the effectiveness of the filing of the Second Certificate of Merger or at such later time as may be agreed by BowX and the Company in writing and specified in the Second Certificate of Merger (the "Second Merger Effective Time"). At the Second Merger Effective Time, WeWork will be merged with and into Merger Sub II. As a result of the Second Merger, the separate corporate existence of WeWork will cease and Merger Sub II will continue as the surviving entity of the Second Merger.

Covenants of WeWork

Pursuant to the Merger Agreement, WeWork has agreed, among other things, to:

- subject to confidentiality obligations that may be applicable to information furnished to WeWork or any of its subsidiaries by third parties and except for any information that is subject to attorney-client privilege, and to the extent permitted by applicable law, afford BowX and its accountants, counsel and other representatives reasonable access during the Interim Period for the purpose of consummating the transactions contemplated by the Merger Agreement, in such manner as to not materially interfere with the ordinary course of business of WeWork and its Subsidiaries, to all of WeWork's properties, books, contracts, commitments, tax returns, records and appropriate officers and employees and furnish such representatives with all financial and operating data and other information concerning the affairs of WeWork and its subsidiaries that are in the possession of WeWork or its subsidiaries as such representatives may reasonably request;

- as of or prior to the Closing, use reasonable best efforts to terminate, assign, transfer, convey or otherwise dispose of, or cause the termination, assignment, transfer, conveyance or disposal of, the Affiliate Agreements set forth on Section 6.4 of the WeWork Disclosure Letter effective as of or prior to the Closing without further liability to BowX, WeWork, or any of WeWork's subsidiaries; and
- from the date of the Merger Agreement until the Closing Date or, if earlier, the termination of the Merger Agreement in accordance with Article X (Termination/Effectiveness) WeWork will not, and will cause its subsidiaries and will instruct and use its reasonable best efforts to cause its and their representatives acting on its or their behalf not to, directly or indirectly, (i) initiate, engage in or otherwise participate in any discussions or negotiations with any Person with respect to, or provide any non-public information or data concerning WeWork or any WeWork's subsidiaries to any Person relating to, any inquiry, offer or proposal that constitutes or could reasonably be expected to result in or lead to certain alternative transactions or afford to any Person access to the business, properties, assets or personnel of WeWork or any of the WeWork's subsidiaries in connection with an offer or proposal that constitutes or could reasonably be expected to result in or lead to an alternative transaction, (ii) enter into any acquisition agreement, merger agreement or similar definitive agreement, or any letter of intent, memorandum of understanding or agreement in principle, or any other agreement relating to an alternative transaction, (iii) grant any waiver, amendment or release under any confidentiality agreement or the anti-takeover laws of any state, in each case, in connection with certain alternative transactions, (iv) approve, endorse or recommend, or propose publicly to approve, endorse or recommend, any offer or proposal that constitutes or could reasonably be expected to result in or lead to certain alternative transactions or (v) propose, resolve or agree to do any of the foregoing or otherwise knowingly facilitate any such inquiries, proposals, discussions, or negotiations or any effort or attempt by any Person to make an offer for certain alternative transactions. From and after the date hereof, WeWork will, and will instruct its officers and directors to, and WeWork will instruct and use reasonable best efforts to cause its representatives, its subsidiaries and their respective representatives to, immediately cease and terminate all discussions and negotiations with any Persons that may be ongoing with respect to certain alternative transactions (other than BowX and its representatives).

Joint Covenants of BowX and WeWork

In addition, each of BowX and WeWork has agreed, among other things, to take certain actions set forth below.

- Each of BowX and WeWork will (and, to the extent required, will cause its affiliates to) comply promptly, but in no event later than ten business days after the date of the Merger Agreement, with the notification and reporting requirements of the HSR Act, and will promptly submit any notification required to obtain all consents, approvals and authorizations set forth in the WeWork Disclosure Letter, including a filing with the Mexican Federal Economic Competition Commission (the Comisión Federal de Competencia Económica, or "COFECE").

- Each of BowX and WeWork will (and, to the extent required, will cause its affiliates to) (x) request early termination of any waiting period or periods under the HSR Act (unless any announcement from the applicable governmental authorities to the effect that early termination of any waiting period under the HSR Act is temporarily suspended remains in effect) and exercise its reasonable best efforts to (i) obtain termination or expiration of the waiting period or periods under the HSR Act and (ii) prevent the entry, in any legal proceeding brought by an antitrust authority or any other person, of any governmental order which would prohibit, make unlawful or delay the consummation of the transactions contemplated by the Merger Agreement and (y) take certain other actions to cooperate to avoid any governmental order from an antitrust authority that would delay, enjoin, prevent, restrain or otherwise prohibit the consummation of the First Merger, including sharing relevant information with the other parties thereto for such purposes and each pay one-half of any applicable antitrust filing fees (subject to, as applicable, a requirement to obtain WeWork's prior written consent with respect to certain such actions identified above as contemplated by the Merger Agreement).
- BowX and WeWork will jointly prepare and BowX will file with the SEC the proxy statement/prospectus in connection with the registration under the Securities Act of the shares of New WeWork Common Stock that constitute the Aggregate Merger Consideration.

- BowX will, as promptly as practicable after the registration statement is declared effective under the Securities Act, (i) disseminate proxy statement to stockholders of BowX, (ii) give notice, convene and hold a meeting of the stockholders to vote on the Transaction Proposals, in each case in accordance with its governing documents then in effect and Section 710 of the NYSE Listing Rules or Nasdaq Listing Rule 5620(b), as applicable, for a date no later than 30 business days following the date the registration statement is declared effective, and (iii) solicit proxies from the stockholders of BowX to vote in favor of the Transaction Proposals.

BowX may only adjourn the BowX stockholders' meeting (i) to solicit additional proxies for the purpose of obtaining the BowX Stockholder Approval, (ii) for the absence of a quorum and (iii) to allow reasonable additional time for the filing or mailing of any supplemental or amended disclosure that BowX has determined in good faith after consultation with outside legal counsel is required under applicable Law and for such supplemental or amended disclosure to be disseminated and reviewed by BowX stockholders prior to the BowX stockholders' meeting; provided that the BowX stockholders' meeting (x) may not be adjourned to a date that is more than fifteen (15) days after the date for which the BowX stockholders' meeting was originally scheduled (excluding any adjournments required by applicable Law) and (y) will not be held later than three (3) business days prior to October 31, 2021. BowX agrees that it will provide the holders of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock the opportunity to elect redemption of such shares of BowX Class A Common Stock in connection with the BowX stockholders' meeting, as required by BowX's Governing Documents.
- WeWork will use its reasonable best efforts to solicit and obtain the requisite stockholder approval necessary to consummate the Merger Agreement and the transactions contemplated thereby, including the Mergers (the “WeWork Stockholder Approvals”), either by (i) irrevocable written consent of each of the Requisite Company Stockholders (as defined in the Merger Agreement) promptly following the time at which the registration statement will have been declared effective under the Securities Act and delivered or otherwise made available to stockholders or (ii) in the event WeWork is unable to obtain such written consent, by calling and holding a meeting of the stockholders of WeWork for the purpose of voting solely upon the adoption of the Merger Agreement and the transactions contemplated thereby, including the Mergers, as soon as reasonably practicable after the registration statement is declared effective under the Securities Act.

- As promptly as practicable after the execution of the Merger Agreement, WeWork (with the assistance and cooperation of BowX as reasonably requested) will prepare an information statement relating to the action to be taken by WeWork’s stockholders pursuant to the written consent or by vote at a such meeting of the stockholders of the Company (the “Consent Solicitation Statement”). As promptly as practicable after the date on which the registration statement becomes effective, WeWork will deliver the Consent Solicitation Statement to its stockholders. WeWork will, through its board of directors, recommend to its stockholders (A) the adoption and approval of the Merger Agreement in accordance with applicable Law, (B) the adoption and approval of any other proposals as reasonably agreed by BowX and WeWork to be necessary or appropriate in connection with the transactions contemplated hereby and (C) in the event WeWork is not able to obtain written consent, adjournment of such meeting of the WeWork Stockholders, if necessary, to permit further solicitation of proxies because there are not sufficient votes to approve and adopt any of the foregoing, and include such recommendation in the Consent Solicitation Statement. The board of directors of WeWork will not withdraw, amend, qualify or modify its recommendation to the stockholders of WeWork that they vote in favor of the Condition Precedent Proposals (a “WeWork Modification in Recommendation”). To the fullest extent permitted by applicable Law, WeWork’s obligations to establish a record date for and obtain the written consent, or to establish a record date for, duly call, give notice of, convene and hold such a meeting of the stockholders of the WeWork, as applicable, will not be affected by any WeWork Modification in Recommendation.
- BowX and WeWork will each, and will each cause their respective subsidiaries to use reasonable best efforts to obtain all material consents and approvals of third parties that any of BowX, WeWork, or their respective affiliates are required to obtain in order to consummate the Mergers.
- Each of WeWork and BowX will, prior to the Closing, take all such steps as may be required (to the extent permitted under applicable law) to cause any dispositions of shares of WeWork Capital Stock or acquisitions of shares of New WeWork Common Stock (including, in each case, securities deliverable upon exercise, vesting or settlement of any derivative securities) resulting from the transactions contemplated by the Merger Agreement by each individual who may become subject to the reporting requirements of Section 16(a) of the Exchange Act in connection with the transactions contemplated thereby to be exempt under Rule 16b-3 promulgated under the Exchange Act.
- WeWork and BowX will each, and each will cause their respective subsidiaries and its and their representatives to, prior to the Closing, reasonably cooperate in a timely manner in connection with any financing arrangement the parties mutually agree to seek in connection with the transactions contemplated by the Merger Agreement.
- BowX will use its reasonable best efforts to, and will instruct its financial advisors to, keep WeWork and its financial advisors reasonably informed with respect to the PIPE Investment and the trading of the shares of New WeWork Common Stock during the period commencing on the date of announcement of the Merger Agreement or the transactions contemplated thereby until the Closing Date.

Closing Conditions

The consummation of the First Merger is conditioned upon the satisfaction or waiver by the applicable parties to the Merger Agreement of the conditions set forth below. Therefore, unless these conditions are waived by the applicable parties to the Merger Agreement, the Mergers may not be consummated. There can be no assurance that the parties to the Merger Agreement would waive any such provisions of the Merger Agreement.

Minimum Cash Condition

The Merger Agreement provides that the obligations of WeWork to consummate the First Merger are conditioned on, among other things, that as of the Closing, the amount of cash available in the trust account as of the Closing, after deducting the amount required to satisfy BowX's obligations to its stockholders (if any) that exercise their redemption rights (but prior to the payment of any (i) deferred underwriting commissions being held in the trust account and (ii) transaction expenses of BowX, WeWork or their affiliates (such amount, the "Trust Amount")) plus the PIPE Investment Amount actually received by BowX at or prior to the Closing Date, is at least equal to $800,000,000 (the "Minimum Available Cash Condition"). The Minimum Available Cash Condition is for the sole benefit of WeWork.

Conditions to the Obligations of Each Party

The obligations of each party to the Merger Agreement to consummate, or cause to be consummated, the First Merger are subject to the satisfaction of the following conditions, any one or more of which may be waived in writing by all of such parties:

- the Condition Precedent Approvals will have been obtained;
- WeWork Stockholder Approval will have been obtained;
- the registration statement of which this proxy statement/prospectus forms a part (the "Registration Statement") will have become effective under the Securities Act and no stop order suspending the effectiveness of the Registration Statement will have been issued and no proceedings for that purpose will have been initiated or threatened by the SEC and not withdrawn;
- the waiting period or periods under the HSR Act applicable to the transactions contemplated by the Merger Agreement, or the Ancillary Agreements, will have expired or been terminated;
- if a merger control filing is required by COFECE, COFECE will have provided clearance of the transactions contemplated by the Merger Agreement (which was provided on July 1, 2021);
- there will not be in force any order, judgment, injunction, decree, writ, stipulation, determination or award (entered by or with any federal, state, provincial, municipal, local or foreign government, governmental authority, regulatory or administrative agency, governmental commission, department, board, bureau, agency or instrumentality, court or tribunal (a "Governmental Order"), in each case, to the extent such governmental authority has jurisdiction over the parties to the Merger Agreement and the transactions contemplated thereby), statute, rule or regulation enjoining or prohibiting the consummation of the First Merger;
- BowX will have at least $5,000,001 of net tangible assets (as determined in accordance with Rule 3a51-1(g)(1) of the Exchange Act) after giving effect to the payment of the aggregate amount payable following the election of eligible (as determined in accordance with BowX's governing documents) holder of BowX Class A Common Stock to redeem all or a portion of the shares of BowX Class A Common Stock held by such holder at a per-share price, payable in cash, equal to a pro rata share of the aggregate amount on deposit in the trust account (including any interest earned on the funds held in the trust account) (as determined in accordance with BowX's governing documents) in connection with the Condition Precedent Proposals; and
- the shares of New WeWork Common Stock to be issued in connection with the First Merger will have been approved for listing on Nasdaq or, if requested by WeWork, the NYSE.

Conditions to the Obligations of BowX and Merger Sub

The obligations of BowX and Merger Sub to consummate, or cause to be consummated, the First Merger are subject to the satisfaction of the following additional conditions, any one or more of which may be waived in writing by BowX and Merger Sub:

- certain of the representations and warranties of WeWork pertaining to the capitalization of WeWork will be true and correct in all but de minimis respects as of the Closing Date, except with respect to such representations and warranties that are made as of an earlier date, which representations and warranties will be true and correct in all but de minimis respects at and as of such date;
- each of certain fundamental representations of the Company (other than those portions of the capitalization representations referenced in the bullet above) (disregarding any qualifications and exceptions contained therein relating to materiality, material adverse effect and WeWork Material Adverse Effect or any similar qualification or exception) will be true and correct in all material respects, in each case as of the Closing Date, except with respect to such representations and warranties that are made as of an earlier date, which representations and warranties will be true and correct in all material respects at and as of such date;
- each of the remaining representations and warranties of WeWork contained in the Merger Agreement (disregarding any qualifications and exceptions contained therein relating to materiality, material adverse effect or any similar qualification or exception, and other than the representations and warranties of WeWork in Section 4.24 of the Merger Agreement relating to the absence of a WeWork Material Adverse Effect) will be true and correct as of the Closing Date, except with respect to such representations and warranties that are made as of an earlier date, which representations and warranties will be true and correct at and as of such date, except for, in each case, inaccuracies or omissions that would not, individually or in the aggregate, reasonably be expected to have a WeWork Material Adverse Effect; and
- each of the covenants to be performed by WeWork as of or prior to the Closing will have been performed in all material respects; provided that for purposes of this condition, a covenant of WeWork will only be deemed to have not been performed if WeWork has materially breached such material covenant and failed to cure within twenty (20) days after notice (or if earlier, October 31, 2021).

Conditions to the Obligations of WeWork

The obligation of WeWork to consummate, or cause to be consummated, the First Merger is subject to the satisfaction of the following conditions any one or more of which may be waived in writing by WeWork:

- each of the representations and warranties of BowX regarding its capitalization, as provided for in the Merger Agreement, will be true and correct in all but de minimis respects as of the Closing Date, except with respect to such representations and warranties that are made as of an earlier date, which representations and warranties will be true and correct in all but de minimis respects at and as of such date, except for changes after the date of the Merger Agreement which are contemplated or expressly permitted by the Merger Agreement;
- each of the other representations and warranties of BowX contained in the Merger Agreement (disregarding any qualifications and exceptions contained therein relating to materiality, material adverse effect or any similar qualification or exception) will be true and correct as of the Closing Date, except with respect to such representations and warranties that are made as of an earlier date, which representations and warranties will be true and correct in all material respects at and as of such date, except for inaccuracies or omissions that would not, individually or in the aggregate, reasonably be expected to have a material adverse effect on the ability of BowX or Merger Sub to perform their obligations under the Merger Agreement;
- each of the covenants of BowX to be performed as of or prior to the Closing will have been performed in all material respects; and

- the Minimum Available Cash Condition. For more information, see the section entitled “— Minimum Available Cash Condition” above.

Termination; Effectiveness

The Merger Agreement may be terminated and the First Merger abandoned at any time prior to the Closing:

- by written consent of WeWork and BowX;
- by WeWork or BowX if any governmental order has become final and nonappealable which has the effect of making consummation of the First Merger illegal or otherwise preventing or prohibiting the First Merger;
- by WeWork or BowX if the Condition Precedent Approvals have not been obtained by reason of the failure to obtain the required vote at a meeting of BowX’s stockholders duly convened therefor or at any adjournment thereof;
- by WeWork if there has been a BowX Recommendation Modification with respect to any of the Condition Precedent Proposals;
- by BowX if there has been a WeWork Recommendation Modification with respect to any of the Condition Precedent Proposals;
- by written notice to WeWork from BowX in the event of certain uncured breaches on the part of WeWork or if the Closing has not occurred on or before October 31, 2021, unless BowX is in material breach of the Merger Agreement; provided that the applicable date will be extended automatically once for sixty (60) days, to December 29, 2021, if all of the conditions set forth in Section 9.1, Section 9.2 and Section 9.3 of the Merger Agreement have been satisfied or waived as of October 31, 2021, other than (i) the condition, set forth above, that if a merger control filing is required by COFECE, COFECE has provided clearance of the transactions contemplated by the Merger Agreement (which was provided on July 1, 2021), and (ii) those conditions which by their terms would be satisfied at the Closing;
- by BowX, if WeWork has not obtained approval from its stockholders of the Merger Agreement and the transactions contemplated within seven business days after the Registration Statement has been declared effective by the SEC and delivered or otherwise made available to stockholders; provided however, that the right to terminate the Merger Agreement under this section will terminate upon delivery of the WeWork Stockholder Approvals to BowX; or
- by written notice to BowX from WeWork in the event of certain uncured breaches on the part of BowX or Merger Sub or if the Closing has not occurred on or before October 31, 2021, unless WeWork is in material breach of the Merger Agreement; provided that the applicable date will be extended automatically once for sixty (60) days, to December 29, 2021, if all of the conditions set forth in Section 9.1, Section 9.2 and Section 9.3 of the Merger Agreement have been satisfied or waived as of October 31, 2021, other than (i) the condition, set forth above, that if a merger control filing is required by COFECE, COFECE has provided clearance of the transactions contemplated by the Merger Agreement (which was provided on July 1, 2021), and (ii) those conditions which by their terms would be satisfied at the Closing.

In the event of the termination of the Merger Agreement, the Merger Agreement will become void and have no effect, without any liability on the part of any party thereto or its respective affiliates, officers, directors or stockholders, other than liability of WeWork, BowX or Merger Sub, as the case may be, for any willful and material breach of the Merger Agreement occurring prior to such termination and other than with respect to certain exceptions contemplated by the Merger Agreement (including the terms of the Confidentiality Agreement) that will survive any termination of the Merger Agreement.

Waiver; Amendments

No provision of the Merger Agreement may be waived unless such waiver is in writing and signed by the party or parties against whom such waiver is effective. Any party to the Merger Agreement may, at any time prior to the Closing, by action taken by its board of directors or other officers or persons thereunto duly authorized, (a) extend the time for the performance of the obligations or acts of the other parties hereto, (b) waive any inaccuracies in the representations and warranties (of another party hereto) that are contained in the Merger Agreement or (c) waive compliance by the other parties hereto with any of the agreements or conditions contained in the Merger Agreement, but such extension or waiver will be valid only if in writing signed by the waiving party.

The Merger Agreement may be amended or modified in whole or in part, only by a duly authorized agreement in writing that is executed in the same manner as the Merger Agreement and which makes reference to the Merger Agreement.

Pursuant to the Stockholder Support Agreement with SBWW, any proposed amendment of the Merger Agreement, or waiver by WeWork of the provisions therein, requires the prior written consent of SBWW, and at such time that the Merger Agreement is amended, or any provisions therein are waived by WeWork, without the consent of SBWW, the obligations of SBWW under such Stockholder Support Agreement, including the obligation to approve and adopt the Mergers, expires. This consent right of SBWW continues even after it has fulfilled its obligations under the Stockholder Support Agreement.

Fees and Expenses

If the Closing does not occur, each party to the Merger Agreement will be responsible for and pay its own expenses incurred in connection with the Merger Agreement and the transactions contemplated thereby, including all fees of its legal counsel, financial advisers and accountants; provided however, that each of WeWork and BowX will be responsible for (x) 50% of the filing fees incurred in connection with making any filings to comply with the notification and reporting requirement of the HSR Act or other notification required to obtain all consents, approvals and authorizations, including a filing with COFECE (see— Joint Covenants of BowX and WeWork), and (y) 50% of fees and expenses incurred in connection with preparing and filing the Registration Statement, this proxy statement/prospectus and obtaining approval of Nasdaq or the NYSE.

If the Closing occurs, New WeWork will, upon the consummation of the First Merger and release of proceeds from the trust account, pay or cause to be paid all accrued and unpaid transaction expenses of WeWork and pay or cause to be paid all accrued transaction expenses of BowX or its affiliates (including the Sponsor). BowX and WeWork will exchange written statements listing all accrued and unpaid transaction expenses not less than two business days prior to the Closing Date.

Related Agreements

This section describes certain additional agreements entered into or to be entered into pursuant to the Merger Agreement, but does not purport to describe all of the terms thereof. The following summary is qualified in its entirety by reference to the complete text of each of the agreements. The full text of the Related Agreements, or forms thereof, are filed as annexes to this proxy statement/prospectus or as exhibits to the registration statement of which this proxy statement/prospectus forms a part, and the following descriptions are qualified in their entirety by the full text of such annexes and exhibits. Stockholders and other interested parties are urged to read such Related Agreements in their entirety prior to voting on the proposals presented at the special meeting.

WeWork Stockholder Support Agreements

In connection with the execution of the Merger Agreement, on March 25, 2021, BowX entered into the Stockholder Support Agreements (the “Stockholder Support Agreements”), a copy of which is attached to the accompanying proxy statement/prospectus as Annex H (the “Stockholder Support Agreement”), by and among BowX, WeWork and certain stockholders of WeWork (the “Key Stockholders”). Pursuant to the Stockholder Support Agreements, the Key Stockholders agreed to, among other things, execute and deliver a written consent with respect to the outstanding shares of WeWork Capital Stock held by the Key Stockholders adopting the Merger Agreement and related transactions and approving the Business Combination (including consenting to enter into the Merger Agreement effective on March 25, 2021, for purposes of the Related Party Charter Provision, to the extent applicable). Such written consent must be delivered promptly, and in any event within forty-eight (48) hours (or, in the case of SBWW, WeWork’s largest stockholder, five (5) calendar days) after (x) the proxy statement/prospectus relating to the approval by BowX stockholders of the Business Combination is declared effective by the SEC and delivered or otherwise made available to BowX and WeWork Stockholders, and (y) BowX or WeWork requests it. The shares of WeWork Common Stock and WeWork Preferred Stock that are owned by the Key Stockholders and subject to the Stockholder Support Agreements represent a majority of the outstanding voting power of WeWork Capital Stock (voting as a single class and on an as converted basis). The execution and delivery of such written consents by all of the stockholders of WeWork that have entered into Stockholder Support Agreements will constitute the WeWork stockholder approval at the time of such delivery, and no additional approval or vote from any holders of any class or series of stock of WeWork will be necessary to adopt and approve the Merger Agreement and the Business Combination.

Pursuant to the Stockholder Support Agreements, each of the Company Stockholders (as defined in the Stockholder Support Agreement) also agreed to, among other things, (i) deliver, substantially simultaneously with the Effective Time, a duly-executed copy of the Amended and Restated Registration Rights Agreement and (ii) consents to the publication and disclosure in this Proxy Statement/Registration Statement (and, as and to the extent otherwise required by applicable securities Laws or the SEC or any other securities authorities, any other documents or communications provided by BowX or WeWork to any Governmental Authority (as defined in the Stockholder Support Agreement) or to securityholders of BowX) of such Company Stockholder’s identity and beneficial ownership of Subject Shares (as defined in the Stockholder Support Agreement).

The Stockholder Support Agreements and all of their provisions shall terminate and be of no further force or effect upon the earlier of (a) the Expiration Time (as defined in each Company Stockholder’s respective Stockholder Support Agreement) and (b) as to each Company Stockholder, the written agreement of BowX, WeWork and such Company Stockholder. The Stockholder Support Agreement with SBG expires at such time that the Merger Agreement is amended, or provisions therein are waived by WeWork, without the consent of SBG. Upon such termination of the Stockholder Support Agreements, all obligations of the parties under the Stockholder Support Agreements will terminate, without any liability or other obligation on the part of any party to the Stockholder Support Agreement to any Person in respect thereof or the transactions contemplated thereby, and no party thereto shall have any claim against another (and no person shall have any rights against such party), whether under contract, tort or otherwise, with respect to the subject matter thereof; provided however, that the termination of the Stockholder Support Agreements shall not relieve any party thereto from liability arising in respect of any breach of the Stockholder Support Agreements prior to such termination.

Pursuant to the Stockholder Support Agreement with SBWW, any proposed amendment of the Merger Agreement, or waiver by WeWork of the provisions therein, requires the prior written consent of SBWW, and at such time that the Merger Agreement is amended, or any provisions therein are waived by WeWork, without the consent of SBWW, the obligations of SBWW under such Stockholder Support Agreement, including the obligation to approve and adopt the Mergers, expires. This consent right of SBWW continues even after it has fulfilled its obligations under the Stockholder Support Agreement.

Sponsor Support Agreement

On March 25, 2021, BowX entered into a Sponsor Support Agreement (the “Sponsor Support Agreement”), by and among Sponsor, WeWork and BowX and Sponsor Persons, pursuant to which the Sponsor and the Sponsor Persons agreed to, among other things, (i) cause to be forfeited 3,000,000 shares of Class B common stock, par value $0.0001 per share, of BowX held by the Sponsor and certain other persons and (ii) vote at least 9,454,534 shares of Class B Common Stock in favor of the Merger Agreement and the transactions contemplated thereby, in each case, subject to the terms and conditions contemplated by the Sponsor Support Agreement.

The Sponsor Support Agreement will terminate in its entirety, and be of no further force or effect, upon the earlier to occur of (a) the Expiration Time (as defined in the Sponsor Support Agreement), (b) the liquidation of BowX or (c) the written agreement of BowX, WeWork and the Sponsor. Upon such termination of the Sponsor Support Agreement, all obligations of the parties under the Sponsor Support Agreement will terminate, without any liability or other obligation on the part of any party thereto to any person in respect thereof or the transactions contemplated hereby, and no party thereto will have any claim against another (and no person will have any rights against such party), whether under contract, tort or otherwise, with respect to the subject matter thereof; provided however, that the termination of the Sponsor Support Agreement will not relieve any party thereto from liability arising in respect of any breach of the Sponsor Agreement prior to such termination.

Registration Rights Agreement

The Merger Agreement contemplates that, at the Closing, BowX, Anchor PIPE Investors, the Sponsor and certain WeWork Stockholders will enter into the Registration Rights Agreement, the form of which is attached to this proxy statement/prospectus as Annex I, at the Closing, pursuant to which Holders of Registrable Securities (as defined in the Registration Rights Agreement), subject to certain conditions, will be entitled to registration rights. Pursuant to the Registration Rights Agreement, New WeWork will agree that, within thirty (30) calendar days after the Closing, New WeWork will file with the SEC (at its sole cost and expense) a registration statement registering the resale of the Registrable Securities (the “Resale Registration Statement”), and New WeWork will use its reasonable best efforts to have the Resale Registration Statement declared effective by the SEC as soon as practicable after the filing thereof, but no later than the earlier of (i) the 60th day following the filing date if the SEC notifies New WeWork that it will “review” the Resale Registration Statement or (ii) the 10th business day after the date New WeWork is notified by the SEC that the Resale Registration Statement will not be “reviewed” or will not be subject to further review. In certain circumstances, the holders party to the Registration Rights Agreement can collectively demand up to nine underwritten offerings (three (3) by the BowX Investors (as defined therein), three (3) by the investors of WeWork party thereto and three (3) by the investors of WeWork party thereto and three (3) by the Anchor PIPE Investors) in any twelve-month period, collectively demand no less than six underwritten block trade offerings in any twelve-month period, and will be entitled to piggyback registration rights, in each case subject to certain limitations set forth in the Registration Rights Agreement.

These registration rights will be subject to certain customary limitations, including the right of the underwriters to limit the number of securities to be included in an underwritten offering and New WeWork’s right to delay or withdraw a registration statement under certain circumstances. New WeWork will generally be required to bear the registration expenses associated with any registration and sale of Registrable Securities held by the Holders. Under the Registration Rights Agreement, New WeWork will agree to indemnify the Holders against any losses or damages resulting from any untrue statement or omission or alleged untrue statement or omission of a material fact in any registration statement or prospectus pursuant to which they sell its equity securities, unless such liability arose from their misstatement or omission, and each of the Holders, severally and individually, will agree to indemnify New WeWork against any losses or damages caused by such Holder’s material misstatements or omissions in those documents.

The Registration Rights Agreement amends and restates the registration rights agreement by and among BowX, the Sponsor and the other parties thereto, dated August 4, 2020, and entered into in connection with BowX’s initial public offering. The Registration Rights Agreement will terminate with respect to any party thereto, on the date that such party no longer holds any Registrable Securities (as defined therein).

PIPE Subscription Agreements

On March 25, 2021, concurrently with the execution of the Merger Agreement, BowX entered into subscription agreements (the “Subscription Agreements”) with PIPE Investors, pursuant to, and on the terms and subject to the conditions of which, the PIPE Investors have collectively subscribed for 80,000,000 shares of the New WeWork Common Stock for an aggregate purchase price equal to $10.00 per share.

The Subscription Agreements are all substantially similar to the Form of Subscription Agreements attached to this proxy statement/prospectus as Annex J. The Subscription Agreements contain customary representations and warranties of BowX, on the one hand, and each PIPE Investor, on the other hand.

The closing of the sale of the PIPE Shares (the “PIPE Closing”) pursuant to the Subscription Agreements is expected to occur prior to or substantially concurrently with the Closing and is conditioned upon, among other things, (i) there not being in force any injunction or order enjoining or prohibiting the issuance and sale of the shares covered by the Subscription Agreement, (ii) (a) solely with respect to the PIPE Investor’s obligation to close, the representations and warranties made by BowX, and (b) solely with respect to the BowX’s obligation to close, the representations and warranties made by the PIPE Investor, in each case, in the Subscription Agreement are true and correct in all material respects as of the PIPE Closing (other than those representations and warranties expressly made as of an earlier date, which are true and correct in all material respects as of such date), (iii) all conditions precedent to the closing of the transactions contemplated by the Merger Agreement shall have been satisfied or waived (as determined by the parties to the Merger Agreement and other than those conditions under the Merger Agreement which, by their nature, are to be fulfilled at the closing of the transactions contemplated by the Merger Agreement, including to the extent that any such condition is dependent upon the consummation of the purchase and sale of the PIPE Shares pursuant to the Subscription Agreements) and the prior or substantially concurrent consummation of the transactions contemplated by the Merger Agreement, (iv) (a) there shall have been no modifications, amendments or waivers to (or consents in respect of) the Merger Agreement that would reasonably be expected to be materially adverse to the economic benefits that the PIPE Investors would reasonably expect to receive under the Subscription Agreement, unless the PIPE Investor has consented to such amendment and (b) there shall have been no amendment, modification or waiver of any other Subscription Agreement with a Third-Party PIPE Investor, with respect to the Third-Party PIPE Investors, any other Subscription Agreement with the Anchor PIPE Investor, with respect to the Anchor PIPE Investors, in each case that materially benefits the other PIPE Investor thereunder unless the PIPE Investor has been offered substantially the same benefits (v) (a) solely with respect to the PIPE Investors’ obligation to close, BowX shall have performed, satisfied and complied in all material respects with all covenants, agreements and conditions required by the Subscription Agreement to be performed, satisfied or complied with by it at or prior to the PIPE Closing, except where the failure of such performance or compliance would not or would not reasonably be expected to prevent, materially delay, or materially impair the ability of BowX to consummate the Closing and (b) solely with respect to BowX’s obligation to close, the PIPE Investor shall have performed, satisfied and complied in all material respects with all covenants, agreements and conditions required by the Subscription Agreement to be performed, satisfied or complied with by it at or prior to the PIPE Closing, except where the failure of such performance or compliance would not or would not reasonably be expected to prevent, materially delay, or materially impair the ability of the PIPE Investor to consummate the Closing and (vi) no governmental authority of competent jurisdiction shall have enacted, issued, promulgated, enforced or entered any law, rule, regulation, judgment, decree, executive order or award after the date hereof (whether temporary, preliminary or permanent) which is then in effect and has the effect of making the consummation of the transactions contemplated hereby illegal or otherwise preventing or prohibiting consummation of the transactions contemplated hereby.

The Subscription Agreements for the PIPE Investors (other than the Anchor PIPE Investors, whose registration rights are governed by the Registration Rights Agreement), provide for certain registration rights. In particular, BowX is required to, as soon as practicable but no later than 30 calendar days following the Closing, file with the SEC a registration statement registering the resale of such shares. Additionally, BowX is required to use its commercially reasonable efforts to have the registration statement declared effective as soon as practicable after the filing thereof, but no later than the earlier of (i) the 60th calendar day (or 90th calendar day if the SEC notifies BowX that it will “review” the registration statement) following the filing date thereof or (ii) the 10th business day after the date BowX is notified (orally or in writing, whichever is earlier) by the SEC that the registration statement will not be “reviewed” or will not be subject to further review. BowX must use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the registration statement effective until the earliest of: (i) the date the PIPE Investors no longer hold any registrable shares, (ii) the date all registrable shares held by the PIPE Investors may be sold without restriction under Rule 144 under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended (the “Securities Act”), and without the requirement for BowX to be in compliance with the current public information required under Rule 144(c)(1) or Rule 144(i)(2), as applicable, or (iii) three years from the date of effectiveness of the registration statement.

The Subscription Agreements will terminate with no further force and effect upon the earliest to occur of: (a) such date and time as the Merger Agreement is terminated in accordance with its terms; (b) the mutual written agreement of the parties to such Subscription Agreement; (c) if any of the conditions to closing set forth in such Subscription Agreement are not satisfied on or prior to the Closing and, as a result thereof, the transactions contemplated by the Subscription Agreement fail to occur; or (d) the Agreement End Date.

In connection with the PIPE Investment, BowX engaged UBS and PJT Partners LP, a global advisory-based investment bank (“PJT”), as co-placement agents. In connection with performing services as co-placement agents, UBS and PJT will receive fees and expense reimbursements customary for a PIPE transaction (subject to the terms and conditions of their engagement letters with BowX). PJT previously had been hired to advise WeWork in connection with the proposed Business Combination, and will receive customary compensation in connection therewith. Except in respect of the PIPE investment, PJT did not provide any advice to BowX, including, but not limited to, regarding the valuation of WeWork or the terms of the business combination with WeWork. BowX and WeWork each signed agreements with PJT acknowledging PJT’s role as both financial advisor to WeWork in connection with the proposed Business Combination and as co-placement agent to BowX in connection with the PIPE Investment and waived any purported conflicts in connection with such dual roles. In addition, UBS or PJT and their affiliates may provide investment banking and other financial services to BowX, WeWork and their respective affiliates in the future, for which they would expect to receive customary compensation.

BowX is relying on the exemption under Section 4(a)(2) of the Securities Act for the issuance of the PIPE Shares to the PIPE Investors in the PIPE Investment. Pursuant to the Subscription Agreement, each PIPE Investor represented and warranted that it is either a “qualified institutional buyer” or an “accredited investor” as defined in the applicable SEC regulations.

Lock-Up Agreement

In connection with the Business Combination, the Sponsor, certain of BowX’s officers and certain of WeWork’s officers and stockholders entered into the Lock-Up Agreements pursuant to which they agreed not to (a) sell or otherwise dispose of, or agree to sell or dispose of, directly or indirectly, any Lock-Up Shares, (b) enter into any swap or other arrangement that transfers to another, in whole or in part, any of the economic consequences of ownership of any of such Lock-Up Shares, or (c) publicly announce any intention to effect any transaction specified in clause (a) or (b), for the duration of the applicable Lock-Up Period.

The Merger Agreement contemplates that, as a condition and inducement to BowX’s willingness to enter into the Merger Agreement, simultaneously with the execution and delivery of the Merger Agreement, (i) the Specified Company Stockholders (as defined in the Merger Agreement) have each executed and delivered to BowX a Specified Company Stockholder Lock-Up Agreement (as defined in the Merger Agreement) pursuant to which the Specified Company Stockholders have agreed, among other things, not to sell, transfer, convey or assign any BowX Common Stock until after the one (1) year anniversary of the Closing Date and

(ii) Mr. Neumann has executed and delivered to BowX a Designated Stockholder Lock-Up Agreement (as defined in the Merger Agreement) pursuant to which Mr. Neumann has agreed, among other things, not to sell, transfer, convey or assign any BowX Common Stock until after then ninth (9) month anniversary of the Closing Date, in each case, subject to certain exceptions.

The Merger Agreement also contemplates that as a condition and inducement to WeWork's willingness to enter into the Merger Agreement, simultaneously with the execution and delivery of the Stockholders Agreement, the Sponsor has executed and delivered to WeWork a Lock-Up Agreement, dated as of March 25, 2021, between the Sponsor and BowX, pursuant to which the Sponsor has agreed, among other things, not to sell, transfer, convey or assign any shares of Founders' Common Stock (as defined therein) until after the one (1) year anniversary of the Closing Date (the "Sponsor Lock-Up Agreement").

The Lock-Up Agreements shall automatically terminate upon the earlier to occur of the (i) the expiration of the applicable Lock-Up Period and (ii) the termination of the Merger Agreement.

Credit Support Letter Agreement

On March 25, 2021, WeWork Companies LLC, the SoftBank Obligor, and BowX entered into a Credit Support Letter Agreement, pursuant to which the SoftBank Obligor committed to consent to an extension of the termination date of the 2020 LC Facility from February 10, 2023, to no later than February 10, 2024, at WeWork Companies LLC's option and subject to the terms and conditions set forth therein. Any extension of the termination date of the 2020 LC Facility will require the requisite consent of the lenders thereunder.

Commitment Letter for Secured Notes

Concurrently with the execution of the Merger Agreement, StarBright WW LP, an affiliate of SBG (the "Note Purchaser") executed and delivered to BowX and WeWork Companies LLC a letter agreement (the "Commitment Letter") regarding the SoftBank Senior Secured Notes. Pursuant to the Commitment Letter, WeWork Companies LLC, WW Co-Obligor Inc. and the Note Purchaser agreed to amend the terms of the senior secured note purchase agreement, to provide for up to $550 million of 7.50% senior secured notes to be issued by WeWork Companies LLC and purchased by the Note Purchaser (the "Amended Senior Secured Notes"). The Amended Senior Secured Notes will be documented in an Amended and Restated Note Purchase Agreement (the "A&R NPA") by and among WeWork Companies LLC, WW Co-Obligor Inc. and the Note Purchaser. The parties will enter into the A&R NPA upon the earlier to occur of (a) the date of the Closing and (b) August 12, 2021. The Amended Senior Secured Notes will mature on the earlier to occur of: (a) 18 months from the date of the Closing; or (b) February 12, 2023.

Stockholders Agreement

The Merger Agreement contemplates that, at the Closing, New WeWork, the Sponsor, SBWW, SVFE and certain other holders of New WeWork Common Stock will enter into a Stockholders Agreement (the "Stockholders Agreement," the form of which is attached to this proxy statement/prospectus as Annex G), pursuant to which, so long as such holders of New WeWork Common Stock continue to hold a specified amount of New WeWork Common Stock, then such holder will have the right to designate for nomination by the board of directors the number of candidates for election to the board of directors specified in the Stockholders Agreement and described below. The Stockholders Agreement also sets forth the parties' understanding of the initial composition of New WeWork's board, as follows:

- The authorized number of directors on the board of directors of New WeWork will be nine;
- Three directors will be designated by SBWW, who initially will be Michel Combes, Marcelo Claire and Véronique Laury, with Mr. Claire initially serving as executive chairman of the board;
- One director will be designated by SVFE, who initially will be Kirthiga Reddy;

- One director will be designated by Benchmark Capital Partners, who initially will be Bruce Dunlevie;
- One director will be designated by Insight Partners, who initially shall be Deven Parekh;
- One director will be designated by the Sponsor, who initially will be Vivek Ranadivé;
- The Chief Executive Officer of New WeWork, who initially shall be Sandeep Mathrani; and
- Jeff Sine.

With respect to designations by SBWW, the Stockholders Agreement further specifies that, while SBWW will have the right to designate three candidates for election to the board of directors for so long as SBWW and certain permitted transferees of SBWW hold 50% of the outstanding shares of New WeWork Common Stock held by SBWW as of the Closing, after such time, for so long as SBWW and certain permitted transferees of SBWW hold a number of shares representing at least the percentage of the combined outstanding shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock and New WeWork Class C Common Stock as shown below, SBWW will have the right to designate for nomination by the board of directors a number of candidates for election to the board of directors that, if elected, would result in SBWW having nominated the number of directors serving on the board of directors shown below (such person being nominated, the “SBWW Nominee,” and such person being elected the “SBWW Director”):

- If 25% or greater of New WeWork Class A and Class C Common Stock, three SBWW Directors;
- If less than 25% but greater than or equal to 15% of New WeWork Class A and Class C Common Stock, two SBWW Directors;
- If less than 15% but greater than or equal to 1% of New WeWork Class A and Class C Common Stock, one SBWW Director;
- If less than 1% of New WeWork Class A and Class C Common Stock, zero SBWW Directors.

SBWW will also have the right to have a pro rata number of SBWW Nominees appointed to serve on each committee of the board of directors for so long as SBWW has the right to designate at least one director for election to the board of directors. For instance, if SBWW then has the right to nominate three persons to a board of directors of nine persons (i.e. 33%), and a committee of three persons is established, one committee member will be an SBWW Director.

With respect to designations by the Sponsor, SVFE, Insight Partners, and Benchmark Capital Partners (each a “Major Holder,” and together the “Major Holders”), each Major Holder will have the right to designate for nomination by the board of directors one candidate for election to the board of directors until such time as such Major Holder no longer holds at least 50% of the outstanding shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock held by such Major Holder at the Closing. Notwithstanding the preceding sentence, if SVFE loses such designation right, for so long as SBWW and certain permitted transferees of SBWW hold a number of shares representing at least 1% of the outstanding New WeWork Class A and Class C Common Stock, effective immediately upon such loss, SBWW and certain permitted transferees of SBWW will have the right to designate for nomination by the board of directors an additional candidate in addition to the candidates described above.

The Stockholders Agreement also provides that, so long as SOF-X WW Holdings, L.P. and SOF-XI WW Holdings, L.P. (together, the “Starwood Investor,” for purposes of the Stockholders Agreement) continue to hold a specified amount of New WeWork Common Stock, then the Starwood Investor will have the right to designate a board observer.

For so long as New WeWork has a duly appointed and acting Chief Executive Officer as a named executive officer, New WeWork will take all actions necessary to include the Chief Executive Officer in the slate of nominees recommended by the board of directors for election at each applicable annual or special meeting of the stockholders at which directors are to be elected. See the section entitled “Director Election Proposal” for more details on the board composition contemplated therein.

The Stockholders Agreement also governs vacancies and removals of directors of the board of directors. Each Major Holder and SBWW has (i) the exclusive right to remove its respective director(s) from the board of directors, and (ii) the exclusive right to nominate for appointment or nomination by the board of directors candidates to fill vacancies created by reason of death, removal or resignation of the applicable SBWW Nominee or nominee of the Major Holder. Under certain circumstances, a committee consisting of all the directors (other than any directors designated by SBWW or SVFE) will be established to fill a vacancy, and the committee will fill the vacancy by majority vote. If Mr. Sine is no longer serving as a director by reason of death, removal, resignation or otherwise, the position will be filled by a replacement candidate approved and nominated by the Major Holders and SBWW based on a majority vote of shares of New WeWork Common Stock held by the Major Holders and SBWW; provided however, that if at such time the voting restrictions set forth in Article V, Part A, Section 7 of the Proposed Charter remain in effect, then the shares held by SBWW shall remain subject to such provision of the Proposed Charter (i.e. SBWW and SVFE, together, cannot exercise more than 49.90% of the voting power in such approval and nomination).

If upon any event or for any reason the directors designated by SBWW and SVFE would comprise more than half of the directors in office, then, immediately prior to such event or time, a sufficient number of SBWW designated directors then in office shall be deemed to have resigned from the board of directors such that the directors designated by SBWW and SVFE would not comprise more than half of the directors then in office.

Warrants

Concurrently with and contingent upon the Closing, BowX will issue to SBWW or its designees the First Warrant to purchase a number of shares of BowX Common Stock (rounded to the nearest whole share) equal to 47,366,404 multiplied by the Exchange Ratio, subject to the terms set forth therein, at a price per share equal to $0.01 divided by the Exchange Ratio (rounded to the nearest full cent). The First Warrant will expire on the tenth anniversary of the Closing. Although the First Warrant will be issued by BowX, solely for purposes of calculating the Exchange Ratio used in the Business Combination, the First Warrant is treated in the same manner as a hypothetical outstanding warrant to purchase 47,366,404 shares of WeWork Class A Common Stock at an exercise price of $0.01 per share.

The First Warrant issued to SBWW is an inducement to obtain SBWW's, and its affiliates', support in effectuating the automatic conversion of WeWork Preferred Stock on a one-to-one basis to WeWork Common Stock. At the Exchange Ratio, the First Warrant will enable SBWW to purchase 39,115,176 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock. Assuming a price of $10 per share, the First Warrant will have an estimated fair value of approximately $391.2 million. A copy of the form of First Warrant is attached as Exhibit 10.19 to this proxy statement/prospectus.

Additionally, concurrently with and contingent upon the LC Facility Termination Extension, BowX will issue to the SoftBank Obligor or its designees the LC Warrant to purchase a number of shares of BowX Common Stock (rounded to the nearest whole share) equal to 14,431,991 multiplied by the Exchange Ratio, subject to the terms set forth therein, at a price per share equal to $0.01 divided by the Exchange Ratio (rounded to the nearest full cent). The LC Warrant would expire on the tenth anniversary of the date of issuance.

The LC Warrant issued to SoftBank Obligor as consideration for the SoftBank Obligor agreeing to continue to act as co-obligor under WeWork's existing LC Facility for the extension period of one year. At the Exchange Ratio, the LC Warrant will enable SoftBank Obligor to purchase 11,917,938 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock. Assuming a price of $10 per share, the LC Warrant will have an estimated fair value of approximately $119.2 million. The Company will record the estimated fair value of the LC Warrant as a deferred asset (guarantee premium), which will be amortized to interest expense over the amended term of the letter of credit facility, in a comparable fashion to a commitment or access fee paid to obtain a revolving credit arrangement. A copy of the form of LC Warrant is attached as Exhibit 10.20 to this proxy statement/prospectus.

FIRPTA Letter

On March 25, 2021, concurrently with the execution of the Merger Agreement, SBWW, SVFE, BowX and WeWork entered into a letter agreement related to WeWork's potential current or future status as a USRPHC and related tax withholding matters in connection with the transactions contemplated by the Merger Agreement (the "FIRPTA Letter"). Specifically, SBWW is required to take certain specified actions to demonstrate qualification for an exemption from BowX's obligation to deduct, withhold, and remit tax under FIRPTA with respect to the portion of the consideration that would otherwise be payable to SBWW pursuant to the Merger Agreement, in accordance with procedures described in the FIRPTA Letter.

If, notwithstanding SBWW's obligations under the FIRPTA Letter to take those specified actions, an exemption is ultimately unavailable in accordance with the procedures described in the FIRPTA Letter, we may be required to sell a portion of SBWW's New WeWork equity interests with an aggregate value of up to $25 million to satisfy our obligation to deduct, withhold, and pay over to the IRS tax with respect to the portion of the consideration that would otherwise be payable to SBWW pursuant to the Merger Agreement. SBWW would be required to deliver to BowX and WeWork any cash in excess of such $25 million that is required to satisfy such obligation. SBWW has agreed to indemnify WeWork, BowX, and certain other parties with respect to SBWW's tax obligations under FIRPTA, if any, with respect to the Business Combination.

Under the FIRPTA Letter, SVFE has agreed to provide an IRS Form W-9 that is duly completed and validly executed by an appropriate officer to exempt any obligation of BowX to deduct, withhold and remit tax under FIRPTA. If SVFE fails to deliver such IRS Form W-9, as agreed, the above noted procedures would apply to SVFE in the same manner as they apply to SBWW for demonstrating an alternative qualification for an exemption to FIRPTA withholding. SVFE will indemnify BowX and WeWork with respect to its portion of relevant liabilities, if any were to arise.

Furthermore, under the FIRPTA Letter, New WeWork is required to provide certain ongoing reports to SBWW and SVFE regarding New WeWork's status as a USRPHC at and after the Effective Time and to provide notice to SBWW and SVFE before withholding any taxes with respect to any payments to SBWW or SVFE.

Background to the Business Combination

BowX is a blank check company incorporated on May 19, 2020, under the laws of Delaware for the purpose of entering into a merger, share exchange, asset acquisition, stock purchase, recapitalization, reorganization or other similar business combination with one or more businesses or entities. The proposed Business Combination was the result of an extensive search for a potential transaction using the network, investing and operating experience of our management team. The terms of the Merger Agreement were the result of extensive negotiations between BowX and WeWork (and their respective affiliates). The following is a brief description of the background of these negotiations.

On August 7, 2020, BowX consummated its initial public offering of 42,000,000 units at $10.00 per unit, and, on August 13, 2020, pursuant to the underwriters' exercise of the full over-allotment option, BowX consummated the sale of an additional 6,300,000 units, at $10.00 per unit, in total, generating aggregate gross proceeds of $483,000,000. Simultaneously with the closing of each of the initial public offering and the underwriters' exercise of the over-allotment option, BowX consummated the sale of an aggregate of 6,933,333 and 840,000 warrants, respectively, at a price of $1.50 per warrant in private placements to certain of its initial stockholders and certain funds and accounts managed by subsidiaries of BlackRock, Inc. (the "BlackRock funds"), generating gross proceeds of approximately $11,660,000.

Since the completion of its initial public offering, BowX considered numerous potential target businesses with the objective of consummating its initial business combination. Representatives of BowX contacted and were contacted by numerous individuals and entities who presented ideas for business combination opportunities, including financial advisors and companies in the data, media, logistics, education, entertainment, healthcare, transportation, sports, technology, financial services, consumer services and retail sectors. BowX considered businesses that it believed had attractive long-term growth potential, were well-positioned within their industry and would benefit from the substantial operational experience and network of BowX's management team. See "— BowX's Board of Directors Reasons for the Business Combination" for additional information. Representatives of BowX engaged in extensive due diligence and multiple detailed discussions directly with the senior executives and/or stockholders of several potential business combination opportunities as part of its overall business combination evaluation process. In the process that led to identifying WeWork as an attractive investment opportunity, BowX's management team evaluated approximately 150 potential business combination targets, made contact with representatives of 125 potential combination targets to discuss the potential for a business combination transaction, and entered into non-disclosure agreements with 36 potential business combination targets.

Beginning on September 11, 2020, periodic meetings via teleconference were held among members of BowX's management team (including Vivek Ranadive, Co-Chief Executive Officer of BowX and chairman of the BowX board of directors, and Murray Rode, Co-Chief Executive Officer and Chief Financial Officer of BowX), certain of BowX's advisors, and those of BowX's directors who were able to attend such calls on any given occasion, in order to discuss matters relating to BowX's initial business combination. Initially, such meetings were intended to allow BowX management and certain of BowX's advisors to provide updates regarding the status of the evaluation of, and outreach to, potential business combination targets. During those periodic meetings that were held from September 2020 through mid-March 2021 (when such periodic meetings were discontinued as a result of the announcement of the business combination with WeWork), BowX's management and certain of BowX's advisors provided updates regarding the status of the potential business combination transaction with WeWork, including with respect to the due diligence review being conducted by the BowX management team and BowX's advisors, the negotiation of potential business combination terms and definitive transaction documents, the status of the PIPE investment, and other related matters.

On October 7, 2020, UBS Securities LLC ("UBS"), financial advisor to BowX, scheduled an introductory telephone conversation between the BowX management team and Mr. Neumann, the co-founder and former Chief Executive Officer of WeWork and a significant stockholder of WeWork, to discuss WeWork, other potential acquisitions and special purpose acquisition companies generally.

On November 18, 2020, representatives of UBS introduced the BowX management team to Sandeep Mathrani, the Chief Executive Officer of WeWork and Chandler Salisbury, VP, Investor Relations and Corporate Development at WeWork. On December 1, 2020, Mr. Mathrani and the BowX management team met in Menlo Park, California to have an introductory meeting to discuss the outlines of a potential transaction between BowX and WeWork and related timing and structuring considerations.

From December 1, 2020, through January 15, 2021, representatives of BowX and WeWork continued to discuss the terms of a potential business combination transaction between the parties. In connection with these discussions, on December 4, 2020, BowX executed a mutual non-disclosure agreement (the "Non-Disclosure Agreement") with WeWork. See "—Related Agreements — Non-Disclosure Agreement" for additional information. After the Non-Disclosure Agreement was executed, WeWork began providing to BowX certain limited confidential information regarding WeWork and its subsidiaries and their collective business operations.

On December 7, 2020, representatives of BowX and WeWork had a telephone conversation to discuss presenting the potential business transaction to SBG, WeWork's largest stockholder. On December 8, 2020, representatives of BowX held a telephone conversation with representatives of WeWork and SBG relating to the potential benefits of a business combination with BowX.

On December 22, 2020, representatives of BowX provided to representatives of WeWork a preliminary proposal that included an initial pro forma enterprise value for WeWork of $9.788 billion. The initial enterprise valuation with respect to the WeWork business included in this preliminary proposal reflected BowX management's initial evaluation of the WeWork business based on the information that had been provided at that time.

On January 11, 2021, the board of directors of WeWork met via teleconference and were joined by representatives of PJT, acting as financial advisor to WeWork. At the meeting, Mr. Neumann and a representative of certain funds or other investment vehicles advised by an affiliate of JPMorgan Chase & Co. (which funds or investment vehicles are stockholders of WeWork) ("JPM"), were present in their capacities as board observers. Representatives of PJT discussed with the WeWork directors certain key considerations in evaluating strategic alternatives available to the company, including a de-SPAC transaction with a special purpose acquisition company, an initial public offering and potential debt or equity investments in WeWork. Following this discussion, the board of directors of WeWork supported continued exploration of potential strategic alternatives, including discussions with BowX and other potential special purpose acquisition company counterparties, and formed a committee, consisting of Mr. Combes, Mr. Dunlevie and Mr. Mathrani, to review the various alternatives to the BowX offer.

On January 15, 2021, representatives of BowX emailed to representatives of WeWork an initial non-binding letter of intent (addressed to Mr. Mathrani in his capacity as CEO of WeWork) in respect of a potential business combination. This initial draft of the non-binding letter of intent indicated that it was subject to further due diligence and included an initial enterprise value for WeWork of $10.105 billion and an equity value of $8.818 billion on a pre-transaction, debt-free, cash-free basis. The initial enterprise valuation with respect to the WeWork business included in this initial non-binding letter of intent reflected BowX management's initial evaluation of the WeWork business based on the due diligence information that had been provided at that time. The initial draft of the non-binding letter of intent also contemplated a PIPE investment from mutually agreed upon equity financing sources at $10.00 per share of up to $700 million.

Over the course of the next few days, representatives of BowX and WeWork continued to discuss the terms of the non-binding letter of intent and BowX continued its diligence of WeWork. Following these discussions, on January 17, 2021, BowX emailed to WeWork a revised version of the non-binding letter of intent, which provided for the same valuation but contemplated a $500 million PIPE investment and an additional $500 million in either the PIPE investment or debt financing.

During the two weeks following the delivery of the revised version of the non-binding letter of intent, representatives of BowX held conversations with representatives of WeWork regarding the potential Business Combination. On January 18, 2021, BowX management, UBS and other outside consultants had a telephone conversation to discuss the timeline of the transaction and general process matters. In the same week, BowX management had conversations with BlackRock funds, holders of founder shares and private placement warrants, and certain private funds managed by Pacific Investment Management Company LLC ("PIMCO"), non-managing members of Sponsor, to provide updates on status of the potential business combination. On January 25, 2021, Mr. Ranadivé and Marcelo Claire, the Chief Executive Officer of SoftBank Group International, an affiliate of SBG, and the Executive Chairman of WeWork, had a telephone conversation to discuss the potential business combination. Between January 27, 2021, and January 31, 2021, BowX held telephone conversations with the Blackrock funds, PIMCO and Insight Partners, a potential PIPE investor, to discuss the potential business combination and their respective interest in a potential PIPE investment. BowX management and representatives of WeWork also had several conversations relating to the terms of the non-binding letter of intent during this period.

During February and March 2021 BowX and WeWork engaged in a broad marketing process with potential PIPE investors. Certain of the PIPE investors approached in the process and who ultimately participated in the PIPE are affiliated with BowX, the Sponsor, WeWork or their affiliates. Certain Potential PIPE investors, including Insight Partners, WH-STONEBRIDGE, LLC, Benhurst Investment Company LLC and certain Fidelity investment funds, which eventually invested in the PIPE, and other Potential PIPE investors which did not invest in the PIPE, received more detailed non-public information, material information about BowX, WeWork and the proposed business combination. Potential PIPE investors who received access to additional non-public information about BowX, WeWork or the proposed business combination were each required to execute a non-disclosure agreement and lockup agreement.

During February and March 2021, the members of the committee comprised of Mr. Combes, Mr. Dunlevie and Mr. Mathrani conferred on a periodic basis, including with members of WeWork management, with regard to financing and strategic alternatives, including the proposed business combination with BowX.

PJT provided an update on the process for engaging with BowX, potential growth equity investors and potential PIPE investors, and the participants discussed the updated BowX term sheet. The Board agreed that management should continue discussions with BowX and Investor A and approved entry into a term sheet with BowX that, among other things, granted exclusivity with respect to negotiations with other special purpose acquisition companies (which did not preclude continued discussions with Investor A).

On February 4, 2021, a special committee of the board of directors of WeWork comprised of Mr. Dunlevie and Mr. Frankfort (the "Special Committee") met via teleconference and were joined by, among others, representatives of Wilson Sonsini Goodrich & Rosati, Professional Corporation, outside counsel to the Special Committee ("Wilson Sonsini"), and representatives of Perella Weinberg Partners, financial advisor to the Special Committee ("PWP"). The Special Committee was formed in 2019 to evaluate transactions among SBG, Mr. Neumann and WeWork. The Special Committee discussed ongoing litigation between the Special Committee (on behalf of WeWork), SBG, SoftBank Vision Fund, Mr. Neumann and We Holdings, LLC (the "Litigation"), including with respect to how a potential settlement of the Litigation could facilitate a potential de-SPAC transaction, a private placement or other strategic alternatives.

Effective as of February 4, 2021, BowX and WeWork executed the agreed final version of the non-binding letter of intent (the "LOI") reflecting the parties' conversations over the prior weeks, which included a pre-transaction total enterprise value for WeWork of $9.8 billion, with no adjustment for WeWork's cash or debt, subject to the approval of the WeWork board of directors (which was obtained the following day). The LOI contemplated total merger consideration of 851,300,000 newly issued shares of Class A common stock of BowX valued at $10.00 per share, implying a pre-transaction equity value for WeWork of $8.531 billion. The LOI further contemplated that BowX would adopt an incentive equity option pool as retention for key senior leadership and employees and a long-term incentive pool covering post-closing cash and equity incentive awards to eligible service providers. The LOI also contemplated that the closing of the proposed business combination would be conditioned on (i) SBG continuing to provide credit support under the 2020 LC Facility (which at the time was available to WeWork through 2023), (ii) continuance of SBG's commitment to purchase WeWork's 5% Unsecured Notes due 2025, (iii) the satisfaction of a condition in favor of WeWork that BowX hold assets at least equal to $1.0 billion in the aggregate at Closing, comprised of (x) cash and cash equivalents remaining in BowX's trust account (after satisfaction of redemption obligations to BowX's public shareholders but before payment of transaction expenses) and (y) the proceeds of the PIPE investment, and (iv) other customary closing conditions (including receipt of required consents and approvals from relevant regulatory and/or government authorities for the proposed transaction and the receipt of requisite stockholder approvals). Pursuant to the LOI, it was anticipated that WeWork would have access to a minimum of $500 million from a mutually agreed upon PIPE investment and an additional $500 million in either a PIPE investment or debt financing. The LOI also contemplated the execution of customary lock-up agreements for a period of one year for certain large stockholders of WeWork, including SBG, and a six-month lock-up agreement for other significant stockholders of WeWork.

The LOI also included mutual exclusivity provisions. Subject to certain exceptions (including the ability to continue discussions with Investor A so long as a term sheet in respect of a transaction with Investor A was not entered into), WeWork agreed not to discuss, negotiate or accept any proposals regarding the sale or other disposition of a material amount of equity securities or a sale of material assets of WeWork with any party for an exclusivity period of 30 business days after the date of the LOI, subject to an automatic extension for an additional 10 business day period if the parties were working in good faith to finalize definitive transaction documents at the end of the original exclusivity period. BowX agreed not to enter into any negotiations regarding a potential initial business combination with any party for a period of 21 calendar days commencing on the date of the LOI, except where such negotiations were ongoing as of the date of the LOI. BowX also agreed that when it obtained indications of interest from PIPE investors for at least $250 million, with $100 million of such amount being committed by a single investor, BowX would cease all discussions regarding a potential initial business combination other than with WeWork until the end of the exclusivity period.

On February 5, 2021, the board of directors of WeWork met via teleconference and were joined by representatives of PJT and (as a board observer) JPM to discuss the updated LOI. Following discussion regarding the comparative benefits and drawbacks of a private placement investment by Investor A and a potential de-SPAC transaction with BowX, including that BowX was not willing to continue discussions with WeWork unless WeWork entered into an LOI that included a short-term grant of exclusivity to BowX, the board approved the LOI.

On February 12, 2021, following the execution of the LOI, BowX executed an agreement with PJT related to its engagement as co-placement agent to solicit potential PIPE investors alongside UBS given PJT's knowledge of WeWork, which agreement acknowledged PJT's existing role as financial advisor to WeWork in connection with the proposed business combination and waived any conflicts relating to such role. At this meeting, representatives of UBS delivered a presentation summarizing the financial aspects of the potential business combination, including the PIPE investment and the expected pro forma capitalization of the combined company following the Closing. Representatives of Cooley provided an update regarding the negotiation of the terms of the definitive transaction documents, including based on the drafts of the various agreements that had been exchanged between Cooley and Skadden earlier that day, and Mr. Rode gave a general overview on process and transaction timing.

In the morning on March 23, 2021, WeWork’s board of directors met via teleconference with representatives of PJT and Skadden. At this meeting, representatives of PJT, acting as financial adviser to WeWork, delivered a presentation which included the enterprise value implied by the transaction and expected PIPE proceeds, and summarized certain transaction terms, including the forfeiture of founder shares, commitments from certain BowX shareholders not to redeem their shares, as well as the conversion of existing preferred shares to common stock and warrants to be issued by the combined company to SBG at the closing of the transaction and in the future if the combined company determined to request the consent of the required lenders to an extension of the termination date of the 2020 LC Facility with credit support from the SoftBank Obligor. The representatives of PJT also discussed the pro forma ownership and valuation of the combined company, as well as key next steps. Representatives of Skadden provided a summary of the legal terms of the transaction, including the transaction structure, the conversion of WeWork’s securities into BowX securities, the closing conditions and termination rights, the parties’ “no shop” obligations and obligations to obtain shareholder approval, and D&O insurance. The Skadden representatives also highlighted governance matters, including the combined company’s board composition, and summarized the terms of the SoftBank Obligor’s commitment to consent to an extension of WeWork’s letter of credit facility and the amendment of WeWork’s senior secured notes facility and the warrants to be issued to SBWW and/or its designees. Representatives of WeWork management also described WeWork’s stockholder approval process, noting that management had reached out to all shareholders who have a designated Board member as well as certain other large investors previously discussed with the Securities and Exchange Commission.

On March 23, 2021, representatives of Cooley provided BowX’s management with a draft of a due diligence report that provided a summary of the findings of Cooley’s legal due diligence review of WeWork and its business operations, including based upon Cooley’s review of the certain materials and information provided by representatives of WeWork in the virtual data room or pursuant to email and telephone communications prior to such date, including in response to a series of supplemental legal due diligence request lists which were sent by representatives of Cooley to representatives of Skadden. Such findings were discussed throughout the diligence process.

On March 24, 2021, representatives of KPMG held financial and public company readiness due diligence calls with representatives of Skadden, members of WeWork’s management team and EY.

Also on March 24, 2021, representatives of Cooley emailed to representatives of Skadden an initial draft of a Sponsor Support Agreement, to be entered into by WeWork, BowX, the Sponsor and each of BowX’s directors, pursuant to which, among other things, the Sponsor and the members of the BowX board of directors would agree to vote in favor of the Merger Agreement and the transactions contemplated thereby and waive their respective redemption rights in connection with the consummation of the business combination with respect to any shares held by them. The parties exchanged one revised draft before an agreed final version of the Sponsor Support Agreement was executed by the parties thereto on March 25, 2021. See “— Related Agreements — Sponsor Support Agreement” for additional information.

In addition, March 24, 2021, representatives of Skadden emailed to representatives of Cooley initial drafts of the Proposed Certificate of Incorporation, Proposed Bylaws, and Stockholders Agreement for the combined company (reflecting comments from SBG) to be adopted by BowX in connection with the consummation of the business combination, the terms of which the parties continued to negotiate (including as result of comments from SBG), exchanging multiple drafts prior to the execution of the Merger Agreement on March 25, 2021, to which the agreed forms of the Proposed Certificate of Incorporation, Proposed Bylaws and Stockholders Agreement were attached as exhibits. See “Organizational Documents Proposals” for additional information.

On March 24, 2021, the Special Committee met via teleconference and were joined by representatives of Wilson Sonsini, PWP and Skadden to discuss the terms of the potential transaction with BowX, and the final terms of (i) extending the letter of credit facility, (ii) modifying the terms of the senior secured credit facility and (iii) converting SBG’s preferred stock into common stock in the potential transaction. The participants also discussed the fiduciary duties of the directors on the Special Committee, the terms of the potential transaction that were unique to SBG and SVFE relative to other WeWork stockholders, WeWork’s prior discussions with multiple other special purpose acquisition companies and the funding alternatives for WeWork prior to entering into the proposed transaction. Following additional discussion on these and related matters, the Special Committee unanimously recommended that WeWork’s board of directors approve the Merger Agreement with BowX (including the terms that expressly apply to or benefit SBG or SVFE) and related agreements with SBG and SVFE.

During the evening of March 24, 2021, BowX’s board of directors held a meeting via teleconference and representatives of Cooley and representatives of UBS joined the meeting. At the meeting, Cooley gave a presentation to the BowX board of directors on the directors’ fiduciary duties under Delaware law and the terms of the proposed business combination. UBS gave an updated financial analysis presentation to the BowX board of directors and provided updates regarding composition of the PIPE investors. BowX’s board of directors, with the assistance of Cooley and BowX’s management, discussed and reviewed the proposed business combination, including WeWork as the proposed business combination target, the terms and conditions of the Merger Agreement, including the transaction structure, the treatment of WeWork’s securities, the closing conditions and termination rights, the parties’ “no shop” obligations and obligations to obtain shareholder approval, and the key ancillary agreements (copies of which were provided to all of the members of the BowX board of directors in advance of the meeting). BowX’s board of directors also discussed the potential benefits of, and risks relating to the proposed business combination and the reasons for entering into the Merger Agreement and the proposed timeline for finalizing the definitive transaction agreements and announcing the proposed business combination. See “— BowX’s Board of Directors’ Reasons for the Business Combination” for additional information related to the factors considered by BowX’s board of directors in approving the Business Combination. Following additional discussion on these and related matters, BowX’s board of directors unanimously approved the Merger Agreement and related agreements and the transactions contemplated thereby and recommended the approval and adoption of the Merger Agreement by BowX’s stockholders. The BowX board of directors directed the BowX management team and BowX’s advisors to finalize and execute the terms of the transaction documents and keep members of the board apprised of any material developments or changes.

Following the meeting of the BowX board of directors, the parties worked to finalize the transaction documents (or forms thereof) with respect to the proposed business combination based on the terms agreed upon by the parties and approved by their respective boards of directors. During this time, BowX management provided periodic updates on the status of certain matters relating to the finalization of the transaction documents to members of the BowX board of directors.

On March 25, 2021, WeWork's board of directors held a meeting via teleconference and were joined by representatives of Skadden. Skadden provided updates on the terms of the proposed business combination, the terms and conditions of the Merger Agreement as well as the key ancillary agreements (copies of which were provided to all of the members of the WeWork board of directors in advance of the meeting). Following additional discussion on these and related matters, WeWork's board of directors unanimously approved the Merger Agreement and related agreements and the transactions contemplated thereby and recommended the approval and adoption of the Merger Agreement by WeWork's stockholders, with the terms of such agreements and transactions that expressly apply to or benefit SBG or SVFE in a manner that is different from other stockholders of the Company and agreements with SBG and SVFE being unanimously approved by WeWork's board of directors acting solely through its applicable disinterested members.

After various discussions between representatives of KPMG and the BowX management team regarding diligence findings, on March 25, 2021, representatives of KPMG delivered to BowX management copies of KPMG's final reports summarizing the findings of KPMG's tax and financial due diligence reviews of WeWork and its business operations.

On the night of March 25, 2021, BowX, WeWork, and Merger Sub executed the Merger Agreement. Concurrent with the execution of the Merger Agreement, BowX also entered into the Stockholder Support Agreement, Sponsor Support Agreement and the Subscription Agreements, in each case, with the applicable other parties thereto. See "— Related Agreements" for additional information.

On the morning of March 26, 2021, BowX and WeWork issued a joint press release announcing the execution of the Merger Agreement, which it filed later that morning with a Current Report on Form 8-K along with an investor presentation prepared by members of BowX's and WeWork's management teams and used in connection with meetings with existing BowX shareholders and other persons regarding WeWork and the Business Combination.

BowX's Board of Directors' Reasons for the Business Combination

On March 24, 2021, the BowX board of directors (i) approved the Merger Agreement and the transactions contemplated thereby, (ii) determined that the Business Combination is fair to, advisable, and in the best interest of BowX and its shareholders, and (iii) recommended that the stockholders of BowX approve the Merger Agreement and the Transaction Proposals. In evaluating the Business Combination and making these determinations and this recommendation, the BowX board of directors consulted with BowX's senior management, BowX's legal counsel and its financial and other advisors and considered a number of factors.

The BowX board of directors and management also considered the general criteria and guidelines that BowX believed would be important in evaluating prospective target businesses as described in the prospectus for BowX's initial public offering. The BowX board of directors also considered that BowX could enter into a business combination with a target business that does not meet those criteria and guidelines. In the prospectus for its initial public offering, identified the following general criteria and guidelines that it believed were important in evaluating prospective target businesses. BowX used these criteria and guidelines in evaluating initial business combination opportunities.

- The WeWork Business. The following factors related to WeWork and its business and operations:
 - Large and Growing Addressable Market. WeWork has an opportunity to grow flexible workspace market share in the multi-trillion-dollar commercial real estate market. As we believe the fallout from the COVID-19 pandemic continues to accelerate the shift away from traditional office space, information reviewed by the BowX board of directors suggested that flexible workspaces could potentially represent up to 22.2% of the U.S. office real-estate market by 2030, positioning WeWork for substantial revenue growth, even assuming WeWork's market share of the flexible workspace market share remains constant. WeWork also plans to continue to diversify across geographies, while maintaining a strong presence in the United States.

- Size. BowX intended to focus on target businesses whose enterprise value was between $1 billion and $3 billion; the BowX management team believed businesses of this size have the right mix of market positioning and potential to scale and grow, while also having profitability potential.
- Visible revenue. BowX intended to seek businesses with models that deliver highly recurring, contracted revenue.
- Strong competitive position: BowX intended to seek businesses with a first mover advantage or a sizable market share in their segment and the opportunity to achieve market leadership.
- Proprietary technology platform. BowX intended to identify businesses with defensible proprietary technology and intellectual property rights, which create a competitive moat.
- Visionary management team. BowX intended to seek to partner with teams who share its vision for the future and are able to execute on the market themes; given that BowX intended to devote significant resources toward reaching alignment with a target's management team and stakeholders, BowX intended to seek businesses with proven and accomplished management teams that are eager to march forward together with, and benefit from, the BowX management team's expertise.
- Scaled, high-growth asset with path to profitability. BowX intended to seek targets that have achieved scale and are on a predictable growth trajectory. Additionally, BowX intended to seek businesses that are profitable, or have a clear path to profitability, and the ability to grow that profitability over time.
- Public readiness: BowX intended to work with management and stakeholders who aspire to have their business become a public entity and generate substantial growth.
- Appropriate valuation. The BowX management team has a background of rigorous due diligence and disciplined, and valuation-centric investing, with a deep understanding of market value. BowX expected to complete a business combination that results in a strong risk-adjusted return profile with substantial upside potential while limiting downside risks.
- M&A platform. BowX aimed to further increase value by pursuing M&A opportunities. The BowX management team has significant experience in acquiring target businesses as Mr. Ranadivé and Mr. Rode successfully consummated approximately 30 acquisitions while running TIBCO.

In considering the Business Combination, the BowX board of directors determined that the Business Combination met all the criteria and guidelines above, although not weighted or in any order of significance, except that (i) WeWork's pre-transaction enterprise value was higher than the $1-3 billion target originally indicated in BowX's prospectus and (ii) WeWork does not have a considerable amount of proprietary technology. In light of the other criteria being met and the factors described below, the BowX board of directors determined the Business Combination was an attractive business opportunity.

The BowX board of directors' evaluation relating to the merits of the Business Combination were based, to the extent relevant, on the general criteria and guidelines above as well as other considerations, factors, criteria and guidelines that our management team deemed relevant. In light of the complexity of those factors, BowX's board of directors as a whole did not consider it practicable to, nor did it attempt to, quantify or otherwise assign relative weights to the specific factors it took into account in reaching their respective decisions. Individual members of BowX's board of directors may have given different weight to different factors.

In particular, the BowX board of directors considered the following factors:

- The WeWork Business. The following factors related to WeWork and its business and operations:
 - Large and Growing Addressable Market. WeWork has an opportunity to grow flexible workspace market share in the multi-trillion-dollar commercial real estate market. As we believe the fallout from the COVID-19 pandemic continues to accelerate the shift away from traditional office space, information reviewed by the BowX board of directors suggested that flexible workspaces could potentially represent up to 22.2% of the U.S. office real-estate market by 2030, positioning WeWork for substantial revenue growth, even assuming WeWork’s market share of the flexible workspace market share remains constant. WeWork also plans to continue to diversify across geographies, while maintaining a strong presence in the United States.
 - Portfolio of Product Offerings. WeWork offers solutions for companies of all sizes. WeWork’s broad product offerings include WeWork On Demand, which provides users pay-as-you-go access to book individual workspace or conference rooms at nearby WeWork locations; WeWork All Access, a monthly subscription-based model that provides members with access to participating WeWork locations; and a marketplace offering that provides business and technical service solutions, including professional employer organization (“PEO”) and payroll services, remote workforce solutions, human resources benefits, dedicated bandwidth, and IT equipment co-location.
 - Platform Business Opportunity. WeWork is currently developing a platform that would leverage its systems and established global customer base to offer landlords and operators the ability to power and manage flexible spaces in their portfolio.
 - Experienced and Proven Management Team. WeWork’s management team has decades of public market experience and has demonstrated proven results within their first 12 months at WeWork. WeWork’s management team is led by Executive Chairman Marcelo Claure and Chief Executive Officer Sandeep Mathrani, who joined WeWork in February 2020. Under their leadership, WeWork has refocused on its core business model and applied a disciplined approach to costs. The BowX board of directors considered that WeWork’s executives will continue with the combined company following the Business Combination. For additional information regarding WeWork’s executive officers, see the section entitled “Management of New WeWork Following the Business Combination — Executive Officers.”
 - Attractive Initial Valuation. WeWork will have an anticipated initial pre-transaction enterprise value of $8.8 billion.
- Results of Due Diligence. The results of a due diligence investigation conducted by BowX’s management team and outside advisors from February 22, 2021 to March 23, 2022, such investigation, including:
 - extensive virtual meetings and calls with WeWork’s management team regarding its operations, business plan and the proposed transaction; and
 - review of materials related to WeWork and its business, made available by WeWork and deemed appropriate for review in the context of the size of the transaction and the scope of WeWork’s operations, including financial statements, material contracts, key metrics and performance indicators, benefit plans, employee compensation and labor matters, intellectual property matters, real property matters, information technology, privacy and personal data, litigation information, environmental matters and other regulatory and compliance matters and other legal and business information.
- Continued Ownership By Current WeWork Stockholders. WeWork’s existing equityholders would be receiving a significant amount of BowX’s common stock as its consideration and 100% of the existing equityholders of WeWork are “rolling over” their existing equity interests into equity interests in WeWork, which would represent approximately 82.4% of the pro forma ownership of the combined company after Closing, after giving effect to the PIPE Investment and assuming none of BowX's current public shareholders exercise their redemption rights in connection with the Business Combination. See "BCA Proposal—Ownership of New WeWork After the Closing."

- Stockholder Liquidity. The obligation in the Merger Agreement to have the BowX Class A Common Stock issued as merger consideration listed on a major U.S. stock exchange, which the BowX board of directors believes has the potential to offer BowX stockholders greater liquidity.
- PIPE Investment. Certain third parties, including top-tier institutional investors, are investing an additional $800 million in the combined company pursuant to their participation in the PIPE Investment. The BowX board of directors considered this a strong sign of confidence in WeWork following the Business Combination and the benefits expected to be realized as a result of the Business Combination.
- Use of Proceeds. The proceeds to be delivered to the combined company in connection with the Business Combination (including from BowX's trust account and from the PIPE Investment) are expected to be used after Closing in order to fund WeWork's existing operations and support new and existing growth initiatives.
- Terms of the Merger Agreement. The terms of the Merger Agreement and the related agreements, including the parties' conditions to their respective obligations to complete the transactions contemplated therein and their ability to terminate such agreements. See the section entitled "BCA Proposal" for detailed discussions of the terms and conditions of these agreements.
- Other Alternatives. The determination that the proposed Business Combination, after a thorough review of other business combination opportunities reasonably available to BowX, represents the best potential business combination for BowX. No opportunity came to the attention of any member of BowX's management or Board of Directors in his or her personal capacity, which impacted BowX's search for an acquisition target.

The BowX board of directors also identified and considered the following factors and risks weighing negatively against pursuing the Business Combination, although not weighted or in any order of significance:

- Potential Inability to Complete the Merger. The possibility that the Business Combination may not be completed and the potential adverse consequences to BowX if the Business Combination is not completed, in particular the expenditure of time and resources in pursuit of the Business Combination and the loss of the opportunity to participate in the transaction. They considered the uncertainty related to the Closing, including due to closing conditions primarily outside of the control of the parties to the transaction (such as the need for stockholder and antitrust approval).
- Potential Stockholder Redemptions. The risk that the current public shareholders of BowX would redeem their public shares for cash in connection with consummation of the Business Combination, thereby reducing the amount of cash available to WeWork following the consummation of the Business Combination. The consummation of the Merger is conditioned upon satisfaction of the Minimum Cash Condition, which is for the sole benefit of WeWork. The BowX board of directors considered the risk that current public shareholders would exercise their redemption rights is mitigated because WeWork will be acquired at an attractive aggregate purchase price.
- Liquidation of BowX. The risks and costs to BowX if the Business Combination is not completed, including the risk of diverting management focus and resources from other initial business combination opportunities, which could result in BowX being unable to effect a business combination by August 4, 2022 and force BowX to liquidate.
- WeWork's Business Risks. The fact that BowX shareholders would be subject to the execution risks associated with WeWork if they retained their public shares following the Closing, which risks were different from the risks related to holding public shares of BowX prior to the Closing. In this regard, the BowX board of directors considered that there were risks associated with successful implementation of WeWork's long term business plan and strategy and WeWork realizing the anticipated benefits of the Business Combination on the timeline expected or at all, including due to factors outside of the parties' control such as the potential impact of the COVID-19 pandemic and related macroeconomic uncertainty. The BowX board of directors considered that the failure of any of these activities to be completed successfully may decrease the actual benefits of the Business Combination and that BowX shareholders may not fully realize these benefits to the extent that they expected to retain the public shares following the completion of the Business Combination. For additional description of these risks, please see the section entitled "Risk Factors."

- Post-Business Combination Corporate Governance. The corporate governance provisions of the Merger Agreement and the Proposed Organizational Documents and the effect of those provisions on the governance of BowX following the Closing. In particular, they considered that the parties will enter into a stockholders' agreement at Closing in respect of the composition of the board of directors of the combined company after the Closing. The BowX board of directors also considered that, given that the existing equityholders of WeWork will collectively control shares representing a majority of the combined company's total outstanding shares of common stock upon completion of the Business Combination, the existing equityholders of WeWork will be able to elect future directors and make other decisions (including approving certain transactions involving the combined company and other corporate actions) without the consent or approval of any of BowX's current shareholders, directors or management team, subject to the Stockholders Agreement. Specifically, if the Organizational Proposal C is approved, BowX stockholders will not be entitled to elect directors in the future under the terms of the organization documents. See the section entitled "Organizational Documents Proposals" for detailed discussions of the terms and conditions of the Proposed Organizational Documents.
- Limitations of Review. The BowX board of directors did not obtain an opinion from any independent investment banking or accounting firm that the price BowX is paying to acquire WeWork is fair to BowX or its shareholders from a financial point of view. In addition, the BowX senior management and BowX's outside counsel reviewed only certain materials in connection with their due diligence review of WeWork. Accordingly, the BowX board of directors considered that BowX may not have properly valued such business.
- No Survival of Remedies for Breach of Representations, Warranties or Covenants of WeWork. The terms of the Merger Agreement provide that BowX will not have any surviving remedies against WeWork or its equityholders after the Closing to recover for losses as a result of any inaccuracies or breaches of the WeWork representations, warranties or covenants set forth in the Merger Agreement. As a result, BowX shareholders could be adversely affected by, among other things, a decrease in the financial performance or worsening of financial condition of WeWork prior to the Closing, whether determined before or after the Closing, without any ability to reduce the number of shares to be issued in the Business Combination or recover for the amount of any damages. The BowX board of directors determined that this structure was appropriate and customary in light of the fact that several similar transactions include similar terms and the current equityholders of WeWork will be, collectively, the majority equityholders in the combined company.
- Litigation. The possibility of litigation challenging the Business Combination or that an adverse judgment granting permanent injunctive relief could enjoin consummation of the Business Combination.
- Fees and Expenses. The fees and expenses associated with completing the Business Combination.
- Exclusivity/Non-Solicit. The Merger Agreement includes a non-solicit provision prohibiting BowX from initiating, discussing, or making certain proposals which could lead to an alternative business combination.
- Minority Position. BowX's public stockholders will hold a minority share position in the post-business combination company.

- Risk Factors. The BowX board of directors considered risks of the type and nature described under the section entitled “Risk Factors.”
- Diversion of Management. The potential for diversion of management and employee attention during the period prior to the completion of the Business Combination, and the potential negative effects on WeWork’s business.

In addition to considering the factors described above, the BowX board of directors also considered that certain of the officers and directors of BowX may have interests in the Business Combination as individuals that are in addition to, and that may be different from, the interests of BowX’s stockholders, including the matters described under the sections entitled “Risk Factors” above and “BCA Proposal — Interests of BowX’s Directors and Executive Officers in the Business Combination” below. However, the BowX board of directors concluded that the potentially disparate interests would be mitigated because (i) these interests were disclosed in the prospectus for the IPO and would be included in this proxy statement/prospectus, (ii) these disparate interests would exist with respect to a business combination with any target company and (iii) the Business Combination was structured so that the Business Combination may be completed even if public stockholders redeem a substantial portion of the public shares.

Based on its review of the forgoing considerations, the BowX board of directors concluded that the potentially negative factors associated with the Business Combination were outweighed by the potential benefits that it expects that BowX shareholders will receive as a result of the Business Combination. The BowX board of directors realized that there can be no assurance about future results, including results considered or expected as disclosed in the foregoing reasons.

The preceding discussion of the information and factors considered by the BowX board of directors is not intended to be exhaustive but includes the material factors considered by the BowX board of directors. The BowX board of directors considered this information as a whole and overall considered the information and factors to be favorable to, and in support of, its determinations and recommendations.

This explanation of the BowX board of directors’ reasons for its approval of the Business Combination, and all other information presented in this section, is forward-looking in nature and, therefore, should be read in light of the factors discussed under the section entitled “Cautionary Statement Regarding Forward-Looking Statements.”

Projected Financial Information

In connection with its consideration of the potential Business Combination, the board of directors of (the “Initial Projections” and, together with the Current Projections (as defined below), the “Projections”). BowX was provided with prospective financial information internally prepared by management of WeWork (the “Projections”). The board of directors of BowX has reviewed and discussed the Projections. WeWork does not, as a matter of general practice, publicly disclose long-term forecasts or internal projections of its future performance, revenue, financial condition or other results. The Projections are included in this proxy statement/prospectus solely to provide BowX’s stockholders access to information made available in connection with BowX Board’s consideration of the proposed Business Combination. The Projections should not be viewed as public guidance.

The WeWork forecasts were prepared solely for internal use and not with a view toward public disclosure, the published guidelines of the SEC regarding projections or the guidelines established by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants for preparation and presentation of prospective financial information. The Projections were prepared in good faith by WeWork’s management, based on their reasonable best estimates and assumptions with respect to the expected future financial performance of WeWork at the time the Projections were prepared and speak only as of that time.

The inclusion of Projections in this proxy statement/prospectus should not be regarded as an indication that BowX, its board of directors, or their respective affiliates, advisors or other representatives considered, or now consider, such Projections necessarily to be predictive of actual future results. The Projections are not included in this proxy statement/prospectus in order to induce any BowX stockholders to vote in favor of or against the Business Combination. The Projections are not fact and should not be relied upon as being necessarily indicative of future results, and readers of this proxy statement/prospectus, including investors or holders, are cautioned not to place undue reliance on this information. You are cautioned not to place undue reliance on the Projections in making a decision regarding the transaction, as the Projections may be materially different than actual results. We will not refer back to the Projections in our future periodic reports filed under the Exchange Act.

The Projections are forward looking and reflect numerous estimates and assumptions, including, but not limited to, general business, economic, regulatory, market and financial conditions, as well as assumptions about competition, future industry performance and matters specific to WeWork's business, all of which are difficult to predict and many of which are beyond WeWork's and BowX's control.

WeWork prepared the Initial Projections as of February 18, 2021 at the asset level and leveraged both specific market factors and broader regional and economic conditions. WeWork's process for preparing the Initial Projections was fully collaborative across the organization and underwent multiple levels of review from local and regional teams, and finalized with executive leadership and the WeWork board of directors. In developing the Initial Projections numerous significant assumptions were made with respect to WeWork's business for the periods covered by the Projections.

Some of the significant assumptions on which WeWork's management based its forecasts included:

- (i) revenues and expenses based on historical operating trends;
- (ii) average revenue per member, estimated based on historic trends by region and projected using a ~2-3% annual growth rate tied to inflation;
- (iii) membership levels and occupancy rate, estimated assuming a recovery from COVID-19 beginning in the second half of 2021, with longer-term forecasts based on historical occupancy curves;
- (iv) the growth of the business, estimated based on future workstation projections;
- (v) cost savings from our restructuring efforts and lease portfolio optimization; and
- (vi) the impact of new business lines, including WeWork All Access, Marketplace, and Platform, estimated based on growth of these business lines to date, and expectations of increased desire for flexible workspaces broadly as the impacts of the COVID-19 pandemic subside.

As noted above, management's assumptions relating to revenue drivers, including membership levels, occupancy and average revenue per member, incorporated historical operating trends for the business. Estimated location operating expenses and selling, general and administrative expenses also take into account historical operating trends, and includes the beneficial impact of cost savings realized as a result of the Company's ongoing restructuring process.

The primary limitations in the foregoing assumptions included, without limitation, supply and demand-side economic uncertainty arising from the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic, the timing of continued vaccination rollouts and re-openings of economies across regions, and continued demand for flexible workplace solutions in the hybrid operating environment of a post-COVID-19 pandemic world. Management's financial forecast assumed that the Company would return to pre-COVID levels by the end of 2021. Management based this assumption on the best information available at the time when preparing the Initial Projections. The information included, but was not limited to, information and guidance from federal and local government agencies, including the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, regarding assumed requirements and guidance related to office workspaces, occupancy restrictions (and the lifting thereof), social distancing requirements for vaccinated individuals, and updates to vaccination availability in the Company's major markets. WeWork also considered current market discussions taking place amongst hospitality, leisure and travel companies and tenants regarding return-to-work strategies and hybrid work models and experience. Finally, we leveraged direct experience in certain locations around the world that had experienced multiple phases of COVID-19 conditions prior to the U.S. to better inform our expectations around business workplace recovery.

As of August 10, 2021, the duration and scope of the COVID-19 pandemic has been unpredictable and has resulted in a slower than expected timing of recovery in WeWork’s business as compared to when WeWork’s management established its Initial Projections. Management has been closely monitoring the impact of several recent COVID-19 developments, such as public announcements by some of our largest corporate customers and potential customers to defer office re-openings until no earlier than the fourth quarter of 2021. There have also been significant increases in the number of COVID-19 cases in the United States and other global markets in which we operate. Governments are re-enacting mask mandates that may deter companies and individuals from returning back to the office until conditions approve. Further, management has also observed pricing challenges in the market place due to an excess supply of commercial real estate available to our customers as a result of companies of all sizes deferring their return back to offices, as well as businesses now considering remote and hybrid office space strategies.

As a result of these recent developments, WeWork’s management has prepared projections based on the best and most recent information available as of August 10, 2021 (the “Current Projections”).

In light of the developments described above, WeWork’s management revised the following significant assumptions to prepare its Current Projections:

- (i) expectations regarding average revenue per member were reduced in earlier periods, particularly in the United States and Canada, due to a delay in the recovery of our business from the effects of the COVID-19 pandemic;
- (ii) expectations regarding membership levels for the second half 2021 were reduced due to a delay in the recovery of the Company’s business from the effects of the COVID-19 pandemic;
- (iii) workstation capacity was decreased based on continued progress from the Company’s restructuring efforts, which we expect will result in reduced expenses;
- (iv) projected revenue was increased for new business lines, estimated based on sales and market data from the first half of 2021; and
- (v) the results of our Israel locations, previously included in our Initial Projections, were removed because we closed a franchise transaction on June 1, 2021 to divest these Israel locations, which are no longer consolidated in the Company’s results of operations and are excluded from the Current Projections from June 1, 2021 and onward.

Certain key assumptions underlying the Current Projections are summarized below⁽¹⁾:

(2) Excluding ChinaCo and IndiaCo. Excluding Israel from June 1, 2021 and onward.

(3) We supplement our GAAP results by evaluating Adjusted EBITDA, a non-GAAP measure. We define “Adjusted EBITDA” as net loss before income tax (benefit) provision, interest and other (income) expense, depreciation and amortization expense, stock-based compensation expense, expense related to stock-based payments for services rendered by consultants, income or expense relating to the changes in fair value of assets and liabilities remeasured to fair value on a recurring basis, expense related to costs associated with mergers, acquisitions, divestitures and capital raising activities, legal, tax and regulatory reserves or settlements, significant legal costs incurred by the Company in connection with the Company’s regulatory investigations and litigation regarding the Company’s 2019 withdrawn initial public offering and the related execution of the SoftBank Transactions, net of any insurance or other recoveries, significant non-ordinary course asset impairment charges and, to the extent applicable, any impact of discontinued operations, restructuring charges, and other gains and losses on operating assets. A reconciliation of net loss, the most comparable GAAP measure, to Adjusted EBITDA is set forth in the section entitled “WeWork’s Management’s Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations—Non-GAAP Financial Measures” beginning on page 237 of this proxy statement/prospectus.

The Projections are forward looking statements that are inherently subject to significant uncertainties and contingencies, many of which are beyond WeWork’s control. The various risks and uncertainties include those set forth in the sections entitled “Risk Factors” beginning on page 31 of this proxy statement/prospectus and “Cautionary Statement Regarding Forward-Looking Statements” beginning on page xxxv of this proxy statement/prospectus. As a result, there can be no assurance that the projected results will be realized or that actual results will not be significantly higher or lower than projected. Since the Projections cover multiple years, such information by its nature becomes less reliable with each successive year. These Projections are subjective in many respects and thus are susceptible to multiple interpretations and periodic revisions based on actual experience and business developments.

The Company’s use of Adjusted EBITDA in the Projections reflects the fact that management does not have a reasonable basis for projecting certain recurring and non-recurring expenses that would be necessary to present GAAP-based net income/(loss) or EPS, including restructuring costs arising out of WeWork’s continued restructuring and location optimization process, impairments of long-lived and other assets, and other non-recurring fair value re-measurements based on uncertainties related to both timing and magnitude.

We encourage you to review the financial statements of WeWork included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus, as well as the financial information in the sections entitled “Selected Historical Financial and Operating Data of WeWork” and “Selected Unaudited Pro Forma Condensed Combined Financial Information” in this proxy statement/prospectus and to not rely on any single financial measure.

Furthermore, the Projections do not take into account any circumstances or events occurring after the date they were prepared. None of WeWork’s independent registered accounting firm, BowX’s independent registered accounting firm or any other independent accountants, have compiled, examined or performed any procedures with respect to the Projections included below, nor have they expressed any opinion or any other form of assurance on such information or their achievability, and they assume no responsibility for, and disclaim any association with, the Projections. Nonetheless, a summary of the Projections are provided in this proxy statement/ prospectus because they were made available to BowX and our board of directors in connection with their review of the proposed transaction.

EXCEPT TO THE EXTENT REQUIRED BY APPLICABLE FEDERAL SECURITIES LAWS, BY INCLUDING IN THIS PROXY STATEMENT/PROSPECTUS A SUMMARY OF THE PROJECTIONS FOR WEWORK, BOWX UNDERTAKES NO OBLIGATIONS AND EXPRESSLY DISCLAIMS ANY RESPONSIBILITY TO UPDATE OR REVISE, OR PUBLICLY DISCLOSE ANY UPDATE OR REVISION TO, THESE PROJECTIONS TO REFLECT CIRCUMSTANCES OR EVENTS, INCLUDING UNANTICIPATED EVENTS, THAT MAY HAVE OCCURRED OR THAT MAY OCCUR AFTER THE PREPARATION OF THESE PROJECTIONS, EVEN IN THE EVENT THAT ANY OR ALL OF THE ASSUMPTIONS UNDERLYING THE PROJECTIONS ARE SHOWN TO BE IN ERROR OR CHANGE.

Sources and Uses of Funds for the Business Combination

The following table summarizes the sources and uses for funding the Business Combination assuming no redemptions of any public stock and approximately $483.1 million of cash remaining in our trust account.

| Sources ($ in millions) | | Uses ($ in millions) | |
|---|----------------|-----------------------------------|----------------|
| Proceeds from trust account | $ 483 | Cash to New WeWork Balance Sheet | $1,873 |
| Existing Pre-Deal Cash on Balance Sheet | 665 | Estimated Total Fees and Expenses | 75 |
| Proceeds from PIPE Investment | 800 | | |
| Total sources | $1,948 | Total uses | $1,948 |

The following table summarizes the sources and uses for funding the Business Combination assuming that all 48,300,000 shares of BowX Class A Common Stock are redeemed for an aggregate payment of approximately $483.0 million (based on the estimated per share redemption price of approximately $10.00 per share based on the fair value of marketable securities held in the trust account as of June 30, 2021, of approximately $483.1 million) from the trust account:

| Sources ($ in millions) | | Uses ($ in millions) | |
|--|----------------|-----------------------------------|----------------|
| Proceeds from trust account ⁽¹⁾ | $ 0 | Cash to New WeWork Balance Sheet | $1,390 |
| Existing Pre-Deal Cash on Balance Sheet | 665 | Estimated Total Fees and Expenses | 75 |
| Proceeds from PIPE Investment | 800 | | |
| Total sources | $1,465 | Total uses | $1,465 |

(1) Assumes that all cash held in trust account will be used to fund redemption of 100% of public stock.

* Figures have been rounded for ease of presentation and may not sum due to rounding

Satisfaction of 80% Test

It is a requirement under the Nasdaq listing requirements that any business acquired by BowX have a fair market value equal to at least 80% of the balance of the funds in the trust account at the time of the execution of a definitive agreement for an initial business combination. Based on the pre-money enterprise valuation of approximately $9 billion for WeWork compared to the $463 million in the trust account, the BowX board of directors determined that this requirement was met. The board determined that the consideration being paid in the Business Combination, which amount was negotiated at arms-length, were fair to and in the best interests of BowX and its stockholders and appropriately reflected WeWork's value. In reaching this determination, the board concluded that it was appropriate to base such valuation in part on qualitative factors such as management strength and depth, competitive positioning, customer relationships, and technical skills, as well as quantitative factors such as its potential for future growth in revenue and profits. BowX’s board of directors believes that the financial skills and background of its members qualify it to conclude that the acquisition of WeWork met this requirement.

Ownership of New WeWork After the Closing

It is anticipated that, based on the assumptions set forth below, upon the consummation of the Business Combination, the ownership of New WeWork will be as follows:

| | Share Ownership in New WeWork ⁽¹⁾ | | | |
|--|--|----------------------------------|-----------------------------|----------------------------------|
| | No Additional Redemptions | | Assuming Maximum Redemption | |
| | Number of Shares | Percentage of Outstanding Shares | Number of Shares | Percentage of Outstanding Shares |
| WeWork Stockholders | 655,300,000 | 82.7% | 655,300,000 | 87.4% |
| Initial Stockholders | 9,075,000 | 1.1% | 9,075,000 | 1.2% |
| BowX’s Public Stockholders (excluding PIPE Shares) | 48,300,000 | 6.1% | 5,068,902 | 0.7% |
| PIPE Investors | 80,000,000 | 10.1% | 80,000,000 | 10.7% |

(1) The figures in this table are presented only as illustrative examples and are based on the scenarios described below, which may be different from the actual amount of redemptions in connection with the Business Combination. In the event that shares of BowX Class A Common Stock are redeemed in connection with the Business Combination but the number of shares redeemed is less than 43,231,098, the ownership percentages set forth above will fall in between the two scenarios. For example, if we assume that the number of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock redeemed in connection with the Business Combination total 21,615,549, BowX public stockholders will hold a total of 26,684,451 shares of New WeWork Common Stock at Closing, representing a 3.5% ownership interest.

The numbers of shares of “New WeWork Common Stock Assuming No Redemption” set forth above assumes that no public stockholders elect to have their public stock redeemed, and the numbers of shares of “New WeWork Common Stock Assuming Maximum Redemption” set forth above assumes that 43,231,098 shares of public stock are redeemed.

These numbers and percentages assume (i) (a) the vesting of all shares of New WeWork Common Stock received in respect of the New WeWork Restricted Stock Awards, (b) the vesting and exercise of all in-the-money New WeWork Options for shares of New WeWork Common Stock, (c) the vesting of all New WeWork Restricted Stock Units and the issuance of shares of New WeWork Common Stock in respect thereof, (d) the vesting and net exercise of all in-the-money warrants, and (e) that New WeWork issues shares of New WeWork Common Stock as the Aggregate Merger Consideration pursuant to the Merger Agreement, which in the aggregate equals 655,300,000 shares of New WeWork Common Stock (assuming that all New WeWork Options are net-settled) and (ii) that New WeWork issues 80,000,000 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock to the PIPE Investors pursuant to the PIPE Investment. Shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock underlying or exchangeable for out-of-the-money stock options and warrants are not included in these numbers and percentages (or in the calculation of the Aggregate Merger Consideration). These numbers and percentages do not include both the number of shares of New WeWork Class C Common Stock and the number of related shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock. In addition, the numbers of shares and percentage interests set forth above do not take into account certain potential future exercises of warrants or grants or issuances pursuant to the equity incentive plan established to be effective after the Closing, or any other equity issuances of New WeWork. See the section entitled “Risk Factors – Public stockholders will experience immediate dilution as a consequence of the issuance of New WeWork Common Stock as consideration in the Business Combination and the PIPE Investment and due to future issuances pursuant to the 2021 Plan, the First Warrant, the LC Warrant and the exercise of public warrants and private warrants. Having a minority stock ownership position may reduce the influence that BowX’s current stockholders have on the management of New WeWork.” See the section entitled “Description of BowX Securities – Redeemable Warrants.”

If the actual facts are different from these assumptions, the percentage ownership retained by the Company's existing stockholders in the combined company will be different. For example, if we assume that all of the 16,100,000 public warrants and 7,773,333 private placement warrants that will remain outstanding post-Business Combination were exercisable and exercised following completion of the Business Combination in accordance with their terms, then the anticipated ownership of New WeWork at the Closing would be as follows:

|--|--|----------------------------------|-----------------------------|----------------------------------|
| | No Additional Redemptions | | Assuming Maximum Redemption | |
| | Number of Shares | Percentage of Outstanding Shares | Number of Shares | Percentage of Outstanding Shares |
| WeWork Stockholders | 655,300,000 | 80.3% | 655,300,000 | 84.7% |
| Initial Stockholders | 16,848,333 | 2.1% | 16,848,333 | 2.2% |
| BowX's Public Stockholders (excluding PIPE Shares) | 64,400,000 | 7.9% | 21,168,902 | 2.7% |
| PIPE Investors | 80,000,000 | 9.8% | 80,000,000 | 10.3% |

(1) The figures in this table are presented only as illustrative examples and are based on the scenarios described below, which may be different from the actual amount of redemptions in connection with the Business Combination. In the event that shares of BowX Class A Common Stock are redeemed in connection with the Business Combination but the number of shares redeemed is less than 43,231,098, the ownership percentages set forth above will fall in between the two scenarios. For example, if we assume that the number of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock redeemed in connection with the Business Combination total 21,615,549, BowX public stockholders will hold a total of 42,784,451 shares of New WeWork Common Stock at Closing, representing a 5.4% ownership interest.

In addition to the changes in percentage ownerships depicted above, variation in the levels of redemption will impact the dilutive effect of certain equity issuances related to the Business Combination which would not otherwise be present in an underwritten public offering. Increasing levels of redemption will increase the dilutive effects of these issuances on non-redeeming stockholders. See the section entitled "Risk Factors — BowX cannot be certain as to the number of public shares that will be redeemed and the potential impact to public shareholders who do not elect to redeem their public shares" and "— You may not have the same benefits as an investor in an underwritten public offering."

| Exercising Public Warrants ⁽⁹⁾⁽¹⁰⁾ | 808,775,000 | 9.80 | 787,159,451 | 9.80 | 765,543,902 | 9.79 |
| Exercising Private Warrants ⁽⁹⁾⁽¹⁰⁾ | 800,448,333 | 9.90 | 778,832,784 | 9.90 | 757,217,235 | 9.90 |
| Exercising Warrants ⁽⁹⁾⁽¹⁰⁾ | 816,548,333 | 9.71 | 749,932,784 | 9.70 | 773,317,235 | 9.69 |

(1) The figures in this table are presented only as illustrative examples and are based on the scenarios described below, which may be different from the actual amount of redemptions in connection with the Business Combination.

(2) Assumes the redemption of 21,615,549 shares of BowX Class A Common Stock in connection with the Business Combination, or half of the 43,231,098 shares redeemed in the maximum redemption scenario.

(3) Assumes the redemption of 43,231,098 shares of BowX Class A Common Stock in connection with the Business Combination.

(4) Based on a post-transaction equity value of New WeWork of $7.927 billion.

(5) Based on a post-transaction equity value of New WeWork of $7.711 billion, or $7.927 billion less the approximately $216.2 million that would be paid from the trust account to redeem 21,615,549 shares of BowX Class A Common Stock in connection with the Business Combination.

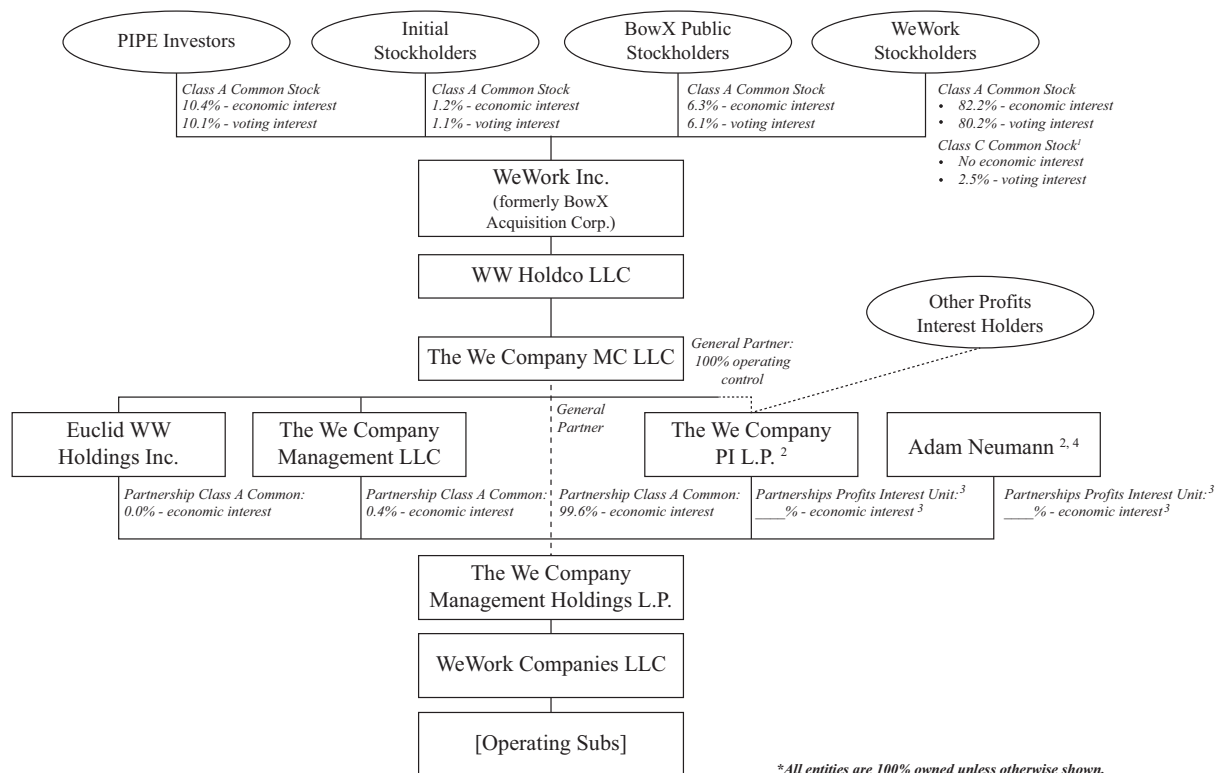

- (6) Based on a post-transaction equity value of New WeWork of $7.494 billion, or $7.927 billion less the approximately $432.3 million that would be paid from the trust account to redeem 43,231,098 shares of BowX Class A Common Stock in connection with the Business Combination.
- (7) Represents (a) the 655,300,000 shares of New WeWork Common Stock that would be issued to WeWork Stockholders (which includes shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock to be issued in respect of outstanding WeWork Common Stock, WeWork Preferred Stock, and the WeWork Series C Convertible Note, plus shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock underlying or exchangeable for unvested and/or unexercised in-the-money stock options, restricted stock units, restricted stock awards, in-the-money warrants and WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units other than WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units with a catch-up base amount equal to or greater than the Per Share Merger Consideration (with each share of New WeWork Class C Common Stock that corresponds to a WeWork Partnership Profits Interest Unit being redeemed when such Unit is exchanged for New WeWork Class A Common Stock), (b) the 80,000,000 shares of New WeWork Common Stock to be issued to the PIPE Investors, (c) the conversion of 9,075,000 shares of BowX Class B Common Stock held by the initial stockholders and (d) the public stock, less any redemptions described above. Shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock underlying or exchangeable for out-of-the-money stock options and warrants are not included in the Aggregate Merger Consideration calculation. The number of shares in the Aggregate Merger Consideration does not include both the number of shares of New WeWork Class C Common Stock and the number of related shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock.
- (8) Represents the Base Scenario excluding the 9,075,000 shares of converted BowX Class B Common Stock held by the initial stockholders
- (9) Represents the Base Scenario plus the full exercise of the public warrants and/or the private warrants
- (10) Analysis does not account for exercise prices to be paid in connection with the exercise of warrants.

The level of redemption also impacts the effective underwriting fee incurred in connection with our IPO. In a no redemption scenario, based on the approximately $483,100,000 in the trust account as of June 30, 2021, BowX's $16,905,000 in deferred underwriting fees represents an effective deferred underwriting fee of approximately 3.5%. In a 50% redemption scenario in which 21,615,549 shares of BowX Class A Common Stock are redeemed in connection with the Business Combination, the funds remaining in the trust account following such redemption would be approximately $250,039,510 and the effective underwriting fee would be approximately 6.33%. In a maximum redemption scenario, the funds remaining in the trust account following such redemption would be approximately $50,789,020 and the effective underwriting fee would be approximately 33.28%.

Post-Business Combination Ownership Structure

The diagram below depicts a simplified version of WeWork Inc.'s organizational structure immediately following the completion of the Business Combination.

These numbers and percentages assume (i) (a) the vesting of all shares of New WeWork Common Stock received in respect of the New WeWork Restricted Stock Awards, (b) the vesting and exercise of all New WeWork Options for shares of New WeWork Common Stock, (c) the vesting of all New WeWork Restricted Stock Units and the issuance of shares of New WeWork Common Stock in respect thereof, (d) the vesting and net exercise of all warrants, (e) that no shareholders exercise Redemption Rights, and (f) that New WeWork issues shares of New WeWork Common Stock as the Aggregate Merger Consideration (which includes shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock to be issued in respect of outstanding WeWork Common Stock and WeWork Preferred Stock; plus shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock underlying or exchangeable for unvested and/or unexercised stock options, restricted stock units, restricted stock awards, warrants and the WeWork Series C Convertible Note; and the New WeWork Class C Common Stock that corresponds to a WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Unit, other than WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units with a catch-up base amount greater than the Per Share Merger Consideration) pursuant to the Merger Agreement, which in the aggregate equals 655,300,000 shares of New WeWork Common Stock (assuming that all New WeWork Options are net-settled) and (ii) that New WeWork issues 80,000,000 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock to the PIPE Investors pursuant to the PIPE Investment. In addition, the numbers of shares and percentage interests set forth below do not take into account certain potential future exercises of warrants or grants or issuances pursuant to the equity incentive plan established to be effective after the Closing, or any other equity issuances of New WeWork.

- (1) Shares of New WeWork Class C Common Stock are held by the Partnerships Profits Interest Unit holders identified below in this diagram (except in the case of The We Company PI L.P., the owners of which hold the shares of New WeWork Class C Common Stock corresponding to the Partnerships Profits Interest Units held by The We Company PI L.P.).

- (2) This person or entity (or, in the case of The We Company PI L.P., its owners) holds New WeWork Class C Common Stock identified above in this diagram.
- (3) Following the Business Combination, Partnerships Profits Interest Units can, at the election of the holder of the Partnership Profits Interest Units, be (a) converted into WeWork Partnerships Class A Common Units or (b) exchanged (along with the corresponding shares of New WeWork Class C Common Stock) for (at New WeWork's election) shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock or cash of an equivalent value. The economic interest represented by the Partnerships Profits Interest Units varies based on the value of the WeWork Partnership. The units held by The We Company PI LP may represent an interest as high as 0.005%, but have no economic interest unless the value of a share of New WeWork Class A Common Stock is greater than approximately $60. The units held by Adam Neumann may represent an economic interest as high as 2.5%. For additional information, see the section entitled "Certain Relationships and Related Person Transactions – WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units."
- (4) Adam Neumann beneficially owns 544,030 shares of New We Work Common Stock held, in the aggregate, by ANINCENCO1 LLC, ANINCENCO2 LLC and ANINCENCO3 LLC, and beneficially owns 57,790,545 shares of New WeWork Common Stock held by WE Holdings LLC. Following the Business Combination, Adam Neumann will also hold 19,884,233 Partnerships Profits Interest Units and an equal number of shares of New WeWork Class C Common Stock.

Interests of BowX's Directors and Executive Officers in the Business Combination

When you consider the recommendation of BowX's board of directors in favor of approval of the BCA Proposal, you should keep in mind that the initial stockholders, including the Sponsor, and BowX's directors and executive officers have interests in such proposal that are different from, or in addition to, those of BowX stockholders and warrant holders generally. These interests include, among other things, the interests listed below:

- the beneficial ownership of our initial stockholders of an aggregate of 12,075,000 shares of BowX Class B Common Stock and 7,773,000 private placement warrants, which shares and warrants would become worthless if BowX does not complete a business combination within the applicable time period, as our initial stockholders have waived any redemption right with respect to these shares. Our initial stockholders paid an aggregate of $25,000 for the BowX Class B Common Stock, and $11,660,000 for the private placement warrants, and such shares and warrants have an aggregate market value of approximately $120 million and $12.83 million, respectively, based on the closing price of BowX Class A Common Stock of $9.94 and the closing price of public warrants of $1.65 on Nasdaq on September 14, 2021, the record date for the special meeting of stockholders. Each of our officers and directors is a member of the Sponsor. Vivek Ranadivé and Murray Rode are the managing members of the Sponsor, and as such Messrs. Ranadivé and Rode have voting and investment discretion with respect to the BowX Common Stock and warrants held of record by the Sponsor;
- the anticipated continuation of Mr. Ranadivé as a director of New WeWork;
- the fact that our Sponsor, officers and directors have agreed not to redeem any of their shares in connection with a stockholder vote to approve the Business Combination;
- the fact that our initial stockholders, including our Sponsor, and our directors and officers, paid an aggregate of approximately $11,660,000 for their 7,773,333 private placement warrants to purchase shares of BowX Class A Common Stock and that such private placement warrants will expire worthless if a business combination is not consummated by August 7, 2022;
- the fact that our initial stockholders, including our Sponsor and its affiliates, who purchased Class B Common Stock and private placement warrants at the time of our IPO may experience a positive rate of return on their investment, even if our public shareholders experience a negative rate of return on their investment;
- that, at the Closing, we will enter into the Registration Rights Agreement, which provides for registration rights to the initial stockholders, including the Sponsor, and BowX's directors and officers and their permitted transferees;
- the continued indemnification of current directors and officers of BowX and the continuation of directors' and officers' liability insurance after the Business Combination;

- the fact that our Sponsor, officers and directors will be reimbursed for out-of-pocket expenses incurred in connection with activities on our behalf, such as identifying potential target businesses and performing due diligence on suitable business combinations, though there have been no material out-of-pocket expenses subject to reimbursement and BowX does not anticipate any such expenses prior to Closing; and
- the fact that our Sponsor, officers and directors will lose their entire investment in us if our initial business combination is not completed.

These interests may influence BowX's directors in making their recommendation that you vote in favor of the BCA Proposal and the transactions contemplated thereby. These interests were considered by the BowX board of directors when it approved the Business Combination.

The existence of financial and personal interests of one or more of BowX's directors may result in a conflict of interest on the part of such director(s) between what he, she or they may believe is in the best interests of BowX and its stockholders and what he, she or they may believe is best for himself, herself or themselves in determining to recommend that stockholders vote for the proposals. In addition, BowX's officers have interests in the Business Combination that may conflict with your interests as a stockholder.

Our initial stockholders, including the Sponsor, and our directors and officers have agreed to vote any shares of BowX Common Stock owned by them in favor of the Business Combination, including their shares of BowX Class B Common Stock and any public stock purchased after our initial public offering (including in open market and privately negotiated transactions). As of the record date, our initial stockholders, including our Sponsor, and our directors and officers beneficially own an aggregate of approximately 18.6% of the outstanding shares of BowX Common Stock.

At any time at or prior to the Business Combination, subject to applicable securities laws (including with respect to material non-public information), the Sponsor, the existing stockholders of BowX or our or their respective directors, officers, advisors or respective affiliates may (i) purchase shares of public stock from institutional and other investors who vote, or indicate an intention to vote, against any of the Condition Precedent Proposals, or elect to redeem, or indicate an intention to redeem, shares of public stock, (ii) execute agreements to purchase such shares from such investors in the future, or (iii) enter into transactions with such investors and others to provide them with incentives to acquire shares of public stock, vote their shares of public stock in favor of the Condition Precedent Proposals or not redeem their shares of public stock. Such a purchase may include a contractual acknowledgement that such stockholder, although still the record holder of BowX's shares, is no longer the beneficial owner thereof and therefore agrees not to exercise its redemption rights. In the event that the Sponsor, the existing stockholders of BowX or our or their respective directors, officers, advisors, or respective affiliates purchase shares in privately negotiated transactions from public stockholders who have already elected to exercise their redemption rights, such selling stockholders would be required to revoke their prior elections to redeem their shares. The purpose of such share purchases and other transactions would be to increase the likelihood of (1) satisfaction of the votes required to approve the BCA Proposal, the Organizational Documents Proposals, the Director Election Proposal, the Stock Issuance Proposal, the Equity Incentive Plan Proposal, the ESPP Proposal and the Adjournment Proposal, (2) satisfaction of the Minimum Available Cash Condition, (3) otherwise limiting the number of shares of public stock electing to redeem and (4) BowX's net tangible assets (as determined in accordance with Rule 3a51-1(g)(1) of the Exchange Act) being at least $5,000,001. Entering into any such arrangements may have a depressive effect on the BowX Common Stock (e.g., by giving an investor or holder the ability to effectively purchase shares at a price lower than market, such investor or holder may therefore become more likely to sell the shares he or she owns, either at or prior to the Business Combination).

If such transactions are effected, the consequence could be to cause the Business Combination to be consummated in circumstances where such consummation could not otherwise occur. Purchases of shares by the persons described above would allow them to exert more influence over the approval of the proposals to be presented at the special meeting and would likely increase the chances that such proposals would be approved. We will file or submit a Current Report on Form 8-K to disclose any material arrangements entered into or significant purchases made by any of the aforementioned persons that would affect the vote on the proposals to be put to the special meeting or the redemption threshold. Any such report will include descriptions of any arrangements entered into or significant purchases by any of the aforementioned persons.

The existence of financial and personal interests of one or more of BowX's directors may result in a conflict of interest on the part of such director(s) between what he, she or they may believe is in the best interests of BowX and its stockholders and what he, she or they may believe is best for himself, herself or themselves in determining to recommend that stockholders vote for the proposals. In addition, BowX's officers have interests in the Business Combination that may conflict with your interests as a stockholder.

Interests of WeWork's Executive Officers in the Business Combination

Certain of the officers of WeWork also have interests in the Business Combination, including eligibility for and entitlement to certain transaction bonuses and the commencement of vesting of certain equity awards.

For a more complete description of the interests of WeWork's executive officers in the Business Combination, see the section entitled "Summary of the Proxy Statement/Prospectus—Interests of WeWork's Executive Officers in the Business Combination".

Expected Accounting Treatment of the Business Combination

We expect the Business Combination to be accounted for as a reverse recapitalization in accordance with the accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America ("GAAP"). Under the guidance in ASC 805, BowX is expected to be treated as the "acquired" company for financial reporting purposes. This determination was primarily based on existing WeWork Stockholders comprising a relative majority of the voting power of the combined company, WeWork's operations prior to the acquisition comprising the only ongoing operations of New WeWork, the majority of New WeWork's board of directors being appointed by WeWork, and WeWork's senior management comprising a majority of the senior management of New WeWork. Accordingly, the Business Combination is expected to be reflected as the equivalent of WeWork issuing stock for the net assets of BowX, accompanied by a recapitalization whereby no goodwill or other intangible assets are recorded. Operations prior to the Business Combination will be those of WeWork.

Regulatory Matters

Under the HSR Act and the rules that have been promulgated thereunder by the Federal Trade Commission ("FTC"), certain transactions may not be consummated unless information has been furnished to the Antitrust Division of the Department of Justice ("Antitrust Division") and the FTC and certain waiting period requirements have been satisfied. The Business Combination is subject to these requirements and may not be completed until the expiration of a 30-day waiting period following the two filings of the required Notification and Report Forms with the Antitrust Division and the FTC or until early termination is granted. On April 8, 2021, WeWork and BowX filed the required forms under the HSR Act with respect to the Business Combination with the Antitrust Division and the FTC and requested early termination. The waiting period expired at 11:59 p.m. (ET), on May 10, 2021.

At any time before or after consummation of the Business Combination, notwithstanding termination of the respective waiting periods under the HSR Act, the Department of Justice or the FTC, or any state or foreign governmental authority could take such action under applicable antitrust laws as such authority deems necessary or desirable in the public interest, including seeking to enjoin the consummation of the Business Combination, conditionally approving the Business Combination upon divestiture of assets, subjecting the completion of the Business Combination to regulatory conditions or seeking other remedies. Private parties may also seek to take legal action under the antitrust laws under certain circumstances. BowX cannot assure you that the Antitrust Division, the FTC, any state attorney general or any other government authority will not attempt to challenge the Business Combination on antitrust grounds, and, if such a challenge is made, BowX cannot assure you as to its result.

A merger control filing may be required in Mexico by COFECE. WeWork submitted a filing to COFECE, jointly with BowX, on April 29, 2021. The filing would be withdrawn if COFECE takes the position that it is not required.

Neither of BowX nor WeWork are aware of any material regulatory approvals or actions that are required for completion of the Business Combination other than the expiration or early termination of the waiting period under the HSR Act and the filing to COFECE. It is presently contemplated that if any such additional regulatory approvals or actions are required, those approvals or actions will be sought. There can be no assurance, however, that any additional approvals or actions will be obtained.

Vote Required for Approval

The approval of the BCA Proposal requires the affirmative vote of a majority of the shares of BowX Common Stock attending virtually or by proxy and entitled to vote thereon. Accordingly, a BowX stockholder's failure to vote virtually or by proxy at the special meeting of stockholders or a broker non-vote will have no effect on the outcome of any vote on this proposal. An abstention from voting will have the same effect as a vote against the BCA Proposal.

The BCA Proposal is cross-conditioned on the approval of the Organizational Documents Proposals, the Director Election Proposal, the Stock Issuance Proposal, the Equity Incentive Plan Proposal and the ESPP Proposal.

Recommendation of BowX's Board of Directors

THE BOWX BOARD OF DIRECTORS UNANIMOUSLY RECOMMENDS THAT THE BOWX STOCKHOLDERS VOTE "FOR" THE APPROVAL OF THE BCA PROPOSAL.

The existence of financial and personal interests of one or more of BowX's directors may result in a conflict of interest on the part of such director(s) between what he, she or they may believe is in the best interests of BowX and its stockholders and what he, she or they may believe is best for himself, herself or themselves in determining to recommend that stockholders vote for the proposals. In addition, BowX's officers have interests in the Business Combination that may conflict with your interests as a stockholder. See the section entitled "BCA Proposal — Interests of BowX's Directors and Executive Officers in the Business Combination" for a further discussion of these considerations.

ORGANIZATIONAL DOCUMENTS PROPOSALS

Overview

If the Business Combination is to be consummated, BowX will replace its current Amended and Restated Certificate of Incorporation (the “Existing Charter”) with the proposed Second Amended and Restated Certificate of Incorporation (the “Proposed Charter”) in the form attached to this proxy statement/prospectus as Annex B, which, in the judgment of the BowX board of directors, is necessary to adequately address the needs of New WeWork following the Closing.

The following table sets forth a summary of the principal proposed changes and the differences between the Existing Charter and the Proposed Charter. Reasons for the Amendments to BowX’s Existing Charter

In the judgment of the BowX board of directors, the Proposed Charter is necessary to address the needs of New WeWork following the Closing. In particular:

- The greater number of authorized shares (Proposal No. 2) of capital stock is desirable for New WeWork to have sufficient shares to complete the Business Combination. Absent the approval of this proposal (Proposal No. 2), there will not be a sufficient number of authorized shares of capital stock of BowX to issue the shares required to be issued in the Merger. Additionally, the BowX board of directors believes that it is important for New WeWork to have available for issuance a number of authorized shares sufficient to support its growth and to provide flexibility for future corporate needs (including, if needed, as part of financing for future growth acquisitions). The shares would be issuable for any proper corporate purpose, including future acquisitions, capital raising transactions consisting of equity or convertible debt, stock dividends or issuances under current and any future stock incentive plans, pursuant to which we may provide equity incentives to employees, officers and directors, as well as any shares issuable upon the exchange of Partnership Profits Interest Units and in satisfaction of the obligations under the WeWork Warrants, the First Warrant and the LC Warrant. The BowX board of directors believes that these additional shares will provide us with needed flexibility to issue shares in the future in a timely manner and under circumstances we consider favorable without incurring the risk, delay and potential expense incident to obtaining stockholder approval for a particular issuance. BowX does not currently have any plans, proposals or arrangements, other than in connection with the Business Combination and the BowX Proposals contemplated herein, to issue any of the additional authorized shares of capital stock; however, New WeWork may decide to issue shares at any time, including shortly thereafter the consummation of the Business Combination, for any proper corporate purpose.

- The authorization of New WeWork Class C Common Stock (Proposal No. 2) is desirable in order to effectuate the Business Combination because the shares of this non-economic voting class issued in exchange for the WeWork Class C Common Stock will be associated with outstanding WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units as required by the Partnership Agreement.
- The voting restrictions with respect to SoftBank Holders were added to restrict the SoftBank Holders, for a period of at least two years, from exercising voting rights over more than 49.9% of the voting securities present (in person or by proxy) and voting in any stockholder vote.
- The additional changes to the Existing Charter (Proposal No. 5), including the name change from “BowX Acquisition Corp.” to “WeWork Inc.,” are necessary to adequately address the needs of New WeWork following the Closing. The elimination of certain provisions related to BowX’s status as a blank check company is desirable because these provisions will serve no purpose following the Business Combination. For example, these proposed amendments remove the requirement to dissolve BowX and allow it to continue as a corporate entity with perpetual existence following consummation of the Business Combination. Perpetual existence is the usual period of existence for corporations and the BowX board of directors believes it is the most appropriate period following the Business Combination. In addition, certain other provisions in the Existing Charter require that proceeds from BowX’s initial public offering be held in the trust account until a business combination or liquidation of BowX has occurred. These provisions cease to apply once the Business Combination is consummated. The revision to provide that, to the fullest extent permitted by law, the federal district courts of the United States of America shall be the sole and exclusive forum for the resolution of any complaint asserting a cause of action arising under the Securities Act is desirable to assist New WeWork in avoiding multiple lawsuits in multiple jurisdictions regarding the same matter. The ability to require such claims to be brought in a federal district court will help to assure consistent consideration of the issues, the application of a relatively known body of case law and level of expertise and should promote efficiency and cost-savings in the resolutions of such claims.

Vote Required for Approval

The approval of the Organizational Documents Proposals (other than Organizational Documents Proposals A and D) requires the affirmative vote (attending virtually or by proxy) of the holders of a majority of all outstanding shares of BowX Common Stock. The approval of Organizational Documents Proposals A and D will require the affirmative vote of the holders of a majority of the outstanding shares of BowX Class A Common Stock on the record date and the affirmative vote of the holders of a majority of the outstanding shares of Class B Common Stock on the record date. Any broker non-votes, while considered present for the purposes of establishing a quorum, will not count as votes cast at the special meeting, and will have the same effect as a vote against the Organizational Documents Proposal. An abstention will have the same effect as a vote against the Organizational Documents Proposal.

The Organizational Documents Proposals are cross-conditioned on the approval of the BCA Proposal, the Director Election Proposal, the Stock Issuance Proposal, the Equity Incentive Plan Proposal and the ESPP Proposal.

Recommendation of BowX’s Board of Directors

BOWX’S BOARD OF DIRECTORS UNANIMOUSLY RECOMMENDS THAT STOCKHOLDERS VOTE “FOR” THE APPROVAL OF THE ORGANIZATIONAL DOCUMENTS PROPOSALS.

The existence of financial and personal interests of one or more of BowX’s directors may result in a conflict of interest on the part of such director(s) between what he, she or they may believe is in the best interests of BowX and its stockholders and what he, she or they may believe is best for himself, herself or themselves in determining to recommend that stockholders vote for the proposals. In addition, BowX’s officers have interests in the Business Combination that may conflict with your interests as a stockholder. See the section entitled “BCA Proposal — Interests of BowX’s Directors and Executive Officers in the Business Combination” for a further discussion of these considerations.

DIRECTOR ELECTION PROPOSAL

Overview

The Director Election Proposal — to consider and vote upon a proposal, assuming the BCA Proposal and each of the Organizational Documents Proposals are approved, to elect nine directors who, upon consummation of the Business Combination, will be the directors of New WeWork (“Director Election Proposal”).

Assuming the BCA Proposal and each of the Organizational Documents Proposals are approved, BowX’s stockholders are also being asked to approve and adopt the Director Election Proposal.

Nominees

As contemplated by the Merger Agreement, the Board of New WeWork following consummation of the transaction will consist of up to nine directors:

- (i) three (3) director nominees (the “SBG Representatives”) designated by SBWW, which SBG Representatives will initially be Michel Combes, Marcelo Claure and Véronique Laury, and will thereafter be designated, nominated and elected as contemplated by the Proposed Organizational Documents;
- (ii) one (1) director nominee (the “SVF Representative”) designated by SVFE, which SVF Representative will initially be Kirthiga Reddy and will thereafter be designated, nominated and elected as contemplated by the Proposed Organizational Documents;
- (iii) one (1) director nominee (the “PIPE Representative”) designated by Insight Partners, which PIPE Representative will initially be Deven Parekh and will thereafter be designated, nominated and elected as contemplated by the Proposed Organizational Documents;
- (iv) one (1) director nominee (the “BowX Representative”) to be designated by the Sponsor, which BowX Representative will initially be Vivek Ranadivé and will thereafter be designated, nominated and elected as contemplated by the Proposed Organizational Documents;
- (v) one (1) director nominee (the “Benchmark Capital Representative”) designated by Benchmark Capital Partners, which Benchmark Capital Representative will initially be Bruce Dunlevie and will thereafter be designated, nominated and elected as contemplated by the Proposed Organizational Documents;
- (vi) the Chief Executive Officer of New WeWork (the “CEO Director”), who is currently Sandeep Mathrani; and
- (vii) one (1) director nominee to mutually agreed by BowX and WeWork (the “Mutually Agreed Director”), which Mutually Agreed Director will initially be Jeff Sine and will thereafter be designated, nominated and elected as contemplated by the Proposed Organizational Documents.

Accordingly, our board of directors has nominated each of Michel Combes, Marcelo Claire, Véronique Laury, Kirthiga Reddy, Deven Parekh, Vivek Ranadivé, Bruce Dunlevie, Sandeep Mathrani and Jeff Sine to serve as our directors upon the consummation of the Business Combination, in each case, in accordance with the terms and subject to the conditions of the Proposed Organizational Documents. For more information on the experience of each of these director nominees, please see the section entitled “Management of New WeWork Following the Business Combination” of this proxy statement/prospectus.

Vote Required for Approval

The approval of the Director Election Proposal requires the affirmative vote (attending virtually or by proxy) of the holders of a plurality of the votes cast at the special meeting. This means that the nine nominees will be elected if they receive more affirmative votes than any other nominee for the same position. Votes marked “FOR” a nominee will be counted in favor of that nominee. Proxies will have full discretion to cast votes for other persons in the event any nominee is unable to serve. Abstentions or failure to vote by proxy or to vote virtually at the special meeting and broker non-votes will have no effect on the vote since a plurality of the votes cast is required for the election of each nominee. Because the Director Election Proposal an uncontested election with no cumulative voting, every director nominee will be assured election upon receiving just one “for” vote.

The Director Election Proposal is conditioned on the approval of each of the Condition Precedent Proposals. Therefore, if each of the Condition Precedent Approvals is not approved, the Director Election Proposal will have no effect, even if approved at the special meeting.

Recommendation of the BowX Board of Directors

THE BOWX BOARD OF DIRECTORS UNANIMOUSLY RECOMMENDS THAT BOWX STOCKHOLDERS VOTE “FOR” THE APPROVAL OF THE DIRECTOR ELECTION PROPOSAL.

The existence of financial and personal interests of one or more of BowX’s directors may result in a conflict of interest on the part of such director(s) between what he, she or they may believe is in the best interests of BowX and its stockholders and what he, she or they may believe is best for himself, herself or themselves in determining to recommend that stockholders vote for the proposals. In addition, BowX’s officers have interests in the Business Combination that may conflict with your interests as a stockholder. See the section entitled “BCA Proposal — Interests of BowX’s Directors and Executive Officers in the Business Combination” for a further discussion of these considerations.

STOCK ISSUANCE PROPOSAL

Overview

The Stock Issuance Proposal — to consider and vote upon a proposal to approve and adopt, assuming the BCA Proposal, each of the Organizational Documents Proposals, the Director Election Proposal, the Equity Incentive Plan Proposal and the ESPP Proposal are approved, for the purposes of complying with the applicable provisions of Rule 5635 of The Nasdaq Stock Market Listing Rules, the issuance, or reservation for future issuance, of shares of New WeWork Common Stock to (a) the PIPE Investors pursuant to the PIPE Investment and (b) WeWork Stockholders pursuant to the Merger Agreement (the “Stock Issuance Proposal”).

Assuming the BCA Proposal, each of the Organizational Documents Proposals, the Director Election Proposal, the Equity Incentive Plan Proposal and the ESPP Proposal are approved, BowX’s stockholders are also being asked to approve and adopt the Stock Issuance Proposal.

Reasons for the Approval for Purposes of Nasdaq Listing Rule 5635

Under Nasdaq Listing Rule 5635(a)(1), stockholder approval is required prior to the present or potential issuance of common stock or of securities convertible into or exercisable for common stock, in connection with the acquisition of the stock of another company if the common stock is not issued in a public offering for cash and (1) the common stock has, or will have upon issuance, voting power equal to or in excess of 20% of the voting power outstanding before the issuance of the common stock, including securities convertible into or exercisable for common stock, or (2) the number of shares of common stock to be issued is or will be equal to or in excess of 20% of the number of shares of common stock outstanding before the issuance of the stock or securities. Additionally, under Nasdaq Listing Rule 5635(b), stockholder approval is required prior to the issuance of securities when the issuance or potential issuance will result in a change of control of the registrant. Although Nasdaq has not adopted any rule on what constitutes a “change of control” for purposes of Rule 5635(b), Nasdaq has previously indicated that the acquisition of, or right to acquire, by a single investor or affiliated investor group, as little as 20% of the common stock (or securities convertible into or exercisable for common stock) or voting power of an issuer could constitute a change of control. Under Nasdaq Listing Rule 5635(c), stockholder approval is required prior to the issuance of securities when a plan or other equity compensation arrangement is established or materially amended.

Under Nasdaq Listing Rule 5635(d), stockholder approval is required for a transaction other than a public offering, involving the sale, issuance or potential issuance by an issuer of common stock (or securities convertible into or exercisable for common stock) at a price that is less than the lesser of the official Nasdaq closing price immediately before signing of the binding agreement and the average official Nasdaq closing price for the five trading days immediately preceding the signing of the binding agreement of the stock if the number of shares of common stock to be issued is or may be equal to 20% or more of the common stock, or 20% or more of the voting power, outstanding before the issuance. If the Business Combination is completed pursuant to the Merger Agreement, BowX currently expects to issue an estimated 655,300,000 shares of New WeWork Common Stock (assuming that none of BowX’s outstanding shares of public stock are redeemed) in connection with the Merger and 80,000,000 shares of BowX Class A Common Stock in connection with the PIPE Investment. The total shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock to be issued at the closing include shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock to be issued in respect of outstanding WeWork Common Stock and WeWork Preferred Stock plus shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock underlying or exchangeable for unvested and/or unexercised in-the-money stock options, restricted stock units, restricted stock awards, WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units other than WeWork Partnerships Profits Units with a catch-up base amount greater than the Per Share Merger Consideration (including corresponding shares of New WeWork Class C Common Stock), the WeWork Series C Convertible Note and in-the-money warrants, respectively, at the Closing. Shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock underlying or exchangeable for out-of-the-money stock options and warrants are not included in the Aggregate Merger Consideration calculation. The number of shares in the Aggregate Merger Consideration does not include both the number of shares of New WeWork Class C Common Stock and the number of related shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock. As of September 14, 2021, the exchange ratio is expected to be approximately 0.8257 and there are expected to be issued approximately 558,479,201 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock and 19,926,267 shares of New WeWork Class C Common Stock to WeWork stockholders as of the Closing (using the rounded exchange ratio of 0.8257 and not including shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock underlying or exchangeable for unvested and/or unexercised stock options, restricted stock units, restricted stock awards, warrants and WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units). For further details, see the section entitled “BCA Proposal — The Merger Agreement — Consideration and Conversion of Certain WeWork Securities — Aggregate Merger Consideration.”

Additionally, pursuant to Nasdaq Listing Rule 5635(a)(2), when a Nasdaq-listed company proposes to issue securities in connection with the acquisition of the stock or assets of another company, stockholder approval is required if any director, officer or substantial stockholder of the Nasdaq-listed company has a 5% or greater interest, directly or indirectly, in such company or the assets to be acquired or in the consideration to be paid in the transaction or series of related transactions and the present or potential issuance of common stock (or securities convertible into or exercisable for common stock) could result in an increase in outstanding shares of common stock or voting power of 5% or more. Nasdaq Listing Rule 5635(e)(3) defines a substantial stockholder as the holder of an interest of 5% or more of either the number of shares of common stock or the voting power outstanding of a Nasdaq-listed company. Because the Sponsor, Vivek Ranadivé and Murray Rode each can be deemed to beneficially own greater than 5% of BowX Common Stock, each of the Sponsor, Mr. Ranadivé and Mr. Rode are considered a substantial stockholder of BowX under Nasdaq Listing Rule 5635(e)(3). For this reason, BowX is seeking the approval of BowX stockholders for the issuance of shares of New WeWork Common Stock in connection with the Business Combination and the PIPE Investment.

In the event that this proposal is not approved by BowX stockholders, the Business Combination cannot be consummated. In the event that this proposal is approved by BowX stockholders, but the Merger Agreement is terminated (without the Business Combination being consummated) prior to the issuance of shares of New WeWork Common Stock pursuant to the Merger Agreement or the PIPE Investment, such shares of New WeWork Common Stock will not be issued.

Vote Required for Approval

The approval of the Stock Issuance Proposal requires the affirmative vote (attending virtually or by proxy) of the holders of a majority of all outstanding shares of BowX Common Stock entitled to vote and who vote thereon at the special meeting. Accordingly, a BowX stockholder’s failure to vote virtually or by proxy at the special meeting of stockholders, an abstention from voting or a broker non-vote will have no effect on the outcome of any vote on this proposal.

The Stock Issuance Proposal is cross-conditioned on the approval of the BCA Proposal, the Organizational Documents Proposals, the Director Election Proposal, the Equity Incentive Plan Proposal and the ESPP Proposal.

Recommendation of the BowX Board of Directors

THE BOWX BOARD OF DIRECTORS UNANIMOUSLY RECOMMENDS THAT BOWX STOCKHOLDERS VOTE “FOR” THE APPROVAL OF THE STOCK ISSUANCE PROPOSAL.

The existence of financial and personal interests of one or more of BowX’s directors may result in a conflict of interest on the part of such director(s) between what he, she or they may believe is in the best interests of BowX and its stockholders and what he, she or they may believe is best for himself, herself or themselves in determining to recommend that stockholders vote for the proposals. In addition, BowX’s officers have interests in the Business Combination that may conflict with your interests as a stockholder. See the section entitled “BCA Proposal — Interests of BowX’s Directors and Executive Officers in the Business Combination” for a further discussion of these considerations.

EQUITY INCENTIVE PLAN PROPOSAL

Overview

On September 19, 2021, the BowX board of directors approved and adopted the WeWork 2021 Equity Incentive Plan (or “2021 Plan”), effective as of and contingent on the consummation of the Business Combination, and subject to approval of BowX stockholders. If the 2021 Plan is approved by BowX stockholders and the Business Combination is consummated, New WeWork will be authorized to grant equity and cash incentive awards to eligible service providers pursuant to the Plan. BowX is asking its stockholders to approve the 2021 Plan, the material terms of which are described below.

A copy of the 2021 Plan is attached to this proxy statement/prospectus as Annex D and the description below is qualified in its entirety by reference to that attached plan document.

The 2021 Plan

The purpose of the 2021 Plan is to provide an additional incentive to persons whose contributions are essential to the success of the business and to attract and retain competent and dedicated persons whose efforts will result in long-term profitability. BowX believes that equity-based awards to be issued under the 2021 Plan will motivate officers, employees, non-employee directors, and consultants to faithfully and diligently perform their responsibilities and will strengthen their commitment to New WeWork. BowX believes that grants of incentive equity and equity-based awards are essential to attracting and retaining highly qualified service providers.

Summary of the 2021 Plan

This section summarizes certain principal features of the 2021 Plan.

Eligibility and Administration

Officers, employees, consultants and non-employee directors of New WeWork and its affiliates are eligible to receive awards under the 2021 Plan. It is anticipated that there will be approximately 4,300 employees and 8 non-employee directors eligible to receive awards under the 2021 Plan immediately following the consummation of the Business Combination.

New WeWork’s board of directors will administer the 2021 Plan unless they appoint a committee of directors to administer certain aspects of the 2021 Plan. The board of directors or committee administering the 2021 Plan is referred to herein as the “plan administrator.” Subject to applicable laws and regulations, the plan administrator is authorized to delegate its administrative authority under the 2021 Plan to an officer of New WeWork or other individual or group.

The plan administrator will have the authority to exercise all powers either specifically granted under the 2021 Plan or necessary and advisable in the administration of the 2021 Plan; to interpret the 2021 Plan and award agreements; and to adopt, alter and repeal rules for the administration of the 2021 Plan as it deems advisable. Subject to the conditions and limitations in the 2021 Plan, the plan administrator will also have the authority to determine which eligible service providers receive awards, to grant awards, and to set the terms and conditions of all awards under the 2021 Plan, including any vesting (time and/or performance vesting) and vesting acceleration provisions. Because awards under the 2021 Plan are to be made in the discretion of the plan administrator, the benefits to be received by officers, directors or any other individuals following the adoption of the 2021 Plan are not currently determinable.

Shares Available for Awards

BowX will initially reserve a pool of shares of New WeWork Common Stock for issuance under the 2021 Plan equal to 5% of the Aggregate Fully Diluted Company Capital Stock (as such term is defined in the Merger Agreement) as of the Closing, estimated to equal approximately 39,683,141 shares initially available for issuance under the 2021 Plan. In addition, such aggregate number of shares may, subject to the approval of the New WeWork board of directors, increase on January 1 of each year beginning January 1, 2022, but not after the 10 year anniversary of the effective date of the 2021 Plan, in an amount equal to the lesser of (i) a number equal to the excess (if any) of (A) 5% of the Aggregate Fully Diluted Company Capital Stock as of the Closing over (B) the number of shares of New WeWork Common Stock then reserved for issuance under the 2021 Plan as of such January 1, and (ii) such smaller number of shares of New WeWork Common Stock as is determined by the New WeWork board of directors; provided however, that the total number of shares of New WeWork Common Stock reserved for issuance (inclusive of any shares allocated to outstanding awards) may not exceed 8% of the Aggregate Fully Diluted Company Capital Stock as of the Closing. The maximum aggregate number of shares of New WeWork Common Stock which may be issued pursuant to the exercise of incentive stock options (“ISOs”) granted under the 2021 Plan will equal the number of shares initially reserved in the pool for issuance under the 2021 Plan as of the 2021 Plan’s effective date (estimated to be approximately 39,683,141 shares).

Shares issued under the 2021 Plan will include authorized but unissued or reacquired shares of New WeWork Common Stock. If an award under the 2021 Plan is paid or settled in cash, is exchanged or withheld as full or partial payment in connection with any option or stock appreciation right (“SAR”), or is exchanged or withheld to satisfy the tax withholding obligations related to an award under the 2021 Plan, then any shares subject to such award may, to the extent of such cash settlement, exchange or withholding, be used again for new grants under the 2021 Plan. If an award under the 2021 Plan or the WeWork Incentive Plans is forfeited, exchanged, surrendered, cancelled or expires, then any forfeited, exchanged, surrendered, cancelled or expired shares subject to such award may be used for new grants under the 2021 Plan, but only to the extent that making such shares available for new grants would not cause the total number of shares of New WeWork Common Stock reserved for issuance under the 2021 Plan (inclusive of any shares allocated to outstanding awards) to exceed 8% of the Aggregate Fully Diluted Company Capital Stock as of the Closing. However, upon the exercise of any award granted in tandem with any other awards, the number of shares subject to the related award as to which the award is exercised may not be used again for grants under the 2021 Plan. Shares that again become available for issuance after a forfeiture, expiration, net settlement, or other similar reason described above, will not increase the aggregate limit on the number of shares which may be issued pursuant to ISOs (described above).

Awards that are assumed, converted, or substituted under the 2021 Plan as a result of our acquisition of another company (including by way of merger, combination or similar transactions) will not reduce the shares available for grant under the 2021 Plan.

The maximum amount of compensation awarded to a non-employee member of the New WeWork board of directors pursuant to an award under the 2021 Plan or otherwise (including the amount of cash plus the fair market value of equity awards as of the grant date) for service as a non-employee director for a calendar year may not exceed $1,000,000. This limitation is not subject to proration for a non-employee director’s initial full or partial year of service on our board.

Awards

The 2021 Plan provides for the grant of stock options (including ISOs and nonqualified stock options (“NSOs”)), SARs, restricted stock, restricted stock units (“RSUs”), other stock-based awards, stock bonuses, and cash awards. Certain awards under the 2021 Plan may constitute or provide for payment of “nonqualified deferred compensation” under Section 409A of the Code, which may impose additional requirements on the terms and conditions of such awards. All awards under the 2021 Plan will be granted pursuant to an award agreement containing terms and conditions applicable to the award, including any applicable vesting and payment terms and post-termination exercise limitations. Awards other than ISOs can be granted to employees, consultants, and directors, but ISOs can be granted only to employees. A brief description of each award type follows.

- Stock Options and SARs. Stock options provide for the purchase of shares of New WeWork Common Stock in the future at an exercise price set on the grant date. ISOs, in contrast to NSOs, may provide tax deferral beyond exercise and favorable capital gains tax treatment to their holders if certain holding period and other requirements of the Code are satisfied. SARs entitle their holder, upon exercise, to receive from us an amount (which may be payable in cash or shares) equal to the appreciation of the shares subject to the award between the grant date and the exercise date. The exercise price of a stock option or SAR may not be less than 100% of the fair market value of New WeWork Common Stock on the grant date (or 110% in the case of ISOs granted to certain significant stockholders), except with respect to certain adjusted or substitute awards granted or adjusted in connection with a corporate transaction or subject to the 2021 Plan's anti-dilution provisions discussed below under "Certain Transactions." The term of a stock option or SAR may not be longer than ten years (or five years in the case of ISOs granted to certain significant stockholders). Options which do not meet the requirements for ISO treatment will be NSOs.

- Restricted Stock. Restricted stock is an award of forfeitable shares of New WeWork Common Stock that are subject to certain vesting conditions and other restrictions.
- RSUs. RSUs are contractual promises to deliver shares of New WeWork Common Stock in the future or an equivalent in cash, as determined in the discretion of the plan administrator at the time of grant. RSUs may also remain forfeitable unless and until specified conditions are met. In addition, the plan administrator may, but need not, provide in an RSU award agreement that the grantee of the RSU will be paid or accrue the equivalent value of dividends paid on shares of New WeWork Common Stock prior to the settlement of such RSU (i.e., dividend equivalent rights).
- Other Stock-Based Awards. Other stock-based awards are other awards valued wholly or partially by referring to, or otherwise based on, shares of New WeWork Common Stock, including dividend equivalents. Dividend equivalents represent the right to receive the equivalent value of dividends paid on shares of New WeWork Common Stock and may be granted alone or in tandem with awards other than stock options or SARs.
- Stock Bonuses. Stock bonuses are bonuses payable in fully vested shares of New WeWork Common Stock.
- Cash Awards. Cash awards are awards payable solely in cash that are subject to the terms and conditions of the 2021 Plan and any other conditions or restrictions determined by the plan administrator.

Certain Transactions

The plan administrator has broad discretion to make adjustments to the terms and conditions of existing and future awards under the 2021 Plan to facilitate necessary or desirable changes in the event of certain transactions and events affecting New WeWork Common Stock, such as mergers, consolidations, special or extraordinary dividends, stock splits, combinations or exchanges of shares, and other reorganizations and corporate transactions. In addition, in connection with these events, known as "changes in capitalization," the plan administrator will make equitable adjustments to the 2021 Plan and outstanding awards, including the share reserve, number of shares subject to outstanding awards, exercise price and base amounts, as applicable. In the event of a change in control, there is a menu of actions which the plan administrator may take in the plan administrator's sole discretion, which could include, among other things, providing for accelerated vesting of awards and cancellation of awards. The plan administrator has the discretion to treat awards differently in the event of such a transaction.

No Repricing

Except in connection with changes in capitalization, stockholder approval will be required for any amendment that reduces the exercise price of any stock option or SAR, or cancels any stock option or SAR in exchange for cash, other awards, or stock options or SARs with an exercise price per share that is less than the exercise price per share of the original stock options or SARs.

Plan Amendment and Termination

The plan administrator may amend or terminate the 2021 Plan and any outstanding award under the 2021 Plan at any time. However, no amendment to the 2021 Plan or any outstanding award may materially impair the rights of a participant with respect to an outstanding award without such participant's consent, unless the amendment is permitted in connection with specified corporate transactions or capitalization adjustments. Stockholder approval will be obtained for any amendment to the extent necessary to comply with the rules of the stock exchange on which New WeWork Common Stock is traded or applicable laws, as determined by the plan administrator. No awards are permitted to be granted under the 2021 Plan on or after the tenth anniversary of the earlier of (i) the date the Company's board of directors adopts the 2021 Plan and (ii) the date the Company's stockholders approve the 2021 Plan.

Foreign Participants, Claw back Provisions, Transferability and Participant Payments

The plan administrator may determine which individuals located outside the United States will participate in the 2021 Plan, as well as which affiliates with individuals located outside the United States, if any, will be covered by the 2021 Plan; set the terms and conditions of awards granted to individuals outside the United States; and establish sub-plans and/or adjust other terms and conditions of awards, subject to the share limits described above, and modify the terms and conditions of any award if necessary or advisable, including to comply with local law. All awards will be subject to any compensation recovery or clawback policy required pursuant to Section 304 of Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended, and any other legally required recovery or clawback, as well as any clawback policy of New WeWork or an affiliate as may be adopted and amended from time to time. Until they are fully vested and/or exercisable, awards under the 2021 Plan are generally non-transferrable, subject to the plan administrator's consent, and are generally exercisable only by the participant. With regard to tax withholding, exercise price, and purchase price obligations arising in connection with awards under the 2021 Plan, generally the plan administrator may, in its discretion, accept cash, shares of New WeWork Common Stock that meet specified conditions, or such other consideration as it deems suitable.

U.S. Federal Income Tax Consequences

The following is a general summary under current law of the principal United States federal income tax consequences related to awards under the 2021 Plan. This summary deals with the general federal income tax principles that apply and is provided only for general information. Some kinds of taxes, such as state, local and foreign income taxes and federal employment taxes, are not discussed. This summary is not intended as tax advice to participants, who should consult their own tax advisors.

- Non-Qualified Stock Options. If an optionee is granted an NSO under the 2021 Plan, the optionee generally will not recognize taxable income at the time the option is granted. Generally, the optionee will recognize compensation taxable as ordinary income at the time of exercise of an NSO in an amount equal to the fair market value of the shares acquired on the date of exercise, less the exercise price paid for the shares. The optionee's basis in the common stock for purposes of determining gain or loss on a subsequent sale or disposition of such shares generally will be the amount paid for the shares plus the amount of ordinary income recognized by the optionee. Any subsequent gain or loss will be taxable as a long-term or short-term capital gain or loss. We or our subsidiaries or affiliates generally will be entitled to a federal income tax deduction at the time and for the same amount as the optionee recognizes ordinary income (subject to limitations on deductions which may apply pursuant to applicable tax law, including Code Section 162(m)).
- Incentive Stock Options. A participant receiving ISOs will not recognize taxable income upon grant. Additionally, the participant will not recognize taxable income at the time of exercise. However, the excess of the fair market value of the shares of New WeWork Common Stock received over the option exercise price is potentially subject to the alternative minimum tax. If stock acquired upon exercise of an ISO is held for a minimum of two years from the date of grant and one year from the date of exercise and otherwise satisfies the ISO requirements, the gain or loss (in an amount equal to the difference between the fair market value on the date of disposition and the exercise price) upon disposition of the stock will be treated as a capital gain or loss, and we will not be entitled to any deduction. If the holding period requirements are not met at the time of a disposition of the stock, the ISO will be treated as one that does not meet the requirements of the Code for ISOs and the participant will recognize compensation taxable as ordinary income in the year of the disposition equal to the lesser of (i) the excess of the amount realized upon the disposition over the exercise price, or (ii) the excess of the fair market value of the shares on the date the ISO is exercised over the exercise price. Any additional gain or loss on the disposition of the stock is treated as capital gain or capital loss. We or our subsidiaries or affiliates generally are not entitled to a federal income tax deduction upon either the exercise of an ISO or upon disposition of the shares acquired pursuant to such exercise, except to the extent that the participant recognizes ordinary income on disposition of the shares.

- Other Awards. Recipients who receive SARs generally will recognize ordinary income upon exercise in an amount equal to the excess of the fair market value of the underlying shares of common stock on the exercise date over the exercise price. Recipients who receive awards of restricted stock subject to a vesting requirement generally will recognize ordinary income at the time vesting occurs in an amount equal to the fair market value of the shares at that time minus the amount, if any, paid for the shares. However, a recipient who receives restricted stock that is not vested may, within 30 days of the date the shares are transferred, elect in accordance with Section 83(b) of the Code to recognize ordinary compensation income at the time of transfer of the shares rather than upon the vesting dates. Recipients who receive RSU awards, other stock-based awards, stock bonuses, or cash awards generally will recognize ordinary income when they receive payment upon settlement of the awards in an amount equal to the amount of cash or the fair market value of the shares received at that time. We or our subsidiaries or affiliates generally will be entitled to a federal income tax deduction at the time and for the same amount as the recipient recognizes ordinary income.

Section 409A of the Code

Certain types of awards under the 2021 Plan may constitute, or provide for, a deferral of compensation subject to Section 409A of the Code. Unless certain requirements set forth in Section 409A of the Code are complied with, holders of such awards may be taxed earlier than would otherwise be the case (e.g., at the time of vesting instead of the time of payment) and may be subject to an additional 20% penalty tax (and, potentially, certain interest, penalties, and additional state taxes). To the extent applicable, the 2021 Plan and awards granted under the 2021 Plan will be intended to be structured and interpreted to either comply with or be exempt from Section 409A of the Code and the Department of Treasury regulations and other interpretive guidance that may be issued under Section 409A of the Code.

New Plan Benefits

All awards under the 2021 Plan are made at the discretion of the plan administrator. We expect that the plan administrator will approve, as soon as practicable following (and subject to the occurrence of) the Closing, one-time grants of approximately 1,100,000 RSUs in the aggregate to eligible employees who are at the senior manager level or below which RSUs will vest (subject to continued employment) on the one-year anniversary of the Closing. None of our directors, named executive officers or other executive officers will receive this one-time grant.

Vote Required for Approval

The approval of the Equity Incentive Plan Proposal requires the affirmative vote (attending virtually or by proxy) of the holders of a majority of all then outstanding shares of BowX Common Stock entitled to vote thereon at the special meeting, voting as a single class and who vote at the special meeting. Accordingly, a BowX stockholder's failure to vote virtually or by proxy at the special meeting of stockholders, an abstention from voting or a broker non-vote will have no effect on the outcome of any vote on this proposal.

The Equity Incentive Plan Proposal is cross-conditioned on the approval of the BCA Proposal, the Organizational Documents Proposals, the Director Election Proposal, the Stock Issuance Proposal and the ESPP Proposal.

Recommendation of BowX’s Board of Directors

THE BOWX BOARD OF DIRECTORS UNANIMOUSLY RECOMMENDS THAT THE BOWX STOCKHOLDERS VOTE “FOR” THE APPROVAL OF THE EQUITY INCENTIVE PLAN PROPOSAL.

The existence of financial and personal interests of one or more of BowX’s directors may result in a conflict of interest on the part of such director(s) between what he, she or they may believe is in the best interests of BowX and its stockholders and what he, she or they may believe is best for himself, herself or themselves in determining to recommend that stockholders vote for the proposals. In addition, BowX’s officers have interests in the Business Combination that may conflict with your interests as a stockholder. See the section entitled “BCA Proposal — Interests of BowX’s Directors and Executive Officers in the Business Combination” for a further discussion of these considerations.

ESPP PROPOSAL

Overview

On September 19, 2021, the BowX board of directors approved the WeWork 2021 Employee Stock Purchase Plan (the “ESPP”), effective as of and contingent on the consummation of the Business Combination, and subject to approval of BowX stockholders. If the ESPP is approved by BowX stockholders and the Business Combination is consummated, New WeWork will be authorized to offer eligible employees the ability to purchase shares of New WeWork stock at a discount, subject to various limitations. BowX is asking its stockholders to approve the ESPP.

The ESPP is described in more detail below. A copy of the ESPP is attached to this proxy statement/prospectus as Annex E. The summary is qualified in its entirety by reference to the complete text of the ESPP.

The ESPP

The ESPP is designed to allow eligible employees of New WeWork to purchase shares of New WeWork Common Stock with their accumulated payroll deductions. The ESPP is administered by New WeWork’s board of directors or an authorized committee thereof comprised of non-employee directors (the “ESPP administrator”). The ESPP is divided into two components: the “423 Component” and the “Non-423 Component.” The 423 Component is intended to qualify under Section 423 of the Code. The Non-423 Component is not intended to qualify under Section 423 of the Code and may generally be used to grant stock options to certain non-U.S. employees and other employees designated by the ESPP administrator. The material terms of the ESPP are summarized below. The purpose of the ESPP is to assist eligible employees in acquiring a stock ownership interest in New WeWork, to align such employees’ interests with those of our stockholders, and to encourage such employees to remain in the employment of New WeWork. The BowX board of directors believes that equity offers under the ESPP will assist New WeWork in recruiting and retaining highly qualified employees.

Summary of the ESPP

This section summarizes certain principal features of the ESPP.

Administration

Subject to the terms and conditions of the ESPP, the ESPP administrator will have discretionary authority to administer and interpret the ESPP and to determine the terms and conditions of the offerings of New WeWork Common Stock to be made under the ESPP. Subject to applicable laws and regulations, the ESPP administrator is authorized to delegate administrative tasks under the ESPP to an officer of New WeWork or other individual or group. Interpretations and constructions of the ESPP administrator of any provision of the ESPP or of any rights thereunder will be conclusive and binding on all persons. No member of our board of directors or individual exercising administrative authority with respect to the ESPP will be liable for any action or determination made in good faith with respect to the ESPP.

Share Reserve

The initial maximum number of shares of New WeWork Common Stock which will be authorized for sale under the ESPP is equal to 1% of the Aggregate Fully Diluted Company Capital Stock (as such term is defined in the Merger Agreement) as of the Closing (approximately 7,936,628 shares). In addition, such aggregate number of shares may, subject to the approval of our board of directors, increase on January 1 of each year beginning January 1, 2023, but not after the 10 year anniversary of the effective date of the ESPP, in an amount equal to 1% of the Aggregate Fully Diluted Company Capital Stock as of the Closing, less any shares authorized but not issued under the ESPP as of the date of such increase. In no event shall the maximum aggregate number of shares available for issuance under the ESPP exceed 72,000,000 shares. The shares reserved for issuance under the ESPP may be authorized but unissued shares, treasury shares, or shares from any other proper source.

Eligibility

Employees eligible to participate in the ESPP for a given offering generally include employees who are employed by New WeWork or one of its designated subsidiaries on the first day of the offering. Unless otherwise determined by the ESPP administrator or required by law, employees of New WeWork or its designated subsidiaries who, as of the first day of an offering, are customarily scheduled to work less than 20 hours per week or customarily work less than five months in a calendar year will not be eligible to participate in the offering under the ESPP.

Participation

Employees will enroll under the ESPP by completing an enrollment form permitting the deduction from their compensation of at least 1% of their compensation but not more than 15% of their compensation during an offering. Such payroll deductions must be expressed as a whole number percentage, and the accumulated deductions will be credited to a notional account and applied to the purchase of shares on the exercise date of the offering.

However, an employee will not be permitted to participate in an offering if, immediately after the option to purchase stock in the offering were granted, the employee would own (or be deemed to own through attribution) 5% or more of the total combined voting power or value of all classes of stock of New WeWork, or of a subsidiary or parent company of New WeWork. In addition, a participant may not purchase more than 5,000 shares in each offering or any lesser maximum number determined by the ESPP administrator. A participant may not be granted an option that permits the participant's rights to purchase shares of New WeWork Common Stock to accrue at a rate exceeding $25,000 in fair market value of such stock (determined at the time the option is granted) under the ESPP or any other employee stock purchase plan of New WeWork and its parent and subsidiary companies during any calendar year.

Offering

Under the ESPP, participants are offered the option to purchase shares of New WeWork Common Stock at a discount during a series of successive offerings, the duration and timing of which will be determined by the ESPP administrator. However, in no event may an offering be longer than 27 months in length.

The option price for an offering will generally be the lower of 85% of the closing trading price per share of New WeWork Common Stock on the first day of the offering or 85% of the closing trading price per share on the exercise date, which will occur on the last day of each offering.

Unless a participant has withdrawn from participation in the ESPP before the exercise date of the applicable offering, the participant will be deemed to have exercised the participant's option in full as of such exercise date. Upon exercise, the participant will purchase the number of whole shares that the participant's accumulated payroll deductions will buy at the option price, subject to the participation limitations listed above.

A participant may cancel his or her payroll deduction authorization and withdraw from the offering at any time prior to the end of the offering. Upon withdrawal, the participant will receive a refund of the participant's notional account balance in cash without interest. If a participant withdraws from an offering, the participant may not later re-enroll in the same offering, but the participant may (if eligible) enroll in any later offering under the ESPP. If a participant wants to increase or decrease the rate of payroll withholding, the participant may do so effective for the next offering by submitting a new enrollment form before the offering for which such change is to be effective.

A participant may not transfer any rights under the ESPP other than by will or the laws of descent and distribution. During a participant's lifetime, options in the ESPP shall be exercisable only by such participant. The ESPP is unfunded, and all funds received by New WeWork under the ESPP may be combined with other corporate funds and used for any corporate purpose, unless otherwise required by applicable law.

Adjustments

In the event of any stock split, reverse stock split, stock dividend, combination or reclassification of the common stock, spin-off, or other similar change in capitalization or event, we will proportionately adjust the number and class of shares approved under the ESPP, the option price for an offering, and the maximum number of shares which a participant may elect to purchase in any single offering. If New WeWork is liquidated or dissolved, the ESPP administrator may provide that options to purchase stock under the ESPP will convert into the right to receive liquidation proceeds (net of the option price). In connection with a merger with or into another corporation, a sale of all or substantially all of our assets or common stock, or any other transaction in which the owners of our voting power immediately before the transaction do not hold a majority following the transaction, the ESPP administrator may take any of the following actions, or do any combination thereof:

(i) determine that each outstanding option will be assumed or an equivalent option substituted by the successor corporation or the parent or subsidiary of the successor corporation; (ii) upon written notice to participants, provide that all outstanding options will become exercisable to the extent of accumulated payroll deductions as of a specified date that is more than 10 days before the effective date of the applicable corporate transaction; (iii) upon written notice to participants, provide that all outstanding options will be canceled and accumulated payroll deductions will be returned to participants; or (iv) if the applicable transaction provides for cash payments to the holders of New WeWork Common Stock, provide for cash payments to participants in amounts based on the per-share amount of such cash payments to the stockholders.

Amendment and Termination

The ESPP administrator may amend, suspend or terminate the ESPP at any time. However, to the extent required by applicable laws, the ESPP administrator may not amend the ESPP without obtaining stockholder approval within 12 months before or after the date such amendment is adopted.

U.S. Federal Income Tax Consequences

The following is a general summary under current law of the principal United States federal income tax consequences related to the purchase of shares under the ESPP. This summary deals with the general federal income tax principles that apply and is provided only for general information. Some kinds of taxes, such as state, local and foreign income taxes and federal employment taxes, are not discussed. As such, tax consequences for employees participating in the Non-423 Component of the ESPP are not discussed. This summary is not intended as tax advice to participants, who should consult their own tax advisors.

The 423 Component of the ESPP, and the right of participants to make purchases thereunder, is intended to qualify under the provisions of Section 423 of the Code. Under the applicable Code provisions, no income will be taxable to a participant until the sale or other disposition of the shares purchased under the ESPP. This means that an eligible employee will not recognize taxable income on the date the employee is granted an option under the ESPP. In addition, the employee will not recognize taxable income upon the purchase of shares. Upon a sale or disposition of shares purchased under the ESPP, the participant generally will be subject to tax in an amount that depends upon the length of time such shares are held by the participant prior to disposing of them. If the shares are sold or disposed of more than two years from the date of grant and more than one year from the date of purchase, or if the participant dies while holding the shares: (i) the participant (or the participant's estate) will recognize compensation taxable as ordinary income measured as the lesser of (A) the excess of the fair market value of the shares at the time of such sale or disposition (or death) over the purchase price or (B) an amount equal to the applicable discount from the fair market value of the shares as of the date of grant; and (ii) even if the participant (or the participant's estate) recognizes ordinary income, we or our subsidiaries or affiliates generally will not be entitled to a federal income tax deduction. Any additional gain will be treated as long-term capital gain. If the shares are held for the holding periods described above but are sold for a price that is less than the purchase price, there is no ordinary income and the participating employee has a long-term capital loss for the difference between the sale price and the purchase price.

If the shares are sold or otherwise disposed of before the expiration of the holding periods described above at a price that is more than the purchase price: (i) the participant will recognize compensation taxable as ordinary income generally measured as the excess of the fair market value of the shares on the date the participant purchased the shares under the ESPP over the purchase price; and (ii) New WeWork will generally be entitled to a tax deduction for compensation expense in the amount of ordinary income recognized by the participant (subject to any applicable limitations on such deductions). Any additional gain on such sale or disposition will be long-term or short-term capital gain, depending on how long the shares were held following the date they were purchased by the participant prior to disposing of them. If the shares are sold or otherwise disposed of before the expiration of the holding periods described above but are sold at a price that is less than the purchase price, the participant will recognize ordinary income equal to the excess of the fair market value of the shares on the date the participant purchased the shares under the ESPP over the purchase price (and New WeWork will generally be entitled to a corresponding deduction), but the participant generally will be able to report a capital loss equal to the difference between the sales price of the shares and the fair market value of the shares on the date the participant purchased them.

Vote Required for Approval

The approval of the ESPP Proposal requires the affirmative vote (attending virtually or by proxy) of the holders of a majority of all then outstanding shares of BowX Common Stock entitled to vote thereon at the special meeting, voting as a single class and who vote at the special meeting. Accordingly, a BowX stockholder's failure to vote virtually or by proxy at the special meeting of stockholders, an abstention from voting or a broker non-vote will have no effect on the outcome of any vote on this proposal.

The ESPP Proposal is cross-conditioned on the approval of the BCA Proposal, the Organizational Documents Proposals, the Director Election Proposal, the Stock Issuance Proposal and the Equity Incentive Plan Proposal.

Recommendation of BowX's Board of Directors

THE BOWX BOARD OF DIRECTORS UNANIMOUSLY RECOMMENDS THAT THE BOWX STOCKHOLDERS VOTE "FOR" THE APPROVAL OF THE ESPP PROPOSAL.

The existence of financial and personal interests of one or more of BowX's directors may result in a conflict of interest on the part of such director(s) between what he, she or they may believe is in the best interests of BowX and its stockholders and what he, she or they may believe is best for himself, herself or themselves in determining to recommend that stockholders vote for the proposals. In addition, BowX's officers have interests in the Business Combination that may conflict with your interests as a stockholder. See the section entitled "BCA Proposal — Interests of BowX's Directors and Executive Officers in the Business Combination" for a further discussion of these considerations.

ADJOURNMENT PROPOSAL

The Adjournment Proposal, if adopted, allows BowX's board of directors to submit a proposal to approve the adjournment of the special meeting to a later date or dates, if necessary, to permit further solicitation and vote of proxies in the event, based on the tabulated votes, there are not sufficient votes at the time of the special meeting to approve the Condition Precedent Proposals. The purpose of the Adjournment Proposal is to permit further solicitation of proxies and votes and to provide additional time for the Sponsor and New WeWork and their respective stockholders to make purchases of BowX Common Stock or other arrangements that would increase the likelihood of obtaining a favorable vote on the proposals to be put to the special meeting. See the section entitled "BCA Proposal — Interests of BowX's Directors and Executive Officers in the Business Combination."

Consequences if the Adjournment Proposal is Not Approved

If the Adjournment Proposal is presented to the special meeting and is not approved by the stockholders, BowX's board of directors may not be able to adjourn the special meeting to a later date in the event that, based on the tabulated votes, there are not sufficient votes at the time of the special meeting to approve the Condition Precedent Proposals. In such events, the Business Combination would not be completed.

Vote Required for Approval

The approval of the Adjournment Proposal requires the affirmative vote of a majority of the shares of BowX Common Stock attending virtually or by proxy and entitled to vote thereon. Accordingly, a BowX stockholder's failure to vote virtually or by proxy at the special meeting of stockholders or a broker non-vote will have no effect on the outcome of any vote on this proposal. An abstention from voting will have the same effect as a vote against the Adjournment Proposal.

Recommendation of the BowX Board of Directors

THE BOWX BOARD OF DIRECTORS UNANIMOUSLY RECOMMENDS THAT BOWX STOCKHOLDERS VOTE "FOR" THE APPROVAL OF THE ADJOURNMENT PROPOSAL.

The existence of financial and personal interests of one or more of BowX's directors may result in a conflict of interest on the part of such director(s) between what he, she or they may believe is in the best interests of BowX and its stockholders and what he, she or they may believe is best for himself, herself or themselves in determining to recommend that stockholders vote for the proposals. In addition, BowX's officers have interests in the Business Combination that may conflict with your interests as a stockholder. See the section entitled "BCA Proposal — Interests of BowX's Directors and Executive Officers in the Business Combination" for a further discussion of these considerations.

CERTAIN U.S. FEDERAL INCOME TAX CONSIDERATIONS FOR STOCKHOLDERS EXERCISING REDEMPTION RIGHTS

The following is a discussion of certain U.S. federal income tax consequences for holders of BowX Class A Common Stock that exercise their redemption rights described above under “Special Meeting of BowX—Redemption Rights.” This discussion applies only to shares of BowX Class A Common Stock held as capital assets within the meaning of Section 1221 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended (the “Code”) (generally, property held for investment). Further, the discussion is applicable only to holders who purchased BowX Class A Common Stock in the initial public offering.

This discussion does not address all U.S. federal income tax consequences that may be relevant to your particular circumstances, including the impact of the Medicare contribution tax on net investment income, the alternative minimum tax or the special accounting rules in Section 451(b) of the Code. In addition, it does not address consequences relevant to holders subject to special rules, including, without limitation:

- U.S. expatriates and former citizens or long-term residents of the United States;
- persons holding BowX Class A Common Stock as part of a hedge, straddle or other risk reduction strategy or as part of a conversion transaction or other integrated transaction;
- banks, insurance companies and other financial institutions;
- brokers, dealers or traders in securities;
- “controlled foreign corporations,” “passive foreign investment companies” and corporations that accumulate earnings to avoid U.S. federal income tax;
- partnerships or other entities or arrangements treated as partnerships for U.S. federal income tax purposes (and investors therein);
- tax-exempt organizations or governmental organizations;
- persons subject to special tax accounting rules as a result of any item of gross income with respect to BowX Class A Common Stock being taken into account in an applicable financial statement;
- U.S. holders (as defined below) whose functional currency is not the U.S. dollar;
- regulated investment companies or real estate investment trusts;
- tax-qualified retirement plans; and
- “qualified foreign pension funds” as defined in Section 897(1)(2) of the Code and entities all of the interests of which are held by qualified foreign pension funds.

If you are a partnership (or other pass-through entity) for U.S. federal income tax purposes, the tax treatment of your partners (or other owners) will generally depend on the status of the partners, the activities of the partnership and certain determinations made at the partner level. Accordingly, partnerships (or other pass-through entities) and the partners (or other owners) in such partnerships (or such other pass-through entities) should consult their own tax advisors regarding the U.S. federal income tax consequences to them relating to the matters discussed below.

For purposes of this discussion, a “U.S. holder” is a beneficial owner of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock who or that, for U.S. federal income tax purposes, is or is treated as:

- an individual who is a citizen or resident of the United States,
- a corporation organized in or under the laws of the United States, any state thereof or the District of Columbia,
- an estate, the income of which is subject to U.S. federal income tax regardless of its source, or

- a trust that (1) is subject to the primary supervision of a U.S. court and the control of one or more “United States persons” (within the meaning of Section 7701(a)(30) of the Code) or (2) was in existence on August 20, 1996 and has a valid election in effect to be treated as a United States person for U.S. federal income tax purposes.

Also, for purposes of this discussion, a “Non-U.S. holder” is any beneficial owner of BowX Class A Common Stock who or that is neither a U.S. holder nor an entity classified as a partnership for U.S. federal income tax purposes.

The following does not purport to be a complete analysis of all potential tax effects associated with redemptions of BowX Class A Common Stock in advance of the Business Combination. The effects of other U.S. federal tax laws, such as estate and gift tax laws and any applicable state, local or non-U.S. tax laws are not discussed. This discussion is based on the Code, Treasury regulations promulgated thereunder, judicial decisions and published rulings and administrative pronouncements of the Internal Revenue Service (the “IRS”), in each case in effect as of the date hereof. These authorities may change or be subject to differing interpretations. Any such change or differing interpretation may be applied retroactively in a manner that could adversely affect holders to which this discussion applies and could affect the accuracy of the statements herein. BowX has not sought and will not seek any rulings from the IRS regarding the matters discussed below. There can be no assurance that the IRS or a court will not take a contrary position to that regarding tax consequences discussed below.

THIS DISCUSSION IS FOR INFORMATIONAL PURPOSES ONLY AND IS NOT TAX ADVICE. INVESTORS SHOULD CONSULT THEIR TAX ADVISORS WITH RESPECT TO THE APPLICATION OF THE U.S. FEDERAL INCOME TAX LAWS TO THEIR PARTICULAR SITUATIONS AS WELL AS ANY TAX CONSEQUENCES ARISING UNDER THE U.S. FEDERAL ESTATE OR GIFT TAX LAWS OR UNDER THE LAWS OF ANY STATE, LOCAL OR NON-U.S. TAXING JURISDICTION OR UNDER ANY APPLICABLE INCOME TAX TREATY.

U.S. Holders

Redemption of BowX Class A Common Stock. The redemption of a U.S. holder’s BowX Class A Common Stock pursuant to the redemption provisions described in the section entitled “Special Meeting of BowX — Redemption Rights,” will generally be a taxable transaction for U.S. federal income tax purposes. The treatment of the transaction for U.S. federal income tax purposes will depend on whether the redemption qualifies as a sale of BowX Class A Common Stock under Section 302 of the Code. If the redemption qualifies as a sale of BowX Class A Common Stock, the U.S. holder will be treated as described under “U.S. Holders — Gain or Loss on Redemption Treated as a Sale of BowX Class A Common Stock” below. If the redemption does not qualify as a sale of BowX Class A Common Stock, the U.S. holder will be treated as receiving a corporate distribution with the tax consequences described below under “U.S. Holders — Taxation of Redemption Treated as a Distribution.”

Whether a redemption qualifies for sale treatment will depend largely on whether the U.S. holder owns any of BowX’s stock following the redemption (including any stock treated as constructively owned by the U.S. holder as a result of owning warrants or by attribution from certain related individuals and entities), and if so, the total number of shares of BowX’s stock held by the U.S. holder both before and after the redemption (including any stock constructively treated as owned by the U.S. holder as a result of owning warrants or by attribution from certain related individuals and entities) relative to all of BowX’s shares outstanding both before and after the redemption. The redemption of BowX Class A Common Stock generally will be treated as a sale of BowX Class A Common Stock (rather than as a corporate distribution) if the redemption (i) is “substantially disproportionate” with respect to the U.S. holder, (ii) results in a “complete termination” of the U.S. holder’s interest in us or (iii) is “not essentially equivalent to a dividend” with respect to the U.S. holder. These tests are explained more fully below.

In determining whether any of the foregoing tests are satisfied, a U.S. holder takes into account not only stock actually owned by the U.S. holder, but also shares of our stock that are treated as constructively owned by it. A U.S. holder may be treated as constructively owning, in addition to stock actually owned by the U.S. holder, stock owned by certain related individuals and entities in which the U.S. holder has an interest or that have an interest in such U.S. holder, as well as any stock that the U.S. holder has a right to acquire by exercise of an option, which would generally include BowX Class A Common Stock that could be acquired pursuant to the exercise of the warrants. Moreover, any BowX stock that a U.S. holder directly or constructively acquires pursuant to the Business Combination generally should be included in determining the U.S. federal income tax treatment of the redemption.

In order to meet the substantially disproportionate test, the percentage of BowX's outstanding voting stock actually and constructively owned by the U.S. holder immediately following the redemption of BowX Class A Common Stock must, among other requirements, be less than 80% of the percentage of BowX's outstanding voting stock actually and constructively owned by such U.S. holder immediately before the redemption (taking into account both redemptions by other holders of BowX Class A Common Stock and the shares of BowX Class A Common Stock to be issued pursuant to the Business Combination). Because the measurement of a U.S. holder's percentage interest takes into account stock owned by certain other persons under the constructive ownership rules described above, it is possible for a U.S. holder's percentage interest to increase after taking such constructive ownership rules into account, notwithstanding the redemption of such U.S. holder's BowX Class A Common Stock.

There will be a complete termination of a U.S. holder's interest if either (i) all of the shares of our capital stock actually and constructively owned by the U.S. holder are redeemed or (ii) all of the shares of our capital stock actually owned by the U.S. holder are redeemed, the U.S. holder is eligible to waive, and effectively waives in accordance with specific rules, the attribution of stock owned by certain family members and the U.S. holder does not constructively own any other stock of BowX (including any stock constructively owned by the U.S. holder as a result of owning options or warrants).

The redemption of BowX Class A Common Stock will not be essentially equivalent to a dividend if a U.S. holder's redemption results in a "meaningful reduction" of the U.S. holder's proportionate interest in BowX. Whether the redemption will result in a meaningful reduction in a U.S. holder's proportionate interest in BowX will depend on the particular facts and circumstances. However, the IRS has indicated in a published ruling that even a small reduction in the proportionate interest of a small minority stockholder in a publicly held corporation who exercises no control over corporate affairs may constitute such a "meaningful reduction." A U.S. holder should consult with its own tax advisors as to the tax consequences of a redemption, including the application of the constructive ownership rules described above.

If none of the foregoing tests is satisfied, then the redemption will be treated as a corporate distribution, and the tax effects will be as described under "U.S. Holders — Taxation of Redemption Treated as a Distribution" below. After the application of those rules, any remaining tax basis of the U.S. holder in the redeemed BowX Class A Common Stock will be added to the U.S. holder's adjusted tax basis in its remaining stock, or, if it has none, to the U.S. holder's adjusted tax basis in its warrants or possibly in other stock constructively owned by it.

Gain or Loss on Redemption Treated as a Sale of BowX Class A Common Stock. If the redemption qualifies as a sale of BowX Class A Common Stock, a U.S. holder generally will recognize capital gain or loss in an amount equal to the difference between the amount realized in the redemption and the U.S. holder's adjusted tax basis in its disposed of BowX Class A Common Stock. The amount realized is the sum of the amount of cash and the fair market value of any property received, and a U.S. holder's adjusted tax basis in its BowX Class A Common Stock generally will equal the U.S. holder's acquisition cost. Gain or loss will be determined separately for each block of stock (generally, stock acquired at the same cost in a single transaction) redeemed.

Any such capital gain or loss generally will be long-term capital gain or loss if the U.S. holder's holding period for the BowX Class A Common Stock so disposed of exceeds one year. It is unclear, however, whether the redemption rights with respect to BowX Class A Common Stock may suspend the running of the applicable holding period for this purpose. If the running of the holding period for BowX Class A Common Stock is suspended, then non-corporate U.S. holders may not be able to satisfy the one-year holding period requirement for long-term capital gain treatment, in which case any gain on a redemption of the shares would be subject to short-term capital gain treatment and would be taxed at regular ordinary income tax rates. U.S. holders should consult with their own tax advisors as to the potential for a suspension of the holding period in their BowX Class A Common Stock. Long-term capital gains recognized by non-corporate U.S. holders will be eligible to be taxed at reduced rates. The deductibility of capital losses is subject to limitations.

Taxation of Redemption Treated as a Distribution. If the redemption does not qualify as a sale of BowX Class A Common Stock, a U.S. holder will generally be treated as receiving a distribution from us. Such distributions generally will constitute dividends for U.S. federal income tax purposes to the extent paid from our current or accumulated earnings and profits, as determined under U.S. federal income tax principles.

Distributions in excess of our current and accumulated earnings and profits will constitute a return of capital that will be applied against and reduce (but not below zero) the U.S. holder's adjusted tax basis in BowX Class A Common Stock. Any remaining excess will be treated as gain realized on the sale or other disposition of the BowX Class A Common Stock as described under "U.S. Holders — Gain or Loss on Redemption Treated as a Sale of BowX Class A Common Stock" above.

Dividends (including constructive dividends paid pursuant to a redemption of BowX Class A Common Stock) BowX pays to a U.S. holder that is a taxable corporation generally will qualify for the dividends received deduction if the requisite holding period is satisfied. A corporate U.S. holder may also be subject to the "extraordinary dividend" provisions of Section 1059 of the Code. With certain exceptions (including, but not limited to, dividends (including constructive dividends paid pursuant to a redemption of BowX Class A Common Stock) treated as investment income for purposes of investment interest deduction limitations), and provided that certain holding period requirements are met, dividends received by a non-corporate U.S. holder may constitute "qualified dividends" that will be subject to tax at the maximum tax rate accorded to long-term capital gains. It is unclear whether the redemption rights with respect to BowX Class A Common Stock described in this proxy statement/prospectus may prevent a U.S. holder from satisfying the applicable holding period requirements with respect to the dividends received deduction or the preferential tax rate on qualified dividend income, as the case may be. If the holding period requirements are not satisfied, then a corporation may not be able to qualify for the dividends received deduction and would have taxable income equal to the entire dividend amount, and non-corporate U.S. holders may be subject to tax on such dividend at regular ordinary income tax rates instead of the preferential rate that applies to qualified dividend income.

Information Reporting and Backup Withholding. Because whether a U.S. holder's redemption of BowX Class A Common Stock is treated as a deemed distribution will depend on a U.S. holder's particular circumstances, and because whether such a deemed distribution constitutes the distribution of a dividend depends on BowX's then-current and accumulated earnings and profits, the applicable withholding agent may not be able to determine whether (or to what extent) a U.S. holder is treated as receiving a dividend for U.S. federal income tax purposes. An applicable withholding agent may report, on an applicable Form 1099, some or all of the cash received by a U.S. holder pursuant to the redemption as dividend income unless the applicable withholding agent has established special procedures allowing U.S. holders to certify that they are not treated as receiving a dividend under the Section 302 tests described above. However, there can be no assurance that any applicable withholding agent will establish such special certification procedures. A withholding agent's treatment of amounts received pursuant to the redemption as a dividend for U.S. federal income tax purposes is not dispositive, and is not binding on the IRS or such U.S. holder.

In general, information reporting requirements will generally apply to dividends (including constructive dividends paid pursuant to a redemption of BowX Class A Common Stock) paid to a U.S. holder and to the proceeds of the sale or other disposition of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock, unless the U.S. holder is an exempt recipient. Backup withholding may apply to such payments if the U.S. holder fails to provide a taxpayer identification number, a certification of exempt status or has been notified by the IRS that it is subject to backup withholding (and such notification has not been withdrawn). If a U.S. holder does not provide us with the correct taxpayer identification number, the U.S. holder may be subject to penalties imposed by the IRS.

Backup withholding is not an additional tax. Any amounts withheld under the backup withholding rules may be allowed as a refund or a credit against a U.S. holder's U.S. federal income tax liability provided that the required information is timely furnished to the IRS.

Non-U.S. Holders

Redemption of BowX Class A Common Stock. The characterization for U.S. federal income tax purposes of the redemption of a Non-U.S. holder's BowX Class A Common Stock pursuant to the redemption provisions described in the section entitled "Special Meeting of BowX — Redemption Rights" generally will correspond to the U.S. federal income tax characterization of such a redemption of a U.S. holder's BowX Class A Common Stock, as described under "U.S. Holders — Redemption of BowX Class A Common Stock" above, and the consequences of the redemption to the Non-U.S. holder will be as described below under "Non-U.S. Holders — Gain on Redemption Treated as a Sale of BowX Class A Common Stock" and "Non-U.S. Holders — Taxation of Redemption Treated as a Distribution," as applicable.

Gain on Redemption Treated as a Sale of BowX Class A Common Stock. A Non-U.S. holder will not be subject to U.S. federal income tax on any gain realized on a redemption treated as a sale of BowX Class A Common Stock unless:

- the gain is effectively connected with the Non-U.S. holder's conduct of a trade or business within the United States (and, if required by an applicable income tax treaty, the Non-U.S. holder maintains a permanent establishment in the United States to which such gain is attributable);
- the Non-U.S. holder is a nonresident alien individual present in the United States for 183 days or more during the taxable year of the redemption and certain other requirements are met; or
- we are or have been a "U.S. real property holding corporation" for U.S. federal income tax purposes at any time during the shorter of the five-year period ending on the date of disposition or the period that the Non-U.S. holder held BowX Class A Common Stock, and, in the case where shares of BowX Class A Common Stock are regularly traded on an established securities market, the Non-U.S. holder has owned, directly or constructively, more than 5% of BowX Class A Common Stock at any time within the shorter of the five-year period preceding the disposition or such Non-U.S. holder's holding period for the shares of BowX Class A Common Stock. There can be no assurance that BowX Class A Common Stock will be treated as regularly traded on an established securities market for this purpose.

Gain described in the first bullet point above generally will be subject to U.S. federal income tax on a net income basis at the regular rates applicable to United States persons. A Non-U.S. holder that is a corporation also may be subject to a branch profits tax at a rate of 30% (or such lower rate as specified by an applicable income tax treaty) on such effectively connected gain, as adjusted for certain items.

Gain described in the second bullet point above will be subject to U.S. federal income tax at a rate of 30% (or such lower rate as specified by an applicable income tax treaty), which may be offset by U.S. source capital losses of the Non-U.S. holder (even though the individual is not considered a resident of the United States) provided that the Non-U.S. holder has timely filed U.S. federal income tax returns with respect to such losses.

If the third bullet point above applies to a Non-U.S. holder, gain recognized by such holder on the sale, exchange or other disposition of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock will be subject to tax at generally applicable U.S. federal income tax rates. BowX believes that it is not, and has not been at any time since its formation, a U.S. real property holding corporation. However, our status as a U.S. real property holding corporation by virtue of having entered into the Merger Agreement is not free from doubt. Moreover, New WeWork may be a U.S. real property holding corporation immediately after the Business Combination is completed. Non-U.S. holders should consult their own tax advisors regarding the application of the foregoing rules in light of their particular facts and circumstances.

Taxation of Redemption Treated as a Distribution. If the redemption does not qualify as a sale of BowX Class A Common Stock, a Non-U.S. holder will generally be treated as receiving a distribution subject to classification as dividend, return of tax basis or gain as described in “U.S. Holders – Taxation of Redemption Treated as a Distribution” above. In general, with respect to any distributions that constitute dividends for U.S. federal income tax purposes and are not effectively connected with the Non-U.S. holder’s conduct of a trade or business within the United States, we will be required to withhold tax from the gross amount of the dividend at a rate of 30%, unless such Non-U.S. holder is eligible for a reduced rate of withholding tax under an applicable income tax treaty and provides proper certification of its eligibility for such reduced rate (on an IRS Form W-8BEN or W-8BEN-E or other applicable documentation). Because it may not be certain at the time a Non-U.S. holder is redeemed whether such Non-U.S. holder’s redemption will be treated as a sale or a distribution, and because such determination will depend in part on a Non-U.S. holder’s particular circumstances, the applicable withholding agent may not be able to determine whether (or to what extent) a Non-U.S. holder is treated as receiving a dividend for U.S. federal income tax purposes. Therefore, the applicable withholding agent may withhold tax at the 30% rate (subject to reduction by an applicable income tax treaty) on the gross amount of any consideration paid to a Non-U.S. holder in redemption of such Non-U.S. holder’s BowX Class A Common Stock, unless (i) the applicable withholding agent has established special procedures allowing Non-U.S. holders to certify that they are exempt from such withholding tax and (ii) such Non-U.S. holders are able to certify that they meet the requirements of such exemption (e.g., because such Non-U.S. holders are not treated as receiving a dividend under the Section 302 tests described above). However, there can be no assurance that any applicable withholding agent will establish such special certification procedures. If an applicable withholding agent withholds excess amounts from the amount payable to a Non-U.S. holder, such Non-U.S. holder generally may obtain a refund of any such excess amounts by timely filing an appropriate claim for refund with the IRS. Non-U.S. holders should consult their own tax advisors regarding the application of the foregoing rules in light of their particular facts and circumstances and any applicable procedures or certification requirements. If dividends paid to a Non-U.S. holder are effectively connected with the Non-U.S. holder’s conduct of a trade or business within the United States (and, if required by an applicable income tax treaty, the Non-U.S. holder maintains a permanent establishment in the United States to which such dividends are attributable), the Non-U.S. holder will be exempt from the 30% U.S. federal withholding tax described above if such Non-U.S. holder furnishes to the applicable withholding agent a valid IRS Form W-8ECI, certifying that the dividends are effectively connected with the Non-U.S. holder’s conduct of a trade or business within the United States.

Any such effectively connected dividends will be subject to U.S. federal income tax on a net income basis at the regular rates applicable to United States persons. A Non-U.S. holder that is a corporation also may be subject to a branch profits tax at a rate of 30% (or such lower rate as specified by an applicable income tax treaty) on such effectively connected dividends, as adjusted for certain items. Non-U.S. holders should consult their tax advisors regarding any applicable tax treaties that may provide for different rules.

Information Reporting and Backup Withholding. Payments of dividends (including constructive dividends received pursuant to a redemption of BowX Class A Common Stock) on BowX Class A Common Stock to a Non-U.S. holder will not be subject to backup withholding; provided that the applicable withholding agent does not have actual knowledge or reason to know the holder is a United States person and the holder either certifies its non-U.S. status, such as by furnishing a valid IRS Form W-8BEN, W-8BEN-E or W-8ECI, or otherwise establishes an exemption. However, information returns are required to be filed with the IRS in connection with any payments of distributions on BowX Class A Common Stock paid to the Non-U.S. holder, regardless of whether any tax was actually withheld. In addition, proceeds of the sale or other taxable disposition of BowX Class A Common Stock by a Non-U.S. holder within the United States or conducted through certain U.S.- related brokers generally will not be subject to backup withholding or information reporting, if the applicable withholding agent receives the certification described above and does not have actual knowledge or reason to know that such holder is a United States person, or the holder otherwise establishes an exemption. Proceeds of a disposition of BowX Class A Common Stock conducted through a non-U.S. office of a non-U.S. broker generally will not be subject to backup withholding or information reporting.

Copies of information returns that are filed with the IRS may also be made available under the provisions of an applicable treaty or agreement to the tax authorities of the country in which the Non-U.S. holder resides or is established.

Backup withholding is not an additional tax. Any amounts withheld under the backup withholding rules may be allowed as a refund or a credit against a Non-U.S. holder's U.S. federal income tax liability; provided that the required information is timely furnished to the IRS.

FATCA Withholding Taxes. Sections 1471 to 1474 of the Code (such sections commonly referred to as "FATCA") impose withholding of 30% on payments of dividends (including constructive dividends received pursuant to a redemption of stock) on BowX Class A Common Stock to "foreign financial institutions" (which is broadly defined for this purpose and in general includes investment vehicles) and certain other non-U.S. entities unless various U.S. information reporting and due diligence requirements (generally relating to ownership by U.S. persons of interest in or accounts with those entities) have been satisfied, or an exemption applies (typically certified as to by the delivery of a properly completed IRS Form W-8BEN-E). Foreign financial institutions located in jurisdictions that have an intergovernmental agreement with the United States governing FATCA may be subject to different rules. Non-U.S. holders should consult their tax advisers regarding the effects of FATCA on a redemption of BowX Class A Common Stock.

HOLDERS OF BOWX CLASS A COMMON STOCK CONTEMPLATING EXERCISE OF THEIR REDEMPTION RIGHTS ARE ENCOURAGED TO CONSULT THEIR TAX ADVISORS TO DETERMINE THE SPECIFIC TAX CONSEQUENCES TO THEM OF SUCH A REDEMPTION, INCLUDING THE EFFECT OF ANY U.S. FEDERAL, STATE, LOCAL, NON-U.S. OR OTHER TAX LAWS.

U.S. FEDERAL INCOME TAX CONSEQUENCES OF THE MERGERS FOR WEWORK STOCKHOLDERS

The following is a discussion of certain U.S. federal income tax consequences of the Mergers for WeWork Stockholders that exchange WeWork Capital Stock for BowX Common Stock in the Mergers. This discussion applies only to WeWork Stockholders who hold shares of WeWork Capital Stock as capital assets within the meaning of Section 1221 of the Code (generally, property held for investment).

This discussion does not address all U.S. federal income tax consequences that may be relevant to your particular circumstances, including the impact of the Medicare contribution tax on net investment income, the alternative minimum tax or the special accounting rules in Section 451(b) of the Code. The following discussion also does not address the tax consequences applicable to holders of WeWork Awards, WeWork Warrants, the WeWork Series C Convertible Note, or other options or warrants to acquire WeWork Capital Stock, holders of Partnerships Profits Interest Units prior to the Business Combination or holders of shares of WeWork Capital Stock who exercise dissenters' rights. In addition, it does not address consequences relevant to holders subject to special rules, including, without limitation:

- U.S. expatriates and former citizens or long-term residents of the United States;
- persons holding shares of WeWork Capital Stock as part of a hedge, straddle or other risk reduction strategy or as part of a conversion transaction or other integrated transaction;
- banks, insurance companies and other financial institutions;

- brokers, dealers or traders in securities;
- “controlled foreign corporations,” “passive foreign investment companies” and corporations that accumulate earnings to avoid U.S. federal income tax;
- partnerships or other entities or arrangements treated as partnerships for U.S. federal income tax purposes (and investors therein);
- tax-exempt organizations or governmental organizations;
- persons subject to special tax accounting rules as a result of any item of gross income with respect to shares of WeWork Capital Stock being taken into account in an applicable financial statement;
- U.S. holders (as defined below) whose functional currency is not the U.S. dollar;
- regulated investment companies or real estate investment trusts;
- tax-qualified retirement plans;
- “qualified foreign pension funds” as defined in Section 897(l)(2) of the Code and entities all of the interests of which are held by qualified foreign pension funds;
- stockholders who acquired their shares of WeWork Capital Stock pursuant to or in connection with options or other compensation arrangements; and
- stockholders that hold or have held, directly or pursuant to attribution rules, more than 5% of the WeWork Capital Stock at any time during the five-year period ending on the date of the consummation of the First Merger.

If you are a partnership (or other pass-through entity) for U.S. federal income tax purposes, the tax treatment of your partners (or other owners) will generally depend on the status of the partners, the activities of the partnership and certain determinations made at the partner level. Accordingly, partnerships (or other pass-through entities) and the partners (or other owners) in such partnerships (or such other pass-through entities) should consult their own tax advisors regarding the U.S. federal income tax consequences to them relating to the matters discussed below.

For purposes of this discussion, a “U.S. holder” is a beneficial owner of shares of WeWork Capital Stock who or that, for U.S. federal income tax purposes, is or is treated as:

- an individual who is a citizen or resident of the United States,
- a corporation organized in or under the laws of the United States, any state thereof or the District of Columbia,
- an estate, the income of which is subject to U.S. federal income tax regardless of its source, or
- a trust that (1) is subject to the primary supervision of a U.S. court and the control of one or more “United States persons” (within the meaning of Section 7701(a)(30) of the Code) or (2) was in existence on August 20, 1996 and has a valid election in effect to be treated as a United States person for U.S. federal income tax purposes.

Also, for purposes of this discussion, a “Non-U.S. holder” is any beneficial owner of WeWork Capital Stock who is neither a U.S. holder nor an entity classified as a partnership for U.S. federal income tax purposes.

The following does not purport to be a complete analysis of all potential tax effects associated with the exchange of WeWork Capital Stock for BowX Common Stock in the Mergers. The effects of other U.S. federal tax laws, such as estate and gift tax laws and any applicable state, local or non-U.S. tax laws are not discussed. This discussion is based on the Code, Treasury regulations promulgated thereunder, judicial decisions and published rulings and administrative pronouncements of the IRS, in each case in effect as of the date hereof.

These authorities may change or be subject to differing interpretations. Any such change or differing interpretation may be applied retroactively in a manner that could adversely affect holders to which this discussion applies and could affect the accuracy of the statements herein.

THIS DISCUSSION IS NOT TAX ADVICE. INVESTORS SHOULD CONSULT THEIR OWN TAX ADVISORS WITH RESPECT TO THE APPLICATION OF THE U.S. FEDERAL INCOME TAX LAWS TO THEIR PARTICULAR SITUATIONS AS WELL AS ANY TAX CONSEQUENCES ARISING UNDER THE U.S. FEDERAL ESTATE OR GIFT TAX LAWS OR UNDER THE LAWS OF ANY STATE, LOCAL OR NON-U.S. TAXING JURISDICTION OR UNDER ANY APPLICABLE INCOME TAX TREATY.

Treatment of the Mergers

For U.S. federal income tax purposes, the Mergers, taken together, are intended to constitute a single integrated transaction that qualifies as a “reorganization” within the meaning of section 368(a) of the Code, and each of BowX and WeWork expects to receive a tax opinion from Cooley and Skadden, respectively, to the effect that, for U.S. federal income tax purposes, the Mergers will constitute a reorganization within the meaning of section 368(a) of the Code. These opinions of counsel will be based on customary assumptions, representations, covenants, and undertakings of BowX, WeWork, Merger Sub and Merger Sub II. If any of the assumptions, representations, covenants or undertakings is incorrect, incomplete, inaccurate, or is breached, the validity of the opinions may be affected and the U.S. federal income tax consequences of the Mergers could differ materially from those described in this proxy statement/prospectus. The obligation of each of WeWork and BowX to complete the Mergers, however, is not conditioned upon the receipt of such opinions of Cooley, Skadden or any other counsel.

An opinion of counsel represents counsel’s legal judgment but is not binding on the IRS or any court and there can be no assurance that the IRS will not challenge the conclusions reflected in the opinions or that a court would not sustain such a challenge. Neither BowX nor WeWork will request a ruling from the IRS with respect to the tax treatment of the Mergers, and as a result, no assurance can be given that the IRS will not challenge the treatment of the Mergers, taken together, as a single integrated transaction that qualifies as a reorganization or that a court would not sustain such a challenge. If the IRS were to successfully challenge the “reorganization” status of the Mergers, the tax consequences would differ from those set forth in this proxy statement/prospectus and holders of WeWork Capital Stock could be subject to U.S. federal income tax upon the receipt of BowX Common Stock in the Mergers.

The following discussion assumes that the Mergers, taken together, will constitute a single integrated transaction that qualifies as a “reorganization” within the meaning of section 368(a) of the Code:

U.S. Holders

A U.S. holder will generally not recognize gain or loss as a result of the Mergers. A U.S. holder’s aggregate tax basis in BowX Common Stock received pursuant to the Mergers will equal the U.S. holder’s aggregate tax basis in the WeWork Capital Stock exchanged therefor. A U.S. holder’s holding period in BowX Common Stock received pursuant to the Mergers will include the holding period for its shares of WeWork Capital Stock surrendered in exchange therefor. U.S. holders who hold shares of WeWork Capital Stock with differing bases or holding periods should consult their tax advisors with regard to identifying the bases or holding periods of the particular shares of BowX Common Stock received in the Mergers. If a WeWork Stockholder owns both shares of WeWork Common Stock and shares of WeWork Preferred Stock, or owns shares of different series of WeWork Preferred Stock, the WeWork Stockholder will be treated as having separately exchanged its shares of WeWork Common Stock or WeWork Preferred Stock, as applicable, for shares of BowX Common Stock.

Non-U.S. Holders

A Non-U.S. holder generally will not be subject to U.S. federal income tax on any gain realized on the exchange of WeWork Capital Stock for BowX Common Stock in the Mergers unless (i) WeWork is or has been a USRPHC for U.S. federal income tax purposes at any time during the shorter of the five-year period ending on the date of the First Merger or the period that the Non-U.S. holder held its WeWork Capital Stock (the “Relevant Period”), and (ii) the BowX Common Stock received by such Non-U.S. holder in the Mergers is regularly traded on an established securities market. No assurances can be given that, on the date of the First Merger, BowX Common Stock will be treated as “regularly traded on an established securities market” for this purpose. A Non-U.S. holder generally will not recognize any loss realized on the exchange of WeWork Capital Stock for BowX Common Stock in the Mergers for U.S. federal income tax purposes.

Generally, a corporation is a USRPHC if the fair market value of its U.S. real property interests equals or exceeds 50% of the sum of the fair market value of its worldwide real property interests and its other assets used or held for use in a trade or business (all as determined for U.S. federal income tax purposes). As of the date hereof, WeWork believes that it might have been, as of December 31, 2019, and currently might be, a USRPHC. WeWork does not believe that it will be able to provide certification that it is not and has not been a USRPHC at any time during the five years preceding the date on which the First Merger is consummated. As a result, Non-U.S. holders will be subject to withholding of U.S. tax in an amount equal to 15% of the amount realized on the exchange of their WeWork Capital Stock in the Mergers. For this purpose, the “amount realized” by any Non-U.S. holder will equal the fair market value of any property (including shares of BowX Common Stock) received by such Non-U.S. holder in the Mergers.

If it is determined that (i) WeWork was a USRPHC at any time during the Relevant Period, and (ii) the BowX Common Stock received by such Non-U.S. holder in the Mergers is regularly traded on an established securities market on the date the First Merger is consummated, then a Non-U.S. holder may be subject to U.S. federal income tax on any gain recognized on the exchange of WeWork Capital Stock for BowX Common Stock in the Mergers at generally applicable U.S. federal income tax rates, the amount of which tax may or may not equal the amount withheld by purchaser from such Non-U.S. holder’s amount realized in the Mergers, and the Non-U.S. holder may also be required to file U.S. federal income tax returns with respect to such gain. Any amounts withheld from such Non-U.S. holder’s amount realized generally will be allowed as a credit against such Non-U.S. holder’s U.S. federal income tax liability, if any (or as a full or partial refund if such Non-U.S. holder has no U.S. federal income tax liability or has U.S. federal income tax liability that is less than the amount withheld). If the amount withheld is less than the Non-U.S. holder’s U.S. federal income tax liability for the taxable year of the consummation of the Mergers (taking into account that gain recognized by a Non-U.S. holder from the disposition of shares in a USRPHC is taxable at generally applicable U.S. federal income tax rates), the Non-U.S. holder may owe additional tax. Non-U.S. holders should consult their own tax advisors regarding any additional return filing or tax payment obligations (in the United States or any other jurisdiction) and the possibility of obtaining a refund from the IRS.

HOLDERS OF WEWORK CAPITAL STOCK ARE ENCOURAGED TO CONSULT THEIR TAX ADVISORS TO DETERMINE THE SPECIFIC TAX CONSEQUENCES TO THEM OF THE MERGERS, INCLUDING THE EFFECT OF ANY U.S. FEDERAL, STATE, LOCAL, NON-U.S. OR OTHER TAX LAWS.

UNAUDITED PRO FORMA CONDENSED COMBINED FINANCIAL INFORMATION

The following unaudited pro forma condensed combined balance sheet as of June 30, 2021, the unaudited pro forma condensed combined statement of operations for the six months ended June 30, 2021, and the year ended December 31, 2020, present the combination of the financial information of BowX and WeWork after giving effect to the Business Combination, PIPE Investment, recapitalization (collectively, the “Business Combination and Related Transactions”) and related adjustments described in the accompanying notes, and have been prepared in accordance with Article 11 of Regulation S-X.

The unaudited pro forma condensed combined balance sheet as of June 30, 2021 combines the historical balance sheet of BowX and the historical consolidated balance sheet of WeWork on a pro forma basis as if the Business Combination and Related Transactions, summarized below, had been consummated on June 30, 2021. The unaudited pro forma condensed combined statement of operations for the six months ended June 30, 2021, and for the year ended December 31, 2020, combine the historical statement of operations of BowX and WeWork for such period on a pro forma basis as if the transaction, summarized below, had been consummated on January 1, 2020, the beginning of the earliest period presented:

- The merger of WeWork with and into BowX Merger Sub, a wholly owned subsidiary of BowX, with WeWork surviving the merger as a wholly owned subsidiary of BowX;
- The issuance and sale of 80,000,000 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock for $10.00 per share and an aggregate purchase price of $800 million in the PIPE Investment pursuant to the Subscription Agreements, executed concurrently with the Merger Agreement;
- The conversion of 9,075,000 shares of BowX Class B Common Stock into 9,075,000 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock in connection with the transaction in accordance with the terms of the Merger Agreement;
- The exchange of all issued and outstanding WeWork Preferred Stock into a number of shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock based on the Exchange Ratio (using the rounded exchange ratio of 0.8257);
- The issuance of the First Warrant to SBWW and/or its designees to purchase New WeWork Class A Common Stock based on the Exchange Ratio (using the rounded exchange ratio of 0.8257);
- The exchange of all issued and outstanding WeWork Common Stock into a number of shares of New WeWork Common Stock based on the Exchange Ratio (using the rounded exchange ratio of 0.8257).

At the Closing, all outstanding WeWork Options, WeWork Restricted Stock Units Awards (RSUs) and warrants will be converted into New WeWork Options and New WeWork Warrants to purchase New WeWork Class A Common Stock, and New WeWork Restricted Stock Unit Awards.

Each WeWork option will be converted into an option to purchase shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock with the number of shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock issuable for such WeWork option determined by multiplying the number of WeWork shares that were issuable upon exercise of such WeWork option multiplied by the Exchange Ratio, rounded down to the nearest whole share. Additionally, the exercise price of each converted option will be determined by dividing the exercise price of the respective WeWork Options by the Exchange Ratio, rounded up to the nearest whole cent.

Each award of WeWork restricted stock units will be converted into New WeWork Restricted Stock Units with the number of restricted stock units to be converted determined by multiplying the number of WeWork Common Stock underlying such New WeWork Restricted Stock Units multiplied by the Exchange Ratio.

The following summarizes the pro forma New WeWork Class A Common Stock and New WeWork Class C Common Stock issued and outstanding immediately after the Business Combination and Related Transactions, presented under the two assumed redemption scenarios, excluding the potential dilutive effect of outstanding stock options, restricted stock units, and common stock warrants:

| | Pro Forma Combined Share Ownership in New WeWork | | | |

| BowX Public Stockholders | 48,300,000 | 6.7% | 5,068,902 | 0.8% |
| PIPE Investors | 80,000,000 | 11.2% | 80,000,000 | 11.9% |

- (1) Assumes that 43,231,098 of BowX’s outstanding public shares (being our estimate of the maximum number of public shares that could be redeemed in connection with the Business Combination in order to have at least $5,000,001 of net tangible assets upon Closing) are redeemed in connection with the Business Combination. In the event that BowX Class A shares are redeemed in connection with the Business Combination but the number of shares redeemed is less than 43,231,098, the ownership percentages set forth above will vary on approximately a proportional basis between the two scenarios. For example, if we assume that the number of BowX Class A shares redeemed in connection with the Business Combination total 21,615,549, BowX Public Stockholders will hold a total of 26,684,451 shares of New WeWork common stock at Closing, representing a 3.8% ownership interest.
- (2) Total Consideration to be issued to WeWork is 655,300,000 shares of New WeWork Common Stock. The total shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock to be issued includes shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock to be issued in respect of outstanding WeWork Common Stock and WeWork Preferred Stock plus shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock underlying or exchangeable for unvested and/or unexercised in-the-money stock options, restricted stock units, restricted stock awards, in-the-money warrants, WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units other than WeWork Partnerships Profits Units with a catch-up base amount greater than the Per Share Merger Consideration (including corresponding shares of New WeWork Class C Common Stock), the WeWork Series C Convertible Note and in-the-money warrants, respectively, at the Closing. Shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock underlying or exchangeable for out-of-the-money stock options and warrants are not included in the Aggregate Merger Consideration calculation. The number of shares in the Aggregate Merger Consideration does not include both the number of shares of New WeWork Class C Common Stock and the number of related shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock. As of September 14, 2021, the Exchange Ratio is expected to be approximately 0.8257 and there are expected to be issued approximately 558,479,201 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock and 19,926,267 shares of New WeWork Class C Common Stock to WeWork stockholders as of the Closing (using the rounded exchange ratio of 0.8257 and not including shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock underlying or exchangeable for unvested and/or unexercised stock options, restricted stock units, restricted stock awards, warrants and WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units). The numbers in this table reflect the pro forma combined share ownership in New WeWork using the expected Exchange Ratio as of September 14, 2021, and the number of shares as of June 30, 2021, based on the assumptions described above. Inclusion of all such securities would dilute the ownership of all stockholders of New WeWork.

The unaudited pro forma condensed combined financial information is based on and should be read in conjunction with the audited historical financial statements of each of BowX and WeWork and the notes thereto, as well as the disclosures contained in the sections titled “BowX’s Management’s Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations” and “WeWork’s Management’s Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations”.

On March 25, 2021, BowX Acquisition Corp., a Delaware corporation (“BowX”), BowX Merger Subsidiary Corp., a Delaware corporation (“Merger Sub”) and a direct, wholly owned subsidiary of BowX, and WeWork Inc., a Delaware corporation (“WeWork”), entered into an Agreement and Plan of Merger (the “Merger Agreement”), pursuant to which, among other transactions, on the terms and conditions set forth therein, Merger Sub is to merge with and into WeWork (the “First Merger”), with WeWork surviving the First Merger as a wholly owned subsidiary of BowX (WeWork, in its capacity as the surviving corporation of the First Merger, is sometimes referred to as the “Surviving Corporation”); and as promptly as practicable and as part of the same overall transaction as the First Merger, such Surviving Corporation will be merged with and into BowX Merger Subsidiary II, LLC, a Delaware limited liability company (“Merger Sub II”) and a direct wholly owned subsidiary of BowX (the “Second Merger” and, together with the First Merger, the “Mergers” and, collectively with the other transactions described in the Merger Agreement, the “Business Combination”), with Merger Sub II being the surviving entity of the Second Merger (Merger Sub II, in its capacity as the surviving entity of the Second Merger, is sometimes referred to herein as the “Surviving Entity”). Following the Closing (as defined herein), BowX intends to change its name to WeWork Inc. (such post-Closing entity, “New WeWork”).

The following tables present selected pro forma information after giving effect to the Business Combination and Related Transactions presented under two scenarios:

- Assuming No Redemption: This presentation assumes that no public stockholders of BowX exercise redemption rights with respect to their public shares for a pro rata share of the funds in the trust account.
- Assuming Maximum Possible Redemption: This presentation assumes 43,231,098 of the public shares are redeemed for their pro rata share of the funds in BowX’s trust account. This scenario gives effect to BowX’s public share redemptions of 43,231,098 shares for aggregate redemption payments of $432.3 million. The Merger Agreement includes as a condition to closing the business combination that, at the closing, BowX will have a minimum of $800 million in cash comprising (i) the amount of cash available in the trust account immediately prior to closing, after deducting the amount required to satisfy the share redemption amount (but prior to payment of any (a) deferred underwriting commissions held in the trust account and (b) any transaction expenses of WeWork and BowX), and (ii) the PIPE investment amount received by BowX prior to or substantially concurrently with the closing. The proceeds from the PIPE investment are expected to satisfy the minimum cash requirement.

Note 1. Basis of Presentation

The pro forma adjustments have been prepared as if the Business Combination and Related Transactions had been consummated on June 30, 2021, in the case of the unaudited pro forma condensed combined balance sheet and on January 1, 2020, the beginning of the earliest period presented in the unaudited pro forma condensed combined statement of operations. The unaudited pro forma condensed combined financial information has been prepared assuming that, as of September 14, 2021, the Exchange Ratio is expected to be approximately 0.8257.

The unaudited pro forma condensed combined financial information has been prepared assuming the following methods of accounting in accordance with U.S. GAAP and SEC rules and regulations.

The historical financial information of BowX and WeWork has been adjusted in the unaudited pro forma condensed combined financial information to reflect transaction accounting adjustments related to the Business Combination and Related Transactions in accordance with U.S. GAAP.

Transaction costs that are determined to be directly attributable and incremental to the transaction will be deferred and recorded as other assets in the balance sheet leading up until the Closing. For the pro forma purposes, such costs will be recorded as a reduction in cash with a corresponding reduction of additional paid-in capital.

Notwithstanding the legal form of the Business Combination pursuant to the Merger Agreement the Business Combination will be accounted for under Financial Accounting Standards Board's Accounting Standards Codification Topic 805, Business Combinations ("ASC 805") as a reverse acquisition and a recapitalization of WeWork. The Business Combination will be accounted for as a reverse acquisition because WeWork has been determined to be the accounting acquirer primarily based on the evaluation of the following facts and circumstances taking into consideration both the no redemption and maximum redemption scenario:

- Existing WeWork stockholders comprise a relative majority of the voting power of the combined company,
- WeWork's operations prior to the acquisition comprise the only ongoing operations of New WeWork,
- The majority of New WeWork's board of directors are being appointed by WeWork Stockholders, and
- The majority of New WeWork's senior management are being comprised of WeWork's senior management.

Accordingly, the Business Combination is expected to be reflected as the equivalent of WeWork issuing stock for the net assets of BowX, accompanied by a recapitalization. Under this method of accounting, BowX is treated as the "acquired" company for financial reporting purposes. The net assets of BowX are stated at historical cost, with no goodwill or other intangible assets recorded. Operations prior to the Business Combination are those of WeWork.

Following the Closing (as defined below) of the Business Combination and Related Transactions, holders of BowX Class A Common Stock exercising redemption rights will receive their per share redemption price out of the funds in the trust account. Each BowX Stockholder that is a holder of BowX Class A Common Stock may elect to redeem all or a portion of its BowX Class A Common Stock at a per-share price, payable in cash, equal to a pro rata share of the aggregate amount on deposit in the trust account (including any interest earned on the funds held in the trust account).

As part of the preparation of these unaudited pro forma condensed combined financial statements, certain reclassifications were made to align WeWork's and BowX's financial statement presentation. Upon completion of the Business Combination and Related Transactions, management will perform a comprehensive review of WeWork's and BowX's accounting policies. As a result of the review, management may identify differences between the accounting policies of the two entities which, when conformed, could have a material impact on the financial statements of the post-combination company.

Note 2. Description of Business Combination

On March 25, 2021, BowX entered into the Merger Agreement with Merger Sub and WeWork, pursuant to which, among other things, (i) Merger Sub will merge with and into WeWork, the separate corporate existence of Merger Sub will cease and WeWork will be the surviving corporation and a wholly owned subsidiary of BowX (the "First Merger") and (ii) as soon as practicable following the First Merger and as part of the same overall transaction as the First Merger, the surviving corporation will merge with and into Merger Sub II, with Merger Sub II being the surviving entity of such merger (the "Second Merger" and together with the First Merger, the "Mergers"). In connection with the transaction, BowX will change its name to WeWork, Inc.

In accordance with the terms and subject to the conditions of the Merger Agreement, the closing of the First Merger (the "Closing") will take place on the date which is two (2) business days after the first date on which all conditions set forth in Article IX of the Merger Agreement have been satisfied or waived (other than those conditions that by their terms are to be satisfied at the Closing) or such other time and place as BowX and WeWork may mutually agree in writing. The date on which the Closing actually occurs is referred to in the Merger Agreement as the "Closing Date." The date and time the First Merger becomes effective is referred to as the "Effective Time."

As a result of and upon the Closing, among other things, all outstanding shares of WeWork Capital Stock immediately prior to the Effective Time of the First Merger (other than shares of WeWork Class C Common Stock, Treasury Shares, Dissenting Shares and shares of WeWork Capital Stock reserved in respect of WeWork Awards (each as defined in this proxy statement/prospectus section entitled "BCA Proposal — Consideration and Conversion of Certain WeWork Securities")) will be cancelled in exchange for the right to receive a portion of the Aggregate Merger Consideration.

Additionally, as a result of and upon the Closing, in accordance with the applicable terms of the WeWork Warrants, the WeWork Warrants will be converted into the right to receive a warrant to purchase shares of New WeWork Common Stock upon the same terms and conditions as are in effect with respect to such WeWork Warrant immediately prior to the Effective Time except that (i) such Converted New WeWork Warrant will relate to that whole number of shares of New WeWork Common Stock (rounded down to the nearest whole share) equal to the number of shares of WeWork Capital Stock subject to such WeWork Warrants, multiplied by the Exchange Ratio, and (ii) the exercise price per share for each such Converted New WeWork Warrant shall be equal to the exercise price per share of such WeWork Warrants in effect immediately prior to the Effective Time, divided by the Exchange Ratio (the exercise price per share, as so determined, being rounded up to the nearest full cent). An additional 80,000,000 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock will be purchased (at a price of $10.00 per share) at the Closing by certain third-party investors, for a total aggregate purchase price of $800,000,000. The proceeds of the PIPE Investment, together with the amounts remaining in BowX's trust account as of immediately following the Effective Time of the First Merger, will be retained by New WeWork following the Closing. For further details, see the section entitled "BCA Proposal — The Merger Agreement — Consideration and Conversion of Certain WeWork Securities — Aggregate Merger Consideration."

Pursuant to the Organizational Documents, a public stockholder may request of BowX that BowX redeem all or a portion of its public stock for cash if the Business Combination is consummated determined by the pro rata portion of the amount then on deposit in the trust account calculated as of two business days prior to the consummation of the Business Combination.

Note 4. Pro Forma Net Loss Per Share

On February 26, 2021, in connection with the Settlement Agreement (as defined in Note 16 of the notes to WeWork's unaudited interim condensed consolidated financial statements included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus), all of the outstanding shares of Class B Common Stock were automatically converted into shares of Class A Common Stock and the shares of Class C Common Stock of the Company now have one vote per share, instead of three (the “Class B Conversion”).

The unaudited pro forma basic and diluted loss per share attributable to Class A Common Stockholders for the six months ended June 30, 2021 and Class A and Class B Common Stockholders for the year ended December 31, 2020 has been prepared to give effect to adjustments to the numerator in the pro forma basic and diluted net loss per share calculation to:

- include incremental incentive compensation expense related to bonus awards related to the Business Combination and Related Transactions;
- include incremental stock-based compensation expense related to restricted stock units for which the performance condition is deemed to be satisfied upon Closing;
- include incremental expense related to the fair value of contingently issuable shares related to warrants issued to principal stockholders;
- remove net gain from investments held in trust account;
- remove remeasurement gains on WeWork’s Convertible Preferred Stock warrant liability; and

The unaudited pro forma net basic and diluted net loss per share attributable to Class A Common Stockholders for the six months ended June 30, 2021 and Class A and Class B Common Stockholders for the year ended December 31, 2020 has been prepared to give effect to adjustments to the denominator in the pro forma basic and diluted net income per share calculation to give effect to:

- the conversion of 9,075,000 shares of BowX Class B Common Stock into 9,075,000 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock in connection with the transaction in accordance with the terms of the Merger Agreement;

The Company used the if-converted method as though the conversion had occurred as of the beginning of the period or the original date of issuance, if later;
- the automatic conversion of the convertible note that is convertible into shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock based on the Exchange Ratio, which automatically converts in connection with the Business Combination. The convertible note is convertible into 566,933 shares of WeWork Series C Preferred Stock if converted prior to Closing. The Company used the if-converted method as though the conversion had occurred as of the beginning of the period or the original date of issuance, if later;

INFORMATION ABOUT BOWX

Unless the context otherwise requires, all references in this section to the “Company,” “we,” “us” or “our” refer to BowX prior to the consummation of the Business Combination.

General

BowX is a blank check company formed under the laws of the State of Delaware on May 19, 2020. We were formed for the purpose of entering into a merger, share exchange, asset acquisition, stock purchase, recapitalization reorganization or other similar business combination with one or more businesses or entities. Although not limited to a particular industry or geographic location for purposes of consummating a business combination, BowX focuses on businesses in the technology, media and telecommunications (“TMT”) industries.

On August 7, 2020, we consummated our initial public offering of 42,000,000 units, at $10.00 per unit, and, on August 13, 2020, pursuant to the underwriters’ exercise of the full over-allotment option, we consummated the sale of an additional 6,300,000 units, at $10.00 per unit, in total, generating aggregate gross proceeds of $483,000,000. Simultaneously with the closing of each of our initial public offering and the exercise of the underwriters’ exercise of the over-allotment option, we consummated the sale of an aggregate of 6,933,333 and 840,000 private placement warrants at a price of $1.50 each to certain of our initial stockholders and certain funds and accounts managed by subsidiaries of BlackRock, Inc., generating gross proceeds of approximately $11,660,000.

Upon the closing of the sale of the units in our initial public offering and the sale of the private placement warrants, $483.0 million ($10.00 per unit) was placed in a trust account located in the United States, which was invested in U.S. government securities, within the meaning set forth in Section 2(a)(16) of the Investment Company Act, with a maturity of 185 days or less or in an open-ended investment company that holds itself out as a money market fund selected by the Company meeting the conditions of Rule 2a-7 of the Investment Company Act, as determined by BowX. As of June 30, 2021, funds in the trust account totaled $483.1 million. These funds will remain in the trust account, except for the withdrawal of interest to pay taxes, if any, until the earliest of: (i) the completion of our initial business combination; (ii) the redemption of any of our public stock to the public stockholders properly submitted in connection with a stockholder vote to amend certain provisions of the Existing Charter prior to an initial business combination and (iii) the redemption of 100% of the shares of our public stock if we do not complete a business combination by August 7, 2022.

Effecting BowX’s Initial Business Combination

Lack of Business Diversification

For an indefinite period of time after the completion of our initial business combination, the prospects for our success may depend entirely on the future performance of a single business. Unlike other entities that have the resources to complete business combinations with multiple entities in one or several industries, it is probable that we will not have the resources to diversify our operations and mitigate the risks of being in a single line of business. By completing our business combination with only a single entity, our lack of diversification may:

- subject us to negative economic, competitive, and regulatory developments, any or all of which may have a substantial adverse impact on the particular industry in which we operate after our initial business combination; and
- cause us to depend on the marketing and sale of a single product or limited number of products or services.

Limited Ability to Evaluate WeWork’s Management Team

Although we closely scrutinized the management of WeWork when evaluating the desirability of effecting our initial business combination with that business, our assessment of WeWork’s management may not prove to be correct. In addition, future management may not have the necessary skills, qualifications or abilities to manage a public company. Furthermore, the future role of members of our management team, if any, in New WeWork cannot presently be stated with any certainty. While Vivek Ranadivé will remain associated with New WeWork as a director following the Business Combination, it is presently unknown if he will devote his full efforts to our affairs subsequent to the Business Combination. The determination as to whether any members of our management team will remain with the combined company will be made at the time of the Business Combination.

Following the Business Combination, to the extent that we deem it necessary, we may seek to recruit additional managers to supplement the incumbent management team of WeWork. We cannot assure you that we will have the ability to recruit additional managers, or that additional managers will have the requisite skills, knowledge or experience necessary to enhance the incumbent management.

Fair Market Value of Target Business

The rules of Nasdaq require that BowX's Business Combination must be with one or more operating businesses or assets with a fair market value equal to at least 80% of the assets held in the trust account (net of amounts disbursed to management for working capital purposes, if permitted, and excluding the amount of any deferred underwriting fees and taxes payable on the income earned on the trust account). BowX's board of directors determined that this test was met in connection with the proposed Business Combination. See the section entitled "BCA Proposal Satisfaction of 80% Test" for more details.

Permitted Purchases of, and Other Transactions with Respect to, Our Securities

Our initial stockholders, directors, officers, advisors or their respective affiliates may purchase public stock or public warrants or a combination thereof in privately negotiated transactions or in the open market either prior to or following the completion of the Business Combination. There is no limit on the number of securities such persons may purchase. Additionally, at any time at or prior to the Business Combination, subject to applicable securities laws (including with respect to material non-public information), our initial stockholders, directors, officers, advisors or their respective affiliates may enter into transactions with investors and others to provide them with incentives to acquire public stock, vote their public stock in favor of our initial business combination or not redeem their public stock. However, they have no current commitments, plans or intentions to engage in such purchases or other transactions and have not formulated any terms or conditions for any such purchases or other transactions. None of the funds held in the trust account will be used to purchase public stock or warrants in such transactions. Such persons will be subject to restrictions in making any such purchases when they are in possession of any material non-public information or if such purchases are prohibited by Regulation M under the Exchange Act. Such a purchase may include a contractual acknowledgement that such stockholder, although still the record holder of our stock, is no longer the beneficial owner thereof and therefore agrees not to exercise its redemption rights.

In the event that our initial stockholders, directors, officers, advisors or their respective affiliates purchase public stock in privately negotiated transactions from public stockholders who have already elected to exercise their redemption rights or submitted a proxy to vote against the Business Combination, such selling stockholders would be required to revoke their prior elections to redeem their stock and any proxy to vote against the Business Combination. We do not currently anticipate that such purchases, if any, would constitute a tender offer subject to the tender offer rules under the Exchange Act or a going-private transaction subject to the going-private rules under the Exchange Act; however, if the purchasers determine at the time of any such purchases that the purchases are subject to such rules, the purchasers will be required to comply with such rules.

The purpose of any such transaction could be to (i) vote such shares in favor of the Business Combination and thereby increase the likelihood of obtaining stockholder approval of the Business Combination, (ii) reduce the number of public warrants outstanding or to vote such warrants on any matters submitted to the warrant holders for approval in connection with the Business Combination or (iii) satisfy the Minimum Available Cash Condition, where it appears that such requirement would otherwise not be met. Any such transactions may result in the completion of the Business Combination when it may not otherwise have been possible.

In addition, if such purchases are made, the public “float” of BowX Class A Common Stock or public warrants and the number of beneficial holders of our securities may be reduced, possibly making it difficult to obtain or maintain the quotation, listing or trading of our securities on a national securities exchange.

It is likely that our initial stockholders, officers, directors and/or their respective affiliates would identify the stockholders with whom they may pursue privately negotiated transactions by either the stockholders contacting us or them directly or by our receipt of redemption requests submitted by stockholders (in the case of public stock) following our mailing of proxy materials in connection with the Business Combination. To the extent that our initial stockholders, officers, directors, advisors or their respective affiliates enter into a private transaction, they would identify and contact only potential selling or redeeming stockholders who have expressed their election to redeem their stock for a pro rata share of the trust account or vote against the Business Combination. Our initial stockholders, officers, directors, advisors or their respective affiliates are restricted from purchasing shares unless such purchases comply with Regulation M under the Exchange Act and the other federal securities laws.

Redemption Rights for Public Stockholders Upon Completion of Our Initial Business Combination

We are providing our public stockholders with the opportunity to redeem all or a portion of their BowX Class A Common Stock upon the completion of our initial business combination. Pursuant to the Existing Charter, we are:

- conducting the redemptions in conjunction with a proxy solicitation pursuant to Regulation 14A of the Exchange Act, which regulates the solicitation of proxies, and not pursuant to the tender offer rules, and
- filing proxy materials with the SEC.

As described above, we will complete the Business Combination only if a majority of the outstanding shares of BowX Common Stock voted are voted in favor of the Business Combination. A quorum for such meeting will consist of the holders attending virtually or by proxy of shares of outstanding capital stock of the Company representing a majority of the voting power of all outstanding shares of BowX capital stock entitled to vote at such meeting. Our initial stockholders, officers and directors will count toward this quorum and have agreed to vote any founder shares and any public shares held by them in favor of our initial business combination. As a result, in addition to their founder shares, we would need only 18,112,500, or 37.5% (assuming all outstanding shares are voted), of the 48,300,000 public shares sold in the initial public offering to be voted in favor of a transaction in order to have the Business Combination approved. However, because we generally only need a majority of the outstanding shares to be voted in favor of a proposed business combination to have such transaction approved, the number of shares of public stock needed to be voted in favor of any transaction decreases as the overall number of shares of public stock voted decreases. Accordingly, we would need only 3,018,751, or 6.25%, of the 48,300,000 shares of public stock sold in our initial public offering to be voted in favor of a transaction if only the minimum number of shares representing a quorum are voted in order to have the Business Combination approved (assuming the underwriters’ exercise of the over-allotment option is not exercised). These quorums and voting thresholds, and the voting agreements of our initial stockholders, officers and directors, may make it more likely that we will consummate the Business Combination. Each public stockholder may elect to redeem his, her or its shares of public stock irrespective of whether he, she or it votes for or against the proposed transaction or do not vote at all.

Our Existing Charter provides that we will only redeem our public shares so long as (after such redemption) our net tangible assets will be at least $5,000,001 either immediately prior to or upon consummation of our initial business combination (so that we do not then become subject to the SEC’s “penny stock” rules) or any greater net tangible asset or cash requirement which may be contained in the agreement relating to our initial business combination. In the event the aggregate cash consideration we would be required to pay for all shares of BowX Class A Common Stock that are validly submitted for redemption plus any amount required to satisfy cash conditions pursuant to the terms of the proposed Business Combination exceed the aggregate amount of cash available to us, we will not complete the Business Combination or redeem any shares, and all shares of BowX Class A Common Stock submitted for redemption will be returned to the holders thereof, and instead we may search for an alternate business combination.

Limitations on Redemptions Upon Completion of Our Initial Business Combination

Notwithstanding the foregoing, our Existing Charter provides that a public stockholder, together with any affiliate of such stockholder or any other person with whom such stockholder is acting in concert or as a “group” (as defined under Section 13 of the Exchange Act), will be restricted from redeeming its shares with respect to more than an aggregate of 15% of the shares sold in our initial public offering (“Excess Shares”) owned by them, without our prior consent. We believe this restriction discourages stockholders from accumulating large blocks of shares, and subsequent attempts by such holders to use their ability to exercise their redemption rights against a proposed business combination as a means to force us or our management to purchase their shares at a significant premium to the then-current market price or on other undesirable terms. Absent this provision, a public stockholder holding more than an aggregate of 15% of the shares sold in our initial public offering could threaten to exercise its redemption rights if such holder’s shares are not purchased by us or our management at a premium to the then-current market price or on other undesirable terms. By limiting our stockholders’ ability to redeem no more than 15% of the shares sold in our initial public offering, we believe we limit the ability of a small group of stockholders to unreasonably attempt to block our ability to complete our initial business combination, particularly in connection with a business combination with a target that requires as a closing condition that we have a minimum net worth or a certain amount of cash. However, our Existing Charter does not restrict our stockholders’ ability to vote all of their shares (including Excess Shares) for or against our initial business combination.

Redemption of Shares of Public Stock and Liquidation if No Business Combination

Our Existing Charter provides that we have until August 7, 2022, to complete the Business Combination or another initial business combination. If we have not completed our initial business combination within such time period or during any extended time that we have to consummate a business combination beyond August 7, 2022, as a result of a stockholder vote to amend our Existing Charter (“Extension Period”), we will: (i) cease all operations except for the purpose of winding up; (ii) as promptly as reasonably possible but not more than ten business days thereafter, redeem the public stock, at a per-share price, payable in cash, equal to the aggregate amount then on deposit in the trust account including interest (less up to $100,000 of interest to pay dissolution expenses), divided by the number of then outstanding shares of public stock, which redemption will completely extinguish public stockholders’ rights as stockholders (including the right to receive further liquidating distributions, if any); and (iii) as promptly as reasonably possible following such redemption, subject to the approval of our remaining stockholders and our board of directors, dissolve and liquidate, subject in the case of clauses (ii) and (iii) to our obligations under the DGCL to provide for claims of creditors and the requirements of other applicable law. There will be no redemption rights or liquidating distributions with respect to our warrants, which will expire worthless if we fail to complete our initial business combination within the allotted time period.

The Sponsor and Sponsor Persons have waived their rights to liquidating distributions from the trust account with respect to any Class B Common Stock held by them if we fail to complete our initial business combination within the allotted time period. However, if they acquire public stock in the open market they will be entitled to liquidating distributions from the trust account with respect to such shares of public stock if we fail to complete our initial business combination within the allotted time period.

We will not propose any amendment to our Existing Charter (A) to modify the substance or timing of our obligation to allow redemption in connection with our initial business combination or certain amendments to our Existing Charter or to redeem 100% of our public stock if we do not complete our initial business combination by August 7, 2022, or (B) with respect to any other provision relating to stockholders' rights or pre-initial business combination activity, unless we provide our public stockholders with the opportunity to redeem their public stock upon approval of any such amendment at a per-share price, payable in cash, equal to the aggregate amount then on deposit in the trust account, divided by the number of then outstanding shares of public stock. However, we will only redeem our public stock so long as (after such redemption) our net tangible assets will be at least $5,000,001 either immediately prior to or upon consummation of our initial business combination (so that we do not then become subject to the SEC's "penny stock" rules). If this optional redemption right is exercised with respect to an excessive number of shares of public stock such that we cannot satisfy the net tangible asset requirement (described above) we would not proceed with the amendment or the related redemption of our public stock.

BowX expects that all costs and expenses associated with implementing its plan of dissolution, as well as payments to any creditors, will be funded from amounts remaining out of the approximately $1,250,000 of proceeds held outside the trust account, although it cannot assure you that there will be sufficient funds for such purpose. However, if those funds are not sufficient to cover the costs and expenses associated with implementing BowX's plan of dissolution, to the extent that there is any interest accrued in the trust account not required to pay taxes, BowX may request the trustee to release to it an additional amount of up to $100,000 of such accrued interest to pay those costs and expenses.

If we were to expend all of the net proceeds from our initial public offering and the sale of the private placement warrants, other than the proceeds deposited in the trust account, and without taking into account interest, if any, earned on the trust account and any tax payments or expenses for dissolution of the trust, the per-share redemption amount received by stockholders upon our dissolution would be $10.00. The proceeds deposited in the trust account could, however, become subject to the claims of BowX's creditors which would have higher priority than the claims of BowX's public stockholders. BowX cannot assure you that the actual per-share redemption amount received by public stockholders will not be substantially less than $10.00. See the section entitled "Risk Factors — Risks Related to the Business Combination and BowX — If third parties bring claims against BowX, the proceeds held in the trust account could be reduced and the per share redemption amount received by stockholders may be less than $10.00 per share (which was the offering price per unit in our initial public offering)" and other risk factors contained herein. While BowX intends to pay such amounts, if any, BowX cannot assure you that BowX will have funds sufficient to pay or provide for all creditors' claims. Under Section 281(b) of the DGCL, our plan of dissolution must provide for all claims against us to be paid in full or make provision for payments to be made in full, as applicable, if there are sufficient assets. These claims must be paid or provided for before we make any distribution of our remaining assets to our stockholders. While we intend to pay such amounts, if any, we cannot assure you that we will have funds sufficient to pay or provide for all creditors' claims.

Although we seek to have all vendors, service providers, prospective target businesses and other entities with which we do business execute agreements with us waiving any right, title, interest and claim of any kind in or to any monies held in the trust account for the benefit of our public stockholders, there is no guarantee that they will execute such agreements or even if they execute such agreements that they would be prevented from bringing claims against the trust account including, but not limited to, fraudulent inducement, breach of fiduciary responsibility or other similar claims, as well as claims challenging the enforceability of the waiver, in each case in order to gain an advantage with respect to a claim against our assets, including the funds held in the trust account. If any third party refuses to execute an agreement waiving such claims to the monies held in the trust account, our management will perform an analysis of the alternatives available to it and will only enter into an agreement with a third party that has not executed a waiver if management believes that such third party's engagement would be significantly more beneficial to us than any alternative. Examples of possible instances where we may engage a third party that refuses to execute a waiver include the engagement of a third-party consultant whose particular expertise or skills are believed by management to be significantly superior to those of other consultants that would agree to execute a waiver or in cases where management is unable to find a service provider willing to execute a waiver. Our independent registered public accounting firm did not execute agreements with us waiving such claims to the monies held in the trust account, nor did the underwriters of our initial public offering.

In the event that the proceeds in the trust account are reduced below (i) $10.00 per share of public stock or (ii) such lesser amount per share of public stock held in the trust account as of the date of the liquidation of the trust account, due to reductions in the value of the trust assets, in each case net of the amount of interest which may be withdrawn to pay taxes, and our Sponsor asserts that it is unable to satisfy its indemnification obligations or that it has no indemnification obligations related to a particular claim, our independent directors would determine whether to take legal action against our Sponsor to enforce its indemnification obligations. While we currently expect that our independent directors would take legal action on our behalf against our Sponsor to enforce its indemnification obligations to us, it is possible that our independent directors in exercising their business judgment may choose not to do so if, for example, the cost of such legal action is deemed by the independent directors to be too high relative to the amount recoverable or if the independent directors determine that a favorable outcome is not likely. We have not asked our Sponsor to reserve for such indemnification obligations. Therefore, we believe it is unlikely the Sponsor would be able to satisfy those obligations. Accordingly, we cannot assure you that due to claims of creditors the actual value of the per-share redemption price will not be less than $10.00 per share of public stock.

We seek to reduce the possibility that our Sponsor will have to indemnify the trust account due to claims of creditors by endeavoring to have all vendors, service providers, prospective target businesses and other entities with which we do business execute agreements with us waiving any right, title, interest or claim of any kind in or to monies held in the trust account. The amounts due to parties that did not waive their right to seek repayment from funds in the trust account are not material and we do not expect significant increases in such amounts prior to the Business Combination. Our Sponsor will not be liable as to any claims under our indemnity of the underwriters of our initial public offering against certain liabilities, including liabilities under the Securities Act. We have access to up to approximately $1,250,000 from the proceeds of our initial public offering and the sale of the private placement warrants with which to pay any such potential claims. In the event that we liquidate and it is subsequently determined that the reserve for claims and liabilities is insufficient, stockholders who received funds from our trust account could be liable for claims made by creditors. In the event that our offering expenses exceed our estimate of $750,000, we may fund such excess with funds from the funds not to be held in the trust account. In such case, the amount of funds we intend to be held outside the trust account would decrease by a corresponding amount. Conversely, in the event that the offering expenses are less than our estimate of $750,000, the amount of funds we intend to be held outside the trust account would increase by a corresponding amount. See the section entitled “Risk Factors — Risks Related to the Business Combination and BowX — If third parties bring claims against BowX, the proceeds held in the trust account could be reduced and the per share redemption amount received by stockholders may be less than $10.00 per share (which was the offering price per unit in our initial public offering)” and other risk factors contained herein.

If we file a bankruptcy petition or an involuntary bankruptcy petition is filed against us that is not dismissed, the proceeds held in the trust account could be subject to applicable bankruptcy law, and may be included in our bankruptcy estate and subject to the claims of third parties with priority over the claims of our stockholders. To the extent any bankruptcy claims deplete the trust account, we cannot assure you we will be able to return $10.00 per share to our public stockholders. Additionally, if we file a bankruptcy petition or an involuntary bankruptcy petition is filed against us that is not dismissed, any distributions received by stockholders could be viewed under applicable debtor/creditor and/or bankruptcy laws as either a “preferential transfer” or a “fraudulent conveyance.” As a result, a bankruptcy court could seek to recover some or all amounts received by our stockholders. Furthermore, our board of directors may be viewed as having breached its fiduciary duty to our creditors and/or may have acted in bad faith, thereby exposing itself and our company to claims of punitive damages, by paying public stockholders from the trust account prior to addressing the claims of creditors. We cannot assure you that claims will not be brought against us for these reasons. See the section entitled “Risk Factors — Risks Related to the Business Combination and BowX — If, after BowX distributes the proceeds in the trust account to the public stockholders, BowX files a winding-up or bankruptcy petition or an involuntary winding-up or bankruptcy petition is filed against it that is not dismissed, a bankruptcy court may seek to recover such proceeds, and BowX and its board of directors may be exposed to claims of punitive damages.”

Our public stockholders will be entitled to receive funds from the trust account only on the earliest of (a) the completion of our initial business combination and then, only in connection with those shares of public stock that such stockholder has properly elected to redeem, (b) the redemption of any share of public stock properly submitted in connection with a stockholder vote to amend our Existing Charter (i) to modify the substance or timing of our obligation to allow redemption in connection with our initial business combination or to redeem 100% of our public stock if we do not complete our initial business combination by August 7, 2022, or (ii) with respect to any other provisions relating to stockholders’ rights or pre-initial business combination activity and (c) the redemption of our public stock if we have not completed our business combination by August 7, 2022, subject to applicable law. Stockholders who do not exercise their rights to the funds in connection with an amendment to our Existing Charter would still have rights to the funds in connection with a subsequent business combination. In no other circumstances will a stockholder have any right or interest of any kind to or in the trust account. Holders of warrants will not have any rights to proceeds held in the trust account with respect to the warrants.

Facilities

Our executive offices are located at 2400 Sand Hill Rd Suite 200, Menlo Park, California 94025 and our telephone number is (650) 352-4877. Our executive offices are provided to us by an affiliate of our officers and directors for no charge. We consider our current office space adequate for our current operations.

Upon consummation of the Business Combination, the principal executive offices of New WeWork will be located at 575 Lexington Avenue, New York, NY, 10022.

Employees

We currently have two executive officers. These individuals are not obligated to devote any specific number of hours to our matters but they intend to devote as much of their time as they deem necessary to our affairs until we have completed our initial business combination. The amount of time they will devote in any time period will vary based on whether a target business has been selected for our initial business combination and the stage of the initial business combination process we are in. We do not intend to have any full-time employees prior to the completion of the Business Combination.

Competition

If we succeed in effecting the Business Combination, there will be, in all likelihood, significant competition from New WeWork’s competitors. We cannot assure you that, subsequent to the Business Combination, New WeWork will have the resources or ability to compete effectively. Information regarding New WeWork’s competition is set forth in the section entitled “Information about WeWork — Competition.”

Number, Terms of Office and Appointment of Directors and Officers

Our board of directors consists of five members and is divided into three classes with only one class of directors being elected in each year and each class (except for those directors appointed prior to our first annual meeting of stockholders) serving a three-year term. The term of office of the first class of directors, consisting of Vijay Advani, will expire at our first annual meeting of stockholders. The term of office of the second class of directors, consisting of Eric C.W. Dunn and Lori Wright, will expire at the second annual meeting of stockholders. The term of office of the third class of directors, consisting of Vivek Ranadivé and Murray Rode, will expire at the third annual meeting of stockholders. Our directors and the structure of the board will change if the Business Combination is consummated See the section entitled “Organizational Documents Proposals” and “Director Election Proposal” for more details.

Our officers are appointed by the board of directors and serve at the discretion of the board of directors, rather than for specific terms of office. Our board of directors is authorized to appoint persons to the offices set forth in our Existing Bylaws as it deems appropriate. Our Existing Bylaws provide that our officers may consist of one or more Chairmen of the Board, one or more Chief Executive Officers, a President, a Chief Financial Officer, a Chief Investment Officer, Vice Presidents, Secretary, Treasurer and such other officers as may be determined by the board of directors.

Director Independence

Nasdaq listing standards require that a majority of our board of directors be independent. An “independent director” is defined generally as a person other than an officer or employee of the company or its subsidiaries or any other individual having a relationship which, in the opinion of the company’s board of directors, would interfere with the director’s exercise of independent judgment in carrying out the responsibilities of a director. Our board of directors has determined that Messrs. Dunn and Advani and Ms. Wright are “independent directors” as defined in the Nasdaq listing standards and applicable SEC rules. Our audit committee is composed of independent directors meeting Nasdaq’s additional requirements applicable to members of the audit committee. Our independent directors will have regularly scheduled meetings at which only independent directors are present.

Committees of the Board of Directors

We have three standing committees: an audit committee, a nominating committee, and a compensation committee. Each such committee is composed of solely independent directors.

Audit Committee

Effective August 7, 2020, we established an audit committee of the board of directors, which consists of Eric C.W. Dunn, Vijay Advani, and Lori Wright. Under the Nasdaq listing standards and applicable SEC rules, we are required to have at least three members of the audit committee, all of whom must be independent, subject to certain phase-in provisions which we are not taking advantage of. Messrs. Dunn and Advani and Ms. Wright meet the independent director standard under Nasdaq listing standards and under Rule 10-A-3(b)(1) of the Exchange Act.

Each member of the audit committee is financially literate and our board of directors has determined that Mr. Dunn and Mr. Advani each qualifies as an “audit committee financial expert” as defined in applicable SEC rules.

We have adopted an audit committee charter, which details the principal functions of the audit committee, including:

- the appointment, compensation, retention, replacement, and oversight of the work of the independent auditors and any other independent registered public accounting firm engaged by us
- pre-approving all audit and permitted non-audit services to be provided by the independent auditors or any other registered public accounting firm engaged by us, and establishing pre-approval policies and procedures;
- reviewing and discussing with the independent auditors all relationships the auditors have with us in order to evaluate their continued independence;

- setting clear hiring policies for employees or former employees of the independent auditors;
- setting clear policies for audit partner rotation in compliance with applicable laws and regulations;
- obtaining and reviewing a report, at least annually, from the independent auditors describing (i) the independent auditor’s internal quality-control procedures and (ii) any material issues raised by the most recent internal quality-control review, or peer review, of the audit firm, or by any inquiry or investigation by governmental or professional authorities within the preceding five years respecting one or more independent audits carried out by the firm and any steps taken to deal with such issues;
- reviewing and approving any related party transaction required to be disclosed pursuant to Item 404 of Regulation S-K promulgated by the SEC prior to us entering into such transaction; and
- reviewing with management, the independent auditors, and our legal advisors, as appropriate, any legal, regulatory or compliance matters, including any correspondence with regulators or government agencies and any employee complaints or published reports that raise material issues regarding our financial statements or accounting policies and any significant changes in accounting standards or rules promulgated by the Financial Accounting Standards Board, the SEC or other regulatory authorities.

During the period from May 19, 2020, (inception) to March 31, 2021, our audit committee held two meetings.

Financial Experts on Audit Committee

The board of directors has determined that Mr. Dunn and Mr. Advani each qualifies as an “audit committee financial expert” as defined in applicable SEC rules.

Nominating Committee

Effective August 7, 2020, we established a nominating committee of the board of directors, which consists of Eric C.W. Dunn, Vijay Advani, and Lori Wright, each of whom is an independent director under Nasdaq’s listing standards. The nominating committee is responsible for overseeing the selection of persons to be nominated to serve on our board of directors. The nominating committee considers persons identified by its members, management, stockholders, investment bankers and others.

During the period from May 19, 2020, (inception) to March 31, 2021, our nominating committee did not hold any meetings.

Guidelines for Selecting Director Nominees

The guidelines for selecting nominees, which are specified in the nominating committee charter, generally provide that persons to be nominated:

- should have demonstrated notable or significant achievements in business, education or public service;
- should possess the requisite intelligence, education and experience to make a significant contribution to the board of directors and bring a range of skills, diverse perspectives and backgrounds to its deliberations; and
- should have the highest ethical standards, a strong sense of professionalism and intense dedication to serving the interests of the stockholders.

The nominating committee will consider a number of qualifications relating to management and leadership experience, background and integrity and professionalism in evaluating a person’s candidacy for membership on the board of directors. The nominating committee may require certain skills or attributes, such as financial or accounting experience, to meet specific board needs that arise from time to time and will also consider the overall experience and makeup of its members to obtain a broad and diverse mix of board members. The nominating committee will not distinguish among nominees recommended by stockholders and other persons.

There have been no material changes to the procedures by which security holders may recommend nominees to our board of directors. However, such material changes will occur if the Business Combination is consummated. See the section entitled “Submission of Stockholder Proposals” and “Future Stockholder Proposals” for more details.

Compensation Committee

Effective August 7, 2020, we established a compensation committee of the board of directors, which consists of Eric C.W. Dunn, Vijay Advani, and Lori Wright. Under the Nasdaq listing standards and applicable SEC rules, we are required to have at least two members of the compensation committee, all of whom must be independent, subject to certain phase-in provisions which we are not taking advantage of. Messrs. Dunn and Advani and Ms. Wright meet the independent director standard under Nasdaq listing standards applicable to members of the compensation committee.

Our compensation committee charter details the principal functions of the compensation committee, including:

- reviewing and approving on an annual basis the corporate goals and objectives relevant to our chief executive officer’s compensation, evaluating our chief executive officer’s performance in light of such goals and objectives and determining and approving the remuneration (if any) of our chief executive officer based on such evaluation;
- reviewing and approving on an annual basis the compensation of all of our other officers;
- reviewing on an annual basis our executive compensation policies and plans;
- implementing and administering our incentive compensation equity-based remuneration plans;
- assisting management in complying with our proxy statement and annual report disclosure requirements;
- approving all special perquisites, special cash payments and other special compensation and benefit arrangements for our executive officers and employees;
- if required, producing a report on executive compensation to be included in our annual proxy statement; and
- reviewing, evaluating and recommending changes, if appropriate, to the remuneration for directors.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, as indicated above, other than reimbursement of expenses, no compensation of any kind, including finders, consulting or other similar fees, will be paid to any of our initial stockholders, officers, directors or any of their respective affiliates, prior to, or for any services they render in order to complete the consummation of a business combination, except that at the closing of our initial business combination, we may pay a customary financial consulting fee, which will not be made from the proceeds of our initial public offering held in the trust account prior to the completion of our initial business combination. We may pay such financial consulting fee in the event such party or parties provide us with specific target company, industry, financial or market expertise, as well as insights, relationships, services or resources in order to assess, negotiate and consummate an initial business combination. The amount of any such financial consulting fee we pay will be based upon the prevailing market for similar services for comparable transactions at such time, and will be subject to the review of our audit committee pursuant to the audit committee’s policies and procedures relating to transactions that may present conflicts of interest. We would disclose any such fee in the proxy or tender offer materials used in connection with a proposed business combination. Accordingly, it is likely that prior to the consummation of the Business Combination, the compensation committee will only be responsible for the review and recommendation of any compensation arrangements to be entered into in connection with such initial business combination.

The compensation committee charter will also provide that the compensation committee may, in its sole discretion, retain or obtain the advice of a compensation consultant, legal counsel or other adviser and will be directly responsible for the appointment, compensation and oversight of the work of any such adviser. However, before engaging or receiving advice from a compensation consultant, external legal counsel or any other adviser, the compensation committee will consider the independence of each such adviser, including the factors required by Nasdaq and the SEC.

During the period from May 19, 2020, (inception) to March 31, 2021, our compensation committee did not hold any meetings.

Code of Ethics

Effective August 7, 2020, we adopted a code of ethics that applies to all of our executive officers, directors, and employees. The code of ethics codifies the business and ethical principles that govern all aspects of our business. We will provide, without charge, upon request, copies of our code of ethics. Requests for copies of our code of ethics should be sent in writing to our executive office.

Executive Officer and Director Compensation

None of our officers or directors has received any cash compensation for services rendered to us. No compensation of any kind, including finder's and consulting fees, will be paid by us to our initial stockholders, officers and directors, or any of their respective affiliates, for services rendered prior to or in connection with the completion of the Business Combination. However, these individuals will be reimbursed for any out-of-pocket expenses incurred in connection with activities on our behalf including those related to the Business Combination. There have not been any material out-of-pocket expenses subject to reimbursement and BowX does not anticipate any such expenses prior to Closing.

After the completion of the Business Combination, directors or members of our management team who remain with us may be paid consulting or management fees from the combined company. We have not established any limit on the amount of such fees that may be paid by the combined company to our directors or members of management. It is unlikely the amount of such compensation will be known at the time of the proposed Business Combination, because the directors of the post-combination business will be responsible for determining officer and director compensation. Any compensation to be paid to our officers will be determined, or recommended to the board of directors for determination, either by a compensation committee constituted solely by independent directors or by a majority of the independent directors on our board of directors.

It is also anticipated that, following completion of the Business Combination, certain WeWork directors may be compensated for director services provided prior to the Business Combination. As of the date hereof, no determination has been made with respect to whether and to what extent such compensation will be provided.

Following a business combination, to the extent we deem it necessary, we may seek to recruit additional managers to supplement the incumbent management team of the target business. We cannot assure you that we will have the ability to recruit additional managers, or that additional managers will have the requisite skills, knowledge, or experience necessary to enhance the incumbent management.

Since our formation, we have not granted any stock options or stock appreciation rights or any other awards under long-term incentive plans to any of our executive officers or directors.

Legal Proceedings

None.

BOWX'S MANAGEMENT'S DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS OF FINANCIAL CONDITION AND RESULTS OF OPERATIONS

Unless the context otherwise requires, all references in this section to “we,” “us,” “our,” the “Company” or “BowX” refer to BowX prior to the consummation of the Business Combination. The following discussion and analysis of BowX's financial condition and results of operations should be read in conjunction with BowX's consolidated financial statements and notes to those statements included in this proxy statement/prospectus. Certain information contained in the discussion and analysis set forth below includes forward-looking statements that involve risks and uncertainties. BowX's actual results may differ materially from those anticipated in these forward-looking statements as a result of many factors. Please see “Cautionary Statement Regarding Forward-Looking Statements” and “Risk Factors” in this proxy statement/prospectus.

Overview

We are a blank check company incorporated as a Delaware corporation on May 19, 2020. We were formed for the purpose of effecting an initial business combination with a target business. We are an emerging growth company and, as such, we are subject to all of the risks associated with emerging growth companies.

Proposed Business Combination

On March 25, 2021, we entered into the Merger Agreement with Merger Sub and WeWork, pursuant to which the Business Combination will occur, ultimately resulting in Merger Sub II (which will own all of the assets of WeWork after the Mergers) becoming our wholly owned subsidiary through the Mergers. The purchase price will be paid in shares of BowX Common Stock with no cash component. At the Closing, we will issue to the WeWork Stockholders an aggregate of 655,300,000 shares of BowX Class A Common Stock. The total shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock to be issued includes shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock to be issued in respect of outstanding WeWork Common Stock and WeWork Preferred Stock plus shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock underlying or exchangeable for unvested and/or unexercised in-the-money stock options, restricted stock units, restricted stock awards, in-the-money warrants, WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units other than WeWork Partnerships Profits Units with a catch-up base amount greater than the Per Share Merger Consideration (including corresponding shares of New WeWork Class C Common Stock) and the WeWork Series C Convertible Note, respectively, at the Closing. Shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock underlying or exchangeable for out-of-the-money stock options and warrants are not included in the Aggregate Merger Consideration calculation. The number of shares in the Aggregate Merger Consideration does not include both the number of shares of New WeWork Class C Common Stock and the number of related shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock. As of September 14, 2021, the exchange ratio is expected to be approximately 0.8257 and there are expected to be issued approximately 558,479,201 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock and 19,926,267 shares of New WeWork Class C Common Stock to WeWork stockholders as of the Closing (using the rounded exchange ratio of 0.8257 and not including shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock underlying or exchangeable for unvested and/or unexercised stock options, restricted stock units, restricted stock awards, warrants, WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units and shares of New WeWork Class C Common Stock). See the section entitled “BCA Proposal — Background to the Business Combination” beginning on page 101 for more information.

WeWork is the leading global flexible workspace provider, serving a membership base of businesses large and small through WeWork's network of 763 locations around the world as of June 30, 2021, respectively. With that global footprint, WeWork has worked to establish themselves as the preeminent brand within the flexible workspace category, by combining prime locations and unique design with member-first hospitality and exceptional community experiences.

The Closing is subject to certain conditions, including, but not limited to the approval of our stockholders of the Merger Agreement. The Merger Agreement may also be terminated by either party under certain circumstances, including upon notice after October 31, 2021, by either party for any reason. The parties have agreed to customary exclusivity obligations. The Closing will occur as promptly as practicable, but in no event later than two business days following the satisfaction or waiver of all of the closing conditions contained in the Merger Agreement. For additional details about the Merger Agreement, refer to the section entitled “BCA Proposal — The Merger Agreement.”

The Business Combination also calls for additional agreements, including, among others, the Sponsor Support Agreement, the Subscription Agreements, and Registration Rights Agreement, as described in the section entitled “BCA Proposal — Related Agreements”

We have entered into engagement letters or agreements with various consultants, advisors, professionals and others in connection with the Business Combination. The services under these engagement letters and agreements are material in amount and in some instances include contingent or success fees. The aggregate fees due under such engagement letters and agreements are approximately $48.2 million and approximately $45.3 million of those fees are contingent on completion of the Business Combination. We estimate that our total transaction costs for the Business Combination and the PIPE Financing will aggregate approximately $75.0 million (including the deferred underwriting commissions from our initial public offering). A substantial portion of these costs (including contingent or success fees and ongoing accrued transaction costs, but not the $16,905,000 in deferred underwriters’ fees) will be charged to operations in the quarter that the Closing occurs. In most instances, these engagement letters and agreements specifically provide that such counterparties waive their rights to seek repayment from the funds in the trust account.

The Business Combination will be accounted for as a reverse capitalization in accordance with GAAP. Under this method of accounting, BowX will be treated as the “acquired” company for financial reporting purposes. For accounting purposes, WeWork will be deemed to be the accounting acquirer in the transaction and, consequently, the transaction will be treated as a recapitalization of WeWork (i.e., a capital transaction involving the issuance of stock by BowX for the stock of WeWork). Accordingly, the consolidated assets, liabilities and results of operations of WeWork will become the historical financial statements of New WeWork, and BowX’s assets, liabilities and results of operations will be consolidated with WeWork beginning on the acquisition date.

Liquidity and Capital Resources

On August 7, 2020, we consummated our initial public offering of 42,000,000 units at $10.00 per unit, generating gross proceeds of $420.0 million, and incurring offering costs of approximately $23.6 million, inclusive of $14.7 million in deferred underwriting commissions. On August 10, 2020, the underwriters exercised the over-allotment option to purchase an additional of 6,300,000 units at the initial public offering price of $10.00 per unit and we consummated the sale of such units on August 13, 2020, generating additional gross proceeds of $63.0 million, and incurring additional offering costs of approximately $3.5 million, inclusive of approximately $2.2 million in deferred underwriting commissions. Simultaneously with the closing of the initial public offering, we consummated the sale of 6,933,333 private placement warrants at a price of $1.50 per warrant in a private placement to certain of our initial stockholders and certain funds and accounts managed by subsidiaries of BlackRock, Inc. (collectively, the “private placement warrant purchasers”), generating gross proceeds of $10.4 million, and incurring offering costs of approximately $8,000. In connection with the consummation of the sale of additional units pursuant to the underwriters’ exercise of the over-allotment option on August 13, 2020, we sold an additional 840,000 private placement warrants to the private placement warrant purchasers, generating additional gross proceeds of approximately $1.3 million, and incurring offering costs of approximately $1,000. As described above, $483.0 million ($10.00 per unit) of the net proceeds of the sale of the units in the initial public offering and the private placement were placed in the trust account. See “Information about BowX – General” for more details.

As of June 30, 2021, we had approximately $0.5 million in cash and working capital deficit of approximately $2.9 million.

Through June 30, 2021, our liquidity needs were satisfied through a payment of $25,000 from our Chairman and Co-Chief Executive Officer to cover for certain offering costs in exchange for the issuance of the Founder Shares (as defined below), and the loan under the Note (as defined below) of approximately $150,000 to us to cover offering costs in connection with the initial public offering. Subsequent to the consummation of the initial public offering on August 7, 2020, the liquidity needs have been satisfied through the remaining balance of the Note and advancement of funds of approximately $45,000 from a related party, for the total outstanding balance of the Note and advances of approximately $195,000, and the net proceeds from the consummation of the private placement not held in the trust account. We fully repaid the Note on August 7, 2020. In addition, in order to finance transaction costs in connection with a Business Combination, our Sponsor, officers, directors and their respective affiliates may, but are not obligated to, provide us Working Capital Loans (as defined below). To date, there were no amounts outstanding under any Working Capital Loans.

Based on the foregoing, management believes that we will have sufficient working capital and borrowing capacity to meet our needs through the earlier of the consummation of the Business Combination or one year from this filing.

Management continues to evaluate the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic and has concluded that the specific impact is not readily determinable as of the date of the financial statements. The financial statements do not include any adjustments that might result from the outcome of this uncertainty.

Results of Operations

Since inception, our entire activity has been related to our formation, initial public offering, which was consummated on August 7, 2020, and since the initial public offering, our activity has been limited to the search for a prospective target business and the consummation of the Business Combination, and we will not be generating any operating revenues until the closing and completion of the Business Combination. We have incurred increased expenses as a result of being a public company (for legal, financial reporting, accounting and auditing compliance), as well as for due diligence and other transactional expenses.

For the three months ended June 30, 2021, we had net loss of approximately $11.2 million, which consisted of approximately $1.8 million in general and administrative expenses, approximately $9.4 million in change in fair value of warrant liabilities and approximately $50,000 in franchise tax expense, partially offset by approximately $12,000 of interest income from investments held in the trust account.

For the six months ended June 30, 2021, we had net loss of approximately $16.8 million, which consisted of approximately $4.1 million in general and administrative expenses, approximately $12.7 million in change in fair value of warrant liabilities and approximately $99,000 in franchise tax expense, partially offset by approximately $59,000 of interest income from investments held in the trust account.

For the period from May 19, 2020 (inception) through December 31, 2020, we had net loss of approximately $4.8 million, which consisted of approximately $220,000 in general and administrative expenses, approximately $122,000 in franchise tax expense, $22,000 of income tax expense and $4.7 million change in fair value of warrant liabilities, offset by approximately $227,000 of net gain from investments held in the trust account.

As a result of the restatement described in Note 2 of the notes to BowX's consolidated financial statements included herein, we classify the private placement warrants as liabilities at their fair value and adjust the warrant instruments to fair value at each reporting period. These liabilities are subject to re-measurement at each balance sheet date until exercised, and any change in fair value is recognized in our statement of operations

Related Party Transactions

Founder Shares

On May 26, 2020, we issued 10,062,500 shares of Class B common stock to Vivek Ranadivé in exchange for a payment of $25,000 for offering costs made by Vivek Ranadivé on behalf of our company (the "Founder Shares"). In July 2020, Vivek Ranadivé transferred certain Founder Shares to our directors and officers as well as to certain third parties.

On August 4, 2020, we effected a stock dividend of 0.2 shares of Class B common stock for each share of Class B common stock outstanding, resulting in an aggregate of 12,075,000 Founder Shares outstanding. All shares and associated amounts have been retroactively restated to reflect the share dividend. On August 13, 2020, the underwriters exercised their 15% over-allotment option in full; thus, the Founder Shares were no longer subject to forfeiture.

The initial stockholders have agreed, subject to limited exceptions, not to transfer, assign or sell any of the Founder Shares until the earlier to occur of: (A) one year after the completion of an initial business combination and (B) subsequent to an initial business combination, (x) if the last reported sale price of BowX Class A Common Stock equals or exceeds $12.00 per share (as adjusted for stock splits, stock dividends, reorganizations, recapitalizations and the like) for any 20 trading days within any 30-trading day period commencing at least 150 days after the initial Business Combination, or (y) the date on which we complete a liquidation, merger, capital stock exchange, reorganization or other similar transaction that results in all of our stockholders having the right to exchange their shares of common stock for cash, securities or other property.

Private Placement Warrants

Simultaneously with the closing of the initial public offering, the private placement warrant purchasers purchased an aggregate of 6,933,333 private placement warrants at a price of $1.50 per private placement warrant, generating gross proceeds of $10.4 million, and incurring offering costs of approximately $8,000. In connection with the consummation of the sale of additional units pursuant to the underwriters' exercise of the over-allotment option on August 13, 2020, we sold an additional 840,000 private placement warrants to the private placement warrant purchasers, generating additional gross proceeds of approximately $1.3 million, and incurring offering costs of approximately $1,000.

Each whole private placement warrant is exercisable for one whole share of BowX Class A Common Stock at a price of $11.50 per share, subject to adjustment. A portion of the proceeds from the sale of the private placement warrants was added to the proceeds from the initial public offering to be held in the trust account. If we do not complete a business combination before August 7, 2022, the private placement warrants will expire worthless. The private placement warrants are non-redeemable for cash (subject to certain exceptions) and are exercisable on a cashless basis so long as they are held by the initial purchasers or their permitted transferees.

The private placement warrants (and the BowX Class A Common Stock issuable upon exercise of the private placement warrants) will not be transferable, assignable or salable until 30 days after the completion of BowX's initial business combination (subject to certain exceptions).

Related Party Loans

On May 26, 2020, our Chairman and Co-Chief Executive Officer agreed to loan us up to an aggregate of $150,000 pursuant to an unsecured promissory note (the "Note") to cover expenses related to the initial public offering. This loan was payable without interest upon the completion of the initial public offering. We borrowed up to the full amount of the Note and received additional advances of approximately $45,000 of funds from such officer, for a total outstanding loan of approximately $195,000. We fully repaid the Note and the advances to such officer on August 7, 2020.

Working Capital Loans

In order to fund working capital deficiencies or finance transaction costs in connection with BowX's initial business combination, the initial stockholders, officers and directors and their affiliates may, but are not obligated to, loan us funds as may be required (the "Working Capital Loans"). Up to $1.5 million of such Working Capital Loans may be convertible into warrants of New WeWork at a price of $1.50 per warrant at the option of the lender. Such warrants would be identical to the private placement warrants. Except for the foregoing, the terms of such loans, if any, have not been determined and no written agreements exist with respect to such loans to date. We did not have any borrowings under the Working Capital Loans as of June 30, 2021.

Contractual Obligations

Registration Rights

The Sponsor, certain of our officers and directors, and holders of the private placement warrants are entitled to registration rights pursuant to the Registration Rights Agreement dated August 4, 2020 (the “Existing Registration Rights Agreement”). Such parties are entitled to make up to three demands, excluding short form registration demands, that we register such securities for sale under the Securities Act. In addition, these holders will have “piggy-back” registration rights to include their securities in other registration statements filed by us. We will bear the expenses incurred in connection with the filing of any such registration statements. The Existing Registration Rights Agreement is being amended and restated in connection with the Business Combination. See the section entitled “BCA Proposal — Related Agreements” for more information.

Underwriting Agreement

We granted the underwriters a 45-day option to purchase up to 6,300,000 additional units to cover any over-allotments, at the initial public offering price less the underwriting discounts and commissions. On August 13, 2020, the underwriters fully exercised the over-allotment option.

The underwriters were entitled to an underwriting discount of $0.20 per unit, or $8.4 million in the aggregate, paid upon the closing of the initial public offering. In addition, $0.35 per unit, or $14.7 million in the aggregate will be payable to the underwriters for deferred underwriting commissions. The deferred fee will become payable to the underwriters from the amounts held in the trust account solely in the event that we complete a Business Combination, subject to the terms of the underwriting agreement.

In connection with the consummation of the sale of units pursuant to the over-allotment option on August 13, 2020, the underwriters received an aggregate of $1.26 million in underwriting fees and additional deferred underwriting commissions of approximately $2.2 million. This amount will also only become payable to the underwriters from the amounts held in the trust account solely in the event that we complete a Business Combination, subject to the terms of the underwriting agreement.

Transaction Expenses

We have entered into engagement letters or agreements with various consultants, advisors, professionals and others in connection with the Business Combination. The services under these engagement letters and agreements are material in amount and in some instances include contingent or success fees. The aggregate fees due under such engagement letters and agreements are approximately $48.2 million and approximately $45.3 million of those fees are contingent on completion of the Business Combination. We estimate that our total transaction costs for the Business Combination and the PIPE Financing will aggregate approximately $75.0 million (including the deferred underwriting commissions from our initial public offering). A substantial portion of these costs (including contingent or success fees and ongoing accrued transaction costs, but not the $16,905,000 in deferred underwriters’ commissions) will be charged to operations in the quarter that the Closing occurs. In most instances, these engagement letters and agreements specifically provide that such counterparties waive their rights to seek repayment from the funds in the trust account.

Critical Accounting Policies and Estimates

Investments Held in the Trust Account

Our portfolio of investments held in the trust account is comprised of U.S. government securities, within the meaning set forth in Section 2(a)(16) of the Investment Company Act, with a maturity of 185 days or less, or investments in money market funds that invest in U.S. government securities and generally have a readily determinable fair value, or a combination thereof. When the investments held in the trust account are comprised of U.S. government securities, the investments are classified as trading securities. When the investments held in the trust account are comprised of money market funds, the investments are recognized at fair value. Trading securities and investments in money market funds are presented on the balance sheet at fair value at the end of each reporting period. Gains and losses resulting from the change in fair value of these securities are included in net gain from investments held in the trust account in the accompanying consolidated statement of operations. The estimated fair values of investments held in the trust account are determined using available market information.

BowX Class A Common Stock Subject to Possible Redemption

We account for BowX Class A Common Stock subject to possible redemption in accordance with the guidance in ASC Topic 480 “Distinguishing Liabilities from Equity.” Shares of BowX Class A Common Stock subject to mandatory redemption (if any) are classified as liability instruments and are measured at fair value. Shares of conditionally redeemable BowX Class A Common Stock (including Class A common stock that features redemption rights that are either within the control of the holder or subject to redemption upon the occurrence of uncertain events not solely within our control) are classified as temporary equity. At all other times, shares of BowX Class A Common Stock are classified as stockholders’ equity. BowX Class A Common Stock features certain redemption rights that are considered to be outside of our control and subject to the occurrence of uncertain future events. Accordingly, at June 30, 2021 and December 31, 2020, 43,231,098 and 44,911,184 shares of BowX Class A Common Stock, respectively, were subject to possible redemption and are presented as temporary equity, outside of the stockholders’ equity section of the accompany condensed consolidated balance sheet.

Net Income (Loss) Per Share of Common Stock

We comply with accounting and disclosure requirements of FASB ASC Topic 260, “Earnings Per Share.”

Our unaudited condensed consolidated statements of operations include a presentation of income (loss) per share for common stock subject to redemption in a manner similar to the two-class method of income (loss) per share. Net income per share, basic and diluted for BowX Class A Common stock, basic and diluted, is calculated by dividing the investment income earned on the trust account, net of applicable franchise taxes, by the weighted average number of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock outstanding for the periods. Net loss per share for BowX Class B Common Stock, basic and diluted, is calculated by dividing the net loss, less income attributable to BowX Class A Common Stock, by the weighted average number of BowX Class B Common Stock outstanding for the periods.

The calculation of diluted income (loss) per share of BowX Common Stock does not consider the effect of the warrants issued in connection with the initial public offering and private placement since their inclusion would be anti-dilutive.

Our statement of operations includes a presentation of income per share for common stock subject to redemption in a manner similar to the two-class method of income per share. Net income per share, basic and diluted for BowX Class A Common Stock is calculated by dividing the investment income earned on the trust account of approximately $227,000, net of applicable income and franchise taxes of approximately $144,000 for the period from May 19, 2020, (inception) to December 31, 2020, by the weighted average number of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock outstanding. Net loss per share, basic and diluted for BowX Class B Common Stock for the period from May 19, 2020, (inception) through December 31, 2020, is calculated by dividing the net loss of approximately $4.8 million, less net income attributable to BowX Class A Common Stock of approximately $83,000, resulting in a net loss of approximately $4.9 million, by the weighted average number of BowX Class B Common Stock outstanding.

Derivative Warrant Liabilities

We do not use derivative instruments to hedge exposures to cash flow, market, or foreign currency risks. We evaluate all of our financial instruments, including issued stock purchase warrants, to determine if such instruments are derivatives or contain features that qualify as embedded derivatives, pursuant to ASC Topic 815, “Derivatives and Hedging” (“ASC 815”). The classification of derivative instruments, including whether such instruments should be recorded as liabilities or as equity, is re-assessed at the end of each reporting period.

We account for the private placement warrants as derivative warrant liabilities in accordance with ASC 815. Accordingly, we recognize the warrant instruments as liabilities at fair value and adjust the instruments to fair value at each reporting period. The liabilities are subject to re-measurement at each balance sheet date until exercised, and any change in fair value is recognized in the statements of operations. The fair value of the private placement warrants has been estimated using public warrant trading prices at each measurement date. The determination of the fair value of the warrant liability may be subject to change as more current information becomes available and accordingly the actual results could differ significantly. Derivative warrant liabilities are classified as non-current liabilities as their liquidation is not reasonably expected to require the use of current assets or require the creation of current liabilities.

Off-Balance Sheet Arrangements and Contractual Obligations

As of June 30, 2021, we did not have any off-balance sheet arrangements as defined in Item 303(a)(4)(ii) of Regulation S-K promulgated by the SEC and did not have any commitments or contractual obligations.

Recent Accounting Pronouncements

Our management does not believe there are any recently issued, but not yet effective, accounting pronouncements, if currently adopted, that would have a material effect on our financial statements.

Quantitative and Qualitative Disclosures about Market Risk

We are a smaller reporting company as defined by Rule 12b-2 of the Exchange Act and are not required to provide the information otherwise required under this item.

Who we are

WeWork is the leading global flexible workspace provider, serving a membership base of businesses large and small through our network of 763 locations as of June 30, 2021. With that global footprint, we have worked to establish ourselves as the preeminent brand within the flexible workspace category, by combining prime locations and unique design with member-first hospitality and exceptional community experiences. Since new management was instituted in 2020, WeWork has refocused its business on the space-as-a-service model by eliminating non-core ventures and streamlining our operating model. With a more efficient operating model and cost-conscious mindset, moving forward we plan to pursue profitability and focus on the digitization of real estate in order to enhance our product offerings, and expand and diversify the membership base, while continuously meeting the growing demand for flexibility.

Our mission is to empower tomorrow’s world at work.

History

In the wake of the 2008 global financial crisis, WeWork opened its first location in lower Manhattan in 2010 to provide entrepreneurs and small businesses with flexible, affordable and community-centered office space. The initial vision was to create environments where people and companies could come together to do what they love. WeWork’s value proposition proved to be highly attractive to a range of members, which soon evolved to encompass a growing set of medium- and large-scale businesses, including our Enterprise Members.

Since its inception, WeWork embarked on a high growth path towards global expansion. Within four years, the Company grew to 23 locations across eight cities and opened its first international locations in the United Kingdom and Israel. In 2019, WeWork filed a registration statement in connection with an initial public offering transaction that was later withdrawn. Following the withdrawal of the initial public offering, SBG provided WeWork with additional access to capital to support WeWork’s day-to-day operations, among other things. Subsequently, our board of directors directed a change in leadership and Marcelo Claire was appointed Executive Chairman in October 2019.

Under Mr. Claire’s stewardship, we rebuilt our leadership team beginning with the appointment of Sandeep Mathrani as CEO in February 2020. With a new leadership team comprised of seasoned professionals in the public and private sectors, WeWork began to execute a strategic plan to transform its business. This plan included robust expense management efforts, the exit of non-core businesses and material real estate portfolio optimization. Since 2019, we improved our cost structure, yielding significant results:

- Approximately $1.5 billion decrease in adjusted selling, general and administrative expenses, including divestitures of non-core assets, on an annualized basis, as of the second quarter of 2021 as compared to the fourth quarter of 2019;

- Nearly $440 million decrease in adjusted location operating expenses, annualized on a per square foot basis, as of the second quarter of 2021 as compared to the fourth quarter of 2019—adjusted location operating expenses increased $59 million for the second quarter of 2021 compared to the fourth quarter of 2019 as a result of our net increase of approximately 24 million quarterly cumulative square feet under management during this period, offset by meaningful headcount reductions and other operating efficiencies implemented into the business over the past 12+ months:

| (Amounts in thousands, except square foot amounts) | Three Months Ended | | $ |

(1) Quarterly cumulative square feet is calculated by the summation of the monthly square feet under management during the quarter as of the first day of the month.

- Approximately $6.9 billion reduction in aggregate future lease payments from the amendment and/or exit of over approximately 500 leases, including ChinaCo prior to the ChinaCo Deconsolidation, as of December 31, 2019 as compared to June 30, 2021; and
- Nearly $1 Billion improvement to Free Cash Flow since 2019 based on annualized Q2 2021 Free Cash Flow compared to Free Cash Flow for the year ended December 31, 2019 (excluding approximately negative $400 million in Free Cash Flow attributable to ChinaCo, which has since been deconsolidated). See “WeWork’s Management Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations—Key Performance Indicators—Free Cash Flow” for a reconciliation to GAAP.

Our improved business model has also demonstrated resilience in an unprecedented downturn resulting from the COVID-19 pandemic. Although Physical Occupancy declined from 67% in Q1 2020 to 46% in Q4 2020, revenue in 2020 was flat compared to 2019 at $3.2 billion. Our strong liquidity position coupled with our aggressive transformation efforts at the beginning of 2020 enabled us to navigate the COVID-19 pandemic while still executing on our goals and innovating our product. As of June 30, 2021, the real estate portfolio included 763 locations across 38 countries, supporting approximately 517,000 memberships.

Our product offerings

With a significantly improved cost structure and enhanced suite of flexible offerings, we believe that we are well-positioned to serve a shift towards greater workspace flexibility and capitalize on an anticipated post-pandemic rebound. Moving forward, our business strategy will center around three key areas:

- our core space-as-a-service business;
- the digitization of our real estate through our WeWork On Demand, WeWork All Access, and marketplace products; and
- the pursuit of asset-light growth and additional revenue streams through the development of technology and services for use by landlords, operators and other partners.

Core space-as-a-service offering

WeWork’s core business offering provides flexibility across space, time and cost. Whether users are looking for a workstation, a private office or a fully customized floor, our members have the flexibility to choose the amount of space they need and scale with WeWork as their business grows. Members also have the option to choose the type of membership that works for them, with a range of flexible offerings that provide access to space on a monthly subscription basis or through a multi-year membership agreement. In addition, a WeWork membership can provide members with portability of cost, granting other flexibility to move part or all of an existing commitment to a new market.

Memberships include access to space, in addition to access to certain amenities and services, such as private phone booths, internet, high-speed business printers and copiers, mail and package handling, front desk services, off-peak building access, unique common areas and daily enhanced cleaning.

Beyond the amenities offered, WeWork’s community team is what sets us apart from other space providers in the industry. With a member-first mindset, our community teams provide an exceptional level of hospitality by not only overseeing onsite operations and supporting day-to-day needs, but by also focusing on cultivating meaningful relationships with and between our members to deliver a premium experience.

Our core business offering has proven to be a compelling way for a broad range of businesses to manage their real estate footprint. Throughout our history, we have aimed to diversify our membership base with a focus on growing commitments from Enterprise Members, who typically enter into longer term agreements and often take space with WeWork across multiple countries using a master membership agreement.

- Enterprise memberships are defined as organizations who have +500 full time employees globally. Enterprise membership percentage represents physical and All Access enterprise memberships divided by total physical and All Access memberships. WeMemberships are excluded.
- Commitment length represents base contract terms, excluding the impact of any extension termination options. The commitment lengths disclosed may include periods for which members have an option to terminate their commitments with a less than 10% penalty. The total weighted full commitment length including the impact of any termination options is approximately 15 months. Commitment length metrics exclude ChinaCo.

Digitization of real estate

Operating our real estate portfolio of 763 locations has allowed WeWork to take steps to make our network of locations digitally accessible to a global consumer base.

WeWork On Demand: WeWork’s strategy to digitize its real estate began with the launch of the WeWork On Demand product in 2020, providing users pay-as-you-go access to book individual workspace or conference rooms at nearby WeWork locations. Since the successful pilot program launch in New York City in 2020, WeWork has expanded its WeWork On Demand offering nationwide, capitalizing on a growing demand for flexible workspace. The Company is currently in the process of making the WeWork On Demand product accessible globally.

WeWork All Access: The WeWork All Access product, launched in late 2020, is a monthly subscription-based model that provides members with access to participating WeWork locations. Through WeWork All Access, members can book workspaces, conference rooms and private offices right from their phones – enabling users to choose when, where and how they work. Over time, assuming opt-in by our licensee partners, our goal is to expand this product by providing members with access to additional locations throughout the world.

In addition to being available for purchase by individuals and enterprise companies alike, WeWork All Access has also been promoted through a number of successful affinity partnerships with global businesses such as American Express Business and Uber. Additionally, various universities have turned to the WeWork All Access product for use by their undergraduate and graduate student bodies. We believe that the WeWork All Access offering can drive Adjusted EBITDA growth for WeWork by driving demand from a customer base that requires greater optionality and flexibility to the Company’s existing network of spaces.

Marketplace: WeWork’s extensive member network has created a customer base in need of ancillary business services. Our marketplace offering includes a range of value-add services designed to support businesses beyond their workspace needs. Currently, WeWork offers business and technical service solutions, including professional employer organization (PEO) and payroll services, remote workforce solutions, human resources benefits, dedicated bandwidth, and IT equipment co-location. The marketplace offering is focused on solutions that are catered to the needs of our diverse member network, delivering additional revenue and margin to WeWork and increasing member retention.

Platform business opportunity

We believe that the COVID-19 pandemic has accelerated the trends that were previously driving the growth of flexible workspace and that the value proposition of a WeWork membership is more relevant than ever before. As many businesses are now preparing for a return to the office after working from home, many are looking for hybrid options that provide the flexibility to streamline their real estate footprints while also maintaining employee productivity and collaboration.

As a result, in order to service the market demand for flexible space, we believe a broader group of traditional real estate owners and operators will incorporate the flexible model that WeWork developed into their own portfolios. Having spent more than ten years building a global physical network and developing the systems necessary to operate our flexible products, we believe WeWork will be well-positioned to offer landlords and operators a platform that can power flexible spaces and provide direct access to an established customer base.

Similar to our locations operating in China, Japan and India, we expect that third-party operators that utilize our technology and services will pay WeWork a recurring license fee, enabling WeWork to scale via a capital-light business offering. We believe that this platform offering will provide a new line of revenue for our business and will also serve as a vehicle through which WeWork can pursue our asset-light growth moving forward.

Market Overview (TAM)

In a multi trillion-dollar commercial real estate market transformed by the COVID-19 pandemic, we believe WeWork’s global brand and network of locations position the Company as the leading flexible space provider.

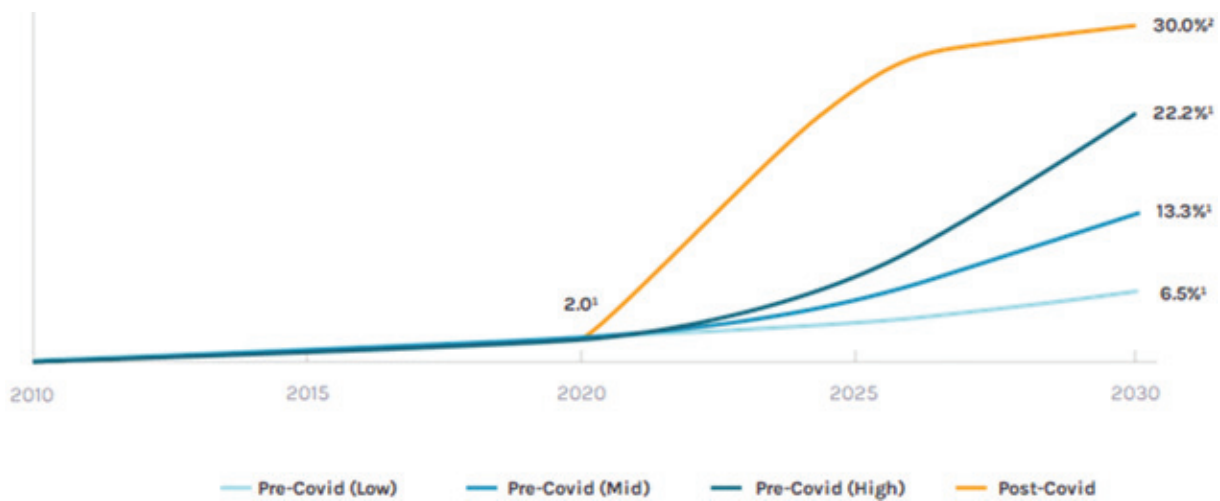

On a square footage basis, we are one of the largest flexible space providers in the world, operating approximately 52 million rentable square feet globally as of December 31, 2020. Our total square footage in the United States and Canada region was 19.5 million rentable square feet as of June 30, 2021, implying a market share of approximately 23% at the time based on 2020 CBRE estimates of flex space penetration and total U.S. and Canada office space. In a 2019 report, CBRE research expected the flexible workspace penetration rate to grow to between 13.3% and 22.2% of total U.S. office space by 2030 as shown below. In a 2020 report published in 2020, JLL research predicted that flexible space demand will continue to increase as a result of COVID-19 and that 30% of all office space will be consumed flexibly by 2030. In a 2020 report, JLL research predicted that 30% of all office space will be consumed flexibly by 2030. We believe the COVID-19 pandemic has accelerated the shift to flexible workspace, and will increase total flexible workspace penetration beyond these levels.

In many markets, we witnessed accelerated leasing activity in recent months. Although WeWork represented approximately 1% of the total commercial office stock in New York City, WeWork’s leasing activity in the second quarter of 2021 represented 23% of all commercial office leasing activity over the same period. WeWork leasing activity represented similar proportions of overall market leasing activity in other major markets, such as London, Paris, San Francisco, and Los Angeles. We believe this further demonstrates the shift to flexible office space.

We believe that our leadership position in flexible workspace, coupled with a shift in the way people now work, provides a unique and valuable opportunity to serve a growing asset class. Individuals and organizations are streamlining their real estate footprints in an effort to optimize cost structure and de-risk portfolios from long-term leases and fixed costs. At the same time, companies are prioritizing the need to maintain productivity, connection and innovation of their workforce while also balancing the health and safety of their employees. As a result, WeWork’s global brand, exceptional real estate portfolio and spectrum of flexible solutions position the Company to meet the needs of employers and employees.

With regard to regions outside of the U.S., we believe that there is significant potential upside. We expect to grow market share globally over time and to continue to offer an expanding real estate portfolio of products and services to meet our members’ needs, driving higher margin revenue growth and further increasing our total addressable market.

Our Strengths

Results-driven leadership team

- Under the guidance of Mr. Claire and Mr. Mathrani, WeWork's management team has been revamped. The leadership team has decades of public market experience and, within the first twelve months at the Company, has delivered results focused on cost efficiency and managing the business through the pandemic.
- An improved cost structure, combined with strong demand from WeWork members globally presents a defined path to positive Adjusted EBITDA.
- Leadership has reset the Company's core values.

Established global brand and operating platform

- We have an extensive global footprint of flexible workspace, with a real estate portfolio of 763 locations in 38 countries, supporting approximately 517,000 memberships as of June 30, 2021.
- We have a competitive moat with over $15 billion of capital invested for the creation of our global network of locations.
- 57% of 2021 Fortune 100 companies were WeWork members as of the beginning of June 2021.
- We have established partnerships with, among others, Hudson's Bay Company, RXR Realty, Columbia Property Trust, Allianz, and Lionstone in major markets and have a global network of over 600 landlord relationships.
- We plan to leverage the expertise in middleware of Vivek Ranadivé as a director nominee of New WeWork to help further develop our platform business opportunity.

Compelling value proposition for members

- Our extensive global footprint maximizes member flexibility in terms of space, time and location needs.
- Members have fast access to high quality, pre-built office space and the ability to scale over time without the commitment of a long-term lease.
- The total weighted full commitment length of our memberships has increased from approximately one month in 2015 to ~22 months as of June 30, 2021, laying a foundation for what we believe will be predictable and prudent growth.

Proven business model through downturn

- Despite the COVID-19 pandemic, we maintained consistent revenue levels of $3.2 billion in fiscal year 2019 and fiscal year 2020.
- WeWork has reorganized our selling, general and administrative costs, as well as our operations costs, to match the needs of our current real estate portfolio.
- Our membership base is diverse and stable: 51% of our consolidated total memberships were with Enterprise Members as of June 30, 2021.
- We have improved the strength and composition of our real estate portfolio through strategic asset amendments and exits in 2020 and through the second quarter of 2021 and will continue to do so moving forward.

Strong liquidity position

- As of June 30, 2021, we had access to $1.6 billion of liquidity in the form of cash and commitments from our lenders.
- Upon consummation of this transaction, we expect to receive approximately $1.3 billion in proceeds, including the fully committed $800 million PIPE Investment, and expect to have access to a $550 million senior secured note facility from an affiliate of the SoftBank Obligor. See “Summary of this Proxy Statement / Prospectus—Commitment Letter for Secured Notes” for more detail.
- The transaction implies a pro forma initial enterprise value of approximately $9 billion for WeWork.
- We anticipate that as a public company we will have access to diverse sources of equity and debt capital.

Global Operating Structure

To streamline operations and facilitate asset-light expansion outside of the United States, we sometimes enter into regional joint ventures, strategic partnerships and other similar arrangements. Currently, our operations in India, China, Japan, and Israel operate pursuant to such arrangements. See the section entitled “WeWork’s Management’s Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations.” Going forward we expect to strategically evaluate the use of these alternative ownership arrangements on a jurisdiction-by-jurisdiction basis for all of our current and future locations.

Sales and Marketing

We sell our memberships and services to companies using a variety of sales and marketing efforts. We have sales representatives organized by market who engage directly with companies. We also have dedicated sales teams that target and service larger enterprise accounts across their global footprint.

Through the expansion of our WeWork On Demand and WeWork All Access products, we have invested in direct-to-consumer marketing capabilities, which we expect to expand over time to include capabilities in digital and social media retargeting.

Properties

We generally lease the real estate for our locations. As of June 30, 2021, we had 763 locations across 38 countries, 272 of which are located in the United States, including our corporate headquarters at 575 Lexington Avenue, New York, NY, 10022. See Note 18 of the notes to WeWork’s unaudited interim condensed consolidated financial statements included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus for details regarding revenue concentration.

Intellectual Property

The recognition of the WeWork brand is an important component to our success. The Company has obtained a strategic set of intellectual property registrations and applications, including for the WeWork brand, throughout the world.

We police our trademark portfolio globally, including by monitoring trademark registries around the world and investigating digital, online and common law uses in order to learn as soon as possible whether the relevant parties engage in or plan to engage in conduct that would violate our valuable trademark rights. We monitor registries through the use of robust international subscription watch services, supplemented by periodic manual review. We typically discover or are informed of infringing uses of our trademarks through our internal policing system or by our employees.

We investigate and evaluate each instance of infringement to determine the appropriate course of action, including cease and desist letters, administrative proceedings, cybersquatting actions or infringement actions, if any. Wherever possible, we seek to resolve these matters amicably and without litigation.

In an effort to ensure that registries in countries where we operate or intend to operate remain clear of infringing trademark registrations, we frequently file opposition actions, cancellation actions and other administrative proceedings around the world.

Government Regulation

We are subject to a wide variety of laws, rules, regulations and standards in the United States and foreign jurisdictions. Like other market participants that operate in numerous jurisdictions and across various service lines, we must comply with a number of regulatory regimes. U.S. federal, state and local and foreign laws, rules, regulations and standards include employment laws, health and safety regulations, taxation regimes and laws and regulations that govern or restrict our business and activities in certain regions and with certain persons, including economic sanctions regulations, anti-bribery laws and anti-money laundering laws. Some of our offerings also require registrations, permits, licenses and/or approvals from governmental agencies and regulatory authorities, some or all of which may be costly or time consuming to obtain. A failure to obtain any such registrations, permits, licenses and/or approvals could subject us to penalties for noncompliance.

In addition, as a developer and operator of real estate, we are subject to local land-use requirements, including regulations that govern zoning, use, building and occupancy, regulations and standards that address indoor environmental requirements, laws that require places of public accommodation and commercial facilities to meet certain requirements related to access and use by disabled persons, and various environmental laws and regulations which may require a current or previous owner or operator of real estate to investigate and remediate the effects of hazardous or toxic substances or petroleum product releases on, under, in or from such property.

Furthermore, because we receive, store and use a substantial amount of personally identifiable information received from or generated by our members, we are also subject to laws and regulations governing data privacy, use of personal data and cybersecurity.

Competition

The office space industry, including traditional offices, global real estate providers, regional flexible workspace options and home office spaces, is highly fragmented and is served by large, national or international companies as well as by regional and local companies of varying sizes and resources. As the industry has evolved over the past decade, a growing number of local, national and international competitors have entered the space, including flex office space operators and large office real estate owners that have developed unique flex office offerings within their own portfolios. We believe our differentiated expertise and global footprint offer a significant competitive advantage relative to alternative space providers that will uniquely position WeWork as a global partner of choice.

Human Capital

People power our business and are at the center of all that we do. We have extraordinarily talented and dedicated employees all across the world who are dedicated to serving members and advancing on our mission.

Our core values were instituted by our CEO and the new management team in 2020. Since then, these values have redefined how WeWork operates and serve as the “north star” to our employees. Our values are “Do the right thing”; “Strive to be better, together”; “Be entrepreneurial”; “Give gratitude” and “Be human, be kind.” We believe these values guide our employees to do great work and together build a culture of dialogue and inclusion.

As of June 30, 2021, we had approximately 4,400 employees, of which approximately 2,200 were located in the United States. A small portion of our employees outside of the United States are represented by a labor union or workers' council and covered by collective bargaining agreements.

At WeWork, we provide a competitive compensation package, with our base salary compensation designed to align with the market. Our employees are eligible for other performance-based incentives specific to their role. We also provide a broad suite of well-being programs for employees and their families, including company-subsidized medical benefits, retirement/financial planning, work/life resources, paid leaves and mental health support, in addition to a range of personal and professional development opportunities, such as in-role training, live virtual sessions and self-paced eLearnings.

We aim to create a workforce that promotes inclusion and fosters diversity. Our inclusion and diversity strategy focuses on proactively creating forums and resources to foster a culture of conversation, delivering training programs to increase understanding and change behaviors, and taking deliberate actions that strengthen our diversity pipeline. We support these initiatives through our inclusion and diversity governance structure, which includes a Global Diversity Leadership Council comprised of executives and senior leaders, as well as an Office of Inclusion that sets our global inclusion & diversity strategy and supports our voluntary employee-led employee community groups.

Legal Proceedings

The Company has in the past been, is currently and may in the future become involved in individual actions, putative class actions, collective and representative actions, regulatory inquiries and various other legal proceedings arising in the normal course of its business, including with members, employees, commercial partners, securityholders, third-party license holders, competitors, government agencies and regulatory agencies, among others. Often these cases raise complex factual and legal issues, which are subject to risks and uncertainties and which could require significant costs, damages, management time and corporate resources to defend, could result in significant media coverage and negative publicity, and could be harmful to our reputation and our brand. Although the outcome of these and other claims cannot be predicted with certainty, we are not currently a party to any legal proceeding that we expect to have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations, financial condition or cash flows. See the section entitled "Legal Matters" in Note 24 of the notes to WeWork's consolidated financial statements included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus for more details.

WEWORK'S MANAGEMENT'S DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS OF FINANCIAL CONDITION AND RESULTS OF OPERATIONS

Unless the context requires otherwise, references to “WeWork,” “we,” “us,” “our” and “the Company” in this section are to the business and operations of WeWork Inc. and its consolidated subsidiaries prior to the Business Combination. The following discussion and analysis should be read in conjunction with WeWork’s audited annual and unaudited interim condensed consolidated financial statements and related notes thereto included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus. In addition to historical information, this discussion contains forward-looking statements that involve risks, uncertainties, and assumptions that could cause WeWork’s actual results to differ materially from management’s expectations. Factors which could cause such differences are discussed herein.

Overview

WeWork is the leading global flexible workspace provider, serving a membership base of businesses large and small through our network of 763 and 851 locations around the world as of June 1, 2021 and December 1, 2020, respectively. With that global footprint, we have worked to establish ourselves as the preeminent brand within the space-as-a-service category by combining best-in-class locations and design with member-first hospitality and exceptional community experiences. Since new management was instituted in 2020, WeWork immediately began to execute a strategic plan to transform our business. That operational restructuring plan included robust expense management efforts, the exit of non-core businesses and material real estate portfolio optimization. With a more efficient operating model and cost conscious mindset, moving forward WeWork will pursue profitable growth and focus on the digitization of our real estate in order to enhance our product offerings, and expand and diversify our membership base, while continuously meeting the growing demand for flexibility.

In the wake of the 2008 global financial crisis, WeWork opened our first location in lower Manhattan in 2010 to provide entrepreneurs and small businesses with flexible, affordable and community-centered office space. The initial vision was to create environments where people and companies could come together to “do what they love.” WeWork’s value proposition proved to be highly attractive to a range of users, which soon evolved to encompass a growing set of medium- and large-scale businesses, including our Enterprise Members.

For nearly a decade, WeWork embarked on a high-growth path towards global expansion. Within four years, the Company grew to 23 locations across eight cities and opened its first international locations in the United Kingdom and Israel. In 2019, WeWork filed a registration statement in connection with an initial public offering transaction that was later withdrawn. Following the withdrawal of the public offering, SBG provided WeWork with additional access to capital to support our day-to-day operations and other capital needs. Subsequently, the Board directed a change in leadership and Marcelo Claire was appointed Executive Chairman in October 2019.

Under Mr. Claire’s stewardship, we rebuilt our leadership team beginning with the appointment of Sandeep Mathrani as CEO in February 2020. With a new leadership team comprised of seasoned professionals in the public and private sectors, WeWork immediately began to execute a strategic plan to transform our business. That plan included robust expense management efforts, the exit of non-core businesses and material real estate portfolio optimization.

WeWork’s core business offering provides flexibility across space, time and cost. Whether users are looking for a dedicated desk, a private office or a fully customized floor, our members have the flexibility to choose the amount of space they need and scale with us as their business grows. Members also have the optionality to choose the type of membership that works for them, with a range of flexible offerings that provide access to space on a monthly subscription basis, through a multi-year membership agreement or on a pay-as-you-go basis. Additionally, a WeWork membership provides members with portability of cost, granting them the flexibility to move part or all of an existing commitment to a new market, region or country.

Membership agreements provide our members with access to space along with certain baseline amenities and services, such as private phone booths, internet, high-speed business printers and copiers, mail and packaging handling, front desk services, 24/7 building access, unique common areas and daily cleaning for no additional cost.

Beyond the amenities offered, WeWork's community team is what sets the company apart from other space providers in the industry. With a member-first mindset, our community teams provide an exceptional level of hospitality by not only overseeing onsite operations and supporting day-to-day needs, but also focusing on cultivating meaningful relationships with and between our members to deliver a premium experience.

By providing all of the overhead services required to find and operate office space, WeWork significantly reduces the complexity and cost of leasing real estate to a simplified membership model.

Key Performance Indicators

To evaluate our business, measure our performance, identify trends affecting our business, formulate business plans and make strategic decisions, we rely on our GAAP financial results, non-GAAP measures and the following key performance indicators.

For certain key performance indicators the amounts we present are based on whether the indicator relates to a location for which the revenues and expenses of the location are consolidated within our results of operations ("Consolidated Locations") or whether the indicator relates to a location for which the revenues and expenses are not consolidated within our results of operations, but for which we are entitled to a management fee for our advisory services ("Unconsolidated Locations"). Beginning with the fourth quarter of 2020, subsequent to the ChinaCo Deconsolidation on October 2, 2020, ChinaCo is no longer a Consolidated Location and is classified as an Unconsolidated Location. On June 1, 2021, we closed a franchise agreement with Ampa and transferred the building operations and obligations of our Israel locations to Ampa. Beginning with June 1, 2021, our Israel locations are no longer Consolidated Locations and are classified as Unconsolidated Locations. For amounts relating to periods prior to October 2, 2020, and June 1, 2021, ChinaCo and Israel locations, respectively, remain reflected as Consolidated Locations and as a result, periods may not be comparable. There is no impact to the combined Consolidated Locations and Unconsolidated Locations ("Total Locations") indicators as a result of the ChinaCo Deconsolidation or Israel franchise agreement. As of June 30, 2021, IndiaCo, ChinaCo and Israel locations are our only Unconsolidated Locations.

Unless otherwise noted, we present our key performance indicators as an aggregation of Consolidated Locations and Unconsolidated Locations. As presented in this proxy statement/prospectus, certain amounts, percentages and other figures have been subject to rounding adjustments. Accordingly, figures shown as totals, dollars or percentage amounts of changes may not represent the arithmetic summation or calculation of the figures that precede them. Any totals of key performance indicators presented as of a period end reflect the count as of the first day of the last month in the period. First-of-the-month counts are used because the economics of those counts generally impact the results for that monthly period, and most move-ins and openings occur on the first-of-the-month.

Workstation Capacity

Workstation capacity represents the estimated number of workstations available at total open locations. As of June 1, 2021, we had total workstation capacity of 937,000, down 6% from 994,000 as of June 1, 2020, with the decrease as a direct result of the Company's continued operational restructuring efforts to exit leases throughout 2020 and the six months ended June 30, 2021.

Workstation capacity is a key indicator of our scale and our capacity to sell memberships across our network of locations. Our future sales and marketing expenses and capital expenditures will be a function of our efforts to increase workstation capacity. The cost at which we build out our workstations affects our capital expenditures, and the cost at which we acquire memberships and fill our workstations affects our sales and marketing expenses.

Workstation capacity is presented in this proxy statement/prospectus rounded to the nearest thousand. Workstation capacity is based on management's best estimates of capacity at a location based on our inventory management system and sales layouts and is not meant to represent the actual count of workstations at our locations.

Memberships

Memberships are the cumulative number of WeWork memberships, WeWork All Access memberships, and WeMemberships (certain predecessor products). WeWork memberships provide access to a workstation and represent the number of memberships from our various product offerings, including our standard dedicated desks, private offices and customized floors. WeWork All Access memberships are monthly memberships providing an individual with access to participating WeWork locations. WeMemberships are legacy products that provide member user login access to the WeWork member network online or through the mobile application as well as access to service offerings and the right to reserve space on an à la carte basis, among other benefits. Each WeWork membership, WeWork All Access membership, and WeMembership is considered to be one membership.

The number of memberships is a key indicator of the adoption of our global membership network, the scale and reach of our network and our ability to fill our locations with members. Memberships also represent monetization opportunities from our current and future service offerings. As of June 1, 2021, we had 517,000 total memberships, which is a decline of 16% from the 613,000 memberships as of June 1, 2020. The decline in memberships was primarily driven by churn during 2020 associated with the impacts of COVID-19. See the section entitled "Key Factors Affecting the Comparability of Our Results—COVID-19 and Impact on our Business" below for further details on the impact of COVID-19 on our business and our efforts to mitigate its effects. As of June 1, 2021, approximately 99% of our total memberships were WeWork memberships and WeWork All Access memberships, which contributed to over 99% of our total membership and service revenue for the six months ended June 30, 2021.

Memberships are presented in this proxy statement/prospectus rounded to the nearest thousand. Memberships can differ from the number of individuals using workspace at our locations for a number of reasons, including members utilizing workspace for fewer individuals than the space was designed to accommodate.

Occupancy Rate

Occupancy rates are calculated by dividing WeWork memberships and WeWork All Access memberships by workstation capacity in a location. Occupancy rates are a way of measuring how full our workspaces are. As of June 1, 2021, our occupancy rate was 55%, compared to 58% as of June 1, 2020. The decrease in occupancy rate was driven by a 16% decrease in demand measured through the decline in WeWork memberships and WeWork All Access memberships primarily driven by the impacts of COVID-19, as compared to the 6% decrease in workstation capacity due to our continued operational restructuring efforts.

Enterprise Membership Percentage

Enterprise memberships represent memberships attributable to Enterprise Members, which we define as organizations with 500 or more full-time employees. Enterprise membership percentage represents the percentage of our memberships attributable to these organizations. There is no minimum number of workstations that an organization needs to reserve in order to be considered an Enterprise Member. For example, an organization with 700 full-time employees that pays for 50 of its employees to occupy workstations at our locations would be considered one Enterprise Member with 50 memberships. As of June 1, 2021, 51% of our Consolidated Memberships were attributable to Enterprise Members, up from 48% as of June 1, 2020. For the three months ended June 30, 2021, Enterprise Memberships accounted for 52% of membership and service revenue compared to 46% for the three months ended June 30, 2020. For the six months ended June 30, 2021, Enterprise Memberships accounted for 50% of membership and service revenue compared to 44% for the six months ended June 30, 2020.

Enterprise Members are strategically important for our business as they typically sign membership agreements with longer-term commitments and for multiple solutions, which enhances our revenue visibility.

Non-GAAP Financial Measures

To evaluate the performance of our business, we rely on both our results of operations recorded in accordance with GAAP and certain non-GAAP financial measures, including Adjusted EBITDA and Free Cash Flow. These measures, as defined below, are not defined or calculated under principles, standards or rules that comprise GAAP. Accordingly, the non-GAAP financial measures we use and refer to should not be viewed as a substitute for net loss or any other performance measure derived in accordance with GAAP or as a substitute for cash flows from operating activities as a measure of liquidity, and we encourage you not to rely on any single financial measure to evaluate our business, financial condition or results of operations. Our definitions of Adjusted EBITDA and Free Cash Flow described below are specific to our business and you should not assume that they are comparable to similarly titled financial measures of other companies.

Adjusted EBITDA

We supplement our GAAP results by evaluating Adjusted EBITDA, a non-GAAP measure. We define “Adjusted EBITDA” as net loss before income tax (benefit) provision, interest and other (income) expense, depreciation and amortization expense, stock-based compensation expense, expense related to stock-based payments for services rendered by consultants, income or expense relating to the changes in fair value of assets and liabilities remeasured to fair value on a recurring basis, expense related to costs associated with mergers, acquisitions, divestitures and capital raising activities, legal, tax and regulatory reserves or settlements, significant legal costs incurred by the Company in connection with regulatory investigations and litigation regarding the Company’s 2019 withdrawn initial public offering and the related execution of the SoftBank Transactions, as defined in Note 1 of the notes to WeWork’s audited annual and unaudited interim condensed consolidated financial statements included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus, net of any insurance or other recoveries, significant non-ordinary course asset impairment charges and, to the extent applicable, any impact of discontinued operations, restructuring charges, and other gains and losses on operating assets.

A reconciliation of net loss, the most comparable GAAP measure, to Adjusted EBITDA is set forth below:

| (Amounts in thousands) | Six Months Ended June 30, | | Year Ended December 31, | | |

| Adjusted EBITDA | $ (894,579) | $ (884,318) | $(1,883,444) | $(2,200,591) | $(1,171,597) |

(b) Represents the non-cash expense of our equity compensation arrangements for employees, directors, and consultants.

(c) Represents the change in fair value of the contingent consideration associated with acquisitions as included in selling, general and administrative expenses on the consolidated statements of operations.

(d) Legal costs incurred by the Company in connection with regulatory investigations and litigation regarding the Company's 2019 withdrawn initial public offering and the related execution of the SoftBank Transactions, net of any insurance or other recoveries. See section entitled "Legal Matters" in Note 24 and Note 16 of the notes to WeWork's audited annual and unaudited interim condensed consolidated financial statements, respectively, included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus for details regarding the related regulatory investigations and litigation matters.

When used in conjunction with GAAP financial measures, we believe that Adjusted EBITDA is a useful supplemental measure of operating performance because it facilitates comparisons of historical performance by excluding non-cash items such as stock-based payments, fair market value adjustments and impairment charges and other amounts not directly attributable to our primary operations, such as the impact of restructuring costs, acquisitions, disposals, non-routine investigations, litigation and settlements. Depreciation and amortization relate primarily to the depreciation of our leasehold improvements, equipment and furniture. These capital expenditures are incurred and capitalized subsequent to the commencement of our leases and are depreciated over the lesser of the useful life of the asset or the term of the lease. The initial capital expenditures are assessed by management as an investing activity, and the related depreciation and amortization are non-cash charges that are not considered in management's assessment of the daily operating performance of our locations. As a result, the impact of depreciation and amortization is excluded from our calculation of Adjusted EBITDA. Restructuring and other related costs relate primarily to the decision to slow growth and terminate leases and are therefore not ordinary course costs directly attributable to the daily operation of our locations. In addition, while the legal costs incurred by the Company in connection with regulatory investigations and litigation regarding the Company's 2019 withdrawn initial public offering and the related execution of the SoftBank Transactions are cash expenses, these are not expected to be recurring after the matters are resolved and they do not represent expenses necessary for our business operations.

Adjusted EBITDA is also a key metric used internally by our management to evaluate performance and develop internal budgets and forecasts.

Adjusted EBITDA has limitations as an analytical tool and should not be considered in isolation or as a substitute for analyzing our results as reported under GAAP and may not provide a complete understanding of our operating results as a whole. Some of these limitations are:

- it does not reflect changes in, or cash requirements for, our working capital needs;
- it does not reflect our interest expense or the cash requirements necessary to service interest or principal payments on our debt;
- it does not reflect our tax expense or the cash requirements to pay our taxes;
- it does not reflect historical capital expenditures or future requirements for capital expenditures or contractual commitments;
- although stock-based compensation expenses are non-cash charges, we rely on equity compensation to compensate and incentivize employees, directors and certain consultants, and we may continue to do so in the future; and
- although depreciation, amortization and impairments are non-cash charges, the assets being depreciated and amortized will often have to be replaced in the future, and this non-GAAP measure does not reflect any cash requirements for such replacements.

Free Cash Flow

Because of the limitations of Adjusted EBITDA, as noted above, we also supplement our GAAP results by evaluating Free Cash Flow, a non-GAAP measure. Free Cash Flow is defined as cash flow from operating activities less cash purchases of property and equipment, each as presented in the Company's consolidated statements of cash flows calculated in accordance with GAAP. Free Cash Flow is both a performance measure and a liquidity measure that provides useful information to management and investors about the amount of cash generated by or used in the business. Free Cash Flow is also a key metric used internally by our management to develop internal budgets, forecasts and performance targets.

A reconciliation of net cash provided by (used in) operating activities, the most comparable GAAP measure, to Free Cash Flow is set forth below:

| (Amounts in thousands) | Six Months Ended June 30, | | Year Ended December 31, | | |
|---|----------------------------------|-----------------------|--------------------------------|-----------------------|-----------------------|
| | 2021 | 2020 | 2020 | 2019 | 2018 |

| Less: Cash purchases of property and equipment ^(a) | (153,142) | (985,011) | (1,441,232) | (3,488,086) | (2,055,020) |
| Free Cash Flow | $ (1,312,099) | $ (1,153,563) | $ (2,298,240) | $ (3,936,330) | $ (2,231,749) |

(a) As presented on our consolidated statements of cash flows.

Free Cash Flow also has some limitations as an analytical tool and should not be considered in isolation or as a substitute for analyzing our results as reported under GAAP and may not provide a complete understanding of our results and liquidity as a whole. Some of these limitations are:

- it only includes cash outflows for purchases of property and equipment and not other investing cash flow activity, and financing cash flow activity is also excluded;
- it is subject to variation between periods as a result of changes in working capital and changes in timing of receipts and disbursements;
- although non-cash GAAP straight-line lease costs are non-cash adjustments, these charges generally reflect amounts we will be required to pay our landlords in cash over the lifetime of our leases; and
- although stock-based compensation expenses are non-cash charges, we rely on equity compensation to compensate and incentivize employees, directors and certain consultants, and we may continue to do so in the future.

Key Factors Affecting the Comparability of Our Results

ChinaCo Financing and Deconsolidation

In September 2020, the shareholders of ChinaCo executed a restructuring and Series A subscription agreement (the “ChinaCo Agreement”). Pursuant to the ChinaCo Agreement, Trustbridge agreed to subscribe for a new series of ChinaCo shares for $100.0 million in total gross proceeds to ChinaCo, received in connection with the initial investment closing on October 2, 2020 (the “Initial Investment Closing”), and an additional $100.0 million in gross proceeds to ChinaCo, with such additional shares issued and proceeds to be received at the earlier of 1 year following the Initial Investment Closing or such earlier date as determined by the ChinaCo board, to the extent such funds are necessary to support the operations of ChinaCo (the “Second Investment Closing”). The ChinaCo Agreement also included the restructuring of the ownership interests of all other preferred and ordinary shareholders’ interests into new ordinary shares in ChinaCo and the conversion of a total of approximately $233 million in net intercompany payables, payable by ChinaCo to various wholly owned subsidiaries of WeWork Inc. into new ordinary shares of ChinaCo such that subsequent to the Initial Investment Closing in October 2020, and as of June 30, 2021 and December 31, 2020, WeWork now holds 21.6% of the total shares issued by ChinaCo.

Pursuant to the terms of the ChinaCo Agreement, the rights of the ChinaCo shareholders were also amended such that upon the Initial Investment Closing, WeWork no longer retained the power to direct the activities of the VIE that most significantly impact the VIE’s economic performance, and as a result, WeWork was no longer the primary beneficiary of ChinaCo and ChinaCo was deconsolidated from the Company’s consolidated financial statements on October 2, 2020 (the “ChinaCo Deconsolidation”). As such, the Company’s consolidated results of operations for the years ended December 31, 2019 and 2018 includes twelve months of consolidated ChinaCo revenue and expense activity whereas the consolidated results of operations for the year ended December 31, 2020, includes consolidated ChinaCo revenue and expense activity for the nine months ended September 30, 2020, and beginning on October 2, 2020, our remaining 21.6% ordinary share investment, valued at $26.3 million upon deconsolidation, will be accounted for as an unconsolidated equity method investment.

During the first quarter of 2021, the Company discontinued applying the equity method on the ChinaCo investment when the carrying amount was reduced to zero, resulting in a loss of $29.3 million recorded in equity method investments in the condensed consolidated statement of operations. See Note 6 of the notes to WeWork’s unaudited interim condensed consolidated financial statements included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus for additional details.

Restructuring and Impairments

In September 2019, we commenced an operational restructuring program to improve our financial position and refocus on our core space-as-a-service business.

During the six months ended June 30, 2021 and the year ended December 31, 2020, we were successful in achieving a 46% reduction totaling $0.4 billion and a 43% reduction totaling $1.2 billion, respectively, in total costs associated with selling, general and administrative expenses as compared to the six months ended June 30, 2020 and the year ended December 31, 2019, respectively. We also terminated leases associated with a total of 59 previously open locations and three pre-open locations during the six months ended June 30, 2021, and 82 consolidated pre-open locations during the year ended December 31, 2020 (including seven associated with ChinaCo during the nine months ended September 30, 2020 that it was consolidated). During the year ended December 31, 2020, we also strategically closed 24 previously open Consolidated Locations (including nine associated with ChinaCo during the nine months ended September 30, 2020, that it was consolidated) as part of our efforts to right-sizing our existing real estate portfolio to better match supply with demand in certain markets and to help improve overall operating performance.

We successfully amended over 150 leases during the six months ended June 30, 2021, and over 200 leases during the year ended December 31, 2020 for a combination of partial terminations to reduce our leased space, rent reductions, rent deferrals, offsets for tenant improvement allowances and other strategic changes. These amendments and full and partial lease terminations have resulted in an estimated reduction of approximately $6.9 billion in total future undiscounted fixed minimum lease cost payments that were scheduled to be paid over the life of the original executed lease agreements. The deconsolidation of ChinaCo on October 2, 2020 also resulted in a decline of approximately $2.7 billion in our consolidated total future undiscounted fixed minimum lease cost payments based on the future obligations that existed as of September 30, 2020, just prior to the deconsolidation.

Management is continuing to evaluate our real estate portfolio in connection with our ongoing restructuring efforts and expects to exit additional leases over the remainder of 2021. During 2021, the Company anticipates there will be additional restructuring and related costs consisting primarily of lease termination charges, other exit costs and costs related to ceased use buildings and one-time employee termination benefits, as the Company is still in the process of finalizing its operational restructuring plans. The Company anticipates all such activities will be substantially complete by the end of 2021.

As of June 30, 2021, the positive changes we have made and our focused business plan with enhanced cost discipline will set the stage for our future success as we continue to increase our membership offerings and expand our footprint strategically through flexible and capital light growth alternatives.

As the Company continues to execute on its operational restructuring program and experiences the benefits of our efforts to create a leaner, more efficient organization, results may be less comparable period over period.

Restructuring and other related costs totaled $466.0 million and $136.2 million during the six months ended June 30, 2021 and 2020, respectively, and $206.7 million and $329.2 million during the years ended December 31, 2020 and 2019, respectively. The details of these net charges are as follows:

| (Amounts in thousands) | Six Months Ended June 30, | | Year Ended December 31, | |
| | 2021 | 2020 | 2020 | 2019 |

As of June 30, 2021, net restructuring liabilities totaled approximately $24.9 million. A reconciliation of the beginning and ending restructuring liability balances is as follows:

| (Amounts in thousands) | One-time Employee Benefits | Legal Settlement Benefits | Other | Total Restructuring Costs |

| Restructuring liability balance — June 30, 2021 | $ 5,043 | $ — | $ 19,893 | $ 24,936 |

During the six months ended June 30, 2021, the Company also performed its quarterly impairment assessment for long-lived assets. As a result of the COVID-19 pandemic and the resulting declines in revenue and operating income experienced by certain locations as of June 30, 2021, we identified certain assets whose carrying value was now deemed to have been partially impaired. We evaluated our estimates and assumptions related to our locations' future revenue and cash flows, and performed a comprehensive review of our locations' long-lived assets for impairment, including both property and equipment and operating lease right-of-use assets, at an individual location level. Key assumptions used in estimating the fair value of our location assets in connection with our impairment analyses are revenue growth, lease costs, market rental rates, changes in local real estate markets in which we operate, inflation, and the overall economics of the real estate industry. Our assumptions account for the estimated impact of the COVID-19 pandemic. As a result, during the six months ended June 30, 2021, the Company recorded $31.5 million in impairments, primarily as a result of decreases in projected cash flows primarily attributable to the impact of COVID-19.

As of December 31, 2020, net restructuring liabilities totaled approximately $28.9 million. A reconciliation of the beginning and ending restructuring liability balances is as follows:

| (Amounts in thousands) | One-time Employee Benefits | Other | Total Restructuring Costs |
|--|---|------------------|--|
| Restructuring liability balance — January 1, 2020 | $ 89,872 | $ 1,497 | $ 91,369 |

Non-routine gains and impairment charges totaled and $541.6 million and $556.0 million during the six months ended June 30, 2021 and 2020, respectively, and $1,355.9 million and $355.0 million for the years ended December 31, 2020 and 2019, respectively, and are included on a net basis as impairment/(gain on sale) of goodwill, intangibles and other assets in the accompanying condensed consolidated statements of operations. The details of these net charges are as follows:

Asset Dispositions

In connection with our operational restructuring program, and our refocus on our core space-as-a-service offering, we have been successful in the disposition of certain non-core operations in 2020 including:

- Flatiron School LLC and its affiliates (collectively “Flatiron”) acquired in 2017, were sold in August 2020;
- Effective Technology Solutions, Inc. (“SpaceIQ”), a workplace management software platform acquired in 2019, was sold in May 2020;
- Meetup Holdings, Inc. (“Meetup”), a web-based platform that brings people together for face to face interactions acquired in 2017, was sold in March 2020 with the Company retaining a 9% noncontrolling equity interest, accounted for as an equity method investment;
- Managed by Q Inc. (“Managed by Q”), a workplace management platform acquired in 2019, was sold in March 2020;
- The 424 Fifth Venture (as defined in “—Liquidity and Capital Resources” below) real estate investment, acquired in 2019, was sold in March 2020; and
- Teem Technologies, Inc. (“Teem”), a software-as-a-service workplace management solution acquired in 2018, was sold in January 2020.

During the fourth quarter of 2019, we also completed the disposition of Conductor, Inc. (“Conductor”), a search engine optimization and enterprise content marketing solutions software company acquired in 2018, and in 2020 we wound down certain other non-core businesses, including Spacious Technologies Inc. (“Spacious”), Prolific Interactive LLC (“Prolific”), Waltz Inc. (“Waltz”) and WeGrow.

See Note 8 and Note 3 of the notes to WeWork’s audited annual and unaudited interim condensed consolidated financial statements, respectively, included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus for additional information regarding the dispositions and the related impairments and gains recorded on sale. In connection with these dispositions, we expect the related revenues and operating expenses associated with these operations to decline and such declines will impact the comparability of results period over period.

Growth Strategy Changes

As we enter into more management agreements and/or participating leases, our net loss, Adjusted EBITDA and Free Cash Flow may be negatively impacted as we share some of our margin with landlords or other partners in exchange for them funding the capital expenditures at a particular location. Under a participating lease, the landlord typically pays or reimburses us for the full build-out of the space and we generally do not pay a specified annual rent, but rather rent is determined based on revenues or profits from the space. Similarly, in a management agreement, the partner may fund all capital expenditures to build out the space to our design specifications and maintains full responsibility for the space, while we function as the manager and receive an agreed upon management fee. In contrast to standard lease arrangements where we receive the full benefit of the future margin from a given location, under these alternative arrangements, we share portions of this future margin with the landlord or other partner. The percentage of open locations subject to such alternative arrangements was approximately 24% as of June 1, 2021 and December 1, 2020, as compared to 15% as of June 1, 2020 and December 1, 2019. The increase in this percentage year over year is primarily driven by the October 2, 2020 transition of ChinaCo from a primarily traditional consolidated lease structure to an unconsolidated management agreement arrangement with the leases now controlled by Trustbridge. This percentage may continue to increase as our response to COVID-19 and our operational restructuring in general may include the conversion of certain traditional leases to management agreements.

COVID-19 and Impact on our Business

In late 2019, an outbreak of COVID-19 had emerged and by March 11, 2020, the World Health Organization declared COVID-19 a global pandemic. Since that time, COVID-19 has resulted in various governments imposing numerous restrictions, including travel bans, quarantines, stay-at-home orders, social distancing requirements and mandatory closure of “non-essential” businesses.

We are facing a period of uncertainty as a result of the ongoing impact of the COVID-19 pandemic on our business and expect there may continue to be a material impact on demand for our space-as-a-service offering in the short-term.

As a result, the Company’s business was significantly disrupted, and the Company’s operations have been significantly reduced. In particular, markets in which the Company operates both in the United States and internationally, and the state and local governments in these areas, among others, have in the past implemented stay-at-home orders, social distancing requirements and mandatory closures of all “non-essential” businesses, and have either re-implemented or may in the future re-implement these or other restrictions, in an effort to curb the spread of COVID-19. In response to these measures, the Company has temporarily closed certain locations in various U.S. and international markets and may do so in the future, in an effort to help protect the health and safety of its employees and members, and various planned new location openings have been delayed. In addition, the spread of COVID-19 has caused the Company to modify its business practices (including employee travel, employee work locations and cancellation of physical participation in meetings, events and conferences), and the Company may take further actions as may be required by government authorities or that the Company determines are in the best interests of the Company’s employees and members. During the year ended December 31, 2020, we purchased over $22 million of COVID-19 related prevention supplies inclusive of personal protective equipment for use by employees and members at our locations.

During 2021 and throughout 2020, the Company experienced reduced new sales volume at our locations, which negatively affected, and may continue to negatively affect, the Company’s results of operations. The Company had also been, and may continue to be, adversely impacted by member churn, non-payment (or delayed payment) from members or members seeking payment concessions or deferrals or cancellations as a result of the COVID-19 pandemic. During the six months ended June 30, 2021, we continued to record comparable bad debt expense to the six months ended June 30, 2020, totaling $17.2 million and $21.0 million, respectively. During the year ended December 31, 2020, the Company recorded $67.5 million in bad debt expense compared to $22.2 million during the year ended December 31, 2019. The Company is actively monitoring its accounts receivable balances in response to COVID-19 and also ceased recording revenue on certain contracts where collectability is not probable. The Company determined collectability was not probable and did not recognize revenue on such contracts totaling $2.1 million and $53.1 million for the six months ended June 30, 2021 and the year ended December 31, 2020, respectively. We also continue to engage with our members as it relates to COVID-19 related payment deferral programs. Additionally, in order to retain our members, we may offer additional discounts or deferrals that may continue to negatively impact our net loss, Adjusted EBITDA and Free Cash Flow. Average revenue per WeWork membership declined approximately 4% for the six months ended June 30, 2021 compared to the six months ended June 30, 2020, and declined approximately 6% for the year ended December 31, 2020 compared to the year ended December 31, 2019.

The implementation of professional distancing standards, de-densification of common areas and reconfiguring of offices, may also impact our key performance indicators and the comparability of our results. Our key performance indicators may also be impacted by the speed at which we can open locations and stabilize occupancy at those locations, as well as the average revenue per WeWork membership that we generate, which all may continue to decline in the short-term as a result of COVID-19.

We have sought to mitigate the operational and financial impact of COVID-19 on our business by taking the following measures:

- Proactively negotiating with landlords on a location-by-location based approach for deferrals, abatements and the conversion of some traditional leases to management agreements.
- Continuing our restructuring efforts and reorganizing our business and operating model with the goal of creating a leaner, more efficient organization to accelerate our path to positive Adjusted EBITDA.
- Temporarily delaying certain new location openings and the capital investment associated with the expansion of our portfolio.
- Taking steps to delay or reduce spending during this period of disruption in areas such as marketing, professional fees, personnel cost and maintenance capital. This is in addition to significant organic reductions in variable expenses such as consumables, utilities, sales commissions and broker referrals, among others, related to overall lower business activity.

In response to COVID-19, our product, design, technology and member experience teams are also working together to enhance our spaces and ensure WeWork is prepared to satisfy our members' changing needs for space if and when they consider a return to work in the coming months. WeWork has been awarded a Global Certificate of Conformity for the company's health and safety enhancements from Bureau Veritas, an internationally recognized testing, inspection, and certification organization. The certification was awarded after an independent audit of WeWork's COVID-19 health and safety measures, response plans, and space modifications.

In the wake of the COVID-19 global pandemic, we accelerated our efforts to digitize our real estate offering through the launch of the WeWork All Access and WeWork On Demand products. WeWork All Access is a monthly subscription-based model that provides members with access to any participating WeWork location within their home country. Through WeWork All Access, members can book dedicated desks, conference rooms and private offices right from their phones – enabling users to choose when, where and how they work. WeWork On Demand provides users pay-as-you-go access to book individual workspace or conference rooms at nearby WeWork locations, giving members the flexibility to book individual workspace by the hour or conference rooms by the day on the WeWork On Demand mobile app.

While the total effects of the COVID-19 pandemic on the economy and our business are uncertain, our senior management team is proactively monitoring its impact on a daily basis and will continue to adjust our operations as necessary.

We also believe our liquidity position will be sufficient to help us mitigate the near-term uncertainty associated with COVID-19. As of June 30, 2021, we had over $1.9 billion of cash and unfunded cash commitments, which includes $844.0 million of cash and cash equivalents on our condensed consolidated balance sheet, access to an additional $1.1 billion in undrawn senior secured debt commitments (see the section entitled “— Liquidity and Capital Resources” for additional information on our liquidity position and undrawn debt availability).

While we cannot reasonably estimate the impact of COVID-19 on our future financial condition and results, we do anticipate that it will likely have a continued negative impact in the near-term. During the six months ended June 30, 2021, we have observed indicators of recovery with an increase of Total Memberships to 517,000 as of June 1, 2021 from 490,000 as of December 1, 2020. However, the extent to which COVID-19 could continue to impact our business depends on future developments, including those which are highly uncertain, cannot be predicted and are outside our control, including new information which may quickly emerge regarding the severity of the virus, the spread and impact of new variants, the scope of the outbreak and the actions to contain the virus or treat its impact, vaccination rollout plans, as well as actions the Company is taking including the duration of our location closures, delays in new openings, our ongoing negotiations with landlords and how quickly we can resume normal operations, among others.

Components of Results of Operations

We assess the performance of our locations differently based on whether the revenues and expenses of the location are consolidated within our results of operations, Consolidated Locations, or whether the revenues and expenses of the location are not consolidated within our results of operations but we are entitled to a management fee for our services, such as locations (“IndiaCo locations” and “ChinaCo locations,” collectively Unconsolidated Locations) operated by WeWork India Services Private Limited (“IndiaCo”) and Trustbridge (“ChinaCo”). Beginning with the fourth quarter of 2020, ChinaCo locations are included in Unconsolidated Locations. Prior to and during the nine months ended September 30, 2020, ChinaCo locations were included in Consolidated Locations. The term “locations” includes only Consolidated Locations when used in sections entitled “— Components of Results of Operations and — Comparison of the six months ended June 30, 2021 and 2020 and the years ended December 31, 2020, 2019 and 2018” but includes both Consolidated Locations and Unconsolidated Locations when used elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus.

Revenue

Revenue includes membership and service revenue as well as other revenue as described below.

Membership revenue represents membership fees, net of discounts, from sales of WeWork memberships, WeWork All Access memberships, WeWork On Demand and WeMemberships and any revenue associated with our former WeLive offering. We derive a significant majority of our revenue from recurring membership fees. The price of each membership varies based on the type of workplace solution selected by the member, the geographic location of the space occupied, and any monthly allowances for business services, such as conference room reservations and printing or copying allotments that are included in the base membership fee. All memberships include access to our community through the WeWork app. Membership revenue is recognized monthly, on a ratable basis, over the life of the agreement, as access to space is provided.

Service revenue primarily includes additional billings to members for ancillary business services in excess of the monthly allowances mentioned above. Services offered to members include access to conference rooms, printing, photocopies, initial set-up fees, phone and IT services, parking fees and other services.

Service revenue also includes commissions we earn from third-party service providers. We offer access to a variety of business and other services to our members, often at exclusive rates, and receive a percentage of the sale when one of our members purchases a service from a third party. These services range from business services to lifestyle perks. Service revenue also includes any management fee income for services provided to IndiaCo locations and ChinaCo locations (subsequent to deconsolidation on October 2, 2020). Service revenue is recognized on a monthly basis as the services are provided.

Service revenue does not include any revenue recognized related to other non-core offerings not related to our space-as-a-service offering.

During 2021 and 2020, other revenue primarily includes our former Powered by We design and development services in which we offered on-site office management that provides integrated design, construction and space management services. Also included in other revenue in 2021 and 2020 is other management and advisory fees earned.

Design and development services performed are recognized as revenue over time based on a percentage of contract costs incurred to date compared to the total estimated contract cost. The Company identifies only the specific costs incurred which contribute to the Company's progress in satisfying the performance obligation. Contracts are generally segmented between types of services, such as consulting contracts, design and construction contracts, and operate contracts. Revenues related to each respective type of contract are recognized as or when the respective performance obligations are satisfied. When total cost estimates for these types of arrangements exceed revenues in a fixed-price arrangement, the estimated losses are recognized immediately.

Income generated from sponsorships and ticket sales from WeWork branded events are recognized upon the occurrence of the event. Other revenues are generally recognized over time, on a monthly basis, as the services are performed.

Other revenue also includes revenue generated from various other non-core offerings, not directly related to the revenue we earn under our membership agreements through which we provide space-as-a-service. For example, the revenue generated by the following during the periods subsequent to their acquisition and prior to their disposition or wind down, are all classified as other revenue: Flatiron, Meetup, Conductor, SpaceIQ, Managed by Q, Teem, Spacious, Prolific, Waltz and WeGrow (collectively our "non-core operations" or "non-core offerings").

As other revenue includes significant amounts related to non-core operations that have been disposed of or have been wound down, we expect these other revenues to continue to decline. See the section entitled "—Key Factors Affecting Comparability of Our Results — Asset Dispositions" above.

Location Operating Expenses

Location operating expenses include the day-to-day costs of operating an open location and exclude pre-opening costs, depreciation and amortization and general sales and marketing, which are separately recorded.

Lease Cost

Our most significant location operating expense is lease cost. Lease cost is recognized on a straight-line basis over the life of the lease term in accordance with GAAP based on the following three key components:

- Lease cost contractually paid or payable represents cash payments due for base and contingent rent, common area maintenance amounts and real estate taxes payable under the Company's lease agreements, recorded on an accrual basis of accounting, regardless of the timing of when such amounts were actually paid.

- Amortization of lease incentives represents the amortization of amounts received or receivable for tenant improvement allowances and broker commissions (collectively, “lease incentives”), amortized on a straight-line basis over the terms of our leases.
- Non-cash GAAP straight-line lease cost represents the adjustment required under GAAP to recognize the impact of “free rent” periods and lease cost escalation clauses on a straight-line basis over the term of the lease. Non-cash GAAP straight-line lease cost also includes the amortization of capitalized initial direct costs associated with obtaining a lease.

Prior to the adoption of ASC 842 on January 1, 2019, lease cost was referred to as rent and tenancy costs. Tenancy costs include common area maintenance charges and real estate taxes paid in connection with our leased locations.

Other Location Operating Expenses

Other location operating expenses typically include utilities, ongoing repairs and maintenance, cleaning expenses, office expenses, security expenses, credit card processing fees and food and beverage costs. Location operating expenses also include personnel and related costs for the teams managing our community operations including member relations, new member sales and member retention and facilities management.

Pre-Opening Location Expenses

Pre-opening location expenses include all expenses incurred before a location is not open for members. The primary components of pre-opening location expenses are lease cost expense, including our share of tenancy costs (including real estate and related taxes and common area maintenance charges), utilities, cleaning, personnel and related expenses and other costs incurred prior to generating revenue. Personnel expenses are included in pre-opening location expenses as we staff our locations prior to their opening to help ensure a smooth opening and a successful member move-in experience. Pre-opening location expenses also consist of expenses incurred during the period in which a workspace location has been closed for member operations and all members have been relocated to a new workspace location, prior to management’s decision to enter negotiations to terminate a lease.

Selling, General and Administrative Expenses

Selling, general and administrative expenses (“SG&A”) consist primarily of personnel and stock-based compensation expenses related to our corporate employees, technology, consulting, legal and other professional services expenses, costs for our corporate offices, such as costs associated with our billings, collections, purchasing and accounts payable functions. Also included in SG&A are general sales and marketing efforts, including advertising costs, member referral fees, and costs associated with strategic marketing events, and various other costs we incur to manage and support our business.

SG&A also includes cost of goods sold in connection with our former Powered by We on-site office design, development and management solutions and the costs of services or goods sold related to our various other non-core offerings described above in the periods subsequent to their acquisition and prior to their disposition or wind down.

Also included are corporate design, development, warehousing, logistics and real estate costs and expenses incurred researching and pursuing new markets, solutions and services, and other expenses related to the Company’s growth and global expansion incurred during periods when the Company was focused on expansion. These costs include non-capitalized personnel and related expenses for our development, design, product, research, real estate, growth talent acquisition, mergers and acquisitions, legal, technology research and development teams and related professional fees and other expenses incurred such as growth related recruiting fees, employee relocation costs, due diligence, integration costs, transaction costs, contingent consideration fair value adjustments relating to acquisitions, write-off of previously capitalized costs for which the Company is no longer moving forward with the lease or project and other routine asset impairments and write-offs.

We expect that overall SG&A expenses will decrease as a percentage of revenue over time as we continue to execute on our restructuring plans aimed to enhance our operating efficiency and leverage the historical investments in people and technology that we have made to support the growth of our global community. We also expect decreases in SG&A expenses over time due to the sale or wind down of certain non-core operations discussed above. Prior to 2020, much of our sales and marketing efforts were focused on pre-opening locations and non-mature locations. With the decline in overall occupancy and the impact of COVID-19 on our mature locations continuing in 2021, future sales and marketing costs may be required to help restabilize our mature locations.

Restructuring and other related costs and Impairment/(gain on sale) of goodwill, intangibles and other assets

See the section entitled “— Key Factors Affecting Comparability of Our Results — Restructuring and Impairments” above for details surrounding the components of these financial statement line items.

Depreciation and amortization

Depreciation and amortization primarily relates to the depreciation expense recorded on our property and equipment, the most significant component of which are the leasehold improvements made to our real estate portfolio.

Interest and Other Income (Expense)

Interest and other income (expense) is comprised of interest income, interest expense, loss on extinguishment of debt, earnings from equity method and other investments, foreign currency gain (loss), and gain (loss) from change in fair value of related party financial instruments.

Condensed Consolidated Results of Operations

- (3) On June 1, 2021, we closed a franchise agreement with Ampa and transferred the building operations and obligations of our Israel locations to Ampa. Included in Consolidated Locations indicators above are 12,000 workstation capacity and 7,000 Memberships at Israel locations as of June 1, 2020. Included in Consolidated Locations indicators are 12,000, 10,000, and 6,000 workstation capacity and 8,000, 8,000, and 5,000 Memberships at Israel locations as of December 1, 2020, 2019 and 2018, respectively.

| Other revenue | 46,903 | 151,596 | (104,693) | (69)% |
| Total revenue | $1,191,331 | $1,938,617 | $(747,286) | (39)% |
| ChinaCo Membership and service revenue | — | 135,702 | (135,702) | (100)% |
| ChinaCo Other revenue | — | 1,219 | (1,219) | (100)% |
| Total revenue excluding ChinaCo | $1,191,331 | $1,801,696 | (610,365) | (34)% |

Total revenue decreased $747.3 million primarily driven by membership and service revenue, which decreased $642.6 million to $1.1 billion for the six months ended June 30, 2021, from $1.8 billion for the six months ended June 30, 2020. The decrease in membership and service revenue was primarily driven by the 30% decrease in our membership base which decreased to approximately 406,000 memberships as of June 30, 2021 from 578,000 as of June 30, 2020, including 65,000 memberships at ChinaCo locations consolidated as of June 30, 2020. The decrease in revenue was also impacted by increases in COVID-19 related discounts. Membership and service revenue was also negatively impacted by lower than average incremental service revenue earned during the six months ended June 30, 2021, primarily associated with the reduction of the use of our space and related services as a result of COVID-19.

Included in the net decreases in membership and service revenue discussed above was a decrease of approximately $135.7 million in membership and service revenue related to ChinaCo. ChinaCo was deconsolidated as of October 2, 2020 and therefore contributed six months of consolidated membership and service revenue during the six months ended June 30, 2020.

Additionally, there was a 69% decrease in other revenue, which decreased $104.7 million to $46.9 million for the six months ended June 30, 2021, from $151.6 million for the six months ended June 30, 2020. The $104.7 million decrease primarily related to a $65.0 million decrease in revenue generated from our former Powered by We solution and a $38.0 million decrease primarily due to the sale of non-core ventures that were sold in 2020 as a result of our plan to refocus on our core space-as-a-service business. The remaining $1.7 million net decrease related to revenue from various other offerings.

| (Amounts in thousands, except percentages) | Year Ended December 31, | | Change | |
|---|------------------------------------|--------------------|--------------------|-------------|
| | 2020 | 2019 | $ | % |
| Membership and service revenue | $3,133,278 | $3,058,693 | $ 74,585 | 2% |
| Other revenue | 282,587 | 399,899 | (117,312) | (29)% |
| Total revenue | $3,415,865 | $3,458,592 | $ (42,727) | (1)% |
| ChinaCo Membership and service revenue | 204,291 | 225,377 | (21,086) | (9)% |
| ChinaCo Other revenue | 1,970 | 3,160 | (1,190) | (38)% |
| Total revenue excluding ChinaCo | $3,209,604 | $3,230,055 | $ (20,451) | (1)% |

Total revenue decreased $42.7 million primarily driven by a 29% decrease in other revenue, which decreased $117.3 million for the year ended December 31, 2020.

The $74.6 million increase in membership and service revenue was primarily driven by the 6% growth in our monthly average membership base for the year ended December 31, 2020 compared to the monthly average membership base for the year ended December 31, 2019. Overall memberships as of December 31, 2020 were down as compared to December 31, 2019, primarily as a result of the impact of COVID-19, however the COVID-19 related declines during 2020 were at a lesser rate than the growth in memberships experienced during 2019, resulting in the increase in monthly average period over period. The positive impact on revenue from the increase in monthly average memberships was also partially offset by increases in COVID-19 related discounts and a lower than average incremental service revenue earned during the year ended December 31, 2020. The decline in service revenue was primarily related to conference room charges based on a decline in average utilization primarily as a result of COVID-19. Average revenue per WeWork membership declined approximately 6% for the year ended December 31, 2020 compared to the year ended December 31, 2019.

Included in the net increases in membership and service revenue discussed above was an offsetting decrease of approximately $21.1 million in membership and service revenue related to ChinaCo. ChinaCo was deconsolidated as of October 2, 2020 and therefore contributed only 9 months of consolidated membership and service revenue during the year ended December 31, 2020, as compared to 12 months of consolidated membership and service revenue during the year ended December 31, 2019.

Other revenue decreased $117.3 million, primarily related to a $39.5 million payment from an affiliate of SBG relating to the Creator Fund recognized during the year ended December 31, 2019 that did not reoccur during the year ended December 31, 2020, a $74.2 million decrease primarily due to the sale of non-core ventures that were sold in the years ended December 31, 2019 and 2020 as a result of our plan to refocus on our core space-as-a-service business, and a $14.9 million decrease in revenue generated from our former Powered by We solution. The decreases were partially offset by a $14.2 million increase in revenue related to management fees earned by the WeCap Manager. The remaining $2.9 million net increase related to revenue from various other offerings.

| Total revenue | $3,458,592 | $1,821,751 | $1,636,841 | 90% |

Total revenue increased $1.6 billion to $3.5 billion for the year ended December 31, 2019, primarily driven by an increase in membership and service revenue of $1.4 billion.

The growth in revenue was primarily driven by growth in our membership base which increased to approximately 662,000 memberships as of December 1, 2019 from 401,000 as of December 1, 2018. The increase in membership and service revenue due to growth in the WeWork community was slightly offset by 4% decline in average revenue per WeWork membership for the year ended December 31, 2019, from the year ended December 31, 2018. Average revenue per WeWork membership has experienced a decline primarily relating to our expansion into many new global markets with different pricing structures. In some cases, we have also used discounts to encourage longer contract terms.

Other revenue increased $275.5 million, primarily related to a $170.5 million increase in revenue generated from our former Powered by We solutions and $55.7 million related to growth in other non-core ventures. The remaining $49.3 million was primarily driven by a payment from an affiliate of SBG relating to the Creator Fund received during the year ended December 31, 2019, and various other offerings.

Location Operating Expenses

Comparison of the six months ended June 30, 2021 and the six months ended June 30, 2020

| (Amounts in thousands, except percentages) | Six Months Ended June 30, | | Change | |
|---|--------------------------------------|--------------------|--------------------|-------------|
| | 2021 | 2020 | $ | % |
| Location operating expenses | $1,598,812 | $1,804,802 | $(205,990) | (11)% |
| ChinaCo location operating expenses | — | 179,221 | (179,221) | (100)% |
| Location operating expenses excluding ChinaCo | $1,598,812 | $1,625,581 | $ (26,769) | (2)% |

Location operating expenses decreased $206.0 million due primarily to a decrease of approximately $179.2 million in location operating expenses related to ChinaCo. ChinaCo was deconsolidated as of October 2, 2020 and therefore contributed six months of consolidated location operating expenses during the six months ended June 30, 2020. The remaining $26.8 million decrease was primarily due to decline in memberships, office expenses, payroll, and occupancy, primarily as a result of COVID-19 and cost cutting strategies, partially offset by an increase in real estate operating lease costs. As a percentage of total revenue, location operating expenses for the six months ended June 30, 2021 increased by 41 percentage points to 134% compared to 93% for the six months ended June 30, 2020. The increase in location operating expenses as a percentage of total revenue was impacted by the overall decline in average revenue, discussed above.

During the six months ended June 30, 2021, the Company terminated leases associated with a total of 59 previously open locations and 3 pre-open locations. Management is continuing to evaluate our real estate portfolio in connection with its ongoing restructuring efforts and expects to exit additional leases over the remainder of 2021. The location decreases were partially offset by the opening of 19 locations during the six months ended June 30, 2021.

During the six months ended June 30, 2021, the Company has also successfully amended over 150 leases for a combination of partial terminations to reduce our leased space, rent reductions, rent deferrals, offsets for tenant improvement allowances and other strategic changes.

Our most significant location operating expense is real estate operating lease cost, which includes the following components and changes:

| (Amounts in thousands, except percentages) | Six Months Ended June 30, | | Change | |
|--|--------------------------------------|--------------------|-------------------|-------------|
| | 2021 | 2020 | $ | % |
| Lease cost contractually paid or payable | $1,300,034 | $1,266,768 | $ 33,266 | 3% |
| Non-cash GAAP straight-line lease cost | 131,283 | 228,901 | (97,618) | (43)% |
| Amortization of lease incentives | (142,401) | (143,483) | 1,082 | (1)% |
| Total real estate operating lease cost | $1,288,916 | $1,352,186 | $(63,270) | (5)% |

The following table includes the components of real estate operating lease cost included in location operating expenses as a percentage of membership revenue:

| | Six Months Ended June 30, | | Change % |
|--|------------------------------|------------|------------|
| | 2021 | 2020 | |
| Lease cost contractually paid or payable | 117% | 73% | 44% |
| Non-cash GAAP straight-line lease cost | 12% | 13% | (1)% |
| Amortization of lease incentives | (13)% | (8)% | (5)% |
| Total real estate operating lease cost | 116% | 78% | 38% |

The $33.3 million increase in lease cost contractually paid or payable was generally the result of fewer rent free periods associated with our open locations during the six months ended June 30, 2021 than during the six months ended June 30, 2020.

The $97.6 million decrease in non-cash GAAP straight-line lease cost was primarily driven by decreases in lease cost escalations and the end of free rent periods. The impact of straight-lining lease cost typically increases straight-line lease cost adjustments in the first half of the life of a lease, when lease cost recorded in accordance with GAAP exceeds cash payments made, and then decreases lease cost in the second half of the life of the lease when lease cost is less than the cash payments required. The impact of straight-lining of lease cost nets to zero over the life of a lease.

The $1.1 million decrease in amortization of lease incentives benefit was primarily due to locations that incurred amortization of lease incentive benefits during the six months ended June 30, 2020 no longer incurring amortization during the six months ended June 30, 2021 either through lease termination or being fully amortized.

The remaining net decrease in all other location operating expenses consisted of decreases related to cleaning expenses, the purchase of COVID-19 prevention supplies, and other office expenses as a result of a reduction in the use of certain locations during the six months ended June 30, 2021 as a result of COVID-19. Additionally, the decrease was due to the reductions in operating costs as a result of the Company's efforts to create a more efficient organization, including payroll costs, bad debt due to reserves booked in the prior year as a result of COVID-19 restrictions and consulting costs. These were offset by an increase in real estate taxes, repair and utility and other various operating costs during the six months ended June 30, 2021.

|---|----------------------------|--------------------|------------------|------------|
| | 2020 | 2019 | $ | % |
| Location operating expenses | $3,542,918 | $2,758,318 | $784,600 | 28% |
| ChinaCo location operating expenses | 266,318 | 290,254 | (23,936) | (8)% |
| Location operating expenses excluding ChinaCo | $3,276,600 | $2,468,064 | $808,536 | 33% |

Location operating expenses increased $784.6 million due primarily to an increase in real estate operating lease cost resulting from the overall growth in our workstation capacity and the increase in the number of open locations. As a percentage of total revenue, location operating expenses for the year ended December 31, 2020 increased by 24 percentage points to 104% compared to 80% for the year ended December 31, 2019. This increase was primarily driven by the growth in workstation capacity combined with a decline in memberships, occupancy and average revenue per member, primarily as a result of COVID-19 as discussed above.

The total net increase in our 2020 location operating expenses was partially offset by the closure of previously opened locations. During 2020 we strategically closed 24 previously open Consolidated Locations, including nine associated with ChinaCo during the nine months ended September 30, 2020, that it was consolidated.

Our most significant location operating expense is real estate operating lease cost, which includes the following components and changes:

| (Amounts in thousands, except percentages) | Year Ended December 31, | | Change | |
|--|------------------------------------|--------------------|-------------------|------------|
| | 2020 | 2019 | $ | % |

| Non-cash GAAP straight-line lease cost | 380,851 | 411,161 | (30,310) | (7)% |
| Amortization of lease incentives | (297,828) | (169,676) | (128,152) | 76% |
| Total real estate operating lease cost | $2,721,478 | $1,927,916 | $ 793,562 | 41% |

The following table includes the components of real estate operating lease cost included in location operating expenses as a percentage of membership revenue:

| | Year Ended December 31, | | Change % |
|--|------------------------------------|-------------|-----------------|
| | 2020 | 2019 | |
| Lease cost contractually paid or payable | 86% | 58% | 28% |
| Non-cash GAAP straight-line lease cost | 12% | 14% | (2)% |
| Amortization of lease incentives | (10)% | (6)% | (4)% |
| Total real estate operating lease cost | 89% | 66% | 23% |

The reasons for the $793.6 million net increase in total real estate operating lease cost and the increase in the amounts as a percentage of revenue was primarily driven by the growth in workstation capacity combined with a decline in memberships, occupancy and average revenue per member, primarily as a result of COVID-19 as discussed above. The $30.3 million decrease in non-cash GAAP straight-line lease cost was primarily driven by the ending of free rent periods, cash rent increases due to lease cost escalations and the aging of our portfolio. The impact of straight-lining lease cost typically increases lease cost in the first half of the life of a lease, when lease cost recorded in accordance with GAAP exceeds cash payments made, and then decreases lease cost in the second half of the life of the lease when lease cost is less than the cash payments required. The impact of straight-lining of lease cost nets to zero over the life of a lease.

Total location operating expenses also declined by $37.2 million during 2020 as a result of higher stock-based compensation expense incurred during 2019 primarily driven by the 2019 Tender Offer and 2020 Tender Offer (each as defined in Note 22 of the notes to WeWork's audited annual consolidated financial statements included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus), through which common shares were acquired (or, in the case of the 2020 Tender Offer, offered to be acquired subject to the satisfaction of certain conditions) from WeWork employees at a price greater than the fair market value of the shares, which resulted in additional stock-based compensation expense during the year ended December 31, 2019.

The remaining $28.2 million net increase in all other location operating expenses consisted of increases related to cleaning expenses, the purchase of additional COVID-19 prevention supplies, increases in bad debt expense and other expenses required to operate our locations and were offset by reductions in variable operating costs which were lower than average as a result of a reduction in the use of certain locations during 2020 as a result of COVID-19 as well as reductions in operating costs as a result of the Company's efforts to create a more efficient organization.

Location operating expenses increased $1.3 billion to $2.8 billion due to the overall growth in our business and the increase in the number of open locations. As a percentage of total revenue, location operating expenses for the year ended December 31, 2019 decreased by two percentage points to 80% compared to 82% for the year ended December 31, 2018.

Our most significant location operating expense is real estate operating lease cost, which includes the following components and changes:

| Total real estate operating lease cost | $1,927,916 | $1,003,908 | $924,008 | 92% |

The following table includes the components of operating lease cost included in location operating expenses as a percentage of membership revenue:

| | Year Ended December 31, | | |
|--|------------------------------------|-------------|-----------------|
| | 2019 | 2018 | Change % |
| Lease cost contractually paid or payable | 58% | 51% | 7% |

| Total real estate operating lease cost | 66% | 62% | 4% |

The $861.8 million increase in lease cost contractually paid or payable, which is incurred after locations open for business and after the expiration of any free rent period, was primarily driven by the growth from 410 locations as of December 1, 2018 to 710 locations as of December 1, 2019. The increase in lease cost contractually paid or payable is also impacted by escalations in base rent payments and the expiration of free rent periods. As a percentage of membership revenue, lease cost contractually paid or payable increased by seven percentage points for the year ended December 31, 2019 as compared to the year ended December 31, 2018 and was impacted by our expansion into regions where lease costs comprised a higher percentage of membership and service revenue.

The $143.0 million increase in non-cash GAAP straight-line lease cost was primarily driven by free rent periods and lease cost escalations given that a majority of our leases are in the first half of the life of the lease.

The impact of straight-lining lease cost typically increases lease cost in the first half of the life of a lease, when lease cost recorded in accordance with GAAP exceeds cash payments made, and then decreases lease cost in the second half of the life of the lease when lease cost is less than the cash payments required. The impact of straight-lining of lease cost nets to zero over the life of a lease.

The $80.8 million increase in amortization of lease incentives benefit was primarily driven by the new locations that opened since December 31, 2018.

Stock-based compensation expense increased $23.8 million primarily driven by the 2019 Tender Offer and 2020 Tender Offer, which both resulted in additional stock-based compensation expense during the year ended December 31, 2019. Additionally, the Company made new stock-based compensation grants to new and existing employees during 2019, resulting in additional expense.

The overall growth in our global community was also the primary driver of the remaining $318.8 million increase in all other location operating expenses, which related to increases in employee compensation and benefits, cleaning, office, utilities, repairs and maintenance, consumables and other expenses required to operate our locations. As a percentage of membership revenue, these location operating expenses for the year ended December 31, 2019 decreased three percentage points to 24% compared to 27% for the year ended December 31, 2018.

Pre-Opening Location Expenses

Comparison of the six months ended June 30, 2021 and the six months ended June 30, 2020

| (Amounts in thousands, except percentages) | Six Months Ended June 30, | | Change | |
|---|--------------------------------------|------------------|-------------------|--------------|
| | 2021 | 2020 | $ | % |
| Pre-opening location expenses | $76,839 | $165,919 | $(89,080) | (54)% |
| ChinaCo pre-opening location expenses | — | 12,359 | (12,359) | (100)% |
| Pre-opening location expenses excluding ChinaCo | $76,839 | $153,560 | $(76,721) | (50)% |

Pre-opening location expenses decreased $89.1 million to $76.8 million primarily as a result of the Company's decision in the fourth quarter of 2019 and first half of 2020 to decelerate the growth rate of our platform and to focus on increasing the profitability of our existing portfolio of locations. As of June 1, 2021, there were 42 locations where we had taken possession of the new leased spaces but the location had not yet opened for member operations compared to 102 as of June 1, 2020. Included in the 42 pre-open locations are 20 locations that were closed for member operations and all members have been relocated to a new workspace location as of June 1, 2021, but management has not yet ceased use of the building.

Included in the net decreases discussed above was a decrease of approximately $12.4 million in pre-opening expenses related to ChinaCo. ChinaCo was deconsolidated as of October 2, 2020 and therefore contributed six months of consolidated pre-opening expenses during the six months June 30, 2020.

Our most significant pre-opening location expense is real estate operating lease cost for the period before a location is open for member operations, which includes the following components and changes:

| (Amounts in thousands, except percentages) | Six Months Ended June 30, | | Change | |
|---|--------------------------------------|------------------|-------------------|--------------|
| | 2021 | 2020 | $ | % |
| Lease cost contractually paid or payable | $ 55,945 | $ 69,069 | $(13,124) | (19)% |
| Non-cash GAAP straight-line lease cost | 25,534 | 112,126 | (86,592) | (77)% |
| Amortization of lease incentives | (10,158) | (23,562) | 13,404 | (57)% |
| Total pre-opening location real estate operating lease cost | $ 71,321 | $157,633 | $(86,312) | (55)% |

The $86.6 million decrease in non-cash GAAP straight-line lease cost is primarily driven by the decrease in pre-opening locations and fewer free rent periods associated with our pre-opening locations as described above. During the six months ended June 30, 2021 and 2020, lease cost recorded in accordance with GAAP exceeded cash payments required to be made. As the number of pre-opening locations at the end of each period has decreased as described above, so too have non-cash GAAP straight-line lease costs relating to those pre-open locations. The impact of straight-lining of lease cost nets to zero over the life of a lease.

The $13.1 million decrease in lease cost contractually paid or payable was generally the result of the decrease in the number of pre-opening locations described above.

The $13.4 million decrease in amortization of lease incentives benefit was driven by the decrease in pre-opening locations discussed above.

Comparison of the year ended December 31, 2020 and the year ended December 31, 2019

| (Amounts in thousands, except percentages) | Year Ended December 31, | | Change | |
|---|------------------------------------|------------------|--------------------|--------------|

| Pre-opening location expenses excluding ChinaCo | $259,584 | $500,287 | $(240,703) | (48)% |

Pre-opening location expenses decreased $298.9 million to $273.0 million primarily as a result of the Company's decision in the fourth quarter of 2019 to decelerate the growth rate of our platform and to focus on increasing the profitability of our existing portfolio of locations. During the year ended December 31, 2020, the Company also successfully terminated leases associated with a total of 82 consolidated pre-open locations, including seven associated with ChinaCo during the nine months ended September 30, 2020 that it was consolidated, which also contributed to the decline in expense. As of December 1, 2020, there were 59 locations where we had taken possession of the new leased spaces but the location had not yet opened for member operations compared to 165 as of December 1, 2019.

Our most significant pre-opening location expense is real estate operating lease cost for the period before a location is open for member operations, which includes the following components and changes:

| (Amounts in thousands, except percentages) | Year Ended December 31, | | Change | |
|--|----------------------------|------------------|--------------------|--------------|
| | 2020 | 2019 | $ | % |
| Lease cost contractually paid or payable | $128,452 | $119,220 | $ 9,232 | 8% |
| Non-cash GAAP straight-line lease cost | 171,772 | 484,099 | (312,327) | (65)% |
| Amortization of lease incentives | (40,550) | (60,447) | 19,897 | (33)% |
| Total pre-opening location real estate operating lease cost | $259,674 | $542,872 | $(283,198) | (52)% |

The $9.2 million increase in lease cost contractually paid or payable was generally the result of fewer free rent periods associated with our pre-opening locations during the year ended December 31, 2020, than during the year ended December 31, 2019.

The $312.3 million decrease in non-cash GAAP straight-line lease cost is primarily driven by the decrease in pre-opening locations and fewer free rent periods associated with our pre-opening locations as described above. During the year ended December 31, 2020 and 2019, lease cost recorded in accordance with GAAP exceeded cash payments required to be made. As the number of pre-opening locations at the end of each period has decreased as described above, so too have non-cash GAAP straight-line lease costs relating to those pre-open locations. The impact of straight-lining of lease cost nets to zero over the life of a lease.

The $19.9 million decrease in amortization of lease incentives benefit was driven by the decrease in pre-opening locations discussed above.

| Pre-opening location expenses | $571,968 | $357,831 | $214,137 | 60% |

Pre-opening location expenses increased $214.1 million to $572.0 million primarily as a result of the continued acceleration of our growth during 2019. During 2019, we opened 300 new locations compared to 213 new locations during 2018. In addition, as of December 1, 2019, there were 165 locations where we had taken possession of the new leased spaces but the location had not yet opened for member operations compared to 110 as of December 1, 2018.

Our most significant pre-opening location expense is operating lease cost for the period before a location is open for member operations, which includes the following components and changes:

|--|----------------------------|------------------|------------------|------------|
| | 2019 | 2018 | $ | % |

N/M = Not meaningful

The $38.5 million increase in lease cost contractually paid or payable was generally the result of the increase in the number of pre-opening locations described above.

The increase in amortization of lease incentives benefit of $56.7 million was primarily driven by the adoption of ASC 842 on January 1, 2019. Upon adoption, the Company made an accounting policy election to recognize tenant lease incentive receivables as part of the fixed lease payments at the lease commencement date, which resulted in a reduction in total operating lease cost included in pre-opening location operating expenses.

The $215.5 million increase in non-cash GAAP straight-line lease cost is primarily driven by straight-line lease cost during free rent periods provided for a limited time before our locations open for member operations. During this period, lease cost recorded in accordance with GAAP exceeds cash payments required to be made. As the number of location openings and the number of pre-opening locations at the end of each period has increased as described above, so too have non-cash GAAP straight-line lease cost relating to those pre-opening locations. The impact of straight-lining of lease cost nets to zero over the life of a lease.

The overall growth in our network of locations was also the primary driver of the remaining $16.8 million increase in all other pre-opening location operating expenses, which related primarily to increases in employee compensation and benefits, utilities, cleaning, and other expenses required to prepare our locations for members.

Selling, General and Administrative Expenses

Comparison of the six months ended June 30, 2021 and the six months ended June 30, 2020

| Selling, general and administrative expenses excluding ChinaCo | $499,502 | $875,880 | $(376,378) | (43)% |

Selling, general and administrative expenses decreased $425.6 million to $499.5 million for the six months ended June 30, 2021. Included in the $425.6 million decrease, $49.2 million related to ChinaCo. ChinaCo was deconsolidated as of October 2, 2020 and therefore contributed six months of consolidated selling, general and administrative expenses during the six months ended June 30, 2020. As a percentage of total revenue, selling, general and administrative expenses decreased by 6 percentage points to 42% for the six months ended June 30, 2021, compared to 48% for the six months ended June 30, 2020, driven primarily by our decision during the fourth quarter of 2019 and first half of 2020 to slow our growth and focus on our goal of creating a leaner, more efficient organization resulting in reductions in headcount, including $278.3 million decrease in employee compensation and benefits expenses, professional fees and other expenses. In addition, as a result of the temporary business interruption caused by COVID-19, the Company was also proactive in taking steps to delay or reduce spending in areas such as marketing during the six months ended June 30, 2021. We also incurred fewer variable sales costs that are directly tied to the COVID-19 related decline in sales activity experienced during the six months ended June 30, 2021, such as member referral fees which declined by $23.0 million during six months ended June 30, 2021.

Included in the decrease in selling, general and administrative expenses was a $109.8 million decrease in cost of revenue attributable to non-core businesses which were primarily sold or wound down as the Company has refocused on its core space-as-a-service offering.

The decreases were partially offset by an increase in stock-based compensation of $20.4 million and various other expenses of $14.3 million.

Comparison of the year ended December 31, 2020 and the year ended December 31, 2019

| (Amounts in thousands, except percentages) | Year Ended December 31, | | Change | |
|---|----------------------------|--------------------|----------------------|--------------|
| | 2020 | 2019 | $ | % |
| Selling, general and administrative expenses | $1,604,669 | $2,793,663 | $(1,188,994) | (43)% |
| ChinaCo selling, general and administrative expenses | 68,884 | 85,237 | (16,353) | (19)% |
| Selling, general and administrative expenses excluding ChinaCo | $1,535,785 | $2,708,426 | $(1,172,641) | (43)% |

Selling, general and administrative expenses decreased $1.2 billion to $1.6 billion for the year ended December 31, 2020. As a percentage of total revenue, SG&A expenses decreased by 34 percentage points to 47% for the year ended December 31, 2020 driven primarily by our decision during the fourth quarter of 2019 to slow our growth and focus on our goal of creating a leaner, more efficient organization.

The decrease in SG&A expenses was driven by a $310.0 million decrease in other employee compensation and benefits expenses, a $153.6 million decrease in professional fees, a $60.0 million decrease in routine impairment charges relating to excess, obsolete, or slow-moving inventory and a $88.5 million decrease in travel expenses all driven by progress made through our restructuring program and efforts to create a leaner, more efficient organization. COVID-19 travel restrictions also impacted our travel expense decline during the year.

Also included in the decrease in SG&A expenses was a $135.9 million decrease in cost of revenue attributable to non-core businesses which were primarily sold or wound down during the fourth quarter of 2019 and during the year ended December 31, 2020 as the Company has refocused on its core space-as-a-service offering.

SG&A expenses decreased due to $94.5 million of costs associated with the withdrawn initial public offering and related bank credit facilities incurred during the year ended December 31, 2019, that did not reoccur during 2020. Offsetting these decreases, during 2020, we incurred $53.0 million in legal costs incurred by the Company in connection with regulatory investigations and litigation regarding our 2019 withdrawn initial public offering and the related execution of the SoftBank Transactions.

Included in the decrease in SG&A expenses was a $271.2 million decrease as a result of higher stock-based compensation expense incurred during 2019 primarily driven by the 2019 Tender Offer and 2020 Tender Offer, through which common shares were acquired (or, in the case of the 2020 Tender Offer, offered to be acquired subject to the satisfaction of certain conditions) from WeWork employees at a price greater than the fair market value of the shares, which resulted in additional stock-based compensation expense during the year ended December 31, 2019.

The decreases were partially offset by a $61.5 million increase in expense due to a $61.7 million benefit recorded by ChinaCo during the year ended December 31, 2019, relating to a decline in fair value of the contingent consideration payable in stock associated with ChinaCo's naked Hub acquisition compared to only a $0.1 million benefit recorded during the year ended December 31, 2020, prior to the ChinaCo Deconsolidation. The decrease in fair value of contingent consideration during the year ended December 31, 2019, was primarily driven by a decrease in the Company's projected obligation to issue additional shares of the Company's Class A Common Stock.

|--|----------------------------|-------------|-------------|------|
| | 2019 | 2018 | $ | % |
| Selling, general and administrative expenses | $2,793,663 | $1,349,622 | $1,444,041 | 107% |

Selling, general and administrative expenses increased $1.4 billion to $2.8 billion for the year ended December 31, 2019.

The increase in SG&A was primarily driven by a $519.8 million increase in employee compensation and benefits. To support our growing platform, we made significant personnel investments, including a $194.0 million increase in sales and marketing personnel, and $207.3 million increase in personnel related to corporate design, development, warehousing, logistics and real estate costs and expenses incurred researching and pursuing new markets, solutions and services, and other expenses related to the Company’s growth and global expansion.

Stock-based compensation expense increased $254.9 million primarily driven by the 2019 Tender Offer and 2020 Tender Offer, which both resulted in additional stock-based compensation expense during the year ended December 31, 2019. Additionally, the Company made new stock-based grants to new and existing employees during 2019, resulting in additional expense.

Cost of revenue included in SG&A contributed to an increase of approximately $145.7 million relating to an increase in the number of Powered by We projects as compared to the year ended December 31, 2018 and a $74.3 million increase attributable to other non-core businesses primarily from the expansion of operations of Meetup, the Flatiron School, Conductor and Managed by Q for the periods subsequent to their acquisitions.

There was also an increase of $33.6 million in routine impairment charges and property and equipment write-offs relating to excess, obsolete or slow-moving inventory of furniture and equipment, early termination of leases and cancellation of other deals or projects occurring in the ordinary course of business. The increase in routine impairment charges and write-offs was consistent with the increase in the Company’s property and equipment and other growth activities during 2019.

The increase was also driven by $50.5 million of non-recurring expenses associated with previously deferred costs associated with the withdrawn IPO and related bank credit facilities and $44.0 million in expenses associated with a breakup fee for an alternative financing arrangement that was contemplated prior to the execution of the SoftBank Transactions.

The increases were partially offset by a $142.3 million decrease in expense due to a $61.7 million benefit recorded during the year ended December 31, 2019, relating to a decline in fair value of the contingent consideration payable in stock associated with the naked Hub acquisition compared to $80.6 million of expense recorded during the year ended December 31, 2018. The decrease in fair value of contingent consideration during the year ended December 31, 2019, was primarily driven by a decrease in the Company’s projected obligation to issue additional shares of the Company’s Class A Common Stock.

The remaining $463.5 million increase included various costs associated with expansion of our global community, including a $123.4 million increase in professional fees primarily due to additional accounting, consulting, legal and audit fees, a $42.0 million increase in travel costs, a $46.4 million increase in advertising costs, a $38.5 million increase in corporate lease costs and a $34.2 million increase in corporate tech costs.

*Restructuring and other related costs and Impairment/(gain on sale) of goodwill, intangibles and other assets
Comparison of the six months ended June 30, 2021 and the six months ended June 30, 2020*

| (Amounts in thousands, except percentages) | Six Months Ended June 30, | | Change | |
|---|--------------------------------------|-------------|---------------|----------|
| | 2021 | 2020 | $ | % |
| Restructuring and other related costs | $466,045 | $136,216 | $329,829 | 242% |
| Impairment/(gain on sale) of goodwill, intangibles and other assets . . . | $541,585 | $555,959 | $ (14,374) | (3)% |

Restructuring and other related costs increased $329.8 million to $466.0 million for the six months ended June 30, 2021, primarily due to a $530.3 million increase in one-time employee termination costs relating to a Settlement Agreement with Mr. Neumann, the Company’s former CEO. In connection with the Settlement Agreement, SBG (as defined in Note 1 of the notes to WeWork’s unaudited interim condensed consolidated financial statements included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus) purchased 30,139,971 shares of Class B Common Stock of the Company from We Holdings LLC, which is Mr. Neumann’s affiliated investment vehicle, for a price per share of $19.19, representing an aggregate purchase price of approximately $578.4 million. The Company recorded a $428.3 million expense which represents the excess between the amount paid from a principal shareholder of the Company to Mr. Neumann and the fair value of the stock purchased. The Company recognized the expense in restructuring and other related costs in the consolidated statement of operations for the three months ended March 31, 2021, with a corresponding increase in additional paid-in capital, representing a deemed capital contribution by SBG in its condensed consolidated balance sheet. In February 2021, in connection with the Settlement Agreement, the WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units held by Mr. Neumann in the WeWork Partnership became fully vested and were amended to have a catch-up base amount of $0. The per unit distribution thresholds for Mr. Neumann’s WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units were also amended to initially be $10.00 and may be subject to downward adjustment based on closing date pricing if a de-SPAC or initial public offering were to occur. As such, the Company expensed $102.0 million during the six months ended June 30, 2021.

The restructuring cost increase was also due to $65.7 million increase in costs related to ceased use buildings and a $20.2 million increase in legal and other exit costs.

Restructuring and other related costs was offset by a $148.2 million increase in lease termination gains. During the six months ended June 30, 2021, the Company terminated leases associated with a total of 59 previously open locations and 3 pre-open locations. Management is continuing to evaluate our real estate portfolio in connection with its ongoing restructuring efforts and expects to exit additional leases over the remainder of 2021.

The restructuring cost increase was also offset by a $138.2 million decrease in one-time employee bonus and termination costs as we continued to reiterate and execute on our plans to refocus on our core space-as-a-service business and create a leaner, more efficient organization.

In connection with the operational restructuring program and related changes in the Company’s leasing plans and planned or completed disposition or wind down of certain non-core operations and projects, and the impacts of COVID-19 on our operations, the Company has also recorded various other non-routine write-offs, impairments and gains on sale of goodwill, intangibles and various other long-lived assets. Impairments/(gain on sale) of goodwill, intangibles and other assets decreased $(14.4) million to $541.6 million for the six months ended June 30, 2021 and included the following components in year:

|---|--------------------------------------|-------------------------|
| | 2021 | 2020 |
| Impairment of assets held for sale | $ — | $120,005 |
| Impairment and write-off of long-lived assets associated with restructuring | 510,940 | 423,063 |
| Impairment of long-lived assets primarily associated with COVID-19 | 31,461 | 62,314 |
| Gain on sale of assets | (816) | (49,423) |
| Total | $541,585 | $555,959 |

For additional information on restructuring costs and impairments, see Note 3 of the notes to WeWork’s unaudited interim condensed consolidated financial statements included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus and “—Key Factors Affecting Comparability of Our Results—Restructuring and Impairments” above.

Comparison of the year ended December 31, 2020 and the year ended December 31, 2019

| (Amounts in thousands, except percentages) | Year Ended December 31, | | Change | |
|---|------------------------------------|-------------|---------------|----------|
| | 2020 | 2019 | $ | % |
| Restructuring and other related costs | $ 206,703 | $329,221 | $ (122,518) | (37)% |
| Impairment/(gain on sale) of goodwill, intangibles and other assets | $1,355,921 | $335,006 | $1,020,915 | 305% |

Restructuring and other related costs decreased $122.5 million to $206.7 million for the year ended December 31, 2020, primarily due to a $185.0 million charge during 2019 relating to a non-compete agreement with Mr. Neumann, the Company’s former CEO, which included a cash payment totaling $185.0 million to be paid by SBG (as defined in Note 1 of the notes to WeWork’s audited annual consolidated financial statements included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus) to Mr. Neumann. We recorded this as an expense of the Company to be paid for by a principal shareholder as the Company also benefits from the arrangement through restricting Mr. Neumann ability to provide similar services to a competing organization. The Company recognized the expense in full during 2019, with a corresponding increase in additional paid-in capital, representing a deemed capital contribution by SBG.

Restructuring and other related costs during 2020 also benefited by $37.4 million from net gains on lease terminations during the year ended December 31, 2020 as compared to a $3.2 million net loss on lease terminations during 2019. During 2020, the Company terminated leases associated with a total of 82 consolidated pre-open locations, including seven associated with ChinaCo during the nine months ended September 30, 2020 that it was consolidated and strategically closed 24 previously open Consolidated Locations, including nine associated with ChinaCo during the nine months ended September 30, 2020 that it was consolidated. During 2019, the Company terminated leases associated with two pre-open locations in connection with its restructuring efforts which began in September 2019.

The restructuring cost decline was also offset by a $52.3 million increase in one-time employee termination benefits as a result of further headcount reduction plans during 2020 and a $50.8 million increase in various other restructuring related costs both incurred as we continued to reiterate and execute on our plans to refocus on our core space-as-a-service business and create a leaner, more efficient organization.

In connection with the operational restructuring program and related changes in the Company’s leasing plans and planned or completed disposition or wind down of certain non-core operations and projects, and the impacts of COVID-19 on our operations, the Company has also recorded various other non-routine write-offs, impairments and gains on sale of goodwill, intangibles and various other long-lived assets. Impairments/(gain on sale) of goodwill, intangibles and other assets increased $1,020.9 million to $1,355.9 million for the year ended December 31, 2020, and included the following components in year:

In September 2019, the Company initiated an operational restructuring program that included a change in executive leadership and plans for cost reductions that aim to improve the Company’s operating performance. As there were no restructuring efforts during 2018, there are no comparable expenses during the year ended December 31, 2018.

The $329.2 million of restructuring and other related costs for the year ended December 31, 2019, consisted of $185.0 million in expense related to the non-compete agreement discussed above, $139.3 million of one-time employee termination benefits and other costs including $3.2 million of lease termination charges and $1.6 million of legal fees.

| Interest and other income (expense), net | $(621,630) | $ 389,574 | $(1,011,204) | (260)% |

Interest and other income (expense), net decreased $1.0 billion to $(621.6) million of loss for the six months ended June 30, 2021. The decrease was primarily driven by a $1.1 billion decrease on the net gain on the change in fair value of related party financial instruments. The related party financial instruments are remeasured to fair value through their exercise dates, with such adjustments driven by changes in the Company’s stock price. See Note 9 and Note 11 of the notes to WeWork’s unaudited interim condensed consolidated financial statements included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus for further details on these related party financial instruments and the related fair value measurements, respectively.

Foreign currency gain increased $112.1 million during the six months ended June 30, 2021 as compared to the six months ended June 30, 2020, primarily driven by increases in the foreign currency denominated intercompany transactions that are not of a long-term investment nature as a result of our international expansion and currency fluctuations against the dollar. The $37.9 million loss during the six months ended June 30, 2021 was primarily impacted by fluctuations in the U.S. dollar-Euro, U.S. dollar-British Pound, U.S. dollar-Peruvian Sol, and U.S. dollar-Korean Won exchange rates.

Interest expense increased by $79.7 million primarily due to a $37.9 million increase in 2021 amortization of deferred financing costs associated with the new SoftBank Senior Unsecured Notes Warrant and in 2021 amortization of deferred financing costs associated with the new 2020 LC Facility Warrant (each as defined in section entitled “— Liquidity and Capital Resources” below). The Company also incurred a $39.5 million increase in interest expense related to letters of credit under the new 2020 LC Facility and other letters of credit fees.

The loss on extinguishment of debt of $76.3 million was primarily driven by the repayment of the loans securing the 424 Fifth Venture upon the sale of the real estate in March 2020. We recognized a $71.6 million loss on extinguishment of the 424 Fifth Venture Loans representing the difference between the $756.6 million in cash paid, including a prepayment penalty of $56.1 million and the net carrying amount of the debt and unamortized debt issuance costs immediately prior to the extinguishment of $685.0 million. The remaining $4.7 million of loss relates to a write off of deferred financing costs in conjunction with the termination of the credit facility and letter of credit facility which were terminated in February 2020 in conjunction with the availability of the 2020 LC Facility.

The loss from equity method investments increased $22.6 million during the six months ended June 30, 2021, and was primarily due to the Company’s loss on its investment in ChinaCo and credit losses recorded relating to available-for-sale debt securities partially offset by gains on the sale of equity method investments.

Interest and other income (expense), net increased $342.2 million to $532.4 million of income for the year ended December 31, 2020. The increase was primarily driven by a $580.5 million increase on the net gain on the change in fair value of related party financial instruments. The related party financial instruments are remeasured to fair value through their exercise dates, with such adjustments driven by changes in the Company's stock price. See Note 14 and Note 16 of the notes to WeWork's audited annual consolidated financial statements included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus for further details on these related party financial instruments and the related fair value measurements, respectively.

Foreign currency gain increased $119.5 million during the year ended December 31, 2020, as compared to the year ended December 31, 2019, primarily driven by increases in the foreign currency denominated intercompany transactions that are not of a long-term investment nature as a result of our international expansion and currency fluctuations against the dollar. The $149.2 million gain during the year ended December 31, 2020 was primarily impacted by fluctuations in the U.S. dollar-Euro, U.S. dollar-British Pound, U.S. dollar-Chinese Yuan, and U.S. dollar-Korean Won exchange rates.

Interest expense increased by $231.6 million primarily due to a $80.6 million increase in 2020 amortization of deferred financing costs associated with the new SoftBank Senior Unsecured Notes Warrant and $88.3 million in 2020 amortization of deferred financing costs associated with the new 2020 LC Facility Warrant (each as defined in section entitled "Liquidity and Capital Resources" below). The Company also incurred a $60.7 million increase in interest expense related to letters of credit under the new 2020 LC Facility and other letters of credit fees and a $15.0 million increase in interest expense related to the SoftBank Senior Unsecured Notes. The increase was partially offset by a $9.4 million net decrease in imputed interest on the Convertible Notes (as defined in Note 14) and change in the fair value of the derivative associated with the convertible note which was converted in July 2019. The remaining $3.6 million decrease was related to interest expense associated with Surety Bonds (as defined in Note 14) and Convertible Notes issued in lieu of cash security deposits, finance leases, and interest associated with other loans.

The loss on extinguishment of debt of $77.3 million was primarily driven by the repayment of the loans securing the 424 Fifth Venture upon the sale of the real estate in March 2020. We recognized a $71.6 million loss on extinguishment of the 424 Fifth Venture Loans representing the difference between the $756.6 million in cash paid, including a prepayment penalty of $56.1 million and the net carrying amount of the debt and unamortized debt issuance costs immediately prior to the extinguishment of $685.0 million. The remaining $5.7 million of loss primarily relates to a $4.7 million write off of deferred financing costs in conjunction with the termination of the 2019 Credit Facility and 2019 LC Facility which were terminated in February 2020 in conjunction with the availability of the 2020 LC Facility, as well as a $1.0 million loss on the extinguishment of other loans.

Interest income decreased $36.3 million, primarily due to changes in the average cash on hand throughout the year ended December 31, 2020 as compared to the year ended December 31, 2019.

The loss from equity method investments increased $12.6 million during the year ended December 31, 2020, and was primarily due to credit losses recorded relating to available-for-sale debt securities partially offset by gains on the sale of equity method investments.

N/M = Not meaningful

Interest and other income (expense), net increased $427.5 million to $190.2 million of income for the year ended December 31, 2019. The change was primarily driven by a $239.1 million net gain on the change in fair value of related party financial instruments related primarily to the Amended 2018 Warrant and 2019 Warrant which are remeasured to fair value through their exercise dates, with such adjustments driven by changes in the Company's stock price. See Note 14 and Note 16 of the notes to WeWork's audited annual consolidated financial statements included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus for additional information.

The net foreign currency gain (loss) changes of $108.3 million are primarily driven by the increase in foreign currency denominated intercompany transactions that are not of a long-term investment nature as a result of our international expansion and currency fluctuations against the dollar. Our results of operations for 2019 were primarily impacted by fluctuations in the U.S. dollar-British Pound, U.S. dollar-Euro, U.S. dollar-Mexican Peso, U.S. dollar-Chinese Yuan and U.S. dollar-Israeli Shekel exchange rates.

Interest income increased $15.6 million, primarily due to changes in average cash on hand throughout the year ended December 31, 2019 as compared to the year ended December 31, 2018.

Interest expense decreased by $84.1 million primarily due to a $124.6 million change in the fair value of the Convertible Note embedded redemption derivative period over period. During the year ended December 31, 2019, interest expense included a credit of $27.0 million related to gains on the fair value adjustment on the embedded redemption derivative compared to expense of $97.6 million during the year ended December 31, 2018 relating to losses. The decrease in interest expense was partially offset by a $14.0 million increase in imputed interest expense on the Convertible Note which was funded in August 2018 and converted in July 2019 and was therefore outstanding for a longer period of time during 2019, a $17.5 million increase in interest expense associated with our Senior Notes which began accruing interest on April 30, 2018, and an increase of $9.0 million associated with our letters of credit, surety bonds issued in lieu of cash security deposits, and interest associated with other loans.

The loss from equity method investments increased $19.6 million, primarily driven by various impairments and write offs recorded on the Company's equity method investments, during the year ended December 31, 2019, including a $23.3 million impairment on the Company’s investment in Refresh Club, Inc. (“The Wing”), which was subsequently sold in 2020 for an amount which approximated its carrying value after the impairment charge.

Income Tax Benefit (Provision)

Comparison of the six months ended June 30, 2021 and the six months ended June 30, 2020

| (Amounts in thousands, except percentages) | Six Months Ended June 30, | | Change | |
|---|--------------------------------------|-------------|---------------|----------|
| | 2021 | 2020 | $ | % |
| Income tax benefit (provision) | $(7,282) | $(16,115) | $8,833 | (55)% |

There was a $8.8 million net decrease in the tax provision for the six months ended June 30, 2021, compared to the six months ended June 30, 2020, due to the deconsolidation of ChinaCo in 2020 and lower withholding taxes paid, offset by additional valuation allowance recorded in the current quarter.

Our effective income tax rate was lower than the U.S. federal statutory rate primarily due to the effect of certain non-deductible permanent differences, the effect of our operating in jurisdictions with various statutory tax rates, and valuation allowances. For additional information, see Note 2 of the notes to WeWork’s unaudited interim condensed consolidated financial statements included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus.

| (Amounts in thousands, except percentages) | Year Ended December 31, | | Change | |

| | 2020 | 2019 | $ | % |
| Income tax benefit (provision) | $(19,506) | $(45,637) | $26,131 | (57)% |

There was a $26.1 million net decrease in the tax provision for the year ended December 31, 2020, compared to the year ended December 31, 2019. The overall decrease is primarily related to a reduction in withholding tax payments in the current year on our intercompany interest and management fees as well as the impact of changes in tax laws which generated additional tax expense in prior periods.

Our effective income tax rate was lower than the U.S. federal statutory rate primarily due to the effect of certain non-deductible permanent differences, the impact of rate changes in certain non-US jurisdictions, the ChinaCo Deconsolidation and the change in the valuation allowance recorded. For additional information, see Note 19 of the notes to WeWork’s audited annual consolidated financial statements included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus.

| Income tax benefit (provision) | $(45,637) | $850 | $(46,487) | N/M |

There was a $46.5 million net increase in the tax provision for the year ended December 31, 2019, compared to the year ended December 31, 2018. The increase was primarily due to additional current income tax expense for ChinaCo and PacificCo for the year ended December 31, 2019, related to the interest income and foreign currency gains earned on cash held by the entities, along with an increase in withholding tax liabilities related to cross border intercompany payments on interest and management fees, and current income tax expense in Japan from a change in the recognition of straight-line lease cost, and current income tax expense on profitable operations in Mexico and Canada.

Our effective income tax rate was lower than the U.S. federal statutory rate primarily due to the effect of certain non-deductible permanent differences, the effect of our operating in jurisdictions with various statutory tax rates, and valuation allowances. For additional information, see Note 19 of the notes to WeWork's audited annual consolidated financial statements included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus.

Net Loss Attributable to Noncontrolling Interests

During 2017 through 2021, various of our consolidated subsidiaries issued equity to other parties in exchange for cash as more fully described in Note 6 and Note 5 of the notes to WeWork's audited annual and unaudited interim condensed consolidated financial statements, respectively, included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus. As we have the power to direct the activities of these entities that most significantly impact their economic performance and the right to receive benefits that could potentially be significant to these entities, they remain our consolidated subsidiaries, and the interests owned by the other investors and the net income or loss and comprehensive income or loss attributable to the other investors are reflected as noncontrolling interests on our condensed consolidated balance sheets, condensed consolidated statements of operations and condensed consolidated statements of comprehensive loss, respectively.

The decrease in the net loss attributable to noncontrolling interests from the six months ended June 30, 2021 as compared to the six months ended June 30, 2020 of $(554.9) million is largely due to our decision during the fourth quarter of 2019 and first half of 2020 to slow our growth and focus on our goal of creating a leaner, more efficient organization. Included during the the six months ended June 30, 2020, were increases in net losses incurred by the ChinaCo, PacificCo and JapanCo ventures, while during the six months ended June 30, 2021, only JapanCo was included, as PacificCo and ChinaCo are no longer consolidated VIEs. See Note 5 of the notes to WeWork's unaudited interim condensed consolidated financial statements included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus for further discussion of these transactions. See Note 6 of the notes to WeWork's unaudited interim condensed consolidated financial statements included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus for discussion of the Company's non-consolidated VIEs.

The increase in the net loss attributable to noncontrolling interests from the year ended December 31, 2020, as compared to the year ended December 31, 2019 of $194.4 million is primarily due to the continued expansion of operations and the corresponding increases in net losses incurred by JapanCo and ChinaCo (prior to the ChinaCo Deconsolidation) ventures and partially offset by the PacificCo Roll-up which occurred in April 2020 as losses from PacificCo were included in noncontrolling interest for the full year of 2019 and the three months ended March 31, 2020, with no losses from PacificCo allocated to noncontrolling interest during the remainder of 2020.

The increase net loss attributable to noncontrolling interests from year ended December 31, 2019 as compared to the year ended December 31, 2018, of $193.5 million was largely due to continued expansion of operations and the corresponding increases in net losses incurred by the ChinaCo, PacificCo and JapanCo ventures.

Net Loss Attributable to WeWork Inc.

As a result of the factors described above, we recorded a net loss attributable to WeWork Inc. of $(2.9) billion for the six months ended June 30, 2021 compared to $(1.0) billion for the six months ended June 30, 2020.

We recorded a net loss attributable to WeWork Inc. of $(3.1) billion for the year ended December 31, 2020, compared to $(3.3) billion for the year ended December 31, 2019 and $(1.6) billion for the year ended December 31, 2018.

Liquidity and Capital Resources

We currently expect that our principal sources of funds to meet our short-term and long-term liquidity requirements for working capital, expenses, capital expenditures, lease security, other investments and repurchases or repayments of outstanding indebtedness and other liabilities will include:

- Cash on hand, including $844.0 million of cash and cash equivalents as of June 30, 2021, including $102.6 million held by our consolidated variable interest entities (“VIEs”) that will be used first to settle obligations of the VIE and are also subject to the restrictions discussed below;
- Draws on the $1.1 billion SoftBank Senior Secured Notes (defined below) or the $550.0 million A&R Senior Secured Notes (defined below). On the earlier of the Closing and September 30, 2021, the Company and the Note Purchaser (as defined section entitled “Summary of the Proxy Statement/ Prospectus — The Business Combination — Closing and Effective Time” in this proxy statement/ prospectus) will enter into the A&R Senior Secured Note Purchase Agreement (defined below), which replaces the Master Senior Secured Notes Purchase Agreement. It is a condition to the execution of the A&R Senior Secured Note Purchase Agreement that any outstanding SoftBank Senior Secured Notes be redeemed, repurchased or otherwise repaid and canceled at a price of 101% of the principal amount thereof plus accrued and unpaid interest;
- The 2020 LC Facility (defined below) which became available in February 2020 to provide $1.75 billion in letters of credit which may be used as lease security for the Company’s leases in lieu of providing cash security deposits and for general corporate purposes and other obligations of WeWork Companies LLC or its business. As of June 30, 2021, there was $84.7 million in remaining letter of credit availability under the 2020 LC Facility. In March 2021, the Company, the SoftBank Obligor, and BowX entered into a letter agreement (the “Credit Support Letter Agreement”), pursuant to which SBG has committed to consent to an extension of the termination date of the 2020 LC Facility from February 10, 2023 to no later than February 10, 2024, subject to the terms and conditions set forth therein; and
- In May 2021, the Company entered into a loan agreement with a third party to raise up to $350.0 million of cash in exchange for letters of credit issued from the 2020 LC Facility. The Company drew $349.0 million of loans under the LC Debt Facility (as defined below) in the second quarter of 2021 which mature in September 2021.

The Company’s strategic plan used for evaluating liquidity includes limited future growth initiatives, such as signing new leases. The actual timing at which we may achieve profitability and positive cash flow from operations depends on a variety of factors, including the occupancy of our locations, the rates we are able to charge, the success of our cost efficiency efforts, economic and competitive conditions in the markets where we operate, general macroeconomic conditions, the pace at which we choose to grow and our ability to add new members and new products and services to our platform. Alternate long-term growth plans may require raising additional capital.

The duration and scope of the COVID-19 pandemic has resulted in a slower than expected timing of recovery in WeWork’s business from when WeWork’s management established its original financial projections in February 2021. The delayed recovery has negatively impacted revenue, adjusted EBITDA and liquidity during the first half of 2021. For example, cash flow used in operating activities was approximately $1.2 billion for the six-month period ended June 30, 2021. As a result, the Company revised its financial projections in August 2021 as further described in “BCA Proposal — Projected Financial Information.” Our current short-term liquidity forecast, which is based on our Current Projections, assumes that the pandemic will continue to negatively impact cash flow used in operating activities for the near term, but to a lessening extent based on improving customer demand experienced during the second quarter of 2021. In addition, WeWork has two financing options that are independent of current period financial performance: the Company can draw upon the $1.1 billion SoftBank Senior Secured Notes, or the Company will receive up to $1.3 billion in proceeds from the consummation of the BowX Merger transaction and have access to a $550 million senior secured note facility from an affiliate of the SoftBank Obligor. The Company believes that the recovery from the pandemic, which is now underway, combined with its available financing options, will provide liquidity sufficient to meet near-term requirements.

Our liquidity forecasts are based upon continued execution of the Company’s operational restructuring program and also includes management’s best estimate of the impact that the outbreak of COVID-19, including the Delta or other variants, may continue to have on our business and our liquidity needs; however, the extent to which our future results and liquidity needs are further affected by the continued impact of COVID-19 will largely depend on the continued duration of closures, and delays in location openings, the success of ongoing vaccination efforts, the effect on demand for our memberships, any permanent shifts in working from home, how quickly we can resume normal operations and our ongoing lease negotiations with our landlords, among others. If revenues continue to decline during 2021 and/or we do not experience a recovery consistent with our projected timing, additional capital sources may be required, the timing and source of which are uncertain. There is no assurance we will be successful in securing the additional capital infusions if needed. Also see the section entitled “Key Factors Affecting the Comparability of Our Results — COVID-19 and Impact on our Business” above for further details on the impact of COVID-19 on our business and our efforts to mitigate its effects. The ultimate impact of COVID-19 on our business is dependent on the duration of closures and delays and the larger macroeconomic impact of the virus depends on future developments, which are highly uncertain and cannot be accurately predicted, including new information which may emerge concerning the severity of COVID-19 and the actions to contain the virus or mitigate its impact, among others.

During the six months ended June 30, 2021, our primary source of cash was $1.0 billion in proceeds from draws on the SoftBank Senior Unsecured Notes, (as defined in Note 24 and Note 16 of the notes to WeWork’s audited annual and unaudited interim condensed consolidated financial statements, respectively, included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus). Our primary uses of cash included fixed operating lease cost. and capital expenditures associated with the design and build-out of our spaces. We have also incurred significant costs related to our operational restructuring including one-time employee benefit costs, lease termination fees, legal fees and other exit costs. Cash payments of restructuring liabilities totaled $231.8 million during the six months ended June 30, 2021 compared to $182.3 million during the six months ended June 30, 2020. Pre-opening location expenses, sourcing, development and other expenses and cash payments made for acquisitions and investments have also historically included large discretionary uses of cash which can and have been scaled back to the extent needed based on our future cash needs. We also may elect to repurchase amounts of our outstanding debt, including the Senior Notes, for cash, through open market repurchases or privately negotiated transactions with certain of our debt holders, although there is no assurance we will do so.

As of June 30, 2021, our consolidated VIEs held the following, in each case after intercompany eliminations:

| (Amounts in thousands) | June 30, 2021 | |
|---|-------------------------------|---------------------------------|
| | Asia JVs⁽¹⁾ | Other VIEs⁽²⁾ |
| Cash and cash equivalents | $ 94,540 | $ 8,065 |
| Restricted cash | 10,059 | — |
| Total assets | 1,871,367 | 15,741 |
| Total liabilities | 1,554,760 | 1,705 |
| Redeemable stock issued by VIEs | 500,000 | — |
| Total net assets ⁽³⁾ | (183,393) | 14,036 |

- (1) The “Asia JVs” as of June 30, 2021 includes only JapanCo. As of June 30, 2021, JapanCo was prohibited from declaring dividends (including to us) without approval of an affiliate of SoftBank Group Capital Limited. As a result, any net assets of JapanCo would be considered restricted net assets to the Company as of June 30, 2021. The net assets of JapanCo include the equivalent of preferred stock issued to affiliates of SBG and other investors with aggregate liquidation preferences totaling $0.5 billion as of June 30, 2021, which preferred stock is redeemable upon the occurrence of an event that is not solely within our control. The initial issuance price of such redeemable preferred stock equals the liquidation preference for each share issued as of June 30, 2021. After reducing the net assets of JapanCo by the liquidation preference associated with such redeemable preferred stock, the remaining net assets of each Asia JV is negative.
- (2) “Other VIEs” includes all other consolidated VIEs, other than the Asia JVs discussed separately in (1) and as of June 30, 2021 includes the WeCap Manager and WeCap Holdings Partnership.
- (3) Total net assets represents total assets less total liabilities and redeemable stock issued by VIEs after the total assets and total liabilities have both been reduced to remove amounts that eliminate in consolidation.

Based on the terms of the arrangements as of June 30, 2021, the assets of our consolidated VIEs will be used first to settle obligations of the VIE. Remaining assets may then be distributed to the VIEs’ owners, including us, subject to the liquidation preferences of certain noncontrolling interest holders and any other preferential distribution provisions contained within the operating agreements of the relevant VIEs. Other than the restrictions relating to our Asia JVs discussed in note (1) to the table above, third-party approval for the distribution of available net assets is not required for any of our consolidated VIEs as of June 30, 2021. See the section entitled “—Senior Notes” below for a discussion on additional restrictions on the net assets of WeWork Companies LLC. See the section entitled “—Key Factors Affecting the Comparability of Our Results—ChinaCo Financing and Deconsolidation” above for details regarding the October 2020 restructuring of ChinaCo. As of October 2, 2020, ChinaCo became an unconsolidated VIE.

As of June 30, 2021, creditors of our consolidated VIEs do not have recourse against the general credit of the Company except with respect to certain lease guarantees we have provided to landlords of our consolidated VIEs, which guarantees totaled $13.6 million as of June 30, 2021. In addition, as of June 30, 2021, the Company also continues to guarantee $3.5 million of lease obligations of ChinaCo subsequent to the ChinaCo Deconsolidation in October 2020.

We believe our sources of liquidity described above and in more detail below, will be sufficient to meet our obligations as of June 30, 2021 over the next twelve months from the issuance of this report.

We do not expect distributions from our consolidated VIEs or unconsolidated investments to be a significant source of liquidity and our assessment of our ability to meet our capital requirements over the next twelve months does not assume that we will receive distributions from those entities.

We may raise additional capital or incur additional indebtedness to continue to fund our operations and/or to refinance our existing indebtedness and to pay any related accrued interest, premiums and fees. Our future financing requirements and the future financing requirements of our consolidated VIEs will depend on many factors, including the number of new locations to be opened, our net member retention rate, the impacts of COVID-19, the timing and extent of spending to support the development of our platform, the expansion of our sales and marketing activities and potential investments in, or acquisitions of, businesses or technologies. In the event that additional financing is required from outside sources, we may not be able to raise it on terms acceptable to us or at all. In addition, the incurrence of indebtedness would result in increased fixed obligations and could result in operating covenants that restrict our operations.

SoftBank Senior Unsecured Notes

On December 27, 2019, WeWork Companies LLC, WW Co-Obligor Inc., a wholly owned subsidiary of WeWork Companies LLC and a co-obligor under our Senior Notes (defined below), and StarBright WW LP, an affiliate of SoftBank (the “Note Purchaser”), entered into a master senior unsecured note purchase agreement (as amended from time to time and as supplemented by that certain waiver dated July 7, 2020, the “Master Note Purchase Agreement”).

Pursuant to the terms of the Master Note Purchase Agreement, WeWork Companies LLC may deliver from time to time to the Note Purchaser draw notices and accordingly sell to the Note Purchaser “SoftBank Senior Unsecured Notes” up to an aggregate original principal amount of $2.2 billion. A draw notice pursuant to the Master Note Purchase Agreement may be delivered only if WeWork Companies LLC’s net liquidity is, or prior to the applicable closing is reasonably expected to be, less than $750.0 million, and the amount under each draw shall not be greater than the lesser of (a) $250.0 million and (b) the remaining commitment (defined as the original principal amount of $2.2 billion less notes issued) and shall not be greater than an amount sufficient to cause, or reasonably expected to cause, the net liquidity of WeWork Companies LLC to be equal to $750.0 million after giving effect to receipt of proceeds from the issuance of the applicable SoftBank Senior Unsecured Notes.

As of June 30, 2021, the Company had delivered draw notices in respect of $2.2 billion under the Master Note Purchase Agreement and an aggregate principal amount of $2.2 billion of SoftBank Senior Unsecured Notes were issued to the Note Purchaser and none remained available for draw.

Following the delivery of a draw notice, the Note Purchaser may notify WeWork Companies LLC that it intends to engage an investment bank or investment banks to offer and sell the applicable SoftBank Senior Unsecured Notes or any portion thereof to third-party investors in a private placement. Solely with respect to the first $200.0 million in draws (the “Initial Notes”), the Note Purchaser waived this syndication right and no action has been taken on the remainder of the draws.

The SoftBank Senior Unsecured Notes have a stated interest rate of 5.0%. However, because the associated warrants obligate the Company to issue shares in the future, the implied interest rate upon closing, assuming the full commitment is drawn, was approximately 11.69%. The SoftBank Senior Unsecured Notes will mature in July 2025.

SoftBank Senior Secured Notes

In August 2020, the Company, WW Co-Obligor Inc., and StarBright WW LP, an affiliate of SBG (the “Note Purchaser”), entered into a new senior secured note purchase agreement for up to an aggregate principal amount of $1.1 billion of senior secured debt in the form of 12.5% senior secured notes (the “SoftBank Senior Secured Notes”). The agreement allows the Company to borrow once every 30 days up to the maximum remaining capacity with minimum draws of $50.0 million. The SoftBank Senior Secured Notes will mature 4 years from the first draw. The Company had the ability to draw for 6 months starting from the date of the senior secured note purchase agreement, and the Company extended this draw period for an additional 6 months by delivery of an extension notice to the Note Purchaser in January 2021 pursuant to the terms of the agreement. As of June 30, 2021 and December 31, 2020, no draw notices had been delivered pursuant to the senior secured note purchase agreement.

Amended and Restated Senior Secured Notes

In March 2021, the Company and an affiliate of SBG entered into a letter agreement pursuant to which the Company and an affiliate of SBG have agreed to amend and restate the terms of the Master Senior Secured Notes Note Purchase Agreement that governs the SoftBank Senior Secured Notes (as amended and restated, the “A&R Senior Secured Note Purchase Agreement”) on the earlier of (i) the Closing and (ii) August 12, 2021. The A&R Senior Secured Note Purchase Agreement will allow the Company to borrow up to an aggregate principal amount of $550.0 million of senior secured debt in the form of new 7.5% senior secured notes (the “A&R Senior Secured Notes”). It is a condition to the execution of the A&R Senior Secured Note Purchase Agreement that any outstanding SoftBank Senior Secured Notes be redeemed, repurchased or otherwise repaid and canceled at a price of 101% of the principal amount thereof plus accrued and unpaid interest. The A&R Senior Secured Note Purchase Agreement will allow the Company to borrow once every 30 days with minimum draws of $50.0 million. The A&R Senior Secured Notes will mature no later than February 12, 2023 or, if earlier, 18 months from the Closing.

Amendments to SoftBank Senior Secured Notes

In August, 2021, the Company and the Note Purchaser executed an amendment to the letter agreement concerning the Amended and Restated Senior Secured Notes which provides that the Company and the Note Purchaser will enter into the A&R Senior Secured Note Purchase Agreement on the earlier of (x) the Closing or (y) September 30, 2021 (instead of August 12, 2021). In addition, in August, 2021, the Company, WW Co-Obligor Inc. and the Note Purchaser executed an amendment to the senior secured note purchase agreement governing the SoftBank Senior Secured Notes, which (i) amends the maturity date of any notes to be issued thereunder from four (4) years from the date of first drawing to February 12, 2023 and (ii) extends the expiration of the draw period from August 12, 2021 to September 30, 2021.

2020 LC Facility

On December 27, 2019, WeWork Companies LLC entered into a credit agreement, dated as of December 27, 2019 (as amended by the First Amendment, dated as of February 10, 2020, and as further amended by the Second Amendment to the Credit Agreement and First Amendment to the Security Agreement, dated as of April 1, 2020, the “Company Credit Agreement”), among WeWork Companies LLC, as co-obligor, the SoftBank Obligor, as co-obligor, Goldman Sachs International Bank, as administrative agent, and the issuing creditors and letter of credit participants party thereto. The Company Credit Agreement provides for a $1.75 billion senior secured letter of credit facility (the “2020 LC Facility”), which was made available on February 10, 2020, for the support of WeWork Companies LLC’s or its subsidiaries’ obligations. The termination date of the 2020 LC Facility is February 10, 2023. As of June 30, 2021, $1.7 billion of standby letters of credit were outstanding under the 2020 LC Facility, of which $6.7 million has been utilized to secure letters of credit that remain outstanding under WeWork Companies LLC’s previous credit facility (the “2019 Credit Facility”) and letter of credit facility (the “2019 LC Facility”), which were terminated in 2020. As of June 30, 2021, there was $84.7 million in remaining letter of credit availability under the 2020 LC Facility.

The 2020 LC Facility is guaranteed by substantially all of the domestic wholly-owned subsidiaries of WeWork Companies LLC (collectively the “Guarantors”) and is secured by substantially all the assets of WeWork Companies LLC and the Guarantors, in each case, subject to customary exceptions. The Credit Agreement and related documentation contain customary reimbursement provisions, representations, warranties, events of default and affirmative covenants (including with respect to cash management) for letter of credit facilities of this type. The negative covenants applicable to WeWork Companies LLC and its Restricted Subsidiaries (as defined in the Company Credit Agreement) are limited to restrictions on liens (subject to exceptions substantially consistent with the 7.875% Senior Notes (due 2025), changes in line of business and disposition of all or substantially all of the assets of WeWork Companies LLC.

In connection with the 2020 LC Facility, WeWork Companies LLC also entered into a reimbursement agreement, dated February 10, 2020 (as amended by the First Amendment, dated as of April 1, 2020, the “Company/SBG Reimbursement Agreement”), with the SoftBank Obligor pursuant to which (i) the SoftBank Obligor agreed to pay substantially all of the fees and expenses payable in connection with the Company Credit Agreement, (ii) the Company agreed to reimburse SoftBank Obligor for certain of such fees and expenses (including fronting fees up to an amount not to exceed 0.125% on the undrawn and unexpired amount of the letters of credit) as well as to pay the SoftBank Obligor a fee of 5.475% on the amount of all outstanding letters of credit and (iii) the Guarantors agreed to guarantee the obligations of WeWork Companies LLC under the Company/SBG Reimbursement Agreement. During the three and six months ended June 30, 2021, the Company recognized $19.7 million and $38.5 million in interest expense in connection with amounts payable to SBG pursuant to the Company/SBG Reimbursement Agreement. During the three and six months ended June 30, 2020, the Company recognized $19.1 million and $29.2 million in interest expense in connection with amounts payable to SBG pursuant to the Company/SBG Reimbursement Agreement. As the Company is also obligated to issue 43,295,973 shares in the future pursuant to warrants issued to the SoftBank Obligor in connection with the SoftBank Obligor’s commitment to provide credit support for the 2020 LC Facility, the implied interest rate for the Company on the 2020 LC Facility at issuance, assuming the full commitment is drawn, is approximately 12.47%.

In March 2021, the Company, the SoftBank Obligor and BowX entered into a letter agreement (the “Credit Support Letter”) pursuant to which SBG has committed to consent to an extension of the termination date of the 2020 LC Facility from February 10, 2023 to no later than February 10, 2024 (the “LC Facility Termination Extension”), subject to the terms and conditions set forth therein. Any LC Facility Termination Extension will require the requisite consent of the lenders thereunder. Concurrently with and contingent upon the LC Facility Termination Extension, BowX will issue to the SoftBank Obligor or its designees one or more warrants (collectively, the “LC Warrant”) to purchase a number of shares of BowX Common Stock (rounded to the nearest whole share) equal to 14,431,991 multiplied by the Exchange Ratio, subject to the terms set forth therein, at a price per share equal to $0.01 divided by the Exchange Ratio (rounded to the nearest full cent). The LC Warrant would expire on the tenth (10th) anniversary of the date of issuance.

LC Debt Facility

In May 2021, the Company entered into a loan agreement with a third party to raise up to $350.0 million of cash in exchange for letters of credit issued from the LC Facility (the “LC Debt Facility”). The third party will issue a series of discount notes to investors of varying short term (1-6 month) maturities and make a matching discount loan to WeWork Companies LLC. WeWork Companies LLC will pay the 5.475% issuance fee on the letter of credit, the 0.125% fronting fee on the letter of credit and the interest on the discount note. At maturity, the Company has the option, based on prevailing market conditions and liquidity needs, to roll the loan to a new maturity or pay off the loan at par. No loans drawn under the LC Debt Facility can have maturity dates that extend beyond the termination date of the 2020 LC Facility.

In connection with the Merger Agreement, the Company agreed to not enter into loan facilities utilizing the LC Debt Facility without consent from SBG. In May 2021, the Company entered into a letter agreement with SBG pursuant to which SBG consented to the LC Debt Facility and the Company agreed to certain restrictions that will apply to the LC Debt Facility, including that (i) until such time as no amounts remain undrawn by the Company under the $2.2 billion SoftBank Senior Unsecured Notes, amounts issued under the LC Debt Facility will not exceed $100.0 million, (ii) the Company will repay all amounts outstanding under the LC Debt Facility within 30 days after the closing of the Business Combination, (iii) on and after the closing of the Business Combination, the prior written consent of SBG will be required for the first draw under the LC Debt Facility that occurs after Closing.

As of June 30, 2021, the Company drew $349.0 million of loans under the LC Debt Facility which will mature in September 2021. $349.0 million is reflected as Other Current Liabilities in the Condensed Consolidated Balance Sheet as of June 30, 2021.

Senior Notes

In April 2018, we issued $702.0 million in aggregate principal amount of unsecured 7.875% Senior Notes (the “Senior Notes”) in a private offering. The Senior Notes mature on May 1, 2025. We received gross proceeds of $702.0 million from the issuance of the Senior Notes. As of June 30, 2021, $669.0 million in aggregate principal amount remains outstanding.

The indenture that governs the Senior Notes restricts us from incurring indebtedness or liens or making certain investments or distributions, subject to a number of exceptions. Certain of these exceptions included in the indenture that governs our Senior Notes are subject to us having Minimum Liquidity (as defined in the indenture that governs our Senior Notes). For incurrences in 2019, Minimum Liquidity was required to be 0.7 times Total Indebtedness (as defined in the indenture that governs our Senior Notes) and for incurrences in 2020, Minimum Liquidity was required to be 0.3 times Total Indebtedness. Beginning on January 1, 2021, there is no longer a Minimum Liquidity requirement. Certain of these exceptions included in the indenture that governs our Senior Notes are subject to us having Minimum Growth-Adjusted EBITDA (as defined in the indenture that governs our Senior Notes) for the most recent four consecutive fiscal quarters. For incurrences in fiscal years ending December 31, 2019, 2020, 2021 and 2022-2025, the Minimum Growth-Adjusted EBITDA required for the immediately preceding four consecutive fiscal quarters is $200.0 million, $500.0 million, $1.0 billion and $2.0 billion, respectively. For the four quarters ended June 30, 2021, the Company’s Minimum Growth-Adjusted EBITDA, as calculated in accordance with the indenture, was less than the $1.0 billion requirement effective as of January 1, 2021. As a result, the Company will be restricted in its ability to incur certain new indebtedness in 2021 that was not already executed or committed to as of December 31, 2019, until such Minimum Growth-Adjusted EBITDA increases above the threshold required. The restrictions of the Senior Notes do not impact our ability to access the unfunded commitments pursuant to the SoftBank Senior Unsecured Notes and the SoftBank Senior Secured Notes.

Subsequent to the July 2019 legal entity reorganization, WeWork Companies LLC is the obligor of the Senior Notes, which is also fully and unconditionally guaranteed by WeWork Inc. WeWork Inc. and the other subsidiaries that sit above WeWork Companies LLC in our legal structure are holding companies that conduct substantially all of their business operations through WeWork Companies LLC. As of June 30, 2021, based on the covenants and other restrictions of the Senior Notes, WeWork Companies LLC is restricted in its ability to transfer funds by loans, advances or dividends to WeWork Inc. and as a result all of the net assets of WeWork Companies LLC are considered restricted net assets of WeWork Inc. See the Supplementary Information — Consolidating Balance Sheet included in WeWork’s unaudited interim condensed consolidated financial statements included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus for additional details regarding the net assets of WeWork Companies LLC.

For the six months ended June 30, 2021, our non-guarantor subsidiaries represented approximately 58% of our total revenue and approximately 28% of loss from operations. As of June 30, 2021, our non-guarantor subsidiaries represented approximately 47% of our total assets, and had $0.9 billion of total liabilities, including trade payables but excluding intercompany liabilities and lease obligations.

Bank Facilities

In conjunction with the availability of the 2020 LC Facility, our 2019 Credit Facility and 2019 LC Facility were terminated in February 2020. As of June 30, 2021, $6.7 million in letters of credit remain outstanding under the 2019 LC Facility and 2019 Credit Facility that are secured by new letters of credit issued under the 2020 LC Facility.

Other Letter of Credit Arrangements

The Company has also entered into various other letter of credit arrangements, the purpose of which is to guarantee payment under certain leases entered into by JapanCo and PacificCo. There was $8.4 million of standby letters of credit outstanding under these other arrangements that are secured by $11.5 million of restricted cash at June 30, 2021.

Lease Obligations

The future undiscounted fixed minimum lease cost payment obligations under operating and finance leases signed as of June 30, 2021 were $36.6 billion. A majority of our leases are held by individual special purpose subsidiaries, and as of June 30, 2021, the total security packages provided by the Company and its subsidiaries in respect of these lease obligations was approximately $6.5 billion in the form of corporate guarantees, outstanding standby letters of credit, cash security deposits to landlords and surety bonds issued, representing less than 20% of future undiscounted minimum lease cost payment obligations. In addition, individual property lease security obligations on any given lease typically decrease over the life of the lease, although we may continue to enter into new leases in the ordinary course of our business.

Capital Expenditures and Tenant Improvement Allowances

Capital expenditures are primarily for the design and build-out of our spaces, and include leasehold improvements, equipment and furniture. Our leases often contain provisions regarding tenant improvement allowances, which are contractual rights to reimbursements paid by landlords for a portion of the costs we incur in designing and developing our workspaces. Tenant improvement allowances are reflected in the condensed consolidated financial statements upon lease commencement as our practice and intent is to spend up to or more than the full amount of the tenant improvement allowance that is contractually provided under the terms of the contract.

Over the course of a typical lease with tenant improvement allowances, we incur certain capital expenditures that we expect to be reimbursed by the landlords pursuant to provisions in our leases providing for tenant improvement allowances but for which we have not yet satisfied all conditions for reimbursement and, therefore, the landlords have not been billed at the time of such capital expenditures. Thus, while such receivables are reflected in our consolidated financial statements upon lease commencement, the timing of the achievement of the applicable milestones and billing of landlords will impact when reimbursements for tenant improvement allowances will be received, which may impact the timing of our cash flows.

We monitor gross and net capital expenditures, which are primarily associated with our leasehold improvements, to evaluate our liquidity and workstation development efforts. We define net capital expenditures as the gross purchases of property and equipment, as reported in “cash flows from investing activities” in the condensed consolidated statements of cash flows, less cash collected from landlords for tenant improvement allowances. While cash received for tenant improvement allowances is reported as “cash flows from operating activities” in the condensed consolidated statements of cash flows, we consider cash received for tenant improvement allowances to be a reduction against our gross capital expenditures in the calculation of net capital expenditures.

As the payments received from landlords for tenant improvement allowances are generally received after certain project milestones are completed, payments received from landlords presented in the table below are not directly related to the cash outflows reported for the capital expenditures reported.

The table below shows our gross and net capital expenditures for the periods presented:

| (Amounts in thousands) | Six Months Ended June 30, | | Year Ended December 31, | | |
|--|------------------------------|-------------------|----------------------------|---------------------|---------------------|
| | 2021 | 2020 | 2020 | 2019 | 2018 |
| Gross capital expenditures | $ 153,142 | $ 985,011 | $ 1,441,232 | $ 3,488,086 | $ 2,055,020 |
| Cash collected for tenant improvement allowances | (233,339) | (737,392) | (1,331,660) | (1,134,216) | (673,415) |
| Net capital expenditures | $ (80,197) | $ 247,619 | $ 109,572 | $ 2,353,870 | $ 1,381,605 |

Our ability to negotiate lease terms that include significant tenant improvement allowances has been and may continue to be impacted by our expansion into markets where such allowances may be less common. Our capital expenditures have also been and may continue to be impacted by our focus on enterprise members, who generally require more customization than a traditional workspace, resulting in higher build-out costs. However, we expect any increase in build-out costs resulting from expansion of configured solutions for our growing enterprise member base to be offset by increases in committed revenue, as enterprise members often sign membership agreements with longer terms and for a greater number of memberships than our other members. Future decisions to enter into long-term revenue-sharing agreements with building owners, rather than more standard fixed lease arrangements, may also impact future cash inflows relating to tenant improvement allowances and cash outflows relating to capital expenditures.

In the ordinary course of our business, we enter into certain agreements to purchase construction and related contracting services related to the build-outs of our operating locations that are enforceable, legally binding, and that specify all significant terms and the approximate timing of the purchase transaction. Our purchase orders are based on current needs and are fulfilled by the vendors as needed in accordance with our construction schedule. As of June 30, 2021, we have issued approximately $39.9 million in such outstanding construction commitments. As of June 30, 2021, we also had a total of $476.9 million in lease incentive receivables, recorded as a reduction of our long-term lease obligations on our condensed consolidated balance sheet. Of the total $476.9 million lease incentive receivable, $346.1 million was accrued at the commencement of the respective lease but unbilled as of June 30, 2021.

Operating Cash Flows

Cash used in operating activities consists primarily of the revenue we generate from our members and the tenant improvement allowances we receive offset by rent, real estate taxes, common area maintenance and other operating costs. In addition, uses of cash from operating activities consist of employee compensation and benefits, professional fees, advertising, office supplies, warehousing, utilities, cleaning, consumables, and repairs and maintenance related payments as well as member referral fees and various other costs of running our business.

The $1.0 billion increase in net cash used in operating activities from the six months ended June 30, 2021 compared to the six months ended June 30, 2020, was primarily attributable to the decrease in total revenues of $747.3 million due to the continued impact of COVID-19 in 2021. The increase in net cash used in operating activities was also driven by a decrease of $504.1 million in tenant improvement allowances received and an increase of $49.5 million in cash payments made on restructuring liabilities during the six months ended June 30, 2021. The increase was partially offset by net savings achieved for the six months ended June 30, 2021 through the continuation of our operational restructuring program and progress towards our efforts to create a leaner, more efficient organization which drove a decrease in pre-opening, and selling, general and administrative expenses.

Included in our cash flow from operating activities was $42.1 million of cash used by consolidated VIEs for the six months ended June 30, 2021, compared to $3.1 million of cash used by consolidated VIEs for the six months ended June 30, 2020.

Investing Cash Flows

The $0.2 billion decrease in net cash provided by investing activities from the six months ended June 30, 2021 compared to the six months ended June 30, 2020, was primarily due to the divestiture proceeds of $1.1 billion received during the six months ended June 30, 2020, primarily related to the sale of the 424 Fifth Property held by the 424 Fifth Venture and also including proceeds from the sale of Meetup, Managed by Q and Teem, compared to no divestitures during the six months ended June 30, 2021. This decrease in net cash provided by investing activities was partially offset by a $831.9 million decrease in cash paid for purchases of property and equipment and a decrease in contributions to investments of $66.7 million.

Financing Cash Flows

The $2.5 billion net increase in cash flows provided by financing activities for the six months ended June 30, 2021 compared to the six months ended June 30, 2020, was due to the $1.0 billion in draws on the Softbank Senior Unsecured Notes and $349.0 million of cash received under the LC Debt Facility during the six months ended June 30, 2021. Also included in the increase in cash flows provided by financing activities is $759.2 million debt repayment and $315.0 million distribution to noncontrolling interest holders during the six months ended June 30, 2020, both primarily related to the sale of the 424 Fifth Property.

Operating Cash Flows

Cash used in operating activities consists primarily of the revenue we generate from our members and the tenant improvement allowances we receive offset by rent, real estate taxes, common area maintenance and other operating costs. In addition, uses of cash from operating activities consist of employee compensation and benefits, professional fees, advertising, office supplies, warehousing, utilities, cleaning, consumables, and repairs and maintenance related payments as well as member referral fees and various other costs of running our business.

The $408.8 million increase in net cash used in operating activities from the year ended December 31, 2020, compared to the year ended December 31, 2019 was primarily attributable to increases in cash lease costs partially offset by increases in tenant improvement allowances received. The increase in net cash used in operating activities was also impacted by $379.2 million in cash payments made on restructuring liabilities during the year ended December 31, 2020 compared to $33.7 million during the year ended December 31, 2019. The increase was partially offset by net savings achieved in 2020 through our restructuring program and progress towards our efforts to create a leaner, more efficient organization which drove a decrease in pre-opening and selling, general and administrative expenses.

Included in our cash flow from operating activities was $35.7 million of cash used by consolidated VIEs for the year ended December 31, 2020, compared to $104.0 million of cash used by consolidated VIEs for the year ended December 31, 2019.

Investing Cash Flows

The $4.3 billion decrease in net cash used in investing activities from the year ended December 31, 2020 compared to the year ended December 31, 2019 was primarily due to the divestitures which occurred during the year ended December 31, 2020, with proceeds totaling $1.2 billion, primarily related to the sale of the 424 Fifth Property held by the 424 Fifth Venture and also including proceeds from the sale of Meetup, Managed by Q, Teem, SpaceIQ, Flatiron, and certain non-core corporate equipment as compared to cash used for acquisitions which occurred during the year ended December 31, 2019 totaling $1.0 billion, primarily related to the acquisition of the 424 Fifth Property by the 424 Fifth Venture. The remaining change in cash used in investing activities is primarily due to a $2.0 billion decrease in cash paid for purchases of property and equipment and a $140.6 million decrease in security deposits paid to landlords, with both declines relating to our slowed growth in 2020 as compared to the growth experienced in 2019, partially offset by the deconsolidation of net cash totaling $54.5 million in connection with the October 2020 ChinaCo Deconsolidation.

Financing Cash Flows

The $5.3 billion net decrease in cash flows from financing activities for the year ended December 31, 2020, compared to the year ended December 31, 2019 was primarily due to $4.0 billion in proceeds from the issuance of convertible related party liabilities during 2019. During the year ended December 31, 2019, we received $4.0 billion in proceeds from the draw down on the Amended 2018 Warrant and 2019 Warrant (each as described and defined in Note 14 of the notes to WeWork's audited annual consolidated financial statements included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus), compared to the $1.2 billion drawn on the SoftBank Senior Unsecured Notes during 2020. The decrease was also driven by a $810.1 million increase in debt repayments and a $279.9 million increase in distributions to noncontrolling interest holders during 2020 both primarily related to the sale of the 424 Fifth Property. We also collected $321.1 million less in member service retainers and returned $78.2 million more in member service retainers during the year ended December 31, 2020 as compared to the year ended December 31, 2019. The year ended December 31, 2019 also included $662.4 million in loan proceeds primarily from the 424 Fifth Venture Loans and $538.9 million in proceeds from the issuance of noncontrolling interests primarily associated with the 424 Fifth Venture and the Creator Fund compared to $100.6 million in proceeds from the issuance of noncontrolling interests during 2020 (primarily JapanCo) which combined drove a decrease of $1.1 billion in net cash provided by financing activities period over period.

A summary of our cash flows from operating, investing and financing activities for the years ended December 31, 2019 and 2018 is presented in the following table:

(1) Investing activities and financing activities during the year ended December 31, 2019, included $795.5 million in cash outflows and $942.2 million in cash inflows, respectively, relating to the acquisition, development and related financing of the real estate acquired by the 424 Fifth Venture.

Operating Cash Flows

Cash used in operating activities consists primarily of the revenue we generate from our members and the tenant improvement allowances we receive offset by rent, real estate taxes, common area maintenance and other operating costs. In addition, uses of cash from operating activities consist of employee compensation and benefits, professional fees, advertising, office supplies, warehousing, utilities, cleaning, consumables, and repairs and maintenance related payments as well as member referral fees and various other costs of running our business.

The $271.5 million increase in net cash used in operating activities from the year ended December 31, 2019 to the year ended December 31, 2018 was primarily attributable to net cash used for the expansion of our business and global community.

Included in our cash flow from operating activities was $104.0 million of cash used in operating activities of consolidated VIEs for the year ended December 31, 2019, compared to $120.9 million of cash used in operating activities for the year ended December 31, 2018.

Investing Cash Flows

Cash used in investing activities increased by $2.3 billion to $4.8 billion for the year ended December 31, 2019. Net cash used in investing activities was primarily used to support our growth strategy, including funding additional purchases of property and equipment, primarily relating to leasehold improvements at our leased locations, which increased by $1.4 billion, and the funding of security deposits with landlords for new locations, which increased by $44.6 million.

Our cash used in investing activities also includes an increase of $832.8 million in cash used for acquisitions, primarily due to the acquisition of a real estate building by the consolidated 424 Fifth Venture during the year ended December 31, 2019, and a $55.3 million decrease in cash used for strategic investments, net of proceeds from asset divestitures and sales of investments.

The remaining $44.6 million increase in net cash used in investing activities primarily includes a decrease in cash inflows of $9.0 million relating to the sale of software licenses during 2018 that did not occur in 2019, an increase in cash outflows of $31.8 million relating to capitalized software, and an increase in cash outflows of $3.7 million associated with cash used to fund loans to employees and related parties.

Financing Cash Flows

Cash provided by financing activities increased $2.6 billion to $5.3 billion for the year ended December 31, 2019. This increase was primarily attributable to a $3.0 billion increase in proceeds from convertible related party liabilities. During the year ended December 31, 2019, we received $4.0 billion in proceeds from the draw down on the Amended 2018 Warrant and 2019 Warrant, compared to the $1.0 billion drawn down on the Convertible Note in the year ended December 31, 2018. Of the Amended 2018 Warrant draw down, we received $1.5 billion and $1.0 billion in January 2019 and April 2019, respectively. We received $1.5 billion on the drawdown of the 2019 Warrant in October 2019.

The increase in cash inflows was partially offset by a $209.0 million decrease in proceeds from the issuance of noncontrolling interests, an increase in cash outflows of $40.0 million related to distributions to noncontrolling interests, and a $106.4 million decrease in proceeds from the issuance of debt. Our cash provided by financing activities for the year ended December 31, 2019 includes $662.4 million in debt proceeds primarily from the 424 Fifth Venture Loans, compared to $768.8 million primarily from the issuance of our Senior Notes during 2018. The remaining $45.8 million net decrease relates to changes in various other financing activities.

The following table sets forth certain contractual obligations as of June 30, 2021 and the timing and effect that such obligations are expected to have on our liquidity and capital requirements in future periods:

Excludes an additional $2.4 billion relating to executed non-cancelable leases that have not yet commenced as of June 30, 2021. - (2) In the ordinary course of our business, we enter into certain agreements to purchase construction and related contracting services related to the build-outs of our locations that are enforceable and legally binding and that specify all significant terms and the approximate timing of the purchase transaction. Our purchase orders are based on current needs and are fulfilled by the vendors as needed in accordance with our construction schedule.
- (3) Certain lease agreements contain provisions that require us to remove leasehold improvements at the end of the lease term. When such an obligation exists, we record an asset retirement obligation at the inception of the lease at its estimated fair value. These obligations are recorded as liabilities on our condensed consolidated balance sheet as of June 30, 2021.
- (4) Primarily represents principal and interest payments on Senior Notes, LC Debt Facility and other loans as of June 30, 2021.

The Penny Warrants became exercisable in April 2020 and expire on December 27, 2024. These obligations are recorded as liabilities on the Company's condensed consolidated balance sheet as of June 30, 2021 in accordance with ASC 480, as they include a potential cash settlement obligation to repurchase shares that is outside of our control.

Off-Balance Sheet Arrangements

Except for certain letters of credit and surety bonds entered into as security under the terms of several of our leases, our unconsolidated investments, and the unrecorded construction and other commitments set forth above, we did not have any off-balance sheet arrangements as of June 30, 2021. Our unconsolidated investments are discussed in Note 6 of the notes to WeWork's unaudited interim condensed consolidated financial statements included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus.

Critical Accounting Estimates, Significant Accounting Policies and New Accounting Standards

Our preparation of financial statements in accordance with GAAP requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect reported amounts and related disclosures. Management considers an accounting policy estimate to be critical if: (1) we must make assumptions that were uncertain when the estimate was made; and (2) changes in the estimate, or selection of a different estimate methodology could have a material effect on our consolidated results of operations or financial condition. While we believe that our estimates, assumptions and judgments are reasonable, they are based on information available when the estimate or assumption was made. Actual results may differ significantly. Additionally, changes in our assumptions, estimates or assessments due to unforeseen events or otherwise could have a material impact on our financial position or results of operations.

As the COVID-19 pandemic has adversely affected and may continue to adversely affect our revenues and expenditures, the extent and duration of restrictions and the overall macroeconomic impact of the pandemic will have an effect on estimates used in the preparation of our financial statements. This includes the net operating income (“NOI”) assumptions in our long-lived asset impairment testing, the ultimate collectability of accounts receivable due to the effects of COVID-19 on the financial position of our members, the timing of capital expenditures and fair value measurement changes for assets and liabilities that the Company measures at fair value.

The critical accounting estimates, assumptions and judgments that we believe to have the most significant impact on our consolidated financial statements are described below. See Note 2 of the notes to WeWork’s audited annual and unaudited interim condensed consolidated financial statements included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus for additional information related to critical accounting estimates and significant accounting policies, including details of recent accounting pronouncements that were adopted and not yet adopted as of June 30, 2021.

Leases

At lease commencement, we recognize a lease obligation and corresponding right-of-use asset based on the initial present value of the fixed lease payments using our incremental borrowing rates for our population of leases. The incremental borrowing rate represents the rate of interest we would have to pay to borrow over a similar term, and with a similar security, in a similar economic environment, an amount equal to the fixed lease payments. The commencement date is the date we take initial possession or control of the leased premise or asset, which is generally when we enter the leased premises and begin to make improvements in preparation for its intended use.

Our leases do not provide a readily determinable implicit discount rate. Therefore, management estimates the incremental borrowing rate used to discount the lease payments based on the information available at lease commencement. We utilized a model consistent with the credit quality for our outstanding debt instruments to estimate our specific incremental borrowing rates that align with applicable lease terms.

Renewal options are typically solely at our discretion and are only included within the lease obligation and right-of-use asset when we are reasonably certain that the renewal options would be exercised.

Variable lease payments that depend on an index or rate are included in lease payments and are measured using the prevailing index or rate at lease inception or the measurement date. Changes to the index or rate are recognized in the period of change.

We evaluate our right-of-use assets for recoverability when events or changes in circumstances indicate that the asset may have been impaired. In evaluating an asset for recoverability, we consider the future cash flows expected to result from the continued use of the asset and the eventual disposition of the asset. If the sum of the expected future cash flows, on an undiscounted basis, is less than the carrying amount of the asset, an impairment loss equal to the excess of the carrying amount over the fair value of the asset is recognized.

Asset Retirement Obligations

Certain lease agreements contain provisions that require us to remove leasehold improvements at the end of the lease term. When such an obligation exists, we record an asset retirement obligation at the inception of the lease at its estimated fair value. The associated asset retirement costs are capitalized as part of the carrying amount of the leasehold improvements and depreciated over their useful lives. The asset retirement obligation is accreted to its estimated future value as interest expense using the effective-interest rate method.

Impairment of Long-Lived Assets

Long-lived assets, including property and equipment, right-of-use assets, capitalized software, and other finite-lived intangible assets, are evaluated for recoverability when events or changes in circumstances indicate that the asset may have been impaired. In evaluating an asset for recoverability, the Company considers the future cash flows expected to result from the continued use of the asset and the eventual disposition of the asset. If the sum of the expected future cash flows, on an undiscounted basis, is less than the carrying amount of the asset, an impairment loss equal to the excess of the carrying amount over the fair value of the asset is recognized.

Assets Held for Sale

The Company classifies an asset (or assets to be disposed of together as a group) as held for sale when management, having the authority to approve the action, commits to a plan to sell the assets, the assets are available for immediate sale in their present condition, subject only to terms that are usual and customary for sales of such assets, an active program to locate a buyer and other actions required to complete the plan to sell have been initiated and it is probable the transfer of the assets are expected to qualify for recognition as a completed sale within one year, except if events or circumstances beyond the Company's control extend the period of time required to sell the assets beyond one year. Assets classified as held for sale are being actively marketed for sale at a price that is reasonable in relation to their current fair value and actions required to complete the sale plan indicate it is unlikely that significant changes to the plan will be made or that the plan will be withdrawn.

Assets that are classified as held for sale and the related liabilities directly associated with those that will be transferred in that transaction are initially measured at the lower of their carrying value or fair value less any costs to sell and depreciation and amortization expense is no longer recorded. Any loss resulting from this measurement is recognized in the period in which the held for sale criteria are met.

The fair value of assets held for sale less any costs to sell is assessed each reporting period they remain classified as held for sale and any subsequent changes are reported as an adjustment to the carrying amount of the assets, as long as the adjusted carrying amount does not exceed the carrying amount of the assets at the time it was initially classified as held for sale. Gains are not recognized on the sale of an asset until the date of sale.

Stock-based Compensation

Stock-based compensation expense attributable to equity awards granted to employees and non-employees is measured at the grant date based on the fair value of the award. For employee awards, the expense is recognized on a straight-line basis over the requisite service period for awards that actually vest, which is generally the period from the grant date to the end of the vesting period. For non-employee awards, the expense for awards that actually vest is recognized based on when the goods or services are provided.

We expect to continue to grant stock-based awards in the future, and, to the extent that we do, our stock-based compensation expense recognized in future periods will likely continue to represent a significant expense.

We estimate the fair value of stock option awards granted using the Black-Scholes-Merton option pricing formula (the "Black-Scholes Model") and a single option award approach. This model requires various significant judgmental assumptions in order to derive a final fair value determination for each type of award, including the expected term, expected volatility, expected dividend yield, risk-free interest rate, and fair value of our stock on the date of grant. The expected option term for options granted is calculated using the “simplified method.” This election was made based on the lack of sufficient historical exercise data to provide a reasonable basis upon which to estimate the expected term. The simplified method defines the expected term as the average of the contractual term and the vesting period. Estimated volatility is based on similar entities whose stock is publicly traded. We use the historical volatilities of similar entities due to the lack of sufficient historical data for our common stock price. Dividend yields are based on our history and expected future actions. The risk-free interest rate is based on the yield curve of a zero-coupon U.S. Treasury bond on the date the stock option award was granted with a maturity equal to the expected term of the stock option award. All grants of stock options generally have an exercise price equal to or greater than the fair market value of such common stock on the date of grant.

The Company estimated the fair value of the WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units awards in connection with the modification of the original stock options using the Hull-White model and a binomial lattice model in order to apply appropriate weight and consideration of the associated distribution threshold and catch-up base amount. The Hull-White model requires similar judgmental assumptions as the Black-Scholes Model used for valuing the Company’s options.

Because there has historically been no public market for our stock, the fair value of our equity has historically been approved by our Board of Directors or the compensation committee thereof as of the date stock-based awards were granted. In estimating the fair value of stock, we use the assistance of a third-party valuation specialist and considered factors we believe are material to the valuation process, including, but not limited to, the price at which recent equity was issued by us to independent third parties or transacted between third parties, actual and projected financial results, risks, prospects, economic and market conditions, and estimates of weighted average cost of capital. We believe the combination of these factors provides an appropriate estimate of our expected fair value and reflects the best estimate of the fair value of our common stock at each grant date.

We have elected to recognize forfeitures of stock-based awards as they occur. Recognition of any compensation expense relating to stock grants that vest contingent on the completion of an initial public offering or “Acquisition” (as defined in the 2015 Plan detailed in Note 22 and Note 14 of the notes to WeWork’s audited annual and unaudited interim condensed consolidated financial statements, respectively, included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus) will be deferred until the consummation of such offering or Acquisition.

Other Fair Value Measurements

Other critical accounting estimates include the valuation of our convertible related party liabilities, which are remeasured to fair value on a recurring basis, with the corresponding gain or loss included in our gain (loss) from change in fair value of related party instruments. The convertible related party liabilities as of June 30, 2021, were valued using a discounted cash flow model with such model inputs primarily based on level 3 inputs, which represent unobservable inputs that we incorporate in our valuation techniques used to determine fair value. The primary level 3 input used in the valuation of our convertible related party liabilities held as of June 30, 2021 was the fair value of the our stock, determined based on the estimates described in connection with stock-based compensation as detailed above.

See Note 16 and Note 11 of the notes to WeWork’s audited annual and unaudited interim condensed consolidated financial statements, respectively, included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus for additional details regarding fair value measurements.

Consolidation and Variable Interest Entities

We are required to consolidate entities deemed to be VIEs in which we are the primary beneficiary. We are considered to be the primary beneficiary of a VIE when we have (i) the power to direct the activities of the VIE that most significantly impact the VIE’s economic performance and (ii) the obligation to absorb losses or receive benefits that could potentially be significant to the VIE.

Revenue Recognition

We recognize revenue under the five-step model required under ASC 606, which requires us to identify the relevant contract with the member, identify the performance obligations in the contract, determine the transaction price, allocate the transaction price to the performance obligations identified and recognize revenue when (or as) each performance obligation is satisfied.

We maintain an allowance for doubtful accounts for estimated losses resulting from the inability of our members to make required payments. If the financial condition of a specific member were to deteriorate, resulting in an impairment of its ability to make payments, additional allowances may be required.

Quantitative and Qualitative Disclosures about Market Risks

Interest Rate Risk

We had market risk exposure arising from changes in interest rates on the revolving loans under the Bank Facilities, which prior to their termination in February 2020, bore interest at rates that are benchmarked against the Federal Funds Rate, Prime and LIBOR. However as of June 30, 2021, there were no loans outstanding under the Company Credit Agreement and the payments due on the outstanding standby letters of credit and the unused portion represent a fixed 1.5% of the amount outstanding and 0.375% of the unused amount. The interest rates on the new 2020 LC Facility, the SoftBank Senior Secured Debt, the SoftBank Senior Unsecured Notes, and other loans include fixed rates of interest.

The 424 Fifth Venture also had market risk exposure arising from changes in interest rates on the 424 Fifth Venture Loans, totaling $658.8 million as of December 31, 2019, which bore interest rates benchmarked against LIBOR. The 424 Fifth Venture loan agreements included a LIBOR floor of 2.513% and a LIBOR cap of 4%. The LIBOR interest rate cap was scheduled to expire on February 9, 2021. The 424 Fifth Venture Loans were repaid in March 2020 upon the sale of the real estate investment and the interest rate cap and floor were terminated.

Foreign Currency Risk

The U.S. dollar is the functional currency of our consolidated and unconsolidated entities operating in the United States. For our consolidated and unconsolidated entities operating outside of the United States, we generally assign the relevant local currency as the functional currency, as the local currency is generally the principal currency of the economic environment in which the foreign entity primarily generates and expends cash. Our international operating companies typically earn revenue and incur expenses in local currencies that are consistent with the functional currency of the relevant entity, and therefore they are not subject to significant foreign currency risk in their daily operations. However, as exchange rates may fluctuate between periods, revenue and operating expenses, when converted into U.S. dollars, may also fluctuate between periods. For the six months ended June 30, 2021, we earned approximately 57% of our revenues from subsidiaries whose functional currency is not the U.S. dollar. Although we are impacted by the exchange rate movements from a number of currencies relative to the U.S. dollar, our results of operations for the six months ended June 30, 2021, were primarily impacted by fluctuations in the U.S. dollar-Euro, U.S. dollar-British Pound, U.S. dollar-Peruvian Sol, and U.S. dollar-Korean Won exchange rates.

We hold cash and cash equivalents in foreign currencies to have funds available for use by our international operations. In addition, monetary intercompany transactions that are not of a long-term investment nature may be denominated in currencies other than the U.S. Dollar and/or in a different currency than the respective entity's functional currency. As a result, we are subject to foreign currency risk and changes in foreign currency exchange rates can impact the foreign currency gain (loss) recorded in our condensed consolidated statements of operations relating to these monetary intercompany transactions. As of June 30, 2021, we had a balance of $22.5 million in cash and cash equivalents, $4.3 billion in various other monetary assets and $2.2 billion in various other monetary liabilities that were subject to foreign currency risk. A 10% change in the relevant exchange rates would result in a total net change of $217.6 million in foreign currency gain or loss on these transactions.

Inflation Risk

Inflationary factors such as increases in the cost of raw materials and overhead costs may adversely affect our results of operations. We do not believe that inflation has had a material effect on our business, financial condition or results of operations to date. If our costs were to become subject to significant inflationary pressures, we may not be able to fully offset such higher costs through higher membership fees or price increases for services. Our inability or failure to do so could harm our business, financial condition or results of operations.

Corporate Governance

Composition of the Board of Directors

When considering whether directors and director nominees have the experience, qualifications, attributes and skills, taken as a whole, to enable New WeWork's board of directors to satisfy its oversight responsibilities effectively in light of its business and structure, the board of directors expects to focus primarily on each person's background and experience as reflected in the information discussed in each of the directors' individual biographies set forth above in order to provide an appropriate mix of experience and skills relevant to the size and nature of its business.

Director Independence

As a result of New WeWork's Common Stock being listed on the NYSE following consummation of the Business Combination, it will be required to comply with the applicable rules of such exchange in determining whether a director is independent. Prior to the completion of this Business Combination, the parties undertook a review of the independence of the individuals named above and have determined that each of Bruce Dunlevie, Véronique Laury, Deven Parekh, Vivek Ranadivé and Jeffrey Sine qualifies as "independent" as defined under the applicable NYSE rules.

Committees of the Board of Directors

New WeWork's board of directors will direct the management of its business and affairs, as provided by Delaware law, and will conduct its business through meetings of the board of directors and standing committees. New WeWork will have a standing audit committee, compensation committee, and nominating and corporate governance committee, each of which will operate under a written charter.

In addition, from time to time, special committees may be established under the direction of the board of directors when the board deems it necessary or advisable to address specific issues. Following the Business Combination, current copies of New WeWork's committee charters will be posted on its website, <https://www.wework.com>, as required by applicable SEC and NYSE rules. The information on or available through any of such website is not deemed incorporated in this proxy statement/prospectus and does not form part of this proxy statement/prospectus.

Audit Committee

Upon the Closing, New WeWork's audit committee will consist of Véronique Laury, Vivek Ranadivé and Jeffrey Sine with Jeffrey Sine serving as the chair of the committee. The board of directors is expected to determine that each of these individuals meets the independence requirements of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended, or the Sarbanes-Oxley Act, Rule 10A-3 under the Exchange Act and the applicable listing standards of the NYSE. Each member of New WeWork's audit committee can read and understand fundamental financial statements in accordance with the NYSE audit committee requirements. In arriving at this determination, the board of directors will examine each audit committee member's scope of experience and the nature of their prior and/or current employment.

The board of directors is expected to determine that Jeffrey Sine qualifies as an audit committee financial expert within the meaning of SEC regulations and meets the financial sophistication requirements of the rules. In making this determination, the board will consider Mr. Sine's formal education and previous and current experience in financial and accounting roles. Both New WeWork's independent registered public accounting firm and management periodically will meet privately with New WeWork's audit committee.

The audit committee's responsibilities will include, among other things:

- appointing, compensating, retaining, evaluating, terminating and overseeing New WeWork's independent registered public accounting firm;

- discussing with New WeWork’s independent registered public accounting firm their independence from management;
- reviewing with New WeWork’s independent registered public accounting firm the scope and results of their audit;
- pre-approving all audit and permissible non-audit services to be performed by New WeWork’s independent registered public accounting firm;
- overseeing the financial reporting process and discussing with management and New WeWork’s independent registered public accounting firm the interim and annual financial statements that New WeWork files with the SEC;
- reviewing and monitoring New WeWork’s accounting principles, accounting policies, financial and accounting controls and compliance with legal and regulatory requirements;
- reviewing related party transactions; and
- establishing procedures for the confidential anonymous submission of concerns regarding questionable accounting, internal controls or auditing matters.

Compensation Committee

Upon the Closing, New WeWork’s compensation committee will consist of Bruce Dunlevie, Véronique Laury and Deven Parekh with Bruce Dunlevie serving as chair of the committee. The board of directors is expected to determine that each of these individuals is “independent” as defined under the applicable listing standards of NYSE and SEC rules and regulations.

The compensation committee’s responsibilities include, among other things:

- reviewing and approving, either alone or together with the other independent members of the board of directors, the compensation of New WeWork’s Chief Executive Officer and our other executive officers;
- reviewing and recommending to our board of directors the compensation of New WeWork’s non-employee directors;
- selecting compensation consultants and advisors and assessing whether there are any conflicts of interest with any of the committee’s compensation advisors; and
- reviewing any equity plans proposed to be adopted by New WeWork.

Nominating and Corporate Governance Committee

Upon the Closing, New WeWork’s nominating and corporate governance committee will consist of Véronique Laury, Deven Parekh and Vivek Ranadivé with Véronique Laury serving as chair of the committee. The board of directors is expected to determine that each of these individuals is “independent” as defined under the applicable listing standards of NYSE and SEC rules and regulations.

The nominating and corporate governance committee’s responsibilities include, among other things:

- identifying individuals qualified to become members of New WeWork’s board of directors, consistent with criteria approved by New WeWork’s board of directors;
- recommending to New WeWork’s board of directors the nominees for election to New WeWork’s board of directors at annual meetings of New WeWork’s stockholders;
- overseeing an evaluation of New WeWork’s board of directors and its committees; and

- developing and recommending to New WeWork’s board of directors a set of corporate governance guidelines.

Code of Ethics

New WeWork will have a code of ethics that applies to all of its executive officers, directors and employees, including its principal executive officer, principal financial officer, principal accounting officer or controller or persons performing similar functions. The code of ethics will be available on New WeWork’s website, <https://www.wework.com>. New WeWork intends to make any legally required disclosures regarding amendments to, or waivers of, provisions of its code of ethics on its website rather than by filing a Current Report on Form 8-K. The information on or available through any of such website is not deemed incorporated in this proxy statement/prospectus and does not form part of this proxy statement/prospectus.

Compensation Committee Interlocks and Insider Participation

None of New WeWork’s executive officers currently serves, or has served during the last year, as a member of the board of directors or compensation committee of any entity, other than WeWork, that has one or more executive officers serving as a member of New WeWork’s board of directors.

Limitation on Liability and Indemnification of Directors and Officers

New WeWork’s Proposed Charter, which will be effective upon consummation of the Business Combination, will limit a director’s liability to the fullest extent permitted under the DGCL. The DGCL provides that directors of a corporation will not be personally liable for monetary damages for breach of their fiduciary duties as directors, except for liability:

- for any transaction from which the director derives an improper personal benefit;
- for any act or omission not in good faith or that involves intentional misconduct or a knowing violation of law;
- for any unlawful payment of dividends or redemption of shares; or
- for any breach of a director’s duty of loyalty to the corporation or its stockholders.

If the DGCL is amended to authorize corporate action further eliminating or limiting the personal liability of directors, then the liability of the directors will be eliminated or limited to the fullest extent permitted by the DGCL, as so amended.

Delaware law and the amended and restated bylaws provide that New WeWork will, in certain situations, indemnify its directors and officers and may indemnify other employees and other agents, to the fullest extent permitted by law. Any indemnified person is also entitled, subject to certain limitations, to advancement, direct payment, or reimbursement of reasonable expenses (including attorneys’ fees and disbursements) in advance of the final disposition of the proceeding.

In addition, New WeWork will enter into separate indemnification agreements with its directors and officers. These agreements, among other things, require New WeWork to indemnify its directors and officers for certain expenses, including attorneys’ fees, judgments, fines, and settlement amounts incurred by a director or officer in any action or proceeding arising out of their services as one of its directors or officers or any other company or enterprise to which the person provides services at its request.

New WeWork plans to maintain a directors’ and officers’ insurance policy pursuant to which its directors and officers are insured against liability for actions taken in their capacities as directors and officers. We believe these provisions in New WeWork’s Proposed Charter, Proposed Bylaws and these indemnification agreements are necessary to attract and retain qualified persons as directors and officers.

Insofar as indemnification for liabilities arising under the Securities Act may be permitted to directors, officers, or control persons, in the opinion of the SEC, such indemnification is against public policy as expressed in the Securities Act and is therefore unenforceable.

Involvement in Certain Legal Proceedings

On August 5, 2019, iPic Entertainment Inc. (“iPic”), for which Mr. Hashemi served as President and Chief Executive Officer, filed a voluntary petition for relief under Chapter 11 of the United States Code in the United States Bankruptcy Court for the District of Delaware (the “Bankruptcy Court”). After conducting an auction pursuant to Section 363 of the U.S. Bankruptcy Code, the Bankruptcy Court entered an order on October 29, 2019 approving the sale of substantially all of iPic’s assets to iPic Theaters, LLC, an affiliate of iPic’s largest creditor, and the sale closed on November 15, 2019.

This Compensation Discussion and Analysis describes our compensation program in 2020 for our named executive officers (as determined under applicable SEC rules), including elements of the program, material decisions made under the program for 2020, and material factors considered in making those decisions. Overview & Compensation Strategy

WeWork was founded in 2010 with the vision to create environments where people and companies come together and do their best work. Since opening our first location in New York City, we've grown into a global space-as-a-service provider committed to delivering flexible solutions, inspiring spaces, and an unmatched community experience. Today, we continue to reimagine the workplace and how it can help everyone, from freelancers to Fortune 500s, thrive.

In the fall of 2019, we began the process of transforming WeWork from a founder-led organization, with bespoke and sometimes inconsistent compensation arrangements, into a company with structured, market-based compensation programs that emphasized performance and rewarded long-term results. For years, WeWork had been focused on achieving hyper-growth and did so by recruiting individuals with entrepreneurial backgrounds who could help scale our real estate portfolio around the world as quickly as possible. As sustainable growth and profitability became our new goals, we shifted our hiring efforts and compensation approach to better align with the company's refreshed strategy.

To successfully navigate our turnaround, WeWork recruited a new CEO, Sandeep Mathrani, in February 2020 and brought together a team of experienced executives to streamline our organization and cost structure, and focus us more deeply on our core business of space-as-a-service. Following a brief period of transition, our former co-CEOs left the company in April of 2020.

* Due to changes in management structure in 2021, Messrs. Gidumal and Jahansouz are not expected to be executive officers of New WeWork following the Business Combination.

As part of the company's turnaround strategy, WeWork undertook a downsizing of its global workforce and reassembled its leadership ranks in late 2019 and throughout 2020. As part of these changes, our former CFO and former President & COO, International left the company, with Ben Dunham and Anthony Yazbeck, respectively, promoted into these positions. Our 2020 NEOs also include Shyam Gidumal who joined WeWork as President & COO, Americas in February 2020 and Matt Jahansouz who was promoted to Chief People Officer in November 2019.

During 2020, we worked diligently to clean up historical compensation decisions that no longer aligned with our go-forward business plan. Part of this effort required us to execute on previously negotiated agreements for select executives who left the organization. At the same time, we put in place a new executive compensation program that was adopted consistently across the leadership team. Specifically, we entered into employment agreements with each of our NEOs, established a new annual cash bonus plan tied to key company goals, and implemented an Executive Performance Award Program that provided senior leaders with equity upside only upon the achievement of specific business metrics.

Compensation Strategy

We are committed to aligning our overall executive compensation philosophy and program with those of leading multinational publicly-traded companies, while retaining the flexibility to address our evolving business needs. Our goal is to provide a fair and competitive compensation framework that will attract, retain and reward the extraordinary talent we need to serve our members and deliver strong results. Our cash incentive and equity incentive programs emphasize pay-for-performance, with payouts tied to the achievement of company-wide metrics. Four principles form the foundation of our compensation strategy:

- | | |
| 1. Purposeful | Be intentional about our compensation programs so that we can recruit and reward the talent we need to drive our business over both the short and long-term |
| 2. External Competitiveness | Align total compensation to comparable jobs within the relevant external labor market, while providing enough flexibility to attract and retain the best people |
| 3. Internal Comparability | Ensure that similar jobs and similar performance are paid equitably across the company |
| 4. Results Orientated | Tie short and long-term rewards to our business goals and financial achievements to ensure we maximize the impact of each compensation dollar spent |

Compensation-Setting Process

Role of Board of Directors and Compensation Committee

WeWork's Compensation Committee and Board of Directors are responsible for our executive compensation program, including reviewing amounts to be paid or awarded to executive officers, approving employment agreements, and establishing compensation packages for newly hired executives.

Role of Management

In setting compensation for 2020, our CEO and Chief People Officer worked closely with the Compensation Committee in managing our executive compensation program. From time to time, our CEO, Chief People

Officer, and Chief Legal Officer attend Compensation Committee meetings to present information on executive compensation and answer questions. No executive officer participated directly in the final determinations regarding their own compensation package.

Role of External Compensation Consultants

Prior to the Business Combination, we have retained external compensation consultants to provide us services related to executive compensation, including supporting the design and operation of aspects of our executive compensation program. Following the Business Combination, we expect that our compensation consultants will continue to support the design of our compensation program and, as needed, may attend Compensation Committee meetings to provide independent advice to the Committee. Our Compensation Committee will conduct periodic independence reviews of any consultant(s) that it retains.

Use of Market Data

While the Compensation Committee does not establish compensation levels based solely on the review of market data, such data is presented to the Committee and is an input to our compensation policies and practices in order to attract and retain qualified executive officers. The Compensation Committee also considers a number of other factors in making compensation determinations, including (but not limited to) impact and criticality to our strategy, scope of current responsibility, future potential to take on additional responsibility, individual performance and leadership, and internal equity pay considerations.

Executive Compensation Program Components

The primary elements of our executive compensation program and relevant 2020 performance measures are summarized in the table below:

| | Objective | Performance Period | Performance Measure |
|--|---|---------------------------|--|
| Base Salary | Attracts and retains talented executives, differentiates individual roles and responsibilities and provides stable income to executives | Ongoing | N/A |
| Annual Cash Incentive | Directly ties pay to key strategic company priorities, rewarding both company performance and individual achievement. | 1 Year | Achievement of 2020 goals set by our CEO related to employee and member satisfaction, committed memberships, reduction of operating and lease costs, increase in earnings, improved liquidity position, and the launch of products to drive 2021 revenue |

| | Objective | Performance Period | Performance Measure |
|--|---|---------------------------|--|
| Time-Based Option Awards | Reinforces the importance of long-term retention, an ownership culture, and creates alignment with our shareholders | 3 Years | Increase, if any, in stock price |
| Performance-Based Option Awards | | 5 Years | Increase, if any, in stock price Also only vests if unlevered operating free cash flow and/or share price goals are met |

Our current executives participate in the same retirement and health and wellness benefit plans as our broader employee population. We do not provide executives with tax gross-ups, enhanced change in control benefits, non-qualified retirement plans or excessive perquisites such as access to corporate planes or physical security.

Base Salary

WeWork provides a base salary as a fixed source of compensation for employees’ day-to-day responsibilities. When setting base salaries, we aim to be consistent with market data while also considering other factors including the individual’s role, experience, impact and prior compensation.

Base salaries are reviewed and, if appropriate to reflect changing roles and responsibilities, changes are approved during the first quarter of the year (other than in connection with a mid-year promotion, market adjustment, or material expansion of responsibilities). In collaboration with our People Team, our CEO recommends salaries for the NEOs other than himself. Our NEOs’ compensation, including salary, are then reviewed and approved by the Compensation Committee for NEOs other than the CEO and by the Board for the CEO.

Annual Cash Incentive

WeWork provides the opportunity to earn an annual cash incentive opportunity to our executives and other eligible employees under the WeWork Companies LLC Annual Cash Bonus Plan adopted in March 2020. Awards under the Bonus Plan are designed to create a direct link between pay and the achievement of key business performance measurements and 2020 amounts were determined based on the following formula:

$$\text{Base Salary} \times \text{Target Percentage}^* \times \text{Company Performance Multiplier} = \text{Annual Incentive Award}^{}$$

* Target percentages are reviewed and approved by the Compensation Committee for NEOs other than the CEO and by the Board for the CEO.

 The 2020 company performance multiplier could not exceed 150% and had a minimum of 50%.

In determining the company performance multiplier, our Compensation Committee reviewed WeWork’s achievement against the goals set by our CEO to drive 2020 business priorities, including employee and member satisfaction, committed memberships, reduction of operating and lease costs, increase in earnings, improved liquidity position, and the launch of products to drive 2021 revenue. The company performance multiplier for 2020 was determined to be 70% for our broader employee population below the Vice President level and 65% for those at the Vice President level and above (which includes our NEOs). Management recommended, and our Compensation Committee approved, a reduced multiplier for the senior leadership group given our focus on cost control and to provide additional funding to the broader employee population. The annual incentive awards earned by our NEOs for 2020 performance are presented below in the “Executive Compensation—2020 Summary Compensation Table.”

Starting in 2021, annual incentive awards will also be determined based on an individual performance multiplier to differentiate between employees' individual contributions towards our goals, initiatives and culture. Key company performance objectives will continue to be approved on an annual basis by the Compensation Committee, with achievement against those metrics resulting in the company performance multiplier that then determines company-wide bonus funding.

Retention Bonuses

From time to time, we may provide a bonus to attract talented and experienced employees or a retention bonus to retain critical employees who possess key institutional knowledge and/or are necessary to successfully operate our business. In the fall of 2019—given the significant changes happening to our business and workforce and the need to ensure business continuity—WeWork awarded retention bonuses to select employees who were deemed critical to our turnaround, including three of our NEOs; these bonuses were paid over a 1-year period. The amounts paid in 2020 are presented below in the “Executive Compensation—2020 Summary Compensation Table.”

Equity Grants

Equity compensation, provided in the form of stock options and RSUs, is designed to achieve a number of goals, including creating an ownership culture, aligning employee and shareholder interests, and promoting long-term retention.

For our executives, equity awards are the most significant portion of their compensation and consist of time-based grants and performance-based grants.

2020 Performance-Based Grants

In 2020, we developed and the Compensation Committee approved a new performance-based equity program to further drive pay for performance. A group of key leaders, including the current NEOs, were granted performance-based stock option awards that are earned and become eligible for vesting based on the achievement of unlevered operating free cash flow (“unlevered operating FCF”)* or stock price metrics. In early 2021, the Compensation Committee modified the previously established performance goals for the stock price metric to better align with our business plan and projections. We did not change the unlevered operating FCF metric as these remain consistent with our long-term financial goals.

* Solely for purposes of this program, unlevered operating FCF means Adjusted EBITDA Excluding Non-Cash GAAP Straight-Line Lease Cost and Amortization less Net Capital Expenditures, in each case measured for the trailing four calendar quarters as of the measurement date. Unlevered Operating Free Cash Flow is measured on a quarterly basis as of the last day of each calendar quarter. “Adjusted EBITDA Excluding Non-Cash GAAP Straight-Line Lease Cost and Amortization” means net loss before income tax (benefit) provision, interest and other (income) expense, depreciation and amortization expense, stock-based compensation expense, expense related to stock-based payments for services rendered by consultants, income or expense relating to the changes in fair value of assets and liabilities remeasured to fair value on a recurring basis, expense related to costs associated with mergers, acquisitions, divestitures and capital raising activities, legal, tax and regulatory reserves or settlements, significant non-ordinary course asset impairment charges and, to the extent applicable, any impact of discontinued operations, restructuring charges, and other gains and losses on operating assets. This figure also excludes the impact of non-cash GAAP straight-line lease cost and amortization of lease incentives. “Net Capital Expenditures” means the gross purchases of property and equipment, as reported in “cash flows from investment activities” in the consolidated statements of cash flows, less cash collected from landlords for tenant improvement allowances, as reported in the “supplemental cash flow disclosures” schedules in the cash flow statement.

Performance Vesting: The awards may be earned as follows (with no linear interpolation between the achievements levels) by meeting either of the two metrics below:

| Metric | How Is It Measured | % of Award Amount Earned | | | |
|--------------------------------|---|--------------------------|---------------|-----------------|---------------|
| | | 16% | 33% | 66% (Target) | 100% (Max) |
| Unlevered Operating FCF | Measured on the last day of each quarter for the trailing four calendar quarters as of the measurement date. | — | $0.8 billion | $1.0 billion | $1.3 billion |
| Stock Price* | If WeWork is publicly listed, measured on a continuous basis during the period beginning on the first day after the nine-month anniversary of a public listing and ending on December 31, 2024, and defined as the volume-weighted average price of one share of WeWork Class A Common Stock over the 90 day period immediately before a measurement date. If WeWork is not publicly listed, measured on the closing date of qualifying capital raise transaction that occurs no later than December 31, 2024, and defined as the per share issue or purchase price of relevant WeWork securities. | $12.00 | $15.00 | $20.00 | $25.00 |

* Prior to the 2021 modification, the awards would have been earned 33%, 66% and 100% of target at a stock price of $20.30, $25.80 and $31.30, respectively, with no level of achievement resulting in 16% of the award being earned.

Time Vesting: To fully vest into the awards, the grantee must also remain employed through the dates indicated below except that, in the event of a resignation for good reason or termination without cause, any earned portion that is not fully vested, but would otherwise have vested in the year of such termination, will become immediately vested for the NEOs other than Messrs. Mathrani and Gidumal. For Messrs. Mathrani and Gidumal, see the termination treatment described in the sections titled “Sandeep Mathrani Employment Agreement” and “Shyam Gidumal Employment Agreement”, respectively.

| When Metric is Achieved | % of Earned Award That Becomes Fully Vested* |
|----------------------------------|--|
| On or before December 31, 2022 | 50% on December 31, 2022; 50% on December 31, 2022 |
| In 2023 | 100% on December 31, 2023 |
| In 2024 | 100% on December 31, 2024 |

* The dates shown above apply to any earned portion resulting from achievement of the stock price metric. Because unlevered operating FCF performance cannot be certified by the Compensation Committee until our financial statements are available, for any earned portion resulting from achievement of that metric, the relevant dates will be March 31st immediately following the dates shown above.

 If the stock price metric is achieved at the $12.00 level, 100% of the earned portion of the award resulting from that achievement will vest on December 31, 2022.

2020 Time-Based Grants

During our annual compensation cycle in the first quarter of 2020, all eligible employees (including our current NEOs) received a time-based stock option grant. Other than for our CEO, these grants vest over 3 years from January 15, 2020, with 1/3 vesting on the one-year anniversary and then in equal quarterly installments thereafter, subject to continued employment through each vesting date. For Mr. Mathrani, while the grant also vests over 3 years from January 15, 2020, there is no incremental vesting during this three-year period and the entire amount would vest on January 15, 2023, subject to continued employment. In connection with his promotion to Chief Financial Officer in October 2020, Mr. Dunham also received an additional time-based stock option grant to reflect the increased responsibilities of the role and to align his long-term incentives with the other members of our leadership team. The additional award vests over three years from November 18, 2020, with 1/3 vesting on the one-year anniversary and then in equal quarterly installments thereafter, subject to continued employment through each vesting date.

2020 Stock Option Repricing

All stock options granted to employees, including the applicable NEOs, in February and March 2020 had an exercise price equal to $4.12 per share. In 2020, the fair market value of a WeWork share meaningfully decreased primarily due to the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic. In order to preserve their incentive and retentive value, in June 2020, the WeWork Compensation Committee approved a repricing of the options granted earlier in the year to an exercise price of $2.10 per share (which was the fair market value as of the approval date). The repricing applied to all employees who were employed as of the approval date, and no changes were made to any other terms and conditions of these awards. We believe that the option repricing will provide our active employees with the ability to participate along with shareholders in the success we hope and expect to achieve in the future.

Other Employee and Retirement Benefits

In addition to the core components of our compensation program, we provide a range of benefits to meet the needs of our employees and their families. Our executive officers participate in the same health and welfare programs, as well as the same retirement programs, as our other full-time employees. In the United States, we provide a 401(k) plan, which is a tax-qualified defined contribution savings plan, for the benefit of all eligible employees, including our NEOs. Employees may make contributions, including after-tax Roth contributions, and our 401(k) plan also permits discretionary employer contributions. In 2020, we matched 100% of employee contributions to our 401(k) plan, up to a maximum of $1,800 per year. All employee contributions and employer contributions are at all times fully vested. We do not offer any defined benefit pension plans or nonqualified deferred compensation plans to our employees.

(1) For Messrs. Yazbeck and Miropolski, all cash amounts were originally paid in British pounds and converted for purposes of this presentation at an exchange rate of USD $1.36 per GBP £1.00, which was the currency conversion rate as of December 31, 2020.

(2) As required by SEC rules, the compensation awarded to or earned by or paid to Mr. Minson in 2018 and 2019 is also disclosed as he was a named executive officer in a prior SEC filing. This is not applicable to any of the other named executive officers.

Salary. This column sets forth the base salary paid to each named executive officer during 2020. The salary amounts are prorated for Messrs. Mathrani and Gidumal who joined WeWork on February 18, 2020, and February 19, 2020, respectively. The salary amounts for Messrs. Minson, Gunningham and Miropolski and for Ms. Ross are through their respective departures on April 1, 2020, April 17, 2020, October 30, 2020, and October 30, 2020. In 2020, Messrs. Dunham and Gidumal received increases to their base salaries from $600,000 to $750,000 and $400,000 to $600,000, respectively, to reflect the increased responsibilities of their roles and to better align their compensation with the other members of our leadership team.

Bonus. This column sets forth the cash incentive earned by each of Messrs. Mathrani, Dunham, Yazbeck, Gidumal and Jahansouz for 2020 performance under the Company's annual cash bonus plan. The Annual Bonus Plan section of the Compensation Discussion and Analysis above describes how these awards were determined and earned. The 2020 target annual bonus percentage for our current NEOs was 100% of base salary for Messrs. Mathrani, Dunham, Yazbeck, and Jahansouz and 75% for Mr. Gidumal. In 2020, Messrs. Dunham and Jahansouz received increases to their target bonus percentages from 40% to 100% and 75% to 100%, respectively, to reflect increased responsibilities of the roles and to better align compensation with the other members of our leadership team. Mr. Gidumal's incentive amount was prorated based on his employment start date of February 18, 2021. In addition, for Messrs. Dunham, Yazbeck and Jahansouz, this column also includes retention bonuses in the amount of $400,000, $1,059,890 and $900,000 respectively.

Option Awards. The amounts reported in this column represents the aggregate grant date fair value of the stock options granted under our 2015 Equity Incentive Plan in 2020 as computed in accordance with FASB ASC Topic 718. The assumptions used in calculating the dollar amount recognized for financial statement reporting purposes of the equity awards reported in this column are set forth in Note 22 to our consolidated financial statements included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus.

The amounts reported in this column reflect the accounting value for the equity award (with performance-based awards assumed to be earned at target) and do not correspond to the actual economic value that may be received by each named executive officer from the equity award. For example, none of the performance-based option awards have been earned at this time and the actual value of these awards will depend on our performance. In addition, the amounts do not reflect Mr. Jahansouz's subsequent forfeiture of his performance-based stock options (assuming maximum performance) in 2021 in connection with his termination of employment and Mr. Gunningham's subsequent forfeiture of all of his outstanding equity awards in connection with his separation package. In connection with their termination of employment, Ms. Ross and Mr. Miropolski also forfeited the equity awards granted to them in 2020.

Assuming the maximum level of performance conditions are achieved, the amounts reported in this column would be as follows: Mr. Mathrani ($5,669,105), Mr. Dunham ($1,748,113), Mr. Yazbeck ($1,558,876), Mr. Gidumal ($1,752,951), Mr. Jahansouz ($2,037,941), Ms. Ross ($2,003,176), and Mr. Miropolski ($3,394,956).

All Other Compensation. This column sets forth all of the compensation that we could not properly report in any other column of the table. For our current executives as well as Ms. Ross, the amount in this column represents the standard company matching contribution under our U.S. 401(k) plan or the standard company contribution of 3% of basic salary under our U.K. pension plan, as applicable. For Ms. Ross, the amount also includes a cash payment in lieu of accrued but unused vacation time of $25,431.

For our other former executives, this column reflects:

- for Mr. Minson, a cash severance payment of $8,300,000 and cash payment in lieu of accrued but unused vacation time of $33,082 in 2020, and income from loan forgiveness in both 2019 and 2018;
- for Mr. Gunningham, a cash severance payment of $8,300,000, a cash payment in lieu of accrued but unused vacation time of $33,825, and $2,223,801 in income from loan forgiveness provided as part of his separation package; and
- for Mr. Miropolski, (a) an aggregate amount equal to $12,876,952 in income for loan forgiveness, (b) $3,599,143 in taxes paid by the company on behalf of Mr. Miropolski, (c) $10,276,067 in amounts paid by WeWork for taxes due in connection with the loan forgiveness, (d) a cash severance payment (including payment in lieu of notice and a pro-rated bonus payment) of $1,911,062 and (e) a cash payment in lieu of accrued but unused vacation time, as well as the standard company contribution of 3% of basic salary under our U.K. pension plan.

Estimated Future Payouts Under Non-equity Incentive Plan Awards. This column includes the 2020 threshold, target and maximum opportunities under our annual cash bonus plan for participating named executive officers. The amount earned is reported above in the bonus column of the “Summary Compensation Table,” other than for Ms. Ross who resigned and as a result did not receive a bonus payout, and more information about these cash incentive awards can be found in the Annual Bonus Plan section of the Compensation Discussion and Analysis. For Mr. Mathrani, no threshold amount is shown as his employment agreement provided for the 2020 bonus to be paid at no less than the target amount. For Messrs. Yazbeck and Miropolski, the threshold, target and maximum cash incentive opportunities were originally denominated in British pounds and have been converted for purposes of this presentation at an exchange rate of USD $1.36 per GBP £1.00, which was the currency conversion rate as of December 31, 2020.

Estimated Future Payouts Under Equity Incentive Plan Awards. These performance-based stock options vest based on certain free cash flow and/or valuation metrics to the extent achieved on or prior to December 31, 2024, subject to continued employment through certain dates depending on when the metric is met. These equity awards are also reported below in “Outstanding Equity Awards at 2020 Year-End”; for more information about these awards, see the Equity Grants section of the Compensation Discussion and Analysis above.

All Other Option Awards: Number of Securities Underlying Options. For Mr. Mathrani, the stock option vests over a three-year period from January 15, 2020, with 100% vesting on January 15, 2023, subject to continued employment through the vesting date. For the other named executive officers, the stock option vests over a three-year period from January 15, 2020, with one-third vesting on January 15, 2021, and the remaining two-thirds vesting in eight substantially equal quarterly installments on each April 15, July 15, October 15 and January 15 thereafter until fully vested on January 15, 2023, in each case, subject to continued employment through the applicable vesting date.

Mr. Gunningham agreed to forfeit this grant in connection with his separation package. These equity awards are also reported below in “Outstanding Equity Awards at 2020 Year-End”; for more information about these awards, see the Equity Grants section of the Compensation Discussion and Analysis above.

Exercise Price of Option Awards. Because WeWork is privately held and there is no public market for our stock, the exercise price of the stock options shown in this table represent the fair market value approved by WeWork’s Board of Directors or its Compensation Committee based on a third-party valuation report that considers factors including, but not limited to, the price at which recent equity was issued by WeWork to independent third parties or transacted between third parties, actual and projected financial results, risks, prospects, economic and market conditions, and estimates of weighted average cost of capital. In particular, for the options with an exercise price of $4.00 or $2.07, the exercise price is the fair market value as of the grant date. For the options with an exercise price of $2.10, the exercise price is the fair market value as of June 18, 2020, which is the date that the Compensation Committee approved the repricing of all outstanding employee stock options granted in 2020 prior to such date that were held by then-active employees from $4.12 to $2.10 per share with no other change to the terms and conditions of these awards.

Grant Date Fair Value of Option Awards. The amounts reported in this column represents the aggregate grant date fair value of the stock options granted under our 2015 Equity Incentive Plan in 2020 as computed in accordance with FASB ASC Topic 718. The assumptions used in calculating the dollar amount recognized for financial statement reporting purposes of the equity awards reported in this column are set forth in Note 22 to our consolidated financial statements included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus.

The amounts reported in this column reflect the accounting value for the equity award (with performance-based awards valued based on the probability that the metrics will be achieved at the target level) and do not correspond to the actual economic value that may be received by each named executive officer from the equity award. Assuming the maximum level of performance conditions are achieved, the amounts reported in this column for the performance-based awards would be as follows: Mr. Mathrani ($2,723,700), Mr. Dunham ($544,740 and $819,765), Mr. Yazbeck ($953,295),

Mr. Gidumal ($1,361,850), Mr. Jahansouz ($1,634,220), Ms. Ross ($1,416,525), and Mr. Miropolski ($2,587,515).

Executive Employment Agreements

Sandeep Mathrani Employment Agreement

Effective February 17, 2020, a WeWork subsidiary entered into an employment agreement with Sandeep Mathrani (the “Mathrani Agreement”). The Mathrani Agreement provides for (i) an annual base salary of $1,500,000, as may be adjusted from time to time as WeWork’s Compensation Committee deems appropriate (but not before 2022), (ii) a target annual bonus opportunity of 100% of the annual base salary (for 2020, not to be lower than 100% of target and not to be pro-rated), (iii) a time-based option to purchase 1,500,000 shares of WeWork Class A Common Stock, and (iv) a performance-based option to purchase a target of 1,000,000 shares of WeWork Class A Common Stock. The Mathrani Agreement also provides that Mr. Mathrani would be expected to receive an annual equity award in the form of an option to purchase 750,000 shares of WeWork Class A Common Stock in each of the 2021 and 2022 calendar years.

In the event of a termination by WeWork without “cause” or by Mr. Mathrani for “good reason” (each as defined in the Mathrani Agreement), subject to his execution of a separation agreement and general release of claims, he will be entitled to receive (i) 12 months of base salary, (ii) target bonus for the year of termination, (iii) continued health care coverage at active employee rates for 12 months following termination (or, if earlier, until he becomes eligible for group health insurance coverage through a subsequent employer or ceases to be eligible for COBRA coverage for any reason), (iv) an extension of the exercise period applicable to his vested stock options generally until the earlier of (x) 10 days following the lock-up period after a public listing of WeWork or (y) 10 years following the grant date, (v) any bonus for the year preceding the year of termination that has not yet been paid, and (vi) the accelerated vesting of then-outstanding equity awards that vest solely based on time-based vesting conditions. In addition, with respect to Mr. Mathrani's performance-based options, if, and only if, WeWork's unlevered operating free cash flow is greater than $0 as of termination and WeWork achieves one of the performance goals provided in the award agreement, then he will be deemed to have earned and will vest in options with respect to the number of shares equal to the product of (i) the number of shares that would have vested upon achievement of such performance goal had he remained continuously employed by WeWork on the date of such achievement (the "Achievement Date"), multiplied by (ii) the greater of (x) the difference between WeWork's unlevered operating free cash flow as of the date of termination and WeWork's unlevered operating free cash flow as of December 31, 2019, divided by the difference between WeWork's unlevered operating free cash flow as of the Achievement Date and WeWork's unlevered operating free cash flow as of December 31, 2019, and (y) the difference between WeWork's fair market value as of the date of termination and WeWork's fair market value as of December 31, 2019, divided by the difference between WeWork's fair market value as of the Achievement Date and WeWork's fair market value as of December 31, 2019. Mr. Mathrani would also be entitled to these separation payments and benefits, other than the 12 months of base salary, if his employment were to terminate due to death.

If WeWork's common stock is not publicly traded on or before the earlier of (i) the second anniversary of termination and (ii) 6 months prior to the expiration date of the option grants made under the Mathrani Agreement, then at any time following such earlier date, Mr. Mathrani may elect to cause WeWork (or an assignee of WeWork) to purchase all then-vested and then-outstanding shares of common stock (including shares underlying options or other types of equity awards) at a per share price equal to the fair market value of a share of common stock on such election date. WeWork would then have 6 months following such election to close such purchase of common stock. This provision will terminate upon a sale or public listing of WeWork, which will include the consummation of the Business Combination.

Benjamin Dunham Employment Agreement

Effective October 1, 2020, a WeWork subsidiary entered into an employment agreement with Ben Dunham (the "Dunham Agreement"). The Dunham Agreement provides for (i) an annual base salary of $600,000, as may be adjusted from time to time as WeWork's Compensation Committee deems appropriate, (ii) a target annual bonus opportunity of 100% of the annual base salary (provided that for 2020, the target bonus amount would be the sum of (x) 100% of the base salary for the period commencing on October 1, 2020, and ending on December 31, 2020, and (y) 40% of the base salary in effect for the period commencing on January 1, 2020, and ending on September 30, 2020, with a minimum payout amount equal to 50% of such aggregate target bonus amount), (iii) a time-based option to purchase 300,000 shares of WeWork Class A Common Stock, and (iv) a performance-based option to purchase a target of 300,000 shares of WeWork Class A Common Stock. The Dunham Agreement also provides that Mr. Dunham would be expected to receive an annual equity award covering a number of shares and in the form determined by the Compensation Committee, except that he will not be eligible for an annual equity award in 2021.

In addition, in the event of a termination by WeWork without "cause" or by Mr. Dunham for "good reason" (each as defined in the Dunham Agreement), subject to his execution of a separation agreement and general release of claims, he will be entitled to receive (i) 12 months of base salary, (ii) a prorated target bonus for the year of termination, (iii) continued health care coverage at active employee rates for 12 months following termination (or, if earlier, until he becomes eligible for group health insurance coverage through a subsequent employer or ceases to be eligible for COBRA coverage for any reason), (iv) an extension of the exercise period applicable to his vested stock options generally until the earlier of (x) 10 days following the lock-up period after a public listing of WeWork or (y) 10 years following the grant date and (v) any bonus for the year preceding the year of termination that has not yet been paid. Mr. Dunham would also be entitled to these separation payments and benefits, other than the 12 months of base salary, if his employment were to terminate due to death.

Anthony Yazbeck Employment Agreement

A WeWork subsidiary entered into an employment agreement and equity side letter, dated November 18, 2020 (as further amended on July 19, 2021), and January 14, 2020, respectively, with Anthony Yazbeck (collectively, the “Yazbeck Agreements”). The Yazbeck Agreements provide for (i) an annual base salary of GBP 720,000, as may be adjusted from time to time as WeWork’s Compensation Committee deems appropriate, (ii) a target annual bonus opportunity of 100% of the base salary (with a minimum payout amount equal to 50% of the target bonus for 2020), (iii) a time-based option to purchase 300,000 shares of WeWork Class A Common Stock, and (iv) a performance-based option to purchase a target of 350,000 shares of WeWork Class A Common Stock. The Yazbeck Agreements also provide that Mr. Yazbeck (i) would be expected to receive an annual equity award covering a number of shares and in the form determined by the Compensation Committee, except that he will not be eligible for an annual equity award in 2021, 2022, or 2023 and (ii) will receive a one-time bonus of GBP £1.44 million within 30 days of the consummation of the Business Combination subject to his employment through the payment date.

Termination of Mr. Yazbeck’s employment (including due to resignation, but not for “cause” as defined in the Yazbeck Agreements) requires a notice period of not less than six months. In addition, in the event of a termination by WeWork without “cause,” in addition to any payment in lieu of notice, subject to his execution of a separation agreement and general release of claims, Mr. Yazbeck will be entitled to receive: (i) 6 months’ base salary, (ii) a prorated target bonus for the year of termination, payable in installments over 12-month period, (iii) an extension of the exercise period applicable to his vested stock options generally until the earlier of (x) 10 days following the lock-up period after a public listing of WeWork or (y) 10 years following the grant date and (iv) any bonus for the year preceding the year of termination that has not yet been paid.

Shyam Gidumal Employment Agreement

Effective February 18, 2020, a WeWork subsidiary entered into an employment agreement with Shyam Gidumal (as amended on August 2, 2021, the “Gidumal Agreement”). The Gidumal Agreement provides for (i) an annual base salary of $750,000, as may be adjusted from time to time as WeWork’s Compensation Committee deems appropriate, (ii) a target annual bonus opportunity of 75% of the annual base salary (provided that for 2020, the minimum payout amount would be 50% of such target bonus amount, and that such bonus opportunity would increase to 100% effective July 1, 2021), (iii) a time-based option to purchase 200,000 shares of WeWork Class A Common Stock and (iv) a performance-based option to purchase a target of 500,000 shares of WeWork Class A Common Stock. The Gidumal Agreement also provides that Mr. Gidumal would be expected to receive an annual equity award covering a number of shares and in the form determined by the Compensation Committee, except that he will not be eligible for an annual equity award in 2021.

In addition, in the event of a termination by WeWork without “cause” or by Mr. Gidumal for “good reason” (each as defined in the Gidumal Agreement), subject to his execution of a separation agreement and general release of claims, he will be entitled to receive (i) 12 months of base salary, (ii) a prorated target bonus for the year of termination, (iii) continued health care coverage at active employee rates for 12 months following termination (or, if earlier, until he becomes eligible for group health insurance coverage through a subsequent employer or ceases to be eligible for COBRA coverage for any reason), (iv) an extension of the exercise period applicable to his vested stock options generally until the earlier of (x) 10 days following the lock-up period after a public listing of WeWork or (y) 10 years following the grant date, (v) any unmet service-based vesting condition with respect to his equity awards will be deemed satisfied as of the termination date and (vi) any bonus for the year preceding the year of termination that has not yet been paid. Mr. Gidumal would also be entitled to these separation payments and benefits, other than the 12 months of base salary, if his employment were to terminate due to death.

Matt Jahansouz Employment Agreement

Effective January 15, 2020, a WeWork subsidiary entered into an amended and restated employment agreement with Samad (“Matt”) Jahansouz (the “Jahansouz Agreement”). The Jahansouz Agreement provides for

(i) an annual base salary of $600,000, as may be adjusted from time to time as WeWork's Compensation Committee deems appropriate, (ii) a target annual bonus opportunity of 75% of the annual base salary (provided that for 2020, the minimum payout amount would be 50% of such target bonus amount), (iii) a time-based option to purchase 200,000 shares of WeWork Class A Common Stock and (iv) a performance-based option to purchase a target of 600,000 shares of WeWork Class A Common Stock. The Jahansouz Agreement also provides that Mr. Jahansouz would be expected to receive an annual equity award covering a number of shares and in the form determined by the Compensation Committee, except that he will not be eligible for an annual equity award in 2021.

In addition, in the event of a termination by WeWork without "cause" or by Mr. Jahansouz for "good reason" (each as defined in the Jahansouz Agreement), subject to his execution of a separation agreement and general release of claims, he will be entitled to receive (i) 12 months of base salary, (ii) a prorated target bonus for the year of termination, (iii) continued health care coverage at active employee rates for 12 months following termination (or, if earlier, until he becomes eligible for group health insurance coverage through a subsequent employer or ceases to be eligible for COBRA coverage for any reason), (iv) an extension of the exercise period applicable to his stock options generally until the earlier of (x) 10 days following the lock-up period after a public listing of WeWork or (y) 10 years following the grant date and (v) any bonus for the year preceding the year of termination that has not yet been paid. Mr. Jahansouz would also be entitled to these separation payments and benefits, other than the 12 months of base salary, if his employment were to terminate due to death.

Restrictive Covenant Agreements

Each of our named executive officers has entered into an invention, non-disclosure, non-competition and non-solicitation agreement that protects WeWork's confidential and other proprietary information and assigns to WeWork full right and title to inventions and other intellectual property developed by the employee that are related to the WeWork business. The agreement also contains confidentiality and (other than for Mr. Yazbeck) non-disparagement obligations, which apply indefinitely, along with non-competition and customer and employee non-solicitation restrictions, which apply during employment and for a period of 12 months (or 3 months for Mr. Yazbeck) following termination of employment for any reason.

Other Benefits

In addition to the cash and equity compensation, WeWork provides certain employee and retirement benefits as described above under Other Employee and Retirement Benefits in the Compensation Discussion & Analysis. In addition, in 2015, WeWork adopted an equity-based compensation plan, the 2015 Equity Incentive Plan (the "2015 Plan"), authorizing the grant of equity-based awards to its management, employees, non-employee directors and other non-employee service providers. Following the adoption of the 2015 Plan, no further grants were made under WeWork's original plan adopted in 2013, the 2013 Stock Incentive Plan (the "2013 Plan"). WeWork has granted stock options under both the 2013 and 2015 Plan that are currently outstanding as well as restricted stock units under the 2015 Plan that are currently outstanding. Effective upon the Business Combination (and subject to the approval of the Equity Incentive Plan Proposal), the 2015 Plan will no longer be available for use for the grant of future awards although the 2015 Plan and 2013 Plan will continue to govern the terms of awards that had been previously granted under the 2015 Plan and 2013 Plan, respectively, and that are still outstanding following the Business Combination. For more information about the new WeWork 2021 Equity Incentive Plan, see the section entitled "Equity Incentive Plan Proposal."

Potential Payments Upon Termination or Change in Control

As described immediately above, Messrs. Mathrani, Dunham, Yazbeck, Gidumal and Jahansouz have provisions in their respective employment agreements providing for certain payments and benefits upon the termination of their respective employment by WeWork without cause or, other than for Mr. Yazbeck, due to resignation for good reason or upon their death. In addition, as described above in the Equity Grants section of the Compensation Discussion & Analysis, prior to the 2021 modification of the performance-based stock options, for the named executive officers other than Mr. Mathrani, upon an involuntary termination any earned, but unvested portion of the options would have continued to vest as if the individual had remained employed; no portion of the options were earned as of December 31, 2020.

The table below quantifies the compensation and benefits that would have become payable to these named executive officers if his employment had terminated on December 31, 2020, (i) without cause or due to resignation for good reason or (ii) due to death. None of our arrangements with these named executive officers provide for any benefits upon a change in control.

- (1) The amounts in this column reflect 12 months of base salary (or, for Mr. Yazbeck, 6 months of base salary plus pay in lieu of 6 months' notice) in the event of an involuntary termination, and a pro-rated bonus payment for the year of termination in the event of an involuntary termination or upon death.
- (2) The amounts in this column reflect 12 months of continued health care coverage at active employee rates.
- (3) The amounts in this column reflect the incremental value that would have been recognized for accounting purposes as a result of an extension of the exercise period applicable to each individual's vested and outstanding stock options as of December 31, 2020, until 10 days following the lock-up period after a public listing. Neither Mr. Mathrani nor Mr. Gidumal had any vested stock options as of December 31, 2020.
- (4) Although 1,500,000 time-based options to purchase shares of WeWork's Class A common stock at $2.10 per share would have become vested upon an involuntary termination or upon death, no amount is reported in this column because the fair value of a share of WeWork Class A Common Stock, as of December 31, 2020, was $2.09 based on a third-party valuation report and, as a result, these options were all underwater. In addition, no incremental value would have been recognized for accounting purposes as a result of the accelerated vesting.
- (5) For Mr. Yazbeck, the amounts above would have been paid or provided in British pounds and have been converted for purposes of this presentation at an exchange rate of USD $1.36 per GBP £1.00, which was the currency conversion rate as of December 31, 2020.
- (6) No amount is reported in this column, because Mr. Gidumal was not entitled to any accelerated equity vesting as of December 31, 2021. On August 2, 2021, Mr. Gidumal's employment agreement was amended to provide that, upon an involuntary termination, any unmet service-based vesting condition with respect to his equity awards will be deemed satisfied as of the termination date as described above.

Ms. Ross retired on October 30, 2020, and did not receive any termination pay or benefits.

Mr. Minson elected to terminate his employment via a voluntary resignation dated April 1, 2020. In connection with such voluntary resignation, Mr. Minson entered into an agreement and general release, dated April 1, 2020, with a WeWork subsidiary (the “Minson Agreement”) that provided him with, subject to his execution and non-revocation of the Minson Agreement, (i) a lump sum severance payment equal to $8.3 million and (ii) continued health care coverage at active employee rates for 12 months following termination (or, if earlier, until he becomes eligible for group health insurance coverage through a subsequent employer or ceases to be eligible for COBRA coverage for any reason). The Minson Agreement also provided him with an extension of the exercise period applicable to certain of his vested stock options until the earlier of (x) 1 year following the date on which WeWork becomes publicly listed and (y) 10 years following the grant date, and the vesting of his 22,727 WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units on the termination date. In addition, a WeWork subsidiary entered into a consulting agreement with Mr. Minson pursuant to which he received a fee of $1 and vested into an additional 96,586 options to purchase WeWork Class A Common Stock at an exercise price of $7.28 per share.

Mr. Gunningham elected to terminate his employment via a voluntary resignation dated April 17, 2020. In connection with such voluntary resignation, Mr. Gunningham entered into an agreement and general release, dated April 17, 2020, with a WeWork subsidiary (the “Gunningham Agreement”) that provided him with, subject to his execution and non-revocation of the Gunningham Agreement, (i) a lump sum severance payment equal to $8.3 million, the after-tax amount of which would be applied towards repayment of his loans from WeWork, (ii) forgiveness of the remaining loan amount of $1,134,805.56 and a payment to reimburse him for taxes paid in connection with the loan forgiveness and (iii) continued health care coverage at active employee rates for 12 months following termination (or, if earlier, until he becomes eligible for group health insurance coverage through a subsequent employer or ceases to be eligible for COBRA coverage for any reason).

Mr. Miropolski’s employment was terminated on October 30, 2020, by mutual agreement. In connection with such termination, Mr. Miropolski signed a settlement agreement with a WeWork subsidiary containing a general release of claims (the “Miropolski Agreement”) that provided him with a lump-sum cash payment of $1,911,062 consisting of severance, pay in lieu of contractual notice entitlement and a prorated bonus. The Miropolski Agreement also provided him with an extension of the exercise period applicable to his vested stock options generally until the earlier of (x) 10 days following the lock-up period after a public listing of WeWork or (y) 10 years following the grant date, the forgiveness of $4,916,427 due to WeWork under an outstanding loan, and a lump-sum cash payment of $6,856,509 to reimburse him for taxes paid in connection with certain loan amounts that were forgiven previously in 2020. On July 2, 2021, WeWork’s Compensation Committee approved a further extension of the exercise period until the earlier of (x) 30 days following the lock-up period (if any) after a public listing of WeWork or (y) 10 years following the grant date. This further extension applied to all former employees who hold options that would otherwise expire 10 days following the lock-up period (if any). The amounts described in this paragraph would have been paid or provided in British pounds and have been converted for purposes of this presentation at an exchange rate of USD $1.36 per GBP £1.00, which was the currency conversion rate as of December 31, 2020.

2020 Director Compensation Table

None of WeWork’s current non-employee directors received any cash compensation for their services in 2020, nor did we grant any equity awards to them in 2020. Former non-employee directors, Alexander Dimitrief and Frederick Arnold, received a fee of $250,000 each for their service from May 2020 to July 2020. Following the effectiveness of this registration statement, we intend to adopt, approve and implement a compensation program that consists of cash retainer fees and equity awards for our non-employee directors.

It is also anticipated that, following completion of the Business Combination, certain WeWork directors may be compensated for director services provided prior to the Business Combination. As of the date hereof, no determination has been made with respect to whether and to what extent such compensation will be provided.

BENEFICIAL OWNERSHIP OF SECURITIES

The following table sets forth information regarding (i) the beneficial ownership of BowX Common Stock as of September 14, 2021 and (ii) the expected beneficial ownership of shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock immediately following consummation of the Business Combination (assuming a “no redemption” scenario and assuming a “redemption” scenario as described below) by:

- each person who is known to be the beneficial owner of more than 5% of BowX Common Stock or is expected to be the beneficial owner of more than 5% of shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock post-Business Combination;
- each of BowX’s current executive officers and directors;
- each person who will become an executive officer or director of New WeWork;
- all executive officers and directors of BowX pre-Business Combination, as a group; and
- all executive officers and directors of New WeWork, as a group.

Beneficial ownership is determined according to the rules of the SEC, which generally provide that a person has beneficial ownership of a security if he, she or it possesses sole or shared voting or investment power over that security or the right to acquire such power within 60 days.

The beneficial ownership of BowX Common Stock pre-Business Combination is based on 60,375,000 shares of BowX Common Stock issued and outstanding as of September 14, 2021, which includes an aggregate of 48,300,000 shares of BowX Class A Common Stock and 12,075,000 shares of BowX Class B Common Stock outstanding as of such date.

The expected beneficial ownership of shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock post-Business Combination assumes two scenarios:

- (i) a “no redemption” scenario where (i) no public stockholders exercise their redemption rights in connection with the Business Combination or our extension proposal and (ii) New WeWork issues 558,479,201 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock and 19,926,267 shares of New WeWork Class C Common Stock to WeWork Stockholders as consideration for shares of WeWork Common Stock held by WeWork Stockholders immediately prior to the Business Combination; and
- (ii) a “redemption” scenario where (i) all 48,300,000 outstanding shares of BowX Class A Common Stock are redeemed in connection with the Business Combination and (ii) New WeWork issues 558,479,201 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock and 19,926,267 shares of New WeWork Class C Common Stock to WeWork Stockholders as consideration for shares of WeWork Common Stock held by WeWork Stockholders immediately prior to the Business Combination.

Based on the foregoing assumptions, assuming forfeiture of the 3,000,000 shares of Class B Common Stock held by Sponsor and certain other persons as required by the terms of the Sponsor Support Agreement and including the 80,000,000 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock issued in connection with the PIPE Investment, we estimate that there would be 695,854,201 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock issued and outstanding immediately following the consummation of the Business Combination in the “no redemption” scenario, and 647,554,201 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock issued and outstanding immediately following the consummation of the Business Combination in the “redemption” scenario. If the actual facts are different from the foregoing assumptions, ownership figures in the combined company and the columns under Post-Business Combination in the table that follows will be different.

The following table assumes no exercise of any public warrants or private placement warrants that will remain outstanding post-Business Combination.

Unless otherwise indicated, BowX believes that all persons named below have sole voting and investment power with respect to the voting securities indicated in the table below and the corresponding footnotes as being beneficially owned by them.

CERTAIN RELATIONSHIPS AND RELATED PERSON TRANSACTIONS

BowX Acquisition Corp.

Founder Stock

In May 2020, BowX issued Vivek Ranadivé 10,062,500 shares of BowX Class B Common Stock in exchange for a capital contribution of $25,000 (such shares, the “Founder Shares”). Prior to that initial investment of $25,000, BowX had no assets, tangible or intangible. The number of Founder Shares issued was determined based on the expectation that such stock would represent 20% of the outstanding shares upon completion of the initial public offering. In July 2020, Mr. Ranadivé transferred certain Founder Shares to the Sponsor, along with other individuals and entities, at the same price originally paid for such shares. In August 2020, BowX effected a stock dividend of 0.2 shares of BowX Class B Common Stock for each share of BowX Class B Common Stock outstanding, resulting in such parties holding an aggregate of 12,075,000 Founder Shares. Upon consummation of the Business Combination, Mr. Ranadivé will also transfer up to an aggregate of 1,811,250 Founder Shares to certain funds managed by BlackRock, Inc. for the same price originally paid for such shares.

On July 16, 2020, BowX, Vivek Ranadivé, Murray Rode and BlackRock Credit Alpha Master Fund, L.P. (“Alpha”), a fund managed by BlackRock, Inc., entered into a subscription agreement whereby Alpha agreed to purchase 1,071,656 founder shares and 1,427,100 private placement warrants. The closing of the purchase of the private placement warrants occurred at the closing of the IPO of BowX. The closing of the purchase of the founder shares from Mr. Ranadivé is to occur at the closing of the Business Combination. The price to be paid by BlackRock to Mr. Ranadivé is $0.002 per share. Subsequently, BowX issued a 20% dividend so the number of founder shares increased to 1,285,987.

On July 16, 2020, BowX, Vivek Ranadivé, Murray Rode and HC NCBR Fund (“NCBR”), a fund managed by BlackRock, Inc., entered into a subscription agreement whereby NCBR agreed to purchase 437,719 founder shares and 582,900 private placement warrants. The closing of the purchase of the private placement warrants occurred at the closing of the IPO of BowX. The closing of the purchase of the founder shares from Mr. Ranadivé is to occur at the closing of the Business Combination. The price to be paid by BlackRock to Mr. Ranadivé is $0.002 per share. Subsequently, BowX issued a 20% dividend so the number of founder shares increased to 525,263.

The Founder Shares (including the BowX Class A Common Stock issuable upon exercise thereof pursuant to the Existing Charter) may not, subject to certain limited exceptions, be transferred, assigned or sold by the holder. The Sponsor, Mr. Ranadivé and the other holders of the Founder Shares, excluding funds and accounts managed by subsidiaries of BlackRock, Inc., have entered into agreements with the Company, pursuant to which they have waived their rights to participate in any redemption with respect to their Founder Shares in the event BowX does not complete a business combination within the required time period; provided however, that if such persons hold public stock, or acquire public stock prior to the Business Combination, they will be entitled to a pro rata share of the trust account upon the Company’s redemption or liquidation in the event that BowX does not complete a business combination before August 7, 2022. In the event of such distribution, it is possible that the per share value of the trust account will be less than the price per BowX Unit sold in the initial public offering. Certain of BowX’s directors and executive officers, including Vivek Ranadivé and Murray Rode, also have a direct or indirect economic interest in such private placement warrants and Founder Shares owned by the Sponsor.

The 9,075,000 shares of New WeWork Common Stock into which the 9,075,000 shares of BowX Class B Common Stock held by the Sponsor, following its forfeiture of 3,000,000 shares of Class B Common Stock in accordance with the Sponsor Support Agreement, will automatically convert in connection with the First Merger, if unrestricted and freely tradable, would have had an aggregate market value of $90.66 million based upon the closing price of $9.99 per shares of public stock on Nasdaq on September 17, 2021, the most recent practicable date prior to the date of this proxy statement/prospectus. However, given that such shares of New WeWork Common Stock will be subject to certain restrictions, including those described above, BowX believes such shares have less value.

Private Placement Warrants

Simultaneously with the consummation of the initial public offering, BowX consummated the private placement of 6,933,333 warrants at a price of $1.50 per private placement warrant, generating total proceeds of $10.4 million and incurring offering costs of approximately $8,000, for the Sponsor, certain of BowX's officers and directors and certain funds and accounts managed by subsidiaries of BlackRock, Inc. On August 13, 2020, simultaneously with the closing of the sale of additional units pursuant to the underwriters' exercise of its over-allotment option, BowX sold an additional 840,000 private placement warrants to the initial stockholders and the BlackRock, Inc. funds ("BlackRock funds"). As of the date of the Merger Agreement, there were 7,773,333 private placement warrants issued and outstanding. The purchasers of the private placement warrants have agreed not to transfer, assign or sell any of the securities purchased in the private placement, including the underlying shares of BowX Common Stock (except to certain permitted transferees), until thirty days after the consummation of the Company's initial business combination. If BowX does not complete a business combination before August 7, 2022, such private placement warrants will expire worthless. Certain of BowX's directors and executive officers, including Vivek Ranadivé and Murray Rode, also have a direct or indirect economic interest in such private placement warrants owned by the Sponsor.

The 7,773,333 New WeWork warrants into which the 7,773,333 private placement warrants held by the Sponsor will automatically convert in connection with the First Merger, if unrestricted and freely tradable, would have had an aggregate market value of approximately $14.69 million based upon the closing price of $1.89 per public warrant on Nasdaq on September 17, 2021, the most recent practicable date prior to the date of this proxy statement/prospectus.

Related Party Loans and Indemnification

On May 26, 2020, Vivek Ranadivé agreed to loan BowX up to an aggregate of $150,000 pursuant to an unsecured promissory note (the "Note") to cover expenses related to the initial public offering. This loan was payable without interest upon the completion of the initial public offering. BowX borrowed approximately $150,000 under the Note and received additional advances of approximately $45,000 of funds from Mr. Ranadivé, for a total outstanding loan of approximately $195,000. The Company fully repaid the Note and the advances to such officer on August 7, 2020.

In order to fund working capital deficiencies or finance transaction costs in connection with an intended initial Business Combination, the initial stockholders, officers and directors and their affiliates may, but are not obligated to, loan the Company funds as may be required (the "Working Capital Loans"). Up to $1.5 million of such Working Capital Loans may be convertible into warrants of the post-Business Combination entity at a price of $1.50 per warrant at the option of the lender. Such warrants would be identical to the private placement warrants. Except for the foregoing, the terms of such loans, if any, have not been determined and no written agreements exist with respect to such loans to date. As of March 31, 2021, the Company had no borrowings under the Working Capital Loans. Except as described above, the terms of such loans, if any, have not been determined and no written agreements exist with respect to such loans. Prior to the completion of the Business Combination, BowX does not expect to seek loans from parties other than the Sponsor and Sponsor Persons, or their affiliates.

Other Material Interests Relating to the Business Combination

Mr. Ranadivé, a current director of BowX, is expected to be a director of New WeWork after the consummation of the Business Combination. As such, in the future, Mr. Ranadivé may receive fees for his service as a director, which may consist of cash or stock-based awards, and any other remuneration that New WeWork's board of directors determines to pay to its non-employee directors.

BowX's existing directors and officers will be eligible for continued indemnification and continued coverage under BowX's directors' and officers' liability insurance after the First Merger and pursuant to the Merger Agreement.

BowX's officers and directors, and their affiliates are entitled to reimbursement of out-of-pocket expenses incurred by them in connection with certain activities on BowX's behalf, such as identifying and investigating possible business targets and business combinations. However, if BowX fails to consummate a business combination by August 7, 2022, they will not have any claim against the trust account for reimbursement. There have not been any material out-of-pocket expenses subject to reimbursement and BowX does not anticipate any such expenses prior to Closing. BowX's officers and directors, and their affiliates, expect to incur (or guaranty) approximately $75.0 million of transaction expenses (including the deferred underwriting commissions being held in the trust account). Accordingly, BowX may not be able to reimburse these expenses if the Business Combination or another business combination, is not completed by such date.

BowX Policies and Procedures for Related Party Transactions

BowX's code of ethics requires us to avoid, wherever possible, all related party transactions that could result in actual or potential conflicts of interests, except under guidelines approved by the board of directors (or the audit committee). Related-party transactions are defined as transactions in which (1) the aggregate amount involved will or may be expected to exceed $120,000 in any calendar year, (2) BowX or any of its subsidiaries is a participant, and (3) any (a) executive officer, director or nominee for election as a director, (b) greater than 5% beneficial owner of BowX Common Stock, or (c) immediate family member, of the persons referred to in clauses (a) and (b), has or will have a direct or indirect material interest (other than solely as a result of being a director or a less than 10% beneficial owner of another entity). A conflict of interest situation can arise when a person takes actions or has interests that may make it difficult to perform his or her work objectively and effectively. Conflicts of interest may also arise if a person, or a member of his or her family, receives improper personal benefits as a result of his or her position.

BowX's audit committee, pursuant to its written charter, is responsible for reviewing and approving related-party transactions to the extent BowX enters into such transactions. The audit committee will consider all relevant factors when determining whether to approve a related party transaction, including whether the related party transaction is on terms no less favorable to BowX than terms generally available from an unaffiliated third-party under the same or similar circumstances and the extent of the related party's interest in the transaction. No director may participate in the approval of any transaction in which he is a related party, but that director is required to provide the audit committee with all material information concerning the transaction. BowX also require each of its directors and executive officers to complete a directors' and officers' questionnaire that elicits information about related party transactions. These procedures are intended to determine whether any such related party transaction impairs the independence of a director or presents a conflict of interest on the part of a director, employee or officer.

WeWork

Stockholders' Agreement

WeWork has entered into a stockholders' agreement with certain holders of its capital stock. The WeWork Amended and Restated Stockholders' Agreement, dated as of February 25, 2021, (the "WeWork Amended and Restated Stockholders' Agreement"), provides for one member of WeWork's board of directors to be designated by Benchmark, one member of the board of directors to be designated by Hony Capital, five members of the board of directors to be designated by SBG (at least one of which may be designated by SVFE, two members of the board of directors to be designated by certain stockholders of WeWork, other than SBG and Mr. Neumann, and the remaining member to be Lew Frankfort until the consummation of the Business Combination. With respect to Mr. Neumann, commencing in February 2022, he will have the right to observe or designate an observer to attend meetings of WeWork's board of directors pursuant to an agreement governing future observer rights entered into in connection with the Settlement Agreement described under "Certain Relationships and Related Person Transactions — WeWork — SoftBank Transactions — Tender Offer and Settlement Agreement."

The WeWork Amended and Restated Stockholders' Agreement also grants to WeWork a ten-day right of first refusal over most shares of its WeWork Class A Common Stock, allowing WeWork to purchase such shares on the same terms before the holder may sell the shares to other parties. In the event that WeWork declines to exercise its right of first refusal, the WeWork Amended and Restated Stockholders' Agreement also grants to major holders of its senior preferred stock a similar fifteen-day right of first refusal, or the right to sell their own shares, on a pro rata basis, on the same terms. Since January 1, 2020, WeWork has waived, on certain occasions, its right of first refusal in connection with the transfer by certain of its directors, executive officers and holders of more than 5% of a class of its capital stock and members of their immediate family.

WeWork has also entered into agreements with certain holders of its securities, including Rhône Group L.L.C. and its affiliates (other than the WeCap Investment Group) (the "Rhône Group"), an entity affiliated with Steven Langman, a former director, J.P. Morgan Chase Bank, N.A., SBG and Mr. Neumann, granting these entities and this individual certain information and inspection rights with respect to WeWork's business and/or the right to send a designee as a non-voting participant to meetings of its board of directors and board committees, which terminate upon the closing of the Business Combination.

The WeWork Amended and Restated Stockholders' Agreement will terminate upon the closing of the Business Combination and be replaced by the Stockholders Agreement. For additional information, see the section entitled "BCA Proposal — Related Agreements – Stockholders Agreement."

Registration Rights Agreement

In connection with the consummation of the Business Combination, New WeWork and certain of its stockholders, including certain holders of at least 5% of a class of its common stock and entities affiliated with certain of New WeWork's current and former directors and executive officers, are entering into the Registration Rights Agreement. Pursuant to the Registration Rights Agreement, these parties will have customary registration rights, including demand and piggy-back rights, subject to cooperation and cut-back provisions. For additional information, see the section entitled "BCA Proposal — Related Agreements — Registration Rights Agreement."

Indemnification Agreements

The WeWork Amended and Restated Certificate of Incorporation provides that WeWork will indemnify its directors and officers to the fullest extent permitted by law, and WeWork has entered into agreements with certain of its existing directors and all of its existing executive officers (and certain former directors and executive officers of WeWork and its predecessors) to that effect. WeWork is also party to an indemnification agreement with Benchmark that predates the conversion of WeWork Companies LLC to WeWork Companies Inc. in May 2013. The existing indemnification agreement will terminate upon the closing of the Business Combination and be replaced by new indemnification agreements for the directors and executive officers of New WeWork.

WeWork also has agreed to indemnify certain current and former directors and executive officers and shareholders in (i) the agreement, dated October 22, 2019, by and among WeWork and certain of its affiliates, Adam Neumann and his affiliate We Holdings LLC, governing certain terms of Mr. Neumann's ceasing to serve as a director of WeWork and other transactions involving Mr. Neumann in relation to the 2019 Master Transaction Agreement (the "2019 Omnibus Agreement"), (ii) the agreement, dated October 22, 2019, by and among WeWork, SBG, SoftBank Vision Fund, Adam Neumann and his affiliate We Holdings LLC for additional equity and debt financing and a tender offer by an affiliate of SBG, as well as a number of changes to WeWork's corporate governance, including changes to the voting rights associated with certain series of WeWork's capital stock (the “2019 Master Transaction Agreement”), and (iii) the Settlement Agreement. WeWork has agreed to reimburse indemnified parties for certain legal expenses incurred. In 2020, WeWork paid approximately $14 million in legal fees related to these indemnifications.

Directors and Officers

Mr. Neumann currently has a promissory note from SBG with an outstanding principal amount of, $423.0 million as of December 31, 2020. In February 2021, in connection with the Settlement Agreement (as defined below), Mr. Neumann and SBG amended and restated the promissory note such that the outstanding principal amount was increased to $431.5 million to reflect the interest accrued on the principal promissory note since the original issuance date of the promissory note. The promissory note is secured by a pledge of approximately 19,067,383 shares of WeWork’s Class A Common Stock owned by Mr. Neumann’s affiliate We Holdings LLC and 24,081,668 WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units in WeWork Partnership.

In April 2020, WeWork forgave certain loans for Sebastian Gunningham, WeWork’s former Co-Chief Executive Officer, and for Eugen Miropolski, WeWork’s former Chief Operating Officer, International, in connection with a former employment arrangement and termination arrangement, respectively. Each of Mr. Gunningham and Mr. Miropolski agreed to forfeit and cancel certain equity awards in exchange for the loan forgiveness.

SoftBank Transactions

Senior Secured Notes

In August 2020, WeWork Companies LLC and WW Co-Obligor Inc. entered into a senior secured note purchase agreement with Starbright WW LP (the “Note Purchaser”), an affiliate of SBG, for up to an aggregate principal amount of $1.1 billion of senior secured debt in the form of 12.50% senior secured notes (the “SoftBank Senior Secured Notes”). The agreement allows WeWork Companies LLC to borrow once every thirty days up to the maximum remaining capacity with minimum draws of $50.0 million. The SoftBank Senior Secured Notes will mature four years from the first draw. WeWork Companies LLC had the ability to draw for six months starting from the date, of the senior secured note purchase agreement, and WeWork Companies LLC extended this draw period for an additional six months by delivery of an extension notice to the Note Purchaser in January 2021 pursuant to the terms of the agreement. As of June 30, 2021 and December 31, 2020, no draw notices had been delivered pursuant to the senior secured note purchase agreement. On August 11, 2021, WeWork Companies LLC, WW-Co-Obligor Inc. and the Note Purchaser executed an amendment to the senior secured note purchase agreement governing the SoftBank Senior Secured Notes, which (i) amends the maturity date of any notes to be issued thereunder from four (4) years from the date of first drawing to February 12, 2023 and (ii) extends the expiration of the draw period from August 12, 2021 to September 30, 2021.

On March 25, 2021, WeWork Companies LLC and the Note Purchaser entered into a letter agreement pursuant to which WeWork Companies LLC and the Note Purchaser have agreed to amend and restate the terms of the senior secured note purchase agreement that governs the SoftBank Senior Secured Notes (as amended and restated, the “A&R NPA”) on the earlier of (i) the Closing and (ii) August 12, 2021. The A&R NPA will allow WeWork Companies LLC to borrow up to an aggregate principal amount of $550,000,000 of senior secured debt in the form of new 7.5% senior secured notes (the “Amended Senior Secured Notes”). It is a condition to the execution of the A&R NPA that any outstanding SoftBank Senior Secured Notes (if any) be redeemed, repurchased or otherwise repaid and canceled at a price of 101% of the principal amount thereof plus accrued and unpaid interest. The A&R NPA will allow WeWork Companies LLC to borrow once every 30 days with minimum draws of $50.0 million. The Amended Senior Secured Notes will mature no later than February 12, 2023, or, if earlier, 18 months from the closing of the Business Combination. On August 11, 2021, WeWork Companies LLC and the Note Purchaser executed an amendment to the letter agreement pursuant to which WeWork Companies LLC and the Note Purchaser have agreed to enter into the A&R NPA on the earlier of (i) the Closing and (ii) September 30, 2021.

Senior Unsecured Notes

On December 27, 2019, WeWork Companies LLC, WW Co-Obligor Inc., a co-obligor under our SoftBank Senior Secured Notes, and the Note Purchaser, entered into a master senior unsecured note purchase agreement (as amended from time to time and as supplemented by that certain waiver dated as of July 7, 2020, the “Master Note Purchase Agreement”). Pursuant to the terms of the Master Note Purchase Agreement, WeWork Companies LLC may deliver from time to time to the Note Purchaser draw notices and accordingly sell to the Note Purchaser SoftBank Senior Unsecured Notes up to an aggregate original principal amount of $2.2 billion. As of June 30, 2021, WeWork had delivered draw notices in respect of $2.2 billion under the Master Note Purchase Agreement and an aggregate principal amount of $2.2 billion of SoftBank Senior Unsecured Notes were issued to the Note Purchaser. The SoftBank Senior Unsecured Notes have a stated interest rate of 5.0%. However because the associated warrants obligate WeWork to issue shares in the future, the implied interest rate upon closing, assuming the full commitment is drawn, was approximately 11.69%. The SoftBank Senior Unsecured Notes will mature in July 2025.

Company Credit Agreement and Reimbursement Agreement

On December 27, 2019, WeWork Companies LLC entered into a credit agreement (as amended by the First Amendment, dated as of February 10, 2020, and as further amended by the Second Amendment to the Credit Agreement and First Amendment to the Security Agreement, dated as of April 1, 2020, the “Company Credit Agreement”), among WeWork Companies LLC, as co-obligor, SBG, as co-obligor, Goldman Sachs International Bank, as administrative agent, and the issuing creditors and letter of credit participants party thereto. The Company Credit Agreement provides for a $1.75 billion senior secured letter of credit facility (the “2020 LC Facility”), which was made available on February 10, 2020, for the support of WeWork Companies LLC’s or its subsidiaries’ obligations. The termination date of the 2020 LC Facility is February 10, 2023. As of December 31, 2020, $1.4 billion of stand-by letters of credit were outstanding under the 2020 LC Facility, of which $143.7 million has been utilized to secure letters of credit that remain outstanding under WeWork Companies LLC’s previous credit facility (the “2019 Credit Facility”) and letter of credit facility (the “2019 LC Facility”), which were terminated in 2020. As of June 30, 2021, there was $84.7 million in remaining letter of credit availability under the 2020 LC Facility.

The 2020 LC Facility is guaranteed by substantially all of the domestic wholly owned subsidiaries of WeWork Companies LLC (collectively, the “Guarantors”) and is secured by substantially all the assets of WeWork Companies LLC and the Guarantors, in each case, subject to customary exceptions. The Company Credit Agreement and related documentation contain customary reimbursement provisions, representations, warranties, events of default and affirmative covenants (including with respect to cash management) for letter of credit facilities of this type. The negative covenants applicable to WeWork Companies LLC and its Restricted Subsidiaries (as defined in the Company Credit Agreement) are limited to restrictions on liens (subject to exceptions substantially consistent with the 7.875% Senior Notes due 2025), changes in line of business and disposition of all or substantially all of the assets of WeWork Companies LLC.

In connection with the 2020 LC Facility, WeWork Companies LLC also entered into a Reimbursement Agreement, dated as of February 10, 2020, (as amended by the First Amendment, dated as of April 1, 2020, the “Company/SBG Reimbursement Agreement”), with SBG and the Guarantors pursuant to which (i) SBG agreed to pay substantially all of the fees and expenses payable in connection with the Company Credit Agreement, (ii) WeWork agreed to reimburse SBG for certain of such fees and expenses (including fronting fees up to an amount not to exceed 0.125% on the undrawn and unexpired amount of the letters of credit) as well as pay to SBG a fee of 5.475% on the amount of all outstanding letters of credit and (iii) the Guarantors agreed to guarantee the obligations of WeWork Companies LLC under the Company/SBG Reimbursement Agreement. During the year ended December 31, 2020, WeWork recognized $69.7 million in interest expense in connection with amounts payable to SBG pursuant to the Company/SBG Reimbursement Agreement.

On March 25, 2021, WeWork Companies LLC, the SoftBank Obligor and BowX entered into a letter agreement (the “Credit Support Letter Agreement”) pursuant to which SBG has committed to consent to an extension of the termination date of the 2020 LC Facility from February 10, 2023, to no later than February 10, 2024, (the “LC Facility Termination Extension”), subject to the terms and conditions set forth therein. Any LC Facility Termination Extension will require the requisite consent of the lenders thereunder.

Warrants

In connection with the SoftBank Senior Unsecured Notes and the 2020 LC Facility, WeWork is obligated to issue shares to the SoftBank Obligor in the future pursuant to the SoftBank Senior Unsecured Notes Warrant and the 2020 LC Facility Warrant (together with the SoftBank Senior Unsecured Warrant, the “Penny Warrants”) for 136,009,158 shares of Series H-3 Convertible Preferred Stock or Series H-4 Convertible Preferred Stock, which Penny Warrants were subject to certain antidilution adjustments. The Penny Warrants became exercisable in April 2020 and expire on December 27, 2024. In February 2021, the SoftBank Obligor partially exercised the Penny Warrants for the issuance of 129,887,919 shares of Series H-3 Convertible Preferred Stock and WeWork received approximately $1.3 million in proceeds relating to the payment of the $0.01 per share exercise price. Penny Warrants remain outstanding for 6,121,239 shares of Series H-3 Convertible Preferred Stock or Series H-4 Convertible Preferred Stock. In August 2021, the Penny Warrants were transferred to a wholly-owned subsidiary of SBG.

Concurrently with and contingent upon the Closing, BowX will issue to SBWW or its designees the First Warrant to purchase a number of shares of BowX Common Stock (rounded to the nearest whole share) equal to 47,366,404 multiplied by the Exchange Ratio, subject to the terms set forth therein, at a price per share equal to $0.01 divided by the Exchange Ratio (rounded to the nearest full cent). The First Warrant will expire on the tenth anniversary of the Closing. Although the First Warrant will be issued by BowX, solely for purposes of calculating the Exchange Ratio used in the Business Combination, the First Warrant is treated in the same manner as a hypothetical outstanding warrant to purchase 47,366,404 shares of WeWork Class A Common Stock at an exercise price of $0.01 per share.

The First Warrant issued to SBWW is an inducement to obtain SBWW’s, and its affiliates’, support in effectuating the automatic conversion of WeWork Preferred Stock on a one-to-one basis to WeWork Common Stock. At the Exchange Ratio, the First Warrant will enable SBWW to purchase 39,115,176 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock. Assuming a price of $10 per share, the First Warrant will have an estimated fair value of approximately $391.2 million. A copy of the form of First Warrant is attached as Exhibit 10.19 to this proxy statement/prospectus.

Additionally, concurrently with and contingent upon the LC Facility Termination Extension, BowX will issue to the SoftBank Obligor or its designees one or more warrants (collectively, the “LC Warrant”) to purchase a number of shares of BowX Common Stock (rounded to the nearest whole share) equal to 14,431,991 multiplied by the Exchange Ratio, subject to the terms set forth therein, at a price per share equal to $0.01 divided by the Exchange Ratio (rounded to the nearest full cent). The LC Warrant would expire on the tenth anniversary of the date of issuance.

The LC Warrant issued to SoftBank Obligor as consideration for the SoftBank Obligor agreeing to continue to act as co-obligor under WeWork’s existing LC Facility for the extension period of one year. At the Exchange Ratio, the LC Warrant will enable SoftBank Obligor to purchase 11,917,938 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock. Assuming a price of $10 per share, the LC Warrant will have an estimated fair value of approximately $119.2 million. The Company will record the estimated fair value of the LC Warrant as a deferred asset (guarantee premium), which will be amortized to interest expense over the amended term of the letter of credit facility, in a comparable fashion to a commitment or access fee paid to obtain a revolving credit arrangement. A copy of the form of LC Warrant is attached as Exhibit 10.20 to this proxy statement/prospectus.

2019 Master Transaction Agreement Payment

In the six months ended June 30, 2021, WeWork paid SBG $35.5 million of an up to $50.0 million expense reimbursement required by the 2019 Master Transaction Agreement upon the closing of the debt financing contemplated by such agreement.

Tender Offer and Settlement Agreement

In October 2019, in connection with the SoftBank Transactions, WeWork entered into an agreement with SBG pursuant to which SBWW launched a tender offer in November 2019 to purchase up to $3.0 billion of WeWork's equity securities (including securities underlying vested opinions, exercisable warrants and convertible notes) from eligible equity holders of WeWork, at a price of $19.19 per share (the "2020 Tender Offer").

The 2020 Tender Offer was scheduled to expire in April 2020. The closure of the 2020 Tender Offer was contingent on satisfaction of certain conditions as of the expiration date.

In April 2020, SBWW terminated and withdrew its offer to purchase the equity securities of WeWork because it asserted the failure of various conditions to its obligations to close the 2020 Tender Offer. The Special Committee, acting in the name of WeWork, filed a complaint in the Court of Chancery of the State of Delaware against SBG and SoftBank Vision Fund asserting claims in relation to SBG's withdrawal of the 2020 Tender Offer. Separately, Mr. Neumann and WE Holdings LLC filed a similar lawsuit against SBG and SoftBank Vision Fund. On February 25, 2021, all parties entered into the Settlement Agreement, the terms of which resolved the 2020 Tender Offer litigation and resulted in the claims brought by the Special Committee, acting in the name of WeWork, and by Mr. Neumann and WE Holdings LLC being dismissed. The Settlement Agreement includes the following:

- The launch of a new tender offer. Pursuant to the Settlement Agreement, on March 10, 2021, SBWW launched a tender offer to acquire $921.6 million of WeWork's equity securities (including certain equity awards, exercisable warrants and convertible notes) from eligible equity holders of WeWork, at a price of $19.19 per share (the "2021 Tender Offer"). Mr. Neumann, his affiliate We Holdings LLC and certain of their related parties were excluded from the 2021 Tender Offer and could not tender shares. For more information about the agreements between Mr. Neumann and SBG in connection with the Settlement Agreement, see Note 27 of the notes to WeWork's consolidated financial statements included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus. The 2021 Tender Offer closed in part on April 12, 2021, and in full on April 15, 2021, and SBWW acquired an aggregate of 48,025,659 shares (including shares issued upon exercise and conversion of certain equity awards, exercisable warrants and convertible notes).

- Certain governance changes. The transactions contemplated by the Settlement Agreement also included the elimination of WeWork's multi-class voting structure. As a result of the WeWork Amended and Restated Certificate of Incorporation and the transactions contemplated by the Settlement Agreement, on February 26, 2021, all of the outstanding shares of WeWork's Class B Common Stock automatically converted into shares of WeWork's Class A Common Stock and the shares of WeWork's Class C Common Stock were adjusted to have one vote per share, instead of three (the "WeWork Class B Conversion"). The WeWork Amended and Restated Certificate of Incorporation provides that if, following the WeWork Class B Conversion, new shares of WeWork Class B Common Stock are issued pursuant to (i) the exercise of options to purchase shares of WeWork Class B Common Stock outstanding as of the date of the WeWork Class B Conversion, (ii) securities convertible into shares of WeWork Class B Common Stock outstanding as of the date of the WeWork Class B Conversion, and (iii) other circumstances which are specified in the WeWork Amended and Restated Certificate of Incorporation, such new shares will be automatically converted into shares of WeWork Class A Common Stock immediately following the time such new shares of WeWork Class B Common Stock are issued. These governance changes are relevant during the period prior to the closing of the Business Combination, and after the closing of the Business Combination, the Proposed Charter will apply to shares of capital stock held in New WeWork. For additional information, see "Organizational Document Proposals."

- Mr. Neumann settlement payment. In connection with the Settlement Agreement, SBG and its affiliates paid Adam Neumann an amount equal to $105.6 million. No expense was recorded in WeWork's consolidated statement of operations for the three-months ended March 31, 2021, as it does not benefit WeWork.

- Mr. Neumann sale of stock to SBG. In connection with the Settlement Agreement, SBG and its affiliates purchased 30,139,971 shares of Class B Common Stock of the Company from We Holdings LLC, which is Adam Neumann's affiliated investment vehicle, for a price per share of $19.19, representing an aggregate purchase price of $578.4 million. The Company recorded a $428.3 million expense, which represents the excess between the amount paid from a principal shareholder of WeWork to We Holdings LLC and the fair value of the stock purchased. WeWork recognized the expense in restructuring and other related costs in the consolidated statement of operations for the three-months ended March 31, 2021, with a corresponding increase in additional paid-in capital, representing a deemed capital contribution by SBG in its consolidated balance sheet.

- Mr. Neumann proxy and observer changes. In connection with the Settlement Agreement, Mr. Neumann's proxy and future right to designate directors to WeWork's board of directors were eliminated. The Amended and Restated Stockholders' Agreement eliminated all proxies by Mr. Neumann in favor of WeWork's board of directors, eliminated Mr. Neumann's right to observe meetings of WeWork's board of directors and removed Mr. Neumann's future rights to designate directors to WeWork's board of directors (which would have been available to Mr. Neumann upon elimination of his financial obligations with and to SBG). Mr. Neumann's right to observe meetings of WeWork's board of directors was replaced by a new agreement governing future observer rights, which provides that beginning on February 26, 2022, Mr. Neumann, or if requested by SBG, a designee of Mr. Neumann's (who shall be subject to SBG's approval), shall have the right to observe meetings of WeWork's (or, after the Closing, New WeWork's) board of directors (and certain committees thereof) in a non-voting observer capacity. Pursuant to this agreement, Mr. Neumann's right to observe meetings of WeWork's board of directors will become the right to observe meetings of New WeWork's board of directors (and certain committees thereof) following the closing of the Business Combination commencing in February 2022 and will terminate on the date on which Mr. Neumann ceases to beneficially own equity securities of WeWork (including WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units) representing at least 19,028,251 shares of WeWork Class A Common Stock (on an as-converted basis and as adjusted for stock splits, dividends and the like). Mr. Neumann is also entitled to receive copies of written materials provided to directors.

Although WeWork expects that Mr. Neumann or his representative may express views or may ask questions, there is no such contractual entitlement beyond attending in a customary nonvoting observer capacity, and WeWork's (or, after the closing, New WeWork's) board and committee meetings would be presided over by the relevant chairpersons and subject to such procedures governing conduct of the meeting as may be adopted by the board or relevant committee. The agreement governing the observer right does not entitle Mr. Neumann to participate in any conversations among directors outside of formal meetings of the WeWork (or, after the closing, New WeWork) board and its applicable committees. Similarly, the agreement does not give Mr. Neumann the right to influence decisions to be made or actions to be taken by the WeWork (or, after the closing, New WeWork) board or committees. Mr. Neumann will participate in meetings of the WeWork (or, after the closing, New WeWork) board and its applicable committees as a nonvoting board observer — not as a director.

The agreement governing the observer right requires that Mr. Neumann or his representative agree to hold in confidence all information provided under such agreement. WeWork (or, after the closing, New WeWork) has also reserved the right under such agreement to withhold information and exclude Mr. Neumann or his representative from any meeting or portion thereof to the extent reasonably likely to adversely affect the attorney-client privilege between WeWork (or, after the closing, New WeWork) and its counsel or result in disclosure of trade secrets or a conflict of interest, or if there has been a violation of Mr. Neumann's restrictive covenant obligations to WeWork (or, after the closing, New WeWork).

• SBG proxy agreement. On February 26, 2021, WeWork entered into a proxy agreement with SBWW which will allow SBG to voluntarily limit the combined voting power of SBG and SVFE to less than 49.90%. Pursuant to the proxy agreement, any shares of WeWork’s stock representing shares owned by SBWW that, when taken together with the voting power of all other shares of WeWork Capital stock held by SBG or SVFE represent voting power of WeWork in excess of 49.90%, will be voted in the same proportion as shares of WeWork Capital Stock not owned by SBG or SVFE. The proxy agreement will be terminated upon the closing of the Business Combination.

• Profits interest amendments. In February 2021, in connection with the Settlement Agreement, the WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units held by Mr. Neumann in the WeWork Partnership became fully vested and were amended to have a catch-up base amount of $0. The per unit distribution thresholds for Mr. Neumann’s WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units were also amended to initially be $10.00 and may be subject to downward adjustment based on trading price on the Closing Date of the Business Combination. For additional information, see “— WeWork — Profits Interest — Exchange.”

For information about the terms of the lease terminations and new non-compete agreement entered into in connection with the Settlement Agreement, see below under “— Real Estate Transactions – Mr. Neumann” and “— Non-Compete Agreement.”

In addition to the transactions and governance changes described above, the Settlement Agreement contains customary releases of claims by the parties, a commitment to continue existing indemnification arrangements and maintain insurance coverage for the benefit of Mr. Neumann with respect to his former capacities at WeWork, provisions related to confidentiality, public announcements, media inquiries and publicity concerning the Settlement Agreement or Mr. Neumann’s tenure at WeWork, and provisions concerning the intended tax treatment of certain of the payments under the Settlement Agreement.

Creator Fund

During 2018, WeWork launched a venture capital fund (the “Creator Fund”) to promote its business through award programs (currently styled as “Creator Awards”) and such other investments in its members as WeWork may determine. An affiliate of SBG, a 99.99% equity owner in the Creator Fund, committed up to $180.0 million to the Creator Fund.

In March 2019, WeWork also entered into an agreement pursuant to which an affiliate of SBG will reimburse WeWork up to $80.0 million for its performance of underwriting and production services for Creator Awards events between September 2017 and January 2021. An affiliate of SBG funded $20.0 million during 2017 and an additional $40.0 million in 2019 related to the Creator Fund events that occurred during the period from September 1, 2017, through March 31, 2019.

In September 2020, WeWork agreed to transfer its rights as managing member and all of its other rights, titles, interests, obligations and commitments in respect of the Creator Fund to an affiliate of SBG and the Creator Fund was deconsolidated. As substantially all of the net assets of the Creator Fund were previously allocated to the noncontrolling interests, no gain or loss was recognized on deconsolidation of the Creator Fund. In connection with this transaction, the parties also agreed, among other things, that WeWork would not be required to reimburse SBG for the $21.6 million Creator Awards production services reimbursement obligation payable to SBG as of December 31, 2019, as described in Note 24 of the notes to WeWork’s consolidated financial statements included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus and that WeWork would receive a share of investment returns above a specified threshold. In connection with the Sound Ventures Transaction described below, in June 2021, the parties agreed to increase the investment returns threshold. As SBG is a principal shareholder of WeWork, the forgiveness of this obligation was accounted for as a capital contribution and reclassified from liabilities to additional paid-in-capital during the year ended December 31, 2020.

Sound Ventures

In June 2021, an affiliate of SBG acquired WeWork's limited partnership interest in Sound Ventures II, L.P. Such affiliate of SBG assumed the commitment to remit approximately $2 million to Sound Ventures II, L.P. when and as called, and funded WeWork for its limited partnership interest based on already funded contributions of approximately $6 million (the "Sound Ventures Transaction").

VistaJet

In May 2020, WeWork sold its unused flight hours with VistaJet, an aviation company offering private flight services, to an affiliate of SBG at cost, through the cancellation of $1.5 million in debt.

WeWork Partnership

In July 2019, WeWork completed a reorganization into an "UP-C" structure. As a result of the reorganization, WeWork Inc. is now the ultimate holding company for the subsidiaries WeWork uses to operate its business and hold its assets.

WeWork's primary assets, held through wholly owned subsidiaries, are non-controlling "limited partner" interests and a controlling "general partner" interest in an operating partnership called the WeWork Partnership. Former members of WeWork's senior management team have also been issued non-controlling "limited partner" interests in the WeWork Partnership as part of WeWork's compensation program described below under "—WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units."

As a result of its interests in the general partner of the WeWork Partnership, and subject to certain restrictions set forth in the Partnership Agreement, WeWork Inc. generally controls all of the affairs and decision-making of the WeWork Partnership. As such, WeWork Inc. is responsible for all operational and administrative decisions of the WeWork Partnership and the day-to-day management of the WeWork Partnership's business. The general partner of the WeWork Partnership cannot be removed as the general partner of the WeWork Partnership without the approval of WeWork Inc.

Partnership interests do not have any direct voting rights with respect to WeWork Inc. However, each holder of partnership interests in the WeWork Partnership (other than direct and indirect subsidiaries of WeWork Inc.) holds one share of WeWork Class C Common Stock per partnership interest. The WeWork Class C Common Stock has one vote per share. The WeWork Class C Common Stock has no economic rights.

Subject to certain restrictions set forth in the Partnership Agreement, holders of partnership interests (other than direct and indirect subsidiaries of WeWork Inc.) may exchange their partnership interests for (at WeWork Inc.'s election) shares of WeWork Class A Common Stock or cash, as described more fully below under "—WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units." Upon the exchange of partnership interests in the WeWork Partnership for shares of WeWork Class A Common Stock or cash or the forfeiture of unvested partnership interests in the WeWork Partnership, the corresponding shares of WeWork Class C Common Stock will be redeemed.

The exchange of partnership interests as described above is taxable to the individual making such exchange and, to the extent that the individual has taxable gain on the exchange, results in a benefit to WeWork Inc. in the form of increased tax basis in WeWork's assets and therefore greater depreciation deductions. However, unlike in many UP-C structures, no holder of a profits interest or other interest in the WeWork Partnership is entitled to a "tax receivable" payment or other similar payment by WeWork Inc. in respect of tax attributes that may accrue to it upon the exchange of such profits interest or other interest for cash or shares of WeWork Common Stock.

All of the partnership interests in the WeWork Partnership are subject to certain restrictions on transfer and exchange.

Any time a share of Class A Common Stock of WeWork Inc. is issued, redeemed, repurchased, acquired, canceled or terminated by WeWork Inc., one partnership interest indirectly held by WeWork Inc. will be issued or canceled, as applicable, by the WeWork Partnership so that the number of partnership interests in the WeWork Partnership held indirectly by WeWork Inc. at all times equals the number of shares of Class A Common Stock of WeWork Inc. outstanding, subject to customary conversion rate adjustments for stock splits, stock dividends and reclassifications.

Pursuant to the terms of the Partnership Agreement, except with respect to tax distributions, WeWork Inc. has the authority to determine when ordinary distributions will be made to the holders of partnership interests in the WeWork Partnership and the amounts of any such distributions. If WeWork Inc. authorizes an ordinary distribution by the WeWork Partnership, such distribution will generally be made first to the wholly owned subsidiaries of WeWork Inc. until the aggregate distributions equal the “aggregate distribution threshold” (as discussed below under “—WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units”), and then shared among all partners, including the holders of vested WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units (also discussed below under “—WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units”). Like the other partners in the WeWork Partnership, WeWork Inc. may incur U.S. federal, and applicable state and local, income taxes on its wholly owned subsidiaries’ distributive shares of any net taxable income of the WeWork Partnership. Pursuant to the Partnership Agreement, cash distributions will be made to these subsidiaries and the other holders of partnership interests (including WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units) in the WeWork Partnership in amounts intended to be sufficient for such holders to pay their respective U.S. federal, and applicable associated state and local, income tax liabilities with respect to such net taxable income. Any and all such tax distributions shall reduce subsequent ordinary and liquidating distributions otherwise payable to these wholly owned subsidiaries and the other holders of partnership interests (including WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units) in the WeWork Partnership.

WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units

As noted above, former members of WeWork’s senior management team were issued limited partnership interests in the WeWork Partnership in 2019. These WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units are intended to qualify as “profits interests” for U.S. federal income tax purposes. WeWork no longer grants these types of awards.

Holders of vested WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units may receive value from their awards in two ways—by receiving distributions or by, at the election of the holder, (a) converting their WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units into WeWork Partnerships Class B Common Units, or (b) exchanging (along with the corresponding shares of WeWork Class C Common Stock) their WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units for (at WeWork Inc.’s election) shares of WeWork Class B Common Stock (which would immediately and automatically be exchanged for WeWork Class A Common Stock) or cash of an equivalent value.

Distributions

When the WeWork Partnership makes distributions to its partners, the holders of vested WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units are generally entitled to share in those distributions with the other partners, including the wholly owned subsidiaries of WeWork Inc. that hold partnership interests, once the aggregate amount of distributions since the WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units were issued equals the “aggregate distribution threshold” with respect to those WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units. The “aggregate distribution threshold” with respect to any profits interest equals the total value of the WeWork Partnership when the profits interest is issued, and such amount is generally determined based on a valuation of the WeWork Partnership performed by a third-party valuation firm. Once a profits interest holder is entitled to share in distributions (because prior distributions have been made in an amount equal to the aggregate distribution threshold), the holder is entitled to receive distributions in an amount equal to a “preference amount,” which is a set dollar amount per profits interest equal to the difference between the profits interest’s “per-unit distribution threshold” (which is the per-profits-interest equivalent of the aggregate distribution threshold, as determined by the third-party valuation firm) and its “catch-up base amount” (which is similar to an option exercise price), and thereafter shares pro rata in distributions with other partners in the WeWork Partnership.

Exchange

Holders can also, at the election of the holder, (a) convert their vested WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units into WeWork Partnerships Class B Common Units or (b) exchange (along with the corresponding shares of WeWork Class C Common Stock) their WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units for (at WeWork's election) shares of WeWork Class B Common Stock (which would immediately and automatically be exchanged for WeWork Class A Common Stock) or cash of an equivalent value. Similar to their entitlement to distributions, as described above, holders of vested WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units interests can receive value through such an exchange only if the value of the WeWork Partnership has increased above the aggregate distribution threshold. This is measured by comparing the value of a share of WeWork Class A Common Stock on the day of exchange to the per-unit distribution threshold for the exchanged profits interest. If, on the day that a profits interest is exchanged, the value of a share of WeWork Class A Common Stock exceeds the per-unit distribution threshold for the exchanged profits interest, then the holder is entitled to receive that difference plus the preference amount for the profits interest (subject to certain downward adjustments for prior distributions by the WeWork Partnership).

A WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units holder is never entitled to receive any value for their "catch-up base amount," whether through distributions or on exchange. A higher trading price and a lower catch-up base amount each generally results in more shares being issued to the exchanging holder, except that the number of shares of WeWork Class B Common Stock (which would immediately and automatically be exchanged for WeWork Class A Common Stock) issuable upon exchange of each profits interest can never be greater than one.

See Note 22 of the notes to WeWork's annual audited consolidated financial statements and Note 14 of the notes to WeWork's interim condensed consolidated financial statements included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus for additional details on the WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units and activity during the year ended December 31, 2020, and six months ended June 30, 2021, respectively.

In February 2021, in connection with the Settlement Agreement, the WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units held by Mr. Neumann in the WeWork Partnership became fully vested and were amended to have a catch-up base amount of $0. As a result, Mr. Neuman has 24,081,668 fully vested WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units. The per unit distribution thresholds for Mr. Neumann's WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units were also amended to initially be $10.00 and may be subject to downward adjustment based on the closing trading price of New WeWork's shares on the Closing Date.

In connection with the Business Combination, the Partnership Agreement will be amended at the Closing to implement mechanical changes to reflect the conversion of shares of capital stock of WeWork Inc. to shares of New WeWork Common Stock (including the conversion of shares of WeWork Class C Common Stock into shares of New WeWork Class C Common Stock). Specifically, the number of outstanding partnership interests in the WeWork Partnership (including all WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units, including WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units held by Mr. Neumann) will be adjusted to equal the number of shares of the corresponding class of common stock of New WeWork (which, in the case of the WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units, is the New WeWork Class C Common Stock), taking into account the Exchange Ratio in the First Merger. The per-unit distribution threshold and catch-up base amount for the WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units will also be equitably adjusted to maintain the pre-Business Combination economics of the WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units. As described above, in addition to the adjustments to the number of outstanding WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units held by Mr. Neumann taking into account the Exchange Ratio in the First Merger and corresponding equitable adjustments to the distribution threshold and catch-up base amounts for those WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units, the per-unit distribution threshold for Mr. Neumann's WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units may be subject to further (downward) adjustment if the closing trading price of shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock on the Closing Date is less than a price per share equal to $10.00 divided by the Exchange Ratio. Following the Business Combination, vested WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units ("PIUs") can, at the election of the holder of the PIUs, be

(a) converted into WeWork Partnerships Class A Common Units or (b) exchanged (along with the corresponding shares of BowX Class C Common Stock) for (at BowX's election) shares of BowX Class A Common Stock or cash of an equivalent value.

International Joint Ventures and Strategic Partnerships

Together with entities affiliated with certain of WeWork's directors and holders of more than 5% of a class of its capital stock, WeWork had formed three international joint ventures, ChinaCo, JapanCo and PacificCo, to pursue international expansion and strategic partnerships. Together with SBG affiliates, WeWork formed JapanCo and PacificCo and, together with SBG, Hony Capital, Trustbridge Partners and other investors, WeWork formed ChinaCo.

In April 2020, WeWork closed the PacificCo Roll-up transaction and issued 34,482,759 shares of convertible WeWork Series H-1 Preferred Stock in exchange for all interests held by affiliates of SBG in PacificCo. Upon completion of the PacificCo Roll-up, PacificCo became a wholly owned subsidiary of WeWork.

In September 2021, an affiliate of SBG and WeWork closed on the formation of a new joint venture ("LatamCo") to operate the Company's businesses in Brazil, Mexico, Colombia, Chile and Argentina under the WeWork brand. Upon formation of LatamCo, the Company contributed its businesses in the countries listed above, committed to fund $12.5 million, and remains as guarantor on certain lease obligations and Softbank Latin America Fund committed to fund $80.0 million.

WeWork has entered into services agreements with each of these joint ventures where WeWork provides certain intellectual property and trademark rights and support services to enable the joint ventures to carry out their businesses in exchange for an annual fee.

In July 2020, a subsidiary of WeWork extended a $25.0 million bridge loan to ChinaCo, to fund ChinaCo's short-term working capital needs until the closing of the Trustbridge Transaction. WeWork also entered into a cooperation letter with ChinaCo and Trustbridge Partners which established a joint committee to facilitate communication and cooperation regarding the operations and management of ChinaCo through the closing of the Trustbridge Transaction. The bridge loan was repaid on October 2, 2020.

In April 2018, WeWork, ChinaCo and PacificCo entered into an agreement to purchase naked Hub (the "Naked Hub Agreement"), where a portion of the consideration for the acquisition was shares of WeWork Class A Common Stock. ChinaCo subsequently provided WeWork a promissory note, dated April 26, 2018, for an amount equal to the value of this stock consideration as set forth in the Naked Hub Agreement. This promissory note was repayable by ChinaCo in cash to WeWork on April 26, 2021. In October 2020, this promissory note was converted to equity in ChinaCo in connection with the ChinaCo financing.

In the first quarter of 2021, JapanCo entered into a management agreement with an affiliate of SBG pursuant to which a WeWork location in Japan operates a floor in a building owned by such affiliate, with no rent or minimum monthly payments, in exchange for a fixed monthly fee of approximately $9,500 per month and a 15% incentive fee of building profits.

In September 2021, JapanCo intends to enter into a series of transactions with OfaaS Corp., an affiliate of SBG ("OfaaS"), pursuant to which the parties will agree to (i) a revenue sharing arrangement where JapanCo will pay OfaaS 5% of sales derived from JapanCo's strategic partnership with JR East Japan Station Work as compensation for OfaaS' role in brokering and negotiating such strategic partnership, (ii) a secondment and consulting arrangement pursuant to which OfaaS will provide JapanCo with personnel and other resources to perform certain sales services (including sales operations, reporting, enterprise strategy, broker relations and marketing support) for a period of six (6) months at a cost of JPY 14,500,000 per month, and (iii) terminate JapanCo's existing sales service agreement with OfaaS and enter into a new broker agreement pursuant to JapanCo's standard terms of service, with an exception to permit OfaaS (unlike JapanCo's other brokers) to refer, and receive referral fees from JapanCo for, its and SBG's affiliates.

See Note 6 of the notes to WeWork’s consolidated financial statements included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus for additional details on WeWork’s international joint ventures and strategic partnerships.

Real Estate Transactions

WeCap Investment Group

In March 2017, together with Rhône Group, WeWork formed the WPI Fund. Steven Langman, who served as one of WeWork’s directors during 2019 through the first week of 2020, co-founded and manages Rhône Group. Mr. Langman and Mr. Neumann, who served as WeWork’s Chief Executive Officer and one of its directors until 2019, have each served on the management committees of the entities that currently advise and manage the WPI Fund, and Mr. Langman continues to serve on those committees.

- In 2019, Mr. Langman was appointed by Rhône Group to the management committee of the investment adviser of the WPI Fund and other investment vehicles, WeWork Capital Advisors LLC (“WeCap” (formerly known as “ARK Capital Advisors LLC”), as one of two designees of Rhône Group on such committee. Mr. Langman was also appointed to serve on the investment committee for the Ark Master Fund LP, including its parallel and related vehicles (the “Ark Master Fund”) in addition to continuing to serve on the investment committee for the WPI Fund.

WeWork’s general partner interests in Waller Creek Holdings LP, DSQ, WPI Fund and ARK Master Fund are held through the WeCap Holdings Partnership, in which Rhône Group also participates to the extent provided by the governing documents of the WeCap Holdings Partnership.

WeWork funded two $25.0 million convertible promissory notes in 2018 in connection with securing a potential investment opportunity that was being evaluated by the WPI Fund. During 2019, WeWork converted this $50.0 million loan into an initial 17.4% interest in the 424 Fifth Venture, including $2.8 million of capitalized transaction costs. The WPI Fund was also an initial 39.1% owner in the 424 Fifth Venture. The 424 Fifth Venture was initially capitalized with the $50.0 million investment from WeWork, $112.5 million from the WPI Fund, $125.0 million of equity from other investors and debt facilities (held by subsidiaries of the 424 Fifth Venture) of up to $900.0 million in the aggregate, of which $658.8 million was drawn as of December 31, 2019. Such debt financing was provided by a group of lenders that included J.P. Morgan Chase Bank, N.A. The WPI Fund also subsequently contributed an additional $35.9 million and WeWork subsequently contributed an additional $6.5 million during the year ended December 31, 2019. In March 2020, the 424 Fifth Venture property located in New York City was sold to a third-party buyer and the debt financing from J.P. Morgan Chase Bank, N.A. was repaid.

Finally, WeWork has entered into operating lease agreements with landlord entities in which the WPI Fund and following the ARK/WPI Fund combination, other real estate acquisition vehicles managed or sponsored by the WeCap Investment Group have an interest, on what WeWork believes to be commercially reasonable terms. During the 6 months ended June 30, 2021, WeWork had a contractual obligation totaling $28.9 million and it recognized $23.0 million of lease cost expense related to these leases. Future minimum lease cost payments under these leases, inclusive of escalation clauses and exclusive of contingent rent payments, are approximately $687.5 million as of June 30, 2021. The future minimum lease cost payments disclosed are the gross amount payable and are not net of tenant lease incentive receivables of approximately $14.2 million as of June 30, 2021.

In August 2019, the Company reorganized its real estate acquisition platform (such platform, following the ARK/WPI combination described herein, and inclusive of the investment vehicles sponsored, co-sponsored, managed, or co-managed by the WeCap Manager and Sponsor Group, “WeCap Investment Group”). Through this reorganization (the “ARK/WPI combination”), the Company acquired from Rhône a controlling financial interest in the WeCap Manager, the management company for the WeCap Investment Group in exchange for a 20% noncontrolling interest in the WeCap Manager. The WeCap Manager is the surviving entity resulting from the merger of the legacy entity that previously managed WeWork Property Investors LP, including its parallel and related vehicles (collectively the “WPI Fund”), which was indirectly owned 50% by us and 50% by affiliates of Rhône and was unconsolidated prior to the ARK/WPI combination, and the wholly owned and consolidated legacy entity that previously managed the ARK Master Fund LP (the “ARK Master Fund”) including its parallel and related vehicles. Following the ARK/WPI combination, the Company consolidates the WeCap Manager. The portion of consolidated equity attributable to Rhône’s interest in the WeCap Manager is reflected as a noncontrolling interest in the equity section of the accompanying consolidated balance sheets as of December 31, 2020 and 2019.

See Notes 6 and 11 of the notes to WeWork’s consolidated financial statements included elsewhere in this proxy statement/prospectus for additional details on WeWork’s relationships with the ARK/WPI Fund.

Mr. Neumann

WeWork is, or was, also party to lease agreements for four commercial properties with landlord entities in which Mr. Neumann, WeWork’s former chief executive officer, has an ownership interest. These leases, individually and in the aggregate, are not material to WeWork’s operations and entry into these lease agreements was duly approved by WeWork. As of June 30, 2021, future undiscounted minimum lease payments under these leases represented approximately 0.5% of WeWork’s total lease commitments. During the 6 months ended June 30, 2021, WeWork had a contractual obligation totaling $6.4 million to the landlord entities under these leases. During the 6 months ended June 30, 2021, WeWork received no payments from the landlord entities in the form of tenant improvement reimbursements related to these leases.

Terms of the termination of two of these lease agreements were agreed in February 2021 and one of the two was formally terminated on August 6, 2021 upon receiving the necessary ordinary course approvals. The negotiations for the two lease terminations occurred in the ordinary course and on arms’ length terms, and with respect to the lease that was formally terminated, included the landlord entity’s surrender and return of a $3.4 million letter of credit in exchange for payment of the corresponding amounts of the letter of credit, and the landlord entity’s forgiveness of the remaining rent amounts owed.

In addition, one of the other leases was assigned to Ampa in connection with the Israel Transaction and, therefore, WeWork is no longer a party to the lease agreement.

Membership and Service Agreements

WeWork has entered into membership agreements and/or other agreements relating to the provision of services with affiliates of SBG and SoftBank Vision Fund and affiliates of Rhône Group. WeWork believes that all such arrangements have been entered into in the ordinary course of business and have been conducted on an arm’s-length basis. During the six months ended June 30, 2021, WeWork earned $69.7 million from such agreements with affiliates of SBG and SoftBank Vision Fund and $0.9 million from such agreements with affiliates of Rhône Group.

During the six months ended June 30, 2021, WeWork recognized expenses of approximately $10.0 million for services provided by SBG and its affiliates.

Under the 2019 Omnibus Agreement, WeWork also provided healthcare, security and office space to Mr. Neumann until March 2021 at a cost of $2.6 million.

Non-Compete Agreement

During the year ended December 31, 2019, SBG entered into a non-compete agreement with Mr. Neumann, WeWork’s former chief executive officer, for a cash payment of $185.0 million, of which 50% was paid initially, with the remaining 50% payable in twelve equal monthly installments. Concurrent with the termination of the 2020 Tender Offer, this agreement was terminated and SBG ceased making payments under this agreement.

During 2019, WeWork recorded this as an expense to be paid for by a principal shareholder as WeWork also benefitted from the arrangement through restricting Mr. Neumann's ability to provide similar services to a competing organization. In connection with the Settlement Agreement, a new non-compete agreement has been entered into by Mr. Neumann with both WeWork and SBG. WeWork also became a party to (rather than simply a beneficiary of) this new non-compete agreement. WeWork does not have any financial obligation to Mr. Neumann under this agreement.

PIPE Investment

In connection with the execution of the Merger Agreement, BowX entered into separate Subscription Agreements with the PIPE Investors, pursuant to which the PIPE Investors agreed to purchase, and BowX agreed to sell to the PIPE Investors, the PIPE Shares for a purchase price of $10.00 per share and an aggregate purchase price of $800,000,000, in the PIPE Investment. The PIPE Investment will be consummated prior to or substantially concurrently with the closing of the Business Combination. For additional information, see the section entitled "BCA Proposal — Related Agreements — PIPE Subscription Agreements."

Bruce Dunlevie, who currently serves on our board of directors and is a director nominee for New WeWork's board of directors, will participate in the PIPE Investment through a family trust entity on the same terms and conditions as the other PIPE Investors for an aggregate purchase price of $10,000,000. In addition, certain of WeWork's existing investors or their affiliates are participating in the PIPE Investment, which may provide such investors the opportunity to materially increase the size of their investment in WeWork. None of these existing WeWork investors are the beneficial owners of more than 5% of our capital stock or of New WeWork's capital stock, in each case, on an as converted to common stock basis.

FIRPTA Letter

On March 25, 2021, concurrently with the execution of the Merger Agreement, SBWW, SVFE, BowX and WeWork entered into a letter agreement related to WeWork's potential current or future status as a USRPHC and related tax withholding matters in connection with the transactions contemplated by the Merger Agreement. See the section entitled "BCA Proposal — Related Agreements — FIRPTA Letter" for a further discussion of this arrangement.

Other Transactions

In August 2020, WeWork closed the sale of Flatiron to Carrick Capital Partners ("Carrick"). Arthur Minson, WeWork's former Co-Chief Executive Officer, is an investor in the entity that Carrick used to purchase Flatiron. In connection with the sale, WeWork waived certain non-compete obligations for Mr. Minson to allow him to serve on the board of, and also invest in, Flatiron.

In August 2021, WeWork and Cushman entered into a non-binding exclusive strategic partnership to market both landlords and businesses on WeWork's management experience platform and on new jointly developed solutions. The partnership is intended to provide clients with best-in-class office operations by combining WeWork's proprietary platform of workplace experience management software and hospitality experience with Cushman's asset and facilities management services. Together, WeWork and Cushman will work to unlock opportunities to provide landlords and businesses with the ability to create a differentiated workplace experience for tenants and employees in the new hybrid world of work where flexibility remains at the forefront. In addition, Cushman, WeWork and BowX are in discussions regarding a potential transaction where Cushman would provide up to $150,000,000.00 in a non-dilutive backstop equity facility (the "Backstop Facility") on mutually agreeable terms. The Backstop Facility would be subject to required approvals and the expiration or termination of any applicable waiting periods under the HSR Act. The material terms of the partnership are non-binding and subject to finalization of definitive documentation.

WeWork Policies and Procedures for Related Party Transactions

WeWork's board of directors recognizes that transactions with related parties can present potential or actual conflicts of interest and may raise questions as to whether those transactions are consistent with our best interests and the best interests of our stockholders. Therefore, WeWork's board of directors has adopted a written policy on transactions with any related party, which is defined as any person who, since the beginning of WeWork's last fiscal year, is, or at any time was, a director, executive officer or nominee for director, any beneficial owner of more than 5% of any class of our capital stock, and any of their immediate family members.

Under the policy, a related party must promptly disclose to WeWork's chief legal officer, deputy chief legal officer, chief compliance officer, deputy chief compliance officer or other person designated by the audit committee of the board of directors (i) any transaction in which WeWork was, are or will be a participant and that related party had, has or will have a direct or indirect interest and (ii) all material facts with respect thereto. WeWork's chief legal officer, deputy chief legal officer, chief compliance officer, deputy chief compliance officer or other person designated by the audit committee of the board of directors will make an initial assessment as to whether the transaction constitutes a related party transaction that would be reportable by WeWork pursuant to Item 404(a) of Regulation S-K, in which case the transaction would require approval by either a majority of the independent members of WeWork's board of directors who are disinterested with respect to such related party transaction or all of the members of WeWork's audit committee.

Any member of the audit committee who is, or whose immediate family member is, or whose household member (other than a tenant or employee) is, a related party with respect to a transaction under review will not be permitted to participate in the discussions or approval or ratification of the transaction.

After the closing of the Business Combination, New WeWork expects to implement a new policy for approving related party transactions.

We urge you to read our Proposed Charter in its entirety for a complete description of the rights and preferences of BowX's securities following the Business Combination. The Proposed Charter is described in "The Organizational Documents Proposals" and the full text of the Proposed Charter is attached as Annex B to this proxy statement/prospectus.

There will be no outstanding shares of BowX Class B Common Stock following the Business Combination as the outstanding BowX Class B Common Stock will be converted into shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock in connection with the Business Combination. As of the record date for the special meeting, there were 60,375,000 shares of BowX Common Stock and no shares of preferred stock of BowX outstanding.

BowX Class A Common Stock Prior to the Business Combination

We are providing the public stockholders of BowX Class A Common Stock with the opportunity to redeem their shares of BowX Class A Common Stock upon the consummation of the Business Combination at a per share price, payable in cash, equal to the aggregate amount then on deposit in the trust account as of two business days prior to the Closing, including interest earned on the funds held in the trust account and not previously released to us to pay out of taxes payable, divided by the number of then outstanding shares of public stock, subject to the limitations described herein. Our Sponsor, officers and directors have agreed to waive their redemption rights with respect to the BowX Class B Common Stock and have agreed to waive their redemption rights with respect to any public stock that they may have acquired during or after our initial public offering in connection with the completion of our Business Combination.

We will consummate the Business Combination only if a majority of the outstanding shares of BowX Class A Common Stock voted at the special meeting virtually or by proxy is voted in favor of the BCA Proposal and the other conditions under the Merger Agreement to the parties' obligations to close, as described above under "The BCA Proposal — The Merger Agreement and Plan of Reorganization — Conditions to Closing; Termination — Conditions to Closing," are satisfied or, where permitted, waived. However, the participation of the Sponsor, officers, directors, advisors or their affiliates in privately-negotiated transactions (as described in this proxy statement/prospectus), if any, could result in the approval of the Business Combination even if holders who currently own a majority of the outstanding Shares of public stock indicate their intention to vote, against the Business Combination.

Our Sponsor, officers and directors have agreed to vote any shares of BowX Common Stock owned by them in favor of the Business Combination. Public stockholders may elect to redeem their public stock without voting on the Business Combination Proposal and irrespective of whether they vote for or against the Business Combination.

Pursuant to our Existing Charter, if we are unable to complete our initial business combination by August 7, 2022, or obtain the approval of our stockholders to further extend the deadline for us to consummate an initial business combination, we will (i) cease all operations except for the purpose of winding up, (ii) as promptly as reasonably possible but no more than ten business days thereafter, subject to lawfully available funds therefor, redeem the public stock, at a per share price which is payable in cash and equal to the aggregate amount then on deposit in the trust account, including interest earned on the funds held in the trust account and not previously released to us to pay our taxes (less up to $100,000 of interest to pay dissolution expenses) divided by the number of then outstanding public stock, which redemption will completely extinguish public stockholders' rights as stockholders (including the right to receive further liquidation distributions, if any), subject to applicable law, and (iii) as promptly as reasonably possible following such redemption, subject to the approval of our remaining stockholders and our board of directors, dissolve and liquidate, subject in each case to our obligations under Delaware law to provide for claims of creditors and the requirements of other applicable law. Our Sponsor, officers and directors have entered into a letter agreement with us, pursuant to which they have agreed to waive their rights to liquidating distributions from the trust account with respect to their shares of BowX Class B Common Stock if we fail to complete our initial business combination within the prescribed timeframe (although they will be entitled to liquidating distributions from the trust account with respect to any public stock they hold).

There are no sinking fund provisions applicable to BowX Common Stock, except that we will provide our holders of public stock with the opportunity to redeem all or a portion of their public stock upon the completion of our initial business combination at a per share price, payable in cash, equal to the aggregate amount then on deposit in the trust account as of two business days prior to the consummation of the business combination, including interest earned on the funds held in the trust account (which interest will be net of taxes payable by us and up to $100,000 of interest to pay dissolution expenses), divided by the number of then outstanding shares of public stock, subject to the limitations described herein.

In the event of a liquidation, dissolution or winding up of BowX after our initial business combination, our holders of BowX Class A Common Stock are entitled to share ratably in all assets remaining available for distribution to them after payment of liabilities and after provision is made for each class of stock, if any, having preference over the common stock. Shares of BowX Class A Common Stock provide for no preemptive or other subscription rights.

BowX Class B Common Stock Prior to the Business Combination

The shares of BowX Class B Common Stock are identical to the shares of BowX Class A Common Stock included in the units sold in our initial public offering, and holders of these shares have the same stockholder rights as Public Stockholders, except that (i) the Founder Shares are subject to certain transfer restrictions, as described in more detail below, (ii) our Sponsor, officers and directors, have entered into agreements with us, pursuant to which they have agreed to waive (A) their redemption rights with respect to any Founder Shares and any public stock held by them in connection with the completion of our initial business combination, (B) their redemption rights with respect to any founder shares and any shares of public stock held by them in connection with a stockholder vote to approve an amendment to our Existing Charter (x) to modify the substance or timing of our obligation to allow redemption in connection with our initial business combination or certain amendments to our Existing Charter or to redeem 100% of our public stock if we do not complete our initial business combination before August 7, 2022, or (y) with respect to any other provision relating to stockholders' rights or pre-initial business combination activity and (C) their rights to liquidating distributions from the trust account with respect to any founder shares held by them if we fail to complete our initial business combination within 24 months from the initial public offering or during any extension period, although they will be entitled to liquidating distributions from the trust account with respect to any public stock they hold if we fail to complete our initial business combination within such time period, (iii) the Founder Shares are shares of BowX Class B Common Stock that will automatically convert into shares of BowX Class A Common Stock at the time of our initial business combination, or earlier at the option of the holder, on a one-for-one basis, subject to adjustment pursuant to certain anti-dilution rights as described herein and (iv) the holders of Founder Shares are entitled to registration rights. The holders of the Founder Shares have agreed pursuant to the letter agreement to vote any Founder Shares and any public stock held by them in favor of the Business Combination. Permitted transferees of the Founder Shares and private placement warrants and their component securities will be subject to the same restrictions described herein applicable to the holders of such securities.

The shares of BowX Class B Common Stock will automatically convert into shares of BowX Class A Common Stock at the time of the Business Combination, or earlier at the option of the holder, on a one-for-one basis (subject to adjustment for stock splits, stock dividends, reorganizations, recapitalizations and the like, and subject to further adjustment as described herein). In the case that additional shares of BowX Class A Common Stock, or equity-linked securities, are issued or deemed issued in excess of the amounts issued in this offering and related to the closing of our initial business combination (including pursuant to a specified future issuance), the ratio at which shares of BowX Class B Common Stock shall convert into shares of BowX Class A Common Stock will be adjusted (unless the holders of a majority of the then-outstanding shares of BowX Class B Common Stock agree to waive such adjustment with respect to any such issuance or deemed issuance, including pursuant to a specified future issuance) so that the number of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock issuable upon conversion of all shares of BowX Class B Common Stock will equal, in the aggregate, on an as-converted basis, 20% of the sum of the total number of all shares of common stock outstanding upon the completion of the initial public offering plus all shares of BowX Class A Common Stock and equity-linked securities issued or deemed issued in connection with the Business Combination (excluding any shares or equity-linked securities issued or issuable to any seller in the Business Combination). The Sponsor and its permitted transferees have agreed to waive, to the fullest extent permitted by law, the ability to adjust the one-to-one initial conversion ratio pursuant to Section 4(B)(2)(ii) of our Existing Charter in connection with the issuance of additional BowX Class A Common Stock in the Business Combination.

With certain limited exceptions, the Founder Shares are not transferable, assignable or salable (except to our initial stockholders, officers and directors or their affiliates, each of whom will be subject to the same transfer restrictions) until the earlier of (A) one year after the completion of our initial business combination or (B) subsequent to our initial business combination, (x) if the last reported sale price of our BowX Class A Common Stock equals or exceeds $12.00 per share (as adjusted for stock splits, stock dividends, reorganizations, recapitalizations and the like) for any 20 trading days within any 30-trading day period commencing at least 150 days after our initial business combination, or (y) the date on which we complete a liquidation, merger, capital stock exchange, reorganization or other similar transaction that results in all of our stockholders having the right to exchange their shares of common stock for cash, securities or other property.

Preferred Stock

The Existing Charter provides, and the Proposed Charter will provide, that shares of preferred stock may be issued from time to time in one or more series. Our board of directors is authorized to fix the voting rights, if any, designations, powers and preferences, the relative, participating, optional or other special rights, and any qualifications, limitations and restrictions thereof, applicable to the shares of each series of preferred stock. The board of directors is able to, without stockholder approval, issue preferred stock with voting and other rights that could adversely affect the voting power and other rights of the holders of BowX Common Stock and could have anti-takeover effects. The ability of our board of directors to issue preferred stock without stockholder approval could have the effect of delaying, deferring or preventing a change of control of BowX or the removal of existing management.

BowX has no preferred stock outstanding at the date hereof, and will have no preferred stock outstanding as of the Closing.

Redeemable Warrants

Public Warrants

Each whole public warrant entitles the registered holder to purchase one whole share of our BowX Class A Common Stock at a price of $11.50 per share, subject to adjustment as discussed below, at any time commencing on the later of 12 months from the closing of the initial public offering or 30 days after the completion of our initial business combination. The public warrants will expire five years after the completion of our initial business combination or earlier upon redemption or liquidation.

We will not be obligated to deliver any shares of BowX Class A Common Stock pursuant to the exercise of a public warrant and will have no obligation to settle such warrant exercise unless a registration statement under the Securities Act with respect to the shares of BowX Class A Common Stock underlying the warrants is then effective and a prospectus relating thereto is current, subject to our satisfying our obligations described below with respect to registration. No public warrant will be exercisable and we will not be obligated to issue shares of BowX Class A Common Stock upon exercise of a public warrant unless BowX Class A Common Stock issuable upon such public warrant exercise has been registered, qualified or deemed to be exempt under the securities laws of the state of residence of the registered holder of the public warrants. In the event that the conditions in the two immediately preceding sentences are not satisfied with respect to a public warrant, the holder of such public warrant will not be entitled to exercise such public warrant and such public warrant may have no value and expire worthless. In no event will we be required to net cash settle any public warrant. In the event that a registration statement is not effective for the exercised public warrants, the purchaser of a unit containing such public warrant will have paid the full purchase price for the unit solely for the share of BowX Class A Common Stock underlying such unit.

We have agreed that as soon as practicable, but in no event later than 15 business days after the closing of our initial business combination, we will use our reasonable best efforts to file, and within 60 business days following the initial business combination to have declared effective, a registration statement under the Securities Act covering the issuance of the shares of BowX Class A Common Stock issuable upon exercise of the warrants and to maintain the effectiveness of such registration statement and a current prospectus relating to those shares of BowX Class A Common Stock until the warrants expire or are redeemed; provided that, if the BowX Class A Common Stock is at the time of any exercise of a warrant not listed on a national securities exchange such that it satisfies the definition of a “covered security” under Section 18(b)(1) of the Securities Act, the Company may, at its option, require holders of public warrants who exercise their warrants to do so on a “cashless basis” in accordance with Section 3(a)(9) of the Securities Act and, in the event the Company so elects, it will not be required to file or maintain in effect a registration statement, but it will be required to use its best efforts to register or qualify the shares under applicable blue sky laws to the extent an exemption is not available.

Once the warrants become exercisable, the Company may redeem the outstanding public warrants:

- in whole and not in part;
- at a price of $0.01 per warrant;
- upon a minimum of 30 days’ prior written notice of redemption; and
- if, and only if, the last reported sale price of the BowX Class A Common Stock equals or exceeds $18.00 per share (as adjusted for stock splits, stock dividends, reorganizations, recapitalizations and the like) for any 20 trading days within a 30-trading day period commencing once the warrants become exercisable and ending on the third trading day prior to the date on which BowX sends the notice of redemption to the warrant holders.

If and when the public warrants become redeemable by us, we may not exercise our redemption right if the issuance of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock upon exercise of the public warrants is not exempt from registration or qualification under applicable state blue sky laws or we are unable to effect such registration or qualification. We will use our best efforts to register or qualify such shares of BowX Class A Common Stock under the blue sky laws of the state of residence in those states in which the public warrants were offered by us in this offering.

We have established the last of the redemption criteria discussed above to prevent a redemption call unless there is at the time of the call a significant premium to the warrant exercise price. If the foregoing conditions are satisfied and we issue a notice of redemption of the public warrants, each warrant holder will be entitled to exercise its public warrants prior to the scheduled redemption date. However, the price of BowX Class A Common Stock may fall below the $18.00 redemption trigger price (as adjusted for stock splits, stock dividends, reorganizations, recapitalizations and the like) as well as the $11.50 warrant exercise price after the redemption notice is issued.

If we call the public warrants for redemption as described above, our management will have the option to require any holder that wishes to exercise its warrant to do so on a “cashless basis.” In determining whether to require all holders to exercise their public warrants on a “cashless basis,” our management will consider, among other factors, our cash position, the number of public warrants that are outstanding and the dilutive effect on our stockholders of issuing the maximum number of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock issuable upon the exercise of our public warrants. If our management takes advantage of this option, all holders of Public Warrants would pay the exercise price by surrendering their Public Warrants for that number of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock equal to the quotient obtained by dividing (x) the product of the number of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock underlying the public warrants, multiplied by the difference between the exercise price of the Public Warrants and the “fair market value” (defined below) by (y) the fair market value. The “fair market value” shall mean the average last reported sale price of the BowX Class A Common Stock for the 10 trading days ending on the third trading day prior to the date on which the notice of redemption is sent to the holders of warrants. If our management takes advantage of this option, the notice of redemption will contain the information necessary to calculate the number of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock to be received upon exercise of the public warrants, including the “fair market value” in such case. Requiring a cashless exercise in this manner will reduce the number of shares to be issued and thereby lessen the dilutive effect of a warrant redemption. We believe this feature is an attractive option to us if we do not need the cash from the exercise of the public warrants after our initial business combination. If we call our warrants for redemption and our management does not take advantage of this option, our Sponsor and its permitted transferees would still be entitled to exercise their private placement warrants for cash or on a cashless basis using the same formula described above that other warrant holders would have been required to use had all warrant holders been required to exercise their warrants on a cashless basis, as described in more detail below.

Commencing ninety days after the warrants become exercisable, BowX may redeem the outstanding warrants:

- in whole and not in part;
- at $0.10 per warrant upon a minimum of 30 days’ prior written notice of redemption provided that holders will be able to exercise their warrants on a cashless basis prior to redemption and receive that number of shares of Class A Common Stock to be determined by reference to an agreed table based on the redemption date and the “fair market value” of the Company’s Class A Common Stock;
- if, and only if, the last reported sale price of the Class A Common Stock equals or exceeds $10.00 per share (as adjusted for stock splits, stock dividends, reorganizations, recapitalizations and the like) on the trading day prior to the date on which BowX sends the notice of redemption to the warrant holders;
- if, and only if, the Private Placement Warrants are also concurrently called for redemption on the same terms as the outstanding Public Warrants, as described above; and
- if, and only if, there is an effective registration statement covering the issuance of the shares of Class A Common Stock (or a security other than the Class A Common Stock into which the Class A Common Stock has been converted or exchanged for in the event the Company is not the surviving company in the initial Business Combination) issuable upon exercise of the warrants and a current prospectus relating thereto available throughout the 30-day period after written notice of redemption is given.

The “fair market value” of the Class A common stock for this purpose shall mean the average last reported sale price of the Class A common stock for the 10 trading days ending on the third trading day prior to the date on which the notice of redemption is sent to the holders of Warrants. See “Description of BowX Securities—Private Placement Warrants” for further information on the terms of the Private Placement Warrants and “Risk Factors—Risks Related to the Business Combination and BowX—Your unexpired warrants may be redeemed prior to their exercise at a time that is disadvantageous to you, thereby making your warrants worthless.”

In the event BowX shall elect to redeem all of the outstanding warrants that are subject to redemption, then BowX shall fix a date for the redemption (the “Redemption Date”). A notice of redemption shall be mailed by first class mail, postage prepaid, by BowX not less than thirty (30) days prior to the Redemption Date to the registered holders of the outstanding warrants to be redeemed at their last addresses as they shall appear on the registration books. Any notice mailed in the manner herein provided shall be conclusively presumed to have been duly given whether or not the registered holder received such notice. At any time after notice of redemption was given by BowX but prior to the Redemptions Date, the outstanding warrants may be exercised, for cash or on a “cashless basis” pursuant to the terms in the Warrant Agreement between Continental, as warrant agent, and BowX. In the event BowX determines to require all holders of public warrants to exercise their warrants on a “cashless basis”, the notice of redemption will contain the information necessary to calculate the number of shares of Class A common stock to be received upon exercise of the warrants, including the “Fair Market Value” in such case. On and after the Redemption Date, the record holder of the warrants shall have no further rights except to receive, upon surrender of the warrants, the Redemption Price.

Beginning on the date the notice of redemption is given until the warrants are redeemed or exercised, holders may elect to exercise their warrants on a cashless basis pursuant to the Warrant Agreement. The numbers in the table below represent the number of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock that a warrant holder will receive upon such cashless exercise in connection with a redemption by BowX pursuant to this redemption feature, based on the “fair market value” of our BowX Class A Common Stock on the corresponding redemption date (assuming holders elect to exercise their warrants and such warrants are not redeemed for $0.10 per warrant), determined for these purposes based on volume weighted average price of our BowX Class A Common Stock during the 10 trading days immediately following the date on which the notice of redemption is sent to the holders of warrants, and the number of months that the corresponding redemption date precedes the expiration date of the warrants, each as set forth in the table below. The share prices set forth in the column headings of the table below will be adjusted as of any date on which the number of shares issuable upon exercise of a warrant or the exercise price of a warrant is adjusted as set forth below.

For example, if the average last reported sale price of our BowX Class A Common Stock for the 10 trading days ending on the third trading date prior to the date on which the notice of redemption is sent to the holders of the warrants is $11 per share, and at such time there are 57 months until the expiration of the warrants, holders may choose to, in connection with this redemption feature, exercise their warrants for 0.255 shares of BowX Class A Common Stock for each whole warrant. However, the exact fair market value and redemption date may not be set forth in the table above, in which case, if the fair market value is between two values in the table or the redemption date is between two redemption dates in the table, the number of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock to be issued for each warrant exercised will be determined by a straight-line interpolation between the number of shares set forth for the higher and lower fair market values and the earlier and later redemption dates, as applicable, based on a 365 or 366-day year, as applicable. For an example where the exact fair market value and redemption date are not as set forth in the table above, if the average last reported sale price of our BowX Class A Common Stock for the 10 trading days ending on the third trading date prior to the date on which the notice of redemption is sent to the holders of the warrants is $13.50 per share, and at such time there are 38 months until the expiration of the warrants, holders may choose to, in connection with this redemption feature, exercise their warrants for 0.284 shares of BowX Class A Common Stock for each whole warrant. In no event will the warrants be exercisable in connection with this redemption feature for more than 0.361 shares of BowX Class A Common Stock per warrant.

A holder of a warrant may notify us in writing in the event it elects to be subject to a requirement that such holder will not have the right to exercise such warrant, to the extent that after giving effect to such exercise, such person (together with such person's affiliates), to the warrant agent's actual knowledge, would beneficially own in excess of 4.8% or 9.8% (or such other amount as a holder may specify) of the shares of BowX Class A common stock outstanding immediately after giving effect to such exercise.

If the number of outstanding shares of BowX Class A Common Stock is increased by a stock dividend payable in shares of BowX Class A Common Stock, or by a split-up of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock or other similar event, then, on the effective date of such stock dividend, split-up or similar event, the number of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock issuable on exercise of each public warrant will be increased in proportion to such increase in the outstanding shares of BowX Class A Common Stock. A rights offering to holders of BowX Class A Common Stock entitling holders to purchase shares of BowX Class A Common Stock at a price less than the fair market value will be deemed a stock dividend of a number of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock equal to the product of (i) the number of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock actually sold in such rights offering (or issuable under any other equity securities sold in such rights offering that are convertible into or exercisable for BowX Class A Common Stock) and (ii) one (1) minus the quotient of (x) the price per share of BowX Class A Common Stock paid in such rights offering divided by (y) the fair market value. For these purposes (i) if the rights offering is for securities convertible into or exercisable for BowX Class A Common Stock, in determining the price payable for BowX Class A Common Stock, there will be taken into account any consideration received for such rights, as well as any additional amount payable upon exercise or conversion and (ii) fair market value means the volume weighted-average price of BowX Class A Common Stock as reported during the ten (10) trading day period ending on the trading day prior to the first date on which the shares of BowX Class A Common Stock trade on the applicable exchange or in the applicable market, regular way, without the right to receive such rights.

In addition, if we, at any time while the public warrants are outstanding and unexpired, pay a dividend or make a distribution in cash, securities or other assets to the holders of BowX Class A Common Stock on account of such shares of BowX Class A Common Stock (or other shares of our capital stock into which the public warrants are convertible), other than (a) as described above, (b) certain ordinary cash dividends, (c) to satisfy the redemption rights of the holders of BowX Class A Common Stock in connection with a proposed initial business combination, (d) to satisfy the redemption rights of the holders of BowX Class A Common Stock in connection with a stockholder vote to amend our Existing Charter (i) to modify the substance or timing of our obligation to redeem 100% of our BowX Class A Common Stock if we do not complete our initial business combination within 18 months from the closing of this offering or (ii) with respect to any other provision relating to stockholders' rights or pre-initial business combination activity, or (e) in connection with the redemption of our public stock upon our failure to complete our initial business combination, then the warrant exercise price will be decreased, effective immediately after the effective date of such event, by the amount of cash and/or the fair market value of any securities or other assets paid on each share of BowX Class A Common Stock in respect of such event.

If the number of outstanding shares of our BowX Class A Common Stock is decreased by a consolidation, combination, reverse stock split or reclassification of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock or other similar event, then, on the effective date of such consolidation, combination, reverse stock split, reclassification or similar event, the number of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock issuable on exercise of each public warrant will be decreased in proportion to such decrease in outstanding shares of BowX Class A Common Stock.

Whenever the number of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock purchasable upon the exercise of the public warrants is adjusted, as described above, the warrant exercise price will be adjusted by multiplying the warrant exercise price immediately prior to such adjustment by a fraction (x) the numerator of which will be the number of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock purchasable upon the exercise of the public warrants immediately prior to such adjustment, and (y) the denominator of which will be the number of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock so purchasable immediately thereafter.

In case of any reclassification or reorganization of the outstanding shares of BowX Class A Common Stock (other than those described above or that solely affects the par value of such shares of BowX Class A Common Stock), or in the case of any merger or consolidation of us with or into another corporation (other than a consolidation or merger in which we are the continuing corporation and that does not result in any reclassification or reorganization of our outstanding shares of BowX Class A Common Stock), or in the case of any sale or conveyance to another corporation or entity of the assets or other property of us as an entirety or substantially as an entirety in connection with which we are dissolved, the holders of the public warrants will thereafter have the right to purchase and receive, upon the basis and upon the terms and conditions specified in the public warrants and in lieu of the shares of our BowX Class A Common Stock immediately theretofore purchasable and receivable upon the exercise of the rights represented thereby, the kind and amount of shares of stock or other securities or property (including cash) receivable upon such reclassification, reorganization, merger or consolidation, or upon a dissolution following any such sale or transfer, that the holder of the public warrants would have received if such holder had exercised their public warrants immediately prior to such event. If less than 70% of the consideration receivable by the holders of BowX Class A Common Stock in such a transaction is payable in the form of BowX Class A Common Stock in the successor entity that is listed for trading on a national securities exchange or is quoted in an established over-the-counter market, or is to be so listed for trading or quoted immediately following such event, and if the registered holder of the Public Warrant properly exercises the public warrant within thirty days following public disclosure of such transaction, the warrant exercise price will be reduced as specified in the Warrant Agreement based on the Black-Scholes value (as defined in the Warrant Agreement) of the public warrant. The purpose of such exercise price reduction is to provide additional value to holders of the public warrant when an extraordinary transaction occurs during the exercise period of the public warrant pursuant to which the holders of the public warrant otherwise do not receive the full potential value of the Public Warrants in order to determine and realize the option value component of the public warrant. This formula is to compensate the public warrant holder for the loss of the option value portion of the Public Warrant due to the requirement that the public warrant holder exercise the public warrant within 30 days of the event. The Black-Scholes model is an accepted pricing model for estimating fair market value where no quoted market price for an instrument is available.

The public warrants have been issued in registered form under the Warrant Agreement between Continental, as warrant agent, and us. You should review a copy of the Warrant Agreement, which will be filed as an exhibit to the registration statement of our initial public offering, for a complete description of the terms and conditions applicable to the public warrants. The Warrant Agreement provides that the terms of the public warrants may be amended without the consent of any holder to cure any ambiguity or correct any defective provision, but requires the approval by the holders of at least 65% of the then outstanding public warrants to make any change that adversely affects the interests of the registered holders of public warrants.

In addition, if (x) we issue additional shares of BowX Class A Common Stock or equity-linked securities for capital raising purposes in connection with the closing of our initial business combination at a newly issued price of less than $9.20 per share of BowX Class A Common Stock (with such issue price or effective issue price to be determined in good faith by our board of directors and, in the case of any such issuance to our Sponsor or its affiliates, without taking into account any BowX Class B Common Stock held by our Sponsor or such affiliates, as applicable, prior to such issuance), (y) the aggregate gross proceeds from such issuances represent more than 60% of the total equity proceeds, and interest thereon, available for the funding of our initial business combination on the date of the consummation of our initial business combination (net of redemptions), and (z) the market value is below $9.20 per share, the exercise price of the warrants will be adjusted (to the nearest cent) to be equal to 115% of the higher of the market value and the newly issued price, and the $18.00 per share redemption trigger price described above will be adjusted (to the nearest cent) to be equal to 180% of the higher of the market value and the newly issued price.

The public warrants may be exercised upon surrender of the public warrant certificate on or prior to the expiration date at the offices of the warrant agent, with the exercise form on the reverse side of the warrant certificate completed and executed as indicated, accompanied by full payment of the exercise price (or on a cashless basis, if applicable), by certified or official bank check payable to us, for the number of public warrants being exercised. The warrant holders do not have the rights or privileges of holders of BowX Class A Common Stock and any voting rights until they exercise their public warrants and receive shares of BowX Class A Common Stock. After the issuance of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock upon exercise of the public warrants, each holder will be entitled to one vote for each share held of record on all matters to be voted on by stockholders.

No fractional shares will be issued upon exercise of the public warrants. If, upon exercise of the public warrants, a holder would be entitled to receive a fractional interest in a share, we will, upon exercise, round down to the nearest whole number the number of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock to be issued to the warrant holder.

Private Placement Warrants

The private placement warrants (including the BowX Class A Common Stock issuable upon exercise of the private placement warrants) will not be transferable, assignable or salable until 30 days after the completion of our initial business combination (except, among other limited exceptions as described under the section of the IPO registration statement entitled “Principal Stockholders — Restrictions on Transfers of Founder Shares and Private Placement Warrants,” to our officers and directors and other persons or entities affiliated with our Sponsor) and they will not be redeemable by us so long as they are held by our Sponsor or its permitted transferees. Our Sponsor or its permitted transferees, has the option to exercise the private placement warrants on a cashless basis. Except as described below, the private placement warrants have terms and provisions that are identical to those of the public warrants sold as part of the initial public offering, including as to exercise price, exercisability and exercise period. If the private placement warrants are held by holders other than the Sponsor or its permitted transferees, the private placement warrants will be redeemable by us and exercisable by the holders on the same basis as the public warrants included in the units being sold in the initial public offering.

If holders of the private placement warrants elect to exercise them on a cashless basis, they would pay the exercise price by surrendering their warrants for that number of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock equal to the quotient obtained by dividing (x) the product of the number of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock underlying the warrants, multiplied by the difference between the exercise price of the warrants and the “fair market value” (defined below) by (y) the fair market value. The “fair market value” shall mean the average last reported sale price of the BowX Class A Common Stock for the 10 trading days ending on the third trading day prior to the date on which the notice of warrant exercise is sent to the warrant agent. The reason that we have agreed that these warrants will be exercisable on a cashless basis so long as they are held by the Sponsor or its permitted transferees is because it is not known at this time whether they will be affiliated with us following an initial business combination. If they are affiliated with us following an initial business combination, their ability to sell our securities in the open market will be significantly limited. We expect to have policies in place that prohibit insiders from selling our securities except during specific periods of time. Even during such periods of time when insiders will be permitted to sell our securities, an insider cannot trade in our securities if he or she is in possession of material non-public information. Accordingly, unlike public stockholders who could sell the shares of BowX Class A Common Stock issuable upon exercise of the warrants freely in the open market, the insiders could be significantly restricted from doing so. As a result, we believe that allowing the holders to exercise such warrants on a cashless basis is appropriate.

Our Sponsor has agreed not to transfer, assign or sell any of the Private Placement Warrants (including the BowX Class A Common Stock issuable upon exercise of any of these warrants) until the date that is 30 days after the date we complete our initial business combination, except that, among other limited exceptions as described under the section of the initial public offering registration statement entitled “Principal Stockholders — Restrictions on Transfers of Founder Shares and Private Placement Warrants” made to our officers and directors and other persons or entities affiliated with our Sponsor, whom will be subject to the same transfer restrictions.

BOWX SHARES ELIGIBLE FOR FUTURE SALE

Business Combination Shares

BowX will issue up to 655,300,000 shares of BowX Class A Common Stock to WeWork Stockholders in connection with the Business Combination. The total shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock to be issued includes shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock to be issued in respect of outstanding WeWork Common Stock and WeWork Preferred Stock plus shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock underlying or exchangeable for unvested and/or unexercised in-the-money stock options, restricted stock units, restricted stock awards, in-the-money warrants, WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units other than WeWork Partnerships Profits Units with a catch-up base amount greater than the Per Share Merger Consideration (including corresponding shares of New WeWork Class C Common Stock) and the WeWork Series C Convertible Note, respectively, at the Closing. As of September 14, 2021, the exchange ratio is expected to be approximately 0.8257 and there are expected to be issued approximately 558,479,201 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock and 19,926,267 shares of New WeWork Class C Common Stock to WeWork stockholders as of the Closing (using the rounded exchange ratio of 0.8257 and not including shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock underlying or exchangeable for unvested and/or unexercised stock options, restricted stock units, restricted stock awards, warrants and WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units). Shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock underlying or exchangeable for out-of-the-money stock options and warrants are not included in the Aggregate Merger Consideration calculation. The number of shares in the Aggregate Merger Consideration does not include both the number of shares of New WeWork Class C Common Stock and the number of related shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock.

Concurrently with and contingent upon the Closing, BowX will issue to SBWW or its designees the First Warrant to purchase a number of shares of BowX Common Stock (rounded to the nearest whole share) equal to 47,366,404 multiplied by the Exchange Ratio, subject to the terms set forth therein, at a price per share equal to $0.01 divided by the Exchange Ratio (rounded to the nearest full cent). The First Warrant will expire on the tenth anniversary of the Closing. Although the First Warrant will be issued by BowX, solely for purposes of calculating the Exchange Ratio used in the Business Combination, the First Warrant is treated in the same manner as a hypothetical outstanding warrant to purchase 47,366,404 shares of WeWork Class A Common Stock Company at an exercise price of $0.01 per share.

The First Warrant issued to SBWW is an inducement to obtain SBWW's, and its affiliates', support in effectuating the automatic conversion of WeWork Preferred Stock on a one-to-one basis to WeWork Common Stock. At the Exchange Ratio, the First Warrant will enable SBWW to purchase 39,115,176 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock. Assuming a price of $10 per share, the First Warrant will have an estimated fair value of approximately $391.2 million. A copy of the form of First Warrant is attached as Exhibit 10.19 to this proxy statement/prospectus.

Additionally, concurrently with and contingent upon the LC Facility Termination Extension, BowX will issue to the SoftBank Obligor or its designees the LC Warrant to purchase a number of shares of BowX Common Stock (rounded to the nearest whole share) equal to 14,431,991 multiplied by the Exchange Ratio, subject to the terms set forth therein, at a price per share equal to $0.01 divided by the Exchange Ratio (rounded to the nearest full cent). The LC Warrant would expire on the tenth anniversary of the date of issuance.

The LC Warrant issued to SoftBank Obligor as consideration for the SoftBank Obligor agreeing to continue to act as co-obligor under WeWork's existing LC Facility for the extension period of one year. At the Exchange Ratio, the LC Warrant will enable SoftBank Obligor to purchase 11,917,938 shares of New WeWork Class A Common Stock. Assuming a price of $10 per share, the LC Warrant will have an estimated fair value of approximately $119.2 million. The Company will record the estimated fair value of the LC Warrant as a deferred asset (guarantee premium), which will be amortized to interest expense over the amended term of the letter of credit facility, in a comparable fashion to a commitment or access fee paid to obtain a revolving credit arrangement. A copy of the form of LC Warrant is attached as Exhibit 10.20 to this proxy statement/prospectus.

All of the shares of BowX Class A Common Stock issued in connection with the Business Combination, including the shares of BowX Class A Common Stock issuable upon exercise of the First Warrant and the LC Warrant, will be freely transferable by persons other than by New WeWork's "affiliates" without restriction or further registration under the Securities Act, subject to any lock-up restrictions. Sales of substantial amounts of the BowX Class A Common Stock in the public market could adversely affect prevailing market prices of the BowX Class A Common Stock.

Lock-up Provisions

Pursuant to the Lock-Up Agreements, the Sponsor, certain of BowX's officers and certain of WeWork's officers and stockholders agreed not to (a) sell or otherwise dispose of, or agree to sell or dispose of, directly or indirectly, any Lock-Up Shares, (b) enter into any swap or other arrangement that transfers to another, in whole or in part, any of the economic consequences of ownership of any of such Lock-Up Shares, or (c) publicly announce any intention to effect any transaction specified in clause (a) or (b), for the duration of the applicable Lock-Up Period. For additional information, see the section entitled "BCA Proposal—Related Agreements—Lock-Up Agreement."

Registration Rights

Pursuant to the Registration Rights Agreement, the Sponsor, certain other directors and officers of BowX, and related parties will have customary registration rights, including demand and piggy-back rights, subject to cooperation and cut-back provisions with respect to the shares of New WeWork Common Stock and warrants held by such parties following the consummation of the Business Combination. For additional information, see the section entitled "BCA Proposal — Related Agreements — Registration Rights Agreement."

Rule 144

Pursuant to Rule 144 under the Securities Act ("Rule 144"), a person who has beneficially owned restricted BowX Common Stock or warrants for at least six months would be entitled to sell their securities provided that (i) such person is not deemed to have been an affiliate of BowX at the time of, or at any time during the three months preceding, a sale and (ii) BowX is subject to the Exchange Act periodic reporting requirements for at least three months before the sale and have filed all required reports under Section 13 or 15(d) of the Exchange Act during the 12 months (or such shorter period as BowX was required to file reports) preceding the sale.

Persons who have beneficially owned restricted BowX Common Stock or warrants for at least six months but who are affiliates of BowX at the time of, or at any time during the three months preceding, a sale, would be subject to additional restrictions, by which such person would be entitled to sell within any three-month period only a number of securities that does not exceed the greater of:

- 1% of the total number of BowX Common Stock then outstanding; or
- the average weekly reported trading volume of BowX Common Stock during the four calendar weeks preceding the filing of a notice on Form 144 with respect to the sale.

Sales by affiliates of BowX under Rule 144 are also limited by manner of sale provisions and notice requirements and to the availability of current public information about BowX.

Restrictions on the Use of Rule 144 by Shell Companies or Former Shell Companies

Rule 144 is not available for the resale of securities initially issued by shell companies (other than business combination related shell companies) or issuers that have been at any time previously a shell company. However, Rule 144 also includes an important exception to this prohibition if the following conditions are met:

- the issuer of the securities that was formerly a shell company has ceased to be a shell company;

- the issuer of the securities is subject to the reporting requirements of Section 13 or 15(d) of the Exchange Act;
- the issuer of the securities has filed all Exchange Act reports and material required to be filed, as applicable, during the preceding 12 months (or such shorter period that the issuer was required to file such reports and materials), other than Form 8-K reports; and
- at least one year has elapsed from the time that the issuer filed current Form 10 type information with the SEC reflecting its status as an entity that is not a shell company.

As a result, the Sponsor will be able to sell their Founder Shares and private placement warrants, as applicable, pursuant to Rule 144 without registration one year after BowX has completed its initial business combination.

BowX anticipates that following the consummation of the Business Combination, New WeWork will no longer be a shell company, and so, once the conditions set forth in the exceptions listed above are satisfied, Rule 144 will become available for the resale of the above noted restricted securities.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

Submission of Stockholder Proposals

The BowX board of directors is aware of no other matter that may be brought before the special meeting. Only business that is specified in the notice of special meeting to stockholders may be transacted at the special meeting.

Future Stockholder Proposals

For any proposal to be considered for inclusion in our proxy statement for our 2022 annual meeting of stockholders, it must be submitted in writing and comply with the requirements of Rule 14a-8 under the Exchange Act. Such proposals must be received by New WeWork at its principal executive offices at 575 Lexington Avenue, New York, NY 10022, within a reasonable time before New WeWork begins to print and send its proxy materials for the annual meeting.

In addition, the Proposed Bylaws, which will be effective upon the consummation of the Business Combination, establish an advance notice procedure for stockholders who wish to present a nomination or proposal before an annual meeting of stockholders. The Proposed Bylaws provide that the only business that may be conducted at an annual meeting of stockholders is business that is (i) specified in the notice of such meeting (or any supplement or amendment thereto) given by or at the direction of New WeWork's board of directors, (ii) otherwise properly brought before such meeting by or at the direction of New WeWork's board of directors or the chairperson of the board, or (iii) otherwise properly brought before such meeting by a stockholder present in person who (A) (1) was a record owner of shares of New WeWork both at the time of giving the notice and at the time of such meeting, (2) is entitled to vote at such meeting, and (3) has complied with notice procedures specified in the Proposed Bylaws in all applicable respects or (B) properly made such proposal in accordance with Rule 14a-8 under the Exchange Act. To be timely for New WeWork's annual meeting of stockholders, New WeWork's secretary must receive the written notice at New WeWork's principal executive offices:

- not earlier than the 90th day;
- not later than the 120th day; and
- before the one-year anniversary of the preceding year's annual meeting.

In the event that no annual meeting was held in the previous year or New WeWork holds its annual meeting of stockholders more than 30 days before or more than 60 days after the one-year anniversary of a preceding year's annual meeting, notice of a stockholder nomination or proposal must be not later than the 90th day prior to such annual meeting or, if later, the 10th day following the day on which public disclosure of the date of such annual meeting was first made. Pursuant to the Proposed Bylaws, May 4, 2021, is deemed to be the date of the prior annual meeting.

Accordingly, for New WeWork's 2022 annual meeting, assuming the meeting is held on May 4, 2022, notice of a nomination or proposal must be delivered to New WeWork no later than February 3, 2022, and no earlier than January 4, 2022. WeWork Companies Inc. is the predecessor of WeWork Inc. for financial reporting purposes.

NOTES TO THE CONDENSED CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS
JUNE 30, 2021

The Merger Agreement provides that, among other things and upon the terms and subject to the conditions thereof, the following will occur (together with the other agreements and transactions contemplated by the Merger Agreement, the Business Combination):

- at the closing of the transactions contemplated by the Merger Agreement (the Closing), upon the terms and subject to the conditions of the Merger Agreement and in accordance with the Delaware General Corporation Law, as amended (the “DGCL”), Merger Sub will merge with and into the Company, the separate corporate existence of Merger Sub will cease and the Company will be the surviving corporation and a wholly owned subsidiary of BowX (the “Merger”);
- as promptly as practicable following the Closing, the Company will merge with and into BowX Merger Subsidiary II, LLC, a Delaware limited liability company and a direct wholly owned subsidiary of BowX (Merger Sub II and such transaction, the “Second Merger”), with Merger Sub II being the surviving entity of the Second Merger;
- as a result of the Merger, among other things, all outstanding shares of capital stock of the Company (other than shares of Class C common stock of the Company, treasury shares, shares held by stockholders who have perfected and not withdrawn a demand for appraisal rights pursuant to the DGCL and shares of Company stock subject to options, warrants and RSUs) will be cancelled in exchange for the right to receive a number of newly issued shares of Class A common stock, par value $0.0001 per share, of BowX (“BowX Class A Common Stock”) determined using an exchange ratio (the “Exchange Ratio”) which is determined based on a pre-money enterprise valuation of the Company of approximately $9.0 billion, a $10.00 price per share of BowX Class A Common Stock and the fully diluted equity capitalization of the Company immediately prior to the Closing (which is subject to change between signing and Closing), as described below;
- shares of Class C common stock of the Company will be cancelled in exchange for the right to receive a number of newly issued shares of Class C common stock, par value $0.0001 per share, of BowX (“Bow X Class C Common Stock”) determined using the Exchange Ratio;
- outstanding options and warrants to purchase Company stock and RSUs will be converted into the right to receive options or warrants to purchase shares of BowX Class A Common Stock or restricted stock units representing the right to receive shares of BowX Class A Common Stock, as applicable, on the same terms and conditions that are in effect with respect to such options, warrants or RSUs on the day of Closing, subject to adjustments using the Exchange Ratio, as described below; and
- BowX will immediately be renamed “WeWork Inc.” or such other name as agreed to by the Company and BowX prior to Closing.

The Merger Agreement is subject to the satisfaction or waiver of certain customary closing conditions, including, among others, (i) approval of the Business Combination and related agreements and transactions by the respective stockholders of the Company and BowX, (ii) effectiveness of the proxy statement / registration statement on Form S-4 filed by BowX in connection with the Business Combination, (iii) expiration or termination of the waiting period under the Hart-Scott-Rodino Antitrust Improvements Act of 1976, as amended, (iv) if a merger control filing is required by the Mexican Federal Economic Competition Commission (the “Comisión Federal de Competencia Económica, COFECE”), COFECE providing clearance of the transactions contemplated by the Merger Agreement, (v) receipt of approval for listing on The Nasdaq Stock Market or The New York Stock Exchange the shares of BowX Class A Common Stock to be issued in connection with the Merger, (vi) that BowX have at least $5.0 million of net tangible assets upon the Closing, (vii) the absence of any injunctions or laws prohibiting the Merger, (viii) the absence of a Company Material Adverse Effect (as defined in the Merger Agreement) on the Company and (ix) customary bringdown of the representations, warranties and covenants of the parties therein.

Another condition to the parties' obligations to consummate the Merger is that as of the Closing the sum of (x) the amount of cash available in the trust account into which substantially all of the proceeds of BowX's initial public offering and private placements of its securities have been deposited, after deducting the amount required to satisfy BowX's obligations to its stockholders (if any) that exercise their rights to redeem all or a portion of their BowX Class A Common Stock pursuant to BowX's certificate of incorporation and bylaws (but prior to payment of any deferred underwriting commissions being held in the trust account and any transaction expenses of BowX, the Company or their affiliates) plus (y) the amount of the PIPE Investment (as defined below) actually received by BowX prior to or substantially concurrently with the Closing, is equal to or greater than $800.0 million.

The Merger Agreement contains additional covenants, including, among others, providing for (i) the parties to use reasonable best efforts to conduct their respective businesses in the ordinary course through the Closing, (ii) the parties not to initiate any negotiations or enter into any agreements for certain alternative transactions, (iii) the Company to prepare and deliver to BowX certain unaudited consolidated financial statements of the Company, (iv) BowX and the Company jointly to prepare, and BowX to file, a proxy statement / registration statement on Form S-4 and take certain other actions to obtain the requisite approval of BowX stockholders of certain proposals regarding the Business Combination and (v) the parties to use reasonable best efforts to obtain necessary approvals from governmental agencies.

The Merger Agreement may be terminated at any time prior to the Closing (i) by mutual written consent of BowX and the Company, (ii) by the Company or BowX, if certain approvals of the shareholders of BowX are not obtained, (iii) by the Company, if there is an Acquiror Modification in Recommendation (as defined in the Merger Agreement), (iv) by BowX if there is a Company Modification in Recommendation (as defined in the Merger Agreement) (v) by BowX, if certain approvals of the stockholders of the Company are not obtained within certain time periods, or (vi) by either BowX or the Company in certain other circumstances set forth in the Merger Agreement, including (a) if any Governmental Authority (as defined in the Merger Agreement) shall have enacted, issued, promulgated, enforced or entered any final and nonappealable Governmental Order (as defined in the Merger Agreement) that has the effect of making consummation of the Merger illegal or otherwise preventing or prohibiting consummation of the Merger and (b) in the event of certain uncured breaches by the other party or if the Closing has not occurred on or before October 31, 2021, subject to extension by sixty (60) days in certain circumstances (the "Agreement End Date").

Certain Related Agreements

Subscription Agreements

On March 25, 2021, concurrently with the execution of the Merger Agreement, BowX entered into subscription agreements (the "Subscription Agreements") with certain investors (collectively, the "PIPE Investors"), pursuant to, and on the terms and subject to the conditions of which, the PIPE Investors have collectively subscribed for 80,000,000 shares of BowX Class A Common Stock for $10.00 per share, for an aggregate subscription price equal to $800.0 million, (the "PIPE Investment"). The PIPE Investment will be consummated substantially concurrently with the Closing.

The Subscription Agreements will terminate with no further force and effect upon the earliest to occur of: (i) such date and time as the Merger Agreement is terminated in accordance with its terms; (ii) the mutual written agreement of the parties to such Subscription Agreement; (iii) if any of the conditions to closing set forth in such Subscription Agreement are not satisfied on or prior to the Closing and, as a result thereof, the transactions contemplated by the Subscription Agreement fail to occur; and (iv) the Agreement End Date.

For two key anchor investors, each with an aggregate investment amount of $125.0 million (collectively, the “Key Anchor Investors”), the obligation to close under the Subscription Agreements is further conditioned upon the total investment by the PIPE Investors equaling or exceeding $700.0 million, with such amount including (i) an investment of at least $125.0 million in the aggregate from the other Key Anchor Investor and its affiliates and any investment funds controlled by their affiliates, (ii) an investment of at least $15.0 million from investors identified, cultivated or referred by Bow Capital or otherwise associated with Bow Capital, and (iii) an investment of at least $10.0 million in the aggregate from The Obsidian Master Fund and its affiliates and any investment funds controlled by its affiliates.

Sponsor Support Agreement

On March 25, 2021, the Company entered into a Sponsor Support Agreement (the “Sponsor Support Agreement”), with BowX Sponsor, LLC (the “Sponsor”) and other persons party thereto (the “Sponsor Persons”), pursuant to which the Sponsor and the Sponsor Persons agreed to, among other things, (i) cause to be forfeited 3,000,000 shares of Class B common stock, par value $0.0001 per share, of BowX held by the Sponsor and certain other persons and (ii) vote in favor of the Merger Agreement and the transactions contemplated thereby, in each case, subject to the terms and conditions contemplated by the Sponsor Support Agreement.

Stockholder Support Agreement

On March 25, 2021, the Company entered into Stockholder Support Agreements (the “Stockholder Support Agreements”), with BowX and certain stockholders of the Company (the “Key Stockholders”). Pursuant to the Stockholder Support Agreements, the Key Stockholders agreed to, among other things, execute and deliver a written consent adopting the Merger Agreement and related transactions and approving the Business Combination with respect to the outstanding shares of the Company common stock and preferred stock held by the Key Stockholders on the terms and subject to the conditions set forth therein. The shares of the Company that are subject to the Stockholder Support Agreements represent a majority of the outstanding voting power of the Company’s capital stock (voting as a single class and on an as converted basis) and a majority of outstanding senior preferred stock held by stockholders other than SBG and its affiliates sufficient to approve certain transactions contemplated by the Business Combination for purposes of certain Company charter provisions.

Transfer Restrictions and Registration Rights

The Merger Agreement contemplates that, at the Closing, BowX, the Company, the Sponsor, the Key Stockholders and certain of their respective affiliates will enter into an amended and restated registration rights Agreement (the Registration Rights Agreement), pursuant to which BowX will agree to register for resale, pursuant to Rule 415 under the Securities Act, certain shares of BowX Class A Common Stock and other equity securities of BowX that are held by the parties thereto from time to time. In certain circumstances, various parties in the Registration Rights Agreement can collectively demand up to nine underwritten offerings and will be entitled to piggyback registration rights, in each case subject to certain limitations set forth in the Registration Rights Agreement.

Additionally, in connection with the Business Combination, the Sponsor and certain of the Company’s officers, directors and stockholders entered into a lock-up agreement (the “Lock-Up Agreement”) pursuant to which they agreed not to (i) sell or otherwise dispose of, or agree to sell or dispose of, directly or indirectly, any shares of BowX Class A Common Stock held by such persons immediately after the Closing or any shares of BowX Class A Common Stock issuable upon the exercise of options, warrants or other convertible securities to purchase shares of BowX Class A Common Stock held by such persons immediately after the Closing (“Lock-Up Shares”), (ii) enter into any swap or other arrangement that transfers to another, in whole or in part, any of the economic consequences of ownership of any of such Lock-Up Shares, or (iii) publicly announce any intention to effect any transaction specified in clause (i) or (ii) (each such action, a “Transfer”), for one year or nine months, as the case may be, after the Closing (the “Lock-Up Period”).

The foregoing description of the Merger Agreement, Subscription Agreements, Sponsor Support Agreement, Stockholder Support Agreement, Registration Rights Agreement and Lock-Up Agreement, and the transactions contemplated thereby is not complete and is supplemented by the 8-K/A (as defined below).

Credit Support Letter (LC)

On March 25, 2021, WeWork Companies LLC, SBG and BowX entered into a letter agreement (the “Credit Support Letter”) pursuant to which SBG has committed to consent to an extension of the termination date of the Credit Agreement from February 10, 2023 to no later than February 10, 2024 (the “LC Facility Termination Extension”), subject to the terms and conditions set forth therein. Any LC Facility Termination Extension will require the requisite consent of the lenders thereunder.

Credit Support Letter (SSN)

On March 25, 2021, the Company and an affiliate of SBG entered into a letter agreement pursuant to which the Company and an affiliate of SBG have agreed to amend and restate the terms of the Master Senior Secured Notes Note Purchase Agreement that governs the SoftBank Senior Secured Notes (as amended and restated, the “A&R Senior Secured Note Purchase Agreement”) on the earlier of (i) the Closing and (ii) August 12, 2021. The A&R Senior Secured Note Purchase Agreement will allow the Company to borrow up to an aggregate principal amount of $550.0 million of senior secured debt in the form of new 7.5% senior secured notes (the “A&R Senior Secured Notes”). It is a condition to the execution of the A&R Senior Secured Note Purchase Agreement that any outstanding SoftBank Senior Secured Notes be redeemed, repurchased or otherwise repaid and canceled at a price of 101% of the principal amount thereof plus accrued and unpaid interest. The A&R Senior Secured Note Purchase Agreement will allow the Company to borrow once every 30 days with minimum draws of $50.0 million. The A&R Senior Secured Notes will mature no later than February 12, 2023 or, if earlier, 18 months from the Closing.

Warrants

Concurrently with and contingent upon the Closing, BowX will issue to SBWW or its designees one or more warrants (collectively, the “First Warrant”) to purchase a number of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock (rounded to the nearest whole share) equal to 47,366,404 multiplied by the Exchange Ratio, subject to the terms set forth therein, at a price per share equal to $0.01 divided by the Exchange Ratio (rounded to the nearest full cent). The First Warrant will expire on the tenth (10th) anniversary of the Closing.

Although the First Warrant will be issued by BowX, solely for purposes of calculating the Exchange Ratio used in the Business Combination, the First Warrant is treated in the same manner as a hypothetical outstanding warrant to purchase 47,366,404 class A common shares of the Company at an exercise price of $0.01.

Additionally, concurrently with and contingent upon the LC Facility Termination Extension, BowX will issue to SBG or its designees one or more warrants (collectively, the “LC Warrant”) to purchase a number of shares of BowX Class A Common Stock (rounded to the nearest whole share) equal to 14,431,991 multiplied by the Exchange Ratio, subject to the terms set forth therein, at a price per share equal to $0.01 divided by the Exchange Ratio (rounded to the nearest full cent). The LC Warrant would expire on the tenth (10th) anniversary of the date of issuance.

We Company Partnership

Under the partnership agreement for the We Company Partnership, vested WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units (“PIUs”) can, at the election of the holder of the PIUs, be (a) converted into WeWork Partnerships Class B Common Units, or (b) exchanged (along with the corresponding shares of WeWork Class C Common Stock) for (at WeWork’s election) shares of WeWork Class B Common Stock or cash of an equivalent value, assuming that the value of a share of WeWork Class A Common Stock exceeds the per-unit distribution threshold for these PIUs (which generally represents the liquidation value of a share of WeWork Class A Common Stock on the date such PIUs were granted). The exchange value takes into account, among other things, the value of a share of WeWork Class A Common Stock and the catch-up base amount of the PIUs being exchanged. A catch-up base amount is similar to an option exercise price and represents, for each PIU exchanged, the value of a share of common stock that the holder of PIUs will not receive upon exchange. A higher value and a lower catch-up base amount each generally results in more shares of class B common stock being issued to the exchanging holder (except the number of shares of class B common stock issuable upon exchange of each PIU can never be greater than one).

Under the Company’s amended and restated certificate of incorporation, following the threshold automatic conversion on February 26, 2021, any newly-issued shares of WeWork Class B Common Stock exchanged from vested PIUs will, immediately after such issuance, automatically convert into shares of WeWork Class A Common Stock.

In connection with the Business Combination, the partnership agreement for the WeWork Partnership will be amended at the Closing to implement mechanical changes to reflect the conversion of shares of capital stock of the Company to shares of BowX Class A Common Stock (including the conversion of shares of class C common stock into shares of Class C Common stock of BowX). Specifically, the number of outstanding partnership interests (including all PIUs) will be adjusted to equal the number of shares of the corresponding class of common stock of BowX (which, in the case of the PIUs, is the Class C Common stock of BowX), taking into account the Exchange Ratio in the Merger. The distribution threshold and catch-up base amount for the PIUs will also be equitably adjusted to maintain the pre-Business Combination economics of the PIUs. The distribution threshold for Adam Neumann’s PIUs may be subject to downward adjustment based on closing date pricing of the Business Combination. Following the Business Combination, vested PIUs can, at the election of the holder of the PIUs, be (a) converted into WeWork Partnerships Class A Common Units or (b) exchanged (along with the corresponding shares of BowX Class C Common Stock) for (at BowX’s election) shares of BowX Class A Common Stock or cash of an equivalent value.

Note 2. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

Basis of Quarterly Presentation and Principles of Consolidation — The accompanying unaudited condensed consolidated financial statements and notes to the condensed consolidated financial statements have been prepared in accordance with U.S. generally accepted accounting principles (“U.S. GAAP”) for interim financial reporting. In accordance with such rules and regulations, certain information and accompanying note disclosures normally included in financial statements prepared in accordance with U.S. GAAP have been condensed or omitted, although the Company believes the disclosures included herein are adequate to make the information presented not misleading. In the opinion of management, the accompanying unaudited condensed consolidated financial statements reflect all normal recurring adjustments, which are considered necessary for the fair presentation of the financial position of the Company at June 30, 2021 and the results of operations for the interim periods presented. The operating results for the periods presented are not necessarily indicative of the results that may be expected for the year ending December 31, 2021. The accompanying unaudited condensed consolidated financial statements should be read in conjunction with the audited consolidated financial statements and notes thereto for the year ended December 31, 2020, included in WeWork Inc.'s Annual Report for the year ended December 31, 2020.

Other than the changes described below, no material changes have been made to the Company's significant accounting policies disclosed in Note 2, Summary of Significant Accounting Policies, in its Annual report issued on March 19, 2021, for the year ended December 31, 2020.

The Company operates as a single operating segment. See Note 18 for further discussion on the Company's segment reporting.

The accompanying unaudited condensed consolidated financial statements include the accounts of the Company, its majority-owned subsidiaries and variable interest entities ("VIEs") for which the Company is the primary beneficiary. All intercompany accounts and transactions have been eliminated in consolidation.

The Company is required to consolidate entities deemed to be VIEs in which the Company is the primary beneficiary. The Company is considered to be the primary beneficiary of a VIE when the Company has (i) the power to direct the activities of the VIE that most significantly impact the VIE's economic performance and (ii) the obligation to absorb losses or receive benefits that could potentially be significant to the VIE.

JapanCo, WeCap Manager and WeCap Holdings Partnership (each as defined and discussed in Note 5) are the Company's only consolidated VIEs as of June 30, 2021. In March 2020, in connection with the sale of the property held by the 424 Fifth Venture (the "424 Fifth Venture Transaction"), redemption payments were made to the noncontrolling interest holders in the 424 Fifth Venture and the 424 Fifth Venture became a wholly owned subsidiary of the Company and is no longer a VIE. In April 2020, in connection with the SoftBank Transactions, the Company completed the acquisition of the noncontrolling interest in PacificCo (as defined in Note 5) and PacificCo became a wholly owned subsidiary of the Company and is no longer a VIE. In September 2020, the Company transferred its variable interest and control over the Creator Fund to an affiliate of SBG and the Creator Fund was deconsolidated from the Company's financial statements. In October 2020, the Company restructured its ownership interests in ChinaCo (as defined in Note 5) such that the Company is no longer the primary beneficiary of ChinaCo and as a result, beginning on October 2, 2020, ChinaCo was deconsolidated (the "ChinaCo Deconsolidation") and the Company's remaining ordinary share investment represents an unconsolidated VIE that is accounted for as an equity method investment. See Note 5 for further discussion of these transactions. See Note 6 for discussion of the Company's non-consolidated VIEs.

A noncontrolling interest in a consolidated subsidiary represents the portion of the equity (net assets) in a subsidiary not attributable, directly or indirectly, to the Company. Noncontrolling interests are presented as a separate component of equity in the condensed consolidated balance sheets and the presentation of net income in the condensed consolidated statements of comprehensive loss, is modified to present earnings and other comprehensive income attributed to controlling and noncontrolling interests.

The Company's convertible preferred stock and noncontrolling interests that are redeemable upon the occurrence of an event that is not solely within the control of the Company are classified outside of permanent equity. As it is not probable that amounts will become redeemable, no remeasurement is required. The Company will continue to monitor the probability of redemption. The Company's noncontrolling interests that have redemption features within the Company's control are classified within permanent equity and are described further below.

WEWORK INC.
NOTES TO THE CONDENSED CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

The redemption value of the WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units (as discussed in Note 14) that were awarded to management are measured based upon the aggregate redemption value and takes into account the proportion of employee services rendered under the WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units vesting provisions. The redemption value will vary from period to period based upon the fair value of the Company, whereby the intrinsic value (per-unit fair value of the Company is greater than the per-unit distribution threshold) will be reflected as noncontrolling interests in the equity section of the condensed consolidated balance sheets with a corresponding entry to additional paid-in-capital. The intrinsic value of the WeWork Partnership Profits Interests will be remeasured each period until the WeWork Partnerships Profits Interests are converted to shares or cash.

The Company's other noncontrolling interests represent substantive profit-sharing arrangements and profits and losses are attributed to the controlling and noncontrolling interests using the hypothetical-liquidation-at-book-value method.

Use of Estimates — The preparation of the condensed consolidated financial statements in accordance with U.S. GAAP requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amount of assets and liabilities and the disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the condensed consolidated financial statements, and the reported amount of revenues and expenses during the reporting periods.

Estimates inherent in the current financial reporting process inevitably involve assumptions about future events. Actual results could differ from those estimates. Since December 2019, a novel strain of coronavirus, referred to as the COVID-19 virus, has spread to countries in which we operate. COVID-19 has become a global pandemic. Authorities in jurisdictions where our locations are located have at times issued stay-at-home orders, restrictions on certain activities such as travel and on the types of businesses that may continue to operate. As the pandemic has adversely affected and may continue to adversely affect our revenues and expenditures, the extent and duration of these restrictions and overall macroeconomic impact of the pandemic will have an effect on estimates used in the preparation of financial statements. This includes the net operating income ("NOI") assumptions in our long-lived asset impairment testing, the ultimate collectability of accounts receivable due to the effects of COVID-19 on the financial position of our members, the timing of capital expenditures and fair value measurement changes for assets and liabilities that the Company measures at fair value.

Our liquidity forecasts are based upon continued execution of the Company's operational restructuring program and also includes management's best estimate of the impact that the outbreak of COVID-19, including the Delta or other variants, may continue to have on our business and our liquidity needs; however, the extent to which our future results and liquidity needs are further affected by the continued impact of COVID-19 will largely depend on the continued duration of closures, and delays in location openings, the success of ongoing vaccination efforts, the effect on demand for our memberships, any permanent shifts in working from home, how quickly we can resume normal operations and our ongoing lease negotiations with our landlords, among others. We believe continued execution of our operational restructuring program and our current liquidity position will be sufficient to help us mitigate the continued near-term uncertainty associated with COVID-19, however our assessment assumes a recovery in our revenues and occupancy beginning in the second half of 2021 with a gradual return toward pre-COVID levels. If revenues continue to decline during 2021 and/or we do not experience a recovery consistent with our projected timing, additional capital sources may be required, the timing and source of which are uncertain. There is no assurance we will be successful in securing the additional capital infusions if needed.

Restricted Cash — Restricted cash consists primarily of amounts provided to banks to secure letters of credit issued under certain of the Company’s credit agreements as required by various leases. Transfers between restricted and unrestricted cash accounts are not reported within the statements of cash flows. Only restricted cash receipts or payments from restricted cash directly to third parties are reported in the statements of cash flows as either an operating, investing or financing activity, depending on the nature of the transaction.

Allowance for Doubtful Accounts — The Company adopted ASU No. 2016-13, Financial Instruments-Credit Losses (Topic 326): Measurement of Credit Losses on Financial Instruments (“ASU 2016-13”) on January 1, 2020. In accordance with the revised guidance, management determines an allowance that reflects its best estimate of the accounts receivable due from members, related parties, landlords and others that it expects will not be collected. Management considers many factors in considering its reserve with respect to these accounts receivable, including historical data, experience, creditworthiness, income trends, as well as current and forward looking conditions. Recorded liabilities associated with members’ service retainers are also considered when estimating the allowance for doubtful accounts as we have the contractual right to apply members’ service retainers to outstanding receivables.

Receivables are written off when deemed uncollectible. Recoveries of receivables previously written off are recorded as a reduction of bad debt expense when received. As of June 30, 2021 and December 31, 2020, the Company recorded $99.7 million and $107.8 million, respectively, as an allowance for doubtful accounts on accounts receivable and accrued revenue.

Income Taxes — The Company calculates its quarterly income tax provision pursuant to Accounting Standard Codification (“ASC”) 740-270, Income Taxes — Interim Reporting, which provides that a Company cannot recognize a tax benefit in its annual effective tax rate for any jurisdiction with a pre-tax book loss and full valuation allowance (“excluded jurisdictions”). For the three and six months ended June 30, 2021, the Company recorded an income tax provision of $4.0 million and $7.3 million, respectively, resulting in effective tax rates of 0.44% and 0.24%, respectively. For the three and six months ended June 30, 2020, the Company recorded an income tax provision of $7.1 million and $16.1 million, respectively, resulting in effective tax rates of 0.64% and 0.98%.

The Company analyzed its various tax positions and did not identify any material uncertain tax positions for the three and six months ended June 30, 2021 and 2020.

The Company files U.S. federal, U.S. state and foreign income tax returns. Depending on the statute of limitation of the specific jurisdictions in which we operate, three to ten years of the Company’s income tax returns remain subject to examination. Globally, the Company is involved in various tax matters, and various annual filings in certain jurisdictions are under examination.

Stock-Based Compensation — Stock-based compensation expense attributable to equity awards granted to employees and non-employees is measured at the grant date based on the fair value of the award. For employee awards, the expense is recognized on a straight-line basis over the requisite service period for awards that actually vest, which is generally the period from the grant date to the end of the vesting period. For non-employee awards, the expense for awards that actually vest is recognized based on when the goods or services are provided.

The Company generally estimates the fair value of stock option awards granted using the Black-Scholes-Merton option-pricing formula (the “Black-Scholes Model”) and a single option award approach. This model requires various significant judgmental assumptions in order to derive a final fair value determination for each type of award, including the expected term, expected volatility, expected dividend yield, risk-free interest rate, and fair value of the Company's stock on the date of grant. The expected option term for options granted is calculated using the "simplified method." This election was made based on the lack of sufficient historical exercise data to provide a reasonable basis upon which to estimate the expected term. The simplified method defines the expected term as the average of the contractual term and the vesting period. Estimated volatility is based on similar entities whose stock prices are publicly traded. The Company uses the historical volatilities of similar entities due to the lack of sufficient historical data for the Company's common stock price. Dividend yields are based on the Company's history and expected future actions. The risk-free interest rate is based on the yield curve of a zero-coupon U.S. Treasury bond on the date the stock option award was granted with a maturity equal to the expected term of the stock option award. All grants of stock options generally have an exercise price equal to or greater than the fair market value of the Company's common stock on the date of grant.

WEWORK INC.
NOTES TO THE CONDENSED CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

In situations where the exercise price of a stock option is greater than the fair market value of the Company's common stock on the date of grant, the Company estimates the fair value of stock option awards granted using the binomial model. The binomial model incorporates assumptions regarding anticipated employee exercise behavior, expected stock price volatility, dividend yield and risk-free interest rate. Anticipated employee exercise behavior and expected post-vesting cancellations over the contractual term used in the binomial model are primarily based on historical exercise patterns. These historical exercise patterns indicate that exercise behavior between employee groups is not significantly different. For our expected stock price volatility assumption, the Company weights historical volatility and implied volatility and uses daily observations for historical volatility, while our implied volatility assumptions are based on actively traded options related to our common stock. The expected term is derived from the binomial model, based on assumptions incorporated into the binomial model as described above.

The Company estimated the fair value of the WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units awards in connection with the modification of the original stock options using the Hull-White model and a binomial lattice model in order to apply appropriate weight and consideration of the associated distribution threshold and catch-up base amount. The Hull-White model requires similar judgmental assumptions as the Black-Scholes Model used for valuing the Company's options.

Because the Company is privately held and there is no public market for our stock, the fair value of the Company's equity is approved by the Company's Board of Directors or the Compensation Committee thereof as of the date stock-based awards are granted. In estimating the fair value of our stock, the Company uses a third-party valuation specialist and considers factors it believes are material to the valuation process, including but not limited to, the price at which recent equity was issued by the Company to independent third parties or transacted between third parties, actual and projected financial results, risks, prospects, economic and market conditions, and estimates of weighted average cost of capital. The Company believes the combination of these factors provides an appropriate estimate of the expected fair value of the Company and reflects the best estimate of the fair value of the Company's common stock at each grant date.

The Company has elected to recognize forfeitures of stock-based compensation awards as they occur. For awards subject to performance conditions, no compensation cost will be recognized before the performance condition is probable of being achieved. Recognition of any compensation expense relating to stock grants that vest contingent on an initial public offering or "Acquisition" (as defined in the 2015 Plan detailed in Note 14) will be deferred until consummation of such initial public offering or Acquisition.

Fair Value Measurements — The Company applies fair value accounting for all financial assets and liabilities and certain non-financial assets and liabilities that are recognized or disclosed at fair value in the financial statements on a recurring and nonrecurring basis. Assets and liabilities measured at fair value every reporting period include investments in cash equivalents, available-for-sale debt securities, certain embedded derivatives requiring bifurcation, certain warrants issued classified as a liability in accordance with ASC 480, Distinguishing Liabilities from Equity (“ASC 480”), and contingent consideration liabilities relating to business combinations. Other assets and liabilities are subject to fair value measurements only in certain circumstances, including purchase accounting applied to assets and liabilities acquired in a business combination, impaired cost and equity method investments and long-lived assets that are written down to fair value when they are impaired.

Fair value is defined as the price that would be received from selling an asset or paid to transfer a liability in an orderly transaction between market participants at the measurement date. When determining fair value measurements for assets and liabilities that are required to be recorded at fair value, the Company assumes the highest and best use of non-financial assets by market participants and the market-based risk measurements or assumptions that market participants would use in pricing assets or liabilities, such as inherent risk, transfer restrictions and credit risk. Assets and liabilities are classified using a fair value hierarchy, which prioritizes the inputs used to measure fair value according to three levels, and bases the categorization of fair value measurements within the hierarchy upon the lowest level of input that is available and significant to the fair value measurement:

Level 1 — Observable inputs that reflect quoted prices (unadjusted) for identical assets or liabilities in active markets.

Level 2 — Inputs that reflect quoted prices for identical assets or liabilities in markets that are not active, quoted prices for similar assets or liabilities in active markets, inputs other than quoted prices that are observable for the assets or liabilities or inputs that are derived principally from or corroborated by observable market data by correlation or other means.

Level 3 — Unobservable inputs that the Company incorporates in its valuation techniques used to determine fair value. These assumptions are required to be consistent with market participant assumptions that are reasonably available.

See Note 11 for additional discussion on the Company’s fair value measurements.

Recently Adopted Accounting Pronouncements

In April 2020, the FASB issued interpretive guidance in response to questions it received about how to account for the concessions many lessors are providing or are expecting to provide to lessees in response to the operational and financial challenges lessees are facing as a result of the COVID-19 pandemic. The question-and-answer document states entities can elect not to evaluate whether a concession provided by a lessor to a lessee in response to the COVID-19 pandemic is a lease modification. An entity that elects not to evaluate whether a concession is a modification can then elect to account for the concession as if it were contemplated in the existing contract. Entities may make these elections for any lessor-provided COVID-19-related relief (e.g., deferral of lease payments, cash payments, reduction of future lease payments) that does not result in a substantial increase in the rights of the lessor or the obligations of the lessee.

The Company has elected to treat short-term COVID-19 related concessions or deferrals provided to our members whose contracts qualify as a lease in accordance with ASC 842, Leases (“ASC 842”) as if it were contemplated in the existing contract and member concessions and deferrals that are expected to extend greater than 12 months or change the other terms of member leases are treated as modifications. The Company elected to treat short-term COVID-19 related rent concessions received from our landlords as variable lease expense and short-term lease deferrals as if there is no change in the contract. COVID-19 related concessions and deferrals that are expected to extend greater than 12 months or change the other terms in the lease are treated as modifications and a full re-valuation of the right-of-use asset and liability is performed.

In December 2019, the FASB issued ASU 2019-12, Income Taxes (Topic 740)-Simplifying the Accounting for Income Taxes (“ASU 2019-12”). ASU 2019-12 simplifies accounting for income taxes by removing certain exceptions from the general principles in Topic 740 and clarifying certain aspects of the current guidance to promote consistency among reporting entities. The Company adopted ASU 2019-12 as of January 1, 2021, which did not have a material impact on its condensed consolidated financial statements.

Note 3. Restructuring, Impairments and Gains on Sale

In September 2019, the Company initiated an operational restructuring program that included a change in executive leadership and plans for cost reductions that aim to improve the Company’s operating performance. Throughout 2020, the Company has made significant progress towards its operational restructuring goals including divesting or winding down various non-core operations not directly related to our core space-as-a-service offering, significant reductions in costs associated with selling, general and administrative expenses. During the six months ended June 30, 2021, the Company successfully terminated leases associated with a total of 59 previously open locations and 3 pre-open locations. Management is continuing to evaluate our real estate portfolio in connection with its ongoing restructuring efforts and expects to exit additional leases over the remainder of 2021.

During 2021, the Company anticipates there will be additional restructuring and related costs consisting primarily of lease termination charges, other exit costs and costs related to ceased use buildings and one-time employee termination benefits, as the Company is still in the process of finalizing its operational restructuring plans. The Company anticipates all such activities will be substantially complete by the end of 2021.

Restructuring and other related costs totaled $(27.8) million and $80.5 million during the three months ended June 30, 2021 and 2020, respectively, and $466.0 million and $136.2 million during the six months ended June 30, 2021 and 2020, respectively. representing an aggregate purchase price of approximately $578.4 million. The Company recorded $428.3 million of restructuring and other related costs in its consolidated statement of operations for the six-months ended June 30, 2021, which represents the excess between the amount paid from a principal shareholder of the Company to We Holding LLC and the fair value of the stock purchased. Also, in connection with the Settlement Agreement the WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units held by Adam Neumann in the WeWork Partnership became fully vested and were amended to have a catch-up base amount of $0. The per unit distribution thresholds for the WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units were also amended to initially be $10.00 and may be subject to upward adjustment based on a third party valuation of fair market value and may be subject to downward adjustment based on closing date pricing if a de-SPAC or initial public offering were to occur. WeWork has received a third party valuation of fair market value of the WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units, which confirmed that no upward adjustment is needed to be $10.00 per unit distribution threshold. As a result of this modification, the Company recorded $102.0 million of restructuring and other related costs in its consolidated statement of operations for the three-months ended March 31, 2021.

As of June 30, 2021, net restructuring liabilities totaled approximately $24.9 million, including $28.3 million in accounts payable and accrued expenses, $7.8 million in other liabilities, net of $11.2 million in receivables from landlords in connection with lease terminations, included in other current assets in the consolidated balance sheet. A reconciliation of the beginning and ending restructuring liability balances is as follows:

In connection with the operational restructuring program and related changes in the Company's leasing plans and planned or completed disposition or wind down of certain non-core operations and projects, the Company has also recorded various other non-routine write-offs, impairments and gains on sale of goodwill, intangibles and various other long-lived assets.

During the three and six months ended June 30, 2021, the Company also performed its quarterly impairment assessment for long-lived assets. As a result of the COVID-19 pandemic and the resulting declines in revenue and operating income experienced by certain locations as of June 30, 2021, we identified certain assets whose carrying value was now deemed to have been partially impaired. We evaluated our estimates and assumptions related to our locations' future revenue and cash flows, and performed a comprehensive review of our locations' long-lived assets for impairment, including both property and equipment and operating lease right-of-use assets, at an individual location level. Key assumptions used in estimating the fair value of our location assets in connection with our impairment analyses are revenue growth, lease costs, market rental rates, changes in local real estate markets in which we operate, inflation, and the overall economics of the real estate industry. Our assumptions account for the estimated impact of the COVID-19 pandemic. As a result, during the three and six months ended June 30, 2021, the Company recorded $12.4 million and $31.5 million, respectively, in impairments, primarily as a result of decreases in projected cash flows primarily attributable to the impact of COVID-19.

The details of these net charges are as follows:

The table above excludes certain routine impairment charges for property and equipment write-offs relating to excess, obsolete, or slow-moving inventory of furniture and equipment, early termination of leases and cancellation of other deals or projects occurring in the ordinary course of business totaling $(0.01) million and $2.8 million, respectively, during the three months ended June 30, 2021 and 2020, and totaling $0.03 million and $2.8 million, respectively, during the six months ended June 30, 2021 and 2020, respectively, included in selling, general and administrative expenses in the accompanying condensed consolidated statements of operations.

In connection with the Company's operational restructuring program, the Company has divested or wound down certain non-core operations not directly related to its space-as-a-service during the six months ended June 30, 2020.

In January 2020, the Company sold Teem for total cash consideration of $50.5 million. The Company recorded a gain on the sale of $37.2 million, included in the impairment/(gain on sale) of goodwill, intangibles and other assets in the accompanying condensed consolidated statements of operations for the six months ended June 30, 2020, which includes an adjustment of $(0.1) million for the three months ended June 30, 2020.

In March 2020, the Company sold Managed by Q for total cash consideration of $28.1 million. Of the total consideration, $2.5 million was heldback at closing and is included as a disposition proceeds holdback receivable within other current assets on the accompanying condensed consolidated balance sheet as of June 30, 2020. As of June 30, 2021, $2.2 million of the holdback was released and $0.3 million included as a disposition proceeds holdback receivable within other current assets on the accompanying condensed consolidated balance sheet. The Company recorded a gain on the sale in the amount of $8.9 million, included in the impairment/(gain on sale) of goodwill, intangibles and other assets in the accompanying condensed consolidated statements of operations for the three and six months ended June 30, 2020, respectively. The gain on sale in 2020 was recognized after a $20.7 million impairment of intangible assets and a $145.0 million impairment of goodwill associated with Managed by Q that was recorded during the year ended December 31, 2019.

In March 2020, the Company also sold 91% of the equity of Meetup for total cash consideration of $9.5 million and the remaining 9% was retained by the Company. Upon closing, Meetup was deconsolidated and the

In March 2020, the Company completed the sale of the real estate investment held by the 424 Fifth Venture and recognized an impairment loss on the assets sold totaling $53.7 million, included in impairment/(gain on sale) of goodwill, intangibles and other assets on the accompanying condensed consolidated statements of operations during the three and six months ended June 30, 2020. Note 5. Consolidated VIEs and Noncontrolling Interests

ARK/WPI Combination

WeWork Capital Advisors LLC (formerly known as “ARK Capital Advisors LLC”, the “WeCap Manager”) is a majority-owned subsidiary of the Company and its controlled affiliates. The WeCap Manager is also owned in part by Rhône Group L.L.C. and its affiliates (other than the WeCap Manager) (“Rhône” and, together with the Company, the “Sponsor Group”), a global alternative asset management firm with assets under management across its private equity and real estate platforms.

In August 2019, the Company reorganized its real estate acquisition platform (such platform, following the ARK/WPI combination described herein, and inclusive of the investment vehicles sponsored, co-sponsored, managed, or co-managed by the WeCap Manager and Sponsor Group, “WeCap Investment Group”). Through this reorganization (the “ARK/WPI combination”), the Company acquired from Rhône a controlling financial interest in the WeCap Manager, the management company for the WeCap Investment Group in exchange for a 20% noncontrolling interest in the WeCap Manager. The WeCap Manager is the surviving entity resulting from the merger of the legacy entity that previously managed WeWork Property Investors LP, including its parallel and related vehicles (collectively the “WPI Fund”), which was indirectly owned 50% by us and 50% by affiliates of Rhône and was unconsolidated prior to the ARK/WPI combination, and the wholly owned and consolidated legacy entity that previously managed the ARK Master Fund LP (the “ARK Master Fund”) including its parallel and related vehicles. Following the ARK/ WPI combination, the Company consolidates the WeCap Manager. The portion of consolidated equity attributable to Rhône’s interest in the WeCap Manager is reflected as a noncontrolling interest in the equity section of the accompanying condensed consolidated balance sheets as of June 30, 2021 and December 31, 2020.

Through its 80% equity ownership interest, the Company is entitled to a corresponding share of the income earned by the WeCap Manager, primarily in the form of customary management fees, subject to provisions of the governing documents of the WeCap Manager relating to funding of losses incurred by the WeCap Manager. During the three and six months ended June 30, 2021, the WeCap Manager recognized $3.4 million and $7.0 million, respectively, in management fee income, classified as other revenue as a component of the total revenue on the accompanying condensed consolidated statements of operations. During the three and six months ended June 30, 2020, the WeCap Manager recognized $3.3 million and $7.7 million, respectively, in management fee income.

WEWORK INC.

(UNAUDITED)

The post-reorganization WeCap Investment Group also includes the Company's general partner interests in Waller Creek, DSQ, WPI Fund and ARK Master Fund (each as defined in Note 6), which are held through a limited partnership created as part of the ARK/WPI combination (the "WeCap Holdings Partnership") in which Rhône also participates to the extent provided by the governing documents of the WeCap Holdings Partnership. The Company consolidates the WeCap Holdings Partnership. Net carried interest distributions earned in respect of the WeCap Investment Group from its investments are distributable to the Company and Rhône, indirectly through the WeCap Holdings Partnership, based on percentages that vary by the WeCap Investment Group vehicle and range from a 50% to 85% share to the Company of total net carried interest distributions received by the WeCap Holdings Partnership (after a profit participation allocation to certain personnel associated with the WeCap Manager). The portion of consolidated equity attributable to Rhône's interest in the WeCap Holdings Partnership is reflected as a noncontrolling interest in the equity section of the accompanying condensed consolidated balance sheets as of June 30, 2021 and December 31, 2020.

Primarily because our investments through the WeCap Holdings Partnership in the underlying real estate acquisition vehicles generally represent a small percentage of the total capital invested by third parties, and the terms on which we have agreed to provide services and act as general partner are consistent with the market for similar arrangements, the underlying real estate acquisition vehicles managed by the WeCap Manager are generally not consolidated in our financial statements (subject to certain exceptions based on the specific facts of the particular vehicle). The Company accounts for its share of the underlying real estate acquisition vehicles as unconsolidated investments under the equity method of accounting, see Note 6 for additional details regarding the holdings of WeCap Holdings Partnership.

424 Fifth Venture

In February 2019, a consolidated subsidiary of the Company (the "424 Fifth Venture") closed on the acquisition of a $852.8 million real estate investment located in New York City (the "424 Fifth Property"). The acquisition of real estate by the 424 Fifth Venture was accounted for as an asset acquisition and the purchase price was allocated among the assets purchased, including land of $356.5 million and building of $496.3 million. As of December 31, 2019, the real estate was under development and as a result was included within the Company's construction in progress balance within the property and equipment table detailed in Note 5.

Just prior to the redemption of the noncontrolling interest holders in March 2020 described below, the consolidated 424 Fifth Venture was owned 17.2% by the Company, 44.8% by the WPI Fund and 38.0% by another investor. Prior to redemption, the portion of consolidated equity attributable to the interest of the 424 Fifth Venture's other investors was reflected as noncontrolling interests within the equity section of the accompanying consolidated balance sheet as of December 31, 2019. Upon completion of the redemption of the noncontrolling interest holders in March 2020, the 424 Fifth Venture became a wholly owned subsidiary of the Company.

In March 2020, the 424 Fifth Property was sold by the 424 Fifth Venture to an unrelated third party for a gross purchase price of approximately $978.1 million. Included in the sale was $356.5 million in land and $653.8 million in construction in progress associated with the investment. The $930.2 million in net cash proceeds received at closing were net of closing costs and holdbacks. Of the total consideration, $15.0 million was heldback at closing of which $10.0 million was received as of March 31, 2021. The Company recognized an impairment loss on the assets sold totaling $53.7 million, included in impairment/ (gain on sale) of goodwill, intangibles and other assets on the accompanying condensed consolidated statements of operations during the three and six months ended June 30, 2020.

The underlying debt facility that secured the 424 Fifth Property since acquisition was extinguished upon the sale (see Note 6 for further details). In March 2020, in connection with the sale of the 424 Fifth Property, the Company also made a payment of $128.0 million to the 424 Fifth Venture and the 424 Fifth Venture made redemption payments to the noncontrolling interest holders totaling $315.0 million including a return of capital of $272.2 million and a return on their capital of $42.8 million.

The sale and debt extinguishment also resulted in the termination in March 2020 of the Company's original development management agreements over the property, its 20 year master lease of the property, its $1.2 billion lease guaranty, various loan guarantees, various loan covenant requirements and various partnership guarantees and indemnities entered into in connection with the original acquisition.

Upon the sale of the property, a wholly owned subsidiary of the Company entered into an escrow and construction agreement with the buyer for approximately $0.2 billion to finalize the core and shell infrastructure work of the property. These funds were held in escrow upon closing of the sale and are available to pay construction costs, contingencies and cost overruns. The $0.2 billion is expected to be earned by the Company over 12-18 months as the development is completed. During the three and six months ended June 30, 2021, the Company recognized approximately $17.7 million and $22.9 million in revenue related to this development agreement, included as a component of other revenues. During the three and six months ended June 30, 2020, the Company recognized approximately $7.4 million and $11.0 million, respectively. At closing, WeWork Companies LLC provided the buyer a guaranty of completion for the core and shell construction work of the property and the Company is obligated for any overruns if the amounts in escrow are not sufficient to cover the required construction costs.

Creator Fund

During 2018, the Company launched a fund (the "Creator Fund") that previously made investments in recipients of WeWork's "Creator Awards" and other investments through use of a venture capital strategy. A wholly-owned subsidiary of the Company was the managing member of the Creator Fund. As of September 17, 2020, the Creator Fund had received contributions from SoftBank Group Capital Limited totaling $72.4 million, representing 99.99% of the interest of the Creator Fund. No contributions were received during the three and six months ended June 30, 2021.

In September 2020, the Company agreed to transfer its rights as managing member and all of its other rights, titles, interests, obligations and commitments in respect of the Creator Fund to an affiliate of SBG. Accordingly, the Company no longer has a variable interest in the Creator Fund and is no longer the primary beneficiary and the Company has deconsolidated the net assets of the Creator Fund and removed the carrying amount of the noncontrolling interest from the consolidated balance sheet as of December 31, 2020. As substantially all of the net assets of the Creator Fund were previously allocated to the noncontrolling interests, no gain or loss was recognized on deconsolidation of the Creator Fund. In connection with this transaction, the parties also agreed that WeWork would not be required to reimburse SBG for the $21.6 million Creator Awards production services reimbursement obligation payable to an affiliate of SBG as of December 31, 2019, as described in Note 17. As SBG is a principal shareholder of the Company, the forgiveness of this obligation was accounted for as a capital contribution and reclassified from liabilities to additional paid-in-capital during the year ended December 31, 2020.

ChinaCo

During 2017 and 2018, a consolidated subsidiary of the Company (“ChinaCo”) sold to investors $500.0 million of Series A Preferred Stock at a price of $10.00 per share and a liquidation preference of $10.00 per share and $500.0 million of Series B Preferred Stock at a price of $18.319 per share and a liquidation preference of $18.319 per share, respectively. The portion of consolidated equity attributable to ChinaCo’s Series A and B Preferred shareholders were reflected as redeemable noncontrolling interests, within the mezzanine section of the accompanying consolidated balance sheet as of December 31, 2019. As of December 31, 2019, ChinaCo had also issued a total of 45,757,777 Class A Ordinary Shares in connection with an acquisition of naked Hub Holdings Ltd. (“naked Hub”) that occurred during 2018 and an additional 2 million Class A Ordinary Shares to a consultant as described in Note 9. The portion of consolidated equity attributable to ChinaCo’s Class A Ordinary shareholders were reflected as noncontrolling interests, within the equity section of the accompanying consolidated balance sheet as of December 31, 2019.

Pursuant to the terms of the shareholders’ agreement of ChinaCo, as long as certain investors remain shareholders of ChinaCo, ChinaCo will be the exclusive operator of the Company’s businesses in the “Greater China” territory, defined in the agreement to include China, Hong Kong, Taiwan and Macau.

In August 2020, a wholly owned subsidiary of WeWork Inc. made a short-term loan to ChinaCo totaling $25.0 million (the “ChinaCo Loan”). In connection with ChinaCo’s 2018 acquisition of naked Hub, as of December 31, 2019, ChinaCo also had a $191.1 million obligation to reimburse a wholly owned subsidiary of WeWork Inc. for WeWork Inc. shares issued to the sellers of naked Hub (the “Parent Note”). As ChinaCo was consolidated as of December 31, 2019, the Parent Note was eliminated against the Company’s receivables in the Company’s consolidated financial statements.

In September 2020, the shareholders of ChinaCo and an affiliate of TrustBridge Partners (“TBP”), also an existing shareholder of ChinaCo, executed a restructuring and Series A subscription agreement (the “ChinaCo Agreement”). Pursuant to the ChinaCo Agreement, TBP agreed to subscribe for a new series of ChinaCo shares for $100.0 million in total gross proceeds to ChinaCo, received in connection with the initial investment closing on October 2, 2020 (the “Initial Investment Closing”) and an additional $100.0 million in gross proceeds to ChinaCo, with such additional shares issued and proceeds to be received at the earlier of 1 year following the Initial Investment Closing or such earlier date as determined by the ChinaCo board, to the extent such funds are necessary to support the operations of ChinaCo (the “Second Investment Closing”). The ChinaCo Agreement also included the restructuring of the ownership interests of all other preferred and ordinary shareholders’ interests into new ordinary shares in ChinaCo and the conversion of the $191.1 million Parent Note and certain other net intercompany payables totaling approximately $42.0 million, payable by ChinaCo to various wholly owned subsidiaries of WeWork Inc. into new ordinary shares of ChinaCo such that subsequent to the Initial Investment Closing in October 2020, and as of December 31, 2020, WeWork now holds 21.6% of the total shares issued by ChinaCo. The Company’s remaining interest is scheduled to be diluted down to 19.7% in connection with the Second Investment Closing, assuming no other changes in the ChinaCo equity prior to the Second Investment Closing. As of June 30, 2021, TBP now holds a total of 50.5% of the total shares issued by ChinaCo subsequent to the Initial Investment Closing and is expected to hold 55.0% of the total shares after the Second Investment Closing. TBP's shares are preferred shares which have a liquidation preference totaling $100.0 million and $200.0 million as of the Initial Investment Closing and the Second Investment Closing, respectively.

Upon Initial Investment Closing on October 2, 2020, ChinaCo received the $100.0 million in gross proceeds from TBP and a portion of those proceeds were used to repay WeWork $25.0 million for the ChinaCo Loan. In addition, pursuant to the terms of the ChinaCo Agreement, the rights of the ChinaCo shareholders were also amended such that upon the Initial Investment Closing, WeWork no longer retained the power to direct the activities of the VIE that most significantly impact the VIE's economic performance. As a result, WeWork was no longer the primary beneficiary of ChinaCo and ChinaCo was deconsolidated from the Company's consolidated financial statements on October 2, 2020 (the "ChinaCo Deconsolidation"). The Company's remaining 21.6% ordinary share investment was valued at $26.3 million upon deconsolidation and will be accounted for as an equity method investment as the Company has retained rights that allow it to exercise significant influence over ChinaCo as a related party.

During the fourth quarter of 2020, the Company recorded a loss on the ChinaCo Deconsolidation of $153.0 million included in impairment/(gain on sale) of goodwill, intangibles and other assets in the consolidated statement of operations calculated based on the difference between (i) the $26.3 million fair value of the Company's retained equity method investment in ChinaCo plus the carrying amount of the noncontrolling interest in ChinaCo as of the date of deconsolidation, which was in a negative deficit position of $(22.6) million and (ii) the carrying value of ChinaCo's net assets just prior to deconsolidation of $156.7 million.

The remeasurement loss recognized on deconsolidation primarily relates to the remeasurement of our retained equity method investment in ChinaCo, recorded at fair value upon deconsolidation, in comparison to the carrying value of the net intercompany receivables that were converted into equity in ChinaCo in conjunction with the ChinaCo restructuring that ultimately resulted in the deconsolidation.

The net assets of ChinaCo that were deconsolidated on October 2, 2020, included a total of $344.3 million of goodwill related to ChinaCo's 2018 acquisition of naked Hub Holdings Ltd. As this goodwill was integrated into the Company's single reporting unit, upon deconsolidation of a portion of the reporting unit, the Company's total goodwill was reallocated among the Company and ChinaCo on a relative fair value basis with $315.6 million of ChinaCo's goodwill retained by the Company with a corresponding increase to additional-paid-in capital and $28.7 million of ChinaCo's goodwill was deconsolidated.

See Note 17 for details regarding various related party fees payable by ChinaCo to the Company subsequent to the ChinaCo Deconsolidation.

JapanCo

During 2017, a consolidated subsidiary of the Company (“JapanCo”) entered into an agreement with an affiliate of SBG for the sale of a 50.0% membership interest in JapanCo for an aggregate contribution of $500.0 million which will be funded over a period of time. As of December 31, 2018, JapanCo had received contributions totaling $300.0 million and during the year ended December 31, 2019, an additional $100.0 million was received. Pursuant to the terms of the agreement an additional $100.0 million was required to be contributed and was received during the third quarter of 2020. The portion of consolidated equity attributable to the outside investors’ interests in JapanCo are reflected as redeemable noncontrolling interests, within the mezzanine section of the accompanying condensed consolidated balance sheets as of June 30, 2021 and December 31, 2020. As long as the investors remain shareholders of JapanCo, JapanCo will be the exclusive operator of the Company’s WeWork branded space-as-a-service businesses in Japan. After July 13, 2024 and, prior to that date, in the event of default on the contributions to be made, the Company may elect to purchase, at fair value, all JapanCo membership interests held, other than any interests issued in connection with an equity incentive plan. The Company may elect to pay the buyout consideration in either cash, WeWork shares or a combination thereof.

PacificCo

During 2017, a consolidated subsidiary of the Company (“PacificCo”) sold $500.0 million of Series A-1 Preferred Stock at a price of $10.00 per share and a liquidation preference of $10.00 per share to an affiliate of SBG. PacificCo is the operator of the Company’s businesses in selected markets in Asia other than those included in the Greater China and Japan territories described above, including but not limited to Singapore, Korea, the Philippines, Malaysia, Thailand, Vietnam and Indonesia.

The initial closing occurred on October 30, 2017 and all of the PacificCo Series A-1 Preferred Stock was issued at that time, however the Company received contributions totaling $200.0 million at the initial closing and an additional $100.0 million during the year ended December 31, 2018. Pursuant to the terms of the agreement an additional $100.0 million was required to be contributed in each of 2019 and 2020. The Company received $100.0 million in August 2019 and the remaining $100.0 million scheduled to be received in 2020 was canceled effective upon our entry into a definitive agreement providing for the completion of the PacificCo Roll-up (as defined below) in connection with the SoftBank Transactions in March 2020.

In October 2019, in connection with the SoftBank Transactions, the Company, SBG and SoftBank Vision Fund agreed to use reasonable best efforts to negotiate and finalize the final forms for the exchange of all interests held by affiliates of SBG in PacificCo for 34,482,759 shares of the Company's Series H-1 or H-2 Convertible Preferred Stock with a liquidation preference of $11.60 per share (the "PacificCo Roll-up"). On March 31, 2020, the Company signed the definitive agreements for the PacificCo Roll-up and in April 2020, the Company closed the PacificCo Roll-up and issued 34,482,759 shares of the Company's Series H-1 Convertible Preferred Stock. Upon completion of the PacificCo Roll-up in April 2020, PacificCo became a wholly owned subsidiary of the Company and is no longer a VIE.

The 34,482,759 shares of Series H-1 Convertible Preferred Stock issued in connection with the PacificCo Roll-up had a fair value of $8.13 per share upon issuance to affiliates of SBG in April 2020. As the share exchange represents an increase in the Company's ownership of PacificCo while control of PacificCo was retained, the carrying amount of the noncontrolling interest was adjusted to reflect the change in the Company's ownership interest in PacificCo and the Company accounted for the share exchange as an equity transaction with no gain or loss recognized on the acquisition of the noncontrolling interests.

Just prior to the PacificCo Roll-up, the PacificCo noncontrolling interest had a carrying value on the Company's balance sheet of $92.8 million, including $10.4 million in accumulated other comprehensive income previously allocated to the noncontrolling interest holders. Upon consummation of the PacificCo Roll-up, the noncontrolling interest was reduced by the entire $92.8 million carrying value and the $10.4 million of accumulated other comprehensive income was allocated to the Company to adjust for the change in ownership of PacificCo through a corresponding charge to additional paid-in capital. The difference between the $280.3 million fair value of the Series H-1 Convertible Preferred Stock issued as consideration and the $92.8 million carrying value of the noncontrolling interest was reflected as a charge to additional paid-in capital totaling $187.5 million.

Consolidated Variable Interest Entities

As of June 30, 2021 and December 31, 2020, JapanCo, WeCap Manager and WeCap Holdings Partnership are the Company's only consolidated VIEs. The Company is considered to be the primary beneficiary as we have the power to direct the activities of the VIEs that most significantly impact the VIEs' economic performance and the right to receive benefits that could potentially be significant to the VIEs. As a result, these entities remain consolidated subsidiaries of the Company and the interests owned by the other investors and the net income or loss and comprehensive income or loss attributable to the other investors are reflected as redeemable noncontrolling interests and noncontrolling interests on our condensed consolidated balance sheets, statements of operations and statements of comprehensive loss, respectively.

The net assets of the Asia JVs include preferred stock issued to affiliates of SBG and other investors with aggregate liquidation preferences totaling $0.5 billion and $0.5 billion, respectively as of June 30, 2021 and December 31, 2020, which preferred stock is redeemable upon the occurrence of an event that is not solely within the control of the Company. The initial issuance price of such redeemable preferred stock equals the liquidation preference for each share issued as of June 30, 2021 and December 31, 2020, respectively. After reducing the net assets of each Asia JV by the liquidation preference associated with such redeemable preferred stock, the remaining net assets of each Asia JV is negative.

- (3) In June 2020, the Company entered into an agreement with WeWork India Management Private Limited (“IndiaCo”), an affiliate of Embassy Property Developments Private Limited (“Embassy”), to subscribe for new convertible debentures to be issued by IndiaCo in an aggregate principal amount of $100.0 million (the “2020 Debentures”). During June 2020, $85.0 million of the principal had been funded, with the remaining $15.0 million to be funded over time based on milestones achieved by IndiaCo. The remaining $15.0 million was funded in April 2021. The 2020 Debentures earn interest at a coupon rate of 12.5% per annum for the 18-month period beginning from June 2020 which then gets reduced to 0.001% per annum and have a maximum term of 10 years. The 2020 Debentures are convertible into equity at the Company’s option after 18 months from June 2020 or upon mutual agreement between the Company, IndiaCo, and Embassy. The Company’s investment balance as of June 30, 2021 also includes an aggregate principal amount of approximately $5.4 million in other convertible debentures issued by IndiaCo that earn interest at a coupon rate of 0.001% per annum and have a maximum term of ten years. During the three months ended June 30, 2021 and 2020, the Company recorded $(2.4) million and $3.6 million, in unrealized gain (loss) on available-for-sale securities included in other comprehensive income, respectively, net of tax. IndiaCo constructs and operates workspace locations in India using WeWork’s branding, advice and sales model. Per the terms of an agreement the Company will also receive a management fee from IndiaCo. The Company recorded $1.2 million and $0.9 million of management fee income from IndiaCo during the three months ended June 30, 2021 and 2020, respectively, and recorded $3.6 million and $0.9 million for the six months ended June 30, 2021 and 2020, respectively. Pursuant to ASC 323-10-35-20, the Company discontinued applying the equity method on the ChinaCo investment when the carrying amount was reduced to zero in the first quarter of 2021. The Company will resume application of the equity method if, during the period the equity method was suspended, the Company’s share of unrecognized net income exceeds the Company’s share of unrecognized net losses. See Note 5 for additional details regarding the ChinaCo Deconsolidation and see Note 17 for details regarding various related party fees payable by ChinaCo to the Company subsequent to the ChinaCo Deconsolidation.

The Buyer assumed the Company’s remaining capital commitments of $1.9 million.

As of June 30, 2021, the WPI Fund, IndiaCo, ARK Master Fund, ChinaCo and certain other entities in which the Company has invested are unconsolidated VIEs. In all cases, the Company is not the primary beneficiary, as the Company does not have both the power to direct the activities of the entity that most significantly impact the entity’s economic performance and exposure to benefits or losses that could potentially be significant to the VIE. included a commitment from SBG for the provision of (i) $1.1 billion in senior secured debt in the form of senior secured notes or a first lien term loan facility (“SoftBank Senior Secured Debt”), (ii) $2.2 billion in 5.0% senior unsecured notes (the “SoftBank Senior Unsecured Notes”) with associated warrants issued to SoftBank Group Corp. (“SoftBank Obligor”) to purchase 86,591,946 shares of the Company’s Series H-3 Convertible Preferred Stock or Series H-4 Convertible Preferred Stock at an exercise price of $0.01 per share and (iii) credit support for a $1.75 billion letter of credit facility (the “2020 LC Facility”) with associated warrants issued to SoftBank Obligor to purchase 43,295,973 shares of the Company’s Series H-3 Convertible Preferred Stock or Series H-4 Convertible Preferred Stock at an exercise price of $0.01 per share. See Note 16 for additional details regarding the 2020 LC Facility.

SoftBank Senior Secured Debt

The funding of the $1.1 billion of SoftBank Senior Secured Debt originally contemplated per the Master Transaction Agreement was contingent on the completion of the 2020 Tender Offer (as defined in Note 14) and the 2020 Tender Offer was not completed therefore the SoftBank Senior Secured Debt was also considered terminated in April 2020. See Note 14 for additional details regarding the 2020 Tender Offer.

In August 2020, the Company, WW Co-Obligor Inc., and StarBright WW LP, an affiliate of SBG (the “Note Purchaser”), entered into a new senior secured note purchase agreement for up to an aggregate principal amount of $1.1 billion of senior secured debt in the form of 12.50% senior secured notes (the “SoftBank Senior Secured Notes”). The agreement allows the Company to borrow once every 30 days up to the maximum remaining capacity with minimum draws of $50.0 million. The SoftBank Senior Secured Notes will mature 4 years from the first draw. The Company had the ability to draw for 6 months starting from the date of the senior secured note purchase agreement, and the Company extended this draw period for an additional 6 months by delivery of an extension notice to the Note Purchaser in January 2021 pursuant to the terms of the agreement. As of June 30, 2021 and December 31, 2020, no draw notices had been delivered pursuant to the senior secured note purchase agreement.

Amended and Restated Senior Secured Notes

In March 2021, the Company and an affiliate of SBG entered into a letter agreement pursuant to which the Company and an affiliate of SBG have agreed to amend and restate the terms of the Master Senior Secured Notes Note Purchase Agreement that governs the SoftBank Senior Secured Notes (as amended and restated, the “A&R Senior Secured Note Purchase Agreement”) on the earlier of (i) the Closing and (ii) August 12, 2021. The A&R Senior Secured Note Purchase Agreement will allow the Company to borrow up to an aggregate principal amount of $550.0 million of senior secured debt in the form of new 7.5% senior secured notes (the “A&R Senior Secured Notes”). It is a condition to the execution of the A&R Senior Secured Note Purchase Agreement that any outstanding SoftBank Senior Secured Notes be redeemed, repurchased or otherwise repaid and canceled at a price of 101% of the principal amount thereof plus accrued and unpaid interest. The A&R Senior Secured Note Purchase Agreement will allow the Company to borrow once every 30 days with minimum draws of $50.0 million. The A&R Senior Secured Notes will mature no later than February 12, 2023 or, if earlier, 18 months from the Closing.

SoftBank Senior Unsecured Notes

To formalize SBG’s October 2019 commitment to provide WeWork Companies LLC with up to $2.2 billion of unsecured debt, on December 27, 2019, WeWork Companies LLC, WW Co-Obligor Inc., a wholly owned subsidiary of WeWork Companies LLC and a co-obligor under our Senior Notes (defined in Note 14), and StarBright WW LP, an affiliate of SBG (the “Note Purchaser”), entered into a master senior unsecured note purchase agreement (as amended from time to time and as supplemented by that certain waiver dated as of July 7, 2020, the “Master Note Purchase Agreement”).

Pursuant to the terms of the Master Note Purchase Agreement, WeWork Companies LLC may deliver from time to time to the Note Purchaser draw notices and accordingly sell to the Note Purchaser SoftBank Senior Unsecured Notes up to an aggregate original principal amount of $2.2 billion. A draw notice pursuant to the Master Note Purchase Agreement, may be delivered only if WeWork Companies LLC’s net liquidity is, or prior to the applicable closing is reasonably expected to be, less than $750.0 million, and the amount under each draw shall not be greater than the lesser of (a) $250.0 million and (b) the remaining commitment (defined as the original principal amount of $2.2 billion less notes issued) and shall not be greater than an amount sufficient to cause, or reasonably expected to cause, the net liquidity of WeWork Companies LLC to be equal to $750.0 million after giving effect to receipt of proceeds from the issuance of the applicable SoftBank Senior Unsecured Notes.

As of June 30, 2021, the Company had delivered draw notices in respect of $2.2 billion under the Master Note Purchase Agreement and an aggregate principal amount of $2.2 billion of SoftBank Senior Unsecured Notes were issued to the Note Purchaser and reflected as unsecured related party debt on the condensed consolidated balance sheet as of June 30, 2021. As of December 31, 2020, the Company had delivered draw notices in respect of $1.2 billion under the Master Note Purchase Agreement and an aggregate principal amount of $1.2 billion of SoftBank Senior Unsecured Notes were issued to the Note Purchaser and reflected as unsecured related party debt on the condensed consolidated balance sheet as of December 31, 2020.

Following the delivery of a draw notice, the Note Purchaser may notify WeWork Companies LLC that it intends to engage an investment bank or investment banks to offer and sell the applicable SoftBank Senior Unsecured Notes or any portion thereof to third-party investors in a private placement. Solely with respect to the first $200.0 million in draws (the “Initial Notes”), the Note Purchaser waived this syndication right and no action has been taken on the remainder of the draws.

The SoftBank Senior Unsecured Notes have a stated interest rate of 5.0%. However because the associated warrants obligate the Company to issue shares in the future, the implied interest rate upon closing, assuming the full commitment is drawn, was approximately 11.69%. The SoftBank Senior Unsecured Notes will mature in July 2025.

(UNAUDITED)

Upon the occurrence of certain change of control triggering events, the Company may be required to repurchase the Senior Notes at a price equal to 101% of their principal amount, plus accrued and unpaid interest through the date of repurchase. The Senior Notes contain certain restrictive covenants that limit the Company's ability to create certain liens, to enter into certain affiliated transactions and to consolidate or merge with, or convey, transfer or lease all or substantially all of its assets, subject to important qualifications and exceptions.

The Senior Notes (i) rank equally in right of payment with the SoftBank Senior Unsecured Notes, any payment obligations under the 2020 LC Facility and any existing and future senior indebtedness of the Company, (ii) are senior in right of payment to any existing and future subordinated obligations of the Company, and (iii) are effectively subordinated to all secured indebtedness of the Company (including obligations under the 2020 LC Facility discussed in Note 16) to the extent of the value of the collateral securing such indebtedness, and are structurally subordinated to all liabilities of any subsidiary that does not guarantee the Senior Notes.

The Senior Notes are unconditionally guaranteed on a senior basis by each of our subsidiaries that guarantees obligations under the Company's 2020 LC Facility or certain other indebtedness of the Company as a guarantor. As of June 30, 2021, each restricted subsidiary that guaranteed obligations under the 2020 LC Facility discussed in Note 16 also guaranteed the Senior Notes.

Subsequent to the July 2019 legal entity reorganization, WeWork Companies LLC is the obligor of its Senior Notes, which is also fully and unconditionally guaranteed by WeWork Inc. WeWork Inc. and the other subsidiaries that sit above WeWork Companies LLC in our legal structure are holding companies that conduct substantially all of their business operations through WeWork Companies LLC. As of June 30, 2021, based on the covenants and other restrictions of the Senior Notes, WeWork Companies LLC is restricted in its ability to transfer funds by loans, advances or dividends to WeWork Inc. and as a result all of the net assets of WeWork Companies LLC are considered restricted net assets of WeWork Inc. See the Supplementary Information — Consolidating Balance Sheet, for additional details regarding the net assets of WeWork Companies LLC.

The indenture that governs the Senior Notes also restricts us from incurring indebtedness or liens or making certain investments or distributions, subject to a number of exceptions. Certain of these exceptions included in the indenture that governs our Senior Notes are subject to us having Minimum Liquidity (as defined in the indenture that governs our Senior Notes). For incurrences in 2019, Minimum Liquidity was required to be 0.7 times Total Indebtedness (as defined in the indenture that governs our Senior Notes) and for incurrences in 2020, Minimum Liquidity was required to be 0.3 times Total Indebtedness. Beginning on January 1, 2021, there is no longer a Minimum Liquidity requirement. Certain of these exceptions included in the indenture that governs our Senior Notes are subject to us having Minimum Growth-Adjusted EBITDA (as defined in the indenture that governs our Senior Notes) for the most recent four consecutive fiscal quarters. For incurrences in fiscal years ending December 31, 2019, 2020, 2021 and 2022-2025, the Minimum Growth-Adjusted EBITDA required for the immediately preceding four consecutive fiscal quarters is $200.0 million, $500.0 million, $1.0 billion and $2.0 billion, respectively. For the four quarters ended June 30, 2021, the Company's Minimum Growth-Adjusted EBITDA, as calculated in accordance with the indenture, was less than the $1.0 billion requirement effective as of January 1, 2021. As a result, the Company will be restricted in its ability to incur certain new indebtedness in 2021 that was not already executed or committed to as of December 31, 2019, until such Minimum Growth-Adjusted EBITDA increases above the threshold required. The restrictions of the Senior Notes do not impact our ability to access the unfunded commitments pursuant to the SoftBank Senior Unsecured Notes and the SoftBank Senior Secured Notes.

During the three and six months ended June 30, 2021, the Company recorded interest expense of $13.2 million and $26.4 million, respectively, and amortization of deferred financing costs recorded as interest expense of

In March 2020, the 424 Fifth Property was sold and a portion of the sale proceeds were utilized to repay the principal and interest outstanding on the 424 Venture Loans in full. The Company accounted for this repayment as a debt extinguishment in accordance with ASC 470, Debt and recorded a loss of $71.6 million included within loss on extinguishment of debt on the condensed consolidated statements of operations for the three and six months ended June 30, 2020. The loss on extinguishment represents the difference between the $756.6 million in cash paid, including a prepayment penalty and various other closing costs totaling $56.1 million and the net carrying amount of the debt and unamortized debt issuance costs immediately prior to the extinguishment of $685.0 million. This extinguishment was not considered to be a troubled debt restructuring.

During 2020, for the period prior to extinguishment, the weighted average interest rate on the 424 Fifth Venture Loans was 7.8% and $10.4 million of interest expense was originally included within the Company’s construction in progress balance as a component of property and equipment, immediately prior to the sale, as the 424 Fifth Property was under development and not ready for its intended use before it was sold.

The 424 Fifth Venture Loans were secured only by the assets and equity of the 424 Fifth Venture, and were recourse to the Company in certain limited circumstances, and the Company had provided certain customary performance guarantees standard for real estate and construction financing.

(UNAUDITED)

Due to the inherent uncertainty in the valuation process, the estimate of fair value of the Company's assets and liabilities may differ from values that would have been used had a ready market for the securities existed.

Nonrecurring Fair Value Measurements

Non-financial assets and liabilities measured at fair value in the condensed consolidated financial statements on a nonrecurring basis consist of certain investments, goodwill, intangibles and other long-lived assets on which impairment adjustments were required to be recorded during the period and assets and related liabilities held for sale which, if applicable, are measured at the lower of their carrying value or fair value less any costs to sell.

As discussed in Note 5, on October 2, 2020, ChinaCo was deconsolidated. The Company's remaining 21.6% ordinary share investment was valued at $26.3 million upon deconsolidation and will be accounted for as an equity method investment. The initial fair value of the Company's retained investment in ChinaCo was determined using a combination of the market approach and the implied value of ChinaCo based on the TBP investment and a discounted cash flow valuation model that incorporated level 3 unobservable inputs relevant to the valuation of the Company's retained ordinary shares versus the preferred shares acquired by TBP.

As of June 30, 2021 and December 31, 2020, there were no assets or related liabilities held for sale included on the accompanying condensed consolidated balance sheet. During the three and six months ended June 30, 2021, the Company recorded an impairment charge of none related to assets and liabilities previously classified as held for sale. During the three and six months ended June 30, 2020, the Company recorded an impairment charge of $17.0 million related to assets and liabilities previously classified as held for sale determined to be Level 2 within the fair value hierarchy based primarily on respective contracts of sale.

The Company also recorded impairment charges and other write-offs of certain other long-lived assets, impairing such assets to a carrying value of zero, for impairment charges totaling $195.3 million and $438.1 million during the three and six months ended June 30, 2021, respectively. During the three and six months ended June 30, 2021, the Company also recorded impairment charges totaling $47.6 million and $104.3 million, respectively, relating to right-of-use assets and property and equipment with an as adjusted remaining carrying value totaling $1,224.8 million as of June 30, 2021, valued based on level 3 inputs representing market rent data for the market the right-of-use assets are located in.

Other Fair Value Disclosures

The estimated fair value of the Company's accounts receivable, accounts payable, and accrued expenses approximate their carrying values due to their short maturity periods. As of June 30, 2021, the estimated fair value of the Company's Senior Notes, excluding unamortized debt issuance costs, was approximately $699.6 million based on recent trading activity (Level 1). For the remainder of the Company's long-term debt, the carrying value approximated the fair value as of June 30, 2021.

Remaining Performance Obligations

The aggregate amount of the transaction price allocated to the Company’s remaining performance obligations that represent contracted customer revenues that have not yet been recognized as revenue as of June 30, 2021, that will be recognized as revenue in future periods over the life of the customer contracts, in accordance with ASC 606, was approximately $2 billion. Over half of the remaining performance obligation as of June 30, 2021 is scheduled to be recognized as revenue within the next twelve months, with the remaining to be recognized over the remaining life of the customer contracts, the longest of which extends through 2031.

Approximate future minimum lease cash flows to be received over the next five years and thereafter for non-cancelable membership agreements accounted for as leases in accordance with ASC 842 in effect at June 30, 2021 are as follows:

| (Amounts in thousands) | ASC 842 Revenue |
|-------------------------------|----------------------------|
| 2021 | $ 308,654 |
| 2022 | 446,769 |
| 2023 | 288,467 |
| 2024 | 146,649 |
| 2025 | 69,171 |
| 2026 and beyond | 41,743 |
| Total | $1,301,453 |

The combination of the remaining performance obligation to be recognized as revenue under ASC 606 plus the remaining future minimum lease cash flows of the Company’s member contracts that qualify as leases is comparable to what the Company has historically referred to as “Committed Revenue Backlog”, which totaled approximately $3 billion and $3 billion as of June 30, 2021 and December 31, 2020, respectively. The Company has excluded from these amounts contracts with variable consideration where revenue is recognized using the right to invoice practical expedient.

Note 13. Leasing Arrangements

The real estate operating lease cost incurred before a location opens for member operations is recorded in pre-opening location expenses on the accompanying condensed consolidated statements of operations. Once a location opens for member operations, the entire real estate operating lease cost is included in location operating expenses on the accompanying condensed consolidated statements of operations. Real estate operating lease cost for the Company’s corporate offices and relating to other offerings not directly related to our space-as-a-service offering, for the periods subsequent to acquisition and prior to disposal or wind down, are included in selling, general and administrative expenses on the accompanying condensed consolidated statements of operations. In connection with the restructuring described in Note 3, the Company has decided to strategically close certain locations and terminate certain leases. Any lease termination payments or other remaining lease costs under these leases, where a previously opened location has been closed in preparation for executing a lease termination and/or where a termination agreement has been reached with the landlord, are included in restructuring and other related costs on the accompanying condensed consolidated statements of operations. Other lease terminations, not associated with the restructuring described in Note 3, are classified consistent with the original classification of the lease cost prior to termination. Real estate operating lease cost incurred during the period in which a workspace location has been closed for member operations and all members have been relocated to a new workspace location, before management's decision to enter negotiations to terminate a lease is recorded in pre-opening location expenses on the accompanying consolidated statements of operations.

WEWORK INC.
NOTES TO THE CONDENSED CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

"Lease cost contractually paid or payable" for each period presented below represents cash payments due for base and contingent rent, common area maintenance amounts and real estate taxes payable under the Company's lease agreements, recorded on an accrual basis of accounting, regardless of the timing of when such amounts were actually paid.

The non-cash adjustment to record lease cost "free rent" periods and lease cost escalation clauses on a straight-line basis over the term of the lease beginning on the date of initial possession is presented as "Non-cash GAAP straight-line lease cost" below. Non-cash GAAP straight-line lease cost also includes the amortization of any capitalized initial direct costs associated with obtaining a lease.

The tenant improvement allowances and broker commissions received or receivable by the Company for negotiating the Company's leases are amortized on a straight-line basis over the lease term, as a reduction to the total operating lease cost and are presented as "amortization of lease incentives" below.

"Early termination fees and related (gain)/loss" for each period presented below includes payments due as a result of lease terminations, recorded on a straight-line basis over any remaining lease period as well as any gain or loss recognized on termination. When a lease is terminated, the lease liability and right of use asset is derecognized and any difference is recognized as a gain or loss on termination.

During the six months ended June 30, 2021, the Company terminated leases associated with a total of 59 previously open locations and 3 pre-open locations. Management is continuing to evaluate our real estate portfolio in connection with its ongoing restructuring efforts and expects to exit additional leases over the remainder of 2021.

During the six months ended June 30, 2021, the Company has also successfully amended over 150 leases for a combination of partial terminations to reduce our leased space, rent reductions, rent deferrals, offsets for tenant improvement allowances and other strategic changes. These amendments and full and partial lease terminations have resulted in an estimated reduction of approximately $2.9 billion in total future undiscounted fixed minimum lease cost payments that were scheduled to be paid over the life of the original executed lease agreements, including changes to the obligations of ChinaCo which occurred during the period it was consolidated.

Note 14. Stock-Based Compensation

Effective February 4, 2015, the Company adopted an equity-based compensation plan, the 2015 Equity Incentive Plan, as amended (the "2015 Plan"), authorizing the grant of equity-based awards (including stock options, restricted stock and restricted stock units) to its management, employees, non-employee directors and other non-employees. Following the adoption of the 2015 Plan, no further grants were made under the Company's original plan adopted in 2013 (the "2013 Plan"). On March 17, 2020, the Company amended and restated the 2015 Plan and the share pool reserved for grant and issuance under the 2015 Plan was amended to 81,786,139 shares of Class A Common Stock and 50,967,800 shares of Class B Common Stock. As of June 30, 2021, there were 14,257,460 shares of Class A Common Stock and equivalents that remained available for further grants under the 2015 Plan, no further grants may be made for equity awards with respect to shares of Class B Common Stock.

Profits Interest Units and Noncontrolling Partnership Interests in the WeWork Partnership — In July and August 2019, the Company issued 47,346,098 WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units in the WeWork Partnership, at a weighted average per-unit distribution threshold of $52.29 and a weighted-average per-unit preference amount of $13.93 and canceled certain existing stock option awards held by the WeWork Partnerships Profits Interests grantees. 42,473,167 of the WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units were issued to Adam Neumann, with the remainder issued to certain former members of management. The issuance of WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units represents a modification of the previously issued stock-options and any excess fair value of the replacement award over the fair value of the original award immediately before modification was recognized as incremental compensation cost in accordance with ASC 718. Each holder of WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units in the WeWork Partnership was also granted one share of the Company's Class C Common Stock per WeWork Partnerships Profits Interests. The WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units granted were subject to certain time-based, market-based and/or performance-based vesting conditions.

On September 24, 2019, in connection with the Company's operational restructuring, Mr. Neumann resigned as CEO. Upon resignation, he held 786,540 vested WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units. At the time of resignation, it was the expectation of the parties involved that a mutual agreement on the 41,686,627 unvested WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units, whose vesting were contingent on Mr. Neumann's continued service as the Company's CEO, would be renegotiated. Such agreement was not entered into until October 22, 2019, (which agreement became effective on October 30, 2019) in connection with the SoftBank Transactions. As the status of, and vesting conditions applicable to, the original pre-modified grant were not reflected in a legally binding agreement prior to October 30, 2019, such unvested award was treated for accounting purposes as being forfeited on September 24, 2019 and the modified award described below was accounted for as a new grant in the fourth quarter of 2019.

In October 2019, upon receipt of the $1.5 billion under the 2019 Warrant, the Company modified 786,540 WeWork Partnerships Profits Interests held by Mr. Neumann which had vested prior to his resignation on September 24, 2019, to reduce the per-unit distribution threshold from $64.36 to $19.19 and to reduce the per-unit catch-up base amount from $38.36 to $19.19. In October 2019, the Company also came to a final agreement with Mr. Neumann regarding modification to the remainder of his WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units award and determined that (i) 7,685,165 additional WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units would be modified to reduce the per-unit distribution threshold from $64.36 to $19.19, to reduce the per-unit catch-up base amount from $38.36 to $19.19, and to be immediately vested, (ii) 15,609,963 WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units would be modified to reduce the per-unit distribution threshold from $49.28 to $21.05, to reduce the per-unit catch-up base amount from $38.36 to $21.05, and to vest monthly over a two year period immediately following a change in control or initial public offering of the Company, contingent on compliance with the restrictive covenants and other obligations set forth in Mr. Neumann's non-competition and non-solicitation agreement and (iii) the remaining 18,391,499 WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units were forfeited.

In February 2021, in connection with the Settlement Agreement, as defined in Note 16, the remaining 15,609,963 unvested WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units held by Mr. Neumann in the WeWork Partnership became fully vested. In addition, all of Mr. Neumann's 24,081,668 WeWork Partnerships Profits Interests were amended to reduce the per-unit catch-up base amount to $0 and to reduce the per-unit distribution threshold to $10.00 (subject to downward adjustment based on closing date pricing if a de-SPAC or initial public offering occurs). As a result of this modification, the Company recorded $102.0 million of restructuring and other related costs in its consolidated statement of operations for the three-months ended March 31, 2021.

As of June 30, 2021 and 2020, there were none and 1,045,002, respectively of unvested WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units outstanding relating to other former members of executive management which all contained time-based vesting conditions and would have vested over a 7 year period.

The economic terms of the WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units give the holder an economic interest in the future growth and appreciation of the Company's business and are intended to replicate, in certain respects, the economics of incentive stock options, while providing more efficient tax treatment for both the Company and the holder.

Holder can also, at the election of the holder, (a) convert their vested WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units into WeWork Partnerships Class B Common Units, or (b) exchange (along with the corresponding shares of WeWork Class C Common Stock) their vested WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units for (at WeWork's election) shares of WeWork Class B Common Stock (which would immediately and automatically be exchanged for WeWork Class A Common Stock) or cash of an equivalent value. When the WeWork Partnership makes distributions to its partners, the holders of vested WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units are generally entitled to share in those distributions with the other partners, including the wholly-owned subsidiaries of WeWork Inc. that hold partnership interests, once the aggregate amount of distributions since the WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units were issued equals the "aggregate distribution threshold" with respect to those WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units. The "aggregate distribution threshold" with respect to any WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units issued equals the liquidation value of the WeWork Partnership when such WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units was issued, and such amount was determined based on a valuation of the WeWork Partnership performed by a third-party valuation firm. Once a WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units holder is entitled to share in distributions (because prior distributions have been made in an amount equal to the aggregate distribution threshold), the holder is entitled to receive distributions in an amount equal to a "preference amount", which is a set dollar amount per WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units equal to the difference between the WeWork Partnerships Profits Interests "per-unit distribution threshold" (which is the per-profits-interest equivalent of the aggregate distribution threshold, as determined by a third party valuation firm) and its "catch-up base amount" (which is similar to an option exercise price), and thereafter shares pro rata in distributions with other partners in the WeWork Partnership.

Holder can also (a) convert their vested WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units into WeWork Partnerships Class B Common Units, or (b) exchange (along with the corresponding shares of WeWork Class Common Stock) their vested WeWork Partnership Profits Interest Units for (at WeWork's election) shares of the WeWork Class B Common Stock (which would immediately and automatically be exchanged for the WeWork Class A Common Stock) or cash of an equivalent value. Similar to their entitlement to distributions, as described above, holders of vested WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units can receive value through such an exchange only to the extent the value of the WeWork Partnership has increased above the aggregate distribution threshold. This is measured by comparing the value of a share of the WeWork Class A Common Stock on the day of exchange to the per-unit distribution threshold for the exchanged WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units. If, on the day that a WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units is exchanged, the value of a share of the WeWork Class A Common Stock exceeds the per-unit distribution threshold for the exchanged WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units, then the holder is entitled to receive that difference plus the "preference amount" for the WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units (subject to certain downward adjustments for prior distributions by the WeWork Partnership).

Upon the exchange of WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units in the WeWork Partnership for shares of WeWork Class B Common Stock or the forfeiture of WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units in the WeWork Partnership, the corresponding shares of WeWork Class C Common Stock will be redeemed. Shares of WeWork Class C Common Stock cannot be transferred other than in connection with the transfer of the corresponding WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units in the WeWork Partnership.

The redemption value of the WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units in the WeWork Partnership are measured based upon the aggregate redemption value and takes into account the proportion of employee services rendered under the WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units vesting provisions. The redemption value will vary from period to period based upon the fair value of the Company and are accounted for as a component of noncontrolling interests within the equity section of the consolidated balance sheet through reclassifications to and from additional-paid-in-capital.

As of June 30, 2021, there were 24,132,575 vested WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units outstanding. However, the overall redemption value of outstanding WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units and the corresponding noncontrolling interest in the WeWork Partnership was zero as of June 30, 2021 and December 31, 2020, as the fair market value of the Company's stock as of June 30, 2021 and December 31, 2020, was less than the per-unit distribution threshold for the outstanding WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units. As the fair market value of the Company's stock increases above the distribution threshold, the WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units will be dilutive to the Company's ownership percentage in the WeWork Partnership.

The following table summarizes the WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units activity during the six months ended June 30, 2021:

Of the stock options granted during the year ended December 31, 2020, 1,578,681 stock options were valued using the Black-Scholes Model and a single option approach and the remaining 27,112,272 stock options granted had an original exercise price greater than the fair market value of the Company's common stock on the date of grant and therefore the Company estimated the fair value of these awards using the binomial model.

These stock options are subject to the risk of forfeiture until vested by virtue of continued employment or service to the Company.

During the six months ended June 30, 2021, the Company modified 14.7 million options held by 36 employees to purchase Class A Common Stock containing both service and performance-based vesting conditions (including a market-based vesting condition). The Company modified the market-based condition to be based on the share price of the Company's Class A Common Stock: (i) after the Company becomes (or becomes a subsidiary of) a publicly traded company with shares traded on the New York Stock Exchange, NASDAQ, or other similar national exchange, by either (a) an initial public offering, or (b) a Public Company Acquisition (as defined in the agreement), or (ii) if the Company's Class A Common Stock is not publicly traded on any national securities exchange, the share price shall be measured only as of the closing date of a Capital Raise Transaction (as defined in the agreement). The Company applied modification accounting under ASC 718, which resulted in a new measurement of compensation cost, and the original grant-date fair value of the award is no longer used to measure compensation cost for the award. The weighted-average fair value on the new measurement date amounted to $2.64.

The following table summarizes the stock option activity during the six months ended June 30, 2021:

The fair value of the awards with a performance-based vesting condition was estimated using a two-step binomial option pricing model to capture the impact of the value the underlying common stock based on the Company's complex capital structure and the post-vesting exercise behavior of the subject awards, which were captured by applying a suboptimal exercise factor of 2.5-times the exercise price and post-vesting forfeiture rate of 10 percent.

The fair value of the awards with performance and market-based conditions was estimated using a Monte Carlo simulation to address the path-dependent nature of the market-based vesting conditions. Based on the award term, equity value, expected volatility, risk-free rate, and a series of random variables with a normal distribution, the future equity value is simulated to develop a large number of potential paths of the future equity value. Each path within the simulation includes the measurement of the 90-trading day average future equity value to determine whether the market-based conditions are met, and the future value of the award based on applying a sub-optimal exercise factor of 2.5-times the exercise price to capture post-vesting, early exercise behavior.

The assumptions used to value the stock options issued during the year ended December 31, 2020 (excluding options exchanged in the 2020 Option Repricing, described below) were as follows:

Restricted Stock — Grants of the Company’s restricted stock or restricted stock units consist primarily of time-based awards that are subject to the risk of forfeiture until vested by virtue of continued employment or service to the Company. Certain awards contain additional performance-based vesting conditions for vesting described below.

In June 2018, certain former executives of the Company were issued 756,039 shares of restricted Class A Common Stock in exchange for recourse promissory notes with principal balances totaling $20.2 million as of December 31, 2018, included as a component of equity. As of June 30, 2021 and December 31, 2020, there was none included as a component of equity. During the year ended December 31, 2020, the Company forgave loans and interest totaling $12.5 million. During the three months ended December 31, 2019, the Company received cash repayments of principal and interest totaling $1.0 million and the Company forgave loans and interest totaling $7.5 million, with such forgiveness recorded as a component of restructuring and other related costs on the accompanying consolidated statement of operations. These restricted shares were scheduled to vest over a five year period and were subject to repurchase by the Company during the vesting period at the original issue price. The recourse note outstanding as of December 31, 2019, included an interest rate of 2.5% and was originally scheduled to mature in 2027. The loan settled in full during 2019, included an interest rate of 2.9%.

$1.1 million, the surrendering to the Company of 64,489 Class A Common Stock totaling $0.3 million and the forgiveness of $0.8 million which was recognized as a component of restructuring and other related costs on the accompanying condensed consolidated statements of operations. These restricted shares were scheduled to vest over a five year period and were subject to repurchase by the Company during the vesting period at the original issue price. The loans settled in full during 2020 included interest rates of 2.6%.

During the six months ended June 30, 2021, the Company granted 1,560,000 RSUs (which remained unvested at June 30, 2021) to employees which RSUs may be settled in Class A Common Stock containing both service and performance-based vesting conditions (including a market-based condition). Each RSU represents the right to receive one share of the Company's Class A Common Stock when fully vested. These RSUs have a seven-year contractual term. These RSUs will be earned following the achievement of either: a performance-based vesting condition tied to operating free cash flow (as defined in the award), or a performance- and market-based vesting condition tied to the share price of the Company's Class A Common Stock; (i) after the Company becomes (or becomes a subsidiary of) a publicly traded company with shares traded on the New York Stock Exchange, NASDAQ, or other similar national exchange, by either (a) an initial public offering, or a (b) a Public Company Acquisition (as defined in the agreement), or (ii) if the Company's Class A Common Stock is not publicly traded on any national securities exchange, the share price shall be measured as of the closing date of a Capital Raise Transaction (as defined in the award), at three or four distinct threshold levels, respectively, over a distinct performance period from 2021 through 2024. RSUs that have become earned shall become payable units when the service conditions are met over a three to four-year service period. RSUs that have become payable units as of the date of a Liquidity Event (as defined in the agreement) will vest on the date of such Liquidity Event (as defined in the agreement). If a Liquidity Event (as defined in the agreement) has occurred, any RSUs that has not become earned as of the date of such Liquidity Event (as defined in the agreement) will vest on the date such RSU becomes earned. These RSUs are subject to the risk of forfeiture until vested by virtue of continued employment or service to the Company.

During the six months ended June 30, 2021, the Company granted 1,500,000 RSUs (which remained unvested at June 30, 2021) to an executive which RSUs may be settled in Class A Common Stock containing both service and performance-based vesting conditions. Each RSU represents the right to receive one share of the Company's Class A Common Stock when fully vested. These RSUs have a seven-year contractual term. These RSUs will be eligible to vest following the achievement of either: (i) the effective date of an initial public offering, (ii) the closing date of a Public Company Acquisition (as defined in the agreement), or (iii) the closing date of a Capital Raise (as defined in the agreement). RSUs that have become eligible to vest will then vest over a three-year service period. RSUs that have become earned as of the date of a Liquidity Event (as defined in the agreement) will vest on the date of such Liquidity Event (as defined in the agreement). If a Liquidity Event (as defined in the agreement) has occurred, any RSUs that has not become earned as of the date of such Liquidity Event (as defined in the agreement) will vest on the date such RSU becomes earned.

The fair value of restricted stock and restricted stock units that vested during the six months ended June 30, 2021 and the year ended December 31, 2020 was $7.2 million and $1.5 million, respectively.

For the three months ended June 30, 2021 and 2020, the Company recorded total stock-based compensation expense of $0.1 million and $4.0 million, respectively, related to restricted stock and restricted stock units awarded to employees and non-employee directors. For the six months ended June 30, 2021 and 2020, the Company recorded total stock-based compensation expense of $1.0 million and $6.1 million, respectively, related to restricted stock and restricted stock units awarded to employees and non-employee directors. The Company recognizes the compensation cost of awards subject to service-based and performance-based vesting conditions using the accelerated attribution method over the requisite service period if the performance-based vesting conditions are probable of being met. As of June 30, 2021, there was $3.6 million of total unrecognized stock-based compensation expense related to unvested restricted stock and restricted stock units awarded to employees and non-employee directors expected to be recognized over a weighted-average period of approximately 3.8 years. 2020 Tender Offer — In October 2019, in connection with the SoftBank Transactions, the Company entered into an agreement with SBG pursuant to which, SBWW launched a tender offer in November 2019 to purchase $3.0 billion of the Company's equity securities (including securities underlying vested options, exercisable warrants and convertible notes) from eligible equity holders of the Company, at a price of $19.19 per share (the "2020 Tender Offer").

Pursuant to the contract, the 2020 Tender Offer was scheduled to expire in April 2020. The closure of the 2020 Tender Offer was contingent on satisfaction of certain conditions as of the expiration date.

In April 2020, SBWW terminated and withdrew their offer to purchase the equity securities of WeWork Inc. because it asserted the failure of various conditions to its obligations to close the 2020 Tender Offer. The Special Committee, acting in the name of the Company, filed a complaint in the Court of Chancery of the State of Delaware against SBG and SoftBank Vision Fund asserting claims in relation to SBG's withdrawal of the 2020 Tender Offer. On February 25, 2021, all parties entered into a settlement agreement, the terms of which resolved the litigation. See Note 16 for details regarding the settlement agreement.

During the three and six months ended June 30, 2020 and in connection with the 2020 Tender Offer described below, the Company modified the liquidity event condition with respect to 475,756 restricted stock units (with respect to which the service-based vesting condition had been satisfied) held by 659 grantees, such that those restricted stock units would have become fully vested immediately prior to the closing of the 2020 Tender Offer and settled in Class A Common Stock that would have been able to be tendered in the 2020 Tender Offer. The Company accounted for the modification in accordance with ASC 718 and recognized $1.1 million of incremental compensation cost during the six months ended June 30, 2020.

During the three and six months ended June 30, 2020, the Company recorded none and $8.0 million of additional stock-based compensation expense relating to the 2020 Tender Offer, with none and $1.1 million recorded as a reduction of additional paid in capital. The additional expense was recorded based on management's assessment of the likely consummation of the 2020 Tender Offer and management's estimate of the number of shares that would be acquired from employees, former employees and contractors of the Company at a price per share of $19.19, which price was above the fair market value of the shares. As of March 31, 2020, other current liabilities included a balance of $132.5 million relating to the 2020 Tender Offer. In April 2020, SBWW terminated and withdrew their offer to purchase the equity securities of WeWork Inc. as described above. As such, during the three months ended June 30, 2020, the total $132.5 million was reclassified to additional paid in capital.

2021 Tender Offer — In March 2021, in connection with the Settlement Agreement, as described in Note 16, the Company entered into an agreement with SoftBank pursuant to which, SBWW launched a tender offer to purchase $921.6 million of the Company's equity securities (including senior preferred stock, acquisition preferred stock and common stock, including shares underlying vested options, exercisable warrants and convertible notes with an exercise or conversion price less than the purchase price, in each case outstanding as of the determination date, and shares subject to certain RSUs with respect to which the service-based vesting condition had been satisfied as of the determination date) from equity holders of the Company, at a price of $19.19 per share (the "2021 Tender Offer").

During the three months ended March 31, 2021 and in connection with the 2021 Tender Offer, the Company modified the liquidity event condition with respect to 594,097 restricted stock units (with respect to which the service-based vesting condition had been satisfied) held by 1,774 grantees, such that those restricted stock units became fully vested immediately prior to the closing of the 2021 Tender Offer and settled in Class A Common Stock that were able to be tendered in the 2021 Tender Offer. The Company accounted for the modification in accordance with ASC 718 and recognized $2.3 million of incremental compensation cost during the three months ended March 31, 2021.

The tender offer was completed in April 2021 and as a result 5.1 million shares of Class A Common Stock were acquired primarily from employees of the Company at a price per share of $19.19, which resulted in approximately $45.7 million of additional stock-based compensation expense, and $47.0 million recorded as a reduction of additional paid in capital during the three months ended March 31, 2021, and $92.7 million recorded as a liability within other current liabilities on the accompanying condensed consolidated balance sheet as of March 31, 2021. The additional stock-based compensation expense was recorded as the shares were purchased from employees at a price above the fair market value of the shares. The liability recorded as of March 31, 2021 was resolved through an increase to additional paid in capital in April 2021 upon completion of the tender.

2020 Option Repricing — In June 2020, the Compensation Committee of the Board of Directors of the Company approved a one-time repricing of stock options granted during February and March 2020 from an exercise price of $4.00 per share to an exercise price of $2.10 per share. As a result of the Option Repricing, 5,690 grantees exchanged 36,727,519 stock options with an exercise price of $4.00 per share for 36,727,519 stock options with an exercise price of $2.10 per share. The Option Repricing was subject to modification accounting under ASC 718. Modifications to stock-based awards are treated as an exchange of the original award for a new award with total compensation equal to the grant-date fair value of the original award plus any incremental value of the modification. The incremental value is based on the excess of the fair value of the modified award over the fair value of the original award immediately before the modification. In connection with this modification, the Company recorded an incremental stock-based compensation charge of $0.7 million during the six months ended June 30, 2021. As of June 30, 2021, the unrecognized stock-based compensation expense from the modification was approximately $2.1 million, expected to be recognized over a weighted average period of approximately 1.9 years.

2019 Option Repricing — In November 2019, in connection with and as part of the 2020 Tender Offer, the Board of Directors of the Company approved a one-time stock exchange offer (the “2019 Option Repricing Exchange”) to permit employees and certain non-employee service providers to exchange options to purchase shares of the Company’s common stock with a per share exercise price of $4.13 and above (“Eligible Options”) for new options (“Repriced Options”) with a per share exercise price equal to $4.12 in accordance with predetermined exchange ratios ranging from 1:1 to 3:1, based on the exercise price of the Eligible Options. The exchange offer closed, and the Repriced Options were granted, effective on December 31, 2019. As a result of the 2019 Option Repricing Exchange, 4,210 grantees exchanged 15,485,869 Eligible Options with a weighted-average exercise price of $28.49 per share for 5,564,540 Repriced Options with a weighted average exercise price of $4.12 per share.

The 2019 Option Repricing Exchange was also subject to modification accounting under ASC 718.

Stock-Based Awards to Non-Employees — From time to time, the Company issues common stock, restricted stock or stock options to acquire common stock to non-employee contractors for services rendered. The stock options and shares of common stock granted, vested, exercised, forfeited/canceled during the six months ended June 30, 2021 and 2020 are included in the above tables together with the employee awards.

Stock-Based Awards Issued by Consolidated Variable Interest Entities — The tables above do not include any grants issued by the Company's consolidated subsidiaries.

ChinaCo

In April 2017, the Company's previously consolidated subsidiary, ChinaCo, granted a shareholder, in connection with services to be provided by a consultant affiliated with such shareholder, the right to subscribe to 10,000,000 of ChinaCo's Class A ordinary shares which were originally scheduled to vest annually over a five year period and had a grant date value of $3.51 per ChinaCo Class A ordinary share. The consultant is also a member of the Company's and ChinaCo's Board of Directors; however, the services required per the terms of grant were greater in scope than the individual's responsibilities as a standard director. As of September 30, 2020, a total of 2.0 million of these shares were vested and issued. On October 2, 2020, pursuant to the ChinaCo Agreement and immediately prior to the ChinaCo Deconsolidation, an additional 2.0 million shares in ChinaCo were issued to the consultant and the remaining 6.0 million unvested ChinaCo ordinary shares were cancelled.

During the three months ended June 30, 2021 and 2020 the Company recorded none and $4.5 million, respectively, of selling, general and administrative expenses, associated with the rights to subscribe to ChinaCo ordinary shares granted to non-employee contractors for services rendered. During the six months ended June 30, 2021 and 2020 the Company recorded none and $9.0 million, respectively, of selling, general and administrative expenses, associated with the rights to subscribe to ChinaCo ordinary shares granted to non-employee contractors for services rendered. Prior to the ChinaCo Deconsolidation, this expense was recorded as an increase in the equity allocated to noncontrolling interests on the Company's consolidated balance sheet.

In November 2018, ChinaCo adopted a long-term equity incentive plan (the "ChinaCo 2018 LTEIP"), authorizing the grant of equity-based awards (including restricted stock units and stock appreciation rights) to ChinaCo employees, officers, directors and consultants. As of September 30, 2020 and December 31, 2019, there was a total of 467,157 and 747,331 respectively, in stock appreciation rights outstanding under the ChinaCo 2018 LTEIP. The ChinaCo Deconsolidation on October 2, 2020 was an Exit Event as defined in the ChinaCo 2018 LTEIP and resulted in the forfeiture of the stock appreciation rights for no consideration as their exercise price was in excess of the implied price per share in the ChinaCo Deconsolidation. As a result of the ChinaCo Deconsolidation, the ChinaCo 2018 LTEIP was terminated and no further awards may be made under the ChinaCo 2018 LTEIP.

PacificCo

In May 2019, PacificCo adopted a long-term equity incentive plan, (the "PacificCo 2019 LTEIP"), authorizing the grant of equity-based awards (including restricted stock units and stock appreciation rights) to its employees, officers, directors and consultants. As of December 31, 2019, there was a total of 2,843,225 stock appreciation rights outstanding under the PacificCo 2019 LTEIP and there were 78,275 stock appreciation rights forfeited during the three months ended March 31, 2020. The PacificCo Roll-up transaction completed, in April 2020, was an Exit Event as defined in the PacificCo 2019 LTEIP and resulted in the then-vested stock appreciation rights which were in-the-money based on the implied price per share in the PacificCo Roll-up being settled in cash totaling payments of $1.3 million. As a result of the completion of the PacificCo Roll-up, the PacificCo 2019 LTEIP was terminated and no further awards may be made under the PacificCo 2019 LTEIP. There was no stock-based compensation expense recognized under the PacificCo 2019 LTEIP during the three and six months ended June 30, 2021 and 2020.

JapanCo

In November 2019, JapanCo adopted a long-term equity incentive plan, (the “JapanCo 2019 LTEIP”), authorizing the grant of awards for employee interests (including restricted interest units and interest appreciation rights, collectively “Employee Interests”) to its employees, officers, directors and consultants. The maximum number of Employee Interests that may be granted under the JapanCo’s 2019 LTEIP is 4,210,568. Employee Interests are notional non-voting membership interests (mochibun) of JapanCo, where 1 Employee Interest shall be treated as equal to a 0.000001 membership interest (mochibun) of Japan. All awards under the JapanCo 2019 LTEIP that vest will be settled in local currency of the participating subsidiary of JapanCo. During the six months ended June 30, 2020, no awards had been granted under the JapanCo 2019 LTEIP. During the three and six months ended June 30, 2021 there were a total of 434,232 interest appreciation rights granted under the JapanCo 2019 LTEIP with a weighted-average exercise price of $4.69 and a weighted-average grant date fair value of $1.84. The fair value of the interest appreciation rights was estimated using a binomial option pricing model that incorporates post-vesting early exercise behavior with a sub-optimal exercise factor of 2.5-times the exercise price and a post-vesting forfeiture rate of 10 percent.

Payment in respect of any interest appreciation right is conditioned upon the occurrence of an Exit Event (as defined in the JapanCo 2019 LTEIP). In addition, awards will generally time-vest over a five year employment service period. Each interest appreciation right entitles the grantee to the increase, if any, from the exercise price (fair market value) to the fair market value at the Exit Event in cash or shares of JapanCo. As of June 30, 2021, there was a total of 1,978,263 interest appreciation rights outstanding under the JapanCo 2019 LTEIP. The unrecognized stock-based compensation expense from outstanding interest appreciation rights awarded under the JapanCo 2019 LTEIP was approximately $4.1 million as of June 30, 2021, which to the extent the other vesting conditions are met, will only be recognized when the Exit Event occurs. As a result, there was no stock-based compensation expense recognized during the three and six months ended June 30, 2021 and 2020 associated with the JapanCo 2019 LTEIP.

Note 15. Net Loss Per Share

We compute net loss per share of Class A Common Stock and Class B Common Stock under the two-class method required for multiple classes of common stock and participating securities. The rights, including the liquidation and dividend rights, of the Class A Common Stock and Class B Common Stock are substantially identical, other than voting rights. The shares of Class C Common Stock are deemed to be a non-economic interest. Accordingly, only the Class A Common Stock and Class B Common Stock share in our net losses.

On February 26, 2021, in connection with the Settlement Agreement (as defined in Note 16), all of the outstanding shares of Class B Common Stock were automatically converted into shares of Class A Common Stock and the shares of Class C Common Stock of the Company now have one vote per share, instead of three (the “Class B Conversion”).

Our participating securities includes Series A, B, C, D-1, D-2, E, F, G, G-1, H-1, H-3 and Acquisition Preferred Stock, as the holders of these series of preferred stock are entitled to receive a noncumulative dividend on a pari passu basis in the event that a dividend is paid on common stock, and holders of certain vested RSUs that have a non-forfeitable right to dividends in the event that a dividend is paid on common stock. The holders of our Junior Preferred Stock are not entitled to receive dividends and are not included as participating securities. The holders of Series A, B, C, D-1, D-2, E, F, G, G-1, H-1, H-3 and Acquisition Preferred Stock as well as the holders of certain vested RSUs with a non-forfeitable right to dividends, do not have a contractual obligation to share in our losses. As such, our net losses for the three and six months ended June 30, 2021, and 2020 were not allocated to these participating securities.

Basic net loss per share is computed by dividing net loss attributable to WeWork Inc. attributable to its Class A Common and Class B Common Stockholders by the weighted-average number of shares of our Class A Common Stock and Class B Common Stock outstanding during the period.

For the computation of diluted net loss per share, net loss per share attributable to common stockholders for basic net loss per share is adjusted by the effect of dilutive securities, including awards under our equity compensation plans. Diluted net loss per share attributable to common stockholders is computed by dividing the resulting net loss attributable to WeWork Inc. attributable to its Class A Common and Class B Common Stockholders by the weighted-average number of fully diluted common shares outstanding. In the three and six months ended June 30, 2021 and 2020, our potential dilutive shares, such as stock options, restricted stock, RSUs, warrants, convertible notes, WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units and shares of convertible Series A, B, C, D-1, D-2, E, F, G, G-1, H-1, H-3, Acquisition and Junior Preferred Stock were not included in the computation of diluted net loss per share as the effect of including these shares in the computation would have been anti-dilutive.

The numerators and denominators of the basic and diluted net loss per share computations for our common stock are calculated as follows for the three and six months ended June 30, 2021, and 2020:

Credit Agreement — In November 2015, the Company amended and restated its existing credit facility (the “2019 Credit Facility”) to provide up to $650.0 million in revolving loans and letters of credit, subject to certain financial and other covenants. At various points during 2016 through 2019, the Company executed amendments to the credit agreement governing the 2019 Credit Facility which amended certain of the financial and other covenants. In November 2017 and as later amended, the Company entered into a new letter of credit facility (the “2019 LC Facility”) pursuant to the letter of credit reimbursement agreement, that provided an additional $500.0 million in availability of standby letters of credit. In May 2019, the Company entered into an additional letter of credit reimbursement agreement that provided for an additional $200.0 million in availability of standby letters of credit.

As of December 31, 2019, $1.3 billion of stand-by letters of credit were outstanding under a combination of the 2019 Credit Facility and the 2019 LC Facility, the primary purpose of which was to guarantee payment under certain leases entered into by certain of the Company’s wholly owned subsidiaries and for general corporate purposes. These letters of credit were secured by restricted cash of $762.3 million at December 31, 2019. There were no borrowings outstanding under the 2019 Credit Facility as of December 31, 2019.

In conjunction with the availability of the 2020 LC Facility (described below), the 2019 Credit Facility and the 2019 LC Facility were terminated in February 2020 and $4.7 million of deferred financing costs were expensed and included in loss on extinguishment of debt on the condensed consolidated statements of operations for the year ended December 31, 2020. As of June 30, 2021 and December 31, 2020, $6.7 million and $143.7 million, respectively, in letters of credit remain outstanding under the 2019 LC Facility and 2019 Credit Facility that are secured by new letters of credit issued under the 2020 LC Facility.

2020 LC Facility and Company/SBG Reimbursement Agreement — On December 27, 2019, WeWork Companies LLC entered into a credit agreement, dated as of December 27, 2019 (as amended by the First Amendment, dated as of February 10, 2020, and as further amended by the Second Amendment to the Credit Agreement and First Amendment to the Security Agreement, dated as of April 1, 2020, the “Company Credit Agreement”), among WeWork Companies LLC, as co-obligor, the SoftBank Obligor, as co-obligor, Goldman Sachs International Bank, as administrative agent, and the issuing creditors and letter of credit participants party thereto. The Company Credit Agreement provides for a $1.8 billion senior secured letter of credit reimbursement facility, which was made available on February 10, 2020, for the support of WeWork Companies LLC’s or its subsidiaries’ obligations. The termination date of the 2020 LC Facility is February 10, 2023. As of June 30, 2021, $1.7 billion of standby letters of credit were outstanding under the 2020 LC Facility, of which $6.7 million has been utilized to secure letters of credit that remain outstanding under WeWork Companies LLC’s previous credit facility (the “2019 Credit Facility”) and letter of credit facility (the “2019 LC Facility”), which were terminated in 2020. As of June 30, 2021, there was $84.7 million in remaining letter of credit availability under the 2020 LC Facility.

The 2020 LC Facility is guaranteed by substantially all of the domestic wholly-owned subsidiaries of WeWork Companies LLC (collectively the “Guarantors”) and is secured by substantially all the assets of WeWork Companies LLC and the Guarantors, in each case, subject to customary exceptions. The Company Credit Agreement and related documentation contain customary reimbursement provisions, representations, warranties, events of default and affirmative covenants (including with respect to cash management) for letter of credit facilities of this type. The negative covenants applicable to WeWork Companies LLC and its Restricted Subsidiaries (as defined in the Company Credit Agreement) are limited to restrictions on liens (subject to exceptions substantially consistent with the 7.875% Senior Notes due 2025), changes in line of business and disposition of all or substantially all of the assets of WeWork Companies LLC.

In connection with the 2020 LC Facility, WeWork Companies LLC also entered into a reimbursement agreement, dated February 10, 2020 (as amended by the First Amendment, dated as of April 1, 2020, the “Company/SBG Reimbursement Agreement”), with the SoftBank Obligor pursuant to which (i) the SoftBank Obligor agreed to pay substantially all of the fees and expenses payable in connection with the Company Credit Agreement, (ii) the Company agreed to reimburse SoftBank Obligor for certain of such fees and expenses (including fronting fees up to an amount not to exceed 0.125% on the undrawn and unexpired amount of the letters of credit) as well as to pay the SoftBank Obligor a fee of 5.475% on the amount of all outstanding letters of credit and (iii) the Guarantors agreed to guarantee the obligations of WeWork Companies LLC under the Company/SBG Reimbursement Agreement. During the three and six months ended June 30, 2021, the Company recognized $19.7 million and $38.5 million in interest expense in connection with amounts payable to SBG pursuant to the Company/SBG Reimbursement Agreement. During the three and six months ended June 30, 2020, the Company recognized $19.1 million and $29.2 million in interest expense in connection with amounts payable to SBG pursuant to the Company/SBG Reimbursement Agreement.

As the Company is also obligated to issue shares to SBG in the future pursuant to the 2020 LC Facility Warrant, with such warrant valued at issuance at $284.4 million, the implied interest rate for the Company on the 2020 LC Facility at issuance, assuming the full commitment is drawn, is approximately 12.47%.

LC Debt Facility — In May 2021, WeWork entered into a loan agreement with a third party to raise up to $350.0 million of cash secured by one or more letters of credit issued pursuant to the LC Facility (the “LC Debt Facility”). The third party has the ability to issue a series of discount notes to investors of varying short term (1-6 month) maturities and made a matching discount loan to the Company. The Company will pay the 5.475% issuance fee on the letter of credit, the 0.125% fronting fee on the letter of credit and the interest on the discount note which will be set each note issuance. At maturity, the Company has the option, based on prevailing market conditions and liquidity needs, to roll the loan to a new maturity or pay off the loan at par. Principal will be paid back in September 2021. As of June 30, 2021, the outstanding principal of $349.0 million and accrued interest of $0.2 million are located within other current liability and accounts payable and accrued expenses, respectively, on the condensed consolidated balance sheet.

As of June 30, 2021, the Company had capitalized a total of $0.5 million in debt issuance costs, as the nonrefundable engagement fee, which will be amortized until February 10, 2023. Such costs were capitalized as deferred financing costs and included as a component of other assets, net of accumulated amortization, on the accompanying condensed consolidated balance sheet. During the six months ended June 30, 2021, the Company recorded $0.04 million of interest expense relating to the amortization of these costs.

Construction Commitments — In the ordinary course of its business, the Company enters into certain agreements to purchase construction and related contracting services related to the build-outs of the Company's operating locations that are enforceable and legally binding, and that specify all significant terms and the approximate timing of the purchase transaction. The Company's purchase orders are based on current needs and are fulfilled by the vendors as needed in accordance with the Company's construction schedule. As of June 30, 2021 and December 31, 2020, the Company had issued approximately $39.9 million and $108.2 million, respectively, in such outstanding construction commitments.

Legal Matters — The Company has in the past been, is currently and expects to continue in the future to be a party to or involved in pre-litigation disputes, individual actions, putative class actions or other collective actions, U.S. and foreign government regulatory inquiries and investigations and various other legal proceedings arising in the normal course of its business, including with members, employees, landlords and other commercial partners, securityholders, third-party license holders, competitors, government agencies and regulatory agencies, among others.

The Company reviews its litigation-related reserves regularly and, in accordance with GAAP, sets reserves where a loss is probable and estimable. The Company adjusts these reserves as appropriate; however, due to the unpredictable nature and timing of litigation, the ultimate loss associated with a given matter could significantly exceed the litigation reserve currently set by the Company. Given the information it has as of today, Management believes that none of these matters will have a material effect on the consolidated financial position, results of operations or cash flows of the Company.

As of June 30, 2021, the Company is also party to several litigation matters and regulatory matters not in the normal ordinary course of business. These matters are described below. Management intends to vigorously defend these cases and cooperate with regulators in these matters; however, there is a reasonable possibility that the Company could be unsuccessful in defending these claims and could incur a loss. It is not currently possible to estimate a range of reasonably possible loss above the aggregated reserves.

Carter v. Neumann, et al. (Superior Court for the State of California, County of San Francisco, No. CGC-19-580474, filed January 10, 2020, replacing Natalie Sojka as plaintiff in the putative class action Ms. Sojka filed on November 4, 2019)

Won v. Neumann, et al. (Superior Court for the State of California, County of San Francisco, No. CGC-19-581021, filed November 25, 2019)

Two separate purported class and derivative complaints have been filed by three Company shareholders (two in Carter and one in Won) against the Company, certain current and former directors, SBG, Adam Neumann and Masayoshi Son. Both complaints were filed in California state court and allege, among other things, that defendants breached fiduciary duties and/or aided and abetted breaches of fiduciary duties in connection with certain transactions. The complaints seek injunctive relief and damages. In both actions, the Company filed motions to compel arbitration and stay the actions, or to enforce the Company's Delaware forum selection bylaw and dismiss or stay the actions. On August 31, 2020, the court granted the motions to compel arbitration (as to one of the plaintiffs in Carter and the plaintiff in Won) and the motion to enforce the forum selection bylaw (as to the second plaintiff in Carter). On October 30, 2020, the first Carter plaintiff and the Won plaintiff filed petitions for writs of mandate seeking to overturn the court's orders compelling arbitration. On December 3, 2020, the California Court of Appeal denied those petitions. Also on October 30, 2020, the other plaintiff in Carter appealed the court's decision enforcing the forum selection bylaw. That appeal remains pending. The Company is litigating the first Carter plaintiff's and the Won plaintiff's claims in private arbitrations.

Catalyst Investors III, L.P. v. The We Company et. al (Supreme Court of the State of New York, County of New York, Index No. 654377/2020 filed September 21, 2020)

Three former investors in Conductor, Inc. filed a complaint against the Company, its former Chief Executive Officer, Adam Neumann, and its former Chief Financial Officer, Arthur Minson, alleging that the defendants made or participated in making misrepresentations that induced the plaintiffs to agree to the Company's acquisition of Conductor, Inc. in March 2018. The plaintiffs assert causes of action for common law fraud/fraudulent inducement, unjust enrichment, and negligent misrepresentation under New York law. The plaintiffs seek unspecified compensatory and punitive damages, as well as other relief. On December 4, 2020, the Company filed a motion to dismiss the complaint. In a May 26, 2021 order, the court granted the motion to dismiss as to the unjust enrichment and negligent misrepresentation claims and denied the motion to dismiss as to the fraud based claims.

The We Company v. Softbank Group Corp. et al. (Delaware Court of Chancery, C.A. No. 2020-0258-AGB, filed April 7, 2020)

On April 7, 2020, the Special Committee, acting in the name of the Company, filed a complaint in the Court of Chancery of the State of Delaware against SBG and SoftBank Vision Fund asserting claims in relation to SBG's withdrawal of the 2020 Tender Offer. Separately, on May 4, 2020, Adam Neumann filed a complaint captioned Neumann, et al. v. SoftBank Group Corp., et al., C.A. No. 2020-0329-AGB, also asserting claims in relation to SBG's withdrawal of the 2020 Tender Offer. On February 25, 2021, all parties entered into a settlement agreement (the "Settlement Agreement"), the terms of which, when completed, would resolve the litigation. On April 15, 2021, the parties filed a stipulation of dismissal dismissing with prejudice the claims brought by the Company, and dismissing the action in its entirety. The Settlement Agreement provides for, among other things, the following:

- The launch of a new tender offer. Pursuant to the Settlement Agreement, SBWW completed a tender offer and acquired $921.6 million of the Company's equity securities (including certain equity awards, exercisable warrants and convertible notes) from eligible equity holders of the Company, at a price of $19.19 per share (the "2021 Tender Offer"). Adam Neumann, his affiliate, We Holdings LLC, and certain of their related parties were excluded from the 2021 Tender Offer and did not tender shares. As a result of the 2021 Tender Offer, which closed in April 2021, the Company recorded $48.0 million of total expenses in its consolidated statement of operations for the three-months ended March 31, 2021. Refer to Note 14 for more information.

- Certain governance changes. The transactions contemplated by the Settlement Agreement also included the elimination of the Company’s multi-class voting structure. As a result of the Amended and Restated Certificate of Incorporation and the transactions contemplated by the Settlement Agreement, on February 26, 2021, all of the outstanding shares of Class B Common Stock of the Company automatically converted into shares of Class A Common Stock and the shares of Class C Common Stock of the Company now have one vote per share, instead of three (the “Class B Conversion”). The Amended and Restated Certificate of Incorporation provides that if, following the Class B Conversion, new shares of Class B Common Stock are issued pursuant to (i) the exercise of options to purchase shares of Class B Common Stock outstanding as of the date of the Class B Conversion, (ii) securities convertible into shares of Class B Common Stock outstanding as of the date of the Class B Conversion, and (iii) other circumstances which are specified in the Amended and Restated Certificate of Incorporation, such new shares will be automatically converted into shares of Class A Common Stock immediately following the time such new shares of Class B Common Stock are issued.
- Adam Neumann settlement payment. In connection with the Settlement Agreement, SBG and its affiliates paid Adam Neumann an amount equal to $105.6 million. No expense was recorded in the Company’s consolidated statement of operations for the three-months ended March 31, 2021, as it does not benefit the Company.
- Adam Neumann sale of stock to SBG. In connection with the Settlement Agreement, SBG and its affiliates purchased 30,139,971 shares of Class B Common Stock of the Company from We Holdings LLC, which is Adam Neumann’s affiliated investment vehicle, for a price per share of $19.19, representing an aggregate purchase price of $578.4 million. The Company recorded a $428.3 million expense, which represents the excess between the amount paid from a principal shareholder of the Company to We Holdings LLC and the fair value of the stock purchased. The Company recognized the expense in restructuring and other related costs in the consolidated statement of operations for the three-months ended March 31, 2021, with a corresponding increase in additional paid-in capital, representing a deemed capital contribution by SBG in its consolidated balance sheet. Refer to Note 3 for more information.
- Adam Neumann proxy changes. In connection with the Settlement Agreement, Mr. Neumann’s proxy and future right to designate directors to WeWork’s board of directors were eliminated. The Amended and Restated Stockholders’ Agreement eliminated all proxies by Mr. Neumann in favor of WeWork’s board of directors, eliminated Mr. Neumann’s right to observe meetings of our board of directors and removed Mr. Neumann’s future rights to designate directors to our board of directors (which would have been available to Mr. Neumann upon elimination of his financial obligations with and to SBG). Mr. Neumann’s right to observe meetings of WeWork’s board of directors was replaced by a new agreement governing future observer rights, which provides that, beginning on February 26, 2022, Mr. Neumann, or if requested by SBG, a designee of Mr. Neumann’s (who shall be subject to SBG’s approval), shall have the right to observe meetings of WeWork’s board of directors (and certain committees thereof). Pursuant to this agreement, Mr. Neumann’s right to observe meetings of WeWork’s board of directors will continue following the closing of the Business Combination commencing February 2022.
- SBG proxy agreement. On February 26, 2021, we entered into a proxy agreement with SBWW, which will allow SBG and its affiliates to continue to voluntarily limit the combined voting power of SBG and SVFE to less than 49.90%. Pursuant to the proxy agreement, with respect to any shares of the Company’s stock representing shares owned by SBWW that, when taken together with the voting power of all other shares of the Company’s capital stock held by SBG and its affiliates (including SVFE) represent voting power of the Company in excess of 49.90%, such shares held by SBG will be voted in the same proportion as shares of the Company’s capital stock not owned by SBG or SVFE.

- WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units amendments. In February 2021, in connection with the Settlement Agreement, the WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units held by Adam Neumann in the WeWork Partnership became fully vested and were amended to have a catch-up base amount of $0. The per unit distribution thresholds for the WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units were also amended to initially be $10.00 and may be subject to downward adjustment based on closing date pricing if a de-SPAC or initial public offering were to occur. As a result of this modification, the Company recorded $102.0 million of restructuring and other related costs in its consolidated statement of operations for the three-months ended March 31, 2021. Refer to Note 14 for more information.

Mark Lapidus v. WeWork Companies LLC (JAMS Arbitration No. 1425034448; filed March 16, 2021)

Former employee Mark Lapidus filed a claim against the Company alleging that it violated a series of agreements governing his employment and breached its obligations by, among other things, failing to buy back a substantial portion of his equity and requiring him to reimburse certain litigation expenses. Plaintiff asserted causes of action for breach of contract, unjust enrichment, unlawful forfeiture of wages, violations of New York State Labor laws. Plaintiff seeks upwards of $58 million in damages in addition to unspecified liquidated and punitive damages and attorneys' fees. On July 12, 2021, the Company filed a motion to dismiss the complaint in its entirety.

Regulatory Matters

Since October 2019, the Company has been responding to subpoenas and document requests issued by certain federal and state authorities investigating the Company's disclosures to investors and employees regarding the Company's valuation and financial condition, and certain related party transactions. On November 26, 2019, the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission issued a subpoena seeking documents and information concerning these topics, and has interviewed witnesses, in connection with a non-public investigation styled In the Matter of The We Company (HO-13870). On January 29, 2020, the United States Attorney's Office for the Southern District of New York issued a voluntary document request concerning these topics and has interviewed witnesses. On October 11, 2019, the New York State Attorney General's Office issued a document request concerning these topics and has examined witnesses. On February 12, 2020, the California Attorney General's Office issued a subpoena concerning these topics. The Company is cooperating with all of these investigations.

Pursuant to the terms of the contract, the Company received an additional $40.0 million in cash during the year ended December 31, 2019. The Company recognized $38.4 million as other revenue, during the year ended December 31, 2019 relating to services provided by the Company in support of Creator Award events that occurred during the period from September 1, 2017 through December 31, 2019. As of December 31, 2019, the Company had $21.6 million recorded within deferred revenue on the condensed consolidated balance sheet relating to this contract. In September 2020, in connection with the transfer of the Company's variable interest and control over the Creator Fund to an affiliate of SBG described in Note 5, the production services agreement was terminated and the parties agreed that the Company would not be required to reimburse an affiliate of SBG for the $21.6 million of deferred revenue. As SBG is a principal shareholder of the Company, the forgiveness of this reimbursement obligation was accounted for as a capital contribution and reclassified from liabilities to additional paid-in-capital during the year ended December 31, 2020.

During the three months ended June 30, 2021 and 2020, the Company earned an additional $28.1 million and $35.1 million, respectively, in revenue from SBG for the sale of memberships and various other services provided. During the three and six months ended June 30, 2021 and 2020, the Company did not record revenue relating to services rendered to Adam Neumann. Additionally, during the year ended December 31, 2020, the Company received a reimbursement of $0.9 million from Adam Neumann, relating to certain withholding tax payments made by the Company on his behalf, which was previously included in other current assets on the accompanying consolidated balance sheet. During the year ended December 31, 2019, the Company also collected a receivable of $2.5 million from Adam Neumann, relating to reimbursement of expenditures made. In addition, the Company estimates that an additional approximately $1.8 million for past perquisites and personal aircraft use would have been reimbursable to the Company but for which Adam Neumann was released of any obligation to reimburse the Company in connection with the SoftBank Debt Financing discussed in Note 9.

During the year ended December 31, 2019, an affiliate of SBG entered into a non-compete agreement with Adam Neumann, the Company's former CEO, for a cash payment of $185.0 million, of which 50% was paid initially, with the remaining 50% payable in twelve equal monthly installments. During 2019, the Company recorded this as an expense of the Company to be paid for by a principal shareholder as the Company also benefited from the arrangement through restricting Adam Neumann's ability to provide similar services to a competing organization. The Company recognized the expense in full during 2019, with a corresponding increase in additional paid-in capital, representing a deemed capital contribution by SBG. The expense is included as a component of restructuring and other related costs on the condensed consolidated statement of operations.

In connection with his separation, the Company agreed to reimburse Adam Neumann for legal expenses incurred. The Company recorded $1.5 million within restructuring and other related costs on the consolidated statements of operations during 2019 and a corresponding liability of $1.5 million included in accounts payable and accrued expenses on the consolidated balance sheet as of December 31, 2019. The Company paid for the legal expenses during the year ended December 31, 2020. Also in connection with his separation agreement, the Company agreed to provide Adam Neumann, at the Company's cost, with the continuation of his family healthcare benefits through October 2020, security services through October 2020 and use of a WeWork office through February 2021.

The Company has entered into three separate operating lease agreements for space in buildings that are partially owned by Adam Neumann. In June 2021, the Company terminated one lease agreement bringing the new total to two lease agreements that are partially owned by Adam Neumann. During the three months ended June 30, 2021 and 2020, the Company recognized $2.6 million and $2.6 million, respectively, of lease cost expense related to these leases. During the six months ended June 30, 2021 and 2020, the Company recognized $5.2 million and $5.3 million, respectively, of lease cost expense related to these leases, had a contractual obligation totaling $5.4 million and $5.0 million, respectively, and received cash tenant incentives of none and $3.9 million, respectively. Future minimum lease cost payments under these leases, inclusive of escalation clauses and exclusive of contingent rent payments, are approximately $186.5 million as of June 30, 2021. The future minimum lease cost payments disclosed are the gross amounts contractually payable and not net of tenant lease incentive receivables of approximately $17.3 million as of June 30, 2021.

The Company has entered into a finance lease agreement for space in a building partially owned by Adam Neumann. Another shareholder of the Company is also a partial owner of the building. During the three months ended June 30, 2021 and 2020, the Company recognized $0.4 million and $0.4 million of interest expense related to this finance lease. During the six months ended June 30, 2021 and 2020, the Company recognized $0.8 million and $0.8 million of interest expense related to this finance lease and had a contractual obligation totaling $1.0 million and $1.0 million, respectively. The Company did not receive cash tenant incentives for the three and six months ended June 30, 2021 and 2020. Future lease cost payments with respect to obligations under this finance lease are approximately $13.8 million as of June 30, 2021. Report of Independent Registered Public Accounting Firm

To the Shareholders and the Board of Directors of WeWork Inc.

Opinion on the Financial Statements

We have audited the accompanying consolidated balance sheets of WeWork Inc. (the Company) as of December 31, 2020 and 2019, the related consolidated statements of operations, comprehensive loss, changes in convertible preferred stock, noncontrolling interests and equity and cash flows for each of the three years in the period ended December 31, 2020, and the related notes (collectively referred to as the “consolidated financial statements”). In our opinion, the consolidated financial statements present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of the Company at December 31, 2020 and 2019, and the results of its operations and its cash flows for each of the three years in the period ended December 31, 2020 in conformity with U.S. generally accepted accounting principles.

Basis for Opinion

These financial statements are the responsibility of the Company’s management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on the Company’s financial statements based on our audits. We are a public accounting firm registered with the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (United States) (PCAOB) and are required to be independent with respect to the Company in accordance with the U.S. federal securities laws and the applicable rules and regulations of the Securities and Exchange Commission and the PCAOB.

We conducted our audits in accordance with the standards of the PCAOB and in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement, whether due to error or fraud. The Company is not required to have, nor were we engaged to perform, an audit of its internal control over financial reporting. As part of our audits we are required to obtain an understanding of internal control over financial reporting but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the Company’s internal control over financial reporting. Accordingly, we express no such opinion.

Our audits included performing procedures to assess the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements, whether due to error or fraud, and performing procedures that respond to those risks. Such procedures included examining, on a test basis, evidence regarding the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. Our audits also included evaluating the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall presentation of the financial statements. We believe that our audits provide a reasonable basis for our opinion.

Critical Audit Matters

The critical audit matters communicated below are matters arising from the current period audit of the financial statements that were communicated or required to be communicated to the audit committee and that: (1) relate to accounts or disclosures that are material to the financial statements and (2) involved our especially challenging, subjective or complex judgments. The communication of critical audit matters does not alter in any way our opinion on the consolidated financial statements, taken as a whole, and we are not, by communicating the critical audit matters below, providing separate opinions on the critical audit matters or on the accounts or disclosures to which they relate.

Impairment of Long-lived assets

Description of the Matter As more fully described in Notes 2 and 3 to the consolidated financial statements, long-lived assets are evaluated for recoverability when events or changes in circumstances indicate that the asset may have been impaired. As a result of the COVID-19 pandemic the Company experienced declines in revenue and operating income at certain locations. In addition, the Company implemented its operational restructuring program, which included the termination of certain leases throughout 2020. Based on these events, the Company evaluated its long-lived assets for recoverability and determined that certain assets were not recoverable and were impaired. As a result, the Company recognized a $1,142 million impairment loss.

Auditing the Company's recoverability and impairment tests involved a high degree of subjectivity due to the significant estimation required in determining the future cash flows of the asset groups. The Company developed its estimates and assumptions related to each locations' future cash flows and performed a comprehensive review of the locations' long-lived assets for impairment. Significant assumptions used in the Company's estimates included, but were not limited to, revenue and related costs, market rental rates, and discount rates in local real estate markets in which the Company operates.

How We Addressed the Matter in Our Audit

Our testing of the Company's recoverability and impairment tests included, among other procedures, evaluating the significant assumptions and operating data used to assess recoverability and estimate fair value of the asset group. For example, we compared the significant assumptions used to estimate cash flows, including revenue and related costs, to historical results of that location, operating results of locations in the same geography, and assumptions around growth expected at the building and overall portfolio level. We assessed the historical accuracy of management's estimates and performed sensitivity analyses over significant cash flow assumptions to evaluate the change in the impairment analysis resulting from changing those specific assumptions. We also involved our valuation specialists to assist in our evaluation of the market rent and discount rates used in the fair value estimates for the overall asset group as well as the underlying operating lease right-of-use assets.

Valuation of the Company's equity instruments

Description of the Matter

As described in Note 16 to the financial statements, the fair value of the Company's convertible related party liabilities, including the 2019 Warrant, SoftBank Senior Unsecured Notes Warrant, and the 2020 LC Facility Warrant, were linked to the underlying fair value of the Company's preferred stock equity instruments. These liabilities were characterized as Level III in the fair value hierarchy and totaled $419 million as of December 31, 2020. Management determined the fair value of its equity instruments by applying the methodologies described in Notes 2 and 16 to the financial statements and using significant unobservable inputs. Determining the fair value of each equity instrument required management to make significant judgments, including the unobservable inputs and other assumptions and estimates used in the measurements. In addition, as described in Notes 2 and 22, the Company used its determination of the fair value of its equity instruments as a significant assumption in the valuation of its equity awards. For the year ended December 31, 2020, the Company recognized stock-based compensation expense of $63 million, which is linked to the fair value of its equity instruments.

Auditing the fair value of the Company's equity instruments involved complex judgment due to the estimations used by the Company in determining fair value. In particular, in estimating the fair value of stock, the significant assumptions utilized, included but were not limited to, revenue and EBITDA growth expectations and the weighted average cost of capital.

How We Addressed the Matter in Our Audit

Our audit procedures included, among others, evaluating the valuation methodologies used by the Company and testing significant assumptions and the mathematical accuracy of the Company's valuations. For each valuation, we independently performed comparative calculations and compared them to the Company's estimates. We involved our valuation specialists to assist with the application of these procedures. We compared significant assumptions and underlying data used in the Company's valuations to information available from third-party sources and market data. Where applicable, we obtained projections utilized in supporting valuations and assessed the reasonableness of significant underlying assumptions such as revenue and EBITDA growth expectations. Our procedures with regard to the projections included assessing the historical accuracy of management's estimates and performing sensitivity testing over certain of the underlying assumptions utilized in the projections.

WEWORK INC.
NOTES TO THE CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS
DECEMBER 31, 2020

Note 1. Organization and Business

WeWork Companies Inc. was founded in 2010. The We Company was incorporated under the laws of the state of Delaware in April 2019 as a direct wholly-owned subsidiary of WeWork Companies Inc. As a result of various legal entity reorganization transactions undertaken in July 2019, The We Company became the holding company of our business, and the then-stockholders of WeWork Companies Inc. became the stockholders of The We Company.

Effective October 14, 2020, The We Company changed its legal name to WeWork Inc.

WeWork Inc. holds an indirect general partner interest and indirect limited partner interests in The We Company Management Holdings L.P. (the “WeWork Partnership”). The WeWork Partnership owns 100% of the equity in WeWork Companies LLC. WeWork Inc., through the WeWork Partnership and WeWork Companies LLC, holds all the assets held by WeWork Companies Inc. prior to the legal entity reorganization and is subject to all the liabilities to which WeWork Companies Inc. was subject prior to the legal entity reorganization.

The legal entity reorganization was accounted for as a transfer among entities under common control and the assets and liabilities transferred were recorded based on historical cost and the financial statements are presented as if the transfer occurred at the beginning of the periods presented. WeWork Companies Inc. is the predecessor of WeWork Inc. for financial reporting purposes.

Our core global business offering integrates space, community, services and technology in 851 locations around the world as of December 1, 2020. Our membership offerings are designed to accommodate our members’ distinct space needs. We provide our members the optionality to choose from a dedicated desk, a private office or a fully customized floor with the flexibility to choose the type of membership that works for them on a monthly subscription basis, through a multi-year membership agreement or on a pay-as-you-go basis.

The Company’s operations are headquartered in New York.

All references to “we”, “us”, “our”, “WeWork” and the “Company” are references to WeWork Inc. and its subsidiaries on a consolidated basis; and all references to “SBG” are references to SoftBank Group Corp. or a controlled affiliate or subsidiary thereof, but, unless the context otherwise requires, does not include SVF Endurance (Cayman) Limited (“SVFE”) or SoftBank Vision Fund (AIV M1) L.P. (“SoftBank Vision Fund”).

In October 2019, and as subsequently amended, the Company entered into an agreement with SBG and SoftBank Vision Fund for additional equity and debt financing, as well as a number of changes to the Company’s corporate governance, including changes to the voting rights associated with certain series of the Company’s capital stock (the “Master Transaction Agreement”). The changes associated with this October 2019 agreement, and related agreements and amendments entered into subsequent to October 2019, as described throughout these financial statement notes, are collectively referred to as the “SoftBank Transactions”. SBG is a principal stockholder with representation on the Company’s Board of Directors.

Note 2. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

Basis of Presentation and Principles of Consolidation — The accompanying consolidated financial statements and notes to the consolidated financial statements have been prepared in accordance with U.S. generally accepted accounting principles (“U.S. GAAP”) and include the accounts of the Company, its majority-owned subsidiaries, and variable interest entities (“VIEs”) for which the Company is the primary beneficiary. All intercompany accounts and transactions have been eliminated in consolidation. The Company operates as a single operating segment. See Note 26 for further discussion on the Company’s segment reporting.

WEWORK INC.
NOTES TO THE CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS
DECEMBER 31, 2020

The Company is required to consolidate entities deemed to be VIEs in which the Company is the primary beneficiary. The Company is considered to be the primary beneficiary of a VIE when the Company has (i) the power to direct the activities of the VIE that most significantly impact the VIE's economic performance and (ii) the obligation to absorb losses or receive benefits that could potentially be significant to the VIE.

JapanCo, WeCap Manager and WeCap Holdings Partnership (each as defined and discussed in Note 6) are the Company's only consolidated VIEs as of December 31, 2020. In March 2020, in connection with the sale of the property held by the 424 Fifth Venture (the "424 Fifth Venture Transaction"), redemption payments were made to the noncontrolling interest holders in the 424 Fifth Venture and the 424 Fifth Venture became a wholly owned subsidiary of the Company and is no longer a VIE. In April 2020, in connection with the SoftBank Transactions, the Company completed the acquisition of the noncontrolling interest in PacificCo (as defined in Note 6) and PacificCo became a wholly owned subsidiary of the Company and is no longer a VIE. In September 2020, the Company transferred its variable interest and control over the Creator Fund (as defined in Note 6) to an affiliate of SBG and the Creator Fund was deconsolidated from the Company's financial statements. In October 2020, the Company restructured its ownership interests in ChinaCo (as defined in Note 6) such that the Company is no longer the primary beneficiary of ChinaCo and as a result, beginning on October 2, 2020, ChinaCo was deconsolidated (the "ChinaCo Deconsolidation") and the Company's remaining ordinary share investment represents an unconsolidated VIE that is accounted for as an equity method investment. See Note 6 for further discussion of these transactions. See Note 11 for discussion of the Company's non-consolidated VIEs.

A noncontrolling interest in a consolidated subsidiary represents the portion of the equity (net assets) in a subsidiary not attributable, directly or indirectly, to the Company. Noncontrolling interests are presented as a separate component of equity in the consolidated balance sheets and the presentation of net income in the consolidated statements of comprehensive loss, is modified to present earnings and other comprehensive income attributed to controlling and noncontrolling interests.

The Company's convertible preferred stock and noncontrolling interests that are redeemable upon the occurrence of an event that is not solely within the control of the Company are classified outside of permanent equity. As it is not probable that amounts will become redeemable, no remeasurement is required. The Company will continue to monitor the probability of redemption. The Company's noncontrolling interests that have redemption features within the Company's control are classified within permanent equity and are described further below.

The redemption value of the WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units (as discussed in Note 22) that were awarded to management are measured based upon the aggregate redemption value and takes into account the proportion of employee services rendered under the WeWork Partnerships Profits Interest Units vesting provisions. The redemption value will vary from period to period based upon the fair value of the Company, whereby the intrinsic value (per-unit fair value of the Company is greater than the per-unit distribution threshold) will be reflected as a noncontrolling interests in the equity section of the consolidated balance sheets with a corresponding entry to additional paid-in-capital. The intrinsic value of the WeWork Partnership Profits Interests will be remeasured each period until the WeWork Partnerships Profits Interests are converted to shares.

The Company's other noncontrolling interests represent substantive profit-sharing arrangements and profits and losses are attributed to the controlling and noncontrolling interests using the hypothetical-liquidation-at-book-value method.

Use of Estimates — The preparation of the consolidated financial statements in accordance with U.S. GAAP requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amount of assets and liabilities and the disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the consolidated financial statements, and the reported amount of revenues and expenses during the reporting periods.

WEWORK INC.
NOTES TO THE CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS
DECEMBER 31, 2020

Estimates inherent in the current financial reporting process inevitably involve assumptions about future events. Actual results could differ from those estimates. Since December 2019, a novel strain of coronavirus, referred to as the COVID-19 virus, has spread to countries in which we operate. COVID-19 has become a global pandemic. Authorities in jurisdictions where our locations are located have at times issued stay-at-home orders, restrictions on certain activities such as travel and on the types of businesses that may continue to operate. As the pandemic has adversely affected and may continue to adversely affect our revenues and expenditures, the extent and duration of these restrictions and overall macroeconomic impact of the pandemic will have an effect on estimates used in the preparation of financial statements. This includes the net operating income (“NOI”) assumptions in our long-lived asset impairment testing, the ultimate collectability of accounts receivable due to the effects of COVID-19 on the financial position of our members, the timing of capital expenditures, fair value measurement changes for assets and liabilities that the Company measures at fair value and our assessment of our ability to continue to meet our obligations as they come due.

Our liquidity forecasts are based upon continued execution of the Company’s operational restructuring program and also includes management’s best estimate of the impact that the outbreak of COVID-19 may continue to have on our business and our liquidity needs; however, the extent to which our future results and liquidity needs are further affected by the continued impact of COVID-19 will largely depend on the continued duration of closures, and delays in location openings, the success of ongoing vaccination efforts, the effect on demand for our memberships, any permanent shifts in working from home, how quickly we can resume normal operations and our ongoing lease negotiations with our landlords, among others. We believe continued execution of our operational restructuring program and our current liquidity position will be sufficient to help us mitigate the continued near-term uncertainty associated with COVID-19, however our assessment assumes a recovery in our revenues and occupancy beginning in the second half of 2021 with a gradual return toward pre-COVID levels achieved by the end of 2021. If revenues continue to decline during 2021 and/or we do not experience a recovery consistent with our projected timing, additional capital sources may be required, the timing and source of which are uncertain. There is no assurance we will be successful in securing the additional capital infusions if needed.

Cash and Cash Equivalents — Cash and cash equivalents consist of highly liquid marketable securities with original maturities of three months or less at the time of purchase. Cash equivalents are presented at cost, which approximates fair value.

Restricted Cash - Restricted cash consists primarily of amounts provided to banks to secure letters of credit issued under certain of the Company’s credit agreements as required by various leases. Transfers between restricted and unrestricted cash accounts are not reported within the statements of cash flows. Only restricted cash receipts or payments from restricted cash directly to third parties are reported in the statements of cash flows as either an operating, investing or financing activity, depending on the nature of the transaction.

Allowance for Doubtful Accounts — The Company adopted ASU No. 2016-13, Financial Instruments-Credit Losses (Topic 326): Measurement of Credit Losses on Financial Instruments (“ASU 2016-13”) on January 1, 2020, as discussed in “—Recently Adopted Accounting Pronouncements” below. In accordance with the revised guidance, management determines an allowance that reflects its best estimate of the accounts receivable due from members, related parties, landlords and others that it expects will not be collected. Management considers many factors in considering its reserve with respect to these accounts receivable, including historical data, experience, creditworthiness, income trends, as well as current and forward looking conditions. Recorded liabilities associated with members’ service retainers are also considered when estimating the allowance for doubtful accounts as we have the contractual right to apply members’ service retainers to outstanding receivables.

Receivables are written off when deemed uncollectible. Recoveries of receivables previously written off are recorded as a reduction of bad debt expense when received. As of December 31, 2020 and 2019, the Company recorded $107.8 million and $16.7 million, respectively, as an allowance for doubtful accounts on accounts receivable and accrued revenue.

WEWORK INC.
NOTES TO THE CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS
DECEMBER 31, 2020

Property and Equipment — Property and equipment are recorded at cost less accumulated depreciation. A variety of costs are incurred in the construction of leasehold improvements including development costs, construction costs, salaries and related costs, and other costs incurred during the period of development. After a determination is made to capitalize a cost, it is allocated to the specific component of a project that is benefited. The Company capitalizes costs until a project is substantially completed and occupied, or held available for occupancy, and capitalizes only those costs associated with the portions under development. Subsequent expenditures that extend the useful life of an asset are also capitalized. Leasehold improvements are amortized over the lesser of the estimated useful life of the improvements or the remaining term of the lease using the straight-line method. Furniture and equipment are depreciated over three to twenty years also using the straight-line method. Costs associated with repairs and maintenance of property and equipment that do not extend the normal useful life of an asset are expensed as incurred and amounted to $49.6 million, $44.4 million and $25.0 million for the years ended December 31, 2020, 2019 and 2018, respectively.

Business Combinations — We include the financial results of businesses that we acquire from the date of acquisition. We determine the fair value of assets acquired and liabilities assumed based on their estimated fair values as of the respective date of acquisition. The excess purchase price over the fair values of identifiable assets and liabilities is recorded as goodwill. Determining the fair value of assets acquired and liabilities assumed requires management to use significant judgment and estimates including the selection of valuation methodologies, estimates of future revenue and cash flows, discount rates and selection of comparable companies. Our estimates of fair value are based upon assumptions believed to be reasonable, but which are inherently uncertain and unpredictable and, as a result, actual results may differ from estimates. During the measurement period we may record adjustments to the assets acquired and liabilities assumed, with the corresponding offset to goodwill.

Transaction costs associated with business combinations are expensed as incurred, and are included in selling, general and administrative expenses in our consolidated statements of operations.

Goodwill — Goodwill represents the excess of the purchase price of an acquired business over the fair value of the assets acquired less liabilities assumed in connection with the acquisition. Goodwill is not amortized, but instead is tested for impairment at least annually at each reporting unit level, or more frequently if events or changes in circumstances indicate that the carrying amount may be impaired, and is required to be written down when impaired.

The guidance for goodwill impairment testing begins with an optional qualitative assessment to determine whether it is more likely than not that goodwill is impaired. The Company is not required to perform a quantitative impairment test unless it is determined, based on the results of the qualitative assessment, that it is more likely than not that goodwill is impaired. The quantitative impairment test is prepared at the reporting unit level. In performing the impairment test, management compares the estimated fair values of the applicable reporting units to their aggregate carrying values, including goodwill. If the carrying amounts of a reporting unit including goodwill were to exceed the fair value of the reporting unit, an impairment loss is recognized within our consolidated statements of operations in an amount equal to that excess, limited to the total amount of goodwill allocated to that reporting unit.

The process of evaluating goodwill for impairment requires judgments and assumptions to be made to determine the fair value of the reporting unit, including discounted cash flow calculations, assumptions market participants would make in valuing each reporting unit and the level of the Company's own share price.

Intangible Assets, net — The Company capitalizes purchased software and computer software development costs for internal use when the amounts have a useful life or contractual term greater than twelve months. Purchased software consists of software products and licenses which are amortized over the lesser of their estimated useful life or the contractual term. Internally developed software costs incurred in the preliminary stages of development are expensed as incurred. Once an application has reached the development stage, internal and external direct costs of the development are capitalized until the software is substantially complete and ready for its intended use. Capitalization ceases upon completion of substantially all testing. The Company also capitalizes costs related to specific upgrades and enhancements when it is probable that the expenditure will result in additional functionality. Internal use software is amortized on a straight-line basis over its estimated useful life, generally three years. Maintenance and training costs are expensed as incurred.

Acquired intangible assets are carried at cost and finite-lived intangible asset are amortized on a straight-line basis over their estimated useful lives. We determine the appropriate useful life of our intangible assets by measuring the expected cash flows of acquired assets. The initial estimated useful life of the Company's finite-lived intangible assets range from one year to ten years.

The Company tests goodwill and indefinite-lived intangible asset balances for impairment annually in the fourth quarter of each year as of October 1, or more frequently if circumstances indicate that the value of goodwill may be impaired.

Impairment of Long-Lived Assets — Long-lived assets, including property and equipment, right-of-use assets, capitalized software, and other finite-lived intangible assets, are evaluated for recoverability when events or changes in circumstances indicate that the asset may have been impaired. In evaluating an asset for recoverability, the Company considers the future cash flows expected to result from the continued use of the asset and the eventual disposition of the asset. If the sum of the expected future cash flows, on an undiscounted basis, is less than the carrying amount of the asset, an impairment loss equal to the excess of the carrying amount over the fair value of the asset is recognized. During the years ended December 31, 2020, 2019 and 2018, the Company recorded $3.1 million, $63.1 million and $29.6 million, respectively, in routine impairment charges and property and equipment write-offs relating to excess, obsolete or slow-moving inventory of furniture and equipment, early termination of leases and cancellation of other deals or projects occurring in the ordinary course of business. These impairment charges are included as a component of selling, general and administrative expenses in the accompanying consolidated statements of operations. In connection with operational restructuring program described in Note 3 and related changes in the Company's leasing plans and planned or completed disposition of certain non-core operations, as well as the impact to the Company's business as a result of COVID-19, the Company has also recorded various other non-routine write-offs, impairments and gains on sale of goodwill, intangibles and various other assets. These non-routine charges totaled $1,355.9 million and $335.0 million during the years ended December 31, 2020 and 2019, respectively, and are included as impairment/(gain on sale) of goodwill, intangibles and other assets in the accompanying consolidated statements of operations.

Assets Held for Sale — The Company classifies an asset (or assets to be disposed of together as a group) as held for sale when management, having the authority to approve the action, commits to a plan to sell the assets, the assets are available for immediate sale in their present condition, subject only to terms that are usual and customary for sales of such assets, an active program to locate a buyer and other actions required to complete the plan to sell have been initiated and it is probable the transfer of the assets are expected to qualify for recognition as a completed sale within one year, except if events or circumstances beyond the Company's control extend the period of time required to sell the assets beyond one year. Prior period balances are not reclassified. Assets classified as held for sale are being actively marketed for sale at a price that is reasonable in relation to their current fair value and actions required to complete the sale plan indicate it is unlikely that significant changes to the plan will be made or that the plan will be withdrawn.

WEWORK INC.
NOTES TO THE CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS
DECEMBER 31, 2020

Assets that are classified as held for sale and the related liabilities directly associated with those that will be transferred in that transaction are initially measured at the lower of their carrying value or fair value less any costs to sell and depreciation and amortization expense is no longer recorded. Any loss resulting from this measurement is recognized in the period in which the held for sale criteria are met.

The fair value of assets held for sale less any costs to sell is assessed each reporting period they remain classified as held for sale and any subsequent changes are reported as an adjustment to the carrying amount of the assets, as long as the adjusted carrying amount does not exceed the carrying amount of the assets at the time it was initially classified as held for sale. Gains are not recognized on the sale of an asset until the date of sale.

During the fourth quarter of 2019, management approved the disposal through sale of certain assets and businesses. As of December 31, 2019, these assets and the liabilities directly associated with those assets that were expected to be transferred in those transactions were reclassified to held for sale on the accompanying balance sheet. These disposal transactions and others that closed during 2020 did not qualify as discontinued operations. As of December 31, 2020 there are no assets classified as held for sale. See Note 8 for further discussion.

Deferred Financing Costs — Deferred financing costs consist of fees and costs incurred to obtain financing. Such costs are capitalized and amortized as interest expense using the effective interest method, over the term of the related loan. As of December 31, 2020 and 2019, the Company recorded $705.0 million and $883.6 million, respectively, of deferred financing costs, net of accumulated amortization, in other assets in the accompanying consolidated balance sheets related to the Company’s credit agreements (see Note 12). As of December 31, 2020 and 2019, the Company also recorded $11.4 million and $31.0 million, respectively, of unamortized debt issuance costs as a reduction to the long-term debt, net (see Note 15). For the years ended December 31, 2020, 2019 and 2018, the Company recognized $172.1 million, $3.9 million and $3.2 million, respectively, in interest expense, relating to the amortization of deferred financing costs.

Income Taxes — The Company accounts for income taxes under the asset and liability method. Accordingly, deferred tax assets and liabilities are recognized for the future tax consequences attributable to differences between the financial statement carrying amount of existing assets and liabilities and their respective tax bases, operating losses and tax credit carryforwards. Deferred tax assets and liabilities are measured using enacted tax rates expected to apply to taxable income in the years in which those temporary differences are expected to be recovered or settled. The effect on deferred tax assets and liabilities of a change in tax rates is recognized in income in the period the tax rates are enacted. The measurement of deferred tax assets is reduced, if necessary, by a valuation allowance for any tax benefits for which future realization is uncertain.

The Company has elected to recognize earnings of foreign affiliates that are determined to be global intangible low tax income in the period it arises and do not recognize deferred taxes for basis differences that may reverse in future years.

Revenue Recognition — The Company adopted Accounting Standard Codification (“ASC”) No. 606, Revenue from Contracts with Customers, on January 1, 2019 (“ASC 606”) using the modified retrospective transition approach applied to those contracts that were not completed as of January 1, 2019. Prior period amounts were not adjusted and continue to be reported in accordance with ASC 605, Revenue Recognition. For revenue contracts which do not qualify as leases in accordance with ASC 842, Leases (“ASC 842”) the Company recognizes revenue under the five-step model required under ASC 606, which requires the Company to identify the relevant contract with the customer, identify the performance obligations in the contract, determine the transaction price, allocate the transaction price to the performance obligations identified and recognize revenue when (or as) each performance obligation is satisfied.

WEWORK INC.
NOTES TO THE CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS
DECEMBER 31, 2020

The Company's primary revenue categories, related performance obligations and associated recognition patterns are as follows:

Membership and Service Revenue — The Company sells memberships to individuals and organizations that provide access to office space, use of a shared internet connection, access to certain facilities (kitchen, common areas, etc.), a monthly allowance of conference room reservation hours, printing and copying and access to the WeWork mobile application. The price of each membership is based on factors such as the particular characteristics of the workspace occupied by the member, the geographic location of the workspace and the size of the workspace. The membership contracts may contain renewal options that may be exercised at the discretion of the member to extend the term beyond the initial term. All services included in a monthly membership allowance that remain unused at the end of a given month expire.

Membership revenue consists primarily of fees from members, net of discounts for the access to office space provided. The majority of the Company's membership contracts are accounted for as revenue in accordance with ASC 606 and are recognized over time, evenly on a ratable basis, over the life of the agreement, as services are provided and the performance obligation is satisfied.

Certain of the Company's membership contracts with its members related to "configured" workspaces which meet the definition of operating leases under ASC 842. The Company has elected not to separate non-lease components from lease components for all membership agreements with configured workspaces. The rental revenue recognized under ASC 842 is recognized evenly on a ratable basis over the term of the arrangement, consistent with the revenue recognition pattern for the membership services arrangements accounted for under ASC 606. We have also elected the practical expedient for our membership contracts accounted for under ASC 842 to exclude sales and use taxes and value added taxes we collect from members from consideration in the contract and from variable payments not included in the consideration in the contract. We recognize property taxes that we pay directly to taxing authorities and any reimbursement for such taxes from our members on a gross basis.

Service revenue consists of additional billings to members for the ancillary services they may access through their memberships in excess of monthly allowances included in membership revenue, commissions earned by the Company on various services and benefits provided to our members and management fee income for services provided to Unconsolidated Locations subject to joint venture or other management arrangements, which as of December 31, 2020 included locations in India ("IndiaCo") and Greater China (as defined in Note 6 ("ChinaCo")). Members may elect whether they want to add-on additional services at the inception of their agreement. Additional fees for add-on services are included in the transaction price when elected by the member. To the extent a member elects an add-on service subsequent to the commencement of a commitment period, the additional add-on fee will be added to transaction price at that point in time.

The Company's individual locations may include a combination of membership contracts for which revenue is recognized in accordance with ASC 606 and ASC 842 and the location operating expenses are incurred for the location as a whole and not segregated by individual member spaces and as a result, when evaluating the cost of services for membership and service revenue, both contract types are combined to evaluate the gross profit or performance of an individual location.

Other Revenue — Other revenue includes revenue generated from various other offerings and business lines, not directly related to the revenue we earn under our membership agreements through which we provide space-as-a-service. Other revenue primarily includes design and development services, tuition for education programs, software and other subscription revenue, income generated from sponsorships and ticket sales from WeWork branded events and management and advisory fees earned.

DECEMBER 31, 2020

Design and development services performed are recognized as revenue over time based on a percentage of contract costs incurred to date compared to the total estimated contract cost. The Company identifies only the specific costs incurred which contribute to the Company's progress in satisfying the performance obligation. Contracts are generally segmented between types of services, such as consulting contracts, design and construction contracts, and operate contracts. Revenues related to each respective type of contract are recognized as or when the respective performance obligations are satisfied. When total cost estimates for these types of arrangements exceed revenues in a fixed-price arrangement, the estimated losses are recognized immediately. The Company performs ongoing profitability analyses of its design and build services contracts accounted for using a cost-to-cost measure of progress in order to determine the accuracy of the latest estimates of revenues, costs and profit margins. Changes to total contract revenue, and estimated cost or losses, if any, are recognized on a cumulative catch-up basis in the period in which they are determined and may result in increases or decreases in revenues or costs. Significant judgment is required when estimating total cost including future labor and expected efficiencies, as well as whether a loss is expected to be incurred on the project. Pre-contract costs are expensed as incurred unless they are expected to be recovered from the customer. If the costs are recoverable, contract costs are capitalized and amortized over time consistent with the transfer of the services to which the asset relates.

Income generated from sponsorships and ticket sales from WeWork branded events are recognized upon the occurrence of the event. Other revenues are generally recognized over time, on a monthly basis, as the services are performed.

Billing terms and conditions generally vary by contract category. Amounts are billed as work progresses in accordance with agreed-upon contractual terms, either at periodic intervals (e.g., upfront, monthly or quarterly) or upon achievement of contractual milestones. For most of our standard memberships which are typically invoiced monthly, our payment terms are immediate. In most cases where timing of revenue recognition significantly differs from the timing of invoicing, the Company has determined that its contracts do not include a significant financing component. The Company elects the financing component practical expedient and does not adjust the promised amount of consideration in contracts where the time between cash collection and performance is less than one year.

Members' Service Retainers — Prior to moving into an office, members are generally required to provide the Company with a service retainer as detailed in their membership agreement. In the event of non-payment of membership or other fees by a member, pursuant to the terms of the membership agreements, the amount of the service retainer may be applied against the member's unpaid balance. The Company recognizes members' service retainers as a liability as the Company expects to refund some or all of that consideration to the member.

Contract Assets and Receivables — The Company classifies the right to consideration in exchange for solutions or services provided to a customer as either a receivable or a contract asset. A receivable is a right to consideration that is unconditional as compared to a contract asset which is a right to consideration that is conditional upon factors other than the passage of time. Contracts that contain both contract assets and liabilities are recorded on a net basis. Contract assets that are expected to be billed beyond the next 12 months are considered long-term contract assets and included in other assets.

Deferred Revenue — Deferred revenue represents collections from customers for which revenue has not been recognized to date. Deferred revenue is classified as a current liability as it is expected to be recognized as revenue within the next twelve months.

Assets Recognized from the Costs to Obtain a Contract with a Customer — Incremental costs (e.g., member referral fees) of obtaining a contract are capitalized and amortized into expense on a straight-line basis over the underlying contract period if the Company expects to recover those costs. The incremental costs of obtaining a contract include only those costs the Company incurs to obtain a contract that it would not have incurred if the contract had not been obtained. The costs associated with significant member referral fees are amortized over the underlying contract period, even if the contract term is less than twelve months.

WEWORK INC.
NOTES TO THE CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS
DECEMBER 31, 2020

Taxes collected from customers and remitted to governmental authorities are presented on a net basis.

Leasing Arrangements — The Company adopted ASC 842 and the related amendments during the three months ended June 30, 2019, using the modified retrospective approach, as if such adoption had occurred on January 1, 2019. The results as of and for the year ended December 31, 2019 are presented in accordance with ASC 842, while prior period amounts were not adjusted and continue to be reported in accordance with ASC 840, Leases (“ASC 840”).

The Company has a significant portfolio of real estate leases entered into in connection with operating its business. The Company also leases certain equipment and has service contracts, including warehouse agreements, where we control identified assets, such as warehouse space, and therefore these arrangements represent embedded leases under ASC 842. The Company determines whether an arrangement is a lease at inception.

The Company has made an accounting policy election to exempt leases with an initial term of 12 months or less from being recognized on the balance sheet. Short-term leases primarily relate to leases of office equipment and are not significant in comparison to the Company’s overall real estate portfolio. Payments related to those leases are recognized in the consolidated statement of operations on a straight-line basis over the lease term.

For leases with initial terms of greater than 12 months, the Company determines its classification as an operating or finance lease. At lease commencement, the Company recognizes a lease obligation and corresponding right-of-use asset based on the initial present value of the fixed lease payments using the Company’s incremental borrowing rates for its population of leases. The incremental borrowing rate represents the rate of interest the Company would have to pay to borrow over a similar term, and with a similar security, in a similar economic environment, an amount equal to the fixed lease payments. The commencement date is the date the Company takes initial possession or control of the leased premise or asset, which is generally when the Company enters the leased premises and begins to make improvements in preparation for its intended use.

The Company’s leases do not provide a readily determinable implicit discount rate. Therefore, management estimates the incremental borrowing rate used to discount the lease payments based on the information available at lease commencement. The Company utilized a model consistent with the credit quality for its outstanding debt instruments to estimate its specific incremental borrowing rates that align with applicable lease terms.

Non-cancelable lease terms for most of the Company’s real estate leases typically range between 10-20 years and may also provide for renewal options. Renewal options are typically solely at the Company’s discretion and are only included within the lease obligation and right-of-use asset when the Company is reasonably certain that the renewal options would be exercised.

The Company’s leases may include base rent payments and rent payments that include escalation terms on the amount of base rent which may vary by market with examples including fixed-rent escalations or escalations based on an inflation index or other market adjustments. Variable lease payments that depend on an index or rate are included in lease payments and are measured using the prevailing index or rate at lease inception or the measurement date. Changes to the index or rate are recognized in the period of change.

WEWORK INC.
NOTES TO THE CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS
DECEMBER 31, 2020

Most leases require the Company to pay common area maintenance, real estate taxes and other similar costs. Common area maintenance is considered a non-lease component whereas real estate taxes are not components of a lease as defined in ASC 842. The Company has elected not to separate non-lease components from lease components for all asset classes in our real estate portfolio. To the extent that such costs represent non-lease components and payments are fixed in the lease agreement, those costs are included in the lease payments used to calculate the lease obligation and are included within the total lease cost recognized on a straight-line basis over the lease term.

The Company expends cash for leasehold improvements and to build out and equip its leased locations. Generally, a portion of the cost of leasehold improvements is reimbursed to us by our landlords as a tenant improvement allowance. The Company may also receive a broker commission from the lessor for its role in identifying and negotiating certain of the Company's leases. The Company recognizes lease incentives receivable relating to tenant improvement allowances and broker commissions receivable for its role in negotiating the Company's leases, as a reduction of fixed lease payments at the lease commencement date, reducing the initial measurement of the lease obligation and right-of-use asset. The Company considers lease incentive receivables to represent a fixed future receipt due from the landlord, as our practice and intent is to spend up to or more than the full amount of the tenant improvement allowance that is contractually provided under the terms of the contract as well as to collect any broker commission fees contractually due to the Company after lease commencement. The lease obligation recorded on the Company's balance sheet will increase as the Company receives collections on its lease incentives receivable that were included as a component of the total lease obligation at lease commencement.

The Company also incurs certain costs in connection with obtaining or modifying a lease. Initial direct costs, or incremental costs of a lease that would not have been incurred if the lease had not been obtained, are included in the initial and subsequent measurement of the right-of-use asset and amortized ratably over the lease term as part of the total lease cost. Costs to negotiate or arrange a lease that would have been incurred regardless of whether the lease was obtained, such as fixed employee salaries are not initial direct costs and are expensed as incurred.

The Company evaluates its right-of-use assets for impairment consistent with our property and equipment policy disclosure described above.

Operating Lease Cost — In addition to base rent, a large majority of the Company's lease agreements contain provisions for free rent periods, rent escalations, common area maintenance charges, real estate tax reimbursements, tenant improvement allowances and brokerage commissions received by the Company for negotiating the Company's lease. These costs, or benefits in the case of the lease incentives due to the Company, are all considered a component of the total lease cost.

For leases that qualify as operating leases, the Company recognizes the associated fixed lease cost on a straight-line basis over the term of the lease beginning on the date of initial possession, which is generally when the Company enters the leased premises and begins to make improvements in preparation for its intended use. Cash payments made to landlords reduce the Company's total lease obligation while the accretion of the lease obligation using the effective interest rate method, increases the liability over time. The difference between the total lease cost expensed on a straight-line basis and the accretion of the lease obligation over time using the effective interest rate method is recognized as a reduction to the lease right-of-use asset, net on the accompanying balance sheet.

Variable lease cost includes any contingent rent payments based on percentages of revenue or other profitability metrics as defined in the lease, common area maintenance, the Company's share of real estate taxes, or similar charges that are variable in nature. Variable lease costs are not included as lease payments in the calculation of the lease obligation and are included in variable lease costs as incurred and when probable.

WEWORK INC.
NOTES TO THE CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS
DECEMBER 31, 2020

All cash payments for lease costs and cash receipts for lease incentives are included within operating activities in the statements of cash flows.

Finance Lease Cost — For leases that qualify as a finance lease, the right-of-use assets related to finance lease obligations are recorded in property and equipment as finance lease assets and are depreciated over the shorter of the estimated useful life or the lease term and the expense is included as a component of depreciation and amortization expense on the accompanying consolidated statements of operations. Payments made under finance leases are allocated between a reduction of the lease obligation and interest expense using the effective interest method.

In the statements of cash flows, cash payments associated with finance leases are allocated between financing cash flows, for the portion related to the reduction of the lease obligation, and operating cash flows for the portion representing interest expense.

Lease Modifications/Termination Fees — When a lease is modified, the lease liability and right of use asset is remeasured as of the effective date based on the reassessed remaining lease payments and prevailing incremental borrowing rate. Where the modification relates to a termination of the lease where the new expiration date is in a future period, any termination fees to be paid out are included in the remaining lease payments and are recognized over the remaining lease term. Where a lease is terminated and the effective date is immediate, the lease liability and right of use asset is derecognized and any difference is recognized as a gain or loss on termination. A termination penalty paid or received upon termination that was not already included in lease payments is included in the gain or loss on termination.

Asset Retirement Obligations — Certain lease agreements contain provisions that require the Company to remove leasehold improvements at the end of the lease term. When such an obligation exists, the Company records an asset retirement obligation at the inception of the lease at its estimated fair value. The associated asset retirement costs are capitalized as part of the carrying amount of the leasehold improvements and depreciated over their useful life. The asset retirement obligation is accreted to its estimated future value as interest expense using the effective-interest rate method.

Location Operating Expenses — Location operating expenses are expensed as incurred and relate only to WeWork and WeLive locations that are open for member operations. The primary components of location operating expenses are real estate operating lease cost such as base rent and tenancy costs including the Company's share of real estate and related taxes and common area maintenance charges, personnel and related expenses, stock-based compensation expense, building operational costs such as utilities, maintenance and cleaning, insurance costs, office expenses such as telephone, internet and printing costs, security expenses, parking expense, credit card processing fees, building events, food and other consumables, and other costs of operating our workspace locations. Employee compensation costs included in location operating expenses relate to the salaries, bonuses and benefits relating to the teams managing our community operations on a daily basis including facilities management. Sales incentive bonuses are also paid to employees as a means of compensating the community team members responsible for location level sales and member retention efforts.

Pre-opening Location Expenses — Pre-opening location expenses are expensed as incurred and consist of expenses incurred before a workspace location opens for member operations. Pre-opening location expenses also consist of expenses incurred during the period in which a workspace location has been closed for member operations and all members have been relocated to a new workspace location, prior to management's decision to enter negotiations to terminate a lease. The primary components of pre-opening location expenses are real estate operating lease cost such as base rent and tenancy costs including the Company's share of real estate and related taxes and common area maintenance charges, utilities, cleaning, personnel and related expenses, and other costs incurred prior to generating revenue.

Selling, General and Administrative Expenses — Selling, general and administrative expenses are expensed as incurred and consist primarily of personnel and stock-based compensation related to corporate employees, member referral fees, technology, professional services including but not limited to legal and consulting, lease costs for our corporate offices and various other costs we incur to manage and support our business, advertising, public affairs and costs related to strategic events. During the years ended December 31, 2020, 2019 and 2018, the Company recorded $72.2 million, $137.6 million and $91.2 million, respectively, of advertising expenses.

Selling, general and administrative expenses also includes cost of revenue in the amount of $248.8 million, $384.7 million and $164.7 million during the years ended December 31, 2020, 2019 and 2018, respectively, excluding depreciation and amortization of $0.2 million, $14.1 million and $12.6 million for the years ended December 31, 2020, 2019 and 2018, respectively, in connection with our Powered by We on-site office design, development and management solutions and costs of providing various other products and services not directly related to the Company's core space-as-a-service offerings, including but not limited to the products and services offered by Meetup, Inc., Flatiron School, Inc., Conductor, Inc. and Managed by Q Inc. in the periods prior to their disposition as described in Note 7 and Note 8.

Also included are corporate design, development, warehousing, logistics and real estate costs and expenses incurred researching and pursuing new markets, solutions and services, and other expenses related to the Company's growth and global expansion incurred during periods when the Company was focused on expansion. These costs include non-capitalized personnel and related expenses for our development, design, product, research, real estate, growth talent acquisition, mergers and acquisitions, legal, technology research and development teams and related professional fees and other expenses incurred such as growth related recruiting fees, employee relocation costs, due diligence, integration costs, transaction costs, contingent consideration fair value adjustments relating to acquisitions, write-off of previously capitalized costs for which the Company is no longer moving forward with the lease or project and other routine asset impairments and write-offs.

Restructuring and Other Related Costs — Costs that are incurred or will be incurred in connection with a plan of action that will materially change the scope of business or the manner in which a business is conducted are recorded in accordance with ASC 420, Exit or Disposal Cost Obligations. Certain costs associated with the Company's operational restructuring described in Note 3, including one-time employee termination benefits provided to employees that will be or have been involuntarily terminated, contract termination costs and other exit costs, are accounted for under ASC 420 and are recognized as expense when management has committed to a plan, the plan is sufficiently detailed in order to estimate the costs, it is unlikely the plan will significantly change, and the plan has been communicated or notice has been given.

Stock-Based Compensation — Stock-based compensation expense attributable to equity awards granted to employees and non-employees is measured at the grant date based on the fair value of the award. For employee awards, the expense is recognized on a straight-line basis over the requisite service period for awards that actually vest, which is generally the period from the grant date to the end of the vesting period. For non-employee awards, the expense for awards that actually vest is recognized based on when the goods or services are provided.

The Company generally estimates the fair value of stock option awards granted using the Black-Scholes-Merton option-pricing formula (the "Black-Scholes Model") and a single option award approach. This model requires various significant judgmental assumptions in order to derive a final fair value determination for each type of award, including the expected term, expected volatility, expected dividend yield, risk-free interest rate, and fair value of the Company's stock on the date of grant. The expected option term for options granted is calculated using the "simplified method". This election was made based on the lack of sufficient historical exercise data to provide a reasonable basis upon which to estimate the expected term. The simplified method defines the expected term as the average of the contractual term and the vesting period. Estimated volatility is based on similar entities whose stock prices are publicly traded. The Company uses the historical volatilities of similar entities due to the lack of sufficient historical data for the Company's common stock price. Dividend yields are based on the Company's history and expected future actions. The risk-free interest rate is based on the yield curve of a zero-coupon U.S. Treasury bond on the date the stock option award was granted with a maturity equal to the expected term of the stock option award. All grants of stock options generally have an exercise price equal to or greater than the fair market value of the Company's common stock on the date of grant.

In situations where the exercise price of a stock option is greater than the fair market value of the Company's common stock on the date of grant, the Company estimates the fair value of stock option awards granted using the binomial model. The binomial model incorporates assumptions regarding anticipated employee exercise behavior, expected stock price volatility, dividend yield and risk-free interest rate. Anticipated employee exercise behavior and expected post-vesting cancellations over the contractual term used in the binomial model are primarily based on historical exercise patterns. These historical exercise patterns indicate that exercise behavior between employee groups is not significantly different. For our expected stock price volatility assumption, the Company weights historical volatility and implied volatility and uses daily observations for historical volatility, while our implied volatility assumptions are based on actively traded options related to our common stock. The expected term is derived from the binomial model, based on assumptions incorporated into the binomial model as described above.
